DISAPPOINTED LOSERS.

A lady who was disappointed in a certain result of the recent election, says that she is never going to vote again. The women are not the only are beaten. Many men always used to say that politics was so corrupt that Thursday until Sunday with their they would never vote at all. Such people fail to see that by abstaining from voting they defeat themselves.

If a person is beaten in an election, the thing for that person to do is to keep on voting, hoping that in time it will be possible to accomplish the results held in view. When people give up voting because they lose an election, they help keep in power the people of whom they disapprove.

Skepticism

The infidel writer is a great enemy to society.-Knox.

NORTHWESTERN gale swept dry snow around the corner where old Joe sold papers. Shoppers in heavy wraps hurried past, arms loaded with bundles. Children skipped in anticipatory happiness. Old Joe pulled his worn sack coat about him and fastened it tighter with a piece of wire. His hands, in dirty outing mittens, were cold. He knocked the backs of them together gingerly and stamped his feet feebly on the icy walk.

"Paper! Evening Journal! Paper?" he droned monotonously. Mentally he figured his gain. Enough for a fifteen cent bed and sandwiches, maybe. But, tomorrow's being Christmas, nobody'd buy papers. He wanted to get enough. to buy a little something to-his old face took on a foolish and shamed grin-maybe to make him happy and help him to forget just what an old beggar he was. Then, he wouldn't have to eat so much either. A vagabond. That's what he was. Never been much else-for years.

"Well, hello, Santa Claus!" a young man's voice hailed merrily. Old Joe turned. "Paper?"

Old Joe grinned sheepishly behind his beard. "Wanna paper?" he asked. "I say, Fran!" the youth exclaimed, "Here's our Christmas!" He drew her farther away and whispered. They returned. "Hey! How'd you like to come to our house for Christmas?"

They talked some time before they convinced old Joe that they meant day, formal day and evening. it. Too cold to be proud, he even submitted to the bath and hair cut that Jack paid for. In a suit too small for Jack's father, Joe came abashed into the kitchen and ate. "You see, Fran's my sister," ex-town. It was late. Joe was given some corner of Jack's long room. Painfully, he raised and listened. "Hey you-Uncle George! Gosh, I'm sick!"

"Wh-Whar'd Ye Git This?" He Demanded.

Jack moaned. Old Joe turned the light on as he was told and called Frances. She wailed. "I can't come! I'm sick. I've been trying to call some one."

The next morning, the doctor on his second call, turned to an old man with a neatly trimmed beard and a clean nurse here. It was something they closet, wide-eyed, carrying not a case ye git this?" he demanded, hands trembling.

"Oh, that's why we call you Uncle to-er-sort of tease Dad. That's his brother, George. He ran away supposition. when he was young. Nobody's heard of him since. Dad says he was smart and sure to make his mark somewhere. One of these days, he says, Uncle George will drive up in a Rolls-Royce with enough hundred dollar bills to paper our house. Dad's actually proud of him. We are, rather, too. But we call-er-different fellows 'Uncle George' to make Dadwell, you see-" Jack stopped in embarrassment.

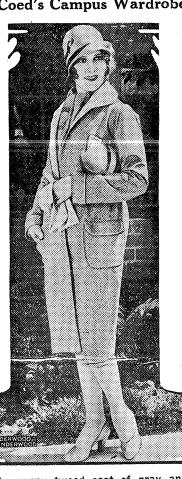

Old Joe nodded. "Wall, I gotta be goin'!"

"Wait! There's some money in my case. I want to pay you." "Naw, jest come down an' buy papers of me ef you wanna help. I'm a gonna start savin' up to buy a told himself. (©, 1928, Western Newspaper Union.)

Tweed Fashionable for Coed's Campus Wardrobe

A snappy tweed coat of gray and black mixture is an excellent selection for the college girl's campus wardrobe. A harmonizing scarf is worn tie fashion at the neck and a gray felt hat uses a crystal pin for trimming.

Season's Furs Varied

in Both Color, Style

The different skins being used for the winter's fur wraps are now worked to be so supple and so varied in colors that they almost possess the light and modish qualities of material. If one includes leather coats, four quite essential different kinds of fur coats are shown—for sports, informal

For sports and rain the brown, black, navy, green or red smoothed skin coat of kid or of box calf lined throughout with beaver, dyed susliky, colored taupe or moleskin, is generally cut straight, double-breasted with plained Jack. "The folks went off on slit pockets or with large outside their Christmas spree and left us pockets if the coat is belted. Max trims some of these coats with inserted designs of leather pieces.

The formal daytime street coat is being shown in shaved lamb, goat or blankets and put on a cot in the in short-haired furs like pony skin. It also appears in caracul, not only in In the night Joe wakened suddenly, black but also in a medium warm brown tone. In addition to this some new furs, like bichette, young kid and shaded natural seal, are employed for that type of coat.

For formal or elegant afternoon wear over chiffon velvet or silk dresses, colored ermine shown in beige, maroon glace, brown and in gray is in high favor, as is also baby lamb, not only in black but also in golden brown trimmed with dyed astrakhan or polecat. Peruvian chinchilla is also widely used.

For evening white ermine cloaks and capes faced with bright-colored velvets are suitable for white or pastel-colored evening frocks.

Many fur coats are of a rather staple type; they are still cut to hang straight despite a perceptible flared movement, but some of the more elaborate models have a wide-flared movement on the sides of the skirt or at the front opening which is sometimes underlined by a bell effect on the forearm. These coats, as well as many evening models, oftentimes present a hemline that droops slightly at the en" is today a term of courtesy. For wool is mixed with so many foreign materials-rayon, metal, silk, angora, cotton, and what not-that the original strain is sometimes almost obscured. The latest of such admixtures is feathers. Yes, nothing more nor less! It is white feathers which Joe popped rheumatically out of the Mayer, one of the greatest of French fabric fanciers, has woven into a new but an old enlargement. "Wh-Whar'd woolen called duvelia. The result is to make some unsophisticated friend cry, "Oh, look, you've got lint all over your frock!" For, indeed, these fine George. You see, it's a habit we have bits of white sprinkled all over the surface of a dark cloth encourage the Speaking in general, all woolens seem much easier to match than ever before. This is because a new range of colors includes all those soft and bright tones we are accustomed to associating with silk. As a result it is no trick at all to get one's silk frock in exactly the tone of one's wool

Hat Notes From Paris

Tell of Late Fashions Hats with a brim at the back are very uncomfortable when worn with a coat with a full fur collar and for this reason the turban will continue to be popular. One designer is showing a novel form of the close turban in a tightlyfitting cap of jersey with a tiny bit of fullness at one side of the crown and a rounded tab over one ear. Worn with a scarf of the same material, this is an ideal hat for the motor trip or ocean voyage, or for general sports wear, youthful and becoming, and as smart as smart can be.

An Armful of Gifts at Very Little Cost---

Thanksgiving being so late in the month this year, and the weather so warm, it is hard to realize that we only have eighteen days before Santa will put in his appearance. As the years pass by, the conditions change, the method of doing things changes and so has the Christmas Gift proposition changed—the old desire and ambition to give and receive luxurious and useless articles has changed to useful and serviceable gifts—which, of course, we will admit, is the most

The Store Full of Useful Gifts.

This store has in store for you many different useful articles for your Christmas Gifts, whether it is a ten cent gift or a $59.00 one, we have it. We have put forth every effort possible to have out on display as many articles as possible, but if you do not see what you desire, ask for it, and we will gladly see if we have it on the shelves.

BRAND NEW PONTIAC COMINGS

N KEEPING with its policy of progress, Oakland has for months been working on a new Pontiac Six. It is more than a refinement of its famous predecessors. It is essentially a brand new car from beginning to end.

Details will be announced later. But this much can be said now. This new Pontiac will represent an even greater innovation today than the first Pontiac represented in 1926! Without departing from the lowprice field, it will bring to this field finecar elements of style, performance and luxury never before provided in a car so inexpensive to buy!

The Case of the Day-Coach Passenger versus the Elimination of the Pullman Surcharge BOLITION of the Pullman Surcharge is once more being urged

A for passage by the Congress of the United States. A DOPTION of the Robinson (Senate) Bill involves direct losses to the railroads in revenues aggregating $40,000,000 per annum and this loss of necessity will have to be made up in some manner. There are three

(1) Increased passenger rates for all passengers whether in the day coach or in the Pullman or Parlor Cars. (2) Restricting passenger service on certain lines.

(3) Charging this expense to the shippers of freight. ANY one of these three expedients is undesirable, unfair from the community standpoint, and not in the best interests of society as a whole.

AFTER all the Pullman service—for passengers traveling in sleeping or parlor cars,—is a high class hotel service on wheels, that a great part of the traveling public does not demand nor expect.

THE surcharge—the 50 per cent. additional—tacked on to the regular ▲ Pullman charge—is the special revenue derived by the railroads for the performing of special service to the passengers who want to travel in extra comfort and luxury. Such passengers require:

A heavier capital investment in cars per capita.

Two and one half times the space that is allotted to the passenger

An average of twelve thousand two hundred and sixty pounds of car as against 8,800 pounds per passenger riding in day coaches. Parking of Pullman cars before train departure from and after arrival at the terminals involving considerable extra work and heavier terminal costs and requiring the holding, for that purpose only, of the railroads' highest-priced lands in the larger cities.

Pullman cars being often moved one way, empty—as for instance, in the California and Florida service, which means a double road haul for one fare and in many cases to take care of these movements, cars have to be hauled extra distances.

Railroads having to guarantee earnings on every line of Pullman cars operated and contracting for their use over a period of years.

ALL of these obligations are extra expenses upon the railroads which are not involved in the handling of day coach passengers.

TT IS a principle of good business and good government to make the Luser of a service pay for that special service. That is followed in the higher charge for air mail as against the ordinary service.

THE Interstate Commerce Commission has twice refused to abolish the surcharge as being contrary to the basic principle of the greatest good to the greatest number, the guiding standard of all of that body's decisions. The Interstate Commerce Commission is a properly constituted court that represents the interests of all the people. Why should its decisions be upset for the benefit of the few to the prejudice of the interests of the many.

Write your senator or congressman to-day protesting against this unfair and uneconomic legislation

NI IARK! the Herald Angels sing, 'Glory to the new-born King!'" The Christmas chimes were pealing overhead as Mrs. Peggy Walton hurried past the great department store.

A lump rose in Peggy's throat. Her eyes grew misty. She wondered if all these hurrying Christmas shoppers heard those chimes and felt as she did. Their faces gave no evidence of emotion; but neither did hers, Peggy assured berself.

Communing with herself Peggy thought of other Christmas shopping expeditions when all was joy and anticipation. But that was when Bob was little and the four grandparents and two aunts were all coming for the holiday festivities to the big brick house in the little town. Now Bob was twenty-one, the grandparents had passed away-Grandmother Walton and Grandmother Prentiss had gone just a short time apart the past summer. The two aunts felt as Peggy did, that Christmas memories would be less poignant if they didn't try to have the customary reunion. And instead of the big brick house with its cheery fireplaces, in the friendly little town, they lived in an apartment in the city. Not much Christmas atmosphere about an apartment Peggy reflected.

But something must be done about Christmas for Bob's sake, if for no other reason. It wouldn't seem much like Christmas for Bob to come home from college to just her and Dad.

Peggy had passed beyond the sound of the chimes, but between shopping It is this calss that made up the ventures her mind dwelt constantly on this Christmas problem and what she could do. All their friends had their own families at Christmas, just as they had had theirs until this year.

That brought her back again to the little town and the many changes that had taken place even in the short time they had been gone. Other homes besides theirs would miss the older generation this Christmas. Peggy began enumerating them in her mind.

There was Judge Hatford who had done so much for them when the first break had come and her own father had passed away, and even last summer when her mother, too, had gone, it was Judge Hatford who had taken the sting from the legal aspects. Yet, it was but a few weeks later when he also had been laid to rest in the little cemetery on the hill; then there was genial, courtly Mr. Morrow, and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, separated from each other but a brief month, and Mr. and Mrs. Dawson—Peggy stopped in her the following story of his novel trip: summary. Why hadn't she thought of the Dawsons before? There was Fred load my calf for Cleveland?" I asked. morning hour of worship will be de-Dawson, and Katharine, and their little boy Dick, and Katharine's younger sister, Mary; they, too, must be looking forward to Christmas with sorcome from the far-off city to the home in the litle town for the holidays and now there was no home to which to come.

"It's worse for them than for us. I'll write them at once," Peggy decided. "They're just what we need. We always enjoy Fred and Katharine. And there's little Dick, bless his heart; a child is what we want to revive the Christmas spirit."

Again Peggy found herself within mearing of the Christmas chimes: I "Joy to the world" was ringing. forth as she approached the department store on her homeward way. But there was no lump in her throat this time and her eyes were clear and starry as she gaily hastened along. planning for others and winning for herself A Merry Christmas.

The music department has organized three groups of girls glee club totalling nearly fifty girls in all. "Yes sir," I answered. "How long before we are going to load up?" "Right away. They are warming up the plane now."

In just a few minutes there came an awful roaring outside as the plane came toward the waiting rooms.

"All ready, bring the calf to the plane," came the order. After the clicking of the cameras had stopped, I led Beauty into the plane. She didn't seem to mind i and started looking for something to eat. We taxied across the field. Then after another roar from the engines, we started. For the first 20 minutes, we flew 500 feet high and after that we gradually raised to about 1,000 feet. The three of us had a funny sensation as we left the ground, or at least Mr. Campbell and I did, and probably if Beauty could talk, she would have said the same thing. We were traveling about 110 miles per hour at a height of 1,000 feet when we noticed a large tract of trees below us. "We are now going Charles Sherwood Stratton. It looked more like a berry patch than a number of trees. Monroe is noted for its large nurseries.

"Watch for a plane on your left," said one of the pilots. Then the plane began tipping from one side to the other. We thought something had gone wrong, but the mechanic told us Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Willy. they had to signal every plane by tipping three times.

After flying along for quite a few minutes watching the farms and little towns go by, I noticed a large group of buildings that seemed to be almost alike. "What are all those buildings?" I asked. "That is Camp Perry, one of the aviation schools, was the answer. "Down below is Sandusky and over to your left is Cedar Point, the famous summer resort." "How much longer before we get there?" asked Mr. Campbell. His for we began going closer to the earth and right in front of us was the airport. There we were met by a new Reo speedwagon and more newspaper men than I thought existed. While the newspaper men were tåking pictures, we loaded Beauty from the plane into the truck and started for the show which was about 12 miles from the airport. We had just unloaded Beauty, when Jim Milligan and all the rest of the gang came with their truck of steers. We stayed there until after they had sold all of the steers Wednesday night then we took the boat to Detroit and from Detroit to Cass City by bus, arriving just in time for Thanksgiving
