FINE PROGRAM AT P. T. A. MONDAY NIGHT

Society Adds 137 New Members; Will Affiliate with State Association.

A good sized audience, considering the weather, attended the March meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association Monday evening at the schoolhouse. During the business meeting, it was decided to join the state association. The ladies, with Mrs. Richard Edgerton as captain, reported 80 new members while the men, with Robert Warner as captain, reported 57 new members. As agreed the losers—the men—will put on the April program.

The subject, "What the Teacher Expects of the Parent" (from the grade standpoint) was taken up by Mrs. Charles Day, kindergarten teacher. She emphasized "Good Habits"—sleep, cleanliness, politeness. She urged the parents to teach the child to wait upon himself, and gave the following "Don'ts for Mothers":

1. Don't let children lunch on candy, especially all day suckers.
2. Don't let the child develop the habit of being late.
3. Don't send children to school with buttons off from coats. Even teachers' patience and pins give out.
4. Don't let children wear leaky rubbers. It wastes valuable time in drying their foot-ware.
5. Don't forget clean handkerchiefs.
6. Don't forget to send children off to school in a happy mood.

Mrs. Day ended by saying "Teachers and parents of small children have some important task—What do you think?"

Robert Warner gave some very good ideas when he spoke on "What the Parent Expects of the Teacher." He divided his subject into two parts.

1. What some parents expect of the teacher.
  2. What parents should expect of the teacher.
- He said those who expect the most from the teachers do the least for the children themselves. How often when the child brings home his or her report cards and are dissatisfied we side in with the child instead of talking the matter over with the teacher. Again how often the teacher is blamed for the dirty, torn shirt and black eye the child receives on his way home from school. Mr. Warner said that all he asked was that the teacher give his child an even break with the rest, regardless of those who have means. Parents should expect every teacher to have the best of morals because the children will notice and remember. Both teacher and parent should practice "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Miss Allison Spence gave some very good points from the high school standpoint on "What the Teacher Expects from the Parent." Parents do not visit the school often enough. The child should be in school every day that he is able. Some need more ambition which she felt could be helped at home. Parents could do much to aid respect for authority. Character is built during leisure time not during busy time.

Music during the evening was given by the male quartet composed of Messrs. Bigelow, McNamee, Atwell and Tyo, with Mrs. F. A. Bigelow at the piano, and B. A. Elliott and son, Leonard, gave two selections on their Hawaiian guitars.

The committee is to be congratulated on the fine program. The president, Mrs. Earl L. Heller closed the meeting by giving "Ten Commandments of Success" by C. M. Schwab. 1. Work hard. Hard work is the best investment a man can make. 2. Study hard. Knowledge enables a man to work more intelligently and effectively. 3. Have initiative. Ruts often deepen into graves. 4. Love your work. Then you will find pleasure in mastering it. 5. Be exact. Slipshod methods bring only slipshod results. 6. Have the American spirit of conquest. Thus you can successfully battle with and overcome difficulties. 7. Cultivate personality. Personality is to a man what perfume is to a flower. 8. Help and share with others. 9. Be democratic. Unless you feel right toward your fellowmen, you can never be a successful leader of men. 10. In all things do your best. The man who has done his best has done everything. The man who has done less than his best has done nothing.

The following nominating committee was appointed: Mrs. Ernest Croft, Mrs. Dan Hennessey, Mrs. Lyle Spencer, Lester Bailey and Walter Mann.

CHAMBERS SCHOOL HOLDS PIONEER DAY

Patrons of District Bring Relics and Relate Incidents of Pioneer Days.

Last year, Jason Kitchin, who was then teaching the Shabbona school, conceived the idea of having what is called a Pioneer Day. This proved so successful that this year the idea was repeated in the Chambers school where he is now teaching.

Invitations were sent out to patrons and friends of the district and on Friday, Mar. 23, forty of them gathered at the schoolhouse bringing with them relics of the early days.

The exhibit was very good, including many things which children of today never see unless they are privileged to visit a museum.

Among the exhibits were the cards with which Mrs. Harrison carded some wool, the spinning wheel on which Mrs. Wells spun some yarn, swifts, candle molds, tallow candles, candle lanterns and sticks, ox yoke, ox shoe, sap yokes, muzzle loading guns and canteen of Civil War days, old fashioned clothing, tintype and daguerotype pictures, old money as far back as 1797, a wooden sugar bowl of pre-revolutionary times and a long list too numerous to mention.

D. E. Harris showed a collection of Indian relics including some nice arrowheads and a peace pipe.

Willard Harris also displayed a fine assortment of arrow heads, a skinning stone and a number of World War relics.

Mr. Harris told of the early log schoolhouses and the lumbering days around Cass City and in Evergreen including stories of the fire of '81 and the days of the oxen and coming of the horse.

Mr. Caister, as a member of the school board, gave a few complimentary remarks and then pointed the boys and girls to the need of a high school education.

Mrs. R. Coulter, a pioneer of the township, who reared a family of eleven children and really knows what hardships are, was present and enjoyed the afternoon as much as anyone. She is now eighty-nine years of age.

All left feeling that the time was well spent and the children gained knowledge of pioneer times which will last longer than much of that which they gain only through reading.

Gagetown Banquets Basket Ball Team

Members of the first and second basket ball teams of the Gagetown High School, their parents, members of the board of education and the faculty were among the guests at the annual basket ball banquet held at the M. P. church Thursday evening, March 29.

Hobart; "Home and Athletics," Mrs. Beach; "Following the Games," Mr. Crowell; "The Community and Athletics," Mr. Munro; "Past Basket Ball Teams," Delos Wood; address, Mr. Rapson; presentation of letters, Principal Davenport.

NEW FISHING REGULATIONS

Regulations regarding spearing and netting fish have been made by the conservation department. The regulations have been explained by Conservation Officer George Hall as follows:

Events in the Lives of Little Men

PRAIRIE BASEBALL LEAGUE SEASON OPENS

(Copyright, W. N. U.)

"Mullet, Suckers and Red-sides may be taken by the use of a spear or dip net during March and April. It will also be lawful to take suckers from the rivers and streams not designated as trout streams in the county with or without the use of artificial lights from Mar. 15 to May 15 inclusive."

SEE ALFALFA SEED AS FUTURE STATE CROP

Michigan Growers Are Having Success with New Venture—Production on Increase.

Alfalfa seed growing in Michigan will probably soon be established on a permanent and dependable basis. This is the opinion of the farm crops department at M. S. C., based on the experiences of farmers during the past three years and a few isolated instances that date back as far as 30 years.

H. C. Rather, of the farm crops department, states that 573 bushels of alfalfa seed were certified last year by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association. He estimates that this amount is less than one-eighth of the total production of about 4,500 bushels grown in the state last year, which will plant approximately 27,000 acres.

"There are two things which Michigan alfalfa seed growers must keep in mind," says Mr. Rather. "One is to watch the bloom in order to determine whether or not it will set seed satisfactorily. The other is to keep seed producing fields free from weeds."

"If the weather is reasonably bright and clear, the alfalfa may be allowed to come into full bloom. If more than half of the blossoms are forming into seed pods, the stand may be allowed to go to seed with reasonable assurance of success. In case the majority of the blossoms are stipping off, the alfalfa may still be cut for hay and the value of the crop saved."

"In southern Michigan the opportunity to secure seed is presented in both the first and second cuttings, while in northern Michigan the first cutting must be depended upon for the seed crop."

ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT THE FLORIDA CLIMATE

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Heller and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Benkelman, sr., returned from Florida where they had spent the winter months. Two weeks were taken for the return, the trip being made in the Heller car which was splendidly equipped for touring. Mr. Heller stated that during the 6,000-mile journey which they travelled since leaving home in December not even a flat tire was experienced. He is very enthusiastic about the Florida climate and both he and Mrs. Heller enjoyed excellent health during most of their stay there. Most of the descriptions of Florida are overdrawn, Mr. Heller says, but the letter published in the Chronicle last week written by Mrs. Lois Lackie stated conditions as he saw them on his first trip to that state.

BALL SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS AT IONIA

Novesta Youth Confessed Sending Threatening Letter Demanding $1,000.

Lloyd Ball, 18-year-old Novesta township young man, was sentenced to 1½ to 2 years, with the latter recommended, to the state reformatory at Ionia, by Judge H. H. Smith, at a special session of the Tuscola county circuit court on Saturday. Ball was charged with sending a letter to Mrs. Elizabeth Pinney of Cass City threatening injury to her twin nine-year-old daughters unless she paid him $1,000.

Ball was arrested early last week but steadfastly denied his guilt though impounded by his foster parents and friends to make an early confession, if guilty. On Thursday afternoon, he was visited at the county jail by Frank Hegler, a neighbor. Mr. Hegler reviewed Ball's early life, pointing out to him the great kindness and care bestowed upon him since early childhood by his foster parents and urged him to tell officers the whole truth, not only for his own sake, but also for the sake of his foster parents, who are highly respected citizens of Novesta township. While Mr. Hegler says he solicited a confession to the officers only, Ball broke down during the interview and laid bare his guilt, promising to give his confession to the sheriff. His confession to that officer came late that night.

Prosecutor Kern said Ball told him he had been contemplating sending the letter about four weeks before he finally did and had written a number of practice letters before the final draft was completed, having trouble in figuring out the exact varieties of denominations of currency he wanted. Ball admitted, the prosecutor said, he got his idea from reading an account of a "blackhand" case in the south.

Important Announcement to every owner of a Model T Ford

ON MAY 25, 1927, when Henry Ford first announced his plans for making a new car, he announced also that he would continue to make parts for the Model T Ford. He said:

"The Model T Ford car was a pioneer. It blazed the way for the motor industry and started the movement for good roads everywhere. It broke down the barriers of distance in rural sections, brought people in these sections closer together, and placed education within the reach of everyone. We are still proud of the Model T Ford. If we were not, we would not have continued to make it so long."

For twenty years, the Model T Ford led the automobile industry and it still serves more people than any other automobile. Over one-third of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords—an indication of the sturdy worth of the car and its value to people in all walks of life the world over.

The Ford Motor Company will continue to make replacement parts for these cars "until the last Model T is off the road." That is a part of Ford service. That is what Henry Ford meant when he said: "We believe that when a man buys one of our cars we should keep it running for him as long as we can and at the lowest up-keep cost."

Because of this policy a considerable part of the Ford manufacturing plants is given over to the making of parts for the Model T Ford. These replacement parts are made of the same material and in the same way as those from which your car was originally assembled.

Make it a point, therefore, to see the nearest Ford dealer and have him look over your Model T Ford. You may find that a very small expenditure will enable you to get thousands of miles of additional service, and at the same time protect the money you have invested in your car.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect. Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

R. B. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 93

BEAUTY.

A little son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Milligan Sunday evening. Fred's hat has never fitted right, but it seems now that it fits perfect since a son has come to help with the farm work. He will answer to the name of John Stothers. Mrs. McKim is the nurse who is caring for Mrs. Milligan and baby.

The Ladies' Aid will meet with Mrs. John McCallum Monday, April 2. Dinner and supper will be served to the voters.

The home talent play, "An Old Fashioned Mother," given at the church Thursday, evening, Mar. 22, was a decided success. A large number were present and all the characters did finely. Jeremiah Gosling was much enjoyed with his merry making. Proceeds were $66.69.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fay are in poor health.

We were quite surprised with the snow storm after our nice spring days.

Miss Mildred Reader spent Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore entertained John Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Moore and children at a six o'clock dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hartsell and Marion and Mrs. F. Reader and Mildred attended the high school play at Owendale Friday evening.

Peter Clark, an old resident of Grant, passed away at the home of his sister, Mrs. Thos. Jarvis, Tuesday evening, Mar. 27.

Many Species of Grasses

There are about 6,000 distinct species of grasses in the world. Of these about sixty are important cultivated plants.

Resistant Strains
Reduce Wheat SmutPossible to Control Disease
by Treating Seed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Loose smut of wheat causes an estimated loss in the United States of more than 10,000,000 bushels annually, according to V. F. Tanke, pathologist of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is possible, he says, to control the disease by treating the seed with hot water, but the treatment is difficult and frequently reduces the stand and yield. Efforts are being made, therefore, to develop strains of the important varieties that will be resistant to or immune from infection.

Since 1922 many varieties and strains of wheat have been tested at Rosslyn, Va., and Ithaca, N. Y., for resistance to loose smut. All of the important eastern wheats and a few of the leading western wheats have been included in the tests. Resistant or immune strains have been found in such varieties as Blackhall, Dawson, Fulcaster, Fultz, Hussar, Leap, Penquite, Preston, Purplestraw, Riddit, Shepherd, Silversheat and Trumbull.

Fultz and Fulcaster, two widely grown varieties, have generally been reported to be susceptible to loose smut, but the pure-line selections used in these experiments proved to be highly resistant. The occurrence of resistant and otherwise desirable strains in these two important varieties gives encouragement to the hope of reducing the heavy annual loss caused by loose smut of wheat.

Cows Harm Young Trees
if Orchard Not Fenced

If you are a live stock farmer and wish to plant a young orchard, be sure that it is properly fenced away from the cattle, says a writer in the Michigan Farmer. Cows like to browse on young trees, and will soon tear off all the tender wood on young apples. They will rub on the trees and break the limbs. This also loosens the roots when the trees are newly planted, and often kills the tree.

When the neighbors have live stock which is allowed the free range of the roadsides, it increases the danger to young orchards. Fences are cheaper than arguments and loss of friendship, and it is difficult to estimate the damage from live stock among young apple trees, so the financial settlement will be satisfactory to all parties concerned.

Setting out an orchard is an expensive in nursery stock and labor that is worthy of protection. Every year that the land is given over to young trees increases their value. If the trees are not protected from the grazing of cattle, the land had better be used for another purpose, for sooner or later the trees are only dead stubs.

Rape Pasture Is Useful for Fattening the Pigs

Some years ago the Alabama experiment station fattened some hogs on rape pasture—Dwarf Essex—plus a mixture of corn and wheat shorts. The pasture provided one-half the ration, corn and shorts the other half. Six 100-pound pigs were grazed upon each acre 147 days. During the time the pigs made an average daily gain of .7 of a pound and required only .14 of an acre of rape and 273 pounds of grain for 100 pounds of increase in weight. One acre of rape took the place of 58 bushels of corn in this particular test. The green leaves of rape are, therefore, exceedingly valuable when used as a part of the pig's ration. These kinds of leaves—and rape and collards are kinsfolk—provide succulence, bulk and valuable nutrients to the pig in exactly the same way that they provide these three things to the members of the family.

Hogging Down Corn Is Successful in Dakota

Ohio, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri experiment stations have been successful with hogging down corn and recommend it, but find that hogs do not make profitable gains on corn alone. They must have protein feed like alfalfa or clover pasture, soy beans or rape in the corn, or be fed tankage or milk to balance up the corn.

Rape seeded in corn and hogged down at the South Dakota experiment station increased the daily gains of the pigs over 20 per cent. The pigs on corn alone made a daily gain of 1.06 pounds while those getting corn and rape made a daily gain of 1.28 pounds. They find that if tankage is high in cost, cheaper gains may be made without it, but a longer feeding period is required.

Tight Pack Obtained in Packing Barrel Apples

A tight pack can be obtained in the barrel of apples by thorough racking without the necessity of overfilling.

It is very common to see the barrel overfilled. This is usually done to insure a tight pack, but it does not accomplish its purpose. Usually it is an insurance that fruit will be bruised.

A barrel which has been properly racked needs but little pressing and the fruit will be but slightly above the top of the barrel before the press is applied. For the very tightest pack in the barrel rack the barrel after putting in each half bushel.

HOW

RATE OF DEATHS FROM CANCER HAS GONE UP.—Cancer is today the fourth most frequent cause of death in the United States. The total number of recorded deaths from cancer in the registration area in 1924 was 91,138. The rate has been increasing for many years. In New York city in 1924 there were 6,557 deaths and in 1926 7,033 deaths from cancer in a population of roundly six million people.

The most prevalent site of fatal cancer is the stomach, with 38 per cent of the total deaths. Cancer of the breast caused 9 per cent of all fatal cases. Cancer of the skin caused 8 per cent of the cancer deaths.

There are no reliable statistics to show how many cases occur apart from deaths. It has been estimated by various authorities that about three times the number of cases exist at any place at a given time as there are deaths at that place in the course of a year. On this hypothesis, the number of cases of cancer in the United States is continually about 300,000; the number in New York city about 21,000.

Cancer is much more likely to make an attack after the age of thirty-five than before that time, and consequently the death rate is higher in certain age groups than in others. Among all deaths in men between the ages of forty-five and seventy one in eight is due to cancer, and among all the deaths which occur among women between forty-five and sixty-five one in five is caused by cancer.

Cancer is really the greatest scourge the world has ever known. The time to cure a cancer is when it is beginning. Many cases can be cured if reported promptly.

How Young Inventor
Evolved Cone Speaker

With radio engineers being constantly called in to improve and aid in the development of talking motion pictures, it is interesting to note that one of the most noteworthy advancements in the radio industry can directly be attributed to the talking picture.

Back in 1910, C. L. Farrand, radio and acoustical engineer, was engaged in working on a device for the amplification of sound from synchronized records designed to run simultaneously with motion pictures. In an effort to find a reproducer sufficiently loud to fill the larger halls without the blur and inefficiency of the then known phonograph horn, Mr. Farrand experimented with many types of vibrating mediums and diaphragms.

It was in this experimentation that the idea of the application of a conical diaphragm of large size for the reproduction of radio signals was born. The present-day radio loud speaker is the result of this young inventor's ingenuity.

How Washing-Soda Cleans

Common salt is the basis of washing-soda. The principle is that it is treated with sulphuric acid and the product roasted. The soda is then dissolved out with water, and finally the latter evaporated. What is left is the commercial quality of carbonate of soda used by chemists.

Its cleansing action is twofold. In solution in water it forms a free alkali, which has a chemical effect upon grease. The dirt on clothes is fixed by a film of grease; the alkali attacks this film, dissolves it, and leaves the dirt free to be washed off with ease. At the same time it also helps the grease in the soap to dissolve, so assisting its action in the business of the washtub.

How to Clean Gold Braid

When gold braid and fringe trimming have become tarnished, the very best way to restore them to their natural state is by mixing a paste of one ounce fine stale bread, one-half ounce magnesia, and one-half ounce cream of tartar, and moisten this with a little denatured alcohol. Apply with a small clean paint brush and when thoroughly dry dust off the crumbs with a piece of chamolite leather or soft cloth. The trimming will have lost all trace of tarnish. This method will also clean gold lace.

How to Cool Quickly

If it is desired to cool lemonade, blanc-mange, jelly or custard very quickly, carry out the following hint: Pour some cold water into a bowl and into this put the blue bag used for whitening clothes. Shake it about until the water is a dark blue, and then throw in a handful of common salt. The jug or basin of mixture to be cooled is then placed in the water, care being taken that none gets into the jug. This method is in every way as efficacious as ice.

How to Wash Violin Bows

Etude says: "To wash violin bows, tighten the hair and wash with a lather of soap applied with a toothbrush. Rinse the soap off and dry thoroughly. Then apply powdered resin. The hair can then be resined on the cake as usual."

THE GOVERNOR'S WIFE

(By D. J. Walsh)

THE governor was to visit the little town of Bluffs. Everywhere the word went around—the governor was coming! It was the first visit of such a high official in many years and it meant a great deal! The chief executive was scheduled to speak in the park at noon and attend a luncheon as guest of the Rotary club immediately after. The governor's wife was to be the guest of honor at the home of the mayor's wife, Mrs. Sanford.

All the leading women of Bluffs were invited to the Sanford home to receive the state's leading lady. That is, all but Millicent Tunford. Just why the coveted invitation should have failed to reach the modest little bungalow on the outskirts of the village Millicent could not understand. And she was grieved. To be ignored by the women of her town at the year's most important social fête was to her disgrace—almost disaster. It meant everything. There would be gossip—small-town gossip—and above all, isolation. And there was her boy and her husband—the postal clerk.

When Mrs. Courtney called Mrs. Tunford on the phone and asked the sort of dress she planned to wear at the banquet Mrs. Tunford could only swallow hard and say she did not know. She mentioned to her the fact that the invitation had not arrived. She merely laughed and told her it did not matter—that perhaps anyway it was just a mistake. But down in her heart Millicent knew that Mrs. Sanford had intentionally omitted her from the list of guests.

The days passed and the time for the governor's arrival drew near. The weekly newspaper of the town carried a long story about the reception planned for his wife, Mrs. Leonard, as well as the function to be held by the Rotarians for the chief executive. The name of Mrs. Tunford was still missing from the published list. Millicent grew morose and was too hurt even to go to the stores for her shopping.

Mr. Tunford was called on the telephone a few days before the affair and requested to serve on a committee to receive the governor. The honor, of course, was small, but it meant a great deal to Mrs. Tunford. It meant that she was not keeping pace with her husband—that she did not mean to the women of the town what her husband meant to the men. She went on Mr. Tunford's shoulder as she told him again and again how sorry she was that she had failed so miserably to keep her place among the social set of the village. Mr. Tunford laughed and patted her soft black hair.

"Why, you're as good as a dozen Mrs. Sanfords," he told her. "What if Mrs. Sanford does try to be cat? The governor's wife didn't send the invitations."

She looked up at him through tear-filled eyes.

"But—but—what will the neighbors think?" she sobbed.

Mr. Tunford dismissed the neighbors with a smile and a light wave of his hand.

"It doesn't matter. I love you just as much. And I'm sure Robert does, don't you, son?"

Robert clung to his mother's dress and smiled his acquiescence.

The afternoon before the arrival of the governor's party Mrs. Tunford resolved to think no more of the incident. She would forget the banquet and go on just as before. If the neighbors talked—well, just let them talk. As long as she had her husband and Robert, what else could matter? She spent the afternoon cleaning the house and getting things in order. At least, she could find some joy in having her lawn and porch in a perfect state of tidiness when the party passed on the main highway to the center of town. They were coming from the state capital by auto and would pass the Tunford bungalow.

And then it rained. Clouds had been settling over the little valley all the afternoon, and at five the down-pour started. It poured incessantly for two hours and the soil roads of the county became great, splashy mudpuddles. Reports came in that many automobiles were stalled in the sticky mud gumbo between the town and the state capital. By morning the roads would be impassable.

Mrs. Tunford was a little sorry because of the disappointment of her town in case the governor could not come. He would very probably have no other open dates for months. However, it would mean her social salvation to some extent. She would not be ignored by the reception for Mrs. Leonard because the reception would, of course, be impossible.

"I guess the big doings tomorrow will be called off," Mr. Tunford remarked. "There is no train in the morning on which the governor's party could possibly arrive in time for the event. The only chance would be for his arrival on the flyer at mid-night. He very probably won't do that." He resumed reading the evening paper published at the capital. It carried a long story about the governor's prospective visit to the neighboring village, the Rotarian luncheon and the reception for Governor Leonard's wife at the Sanford home. The list of invited guests was published.

Millicent's name was not included. It was near bedtime when the door-bell rang. It was a Western Union boy.

"Day letter for Mrs. Tunford." The boy smiled a knowing smile as he signed for the message. He had evidently read the confidential note, the case usually in all small towns. "I hear the governor's wife is a friend of yours," he said.

Mrs. Tunford turned red. She thought the boy had heard of her absence from the list invited to the reception. She closed the door in a rage and tore open the telegram. As she read, her husband noticed her gasp slightly and the color in her cheeks deepened noticeably. When she finished she could only look at Mr. Tunford and gasp.

"Read it, Ralph!" She ran to the divan and fell across it sobbing. Mr. Tunford had forebodings that the message carried disastrous news. He read aloud:

"Mrs. Ralph Tunford, Bluffs, Wyo. My good friend, Mrs. Leonard and the governor arriving tonight on the flyer. Told them you could entertain us. Mrs. Leonard wants to meet you again. If you remember, she was formerly Gladys Finley, our girl friend in college. Hope we are not inconveniencing you."

"HELEN CLIFFORD." "Gladys Finley!" Mrs. Tunford managed to gasp between sobs. "Gladys Finley, the governor's wife! And I hadn't heard of her in years. Good old Gladys—why I remember when—"

But her husband interrupted her. It was time to meet the train. The town would have heard of the governor's night arrival and would turn out to meet him. It was Millicent's turn now.

Spanish King Rated Able but Dissolute

James the Conqueror stands out in history as one of the few great men of the Spanish peninsula during the medieval period. At the time of his birth it did not seem probable he would accomplish much. His father was king of Aragon and his mother was an emperor's daughter, but the boy's prospects were not bright. Aragon was entangled in the religious wars of southern France, and the dissolute king quarreled with his wife and she fled to Italy, where she died. Then the boy's father was slain in battle, leaving the realm to James when he was five years old.

Noblemen fought among themselves to have the custody of the boy king and the country was ravaged by incessant wars. James was conspicuous among his courtiers, as he grew toward manhood, by his size and strength, and he had an able mind. He did his own ruling and cowed the rebellious nobles. He conquered the Balearic islands, then moved against the Moorish kingdom of Valencia. He captured the powerful city of Valencia in 1238 and all the countryside about it became Aragonese territory.

James would have done even more to influence the upbuilding of civilization if he had been a better man in his private life. He was as dissolute as his father had been. After divorcing his wife he married Yolande of Hungary, but he continued his intrigues despite her influence. In his will he divided his possessions between two of his sons by Yolande, and this led to bitter wars between the two divisions of the realm that undid much of the good work he had accomplished.—Kansas City Star.

Oil of the Scriptures

Of all the numerous substances, both animal and vegetable, yielding oil and known to the ancients, the olive-berry is the one of which most frequent mention is made in the Scriptures. In gathering the fruit great care was necessary in order that neither the olive-berry nor the young branches of the tree be bruised. The berries were therefore gathered by hand or gently shaken off with a light reed or stick. The oil was extracted by bruising the fruit with a mortar, by crushing in a press, or grinding in a mill.

Olive oil was devoted to six chief uses. As a food it was used to garnish vegetables. Dried wheat was boiled in oil and eaten and this is still a common dish in Syria.

"Seven Ages"—Revised

Here are the modern seven ages of man: From one to ten he thinks his parents know everything; from ten to twenty he discovers that they don't know so much; from twenty to thirty he learns that they do know a few things, after that, except about modern life, from thirty to forty he learns that, with all their faults, they probably know nearly as much as he does; from forty to fifty he is startled by discovery that they knew more than he ever did before; from fifty to sixty he wonders if he ever can be as wise as they were and after sixty he begins to believe again that they knew everything.—Los Angeles Times.

Jewish Burial Custom

The ancient Jews of Palestine buried their dead by placing the corpse either in the earth or in caves hewn out of the rock. Sometimes the sepulcher was dug in the ground in the neighborhood of the family dwelling. More frequently, however, rocks were excavated so as to form compartments or galleries, with as many vaults as desired. These vaults were known as "kokim." The burial place was often in a garden situated at least 50 cubits distant from the city. The site was usually marked by a whitewashed stone.

DAIRY

ORGANIZATION IS NEED OF DAIRYING

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Effective organization in the production and distribution of dairy products, and the development of new markets, are necessary if the American dairy industry is to maintain a satisfactory economic position. Lloyd S. Tenny, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, told members of the Co-operative Pure Milk association at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Tenny outlined the marked expansion in dairy production and marketing in leading foreign dairy countries in recent years. There is a tendency, he said, for foreign production to increase more rapidly than demand, as a result of which producers in the United States are facing increased foreign competition and importation of greater quantities of dairy products. On the other hand, with the exception of concentrated milk, the United States is not producing dairy products sufficient for domestic needs, and present tendencies in this country are for demand to increase as rapidly, if not more rapidly, than production.

Reviewing the world dairy situation, Mr. Tenny declared "the most important of the war developments has been the great expansion of production in new countries of the southern hemisphere. This expansion has continued since the war, and is being maintained in the face of falling prices. Since the seasonal production of these countries places the largest volume of their annual output on the winter markets of the northern hemisphere, this development in the southern hemisphere is equivalent to a great shift to winter dairying by producers of the northern hemisphere.

"This tends to take the peak from our winter market prices, thus reducing the profits of winter dairying. A second outstanding development in production is the rapid recovery and continued expansion in old country production, including the Netherlands, Denmark and other Baltic states."

Exports of butter and cheese from the United States have gradually disappeared since the early '80s, Mr. Tenny said. The export of the surplus of cheese, and then of butter, has given way to a net importation. The exportable surplus of concentrated milk also is being rapidly reduced. The disappearance of our export surplus of cheese is attributed in part to the rapid expansion of the demand for butter and silk in the United States, as the elimination of the export surplus of butter is due in part to the expansion in the domestic demand for milk.

Sanitation Important in Managing Dairies

One of the reasons for the high quality of butter that is manufactured by the Iowa brand creameries is due to the care which farmers take of their milk and cream in those communities, according to R. G. Clark, chief of the dairy and food division of the Iowa department of agriculture, in discussing the progress that has been made along dairy lines in Iowa.

"Sanitation is the backbone of high er quality in dairy products," said Mr. Clark. "Most of the increased prices which Iowa brand creameries are able to pay over other creameries is due to the improvement of quality. The creameries and their patrons are true examples of co-operation as they work together to secure the highest net return out of the farmer's product. Cleanliness, plus proper cooling of the milk and cream, are the biggest essentials in delivering a high quality product to the creameries. Unless the butter-maker has the best quality cream, he cannot manufacture the best quality butter. It is the quality butter that brings the premium on the market."

Occasionally an Entire Herd Is Unprofitable

Only very occasionally do testere find an entire herd of cows unprofitable. In the records now available, a case is rarely found where the best cows in the poorest herds are less productive than the poorest cows of the best herds. These records do show, in a very high percentage of cases, a wide margin of difference between the high and low producing animals in any herd. Through careful selection, the use of a good sire, properly balanced feeds, and intelligent care, it is altogether possible to develop the best animal on the majority of our ordinary farms into paying herds.

Cow Losing Her Cud

There really is no such thing as a cow losing her cud. Animals such as the cow and sheep swallow their food in a very coarse condition while eating and later this food is brought back into the mouth for further mastication and then passes back into the true stomach and from there into the mouth in small amounts at a time and swallowed. Hence if a cow should lose the cud which she was chewing another would be available in a short time.

Cass City Schools

Kindergarten—The happy Easter time is nearly here, and we feel so glad about it that we are learning all we can about the birds. We hope soon to know the names of all the birds in the woodpecker family and to recognize them when we see them. There are five of them, you know. We wonder how many grown-ups can tell what they are? We are making an Easter with jointed legs, and hope to have an egg-hunt when we have made our Easter baskets. The following are some of the verses we promised last week:

"The wind is calling at the door; We hope that he will call some more, For if he dries up all the snow, The birdies will be glad, I know." "Easter time is nearly here, When bunny lays his eggs, so dear." "There was a birdie in a tree And when I looked, he said, 'Twee, twee.'"

First Grade—Many of our boys and girls have heard robins which goes to show the vivid imagination we have in our first grade. This week begins a prolonged study of the little Dutch people, their costumes and habits. This was postponed because of the measly influence.

Second Grade—We are enjoying the records which have been brought from home to supplement our supply. Everyone is happy to feel that spring has come. Most of our people have recovered from the measles and are in school again. We are proud to report that we have had no tardy marks this month. Mrs. McCoy and Jimmie McCoy visited us for a short time Wednesday afternoon. Donny Keopf came to school Friday afternoon. Mrs. Fort and Barbara Fort also visited us for a while one afternoon.

Third Grade—We have had two days of perfect attendance which is rather unusual. We hope it will continue. Our attendance for last month was 88.75 per cent, with no tardy marks. We have a rabbit's nest with its many colored eggs, and guarded by two rabbits, in our room. Our arithmetic race is very close. Shirley Lenzner's side has 65 stars and Delbert Henry's has 66.

Fourth Grade—Our spelling contest has ended. The Essex car had a final score of 4000. Those who rode in the Essex car were Reinhold Zemke, Cressy Steele, Lloyd Donnelly, Margaret Merchant and Gilda Gemmill. The Essex car won the spelling contest. The Essex car won the spelling contest.

Fifth Grade—The A group in arithmetic is studying measurements. We enjoy it very much for we apply it to our everyday life. Most of our problems concern our room or school in some way. Betty Hunt presented us with a lovely plant this week. With our plants blooming so nicely our room certainly has a "home-like" atmosphere. The school month closes again with no tardy marks for our room.

Sixth Grade—(Reporters, Ruth Schenck, Elaine Turner). Our final debate was held Friday and the affirmative side won. The subject was: "Resolved, that a boy is of more use to his country than a girl." Miss Watrous was the judge. The winning side received a box of candy. The pupils did so well that they were asked to give the same debate before the English Senior class next week.

Music and Art—We never realized until last week what enjoyment can be derived from beautiful pictures. We know of one art institute in Detroit which we want to visit and two similar ones in Chicago. This week we will begin work on Spring posters in 4th and 5th grades. We will use cut paper pictures and letters. In the sixth grade we will continue work on a group of plates for home decoration. In second and third grades we will make a blackboard border of April umbrellas and do some free hand illustration on the subjects of Easter, April and Spring.

In first grade we will do some free hand cutting of "April showers and May Flowers" with the end in view of assembling a decorative poster for the season.

All through the grades we are beginning intensive drill on rhythmic problems and continuing ladder and signature drill.

The high school glee clubs and orchestra are planning a concert to be held early in May. This will take the place of the regular high school operetta. The scores were Chevrolet, assisted by a group of grade pupils who will present a 45-minute operetta.

Home Economics—The 7th and 8th grade classes will study dried fruits and quick breads and prepare prune whip and date pudding.

The 9th grade class will continue work on bloomers or smocks and study "How to Dress in Good Taste" and "What a Girl Can Do," and the "History of Costume Designing."

The 12th grade class will review meal planning and make a child's garment.

The hygiene class is studying accidents and first aid.

WHY

World Continues Distrustful of Women

In the present congress there are no women senators and only four women representatives. Of these three are the wives of former congressmen. One was elected while her husband was in prison for conspiracy to defraud the government. Two were elected to all vacancies caused by the death of their husbands and have been re-elected. Only one woman now in the house, therefore, was originally elected on her own reputation and her own merits.

The Woman's Home Companion cites this as an indication that the world is still distrustful of women, and that equality of the sexes is a long task and hardly begun. Hundreds of laws still exist, it is pointed out, which discriminate either for or against women.

Recently in Florida married women were debarred from engaging in the real estate business unless they go to court and have themselves declared "free dealers." This is because married women are not responsible legally for their ordinary contracts, for misrepresentation or negligence. In the laws of every state, it is said, there is discrimination of the same sort which will require years of legislation to remedy.

Why All Sounds Don't Travel at Same Speed

It is strange that thunder can be heard over a distance of only ten or twelve miles, while artillery firing is often heard up to 150 miles.

The intensity of a sound depends upon the density of the air in which it is produced and not upon the density of the air in which it is heard. The farther up, the more the air diminishes in density. When thousands of feet above the earth a balloonist can hear sounds from the ground with remarkable clearness. But people on the ground cannot hear similar sounds from the balloon.

The conditions of the air during a thunderstorm are such as would tend to scatter and dissipate the sound waves. Gunfire is usually heard at great distances only when the air is comparatively calm, and it is not likely that it would be heard far during a thunderstorm.

Why Scoring by Fifteen

The method of scoring tennis by fifteens is very odd; the reason of it is inscrutable. Antonio Scaino, to whose "Trattato della Palla" (1555) every historian of ball games is everlastingly indebted, speaks of this scoring as a commonplace in his time, and the author of the "Jeu Royal de la Paille" (1632) says: "The first difficulty is to know why we should count, as we have counted from time immemorial, 15, 30, 45 and then game." His successors are still as much in the dark as he was, though many ingenious suggestions as to the origin have been made. The use of 40 instead of 45 is comparatively modern, and deuce is "a deus" anglicized.

Why Witch Wands Are Fakes

Doodlebug scientists are discredited by the bureau of mines, which denies that wands or other devices to discover mineral wealth beneath the earth's surface are more than pure fakes. Then along comes the geographical survey and makes it even stronger. It declares no rod, or other device is made by which the location of buried treasure can be determined. Yet thousands of persons believe in the witching process for finding water, and will continue to believe in it. Capper's Weekly.

American Indians Healthy

There is little evidence to show what disease prevailed among the American Indians before the coming of the white people. The condition of the skeleton remains, the testimony of early observers and the present state of some of the tribes in this regard warrant the conclusion that on the whole the Indian race was a comparatively healthy one. The United States bureau of American ethnology thinks that tuberculosis was rare if it ever occurred at all among the pre-Columbian Indians.

Why Slump in Dancing

Tennis and a general disgust with the gyrations of the new dances are blamed for a decided slump in the interest in dancing, say London teachers. They declare that parents in the exclusive West end are not permitting their children to learn the new steps. There has been formed a society, every member of which is pledged to dance only the fox trot. Instructors say that in summer this year tennis will have more devotees than dancing.

Why Indians Wore Feathers

Feathers in the headgear of Indians were chiefly for ornamental purposes. Among the Indians on the Great Plains, according to the United States bureau of American ethnology, feathers in the hair indicated the individual's rank by their kind, number and manner of mounting. In some tribes the feathers represented the number of enemies the warrior had slain.—Exchange.

Why Nightingale Sings

The nightingale sings at night to distract prowling enemies from the nest on the ground to himself perched safely in a tree.

An optimist is a fellow who is pleased at a puncture because it isn't a blow-out.

Purina-fed cows have broken more than sixty state, national and world records. Yet these records don't tell the whole story after all. They only prove that Purina makes more milk. They don't prove anything about Purina producing a cheaper quart of milk and that's the thing that every dairyman wants. But here's what does prove Purina produces a cheaper quart—twenty thousand more dairymen are feeding Purina this year than fed it last year! When twenty thousand dairymen—big and little—change to one feed in one year, it says a lot more than any feed salesman can say about the Purina quart being the cheapest.

Said the chamber maid to the sleeping guest, "Get up, you lazy sinner, for we need the sheet for the table cloth."

And it's almost time for dinner
