CASS CITY WON COUNTY TOURNEY

Cup Becomes Permanent Property of the Cass City Schools.

Caro Defeated 14 to 8 in the Final Game on Saturday Night.

Cass City won the basketball championship of Tuscola county at the tournament held at Caro on Friday and Saturday, March 5 and 6. This victory marks the third consecutive year the Cass City team has walked off with the honors of the county meet. The cup will remain permanently with the Cass City Schools since the locals have won the last three years. Caro, finishing second in the county meet, was awarded a banher and Vassar, in third place, received a basketball. Akron, first in the consolation contest, also received a basketball.

The tournament proved to be one of the best ever held, and with the exception of Fostoria, the teams were more evenly matched than last year. Contests were clean and competition was keen.

The final game on Saturday night between Cass City and Caro brought together long-standing rivals in a game that proved to be a thriller. It was a "nip and tuck" affair for three quarters and it was only by a spurt in the last quarter which netted them six points that enabled Cass City to pull away and assured them a victory and the championship. The final score was 8-14.

In their first contest of the tournament, Cass City defeated Akron 20 to 13. In this game, Cass City did not show up very well in the first part of the game, but toward the last of the contest, they hit their stride and won with seven points.

Vassar was Cass City's strongest opponent. Vassar started out and assumed a six-point lead before the local team could count a point. Before the half was over, Cass City cut their lead down and the score stood 9 to 11 in Vassar's favor at the end of the half. The last half of the game furnished many thrills. The final whistle left the score of 20 to 19 favoring Cass City. Vassar gave the local team a harder tussle than any other quintet. They have a wonderful aggregation, and in the estimate of the locals, Turn to page 4.

Cass City Schools

On Friday the local contests in oratory and declamatory work were held. Mr. Duke presided and the following declamations were given:

- "Universal Peace," Thelma Henderson.
- "Toussant L'Overature," Pauline Sandham.
- "The Traitor's Death Bed," Helen Knight.
- "The Minute Man of the Revolution," Claude Mitchell.
- "Washington to the Present Generation," Fern Benkelman.
- "Universal Peace," Virginia Day.

After this contest the orations were given in the following order:

- "As the Bough Bends," Doris Durkee.
- "The Unnecessary Evil," Magdalena Just.
- "The Problems of Russia," Andrew Schwieger.
- "The Great Triangle," Clark Knapp.

At the completion of these the judges, Rev. Cargo, Mrs. Cargo, and Mrs. Grover Burke, handed in their decisions and while these were being figured up, Phyllis Lenzner entertained the audience with two very pretty piano solos. After this the report was given as follows:

In declamations—Second place, Fern Benkelman; first place, Virginia Day.

In orations—Second place, Andrew Schwieger; first place, Clark Knapp. The two winners Virginia Day and Clark Knapp will represent our school in the sub-district contest which will be held in the new Bad Axe high school on Friday afternoon, Mar. 26. At this time, each speaker in this sub-division contest will be presented with a fine dictionary, by the Detroit News. The contest was interesting throughout and though there could be only four places given, it can be truly said that each speaker should receive commendation. They had all worked faithfully and the results were gratifying. Now, let's all give the winners our support and help them make a good showing for Cass City at Bad Axe on March 26. We hope to see many loyal Cass City people over there to attend the contest.

BETTER APPRECIATION OF THE PILGRIMS

Rev. Bradfield Brings Historical Message to Members of Community Club.

It is sometimes difficult to appreciate the people of the days long gone past unless one makes an intensive study of their environments and knows the contributions they have made to humanity. Rev. Irvin Bradfield has made such a study of the Pilgrims and the message he brought to members of the Cass City Community Club at their March banquet on Tuesday evening, enhanced the appreciation that club members had of this little band of liberty seekers who landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620. He depicted their early struggles in England, their emigration to Holland, and then their entrance into America to set up a new colony which introduced into this country some of its highest standards in human conduct.

Mr. Bradfield prefaced his address with a brief review of his boyhood days in Cass City 20 years ago where he said he made his first ventures in athletics, dramatics, outdoor life, puppy love, as soloist and after-dinner speaker. Here he had his first touch of sorrow and came to realize a sense of responsibility to his parents. "Cass City has meant much to me," said the Detroit minister, "and the memory of the past clings to me with peculiar interest."

Community singing was led by F. A. Bigelow, with Mrs. Bigelow acting as accompanist. The Community Chorus was enthusiastically received and responded with an encore.

John Marshall, J. A. Sandham and R. N. McNamee were named as members of a committee to nominate members of the executive committee of the club. This committee is to report the nominations at the April meeting.

The banquet was prepared by the ladies of the Baptist church and thoroughly enjoyed.

MAN FOUND DEAD NEAR GAGETOWN

John McClorey Died Alone in Bachelor Home Between Saturday and Tuesday.

John McClorey, 50, a bachelor residing two miles northwest of Gagetown, was found dead at his home by relatives on Tuesday. He was last seen alive at Gagetown on Saturday night, where he had been a guest for dinner at the home of his sister, Mrs. Angus McCarthy.

When some neighbors stopped at Mr. McClorey's home Tuesday to see him, they failed to find any tracks in the snow and concluded he was absent. They went to the home of his sister to ascertain where he had gone. Relatives at once went to the McClorey home and found an entrance. They found him dead on the floor, partly covered with the bed clothing. To all appearance, he had rolled out of bed to the floor, and death came some time between Saturday night and Tuesday.

Mr. McClorey was a man of rugged appearance and apparently enjoyed the best of health this winter. He is a cousin of Daniel McClorey of Cass City.

The funeral will be held from St. Agatha's church at Gagetown this (Friday) morning.

Planning Big Poultry Meeting

tions of this state. Mr. Beck has been making a special investigation of poultry methods and has collected information on the methods used by some of the most successful poultrymen in the country. In his lecture he shows how poultrymen in all sections are using these methods to increase their profits and results.

The pastor's subject next Sabbath morning will be a continuation of "United Presbyterianism." In this sermon, he will describe the great event of the union of two denominations thus forming the United Presbyterian church. This took place in Pittsburgh, Pa., May 26, 1858. This was one of the very great events in modern church history. This address is well worth hearing. If you don't belong to Ersline, come anyway.

That great preacher and pastor, Robert Murry McCheyne, once said, "As I was walking in the field the thought came over me with almost overwhelming power, every one of my flock must soon be in heaven or hell." Do we all realize that this is the condition today? If the end should come tonight, which place would be your abode? Friend, how is it with you? How is it with your family and your neighbors? Now is the time to consider this question. Jesus offers salvation full and free to all. Meet me Sabbath morning at church and let us talk it over together.

Our understanding of life is the setting of the switch which determines life's destiny. A false notion of life's meaning, means the waste of years, and often the complete wrecking of life.
C. F. SMITH, Minister.

YOUTH MURDERED, WOMAN SUICIDES

Roy Lee, 19, and Mrs. Pearl Dorland, 25, Are Victims in Tragedies.

Roy Lee, 19, was killed by a shot through the head on Monday night and Mrs. Pearl Dorland, 25, took poison Wednesday while attending the funeral of young Lee and died at her home shortly after. Both were residents of Sandusky.

Roy Lee was shot near the farm home of Wm. Sager near Forester and Pearl Dorland, 25; Thomas Martin, 24; and Wm. Lee, jr., 28, brother of the dead boy, were placed in the Sandusky jail charged with transporting liquor.

The shooting it is said, was the outcome of a liquor party at the home of William Sager, farmer, two miles off the Shore pike near Forester, Saturday night. Sager had no part in the party and ordered the men and their lady guests, Mrs. Pearl Dorland, 25, wife of one of the men held; Mrs. Eliza Bunyan, 40, cook at the McDonald home; and two 14-year-old girls, all of Sandusky, away when he learned they were drunk.

The party was made up at Sandusky and went to the Sager home uninvited to hold an oyster supper. The liquor was procured in Marine City, Saturday, officers say.

Roy, the dead boy, refused to enter the Sager house. His brother, William, repeatedly went out to induce Roy to come inside. After several trips, William, officers say, entered the house, exclaiming, "Roy shot himself in the car."

No gun was found by the officers. Roy had a holster on his person, but no weapon was in it or the automobile.

The coroner's jury summoned in the Lee case gave a verdict of "shot by a 22-calibre revolver by a person or persons unknown." In the Dorland case, the jury returned the verdict of "suicide by strichnine poison."

Seed Corn Tests Are Disappointing

For the third successive year County Agr'l Agent, John W. Sims has been testing seed corn for the farmers of Tuscola county. This year he reports to be the worst since testing has been started. Germination has run from 20% to 100%. However, more than one half will not germinate 80%. From present indications it seems that seed testing eighty percent or better will have to be used while in normal years corn should test ninety-five per cent or better.

Samples of many cribs which look good are being tested in an effort to locate sufficient seed for home use and perhaps enough to supply some of our neighboring counties. Already a sample of seed corn shipped in from a seed house has been inspected and it was not as good as could have been purchased in this county.

A few samples of beans have also been tested and results indicate that farmers having beans with excess moisture should test them before using them for seed. Some beans tested as low as twenty per cent.

LEGISLATURE ENDS IN STORMY SESSIONS

Half of Administration's Road Program Falls by Wayside; Bitterness Ranks.

Grant Appropriations for Mount Pleasant Normal and Jackson Prison.

The special session of the state legislature which has been meeting at Lansing during the past three weeks finally completed its deliberations late last Friday evening. It was fitting that the session which had been characterized by considerable controversy should have devoted its closing hours to bitter debates and none too pleasant feelings among the members.

Operating under a call of the House which prevented any member from leaving the legislative chamber, the administration made a last stand to secure passage of Senator Brower's bill, appropriating $200,000 for a women's prison to be constructed at Okemos. At one time in the evening this bill mustered 48 affirmative votes, lacking but three of the necessary 51. However, after another hour's jockeying and after several more members had been brought in by the sergeant-at-arms, so much bitterness had been engendered because of the delay and some of the tactics employed, that on the final vote the appropriation measure received but 41 affirmative votes.

Chief interest during the last day of the session centered around the fate of the Atwood bill which would have readjusted the appropriations from the weight tax revenues. As passed by the Senate this measure would have increased the appropriation for maintenance of state trunk line highways from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 per year, but would have discontinued all state aid for the maintenance of non-trunk line highways. This latter provision of the bill met the determined opposition of the House and was stricken out. The Senate refused to accept the House amendments so the bill was thrown into the hands of a conference committee. Strenuous efforts were made by administration leaders to force the House to recede from its position. However, the Representatives stood fast and the bill was not enacted. This was probably the greatest rebuff received by the administration at the hands of the Legislature during a special session characterized by bitter criticism of the powers that be and their methods.

Defeat of the Atwood bill means that the state is legally bound to contribute toward the maintenance of non-trunk line highways. However, this has been the law in the past and for the last two or three years the local authorities have received none of this state aid for which the laws provide. The administration scored a partial victory in the enactment of the Kirby bill which reduces the amounts which the counties will receive from the state on past-due awards during 1926 from $2,000,000 to $1,000,000. Commendable features of this measure are those which recognize the claims of the townships as well as of the counties and set specific dates for the payments to the counties and townships. The Kirby bill passed the House, 67 to 30, and the Senate, 23 to 5. Its opposition was caused, not so much by any of its provisions, as by the fact that many of the members felt that they had

"EVERYBODY LOSES WHEN TIMBER BURNS"

Educational Campaign to Prevent Forest Fires in Michigan.

The Michigan Press Association through its member papers and by means of animated picture signs is fostering an extensive campaign to aid the state in educating citizens and tourists to the importance of watchful care in avoiding forest fires.

Devastating forest fires not only affect the owners of timber but indirectly every business interest and property owner in the state.

Specially prepared advertisements, placed in all papers which are members of the Michigan Press Association, will reach the people in every locality of the state and forcibly impress upon them the serious results of forest fires.

The Scene-In-Action Corporation will place in hotel lobbies—particularly along tourist routes—schools and other places where people congregate, a scene depicting a ravaging forest fire. In this "Scene-In-Action" picture the flickering of the flames flare and sink as though actually fanned by the breeze, lighting on the surrounding landscape with vivid, colorful flashes. The smoke rolls upward exactly as it would do in nature, now whirling in mad spirals, now floating serenely. Only the heat and crackle of flames are wanting to make the illusion perfect.

This part of the campaign will reach the resort tourists, many of whom are visiting the state for the first time, little realizing that a careless toss of a lighted match or an unquenched camp fire may start a conflagration of inestimable loss.

This picture confronting them in every hotel lobby along their route cannot but make a strong and lasting impression upon them. Only the vandal deliberately destroys property.

TRAIN HITS TRUCK, TWO INJURED

Alex Brian and Glen Wright Had Narrow Escape from Death.

Alex Brian and Glen Wright had a narrow escape from death Wednesday morning when a truck they were driving was struck by the south-bound P. O. & N. passenger train.

The truck which belonged to Mr. Brian had been in a garage for repairs and Mr. Wright was testing it out. Going west on Main street to the end of the pavement, he turned around and started back down the street.

Just as the truck was crossing the track, the engine struck the truck broadside just back of the cab and demolished it. The driver, Mr. Wright, was thrown from the cab and landed face downward on the cowcatcher of the engine where he rode for a short distance. He fell from this position before the engine could slow down and escaped with a few bruises and cuts about the head. Mr. Brian was thrown from the cab and received cuts and bruises about the head and shoulders.

The engineer stopped the train in a remarkably short time, and it is probably owing to this fact that the lives of the men were saved.

Dist. Tournament Schedule at Bad Axe

Five high schools in Class C and eight in Class D will take part in the district basketball tournament at Bad Axe on Mar. 11 and 12. Schools in Class C are Cass City, Bad Axe, Caro, Sandusky and Harbor Beach. Cass City plays Caro at 4:00 p. m. Thursday. Bad Axe plays Sandusky. Harbor Beach drew a bye. The winner of the Caro-Cass City contest drew a bye for the second round so will play in the finals at 9:00 p. m. Friday with the winner of the Bad Axe-Sandusky game and Harbor Beach.

Robt. Brown of Caro and James Prime of Gilford were business callers in town Wednesday.

Heaps of Fun and Laughter at "Teachers' Meeting" of Study Club

"Teachers' evening" of the Woman's Study club proved to be one of the happiest events on the season's program. The club members gathered at the home of Mrs. J. D. Brooker Tuesday evening where they were entertained by one of the wittiest and most fun-provoking programs. Mrs. Dora Fritz as editor of "The Ladies' Home Journal," read news items from her publication about some of the club members, and then Auntie Bee (Miss Marie Tindale) and her secretary (Miss Amy Boone) perused the letters received, and dictated answers to queries from other members. The laughter occasioned by their sallies was uproarious.

Miss Alvina Lang and Miss K. Natalie Reid sang Irish songs. They played their own accompaniments on string instruments.

Then followed an Italian play, "Grand Uproario." The parts were "Sofabillio," the loved, by Miss Zaida Tindale; "Spaghetto," the lover, by Mrs. Charles Day; "Kickio," the father, by Miss Reid; "Sapollio," the mother, by Miss DeYoung.

Another play, "Suppressed Sisters," had the following cast: Stephen Brewster, the husband, Miss Lang; Henrietta, his wife, Miss Ellenbaas; Mabel, her sister, Miss DeYoung.

The characters of the plays were very cleverly portrayed and the guests were unanimous in voicing their appreciation of the splendid dramatic ability of the participants.

Owing to the proximity of St. Patrick's Day, a color scheme of green was carried out in the pretty decorations of the rooms. The same color also predominated in the dainty re-

SERIES OF FARMERS' MEETINGS IN TUSCOLA

Stanley Powell Will Tell of "Legislation of Interest to Farmers."

Edith M. Wager Will Speak on "Woman's Place in Farm Organizations."

A series of farmers' meetings have been arranged to be held in Tuscola county next week. Two well known speakers have been secured for these meetings. Stanley Powell, one of the speakers, will speak on "Legislation of Interest to Farmers." Mr. Powell has been closely associated with the doings of the Michigan legislature for several years and has a message which is very interesting. Edith M. Wager of Monroe county, a member of the board of directors of the Michigan State Farm Bureau is the other speaker. Mrs. Wager is now recognized as one of the best women speakers in the Mid-West. She will speak on "Women's Place in Farm Organizations."

Both men and women are invited to attend these meetings. They were arranged for the purpose of giving the people of the various communities an opportunity to get reliable timely information on these two subjects.

Legislative information is always interesting and of importance.

Some thinkers have stated that "the community has more influence upon the child than the house." If this is even an approximation of the facts, the women must become vitally interested in organizations to better the community as well as the house.

In all, thirteen meetings have been arranged for; two meetings being held each afternoon besides three evening meetings. In order to hold so many meetings, arrangements have been made to transfer the speakers at mid-afternoon. Because of this, meetings will begin quite promptly on time.

Meetings scheduled are as follows:

- Monday, March 15.
- 1:00 p. m.—Richville, Richville Hall.
  - 1:00 p. m.—Vassar, High School Gymnasium.
  - 7:30 p. m.—Fairgrove, High School Gymnasium.

B. J. Dailey Sells to Acorn Stores, Inc.

Bruce J. Dailey, who for the past 14 years has conducted a store in Cass City, has sold his stock of dry goods to the Acorn Stores Inc., of New York City. The deal was consummated last week. Mr. Dailey expects to leave Cass City May 1, when he will assume the management of a store at Three Rivers, owned by the Acorn Stores, Inc. Mrs. Dailey and her daughters will remain in Cass City until the close of the school year.

Mr. Dailey will be missed among the business and social fraternity of this village. During his sojourn here he has been a real "booster" for Cass City, ready to put his shoulder to the wheel, and push for the best interests of the community.

Mr. Dailey will continue in business here for several weeks and will reduce his stock by conducting a "removal sale."

Kinde & Co. have leased the store building of Mr. Dailey, on the corner of Main and Leach Streets, and Floyd Kinde has leased the residence of Mrs. Nellie Kitson on Houghton St.

LADIES VS. WOMEN

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"ADULT classes for ladies and men," the bulletin announced, and I could not help asking myself the difference, if there is any, between a lady and a woman.

I recall reading, not long ago, a discussion between two servant girls as to the relative merits of their two mistresses, each of whom had her apparent virtues as well as her frailties.

"No matter how intoxicated my mistress may become," one of the maids affirmed, "she is always a lady." Great praise, indeed! All of which reminds me of the ancient gag concerning the gentleman at the reception who asked his host:

"Who is that lady standing by the door?"

"That's no lady," the host replied, "that's my wife."

A servant girl of one of our neighbors in commenting upon the qualities and characters of a recent guest upon whom she had waited, remarked:

"She's no lady."

"Why?" was the query.

"Well," was the reply, "she ain't got a lady's voice."

The old idea of a lady was one of exteriorly largely—of manners and dress and employment. A gentleman was supposed to have soft hands and fine clothes, and elegant leisure. In England, at least, he could never go into trade; he would have scorned being a plumber or a dry goods merchant, or a professional football player.

His time was always his own. A lady in similar fashion was a person—female of course—who sat pretty consistently in the drawing room. She, too, did not soil her hands with work, she never wore cotton stockings, or went upon the streets without gloves, or carried a package home from the shop. It would not have been refined to do so. Her manners were always refined, and she never looked into the kitchen. She kept herself aloof from any contact or knowledge of the gross world and never heard or uttered an indelicate word.

Ladies were always women, but women were not always ladies. It is equally true today, excepting that the word "lady" today does not always have an appealing connotation. It suggests a high finish rather than substantial and durable construction. Ladies are well dressed, well mannered, and gentle souls, but it is women who manage their husbands, and run city politics, and conduct church bazaars.

Women, not ladies, are the substantial, steady, brainy citizens who are competing with men in every profession and walk of life. When it comes to the female engaging in business enterprises she is always referred to as a woman. And yet the term "lady" does still stand for certain social and temperamental graces. We can generally tell whether or not a woman is a lady by the way she treats her social inferiors. Some one has said that a lady treats her inferiors and her superiors as her equals and her equals as her superiors. You can generally tell whether or not a woman is a lady by what her servants have to say about her.

IN STORMY SESSIONS

not been given satisfactory information as to how the $22,000,000 of highway funds raised by the weight tax and gas tax during 1925 was expended.

The first bill to become a law as the result of the recent session was the measure authorizing the Governor to enter into a contract with the Grand Trunk railroad, whereby the State will secure and construct a new right-of-way for about eight and one-half miles between Birmingham and Royal Oak and turn it over to the Grand Trunk with the understanding that the railroad will repay the State for the funds so expended at the rate of $200,000 per year on the principal with no interest charge. The state will finance this proposition by taking money from the State Highway Sinking Fund. When the railroad completes its payments to the State it will surrender its old charter which has been in effect for the past 92 years, and under which it has been paying taxes of only about $25,000 a year. When this charter is abrogated the Grand Trunk will come under the general railroad law and will pay annually about $350,000 as taxes into the primary school fund. The state will utilize the old railroad in developing its wider Woodward project.

Appropriation bills that finally passed during the special session included Rep. Dexter's bill, providing $750,000 for a new main building and library at the Mt. Pleasant Normal to replace structures recently destroyed by fire, and Senator Bohn's bill appropriating an additional $500,000 for a continuation of the construction of the new state prison at Jackson. The regular session of the Legislature provided $1,000,000 for this project, but the Governor informed the Legislature that construction had progressed so rapidly that the funds appropriated would soon be exhausted and additional money should be made available for continuing the work.

The Senate disapproved of the proposal of the House to set up three commissions to investigate and report regarding various phases of the criminal situation in Michigan. Finally a bill was passed establishing one commission to do the work which the House proposed should be divided among three commissions.

When the Legislature had made substantial progress on the four propositions included in the Governor's original message, he submitted a supplementary message, allowing a score or more of additional measures to be considered. Most of these propositions were technical in their nature, and either were amendments to rectify errors in existing statutes or were of interest chiefly to the big cities.

Cass City People Must Believe Such Convincing Testimony as Mrs. Gale's.

No one in Cass City who suffers backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this twice-told story of a Cass City resident. It is confirmed testimony, telling of lasting benefit from Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. It's evidence that no man or woman in Cass City can doubt.

Mrs. E. Gale, 3rd St., says: "I was bothered with backache and my kidneys were out of order. I found quick relief by using Doan's Pills."

Over three years later, Mrs. Gale said: "I have had no occasion to use Doan's Pills since I recommended them and I believe my cure is permanent."

To improve the chemical process in the body for better health, take San Yak Pills. They strengthen the blood and body fluids, antiseptic to the stomach, intestines and bowels to a degree nearly odorless. They prevent decomposition of animal and vegetable matter in the bowels that causes bloating and self-poisoning and are years in advance of any other product for the kidneys, high blood pressure, diabetes and rheumatism. Take to reduce the flabby, wrinkled bowels and reduce the waistline. San Yak Pills remove the possibilities to the development of appendicitis.

Dr. Taylor, 2011 Glendale avenue, Detroit, says: "I was paralyzed four years. Three years ago I took San Yak. Two or three months of it cured me. I know because I improved at once and did nothing otherwise. I have gotten more out of life in the last year than in any previous years and I am 78 years of age."

Dr. L. B. Bailey, of McBride, Mich., says of San Yak: "It will do all you claim. It is a fine medicine for the blood and has cured rheumatism of long standing. When one treats the kidneys with San Yak he is renewing the whole body. One can always depend on San Yak." (Signed) L. T. BAILEY, M. D.

Mrs. W. E. Brandon, of Robison, Ind., writes: "I took San Yak for high blood pressure and it worked like a charm. I am not now troubled any more."

Dr. Geo. W. Snyder of Chicago, said this: "To people advanced in years, San Yak lends the thrill that comes from making human life lastingly better. This pill is so highly antiseptic to the pancreas that appendicitis would be much out of reason."

S. F. Waring, of Ohio Oil Co., Marshall, Ill., says "San Yak is a wonderful medicine for stomach and bowels."

Pay Your Bills By Check

One of our customers came into the bank not long ago and asked to see a certain check which he had issued, and which he described. It was one that he had paid in the settlement of a business account. Through unintentional error he had not received proper credit for the amount.

He was given the check and with it proved that the bill had been paid. He was given credit for the amount because the check with the proper endorsement was accepted as a receipt. A checking account is the surest safeguard against paying an obligation a second time. We invite you to call and let us explain more fully the advantages of a checking account.

Pastel-Colored Wool Jersey for Tots' Bloomer Frocks

If grownups have a flare to their frocks, why not those of little folks as well? That is exactly what the designer of the little bloomer dress in the picture must have been thinking, too. For, sure enough, here it is, a circular flare cut, and isn't it just as cunning as cunning can be? Such a simple little bloomer frock it is, for the mother who sews a bit, to make for her child.

What this wee spring dress lacks in ornamentation it makes up for in color, for it is fashioned of wool jersey in oh! such a bright carrot shade. Rose-blush, carrot, peppermint, lilac, pencil, and Italian blue, flamingo, peach, oatmeal, maize and phantom red, and yet the list is not all told of colorings in which wool jersey is making its spring appearance. Those who create the mode are all enthusiasm over this fabric for coats and dresses for little folks.

Third Grade—We are learning Robt. Louis Stevenson's "Land of Storybooks."

We are working on the thought problems in our arithmetic books again.

Fourth Grade—We just finished reading "The Constant Tin Soldier."

We are starting Middle Atlantic states in geography.

We have a shamrock border on the board that we made.

Sixth Grade—The sixth grade had a very interesting debate last Thursday. The subject for debate was this, "The Steam Engine Is of More Value to Mankind than Gunpowder."

The speakers for the affirmative were Charlotte Warner, Horace Pinney and Albert Warner. The speakers of the negative were Harry Crandell, Donald Schenck and Maxine Corkins. The judges were three high school debaters Ethel Wager, Edwin Fritz and Richard Schenck. The decision was 2 to 1 in honor of the affirmative.

We are very glad to have one of our boys back. Clement Kelley, who has been out for several weeks, has just returned to school.

Friday afternoon a spell down was staged between the sixth and seventh grades in the sixth grade room. The excitement was at quite a high pitch when only the two champion spellers remained standing: Elizabeth Seep of the seventh grade and Vera Rohrbach of the sixth. Both girls showed excellent spelling ability. Eighth grade words were finally resorted to, and it was then that the seventh grade champion hesitated and fell down on the word "efficiency." Vera Rohrbach therefore won the

Indians Had Little Fruit

Indians of many tribes ate the nuts and fruit of trees growing wild, but there is no record of their planting or caring for fruit trees before the white men came. After bananas were brought in by the Spaniards, Indians in South America quickly took to the raising of that fruit.

Desert Mirages

Light plays queer pranks on the desert. Often travelers will see, for a whole day, what looks like a narrow strip of water, shimmering along the horizon many miles ahead. You may well imagine how enticing this looks to those who are tired, warm, and thirsty. This is not water, however, for when the sun rolls around to the west, it disappears. It was merely a mirage.—Grit.

POULTRY FACTS

PLACE INCUBATOR IN THE BASEMENT

It is just as important to locate the incubator in a suitable place as to have a machine that will produce good chicks. The best incubator made cannot do well unless it is properly located and given correct attention.

Fresh air is essential. When the incubator is placed in the residence it will give best results in a room where there is a uniform temperature and plenty of ventilation. A window should be partly open except in extremely cold weather.

The incubator should be placed in a room to itself when possible. A good cellar or basement is the best place for an incubator if vegetables, oils or other articles which give off gases or odors are not stored there. The machine should be set perfectly level, then run for at least two days and nights before the eggs are placed in it. Be sure to have the right temperature and understand the working of the machine. It is a good plan to place a paper over the egg tray when testing out the machine. By so doing practically the same space to heat is provided that will be used when the eggs are in the machine. When the incubator is empty the thermometer will read a little lower than it would if the machine were full, for as the eggs become warmed they raise the temperature slightly. By using the paper over the egg tray a fairer test will be secured.

Placing an incubator in a bedroom or living room is not advisable. The fumes from the lamp are not best for a sleeping person to breathe. Even with the windows open at night it is best to keep the incubator out of bedrooms unless there is no other convenient place. The living room lacks the uniform temperature that brings best results. Too often the room is hot during the day and rather cold at night. This usually causes trouble in regulating the incubator to hold a uniform temperature in the machine.

The incubator should not be placed in the same room in the basement with the furnace. The gas and dust from the furnace are detrimental.

Special rooms in the basement or a regular incubator cellar give an ideal location for incubators. Uniformity of temperature and plenty of ventilation without too much evaporation and no drafts, give the incubator the proper surroundings. When two or more machines are used it will pay to provide such a place.

Very little heat is necessary in the incubator room unless it is necessary to air the eggs. The better machines are so constructed that the eggs are removed only for turning. If this is the case the incubator can be run successfully after March 1 where there is no heat, but it must be protected and free from drafts.

It takes a good incubator properly located and carefully attended to substitute for the setting hen. A hen will leave her nest for fifteen to twenty minutes even in cold weather, yet produce a good number of chicks. Further, the chicks will be strong and vigorous if from the right sort of a flock. A good incubator will hatch just as successfully and just as strong chicks if given the chance. Too often a person running an incubator will take more care of the machine than he does of the eggs. The incubator should be used as a means to helping the egg to produce a good, livable chick instead of a method of forcing every egg to hatch. To a large extent this difference can be brought about through better care of the eggs and proper location of the incubator.—Noel Hall, Extension Specialist, Missouri State Poultry Experiment Station, Mountain Grove.

Moldy Grain Harmful

In many cases it has been found that the fowls out on the range have been able to get moldy grain such as is found around straw stacks or where the machine was set at threshing time. Sometimes this damp sprouted corn is not injurious, although fowls are likely to get too much of it, but the worst effects are found when this grain has become moldy. Molds are poisonous to fowls.

POULTRY HINTS

Oyster shell is good, but it won't take the place of grit for hens.

The best hen is the one that eats the most and turns the food into the form of eggs.

After three years old, turkey hens, as a rule, are unprofitable, but a gobbler is good at five years of age.

Do not allow the litter in the poultry house to become wet and filthy before changing. It pays to keep it clean and dry.

More attention to body weight than amount of grain given in the ration is receiving emphasis as a control of winter egg production.

A wry tail is one that is twisted to one side through some deformity. A "squirrel tail" is one that is thrown forward toward the neck at an angle similar to that of a squirrel's.

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL By THOMAS A. CLARK Dean of Men, University of Illinois. (© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

HIS JOB THE little cab driver who used to come for me when, on rainy days, I took a taxi to save myself from the inclement weather was a cheerful soul. He was always careful, always courteous, always on time, always considerate of my comfort. He met me late one especially stormy night when the thermometer was down and the wind was cutting like a razor through the heaviest garments. "Don't you get sick and tired of this dog's life?" I asked as he tucked me snugly into the back seat. "Oh, no," he replied smiling, "you see, it's my job." The memory of his cheerful face and his suggestive words has helped me often since. When the days have been long, and the callers irritating and the problems difficult to solve, when I might have grown discouraged over the honest effort which resulted only in failure, I have tried to take it cheerfully because it was my job. I don't know what your job is, for the problem of no two men in this world is quite the same. It may be getting to class regularly every day, or keeping up your college work while you earn a precarious living. It may be pursuing a difficult study or teaching a stupid class that you do not enjoy, or leading a clean life when a thousand passions are urging you on to the rocks. It may be fighting homesickness or discouragement or dependency or moral temptations or mental lethargy. I don't know what it is, but you do. Very likely yours is not an easy job, or at all times a pleasant one, and there will be all sorts of temptations to slight it, to evade its responsibilities, to put off its unpleasant, disagreeable features, to complain because it is more galling and exacting than other men's jobs. Usually, if we could only know we should discover that every job has its difficulties. No matter how difficult your job is, you will find it half done if, when it presents itself, you go at it cheerfully, energetically. I met the little cab driver yesterday; he had a new job and a better one, probably a more exacting one, but he was meeting his new problem in just as happy and cheerful a way as ever. He gave me courage.

SUCCESSFUL CARE OF FOOD DURING WINTER

Cold Box Built in the Side of a House—1. Situation of a Cold-Storage Box in the Kitchen Wall—2. Interior View of Ventilating Cold-Storage Box—3. A Ventilating Closet Like This is Good for Storing Food in Winter.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

During the winter season sometimes the housekeeper's vigilance in the care of food supplies becomes relaxed. She places the same reliance on Jack Frost that was formerly accorded to the iceman, and does not always do a fair share of the work necessary to keep foods in good condition.

Successful care of food in the home depends very largely on whether there is a good storeroom, suitable containers, and an icebox or some other means of keeping foods cool, the United States Department of Agriculture points out. Merely keeping perishable foods cool, however, does not eliminate the need for frequent inspection and picking over, discarding wilted leaves on vegetables and salad materials, for example, selecting for first use those pieces of fruit most likely to become over-ripe, and otherwise exercising the same care that one would in summer or any other season, to provide sanitary conditions where food is stored.

Set Box Outdoors.

When it seems no longer necessary to buy ice, foods can be kept cool in various other ways. If the refrigerator is used as a winter cold box without ice, it should be set out of doors, preferably on a screened porch, and ventilated by propping open one of the doors at all times. It should be cleaned and cared for regularly, as usual. In freezing weather food cannot be kept out of doors, however, and some unheated, protected place must be found for it.

If the cellar must be used as the chief storage place for food in cold weather, a dumb-waiter on which supplies can be lowered and raised soon pays for itself in time and strength saved.

Best Cold Box.

One of the best cold boxes for storing food in winter is the type projecting out of a kitchen window or built in the side of the house, with a door opening into the kitchen. Such a cold box should be closed entirely when food is in it, except for screened openings allowing a current of air to pass through it at all times. These openings should be placed so that dust will not blow upon foods in the cold box.

All foods and food materials that are to be used without washing, such as butter, cheese, or sugar, should be wrapped or kept in covered receptacles, whether stored in the refrigerator or in the pantry, cellar or any other place.

Renovating Pillows Is One Task of Homemaker

One of the tasks which confront the homemaker when the house is being cleaned and put in order for winter is the proper cleaning of the pillows. The United States Department of Agriculture considers that the most satisfactory method is to transfer the feathers to a muslin bag two or three times the size of the ticking. This may be done easily by sewing the edges of the openings of the ticking and bag together and shaking the feathers from one to the other.

The feathers and the ticking are washed separately. To wash the feathers, after sewing them in the muslin bag, scrub them in a weak solution of washing soda, using a good suds. If necessary this is repeated in a second suds. Rinse in two or three lukewarm rinses. If an extractor type of washing machine is available, extract as much moisture as possible, and then dry the feathers on a sheet in the sun. If one has no machine of this type, squeeze out as much of the excess water as possible and dry in the same way. Beat from time to time during the process.

After washing the ticking, starch it on the inside with a very stiff starch mixture, applied with a sponge. This closes the pores of the material and prevents the feathers from working their way through. The ticking is then dried and re-filled. The pillows themselves may be washed without removing the feathers. In much the same way as the feathers are washed when transferred to the muslin bag as described above. A slip cover between the ticking and the pillow case will prevent the ticking from becoming soiled easily and do away with unnecessary washing of the pillow. Slip covers may be made of a lightweight muslin. They are then taken off and washed from time to time and tacked back in place.

Honey and Sugar Sirup

Honey or a homemade mixture of honey and sugar sirup can be satisfactorily used for sweetening lemonade and other fruit drinks. Sirup of any kind is more convenient for this purpose than undissolved sugar, and when charged water is to be added it has a further advantage since it has less tendency to expel the gas. It is the custom of many housewives to keep a homemade sirup for this purpose, and variety can be obtained by occasionally using honey.

A winter city, housing hundreds of people, located 16 miles out in Saginaw Bay! Such is the picture reported by Jas. T. Todd, who spent a day at "Icy Town" when he was snowbound at Unionville Wednesday. The city of shacks, housing fishermen from a dozen inland towns of the Thumb, is as isolated as an arctic village, and is entirely distant from sight of land. Inhabitants of the town have no fear of "thin ice" under the frail shacks, as a cold winter and the land protected bay have made an ice depth of 18 inches. Below this ice, 22 feet of cold water contains schools of wary pickerel, the game of patient fishermen who lure them to the surface through holes in the ice. The town has its own grocery and supply store and a fair sized barn to house the town's only team of horses. Automobiles form an ideal mode of transportation to and from the shore, as the ice is level and unbroken for miles in all directions. Speed demons are in their element here, as there are no cross roads or obstructions, and they "step on her" to their hearts content.—Bad Axe Tribune.

Manners and Knowledge

Manners must adorn knowledge and smooth its way through the world. Like a great rough diamond, it may do very well in a closet by way of curiosity, and also for its intrinsic value; but it will never be worn, nor shine, if it is not polished.—Chesterfield.

Symptoms Explained

The small boy was sent by his mother to see a doctor. "Well, my little man," said the jovial physician, "how do you feel?" "It's like this, doctor," was the lugubrious reply. "You know how you feel when you don't know how you feel. Well, that's how I feel."

Curious Fact

It is mentioned as a curious fact that there is not now a single living descendant of the male line of Chaucer, Shakespeare, Spenser, Milton, Dryden, Pope, Cowper, Goldsmith, Scott, Byron, Moore, Addison, Swift, Gibbon, Macaulay, Hogarth, or Sir Joshua Reynolds.

For the First Time $500 Buys a Closed Car

If you plan to spend over $500 F. O. B. Factory for an automobile, you can get the year-round comfort and convenience of a Ford closed car.

The price advantage which the public enjoys in purchasing Ford cars is the result of volume production. In 1920, when the Ford Motor Company was producing approximately only a million cars a year, the Ford Touring Car sold for $575. Today, with production on the basis of nearly two million cars a year, the Tudor Sedan, a high quality all-steel closed car, can be purchased for $520—$55 less than the Touring Car sold for six years ago. Open car prices are correspondingly low.

While this program of price reduction has been carried on, important refinements and improvements have been made in Ford cars. The latest improvements include new and attractive body lines—a lower center of gravity, closed cars in color, all-steel bodies, new brakes and new style fenders.

However, the basic features of Ford design have not been changed. Three point motor suspension, planetary transmission, dual ignition system, torque tube drive, multiple disc-in-oil clutch, splash lubrication, thermo-syphon cooling system—outstanding features of automobile design—have all been retained, regardless of cost.

Public Servants

In 1835 civil service reform was debated and Daniel Webster expounded the following proposition: "The theory of our institution is plain; it is that government is an agency created for the good of the people and that every person in office is the agent and servant of the people. Offices are created not for the good of those who are to fill them, but for the public convenience."

Only One of Its Kind

The American School of Wild Life Protection, which meets annually in August at McGregor, Iowa, is the only institution of its kind in existence.

RADIO

Showing Expert at the Laboratory of the Bureau of Standards Demonstrating Rejuvenation of Electron Tubes of Thoriated Tungsten Filament Type.

Radio tubes, like some of the older humans, eventually lose their "pep" under the strain of constant work and require a rest or need to be rejuvenated. This rejuvenating process, as applied to vacuum tubes, is not as serious an operation, however, as the one some humans undergo in the search for youth.

It is known as "reactivation" and is said by the bureau of standards radio experts to renew the sensitivity of electron tubes of the thoriated tungsten filament type.

Concerning this method of reactivation the bureau has issued the following report, so skilled listeners can "pep up" their tubes themselves:

"Electron tubes in radio receiving sets eventually lose their sensitivity. This sometimes progresses to the point where the receiving set operates very poorly or not at all, even though the tube filament is not burned out. The user of the set frequently confuses this condition with that due to an exhausted "B" battery. If the tubes are of the thoriated tungsten (X-L) filament type they can usually be rejuvenated by a simple process, and made to serve as well as new tubes in the receiving set.

Two Cannot Be Reactivated. "It happens that most of the tubes now used are of the thoriated tungsten type, and it therefore becomes of quite general interest for the public to know how to secure the full life of their electron tubes. The WD-11 and WD-12 types of tubes are the only ones extensively used which cannot be reactivated. In these tubes the source of the electrons is a coating of certain oxides on the surface of the filament, and when this has been used up no process can renew it.

"The thoriated tungsten filaments, however, used in most of the various other types of tubes, contain the oxide of thorium throughout the whole mass of the tungsten filament, this oxide having been originally put in incandescent lamps to keep the filaments from being too fragile. The filaments are given a treatment which produces a layer of atoms of thorium on the surface of the tungsten, and this thorium, which is radioactive, emits electrons much more copiously than the tungsten would. After long use, or after burning the filament too brightly, the layer of thorium atoms is evaporated off, and so few electrons are then emitted that the tube does not function properly. Reactivation is a process which boils additional thorium atoms out of the interior of the tungsten filament and forms a new layer of thorium atoms on the surface.

Method Is Successful. "The thoriated filament was developed by the General Electric company, which has also developed the methods of reactivating tubes of this type. The bureau of standards has found that the reactivation process is quite successful, and frequently makes a wonderful difference in the results obtained with a receiving set. The process is essentially the operation of the filament for a very brief interval at a specified high voltage (called "flashing"), followed by a lower voltage for a longer time (called "aging"), all of this with no grid or plate voltage. The flashing reduces some of the thorium and the aging forms the required surface layer. The following schedule of these operations is the result of extensive experience of the Radio Corporation of America, and is published here by courtesy of that company:

Table with columns for Filament, Voltage, and Time. Includes rows for Flashing and Aging procedures for various tube types like UX and UX-120.

Reverse "A" Connections. A sudden dropping off of signal strength may be caused by a weakening of the "A" battery. The storage battery, when it needs a recharge, generally drops suddenly, and the lower brilliancy of filament indicates a weakening current. No matter what type of circuit is employed it is always a good idea to reverse the "A" battery connections. Some sockets have the positive and negative signs marked incorrectly, so to verify the proper contacts for the battery the connections should be reversed.

MICHIGAN AT WORK. MICHIGAN'S RANK IN FURNITURE. Output in Year Ties With Illinois For Second Place Among States. NEW YORK $137,000,000. MICHIGAN $93,000,000. ILLINOIS $93,000,000. INDIANA $73,000,000. Michigan's furniture output in one year is valued at $93,000,000. Illinois has an output valued at the same figure. New York's output alone exceeds these states, being valued at $137,000,000. These figures are from the United States Census Bureau. Michigan furniture factories employ more than 20,000 persons. They pay wages totaling $26,000,000 in one year. They use materials costing $37,000,000 and use 150,000 tons of fuel. The state produces practically all articles of furniture. In a year it turns out chairs valued at $16,500,000, bedroom furniture worth more than $5,000,000, tables worth more than $12,000,000, and office furniture worth more than $25,000,000. It produces more show cases than any other state in the Union. Furniture factories are well distributed throughout the United States. Indiana, for instance, produces furniture valued at $73,000,000 a year. California has a production valued at $36,000,000, and North Carolina has a $10,000,000 production. Michigan is one of the leaders because of her favorable position close to the raw supply and to the markets.
