THE CHANCE FOR DISARMAMENT.

Great effects ought to follow from the recent peace agreement, entered into by Germany, France, England, and Italy. Representatives of these nations have agreed to settle all their differences by peaceful arbitration. Having made that agreement, the question must soon arise among them, why do they need the very large armaments they now have? They are the strongest nations of the world outside the United States. No power can challenge them.

And if they act on this line of thought and are willing to reduce their armaments, then the question will arise whether the United States needs as much armament as it now has. If there is a general disposition to reduce war preparation, the United States ought to take advantage of it and reduce its own heavy burden.

Our people have always been believers in peace, and have been foremost in advocating peace measures. We shall of course want to join in with any move for disarmament which may be initiated by the rest of the world.

The feeling will be expressed by some that treaties have been made before and broken. Yet it does seem true that the people of those countries are thoroughly sick and disgusted with war. They want no more of it. They are willing to go to great lengths to get peace. If that is the case, any big war for the next generation is very unlikely.

The more the nations reduce their armament, provided the stronger powers consent to do it proportionately and at the same time, the more they will get in the habit of looking at things in a peaceful way. If they have great armies and navies, the temptation becomes strong to think they can settle disputes better by force of arms. But with reduced fighting power, they think more of settling quarrels by peaceful means. It is out of that spirit that permanent peace is likely to grow.

A NEW CHAIN SCHEME.

The Clinton County Republican-News, published at Saint Johns, issued a warning last week against a chain system of selling women's hosiery that has recently infested that locality. It is the old scheme of something for nothing and in many instances has caught the unwary off guard. As the scheme is propounded there is certain to come a time when someone will be caught holding the sack, while there is also the possibility that those using the mails for furtherance of this scheme may be caught in the net of Uncle Sam for violating the postal laws. The women of every community should investigate this scheme thoroughly before being caught in the enticing web that has been spun for the benefit of the promoters.

Some of the bosses say that the way to get more work out of help is to turn off some of them and accomplish more with a smaller force.

And many of the workers would say that the way to get more work done, would be for the bosses to take hold and do something now and then themselves.

Perhaps the reason why the Little Red Schoolhouse is supposed to have given such good instruction, is that people used to go there to study. Now many of them go to school to be entertained.

Happenings of a Quarter Century Ago

Taken from the Tri-County Chronicle, November 16, 1900.

The Frutchey & McGeorge elevator located at Gagetown was destroyed by fire last Saturday morning. The fire had gained such headway before being discovered that it was beyond control. Cloverseed, beans and 300 bushels of wheat were destroyed in addition to the building. The loss on building and stock is estimated at $13,000, which is only partially covered by an insurance of $9,800.

Friends of Rev. and Mrs. Morgan surprised them Tuesday evening when they gathered to surprise the latter on his birthday. Rev. Torbet presented Mr. and Mrs. Morgan two fine rocking chairs from Mr. Morgan's parishioners.

The first snow of the season fell at Lansing, Flint and other points in the state on the seventh.

Wm. and Christian Schwaderer expect to make an extensive business trip to Montana and Washington next week.

Chas. Schenck, who has been connected with the Cass City bank during the past year, left for Saginaw last Monday where he will be engaged in the establishment of Morley Bros.

Harry Weydemeyer has accepted a position as assistant bookkeeper in the sugar factory at Caro.

Mrs. Marian Hubble left for Port Huron Wednesday. After visiting a few days there, she will go to Grand Rapids where she will spend the winter the guest of her son.

The rain during the harvest season spoiled many of the year's crop of peas and beans. The market for both products, however, is extra good this year. Pickers are busy cleaning and sorting the crop at the Sioux City Seed Co. warehouse.

RESCUE.

Miss Erma Bissett of East Grant was the guest of Miss Vera MacCallum Sunday.

The Woman's Home Missionary society will meet at the home of Mrs. Twilton Heron Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 17.

Ernest and Erma Bissett, Howard, Arnold and Vera MacCallum, Veta Parker, and Marion and Stanley Mellendorf attended services in Owendale Sunday evening.

Seneca Hartsell and grandson, Basil Hartsell, were callers in Cass City Saturday.

The many friends and neighbors of the Martin family are indeed sorry to hear of them being quarantined with scarlet fever, and will be glad when they are able to be out again.

Waste Now and You Will Want Later

This is a Truth Many Men and Women Fail to Realize in the Early Part of Their Lives, But the Truth of it Comes All Too Soon When Youth and Earning Capacity Are Gone

Life is a serious business at the best, but taken seriously, it is a pleasurable business, if due diligence is exercised.

To the careless man, the man who lacks foresight, life for a time is just one round of pleasure; but how that man pays in after years! He wastes now, but wants later.

Be thrifty, not stingy; save, don't pinch, and the serious business of life will assume new brightness. The dark clouds of the future will take on a silver lining.

CORN BREAD RATIONS FOR THANKSGIVING

Concluded from first page. For one week, I kept count of the dead, and they averaged sixty per day! Because of the great numbers, regular burial was impossible. At first, the graves were well made and marked, but as the weeks passed, a common grave for many persons was all that was made. Three of our group lived through those weeks."

After nearly four months of imprisonment, on February 22, 1865, Mr. Cleland and the others remaining of their company were started out, reaching the Union lines at Wilmington. There they were exchanged and sent on to Annapolis, Maryland. After being given a chance to clean up and being outfitted with new clothing, they were paroled.

Thirty days later, when they reported for duty again, the war had closed. During the interval while he awaited his discharge, Mr. Cleland was taken ill with a serious eye disease which threatened his eyesight. While being cared for in the Tripler hospital near Columbus, Ohio, he was given his discharge.

On the way home he stopped to visit his brother in Forester. He remained there for some time, very ill as the result of the hardships endured at Salisbury. While there, his father visited him. This was their last visit, for his father died before he recovered from that sickness and returned home.

"In July, 1865, I reached our home in Austin township, near Tyre, and about 12 miles from Cass City, where my mother, two brothers and one sister were living. During the time I had been away, the clearing of the land had gone on. Much of it was cut over, and our work then was to plow under the stumps, now decayed, breaking up the new land for tilling. From that farm, where we lived for 43 years, we worked a bare living, cultivating and improving the land until we had made a good home and a good living.

"It was a wonderful thing to abolish slavery and unite the country into this blessed country, the privileges of which we now enjoy."

Seventeen years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Cleland moved from their farm to Cass City, where they now live. Mr. Cleland is 84 years of age and capable of doing ample justice to a Thanksgiving dinner of turkey "and all the rest," while he thinks of his corn bread rations of the Thanksgiving of '64.

Southfield Court

THERE will be no waiting for profits in Southfield Court. It is one of the closest-in sub-divisions, inside the city of Detroit, and the development of the vicinity has already begun. Southfield Court is in the heart of this activity. Already 5,000 people live in 1,200 homes in this district. This is double the number of homes and double the number of people there were last year.

Southfield Court is the last remaining subdivisions fronting on both Southfield and Seven Mile Roads, both super-highways. It is also the last remaining frontage on Southfield Road from the Seven Mile Road to Grand River, and the last frontage on the Seven Mile Road from Southfield to Woodward.

It is authentically estimated that when the population of certain sections double, land values also double. Every indication points to the doubling of the population of this section again next year.

Will you make this profit? Shrewd investors, who know the successful history of those who invested in the first unit of Southfield Court, will quickly take advantage of the opening of this last piece.

If you are to invest there, you must act now. Such opportunities will not last long.

W. C. Morse is feeding Purina Chickens Chowder. Of course, he is not the only one, but he has always been a good feeder and has made a success of the poultry business.

They say that when the eyes are shut, our hearing is more acute. We've seen people trying the experiment in church.

We're pretty safe in saying that you dairymen are not in business for the fun of the thing, or for your health. What you want is bigger profits and that's where Purina Feeds come in. You'll be surprised with the results. Feed it thirty days and see.

Ever hear this one? "Honest, judge, I hope de Lord will strike me dead if I stole dem chickens."

"Well, you stand over there in the corner. If He doesn't strike you dead in 30 minutes, I'm going to give you 30 days."

It simply can't be done. You can't make good bread out of poor flour. Therefore the sane and sensible thing to do is to buy Cream of Wheat Flour.

Yesterday we heard a flivver going down the street that must have had all its bearings burned out last spring.

We are having some trouble getting enough dry buckwheat to make what Buckwheat Flour we can sell and will pay $1.50 per hundred for buckwheat that is dry enough to grind. We don't want wet buckwheat at any price.

"We know a lady who isn't afraid of a mouse," claims a local merchant.

Gifts will be distributed to the children and a chicken dinner served.

Gains 142,000 Members in Year in Schools Throughout United States. A new high level in peace time membership of the American Junior Red Cross is recorded for 1925—its ranks numbering 5,738,648 school girls and boys—a gain of 142,000. This unique and powerful children's organization started as a war measure, but today is one of the greatest influences for peace ever known. An increasing participation in local programs of service has featured their year's growth. It is indicated that to a greater degree than ever pupils in the schools are performing individual and collective acts of service in a true Red Cross spirit. The success of the Junior swimming program, launched last year through co-operation of the Life-Saving Service of the Red Cross, has led to a determination to make it a regular feature of both these branches. An outstanding feature of the Juniors' work this year was the paricipation for the first time of a Junior Red Cross worker in the disaster relief operations following the tornado in Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana. Schools in many more fortunate localities displayed a keen interest in sending toys and books for the use of the children in the disaster area. The Junior Red Cross program has flourished not alone in settled communities, but has been extended to Indian schools, and to native Alaskan schools where many Eskimo children undertook Junior work. In addition, the international correspondence between schools is proving more and more popular. American schools are now corresponding with those in thirty-four countries. Strong Membership Appeal In Red Cross Disaster Relief Asking themselves "What if disaster should visit our city?" the leading citizens of many communities of the United States have adopted the Scout motto to "Be Prepared." Impressed by the frequency and the wide range of peace time calamities in their country, they have organized their communities with the thoroughness which normal conditions permit, against the possibility of a time when there will be no chance for thought or plan. Red Cross Chapters in many localities are similarly prepared. Paragraphs Concerning Michigan (By Ed. A. Nowack). Lansing—Zealand, the town where Editor VanKovering recently held a house warming, points with pride to the fact that neither a car or its contents ever have been stolen there. While that fact entitles Zealand to particular mention, the town also boasts the largest hall clock factory in the world. Five members of the Michigan State Police are preaching the gospel of safety first on the highways, appearing at rural schools in behalf of the safety campaign. Figures gathered by interested officials as to the monetary return by reason of the tourist traffic in the state reveals one farmer on M-12 who reported $1,700 worth of sales from his roadside stand. Flivver hooches are the latest menace with which Michigan officials have to deal. Families in dilapidated flivvers are moving from place to place, out of funds, relying upon the charity of the world. Another nuisance troubling police and sheriffs is the highway tramp who hits the autos for a ride rather than steam roads. Detroit this year is building the last of three million feet of asphalt pavement which amount is equivalent to 300 miles of 18 foot roadway. Many hundreds of ringneck pheasants were released from captivity at the state game farm at Mason immediately upon the close of the season on the birds. This act will replenish the stock killed off and will also do away with the sale of the birds as here-to-fore. Wayne county plans 21 miles of new pavement for 1926 and 40 miles of pavement to widen existing roads. Scores of special game wardens will be stationed on the highways this month to prevent the smuggling of deer. Forest fire losses this year in Michigan are piling up a staggering total, judging by the reports coming in to Lansing. In less than three years Detroit has had five mayors. Resignations due to political advancement and ill health made the changing complexion possible. Mayor Couzens resigned in 1922 to become U. S. Senator. Frank Doremus succeeded him until ill health sent him to a hospital. Then came John C. Lodge and then Joseph A. Martin, the latter beaten by John W. Smith. The Bell Telephone company has informed the Public Utilities Commission it plans a $23,000,000 expenditure for 1926 improvements. With recent annexations Detroit's total population today is about 1,270,000. Osceola county plans installing 14,000 feet of snow fence this winter while Missaukee plans on 10,000 and Wexford 9,000. John Canfield of Manistee will experiment with radio and laboratory on a 400-acre tract of timber-land near there. The Michigan Sugar Company, with its nine factories, is busy with the fall crop of sugar beets. The Sebewaing plant, with around 250 men employed, will handle more than 60,000 tons of beets.

EDUCATION WEEK

NOVEMBER 16-22

vior such as initiative, enthusiasm, tact, and industry, which undoubtedly largely determine one's conduct among his associates? Do its high school pupils accept as their motto: "The world does not owe me a living, but I owe the world a life?" Does it follow the suggestion of John Burroughs, the naturalist, and "educate more for individuality, for character, and not for mere scholarship?"

The observance of Thrift and Conservation Day in the schools during American Education Week is a reminder of the progress made in tying up school instruction with life activities. The large number of bank depositors among elementary pupils is due in great part to thrift instruction. These young depositors learn that wise investments are as necessary as regular savings.

The schools also contribute to the more attractive presentation of the advantages of thrift by parents. Acting on suggestions made by teachers they emphasize the value of the things purchasable with money saved; and the dependence of such worthwhile objects as books, travel, a comfortable home, and a good education upon fore-handness in putting away money for them.

Conservation as well as thrift should receive consideration in the day's observance. One indication of a better and more general understanding of the need of conserving the latent abilities of rural children is indicated by the fact that each year increasing numbers of rural children enter and complete high school courses, and that the number of high schools accessible to rural children is increasing and their quality improving.

Education is the whetstone upon which we sharpen human intelligence—our most valuable tool. We have remarkably rich natural resources. We have a citizenry of uncommonly good native intelligence. That intelligence is engaged in cutting away the obstacles encountered in producing from natural resources goods of value to man and living together while we do it.

These obstacles (problems to be solved) continually grow less complex in relation to physical matters and more complex in social matters. Each problem solved in industry on the side of tool and process lays the basis for a comparatively easy, solution of other problems.

To safeguard the danger that industrial progress will break down social organization in our democracy, we need as never before, the sharpened tool of trained intelligence. Is your school the best possible school? Especially is it the best possible school to give training in social organization and the duties of citizenship? If not, is it because you do not give it proper financial support so that efficient teachers may be employed or is it because you have not helped to secure progress in curriculum adjustment and plan of organization? Do you really know what manner of man or woman is the teacher of your child? Do you really know what is being taught your child? If you care in the least what the form of social organization of the United States is to become you will know what is being taught in the school and how it is being taught.

November 21 has been designated as Community and Health Day for this year. It is desirable that every member of the community should have attended the inspiring exercises of Education Week several times before the close of school Friday afternoon. These visits to the school will have prepared everybody for the coming together of the community on Saturday. The school house is the logical community center and the meeting should be held there unless a larger building is found necessary.

The suggested program names for discussion such subjects as: "Equality of opportunity for every American boy and girl," "A square deal for the country boy and girl," "A sound mind in a sound body," "Physical education means health and strength," "A health officer for every community," "Adequate parks and playgrounds," "Proper food and rest for children," "The school as a community center," "Public library service for every community."

The meeting may outline its own program, or preferably a committee may do this in advance. If the result is a closer relationship between the community and its school, a unity of purpose in the neighborhood and a warmer friendliness among neighbors the coming together on this day will not have been in vain.

The final exercises of Education Week, Sunday, November 22, may be in charge of the minister. It will be "For God and Country Day."
