COMMUNITY SENDS MANY TO COLLEGE

Michigan State College Draws Largest Delegation from This Point.

The annual exodus of young people from the Cass City community to various institutions of higher education has begun. Several have already gone and others will leave the latter part of the month. Most of the members of this year's college delegation plan to attend various Michigan institutions.

The Michigan State College at Lansing will draw the largest number of any of the various schools. Annabelle McRae, was graduated last June from the home economics branch at the State College, goes back to begin a post graduate course. Pauline Knight, who commenced her college course in Lansing last year, returns for her second year in liberal arts. Her sister, Vernita Knight, will be a freshman there in the liberal arts and music courses. Andrew Schwieger also commences his first year's study in liberal arts. Marshall Burt and Stuart Wilsey will enter their second year at M. S. C. as students in applied science. Irvine Striffler, who has been employed the past year at the Nestle's Food Co.'s plant at Cass City, intends to pursue a similar course there. Mr. Striffler attended the State College before accepting his position with the Nestle's Co. Eleanor Nique will be a senior in chemistry at Lansing.

Edwin Fritz has spent a year in Flint Junior College and one year at Alma College and will be a junior in the latter institution this year pursuing a pre-medical course. Clark Knapp will also be a junior at Alma. He is studying literature and music. Richard Schenck, who has spent two years in Bowdoin College in Maine, will return there to his studies in literature.

Alfred West will be a senior at the M. Pleasant Normal School. He is specializing in physical condition. Mr. West is playing his third year in varsity football and was a member of the basketball team last year. Clare Bailey will be a freshman in the applied science course at Mt. Pleasant. Evangeline McRae, Mrs. Grey F. Lenzner and Mrs. Roy Severance will also attend the normal at Mt. Pleasant where they will prepare themselves for the teaching profession.

Robt. C. Dilman will be a senior this year at the University of Michigan. He is studying electrical engineering. Douglas McRae is a student at the medical school at the university. He begins his second year there this fall.

Leila Battel and Mardell Starr are attending the Tuscola Co. Normal.

Francis Fritz goes to Chicago to commence his junior year in the Chicago College of Dentistry. Harry Keeney is a student at the University of Detroit.

Erma Flint, a member of the Class of 1928, Cass City high school, will enter the State Normal at Ypsilanti for her second year in junior high work. She taught in the Snover school last year. Edna Horner is attending the Baker Business University at Flint. Catherine Wallace will attend the Normal School at Richland Center, Wisconsin.

LOCAL FOOTBALL TEAM TO OPEN 1928 SCHEDULE

The Cass City High School football team opens the 1928 schedule next Saturday, opposing Chief Nevitt's Bay City Central warriors.

Last Friday, the maroon clad squad journeyed to Uby for a practice encounter with the Huron county team and came home the winner by a 12-0 score. The defense in the first encounter looked good, but on offense the home boys were extremely ragged.

The loss of six veterans of last year's team is the problem to be solved by Coach Lewis. A center to wear "Gus" Bohnsack's shoes, two guards for Wood's and McConkey's vacated positions, a tackle to replace Schwieger, an end of the caliber of McKenzie and a quarterback to succeed Bailey are the needed men.

In the back field seven men are waging a battle for the call in the Bay City game. McCullough will probably call signals and Flint looks like a surety at one of the halves. The other two backs will be picked from this group: Luther, Gowen, Jock, McConkey, and Kelley, with the first two named the starting choices.

The end problem is the one causing most trouble of the loss of both defensive ends of last year's team hurts. Edgerton appears to be a fixture at one wing and a fight between Greenleaf and H. Bohnsack is on for the other, with the edge to Greenleaf.

Four tackles are a beef trust. Reagh, Blades, Malcolm and Goodall all look good and anyone may start the first encounter.

At the guards, McLeod and Simkins are closely crowded by Kaiser and Fieenor for the starting call.

Brown looks logical to be snapper back in the Saturday fray with Vaters working in to the position.

Other men who are looking like possible first team choices are Anthes at tackle, Knight at guard, Doerr at end, and Ross, a newcomer to the squad, looks good at an end or half. Roblin and S. Reagh are not out of the figuring as yet, and Hunter, though ineligible, will be a possibility next season.

Among the freshmen too light this season but sure to figure high in athletics before graduation are Warner, H. Pinney and D. Schenck. The going is tough for these midgets but plenty of nerve keeps them out every night.

The first home game is next Friday, Sept. 28, with Pigeon. This will be the first time the two schools have met in four years.

THREE HURT WHEN AUTO OVERTURNED

Driver of Car in Party of Four Only One to Escape Injury Here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Boggs, Mrs. Idella Collier and Dr. Hornell, all of Flint, were occupants of a Chevrolet coach which went into the ditch and turned over twice Monday afternoon just west of Cass City. The last three named were injured in the accident and brought to the Pleasant Home Hospital at Cass City. The car left the road when it hit a small patch of loose gravel which had been placed to fill up a hole in the highway.

Mr. Boggs, who was driving, was not injured but was wedged under the steering wheel. Mrs. Boggs, Mrs. Collier and Dr. Hornell were brought to the hospital for treatments. All were suffering from shock. Mrs. Boggs received an injured hip. Mrs. Collier many severe cuts, and Dr. Hornell's left eye was badly cut and bruised and right arm wrenched.

Friends from Flint came for the ladies Tuesday but Dr. Hornell is still at the hospital.

The party were on their way to Pt. Austin to attend the Presbytery being held there. The car was badly wrecked.

ALL BOSH, ABOUT HIGH COST OF AUTOMOBILING

So much is heard about the excessive cost of repairs and depreciation on automobiles these days that it is refreshing to hear of a car owner who has traveled at a small outlay for these items.

Clare Bailey bought a Ford touring car about two years ago at an outlay of $25.00. Soon after his purchase, he sold the car top for $10.00 and this week he disposed of the automobile for another $10.00, so he paid but $5.00 more for the car than his selling price. Repair parts cost in the neighborhood of $1.00 and a gallon of bright red paint and a few hours' work were spent in decorating the machine.

This was anything but a town car. Last summer, the young man made a 1,000-mile tour to New York state and the Ford behaved nicely all the way. Paul Wright is the new owner.

HERD RECORDS PROVE PUREBREDS ARE BEST

Total Milk Production for Year Influenced by Freshening Dates.

Dairy production records from 1,829 Michigan herds show that purebreds produce more milk and butterfat than grades and that the season in which a cow freshens has a marked influence on the yearly production of milk and butterfat.

Purebred cows had an average annual production of 8650 pounds of milk and 334 pounds of fat, according to the latest records, while the grades averaged 7713 pounds of milk and 315 pounds of fat. The value of the milk would be 20 dollars more for the purebreds over the year.

Cows which freshened in the fall produced more than 500 pounds more milk than those which freshened in the summer. The seasons in the order of best production are fall, winter, spring and summer.

It has been known for some time that cows which produce their largest milk flow during the spring and summer months yield a smaller total money return over the year, due to lower prices in the months of high production. Now it is found that a lower price is received for the milk and a smaller volume of the product is obtained.

Michigan ranks first among the states in the number of herds which produced an average of 500 pounds or more of butterfat per cow last year. Eight herds produced more than 500 pounds and 159 herds in this state produced more than 400 pounds of butterfat per cow for the year.

MAN FATALLY INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Benj. Leverette, 82, of Decker Passed Away at Hospital Here Monday Afternoon.

Benjamin Leverette, 82, a resident of Decker, was so seriously injured in an automobile accident 4 miles east of Cass City late Sunday afternoon that he passed away at Pleasant Home Hospital here Monday about 3:00 p. m. Death was due to compression of the brain.

Mr. Leverette, in company with Thomas Dobson, a friend with whom he resided at Decker, were on a pleasure drive in Mr. Dobson's new Pontiac coach Sunday afternoon. While driving in a westerly direction on M-81, the coach collided with a Belle Isle Creamery Co.'s truck at the intersection of M-81 and M-53, four miles east of Cass City. The truck was traveling south on M-53. The Pontiac hit the side of the truck near the center, a front wheel of the coach locking in front of one of the hind wheels of the truck. The coach was dragged several feet down M-53 by the truck and both came to a standstill with the truck platform resting on the top of an open door of the coach. Neither driver was injured.

Funeral services for Mr. Leverette were held at the M. E. church at Decker on Thursday afternoon and interment was made in the Marlette cemetery. Mr. Leverette is survived by an adopted daughter, Mrs. Shrie, who resides four miles south of Decker. Mrs. Leverette passed away four years ago.

This is the second death occurring as a result of automobile collisions at this corner within three months. Rev. A. F. Jones met death when two cars came together at this highway intersection on June 20.

Samuel Robinson, who has taken the traffic census for Sanilac county at this corner three times says that each of these times, he has witnessed an automobile collision.

ARMY AND HANDS BADLY BURNED

Miss Esther Caister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Caister of Evergreen township and a senior in the Cass City high school, had both hands and arms badly burned Saturday afternoon at her home six miles east and one and one-half miles south of Cass City. The injuries came when Miss Caister was lighting ready to prepare supper. She used gasoline in place of kerosene to kindle the fire. Miss Caister considers herself fortunate in not being more seriously injured.

In the divorce case of Johnnie Roy Reams vs. Reida I. Reams, a decree was granted to the plaintiff. Both of these cases were decided on Tuesday.

LANDSCAPE WORK.

O. I. Gregg, landscape specialist, Michigan State College, was in Tuscola county two days and was able to make plans for nine farmsteads. Inasmuch as there were about twenty applications and it was impossible to meet all of them, arrangement has been made so that later in the winter Mr. Gregg will hold a series of four meetings at which people may bring drawings showing the locations and size of the buildings and farm yard and then develop the plans with the assistance which County Agricultural Agent D. B. Jewell can give them. Next spring, four demonstration plantings will be made the same as in previous springs.

JAS. DOERR FAMILY LOCATE IN NEW MEXICO

Mr. and Mrs. James Doerr left their home in Sandusky about a month ago for New Mexico in search of a climate to benefit Mrs. Doerr's health. In a letter written by them to relatives in Cass City, the following paragraphs are gleaned:

Las Vegas, New Mexico. September 14, 1928.

The climate is fine here. It's high and dry—altitude 6200 ft.—and right by the mountains. Every morning the sun is shining, and so dry that it stings your nose, and one's lips get so dry at first. It is neither cold nor hot—cool mornings and evenings, but the sun gets quite hot during the day. They claim it snows here in the night, but when the sun gets up in the morning, it's gone as quickly as it comes. We've had one little shower.

THE INTELLIGENT VOTERS.

It is quite customary for political orators to throw out remarks complimenting the intelligence of their audiences. All which makes the audiences feel very good, and in a favorable state of mind toward the ideas of the speakers.

The American people are intelligent, the most so of all peoples of the world. Yet the number who are really intelligent on politics is probably not as large as it used to be. People have not of late been concentrating their minds on political questions, though during the present campaign there is a temporary revival of interest in these subjects.

People who are very intelligent on questions of a business or personal nature, often know very little on politics, and give little thought or attention to these subjects. They vote the way their grandfathers did, and when new situations arise, they vote the way trusted friends advise them to.

These audiences that are complimented on being intelligent, should not take such flattery too seriously. They might well ask themselves if their intelligence goes so far as to include politics, and if they can make an intelligent choice when they have to decide how to vote.

It is perfectly easy for anyone to become an intelligent voter. The frequent radio talks to be given during this campaign will be heard by more people than ever before, and they will gain in political intelligence. The newspapers are constantly giving the people the fundamentals of political intelligence. If they want to vote in a way to protect their own home and community interest, they should strive to be as intelligent on politics as they are about automobiles or buying goods or running business or watching sports.

IN THIS DANGEROUS AGE.

Although this is the age of scientific improvement, yet it does not seem to grow any safer. As fast as we devise some new method for saving life, new ways of losing our lives are discovered.

The National Safety Council is doing much to train people to meet modern dangers. Its annual congress last year was attended by over 6,000 delegates, and its safety publications and posters go throughout the country. The safety movement has progressed so far that thousands of schools now teach accident prevention to their children, and safety methods are generally introduced in factories.

The motto of the age seems to be, "take a chance." Safety methods help, but people have to learn that gambling with modern perils does not pay.

AMERICA'S WEALTH

The per capita wealth of the American people was recently estimated at $40.52, which would be about $200.00 for the average family. Many people will feel that is a low standard of national wealth, but it is no doubt several times as much as that of any country elsewhere.

Our wealth would be greater, were it not that a large number of people believe it good policy to spend their money as fast as they get it. Even when they are prosperous, the money seems to go, much of it for trifles and non-essentials. They believe in enjoying their money when they have it, and argue that if they postpone such enjoyment until some tomorrow, that to-morrow may never come.

This point of view is not commonly considered wise by the philosophers. But this is a free country. If people prefer to live in a hand to mouth way, and think they get the most happiness on that plan, they have that right.

Community Building

Fire Danger Lessened by Brick Construction

Fire safety is one of the most important considerations to the prospective home builder. No other menace to the average family is quite so great or so pertinent. It is always present. And if the records of the nation's fire losses in recent years are any criterion this danger is on the increase rather than on the decline.

The efficiency of brick construction as a fire preventive is generally conceded. In the case of Fall River, Mass., last February, two common brick fire walls were chiefly responsible for the stoppage of the progress of the flames after they had swept several blocks and inflicted a property damage of something near $6,000,000.

A few weeks earlier at Bay St. Louis, La., a similar fire, but not of such magnitude, was stopped effectively just as it was entering the business section of the city, by the common brick fire wall of a motion picture theater building which fortunately reared several stories above its neighbor buildings. Here, too, the fire had swept across an entire block, fanned by a strong gulf breeze.

The records of the National Board of Fire Underwriters covering a period of five years show that in that period the average loss in brick dwellings, including apartments and tenements where no part of the buildings were used for commercial purposes, were just about one-tenth as great as that in frame dwellings, including in this classification all homes veneered with material other than wood.

With common brick construction so nearly on a par with wood construction in the matter of cost, there is of late a decidedly noticeable tendency on the part of home builders to give greater consideration to fire safety. More and more brick homes are being built.

Garage May Be Made Easy to Look Upon

Did you ever consider how your garage, whether it is attached to your house, or detached, can be made to take on a certain degree of artistry in its appearance with a little effort on your part?

Decorative hardware, for instance, gives a pleasing look to a homely door. This hardware may be in the form of metal trimming, bolts, nail heads, or hinges.

Window boxes along the side windows of a garage give a touch of attractiveness. If awnings are used on the house they can also appear on the garage.

The newer garages are no longer boxlike affairs disfiguring the landscape. And while one may not be able to have an elaborate one, any more than an elaborate house, it may be pleasing and appealing to the eye.

Home-Remodeling Gains

Topeka is the first city in the United States to take up the national movement recently organized in Chicago to encourage remodeling and modernization of old homes. The organization is now practically completed, with approximately forty Topeka business interests aligned with the move, and plans are being made for opening an office with a demonstration room and with a competent man in charge.

Building and loan companies of the country are watching the movement in Topeka with interest because it means a halt in the unnecessary destruction of property and investments when many old substantial homes are torn down rather than modernized.

The plan is to encourage the modernization of old homes, not modern according to present-day standards, but which are of sound construction and worthy of being remodeled. There are said to be approximately 3,000 such homes in Topeka.

Flowering Trees

The Japanese flowering cherry trees blossom annually in the spring, and present a riot of gorgeous colors. During the summer months the green leaves present an appearance equal to the finest shade trees we have. In the fall the trees turn a brilliant scarlet and crimson, making a blaze of color. The Chinese flowering crab apple has been called the "Queen of the Garden." Though not so well known as the cherries, a few of them are decidedly more gorgeous and have no rivals among the flowering trees.

Good Order Appreciated

The old fashioned back yard, littered with tossed-out materials of all sorts and kinds, is fast disappearing. Landscaping is recognized as an important feature of the new as well as the old home, and garden furniture is more and more seen on the moderate sized plot of ground as well as on the vast and costly estate.

Good Business Partners

A skillful painter and good paint are great partners when it comes to putting a paint film on your house—one which is tough, durable, weather-proof and proof also against cracking and scaling.

Scoring the Year's Greatest Success

—because of Distinctive Beauty Thrilling Performance and Amazing Economy

Week after week and month after month the Bigger and Better Chevrolet has swept on to greater and greater heights of popularity—until today it stands acknowledged everywhere as first choice of the nation for 1928!

Never has any Chevrolet enjoyed such overwhelming public acceptance—for never has any low-priced car provided such an outstanding combination of distinctive beauty, thrilling performance and amazing economy!

Its beautiful bodies by Fisher—long, low and racy, and finished in colors that reveal to-day's mode for smartness and individuality—are far in advance of accepted standards in the field of low-priced cars. Inside and out they prove anew that Fisher craftsmanship is a thing apart.

But Chevrolet performance is no less impressive than Chevrolet beauty and style. Never before was a low-priced car so easy to handle—for the steering mechanism is fitted with ball bearings throughout... the clutch and gear-shift lever respond to the slightest touch... and big non-locking 4-wheel brakes give a measure of braking control that is more than equal to every occasion.

Come in and see the car that has won the approval of more than three-quarters of a million buyers since January 1st. Learn for yourself why it is scoring the greatest success of this great automotive year!

NEW FRIENDS FOR OLD

LOTTY BENNETT tapped on the window to the woman who was approaching her house. She had not the least doubt that Laura Wayman was coming to see her, but she wished to let Laura know that she was expected. They had been friends for years. Laura waved her hand lightly, seemed to hesitate and then came in as Lotty eagerly opened the door for her. She was a large, soft-looking woman of matronly carriage with a fondness for wearing faded-looking greens and pinks. At the present moment she was wearing her best hat, gown and wrap and she had a small box in her gloved hand. Lotty, who was small and dark, glanced at the box, wondering what sort of offering Laura had brought her. Past experience had taught her that Laura was always making offerings which, though trivial in themselves, were the expression of an abounding interest and friendliness. "I can't stay a minute," Laura said, dropping down upon the edge of a chair. "How pretty your hyacinth is! Mine has been out a week. I've got a few hermits here in this box for Mrs. Parcell. She's been having quite a time with her stomach."

ple fare set before Lotty. She crumbled her roll and sipped her coffee, meaning to steal away as quickly as possible. On second thought she decided to stay where she was. The instant she arose to go Laura would see her. The easiest way would be to wait until they had passed out. She could see that they were hurrying to get through—that is, Mrs. Parcell was hurrying. Oh, dear, Laura ought not to cram like that. It was not good for her. Lotty felt a pang of distress on Laura's account. The lunch hour began to draw to a close. People arose, moved out. Lotty was watching a stunning woman in a green hat and wishing that she could wear anything but brown or dark blue when a touch fell on her arm. She turned, there was Laura bending over her. "Lotty," Laura said, in a crimson, breathless, mortified way. "I am in such a predicament. I haven't money enough to pay for the lunch. Could you lend me $5?" There was a $5 bill, a $1 bill, two pennies and her return ticket in Lotty's purse. She took out the five and gave it to Laura, who thanked her and hurried away. Lotty paid her bill with the remaining dollar and went out. She had planned to get her a blouse with that five. There was nothing left for her to do but to go down to the station and take the 1:30 train. She sat waiting when Laura bounced in bearing a few small parcels. She made a dive for Lotty and sat down beside her. "I saved enough out of that $5 you loaned me to pay my fare home," she panted. The train came in and they got aboard. Lotty wondered what on earth had become of Mrs. Parcell, but she resolved to ask no questions. Laura, she could see, was terribly excited. "There!" Laura burst out as the train started. "Now I can tell you, Lotty, about that—woman!" "Car broke down?" Lotty asked the easiest question she could think of. "Car hasn't anything to do with it. Let me tell you. She asked me to come here with her today, say a cent. My companionship was all she wanted. Well, my husband gave me $10, all he could spare, and I bought a few things I felt I had to have. I suggested going to the Quick Lunch, but nothing would do we must go to the Rickman. Mrs. Parcell ordered everything she could think of and then she invited me to pay the bill! I was caught—only 36 cents in my purse. My dear, if it hadn't been for you—and your generosity I should have been placed in a most embarrassing position. Mrs. Parcell suggested going to the matinee at the Stone—$2 a seat, and I knew I would be in for that, too. So I retreated—I'm afraid I told a great many fibs, poor Laura wiped her eyes, "but I got away while I could. She had picked up some acquaintances, a woman in a green hat, a Mrs. Swarthmore—I didn't take any fancy to her looks—so I guess she was glad to get rid of me anyway. But, oh, Lotty, how it does feel to be turned down in that way doesn't it?" Lotty glanced at Laura. She saw that Laura had no idea of anything but her own woes. Poor thing! She demanded sympathy. "With a murmured word of understanding Lotty patted her friend's, her restored friend's hand."

Holidays Serve Good Purpose in Education

"Holidays," said Mrs. Jason Lindeman, social worker, "are not merely vacation days. Each has its patriotic reminder and lesson, and, for the young folks especially, picturesures of some of the events that have led to the making of the nation."

"It is for this reason that we launched the crusade to compel factories in certain cities to observe all the legal holidays. It helps in making good citizens. Too many of these sweatshop wafers, telling year in and year out, seven days a week, never heard of Washington, or Lincoln, or Armistice day. How could they?"

"I asked a little colored lad to state what holiday he had in July. "Neber had none," he declared. "Think hard," I insisted. "Of course you had one."

"No'm," he insisted, "Ah don't hab to. Ain't nobody in mah family died fo' a long time."

Generally speaking, a boulevard is a broad city avenue designed for pleasure walking or driving. A new idea is creeping into the word. It carries the meaning of a long, main street upon which traffic has precedence over vehicles approaching from side streets. Originally a boulevard was a fortress or tower rampart, hence a street or walk laid out on the site of such a rampart after its destruction. The English word "bulwark" and the French "boulevard" are derived from the German "bollwerk" or Danish "bulvaerk."

Organized physical culture is making rapid strides in Soviet Russia, the membership having increased in the last year from 2,700,000 to a present enrollment of 3,000,000 persons. The membership is about evenly divided between men and women, while students comprise more than half the total enrollment. Workmen with 22 per cent of the total membership, and office employees, comprising 18 per cent, are the other most important classifications.

Church's Great Periods With much diversity of opinion on minor points, there is a general agreement in dividing the history of the church into three great periods. First Salute to Flag On February 14, 1778, the sloop-of-war Ranger, commanded by John Paul Jones and flying the American flag, sailed into the bay of Biscay, near Quiberon, France, and was greeted by a salute from the guns of a nearby ship. This was the first time in history that the Stars and Stripes had ever been seen and saluted in foreign waters.

Real Tolerance Tolerance means reverence for all the possibilities of Truth; it means acknowledgment that she dwells in diverse mansions, and wears vesture of many colors, and speaks in strange tongues; it means frank respect for freedom; it means frank conscience against mechanic forms, official conventions, social force; it means the charity that is greater than even faith and hope.—Lord Morley. And never break your bread or roll in your soup." Optimism On the eve of his wedding a Vienna bridegroom challenged the best man to a duel. ESSENTIALS FOR PROFITABLE PORK

Normal, healthy parents, clean farrowing pens, and proper feeding and management of the lactating sow are necessary to profitable pork production. By the time the pigs are two or three weeks old they will show a desire to eat something besides milk, says Edgar Martin, University of Arkansas. This desire should be satisfied with good pasture and a suitable grain mixture, remembering that skim milk and buttermilk are very high in protein and are, therefore, an excellent growing feed for the rapidly developing pigs. Along with a suitable quantity and quality of feed, including the mother's amount of exercise, preferably at pasture and in sunshine. The greatest mistakes made in raising young pigs are underfeeding and underexercising. If small pigs are furnished an abundance of exercises at pasture, and given the proper feeds, overfeeding is not likely to occur until after weaning time. Pigs being developed for breeders should not be allowed to become too fat. This is accomplished by hand feeding and governing the allowance by the condition of the future breeders, always giving an abundance of exercise, pasture, shade in summer, water, protein of the right quality, and minerals. Pigs to be sold on the market should be full-fed from birth until weighed to the butcher, and the self-feeder is probably the best method.

Hog Feeding Floor Is Beneficial to Animals

If a hog feeding floor is located on the south or east side of the hog house, the animals will be protected from cold winds and will also receive a maximum amount of sunlight. Where the ground for the floor may be laid directly on the soil, after it has been levelled and firmly compacted, and all refuse has been removed. If the drainage is poor, however, a six-inch fill of cinders or gravel is recommended. The concrete used for feeding floors is made with five and one-half gallons of water to the sack of portland cement. In most cases a suitable concrete can be made with 2 cubic feet of sand and three of pebbles or crushed rock to a sack of cement. If this mixture is too dry, use less sand and stone, if it is sloppy or wet, add more of these materials. The concrete is placed in alternate sections, each of which is ten feet square. As soon as these sections have hardened, the intermediate ones are placed. If the floor is sloped slightly in one direction, it will drain quickly after rain. A curb placed on three sides of the floor will prevent the hogs from pushing their feed into the ground, where it will be wasted.

Need Less Protein to Grow and Fatten Hogs

Less feed, and especially less protein, is needed to grow and fatten hogs when good pasture is provided. But experiments show that to make the cheapest gains, unless corn is high, the hogs should have plenty of feed and some supplement such as skim milk or tankage along with even the best of pastures. Estimates of the amount of pork an acre of forage will produce range between 240 and 600 pounds depending on the amount and method of feeding. All of them show that there is very little gain while on pasture unless they get some grain with it. It is usually more economical to give a daily feed of three pounds of grain and supplements combined for each 100 pounds of live weight. A quarter of a pound of tankage or its equivalent in milk products to a hog each day when they are getting plenty of grain on pasture will make fast and cheap gains and save grain.

Live Stock Notes

It is very important to keep feed for little pigs fresh and clean to prevent scours. It may sometimes be better to fatten thin stockers up to the butcher class than selected feeders up to prime beef. It costs more per pound to fatten a steer than the extra flesh will sell for. Consequently the selling price for the whole carcass must be enough greater per pound to pay the loss on the added flesh and make a profit. Self-feeders and automatic waterers also have an important place in modern systems of swine sanitation. They are particularly adapted to feeding pigs on pasture. Individual steel troughs in the hog house are much easier to clean than wooden containers and help to prevent disease and worm infestation. Hogs usually eat less tankage from a self-feeder than they do if the supplement is hand-fed, while self-feeders are ideal for feeding minerals.

2. Baseball was his favorite college sport, and he proved an expert at the strategy of the game.

3. His first field work as an engineer apprentice was in the Ozark Mountains, during college vacation.

4. While working his way through college he met Lou Henry, now Mrs. Hoover. She promised to wait.

PICTORIAL LIFE OF HERBERT HOOVER

No. 8

By Satterfield

1. After college, Hoover studied the practical side of mining with pick and shovel in Nevada.

2. Promoted to be a field engineer, he made good at a variety of jobs in the sage brush.

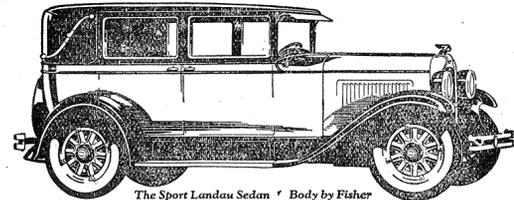

3. He was sent to Australia to organize a group of mines there along American lines.

4. While at his desk in Australia there came a call to China. This appealed to Hoover's imagination.

Product of PRECISION CONSTRUCTION In America's Most Modern Plant

Today's Pontiac Six is built in America's most modern automobile plant—a vast daylight factory erected less than two years ago. Here are special machines, special processes and special methods of precision control far surpassing the accepted practice. Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin. The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because you get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

ROOM SUFFICIENTLY ATTRACTIVE FOR BOY

The Osnaburg Couch Cover in This Boy's Room Is Especially Practical.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A boy wants a room sufficiently attractive to bring his friends to, and sufficiently plain to seem masculine and businesslike. He will leave all the pastel colors, fussy draperies and light-weight, decorative furniture to his sister, in favor of surroundings that will stand a little friendly "rough-house" or pillow fighting once in a while, and require very little care or attention. A good many boys enjoy the feeling of order and neatness about them, but at the same time they are quite likely to throw themselves down on a couch or bed to read or study without thinking to remove their dusty boots. A "dressed-up" looking bed that prevents a boy from using it in this way may be enough to keep him out of his room entirely. Osnaburg was selected by the bureau of home economics for the couch cover in this boy's room, to match a slip cover on an easy chair and plain window hangings. Osnaburg is a natural-colored rather coarse cotton material that has recently become known for household furnishings. It has a slightly irregular weave which is artistic and attractive, and it can be laundered easily. If preferred in darker shades, it takes dye well. To relieve the plainness of the couch cover and draperies, bands of bright-colored cretonne have been used. One of the cushions is covered with osnaburg and cretonne. The simplicity of the other furnishings in the room is in keeping with a boy's taste. Enameled furniture with plain lines was chosen because it could be easily kept clean. The book rack and desk light are compact and convenient for study. Suitable pictures have been selected. The washable rag rug for the otherwise bare varnished floor is appropriate.

DRESS FOR PLAY OR SCHOOL WEAR

Most Little Children Love New and Pretty Things.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A few new school dresses are needed by every child in the fall, whether because of unexpected growth during vacation, or because of a depleted wardrobe, or just because most little girls love new and pretty things, especially when starting out in a new class with a new teacher, and perhaps some other new conditions. At the beginning of fall and winter these school dresses are most practical if made with long sleeves. In many climates cotton wash fabrics are preferred for school wear throughout the year, until the children reach the upper grades, and even in the colder states cotton may be worn late into the fall until the last "Indian summer" interval is over and the first snow is on the ground. This little school dress of blue cotton pongee was chosen by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture as a very practical style. Call it a "smock" dress if it will make the little girl happily to have a garment corresponding to mother's or big sister's. It is trimmed with a printed material of blue, rose, and black, on a white background. The collar and the trimming on the pockets carry out the scalloped design of the front. Slashes at right angles to the armhole in both front and back give a yoke effect and are a means of adding fullness. Set-in sleeves are required for this style. Straight-legged panties to match rather than bloomers are used. They add to the simplicity of the whole effect. They may be made by taking enough width from the bloomer pattern so that no gathers are required. Any commercial bloomer dress pattern with set-in sleeves and a plain shoulder may be adapted to this style by simply cutting extra width toward the underarm seam from the point where the slash is made. Little dresses that open down the front are so easy to put on and take off that they can be planned for very tiny girls between two and three who are learning to dress themselves. Like all coat-style dresses, this one is easily ironed.

TRAPPING HOUSE FLIES MADE EASY

Logical Method of Control Is to Prevent Breeding.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

While the logical method of fly control is to prevent the multiplication of these pests by proper disposal of or treatment of their breeding places, some degree of control can be maintained by the use of traps. Both the house fly and blowflies may be captured in traps, according to the entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture, but the character of the bait and the location of the traps are important considerations in trapping the different kinds of flies. Farmers' Bulletin 734-F, "Flytraps and Their Operation," by F. C. Bishop of the bureau of entomology of the department, gives directions for constructing a number of different kinds of traps, the same general principle being used in all these flytraps though they appear to be different. The flies are attracted into a cage through a passage, the entrance of which is large and the exit small. Once inside there is little chance that the flies will find the way out.

Light is an important factor in the success of all flytraps because flies have a tendency to go toward the light, after having been attracted beneath it by the odor of the bait or after entering a room in search of food. It is important to use a bait suitable for the kind of flies to be caught. For house flies, a mixture of cheap cane molasses with three times as much water is one of the most effective and economical baits to use. Blowflies are more readily attracted by animal matter. Around slaughter houses, markets, and butcher shops where blowflies are troublesome, such baits as mucous membranes which form the linings of intestines of cattle or hogs are suitable. A copy of the bulletin may be obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Different Juicy Fruits Used for Summer Ices
Blackberries, raspberries, strawberries, and any other juicy fruits may be used to make summer ices, suggests the bureau of home economics. The proportions below will be found satisfactory. If more acid is preferred in any ice, lemon juice is added.

2 1/2 cups fruit on juice, strained
juice 1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water 1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons lem-

Crush the fruit and heat it for about 2 minutes, meanwhile stirring and pressing so that the juice runs freely. Strain through a thick layer of cheesecloth and to the juice add the sugar, water, lemon juice, and salt. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, and pour into a freezer. Use a freezing mixture of 1 part salt to 4 or 6 of ice. Turn the crank of the freezer slowly. After freezing remove the dasher, pack the freezer with more ice and salt, and let the fruit ice stand for an hour or more to ripen. This will make about 1 quart.

Place for Equipment
Keep all household equipment off the floor as much as possible. Put a screw-eye in the tip of the handles of brushes and brooms and let them hang instead of stand on the floor.

Lesson for September 23

THE CHRISTIAN BASIS OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE

Temperance Lesson.
LESSON TEXT—1 Cor. 8:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let no man seek his own but every man another's wealth.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Helping Others to Keep God's Law.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Helping Others to Keep God's Law.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Abstinence for the Sake of Others.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Standard of Social Conduct.

In this section of Scripture Paul is bringing to view the great doctrine of Christian liberty and forbearance. The occasion of this teaching was the uncertainty as to the right attitude for Christians to take toward things sacrificed unto idols.

I. The Idol is Nothing (vv. 1-6)
Intelligent people know that an idol is nothing but a piece of timber or stone. They know that there is only one God, the creator and sustainer of all things. Since an idol has no real existence, the eating of such meat is a matter of indifference. It should be borne in mind that the principle stated in this section has reference to things which are in themselves wrong. Strictly speaking, therefore, this teaching cannot be applied to indulgence in intoxicating liquors. To do so would be a perversion of Paul's meaning. The indulgence in intoxicating liquors, the use of tobacco, etc., are things wrong in themselves because they injure the human body.

II. Not All Christians Have Maturity of Discernment (vv. 7, 8).
Uninstructed Christians were still possessed of the conviction that an idol was really a living and powerful being. For those persons to sit down to a social meal where such meat was eaten would be to expose themselves to the liability of being brought again under bondage to their sins.

III. The Christian's Behavior in Such Cases (vv. 9-13).
1. He should take heed lest his liberty become a stumbling block (v. 9).
2. Liberty must be curtailed for the sake of the weak brother (vv. 10, 11).
3. To disregard this is to sin against our brethren (v. 13).
To disregard our brother's interest is to sin against Christ, for it is sinning against the one for whom Christ died. To place a stumbling block in the way of the believer is a terrible crime. In enforcing this, three important considerations are brought out:

(1) The fate of the weak brother (v. 11).
He perishes. Human sympathy, let alone Christian love, would cause a man to give consideration to his conduct lest he cause such a loss.

(2) The relation of the man to his slayer. He is his brother.
(3) What Christ did for the "weak brother."

Christ died for him; therefore to sin against a brother is to sin against Christ, because the brother is a member of Christ's body.

IV. The Teaching Illustrated in Paul's Life (ch. 9).
At Corinth Paul worked with his own hands lest his mission to them should be misjudged. While he vigorously contended for his right to ask for support of them, he refrained from asking. By means of his own labors and the donations which he received from the Macedonian churches he was able to boast that he had not been chargeable to them.

V. The Teaching Applied (10:23-33).
1. Christians may indulge in lawful things only as they are expedient and unto edification (v. 23).
2. Let no man seek his own, but each his neighbor's good (v. 24).
The principle of love is unselfishness.

3. Whether therefore ye eat or drink, do all to the glory of God (v. 31).
The Christian is not at liberty to do that upon which he could not ask God's blessing.

4. Give no occasion for anyone to stumble (v. 32).
We should so live that no one can ever say that we have been the occasion of his downfall.

5. Follow the example of Jesus Christ (11:1).
Christ gave up all for the sake of others.

The Road of Good Works
The road of good works is blocked by our past sins, and it is sure to be further blocked by our future sins; we ought, therefore, to rejoice that God has commended to us the open road of faith.—Spurgeon.

Thank God
Thank God for a gospel that sings itself into our daily lives, and that bids us sing away sorrow and care! Sin has no such hymns.—Clarence Eberman.

"Organized Vice" and War System Greatest Enemies of the American Home

By JUDGE FLORENCE E. ALLEN, Ohio Supreme Court.

Two great forces are threatening the American home; organized vice and crime and the war system. The home will never be really safe until organized vice and crime take their fingers off the throat of government and until the so-called Christian nations delegatize the institution of organized warfare.

The home is the root of all good things and I appeal to college graduates to join the movement to outlaw war and destroy the alliance between government and the underworld.

The home itself cannot be properly protected unless our governmental institutions are established upon the principles of justice. Chicago shows how the home is threatened when there is an alliance between government and the underworld.

DAIRY FACTS

DAIRYMEN SHOULD DIVERSIFY FARMS

In a study of dairy farms in the Chenango Valley region of New York state, it is proved that it is dangerous for dairymen "to carry all their eggs in one basket," said J. C. Neethling of the agricultural economic department at the New York State College of Agriculture.

"Farmers who rely on dairying alone make smaller labor incomes than farmers receiving part of their incomes from crops and poultry. Cash crops may cause losses in years of unfavorable yields or low prices, but over a five-year period farms growing cash crops gained by it. Farmers deriving less than 10 per cent of their income from crops made a labor income of $238. Those deriving more than 25 per cent from crops made $1,447 labor income.

Silage Most Succulent Feed for Dairy Cattle

Silage is the best succulent feed for dairy cattle. Silage makes possible the feeding of a relatively cheap succulent feed which can be furnished during any period of the year. The high moisture content of silage causes it to be relatively low in food value, and low in protein content, but is a good carbohydrate feed. Silage is equal to roots and green crops as a feed, and is much cheaper because it requires less labor.

Right Richness of Cream Secured From Separator

Adjust the cream screw of the separator so as to secure cream testing about 35 to 45 per cent fat. Low-testing cream sours and spoils more rapidly than high-testing cream, so that by the time it reaches the cream-plant it is often in condition unfit to be made into good butter. It also makes difficult accurate sampling and testing. It is unjestable further, because it diminishes the amount of skim milk available for the feeding of calves and pigs; it increases the cost of transportation for every pound of butter-fat shipped; it makes impracticable the use of a reasonable amount of starter in the creamery, and starter is essential for the production of the best quality of butter; it does not churn out exhaustively and yields an excessive amount of buttermilk, augmenting the loss of fat and thereby reducing the churn yield.

Dairy Notes

- Feeding the dairy calf requires care and judgment, especially the first month of its life. The robber cow—the unsuspected bandit of the herd—is the dairymen's most serious competitor. Dairymen who feed high protein feeds may add more fertility to the soil through manure than is taken out by crops. Is your cream separator losing money for you? The best way to answer this question is to have a sample of the skim milk tested for butter-fat at your local creamery or cream station. The dairy cow is a most important factor in the economics of dairy farm management. A good dairy cow probably consumes more water than any other domestic animal. The more feed consumed, the more water the cow requires. If the ground is weedy, it is often better to plant the soy beans in rows so that they can be cultivated. When planted in this manner the beans may be kept cleaner than when sown broadcast.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Henry Deming. Mrs. Henry Deming passed away at her home in Elmwood township Monday night at 12:30. The funeral service, conducted by Rev. P. J. Allured, was held at the family home Thursday afternoon. Interment was made in Elkland cemetery.

Mary McLeish was born at Springbank, Ont., Feb. 3, 1854, and united in marriage with Henry Deming on March 25, 1886. They resided at Oscoda, Mich., two years and then homesteaded a farm near Bay Port. They lived there until Feb. 1, 1897, when they moved to their farm at Cedar Run Corners in Elmwood township.

Besides the husband, she leaves four children, Mrs. James Uren and Ernest Deming, both of Detroit, and Mrs. Wm. Ware and Howard Deming of Cass City, two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Blakney of Duluth, Minn., and Mrs. Wm. Minielly of Forest, Ont., and three brothers, Alex, John and Wm. McLeish of Parkhill and Strathroy, Ont., and a foster brother, W. J. McLeish of Toledo, Ohio, besides many other relatives.

Mrs. James Hillis.

Mrs. James Hillis passed away at the home of her son, George Rohrbach, in Cass City on Wednesday morning, Sept. 19, at the age of 82 years. Funeral services will be conducted this (Friday) afternoon at the Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. P. J. Allured, and interment will be made in Elkland cemetery. Hester Jane Nichols was born in Indiana Sept. 28, 1846. In 1868, she was married to George Rohrbach. She was the mother of six children—three sons and three daughters. Those who survive her are George Rohrbach of Cass City and Chas. Omar Rohrbach of Sandy Lake, Manitoba. Mr. Rohrbach's death occurred in 1887. The family resided in Logan county, Ohio, for nine years, after which they lived in Jasper county, Missouri for six years, moving from there to Norfolk county, Ontario.

In 1890, Mrs. Rohrbach was married to James Hillis. After his death in 1899, she returned to Ohio where she remained with relatives until three years ago when she came to Cass City to make her home with her son, George. She united with the Presbyterian church in her girlhood and was an active worker in that society as long as her health and strength permitted.

JAMES DOERR FAMILY LOCATED IN NEW MEXICO

Concluded from first page. since we came. Everything is irrigated to make it grow, and you don't see many green lawns unless they are watered an hour or so each day. Living is one-third or more higher than at home. We have a Mexican girl working for us and pay her $3.50 a week, but she eats enough to make $10.00, and what she can't eat, she takes home to her mother. She iron's quite nicely and does all the work except cooking. Jim does the cooking and managing the house, and he certainly does well. We were all somewhat bothered by the high altitude at first, but feel improved now. Harold and Jeanne are in school, but do not like it very well—other children are too rough. There are fine school buildings and churches, and plenty of them. I think there are four schools. The minister of the Methodist church has called on us twice and is very friendly; in fact, all the people are friendly. There's an old town and a new town, and we are in the latter. It is mostly made up of people from different states; usually because a member of the family has come to regain health, and liked it so well they stayed. We met a man whose health was very poor, and after four months here, he went to work and he now weighs about 200 pounds. I suppose you would like to know something of this wild west country, and it's certainly what I call wild. We had lovely roads until about 35 miles from Manhattan, Kansas, then we hit gravel as they call it, but we would call part of it just dirt, and some pretty rough spots too. We ran over numerous snakes on the way and saw lots of rabbits. One can drive for miles and miles and not see a person or house as far as you could see—nothing but barren country. When we did see a ranch, it would be away from the road, and surrounded by trees, as though afraid someone might see them. Colorado was the same. The towns were all right, but when you'd start out again, it would be the same thing over again. We drove through the sand hills in Colorado, and all you could see was hills—perhaps a small tree now and then. Sometimes we wouldn't even meet another car; anyone liking the open country, should certainly come west. We stayed in Trinidad Sunday night and while we were waiting for our supper, a bunch of baseball boys came into the hotel, and they surely wanted everyone to know they had won. One played the piano, some had mouth-organs, and others took their comb and put paper over them, and still others kept time on their plates and glasses with the silverware. When their meal was served, they had wine, whisky and beer, and were still having a wonderful time when we left. It seemed like a real Wild West. If they had done that at home, the sheriffs would all have been out. We left Trinidad Monday and crossed the passe (25 miles across). It's a part of the Rockies and has some good grades and curves, and would be dangerous if a person unaccustomed to it didn't have their cars in gear. Then we landed in this wonderful state, just as barren and open as the others. We saw lots of covered wagons—when would they ever get anywhere, for it seemed to take us ages to get through this desert land. The people here think it great, but I certainly think it the other way. You should see the real cowboys with their high heeled boots, fancy tops, bright shirts and wide rimmed hats. Most of them are fellows the size of Jim. You always know when they are coming, because their heels click on the pavement. I didn't bring my camera, but I don't think I could get much scenery outside the town—just open fields. A woman and her two daughters from New York followed us for quite a distance, and the girls were terribly homesick. They were driving through to California, but thought they would turn back after crossing the passe. They said it was too much like No Man's Land.

MAE, JIM AND FAMILY.

Respect for Those in Authority Important Factor in Good Citizenship

By BRIG. GEN. FRANK T. HINES, Director Veterans' Bureau.

IF THIS Republic is to continue as a great nation, it is necessary that a greater interest in public affairs and a greater appreciation of the value of citizenship be developed among the people. There can be no compromise in our standard of citizenship, no dilution in the quality of our Americanism and no depreciation of its value, without correspondingly lowering the standard of American government and weakening its powers of defense in time of emergency. Disregard of law, ridicule of congress, the judiciary and men in high public office all tend to destroy that confidence in those responsible for the machinery of government, which, if carried to extremes, will bring about evils detrimental to the very foundations of good government. Too little importance is now placed upon the initial impression given to the children of America, and too little care is taken that those who make the first impressions are themselves of the proper type to teach. The teachers of the youth of America should have the true ideas of America, although it may be that too much is expected of teachers for the compensation and position awarded them. Young America should be taught to love America, to support its Constitution and its laws; to learn that the violations of its laws is to trample upon all that is good and is distinctive of those high ideals fought for by the fathers of our nation. Next to love of country should come the respect for our institutions; respect for those who are charged with the responsibility of government. How can we expect that the proper spirit of citizenship will prevail if we are to ridicule those charged with the making as well as the execution of our laws? It is of equal importance, of course, that those selected for public service should inspire that confidence essential to demand proper respect.
