MRS. KNAPP HEADS STATE FEDERATION

Efficient Services of Club Women Meet Due Recognition State Meet.

Mrs. A. J. Knapp of Cass City was elected president of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs at the annual meeting of that body held at Ann Arbor last week. There was no opposing candidate in the field. This honor comes to Mrs. Knapp in recognition of her faithful and efficient services as chairman of state committees, president of the East Central district and as vice president of the state federation.

Mrs. Eben Mumford of Lansing, who has served as recording secretary, was elected first vice president. Mrs. M. J. Hall of Benton Harbor was elected recording secretary and Mrs. F. Halsted of Port Huron president of the East Central district.

Outstanding in the addresses delivered at the federation meetings were the following: "What Youth Needs" by Dr. W. M. Lewis, president of George Washington University; "The Three R's of Home Making—Religion, Rhythm, Responsibility" by Mrs. H. A. Burnham, of Newtonville, Mass.; "Books Worth Shelf Room" by Prof. T. E. Rankin of University of Michigan; "Look Well into This Day" by Mrs. John G. Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; "Education for Personality" by Prof. John L. Brumm of the University of Michigan. A pageant, "Pathways," was presented by the juniors of Highland Park and was produced and directed by Miss Fern Stevenson.

Mrs. A. J. Knapp

Leading the list of varied books which Prof. Rankin suggested to the ladies was the Bible, without the knowledge of the stories and the teachings and the poetry of it, no one can be considered educated.

The American Home was the keynote of the Federation and delegates were told to "Look to it well that your home is right before you extend that influence of which you are so proud out into the world."

Education Week November 7-13

American Education Week, for the purpose of acquainting the public with the works and needs of schools, will be observed in the schools, from pulpits and by the general public in Michigan and throughout the country during the week of November 7-13.

"This week is annually set aside," says a bulletin from the Michigan Education Association, "as one time in the year when the entire nation is called upon to dedicate itself anew to the task of universal education. Programs for each day of the week have been outlined by the National Education Association, the American Legion and other organizations. These programs are merely suggestive, and the various states and communities may develop appropriate programs of their own."

PLANS FOR SHORT COURSE ARE MADE

Committee Selects Dates for Meetings; Nationally Known Lecturers Secured.

Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 15 and 16, have been selected by the local committee as the dates for holding the two-day farmers' and housewives' chautauqua, which will be conducted with the co-operation of the Agricultural Extension Department of the International Harvester Company. The meetings will be held in opera house at Cass City.

The program committee is engaged in preparing a program which will include musical and other numbers by some of the best local talent, and educational lectures and demonstrations by members of the short course crew furnished by the Harvester Company. These lectures will deal with the many problems of the farm, the orchard, the home and the community, and will be given by nationally known speakers.

Mrs. W. O. Root Passed Away Oct. 21

Mrs. W. O. Root passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Wilson Thursday afternoon, Oct. 21, at about four o'clock, after a year's illness.

Alma E. Lovewell was born Feb. 29, 1864, in Campbell township, Ionia county. She was married to W. O. Root at Lake Odessa, coming to Cass City in 1889 where they have since lived. To this union two daughters were born, Mrs. J. E. Wilson of Cass City, and Mrs. Wm. Parrish, who preceded her mother in death.

Mrs. Root was an active worker in the Presbyterian church, an honorary member of the Woman's Study Club, and Chief Gleaner in Elkland Arbor, A. O. G.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian church, Rev. Paul Allured officiating. Those from out of town attending the funeral were her sisters, Mrs. Eva Sears of Clarksville and Mrs. Blanch Cunningham of Lake Odessa; a brother, Orson Lovewell of Lake Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh DeCamp and family of Imlay City, Mr. and Mrs. Blount of Walled Lake, Eugene Root and daughter, Joshua Root and John Root, all of Novi, and Mrs. Lucy Longley of Royal Oak.

Good Seed Corn May Be Scarce

Unfavorable weather conditions will undoubtedly make good seed corn quite scarce in the Thumb. Every farmer should endeavor to save his own seed corn. The germination of corn, having more than about 17% moisture when freezing weather comes will be greatly injured. Seed corn should be carefully and thoroughly dried. This can be done in many ways, on tying it up with binder twine, using lath or wire racks or any other method which will keep the ears apart so the air can have good circulation will be efficient. Laying it on boards might tend to cause one side of the ear to mold.

In most instances it may be necessary to dry the seed corn with artificial heat. This should be carefully and slowly done. After being thoroughly dried corn will stand very severe weather without having the germination greatly reduced. Farmers having good seed corn next spring will probably be able to sell their surplus seed for a good price.

OIL MEN PLAN TO LIMIT CREDIT

Must Be More Strict as Losses Have Been too Heavy in Late Years.

A splendid address on the subject of "Credits" by M. B. Auten of Cass City, before the members of the Thumb Oil Dealers' Club at Sandusky Thursday evening, Oct. 21, started a round table discussion in which the oil dealers aired their experiences and advocated certain reforms along that line. Many oil men are of the opinion that they have been altogether too lenient in the matter of extending credit, with the result that there have been heavy losses. Because these losses must be curtailed in the future, a committee was appointed to prepare credit application blanks with questionnaire and a uniform set of credit rules.

The banquet was served at the McDonald Hotel and a fine chicken dinner was served by Landlord Collins. Robt. Warner, president of the club, presided as toastmaster. He said that the October meeting was the best attended in the history of the organization and he was much pleased with the interest taken. Walter Mann of Cass City gave a short talk and Mr. Zieg, lubrication engineer of the Vacuum Oil Co., gave an illustrated lecture on the subject of lubrication, bringing out valuable points on the use and abuse of oils. Ebenezer Hunter contributed musical numbers to the program, appearing as a vocal soloist and also playing the mouth organ with guitar accompaniment.

Bad Axe—Huron county taxpayers will pay $48,000 less this year than they did a year ago. The decrease comes in taxes for maintenance and construction of roads, the sum to be raised this year being $116,000. Only the cost of Covert Act road will be spread on the roll, it being necessary by law to raise such money. The cost of maintenance of state trunk and county trunk lines and bridge construction are being eliminated this year, the commission this year not asking for any appropriations except for Covert Act roads.

Yale—The St. Clair Agricultural society will not only be able to pay off all expenses of the fourth annual fair but will start the new year with a small surplus from the year's work, according to figures now being compiled by the secretary.

Sandusky—Wednesday the Sanilac County Board of Supervisors, in the second week of their October session, voted an appropriation of $2,500 for the County Agricultural Agent, the same amount as last year. The appropriation passed only after a long contest on the part of the Supervisors, who thought that the amount ought to be reduced. The vote stood 13 for and 12 against it.

Brown City—Wm. Douglass received word, Tuesday, from his brother, Stephen that he and Mrs. Douglass, who motored through to their home in Los Angeles after a visit in Brown City and other parts of Michigan, had arrived safe and sound. SEE GREAT DAMAGE IBY BORER IN CORN Group of Farmers Inspect Methods Used to Lessen Damage to State Corn Crop.

The destruction caused by the European corn borer was seen by 500 people at a demonstration held in the vicinity of Monroe Oct. 21. A five acre field owned by Joe Benore showed a total crop loss. Every stalk in this field contained from one to forty specimens of the borer.

Prof. J. F. Cox was in charge of the day's program and introduced Dean R. S. Shaw, Prof. R. H. Pettit, Prof. H. H. Musselman, George Gertman, specialist in agricultural engineering, all from Michigan State College; J. A. Harmon, entomologist from the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, and A. C. Carton from the State Department of Agriculture. These men all gave their views of the seriousness of the situation that faces Michigan and the United States. They agreed that only the maximum use of all available means of control could prevent the rapid spread of the European corn borer.

An exhibition was given of the machines which are of greatest use in control work. A low cutting attachment for corn binders and a stubble pulverizer were the only specially designed machines shown. The ensilage cutter and the corn husker and shredder destroy nearly all the borers in material run through these machines. The fermentation in silage destroys all borers in silage. Plowing down does not kill borers in corn stubble.

State laws give the State Department of Agriculture the power to enforce quarantine laws and to compel the cleaning up of fields which are infested with corn borer. This clean up work must be done before May 25. The state of Michigan needs the active aid of every available agency to prevent very serious damage to a crop which was worth 50,000,000 dollars last year.

Lessons from the Bean Crop

F. W. Hubbard was visiting his Huron county interests a part of last week.

Mr. Hubbard is very optimistic and hopeful over Thumb prospects, notwithstanding the set back many farmers have had this year from the effect of weather and the big losses on beans. He says that the general and great prosperity of the country at large, the good prices for livestock and practically all classes of farm products is going to tide every one over in good shape. Another thing that Mr. Hubbard thinks is a good omen for Huron's future prosperity is the attention being attracted to this county as a summer resort and for vacationists and tourists. This will not only react in favor of real estate values but stimulate as well a more profitable agriculture among our people—that of truck farming, dairying, etc.

Mr. Hubbard thinks too that the losses in beans this year will not be without its benefits to Huron county farmers. It will teach many of them to rely more upon diversified farming for money crops. There is scarcely ever a loss in raising livestock, poultry, fruit and dairy products. To rely so completely on field crops, especially on the ones so dependent on weather conditions, will not longer be looked upon with favor by our farmers, is Mr. Hubbard's opinion. It will soon be so, he thinks, when the biggest farmers won't have more than 10 acres of any one crop, except for feed.

LYCEUM COURSE OPENS HERE ON NOV. 18

Woman's Study Club Presents Splendid Array of Talent from Redpath Bureau.

Selma Lenhart, reader of plays, opens the lyceum course at Cass City, on Thursday, Nov. 18. Since her 14th year, Miss Lenhart has been doing dramatic work—not commonplace dramatics, but dramatics of a type stamping her as unique in her profession. She devoted several seasons to directing and taking leads in plays in her home city of Pittsburg. At the same time, she was equipping herself through private study and training at the King School of Dramatic Art. Her first work for the Redpath Bureau was done in 1920 and until the present time her lyceum work has been confined largely to the territory served by the Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago offices of the Redpath Bureau.

The lyceum course has been sponsored in Cass City by the Woman's Study Club, for several years. No attempt is made to make it a profitable venture financially, for the club is grateful if it can make ends meet. The members do endeavor to bring some of the best talent here during the winter months and sell the season tickets at a price within reach of the ordinary pocketbook. There is every reason to lend encouragement and support to this feature of the club's activities. Four numbers are on this year's course.

On Thursday, Jan. 20, Jack Wood's Male Quartet and Bell Ringers present a snappy program which sets a brisk pace for novelty musical entertainment organizations. Its unique program is presented with a refreshing breeziness and a dash and spontaneity instantly felt by the audience.

On Tuesday, Feb. 15, Harold R. Peat, internationally known as "Private Peat," brings to the people his remarkable lecture, "The Inexcusable Lie," a stirring appeal for understanding, peace and harmony among the nations. Although having conspicuously served his country in the World War, this young Canadian does not believe in warfare as a means of adjusting differences, but points to a more sane and feasible method of settling trying situations and insuring permanent peace.

The last number of the course is a popular musical company and comes on Monday, March 15. The Casford Concert Co. is headed by Miss Fern L. Casford, reader and pianist. The Misses Winifred Casford, violinist and soprano, and Byrne Smith, harpist, add further distinction and musical ability to the company. Primarily the members of this company are individual artists, although ensemble numbers are given due prominence in their programs.

A Great Man.

To be popular at home is a great achievement. The man who is loved by the house cat, by the dog, by the neighbor's children, and by his own wife is a great man, even if he never had his name in "Who's Who."—Thomas Dreier.

FAILURE TO VOTE IS MENACE TO NATION

The man who stays at home on election day is not a good citizen. Whatever ticket you vote, whatever candidate you favor, take the time next Tuesday, Nov. 2, to cast your vote. Of what value will your farm, your business, your profession be to you if you do not have good men in office, actuated by good principles. You are a voter, you are one of those who makes the choice. If we have a bad government the voters are responsible. The fairness, the wisdom, the stability of our government, national, state, county, rests with you, the individual voter. The greatest danger to free government is a large number of qualified voters who take no interest in the election of their officers or the amendments to the constitution of their state. Carelessness about voting is a menace to our institutions. Competent men have consented to serve you, but it is up to you to make the choice. Be sure you vote Nov. 2 and thereby prove that you are a good citizen.

GOOD NEIGHBORS.

We came across an item in an exchange a few days ago that struck us as containing pretty strong evidence that the old spirit of helpfulness to others is not dead in the land. The husband of a Kansas woman died and left a 75-acre field of corn standing, and across from it a field of oats—10 acres and ready to cut. Everybody was busy in the neighborhood but they were not too busy to lend a hand. Word was passed around following the burial of the owner of the little farm, and the next day twenty-seven able-bodied men, with corn knives and a reaper, made quick work of the crops. By dark they had saved them for the widow.

Sometimes we see things, or read about them, that lead us to believe that the old neighborly spirit is dead. And then we run across an example similar to the one in Kansas. Or we learn of a citizen being ill, and quickly see the old spirit revived through visits of neighbors to the bedside, along with frequent inquiry as to the patient's condition by those on the street. And it cheers our heart, and makes us glad. It convinces us that there are still a lot of good people in the world, and that the place to find them is in the small town and the rural districts. It is good to know that the spirit of the old neighbor who rushes in with a glass of jelly whenever anyone in the family is ill has not vanished from the earth.

VALUE OF AN EDUCATION.

Each day a child spends in school is worth $9 to the child because of the added earning power it brings. The money value of a college education in increased earning power is $40,000. These are government statistics.

Time was when a higher education was not considered necessary. Today a good education is absolutely essential. Competition is keen and every line of trade and industry is calling for trained men and women. The greatest gift, the best investment, the richest blessing you can give your boy or girl is the advantage of a good education.

WORRIED ABOUT HENRY.

It is said of Henry Ford, who was one of three brothers, that in his youth he was the only member of the family his father worried about. The father once confided to a neighbor that "Will and John are all right, but I'm worried about Henry's future." But today Henry Ford, with a fortune of $2,000,000,000, is farther away from the poorhouse than any other man in America. Parents who worry about the future of their boys could do better by them if they would cease letting them feel that they might turn out a disappointment. The moment a boy loses self-confidence he loses his most valuable aid to success. Show your boy that you have confidence in him and it will help him. Then he'll succeed.

CONSULT YOUR BANKER.

Fly-by-night real estate salesmen are at your door. They come bringing you glowing accounts of the rich harvest to be garnered in faraway places; pictures of big returns on small investments that suddenly blossom into gold mines of opportunity. Always these rich pickings are far away from your own doorstep. They are not where you can give them intelligent consideration, you have only the salesman's word as to their real value. If these same salesmen came to you with just as bright an account of this community, with just as much enthusiasm as to the future, and you were to put your faith and your money into the things you can see every day if you choose, don't you think you would be adding to both the prosperity of yourself and neighbors? Think this over the next time you are asked to buy a lot in Detroit, in Florida, in Muscle Shoals, or in any of the big real estate movements that are constantly being put on the market. And above all, never, make an investment of any kind without first consulting your banker—he will save you many an hour of grief later on.

Trouble?

(R. T. Baldwin in the Albion Recorder).

You Albion parent, you think you have trouble with your children. The boy or the girl—or both—cause you worry. They stay out nights. They don't obey promptly or in the right spirit. They have no sense of the value of money. They are impertinent and thoughtless. They don't take responsibility. They even deceive you and make your heart ache. They are a care and a grief and you sometimes wonder whether it is all worth while or not, to do so much for the children of the home.

We'll say your troubles are nothing—absolutely nothing—when you contrast them with the troubles of some other parents.

Suppose you had to take one of your children away to school for the feeble-minded. Suppose you had to take "Bill" or "Mary" or one of the others of the laughing, fighting, home-bothering "kids" away from the home and place him or her in one of the cottages at the Lapeer Training School. Wouldn't that make your present troubles fade into nothingness? Wouldn't that after all, you haven't much to worry about?

We are saying all this because we have just run across a strange, strange editorial in a paper run by one of our friends.

What does this editorial say? Well what it said shocked us and made us feel a great sympathy for this man. It was, in part:

"Our boy, 'Mike,' physically sound, affectionate and kind, is now an inmate of cottage No. 6, Lapeer Training School. . . . Our son would have been better off there six years ago.

"Despite the problems, yours and ours, it is not all darkness above us; through the rifts of the clouds the light is shining, glimpses of the infinite flood of love yet fills the eternal heavens.

"To will what God doth will,

That is the only science

That gives us any rest."

Is there anything sadder than this situation of a human being mentally sick and unable to take his normal place in the world? It just happens that the livewire, high-strung boy up at our house is another "Mike." That is not his real name but now for years we have been calling him "Mike" and that is the name he goes by among some of the boys at school. And "Mike" makes us a lot of worry sometimes, but after hearing about this other "Mike" we are not going to complain as much as we have been. We are going to do our best to show the boy the way to walk and we are not going to punish him for a lot of little things that really go with boy life and that really don't amount to as much as we think. For we are here to tell you that if we had to take our "Mike" off to some place where they care for sick minds the sun would nearly go out of our sky. We've thought we had some troubles but we see that they are just meant to bring out the blessings we have. "All sunshine makes the desert." Hearing about that poor sick boy over in that other town makes us appreciate more than ever the priceless treasure of normal children—with all their capacity for making parents worry and have heartaches.

Leading Source of Ivory

The tusk of the African elephant is the best and greatest source of the ivory of commerce, and it is estimated that 70,000 of these animals are killed each year for the purpose of securing the tusks. Some tusks reach a length of nine feet and weigh more than 200 pounds.

Comments from the Thumb Press

(Minden City Herald).

Good deeds are elevating. 'Tis said that the neighbors of Mrs. Anton Popp did her washing weekly during her long illness, each taking a turn at the job. We mention this to show the world that not all people are so sordid that they think of nothing but gain and seclude themselves in their homes and keep aloof from their neighbors when so much could be done by the human race for the benefit of mankind. We have a great respect for the neighbors of Mrs. Popp and thus announce to the world their charitable works that it may not forget that the Great Creator placed us here for a purpose and that purpose was not altogether to pamper our bodies and ambitions for self-ultation.

(Croswell Jeffersonian).

There are some who profess to wonder at the increase in crime, but the explanation should not be so difficult when one thinks of the encouragement given to criminals. Scott, who killed a man in Chicago some years ago was given his third reprieve by the supreme court last week, and will without question defeat the ends of justice yet; Gould of Lapeer county betrayed the people of his county and stole thousands of dollars, but will likely be tried again because the law under which he was convicted was enacted to protect the people from the stealings of treasurers and like officials, the job of being engineer of the road commissioners not being that kind of a job. Rich, the rich man's son of Battle Creek, was convicted of a heinous crime against a young woman, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment, but the dollars of his daddy will get out as surely as the sun rises daily, in fact his release is well under way now, thanks to the technicalities of the law. Every one of these legal farces makes a few more Bolsheviks, and whose fault is it?

SEDAN or COUPE

You need to drive a Pontiac Six for only thirty minutes to discover abilities and qualities absolutely unique at the price.

You experience a mastery of performance once undreamed of in any low-cost six—acceleration that borders on the sensational, lugging power and sustained high speed capacity that would be impossible save for the fact that the Pontiac Six engine is the largest six-cylinder power plant used in any car costing less than $1000.

Yet, unprecedented as they are, these performance results only typify the pronounced over-all superiority that has made Pontiac Six such a spectacular success from the day of its presentation.

In the beauty of its Fisher bodies, in its supreme roadability, in its economy of operation and its unfailing stamina, the Pontiac Six represents a decisive departure from the standards that once ruled in the field of low-cost sixes—

We've just made an important discovery. Those ladies who are gazing at the display windows of our local stores are not admiring the merchandise. They are looking at their own reflections in the glass. Just watch 'em and see if we're not right.

Cull out the slackers now. Don't feed them all winter. We will be glad to help you do this. Phone 15 and let us know when you want to cull.

Today we have a letter from a New York concern wanting to sell us a book entitled, "How to Keep Your Money and Make It Earn More." We're acting on the first suggestion.

We will loan you a pair of milk scales to prove to you that it will make you money and if it does not, we cannot ask you to feed it.

If you don't think this is an age of progress, just notice the line of automobiles parked in front of our high school.

This week we have sold about ten tons of Cow Chow and all but one that we sold, fed this feed last winter and found that it made them money. We can offer you no better argument than this.

The work on the new road by our school is still progressing in spite of the rainy weather. My! how the cars will whiz by next year.

In a hotly contested football game between McConnell and the Cass City Junior High school ended in a 19 to 7 victory for Cass City. A while ago, Cass City gave us a visit and we won by a 6 to 0 score. Cass City had a more formidable line-up and outweighed us by quite a few pounds. Although we outplayed them the first three quarters, they beat us by two touchdowns in the last period. The score up to the last quarter was 7 to 5 in favor of McConnell. The stars for Cass City were Luther and Bolton. For McConnell, Edwin Andrews and Mr. Watkins, both making large gains at will, but lacked the punch to score against the heavier team.

Ancient Wedding Custom

Many years ago in Yorkshire, England, there was a time-honored custom requiring a bride and bridegroom, on leaving the church porch after being wedded, to leap over a bench before going on their way, says Gas Logic. The leap being accomplished, a gun was fired, this often being charged with feathers.

COW TESTING PAYS LARGE DIVIDENDS

Records kept by cow-testing associations in North Carolina pay large dividends when the results are studied and applied to the owner's herd, states J. A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at the North Carolina State college.

Mr. Arey gives the experience of two herds in one of these associations. One herd contained 21 cows, while the other had only 9, yet the difference in profit over feed cost, was only $5.01 in favor of the larger herd. The owner milked, fed, and tended 12 cows the greater part of a year for $5.01. The net receipts were $867.59 for the larger herd as compared with $862.58 for the smaller herd. The owner of the smaller herd had better cows and fed them in proportion to their production.

There is a gradual improvement in all herds where the testing work is being carried on, states Mr. Arey. The production cost shows a decrease with a corresponding increase in actual production. This, he finds, is due to the adoption of better feeding methods and the elimination of the low producing cows.

"There has been an average of 20 cows sold each month from the herds in the five cow-testing associations in the state," says Mr. Arey, "and this elimination will continue until all unprofitable cows have been sold or slaughtered."

"Twenty-five cows in the Wake-Durham association were found to be unprofitable and were either sold or butchered. In the Forsyth-Davies association seven cows were sold for beef, and other associations report numbers ranging from three to seventeen as being sold or slaughtered."

"A standard dairy ration recommended by the dairy extension specialists is being used in all herds, and records show that the average production and cost is very close in all associations."

Train Calf by Gentle Treatment at All Times

Make the calf like to be handled. This can best be accomplished by gentle treatment at all times. Teach the calf to lead by handling it gently. One good way to do this training is to use a small stick. The calf should walk on the right side of you and should be trained to mind the stick.

Teach the calf to stand quickly in one position. Then it should be trained to stand with its weight evenly distributed on all four legs, which should be squarely placed. The head should be held up and to the front and the back straight and firm.

Because the calf which flinches, pulls, kicks, is easily frightened, or stands in a position that makes its back away, or its rump appear faulty does not readily catch the eye of the judge, the calf should become accustomed to strange people, sights, and sounds. A little training every day is much better than a half day of it once each month.

Large Amount of Silage Proves Harmful to Bull

Many farmers allow the bull to run with the herd and consequently pay no particular attention to his feed. Where silage forms a part of the ration this is to be discouraged.

It has been proved that a liberal amount of silage, six pounds or over, promotes sterility in the bull. From the data gathered in numerous experiments it would seem that even a small allowance will reduce his vitality. With farmers learning to have milk cows freshen in the fall it would appear that silage can be wholly omitted from the ration for the bull.

It is true that the bull recovers from the effect of silage, but this means early spring calves, a thing that the man with milk cows does not want.

Dairy Notes

Excellent feed, good care, or proper management cannot make a good dairy cow out of a poorly bred "off-type" heifer.

Skim milk powder and semi-solid buttermilk are being used extensively in the baking trade. They are opening another large field for dairy products.

The calves should be fed on whole milk for at least two weeks before giving them substitute, as there is no substitute for milk for the very young calf.

The silo puts all the corn plant where you can use it. The crib stores only part of it. The rest goes to waste.

When running the separator, avoid irregular speed or sudden jerks on the handle. Steady, uniform operation brings the best results.

A bull pen that gives plenty of opportunity to exercise is the thing. Good air, sunshine and grass in season are essential.

Harbor Beach—Fred Peterson has started suit in circuit court against school district No. 5, Rubicon township, for $400, the cost claimed by him to have been made because he was forced to send his daughter to Harbor Beach. Because there were few pupils in the school district, the school was closed, the board selecting district No. 1 Rubicon, and not Harbor Beach, as the school to which tuition and transportation for pupils would be paid. The school board alleges Peterson refused to send his daughter to No. 1, and should be made to pay the expense for selecting Harbor Beach.

Heckroth of Pinnebog received $3,896.87 for 600 bushels of sweet clover raised from 25 acres, an average of better than $155 per acre. Irwin Reibling received $2,654.08 for 452 bushels of clover seed of the Dwarf sweet variety.

PROGRESSIVE RED CROSS CAMPAIGN FOR HEALTH

Public Health Nursing, Nutrition and Home Hygiene Work Cover the Country.

Important contributions to public health were made by the American Red Cross through its Public Health Nursing Service, Nutrition Service, and in instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. In every State and Alaska, with the exception of Delaware and Nevada, instruction was given by the Red Cross, also in the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Virgin Islands. A total of 57,370 women and girls learned to make a hygienic home, and care for the sick in their homes.

The United States Public Health Service estimates that adequate rural health nursing service would cost $20,000,000 annually, but would save a billion dollars in value of human life, earning power, and economic conservation. The American Red Cross, through its Public Health Nurses, of whom there were nearly 800 on duty the past year, is doing its part in meeting this requirement.

The Red Cross, through its nutrition service, taught thousands what to eat for health. In this country, 24 States were served with from one to ten Red Cross Chapter nutrition programs in each State. In 38 States, nutrition instruction was given either through the regular nutrition instructors or through volunteer dietitians.

During the school year an average of 15,413 individuals a month, including parents, teachers, pre-school, and school children, were assisted to a better knowledge of food in its relation to health, and how to apply it to their daily lives. In March, 111,219 individuals received this instruction, while during the year 3,588 classes were conducted and 6,450 conferences and home visits were given by nutritionists, thus reaching thousands of individuals.

The Annual Roll Call for Membership from November 11 to 25 is an invitation to all persons to assist in maintenance of such services through another year by enrolling in the American Red Cross.

RED CROSS SERVICES SHOW UPWARD TREND

Disaster Relief, Veterans' Aid Foremost in Fiscal Year. Services All Vital.

Expenditures by the American Red Cross for the last year showed a mounting curve as compared with those for the preceding year—$11,892,869.35 as against $10,321,679.80. The outstanding appropriations were for disaster relief and assistance to disabled veterans. For disaster relief the American Red Cross expended $3,871,827, of which the National Organization contributed $3,642,827, and the Red Cross Chapters $229,000. For disabled veterans, a total of $3,523,173 was called for, of which National Headquarters appropriated $1,641,178, and Chapters, $1,881,000.

The disaster relief figures do not include the Florida operations, which occurred after the end of the fiscal year, in addition to the work for disabled veterans, the Red Cross continued its work on behalf of men in the Regular Army and Navy and Marine Corps, which called for a total appropriation of $509,451.

The enrolled nurses' reserve, from which nurses for disasters and other emergencies are called, cost $47,382, borne entirely by the National Headquarters. Public Health Nursing, a part of the Red Cross program of rational health work, cost $86,823; instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick required $152,466 in nutrition instruction; $164,107 was expended.

The Red Cross campaign to reduce deaths from accidents and drowning, conducted by the First Aid and Life-Saving Service, called for $352,385, and has shown tangible results in lives saved annually.

The Junior Red Cross, one of the foremost peace influences in the world, was carried on at a cost of $531,053. All local Chapter activities of the Red Cross cost $223,000, while other domestic operations of the Red Cross, borne by National Headquarters, amounted to $264,040.

The remainder of the fiscal year's expenditures were accounted for in insular and foreign operations, of which the American Red Cross served, absorbed $53,075; League of Red Cross Societies, $180,000; Junior Red Cross foreign projects, $74,065; assistance to insular Chapters, $49,599; other insular and foreign work, $54,783; supervision of service activities and general management, $270,829.27.

The total expenditures for the year ended June 30 last were divided: National Organization, $7,381,869.35; local Chapters, $4,511,000. In the Tenth Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25, the public is invited to share in this vast work done in their name by enrolling in the American Red Cross as members.

Single Track Concrete Roads Win Favor in Bay County

A few years ago farmers in the beet and dairy sections of Bay County were almost completely held up from hauling produce to market during the annual wet seasons. Gravel roads would not stand the heavy loads during these seasons.

In 1922 the first single track portland cement concrete road was laid in the County. A nine-foot section laid on the "farm to market" side, the other nine feet of roadway being surfaced with gravel. Farmers along that road were so enthusiastic over having a year around road to haul over that other sections demanded it.

Now Bay County has fourteen miles of single track portland cement concrete roads and is building more each year.

Business men in towns in these farm districts remark a more continuous year around trade since the adoption of concrete roads.

Farmers living on roads that have been improved with single track concrete will tell you what a worthwhile investment it has been.

Single track concrete roads will likewise improve conditions in any county, and will also put an end to the costly maintenance common to gravel roads.

DAIRY FACTS

SOY BEAN MEAL IN DAIRY COW'S FEED

South Dakota farmers will be interested in an experiment conducted recently by the dairy department at South Dakota college which indicates that soy-bean meal is somewhat higher in feeding value than oil meal. Data obtained show that when oil meal is valued at $45 per ton soy-bean meal is worth $58 a ton.

"Live-stock farmers have been advised and urged for some time to feed a balanced ration," the report on the experiment states. "This means that they must either purchase or raise high-protein feeds. The college wanted to find out whether soy beans, which can be grown for both seed and forage in South Dakota, could be profitably substituted for such protein feeds as oil meal, frequently purchased at a relatively high price."

The results of the experiment indicate conclusively that farmers can make money growing their own protein feeds and in this way decrease the cost of milk production.

Does soy-bean meal fed to dairy cows injure the quality of the butter produced from these cows? Results of this experiment indicate that where moderate amounts of soy-bean meal are fed the quality of the butter is not lowered. When too great a quantity is fed it produces a soft, salty butter. Judicious and economical feeding would eliminate this trouble, because it would not be advisable to feed excessive amounts of soy-bean meal if economy was kept in mind.

The experimental animals showed no ill effect from the soy-bean meal and gave every appearance of health. Their coats were glossy and the condition of flesh as good as when oil meal was fed.

Dairying as Side-Line

Aid to General Farming

Dairying as a side line to general farming has often enabled the farmer who was farming at a loss to make a profit. The cows furnish a market for surplus feed grown on the farm. Instead of hauling feed to town, hunting buyers and often taking less than cost of production, counting labor, equipment, etc., the grain and hay may be fed at the barn and the fertility in the manure saved and applied to the soil. Then the farmer has work at home in bad weather, milking cows, feeding, hauling and applying manure, taking cream, milk or butter to market.

The best way to utilize dairy products, is separating milk, selling cream and feeding the skimmed milk to pigs. Should one be situated where there is no creamery near, the cream may be shipped and the cans returned.

Five or six good cows will produce their own living, provided the farmer raises most of the feed, and in addition, afford a living for the farmer's family, provided good cows are kept and markets are satisfactory.

Most families on farms may milk, feed and care for the cows in addition to producing a crop. Cotton, corn, grain, sorghum, oats, and other crops usually grown may be placed in the rotation, or at least several of them, so that the cows may be cared for as well as the other farm work done.

One may begin with two good cows, using the products of milk at home, and raise enough cows to begin dairying for the side line suggested. But pasture must be provided and feed must be raised, and barn-room must be furnished.

Flies Lower Milk Yield

Care should be taken to protect cows. In a large measure flies are responsible for low milk yields during the summer and thin cattle in the fall. Cows should be protected from them as much as possible. An Indiana dairyman keeps his cows stabled during the heat of the day in a cool, darkened barn, the windows of which are darkened by nailing gunny sacks over them. He also has gunny sacks hanging over the doors, through which the cows must pass, in such a manner that the flies are brushed from them as they enter.

Summer Fly Evil

Giving dairy cows access to cool, darkened barns during the heat of the day will go a long way toward taking the "sting" out of the summer fly evil, thereby preventing a drop both in milk yields and profits. Windows can be darkened by nailing building paper over them. Gunny sacks hung in the doorway will brush the flies from the cows' backs as they enter the barn. Fly repellents may be effective for a short time in lessening the annoyance.

Silage Taste and Odor

A silage taste and odor might even improve some milk by drowning out more offensive odors. However, the safe procedure is to take all safeguards if you would produce the best quality milk, and these include proper barn ventilation, preferably feeding after milking, feeding only moderate quantities of silage, and then prompt aeration and cooling of the milk. Green corn fed an hour before milking has a slight effect on the milk, according to these government tests.

Method to Prevent Damaged Beans

O. J. McNaughton of Mulliken, Michigan, has devised a method of harvesting beans in such a way as to eliminate the damage from excessive and protracted rains, such as beans have been subjected to this season. This method is being extensively used in the vicinity of Mulliken, and is now being tried out by the Michigan Agricultural College with, it is said, surprising results.

Last year in Mulliken, as example of what the method will do, one field of beans was stacked as advocated by Mr. McNaughton the day they were pulled. These beans were in the field seven weeks after pulling and were threshed out of the field on November 10, picked 4 per cent to the hundred and tested less than 17 per cent moisture. This year in the vicinity of Mulliken several hundred acres of beans have been harvested according to Mr. McNaughton's method and the beans are dry and pick 2 per cent or 3 per cent.

Mr. McNaughton describes the method as follows: 32 rows of beans are to be put up into one row by the process. By the use of hay rakes the farmer could get 16 rows into two large rows, between which the row of stacks as described below can be constructed. Steel fence posts are put on the bottom of a wagon rack with ends projecting over the end so that they can easily be pulled from under straw which is loaded on to the rack before going into the bean field. As the team goes ahead the stacks are set behind the wagon in the shape of an Indian tepee. On the ground a good hay fork full of straw is spread over enough area so that the beans which are later put on top cannot touch the ground. On top of the ground and with the "tepee" steel fenceposts, acting as support, start stacking the beans with each stack covering not over 3 feet across at the bottom, build up the stack 2 or 3 feet high with diameter of 3 feet across. Then let your stack bulge until you have reached the height of 7 feet or 7½ feet, keeping your pile well shaped and balanced. Extend the pile of beans about 2 feet above the posts so that when they settle, the cap will rest on the posts and act as a shed. If beans are wet when being stacked in this manner being the piles narrow—surely not over 3 feet through. Following this method you will note the growers will have a number of small stacks over the field—probably about ten to the acre.

At Mulliken this season where this process has been followed beans have been stacked wet and have dried out and where the caps have been originally built, 2 feet above the steel posts, the shed so formed was not wet thru by all the rains we have had.

Mr. McNaughton advises that by this method anyone working alone can easily harvest 30 or 40 acres of beans by stacking the beans the same day they are pulled, and not worrying about weather changes at night.—Ex.

VETERANS STILL NEED RED CROSS

Aid to Disabled Men Increases as Problems and Legislation Bring Complications.

20,000 MEN DIE EACH YEAR

Many Entitled to Benefits Still Uninformed of Just Claims to Compensation.

Eight years after the World War finds service to disabled veterans still a major responsibility of the American Red Cross.

This situation is due to the increasing problems involved and the complex character of veteran legislation. There is also an increase in numbers of "death cases" handled, as compared with claims for living veterans, though the work for the latter remains heavy. About 20,000 ex-service men are dying each year, a considerable percentage of these having service-connected disabilities.

In a majority of cases, Red Cross chapters find their assistance is needed in helping dependents present their claims for death compensation, insurance payments, bonus, burial allowances, and other government benefits due them. An episode of the past year illustrates the difficulties frequently encountered by the Red Cross experts in rendering such assistance. A veteran dying from service-connected disease, was trying from his bedside to establish at that late time his claim for Government aid to his family, and the necessary proofs were in a physician's records across the continent from him. To obtain the needed affidavits before it was too late, a cross-continent airplane flight was necessary, then a Red Cross Chapter in Pennsylvania hurried the investigation, sending the papers back to the veteran and his Red Cross helpers in Oregon, by air-mail. It reached there in time.

Another discovery in Red Cross assistance to veterans and their families is that many dependents of these men unquestionably entitled to Government aid, have struggled along, ignorant of their rights.

Approximately 2,686 Red Cross chapters carry on Home Service work, in assistance to veterans and their families. The chapters also conduct campaign among veterans for reinstatement and conversion of their term insurance. Among its other duties, the Red Cross assumed at the request of the Canadian Government the administration of a fund allotted to the care of Canadian disabled veterans living in the United States.

In the United States the Red Cross assisted an average of about 80,000 disabled veterans and their families every month in the past fiscal year. Indicating the size of this undertaking, National Headquarters of the Red Cross expended $1,641,178.18 on disabled veterans alone, and $509,451.72 on assistance to men on active duty with the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, while Red Cross local chapters expended a total of $1,987,000. Red Cross assistance to service men overshadowed every other phase of its program, even its disaster relief, until the Florida hurricane.

Help for veterans covers many demands, from temporary aid until Government claims are adjusted or until the ex-soldier is properly hospitalized, to extending capital loans to rehabilitated veterans endeavoring to become self-supporting in business. Several such capital loans were to blind veterans.

Contact with veterans in hospitals is maintained by Red Cross personnel which doctors agree influences the veteran's welfare and improvement. The Veterans' Bureau was planned to carry on social work in its hospitals for mental cases, and in many cases the Government and the Red Cross are co-operating for the welfare of the men suffering war disabilities. The public is invited to assist this work by joining the Red Cross during the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25.

ALWAYS AT WORK TO RELIEVE DISTRESS

Since 1905 the American Red Cross has given relief to 854 disasters in the United States alone. A year seldom passes without a major calamity due to tornado, earthquake, fire or flood. The Red Cross in each case has remained on the job until relief was completed.

Last year the Midwest tornado which struck five states was the outstanding relief operation by the Red Cross. The Florida hurricane in September created a problem which exceeded in proportions any disaster since the San Francisco fire.

By joining the American Red Cross every American can do his part to make its services continuously effective. The Annual Roll Call from November 11 to 25, this year, is your opportunity.

More than 43,000 nurses are enrolled in the American Red Cross. They are ever ready for emergency duty. Every American can do his share for humanity by joining the American Red Cross during the Tenth Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25.

WHY

Waterfowls Can So Easily Keep Afloat

The feathers of aquatic birds serve both as air cushions and as a heat insulator. Prof. Joseph Barcroft of King's college, Cambridge, in a Royal Institute lecture recently said that the reason waterfowl do not sink like other ordinary vertebrates in water is on account of the air retained in their feathers. The water does not work into the interstices between the frills of the feathers because they are so completely oiled that they never get wet even on the surface.

The air imprisoned in the feathers also serves to keep the bird warm. The hardihood of water birds in this respect is fairly manifested by the familiar sight of ducks swimming in the ice-bound spaces of lakes and rivers, apparently enjoying themselves.

"It is not that the separation of a surface of cold water by an inch or so of air from the body of the bird would keep it warm," said Professor Barcroft, "but convection currents would be set up which would rapidly cool the bird." Caught up, however, in the fine meshwork of feathers, the air is almost motionless and, being a very poor conductor, the body warmth is all retained."

Why Sleeping Person Seldom Is Quite Still

Although in sleep we lose what we call consciousness—the active direction of the mind—all our body and at least a part of the brain are still awake and working. Our breathing, our heart action, our digestive processes are still "carrying on," though at a reduced rate, and there is a bit of our brain still active.

In our sleep we may unconsciously take up a position leading to cramp or other discomfort, our digestion may be giving us trouble or the temperature of the room may have changed and the bed to be too hot or too cold. In any such event, the active part of the brain orders the body to do its best to remedy affairs. And so we find that we have turned over.

Why Called "Pair" of Pants

The primary meaning of "pair" is two objects or things joined or in some way related. Thus we say pair of stockings, pair of gloves, pair of scissors, pair of doves, and so on. In the case of "pair of scissors," the idea is of a single thing having two like or corresponding parts dependent on each other. "Pair of pants" and "pair of trousers" are holdovers from early times when trousers consisted of two separate, long hose-like garments—one for each leg.—Pathfinder Magazine.

How to Blacken Brass

The usual method of obtaining a dull black finish on brass for interior camera fittings is to mix fine lamp-black with lacquer and apply with a brush. The actual quantities are arrived at by trial and error, and by painting a piece of waste material first until the requisite dull surface is obtained. If the finish is too shiny a little more lampblack should be added. If the result shows a tendency to rub off a little more lacquer should be added.

Why the Eyelids Twitch

This condition is frequently associated with overwork and particularly overstudy. There may be associated errors in refraction, causing eyestrain and when this condition exists, it may be relieved by glasses. Twitching of the eyelids may also be due to inflammations of the eye and will cease when the condition is cured.

Why Sun Changes Looks

The sun looks larger sometimes than others at sunrise and sunset because the conditions of, the atmosphere change. The magnifying power of the blanket of atmosphere through which the rays of light pass to reach the earth depends on the amount of moisture in the air, and other conditions.

Why Lawyers Are "Solons"

They are so called because Solon was a famous Athenian lawgiver. He became archon and improved the conditions of debtors, divided the population into four classes, reorganized the boule, the popular assembly, and the council of Areopagus.

Why Foam Appears White

The fact that foam generally appears white is due to its being composed of tiny bubbles which reflect the light from their surfaces. When white light, such as sunlight, shines upon them, they therefore naturally appear white.

Why People "Stretch"

The necessity or desire to stretch comes because certain parts of the body are not receiving the proper amount of blood circulation and stretching is an instinctive action to accelerate the circulation.

Why Some Mice "Waltz"

The balancing apparatus of the inner ear of the mouse is imperfect, causing the animal to turn constantly in short circles. This defect is strongly fixed and transmitted with regularity to the young.

Why Called "Arctic"

The word Arctic is derived from the Greek "Arktos," a bear, the reference being to the constellation of the Great Bear.

FACTS REGARDING COURT HOUSE PROPOSITION

I wish to call your attention to a very important matter to come before you for acceptance at the election November 2. It is the proposition to raise .001 on each dollar of valuation in the county for seven years for the purpose of creating a fund to build a new court house.

As your supervisor I have for a long time seen the absolute need for a new building, modernly equipped with vaults, etc., to provide for the many valuable records which have been gathered together since the organization of the county. Should a fire destroy the present court house, the loss in this respect could not be replaced in money.

The present building does not truly represent the progressive spirit of the good people of Tuscola county. It has been all right in the past but for years has become inadequate for public purposes. When circuit court and the board of supervisors meet, the latter body has found it necessary to look for other quarters to hold meetings, a circumstance not conducive to best results.

Let me urge upon you to vote your acceptance of the proposition, that your own affairs can be better handled.
