TRAIN SERVICE CHANGE EFFECTIVE MAY 1

Service on D. & H. Branch to Bad Axe Will Be Cut in Two.

Postmaster E. Hunter has received notice from E. C. Jefferies, chief clerk of railway mail service, of several changes in railway mail service on the P., O. & N. and D. & H. divisions of the Grand Trunk Railway which go into effect May 1.

Train No. 52 on the P., O. & N. will arrive at Cass City at 7:25 a.m., 30 minutes earlier than at present. This train will leave Caseville at 6:00

Train No. 49 will leave Pontiac at 7:00 a. m., arriving at Cass City at 11:45 a. m., and at Caseville at 1:30 p. m. This will make a duplication of glad news. mail service from the south as the Elliott bus line carrying mail from Imlay City arrives at Cass City at about the same time. Train No. 49 reaches Cass City at 4:40 p. m. at the present time.

Mail and passenger service on the D. & H. R. R. is cut in two after May 1. At present, there is a mixed train each way every day except Sunday from Bad Axe to Cass City. On May Eighth Grade History Class Has 1, Train No. 45 will be changed to Mixed Train No. 405 which will run from Cass City to Bad Axe on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, leaving Cass City at 3:30 p. m. and arriving at Bad Axe at 4:45 p. m., if it is on

"Lost" Sister Is Found in Jackson

When Mrs. John Gordon changed her place of residence from 260 Cortland Street, Jackson, early in 1927 to another number on the same street, she didn't dream that such action would cause her Cass City relatives and friends much anxiety and result in reports announcing her death.

When John and Miss Belle Irvine, her brother and sister in Novesta township, had letters returned to them which they had written to Mrs. Gordon at her old street address in Jackson, they became greatly worried because their letters did not reach her and they failed to hear from her. Further complications entered when it was noticed that the

Tuesday, Mr. Irvine went to Detroit and viewed the remains. While there was a marked resemblance in the hair and the contour of the face, he was at once convinced that it was not his sister. Tuesday afternoon, Miss Zella Compton heard of Mrs. Gordon's letters being returned to Cass City and the anxiety of her kinsmen. Miss Compton had known of Mrs. Gordon's change of street address and at once telephoned from Cass City to Jackson to some friends. Then she learned that Mrs. Gordon had been seen by noon. her Jackson friends a few days before and that evening Miss Compton had Miss Compton learned that Mrs. Gortwo, and local friends and relatives

Making Amber Workable

Most of the amber we get in this country in the way of pipe stems, cigar and cigarette holders and strings of beads of the cheaper variety are pressed amber. The better grades and larger pieces either stay in Europe or go to the East. By gradually heating amber in an oil bath it becomes soft and flexible. Thus it is rendered workable.

Popcorn

When popcorn refuses to "pop" if may be too dry and it may not be dry enough. If it is this year's corn, it may not be dry enough. Keeping in a warm place for a week or two will improve it. If the corn is old, it is probably too dry. Putting it in a paper sack, on a sheltered porch, where it will not get set but absorb

War Activities in China Focus Interest of the World.

THE killing of a number of American and British citizens by Bolshevik Chinese mobs during the week ending March 26 has brought the crisis in China to the verge of war. Ultimatums have been delivered by the American and British commanders demanding that the lives of their nationals be protected. Failure to comply will mean that Nanking will be treated as a military area subject to bombardment and attack by the American and British forces. Following the fall of Shanghai to the Cantonese army the armies of the north China war lord evacuated the cities of Nanking and Chinkiang without a fight, but following the occupation of Nanking by the Cantonese the south China forces opened fire, on March 24, on groups of foreigners concentrated there awaiting embarkation on American destroyers, killing some Americans and some British. There were 155 Americans included in the group of foreigners subjected to the Chinese bombardment, which was at once replied to by both American and British warships. The foreigners were concentrated for evacuation on a hill in the northern part of the city, where the Standard Oil company plant is located. The shelling by the southern irregulars began shortly before 4 p. m. A few minutes later the United States destroyers Noa and Preston, which had 145 American women and children aboard, and the British cruiser Emerald shelled the area surrounding the hill. With the object of opening the way for the immediate evacuation of the foreigners, combined American and British forces were landed.

America, a number of European nations and Japan were represented by land and naval contingents at Shanghai when the Cantonese army captured the native city on March 20. The main force of soldiers and marines landed for the protection of the foreign settlement consisted of 2,500 United States marines and 15,000 British soldiers. To these were added small numbers of French and Japanese sailors and marines. The fall of the city was followed by a general strike of factory workers in all industries involving several thousand workmen, bringing with it a reign of terror throughout both the native and foreign sections. The Central Labor union, immediately following the declaration of a general strike, issued pistols and ammunition to 500 workmen, who immediately went gunning for British troops and police and evacuating northern soldiers.

Because of the presence of American and British troops in the foreign section disorders there were minimized to a large extent, but disturbances raged in the adjoining native areas. There was constant sniping from alleyways and second story windows. In the northern, or Chapei, district of the city, adjacent to the railway station, laborers attempted to avenge themselves upon a force of about 3,000 northern soldiers, who battled for the small district, unable to escape.

American marines guarded the Markham road bridge leading from the native city into the foreign settlement. and prevented the Cantonese army from entering the foreign section of the city. This bridge is a strategic point in the factory district, particularly susceptible to labor agitations, and an important thoroughfare, the scene of many conflicts in the past between the Chinese and foreigners. At this point one American was wounded.

By March 23 Admiral C. S. Williams, in command of the United States naval forces, and Colonel Hill, in command of the American marines, had rearranged their forces to meet any recrudescence of the rioting, looting, burning, and killing which raged in the native section for 36 hours after its fall to the south China nationalists. The American officials expressed confidence that the Cantonese regulars, then holding the native city, would prevent any new disturbances.

BOMB burst in the European sit-A BOMB burst in the European Valuation on March 19 when Italy notified the British government of its anxiety over the claimed massing of banian frontier. At the same time ing Yugo-Slavia with war materials, and claimed to have evidence that France was secretly aiding the Slavs in preparing for an invasion of Albania which is a pawn in the struggle between Italy and Yugo-Slavia for dominance in the Balkans and the new revolution, if it comes, will represent the Yugo-Slavs' effort to secure the overlordship of Albania, which now is held by Italy.

England took immediate steps to prevent the possibility of war in the Balkans. The English government sided with Italy, and for the first time since the visit of Sir Austen Chamberlain to Leghorn, Italy, the British and French policies were brought into sharp conflict through the Italo-French struggle for Balkan supremacy. Since last October the British and Italian policies in the Mediterranean and Balkans have been absolutely in agreement, but the Belgrade gesture was the first open indication of the extent to which the British support of Italy

The amount of publicity given the incident cleared the atmosphere, and by the end of the week the war cloud that had so suddenly arisen had almost entirely disappeared.

HE sessions of the preparatory A disarmament commissions opened at Geneva on March 21. At the first sessions Lord Robert Cecil submitted the British draft of the proposed convention for reducing armaments which tacitly supported the objections raised in the United States memorandum against the French theory of the "potentiality of war," elaborated on by M. Paul-Boncour, which includes all the industrial, financial, economic, and agricultural resources of the nations in a labyrinthine complexity to achieve disarmament.

The British figures on the sizes of armies, navies, and air forces blank, but Lord Cecil intimated he favors basing a military organization on population and the proportion of the existant forces with due account for the geographical loca-

On the 23rd M. Paul-Boncour appealed to Hugh Gibson, the American delegate to the conference, to accept the French proposals for a disarmament treaty. He pointed out that it provides that the United States, as well as Russia, be represented on the permament disarmament commission, although America is not a member of the league. The French plan proposes the junking of the Washington treaty by providing a global allocation of tonnage for navies, permitting each power to build whatever category of craft it pleases. The proposition provides for the allotment of a maximum cubic centimetrage and amount of horse-power to be developed by motors of airplanes. It also provides for a permanent disarmament committee sitting at Geneva to control disarmament everywhere.

All the great powers, the United States, Great Britain, Japan, and Italy, oppose the French plan, leaving only the little entente supporting it.

Count von Bernstorff, the German delegate, demanded that the league disarmament commission proceed to execute the Versailles treaty and the league covenant reducing all arma-

"The states already disarmed by the treaties are entitled to insist on general disarmament," he said. "Germany now is a member of the league and enjoys all the rights of the organization. We anticipate an epoch when the only war possible is the league against an aggressor, and no state should be permitted to be strong enough to defy all the members. Germany can support only a practical solution-reduction to a general level for all armaments."

FEDERAL court decision ren-A FEDERAL Court dosade A dered in New York on March 23 holds it unlawful to possess grape juice that has fermented and contains a sufficient amount of alcohol to make it intoxicating. Quoting section 29, title 2, of the national prohibition act, Judge Hand read:

He then declared:

"I can hardly regard grape juice containing 13 per cent of alcohol as nonintoxicating. Possession of grape juice for home use which was nonintoxicating when manufactured by the possessor, becomes unlawful under the act whenever the liquor becomes intoxicating, whether through natural fermentation or otherwise."

POLITICAL move of more than A usual moment was the announcement by former Postmaster General Burleson of his support of Gov. Al Smith for the Democratic nomination for President. General Burleson has been a supporter of William G. Mc-Adoo for the nomination, but on March 23 was reported as saying that Governor Smith "is the most available man in the Democratic party for the Democratic nomination in 1928, and if nominated will carry every state in the solid South."

THE American army good will flyers who have been touring South America are now well on their way home. By the 24th they had reached French Guiana. On the 21st they made a record flight for the trip, covering 1,100 miles, landing at Para, Brazil, at the mouth of the Amazon river. On the 23rd the bodies of Capt. C. F. Woolsey and Lieut. John W. The abrogation of the convention makes possible the lifting of the arms embargo on the shipment of arms into Mexico. With the smuggling treaty in operation the lifting of the arms embargo would have little punitive or disciplinary effect if directed against the Mexican government on account of its confiscation of the property of American citizens under the oil and land laws. With it removed the decks will be cleared and this government will be empowered to move if the President decides drastic action is necessary to protect American property in Mexico.

Wisconsin and Minnesota have attempted to impose taxes on shares of national bank stock but a decision of the United States Supreme court holds the state laws in these the hands of individual citizens."

Both cases involved the interpretation of section 5219 of revised statutes, which sanction the taxation of shares of national banks in a state with the restriction that "the taxation shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such state."

The court held that competition may exist between capital invested in national banks and other moneyed capital, even though the competition deal with some but not all phases of the business of national banks.

In the Minnesota case it was shown that under the statutes of that state shares of national banks and of other banks and of mortgage loan companies are taxed at a higher rate than money or credits used in other forms of enterprise.

Mrs. Heenen will be better remembered as Mrs. Joseph Winegar to her Cass City friends. Mr. Winegar wned a meat market here, and died while a resident of Cass City and was buried in Elkland cemetery. His widow left 27 years ago for Northwest Canada and there married P. R. Heenen, who passed away about 20 years ago. Since that time she has made her home most of the time with her daughter, Mrs. Schell Mitchell, at Calgary, Alberta. Mrs. Heenen was a life member of the Missionary Society and they attended the funeral in a body. While in Cass City she was an active worker in the M. Searchlight Carbons

In huge electric searchlights that cast beams visible for 50 or 60 miles on clear nights, the carbons are not like those of ordinary arc lamps. Instead the electrodes are cored carbons containing chemicals in the cores. The main source of light is a small body of gas contained in the crater at the al end of the positive electrode. This crater of gas quadruples the strength of the beam.

Food for Squirrels

The food of squirrels in the wild state includes, according to the time of the year, nuts and seeds, buds, mushrooms, insects, nestling birds and fleshy fruits. To Remove Tarnish The tarnish on bronze is copper car bonate. It may be removed by friction or it may be dissolved in weak acids. Rottenstone mixed with oil to a creamy consistency is the common frictional agent used on these metals. Oxalic acid solution, buttermilk or vinegar, especially when warmed, quickly dissolves the tarnish on bronze.
