Cass City Schools

Cass City debates Harbor Beach at Harbor Beach on Friday, Dec. 10. We need some Cass City supporters.

Willis Campbell and James Milligan attended the Cleveland Live Stock Show where "Jim's Jet Jem" was shown.

Having spent three months on the study of rectilinear figures, the geometry students are ready this week to begin the study of the circle.

The second year French students are commencing the study of the comedy, "Le Voyage de Monsieur Perrichon," by Eugene Labiche and Edward Martin.

All of the art classes are decorating the various rooms for Christmas. In the second and third grades, the children are making book marks and calendars with Christmas decorations. The fifth graders are making a theater in which they are going to illustrate the Christmas story, "Birth of Jesus." Christmas seals are being made in the sixth grade.

The grade children are working on a Christmas operetta, "Up the Chimney" to be given December 22.

The girls in the home economics advanced class have completed the muslin patterns for their tailored dress, and are about to tackle the wool material itself. This week finishes the doughs and batters unit for the ninth grade cooking class. The productive lessons consist of nut bread, fried cakes, pies, and cream puffs. Having completed their required work, the seventh grade clothing class is using the time between now and Christmas for making Christmas gifts.

We are glad to welcome Frances Middleton who has come back to our eighth grade.

The Golden Rule Sunday school class, consisting of Junior High and freshman girls are making layettes for Indian babies in New Mexico. The girls are exchanging letters with girls in the Indian School and have received some interesting letters from them.

The eleventh grade English students have been writing essays, two of which are printed this week.

First Grade—We have begun the study of the evergreen tree, noting where it grows, in what kind of soil, the twigs, what kind of needles, and how they are arranged on the stem. What kind of cones? Of what use? Why do we use the evergreen tree? A comparison with other trees is made. The Girls' Chorus is practicing a Christmas carol. The boys are working on a Christmas play. The Nash car won in the number relay race.

Second Grade—In our spelling contest, Shirley Lenzner and Vern Crane are the captains. Shirley's side has won five stars and Vern's side has won but four stars. We are making a study of nuts, and their food value to man. The children are bringing the different kinds of nuts to school, which shows their interest in the subject.

Third Grade—Our number race is getting more and more exciting. Betty's class is slowly gaining on Patty's side. Do you know that this is the Christmas month? You could not forget if you were in our room, for we have decorated with red and green paper chains from the center to the sides of the room. We made the chains ourselves. Some of our boys and girls are tardy often because they have their breakfasts late. We wonder if we may not have earlier breakfasts in the home so that we may start in plenty of time for school.

Fourth Grade—The reading classes have the stories, "Sigurd" and "Roland" this week. Elizabeth Simmons wrote the largest number of 100% papers in arithmetic last week. We have two new pupils, Harold Young and Fern Boulton. We are working hard for the tardy ball this month. So far we have had one, but we are hoping everyone will be on time for the remainder of the month.

Fifth Grade—We are working problems involving areas and are learning to buy linoleum or to estimate painting. We have memorized one Christmas poem and are beginning another. Gordon McKay, Vera Fulcher, and Jeanette Farr have been absent this week.

Sixth Grade—At our class meeting last Friday the following officers were elected: Monitor, Florence Schenck; Room Officials, Leslie Karr, Leonard Elliott; Hall Guards, John Kaiser, Minnie Parrish; Deck Inspector, John Day.

Where Old Santa Comes From

SAM HEATON decided it was high time he did something—something big. Here he was on the far side of forty, no money, no social position—for chauffeurs were little more than servants, he thought—and no wife or family. He was even in more desperate straits. He was enamoured of the young widow, a woman about thirty-six, for whom he was working. He was alternately taken with fits of despair and hope about Mrs. Allan. More frequently it was despair, however, for he couldn't imagine anyone so charming and so rich as Mrs. Allan caring anything for him. But there were times when she smiled at him with special graciousness and talked to him for a longer time than was actually necessary for the transaction of the business in hand, and his hopes rose. After all many women had married their chauffeurs. He was not bad looking. In fact he had always had a reputation for being something of a Beau Brummel. He comforted himself with the thought that there were worse men, certainly.

Christmas was approaching and he racked his brain to know how he could buy Mrs. Allan something that would really be worthy of her. He carefully gathered together every cent he had in the world—sixty dollars—and bought a neat little watch he had noticed in a nearby jeweler's window.

Christmas Eve he called at the jeweler's for his purchase, put the little package safely in his pocket, and started off into the crowded street. At the corner some one was making a speech. There was an enormous number of people gathered, and it was difficult to pass. Finally Heaton reached the other side of the street, and continued his walk. He put his hand into his pocket to warm it a little and was shocked to find—could it be possible?—the little package—gone! Wildly he ran back through the crowd, looking on the street for it and asking people if they had seen it. Of course it was all useless. It was merely the usual case of the Christmas time pickpocket. He was insanely angry. He must have it. It meant everything to him. Ordinarily the most honest man in the world, he was completely overcome with the desire to get back—in any way—the equivalent of what he had lost. Some one had robbed him; he would rob somebody else.

A little ahead of him he saw a well-dressed woman, her arms full of packages. Without thinking, he went straight towards her, to slip one of them. Simultaneously another man was seized with the same idea. Their hands met. The woman turned sharply. The other man had the package in his hand. Heaton struck him in the face and a fight followed, a fight

GIFTS AT CHRISTMAS
GIFTS at Christmas time were common in medieval times. Accounts tell of the chandlers' guild sending out gratis to every one a special sort of candles which were burned with the Yule log to light the houses for the coming of a supernatural visitor. Bakers also sent out "Yule cakes." Gradually the sentiment of "Peace on earth, good will to men" and the celebration of the spirit by general gifts seems to have spread through the other guilds, and finally to have become general.

in which Heaton pursued, the other trying to flee. The woman, panicky, was screaming for the police. Soon several policemen appeared and the man was caught. Heaton forgot that he, too, had been trying to rob the woman. To everyone, even to himself, his case was clearly that of the righteous man pursuing the evil.

At the police station, Heaton for the first time came face to face with the robbed woman. They both registered surprise.

"Mrs. Allan!"
"Oh, Mr. Heaton, it was you, then, who so nobly helped me. I'm so grateful!" She was weak from the excitement of the adventure and leaned comfortably on Heaton's arm.

The thief was given a preliminary hearing. Examination showed he had a whole pocketful of articles he had taken in the crowd. Among the things found was the little watch Heaton had bought for Mrs. Allan.

"I shall have the jeweler who sold me that prove it is mine," said Heaton when he saw it, "or rather yours," he added, turning to Mrs. Allan. "It was to have been your Christmas gift."

"Oh, how wonderful of you," exclaimed Mrs. Allan, her eyes showing clearly how much she thought of the gift, and more of the giver.

They say the gossips talked quite a little when some weeks later they learned that Mrs. Allan had married her chauffeur. But they say, too, that the couple were so completely happy they didn't mind the talking a bit.

Another "Biggest" Worth Talking About

We Americans talk with natural pride about the "biggest" and "greatest" things we possess. While we're on the subject of great resources or great industrial developments, let's not overlook another field of achievement—THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM—the greatest financial institution ever developed.

The rules and business practices which made this development possible, and which we now, as a member bank of the system, are required to follow, should certainly mean another "biggest" thing to our customers.

Besides, she thought, she really ought to go in and say a little prayer for her mother. She opened the huge door of the cathedral, slipped quietly into a seat of the large church and prayed fervently for her mother and little sisters; prayed, too, that she might, somehow, be able to buy them a cake for Christmas!

No Engine Fumes in Buick Closed Cars!

In the 1927 Buick, the new Vacuum Ventilator pulls engine fumes and gases from the crankcase and ejects them outside the car.

This vital new Buick improvement does away with noxious odors. It adds greater luxury and pleasure to enclosed car operation.

The Vacuum Ventilator serves another very important purpose. With it, crankcase vapors have no opportunity to condense and dilute the oil. Owners of 1927 Buicks are advised to drain their crankcase oil only 4 times during the year.

For luxury, and for economy, own a Buick. BUICK MOTOR COMPANY FLINT, MICHIGAN Division of General Motors Corporation

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.
IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Help Your Neighbor

We people of the central district of the Thumb have much to be thankful for. While our harvests have not been as plentiful as we had wished, still our dairy and poultry products are bringing good prices and the pay checks from these sources are regular. We have had no severe storms or calamities as have visited many places in the south and west. We should bear these facts in mind and also assist one another as much as we can. If our neighbor sells pins and needles, castor oil or gasoline, let's give him our patronage whenever possible and keep as much money in our community as possible.

Gold Varies in Color; Is Not Really Yellow
Strictly speaking, gold is not yellow in color. It merely appears so, but being a metal and generally with a bright surface, it acts as a reflector and throws back quite a lot of the white light that falls on it, according to the Philadelphia Record.
