In Fit of Bitterness, Inhaled Illuminating Gas at Flint Friday.

In a fit of bitterness toward his wife, who had caused his arrest on a charge of assault and battery, Albert Rohrbach committed suicide in a rented room by inhaling illuminating gas Friday at Flint.

Albert Rohrbach, son of George Rohrbach of Cass City, was born July 16, 1899, in Ontario. He came to Cass City with his parents when a boy, living here until about five years ago, when he went to Flint. He was married to Miss Alice Louise Griffin August 27, 1925. To this union one son, Clifford, was born.

Funeral services were held Monday at the funeral home of William Loss at Flint and the body brought to Cass City for burial in Elkland cemetery. Rev. Douglas of Flint officiated.

He leaves besides his wife and son, Clifford, two years old, his father, George Rohrbach, of Cass City, one brother, Emanuel of Caro and one sister, Mrs. Melzer Thane of Reese.

TAKES MOTOR TRIP TO CANADA AT AGE OF 96

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mathews and daughter, Miss Mary, of Windsor, Ontario, and Newman Haywood of Detroit visited last week at the homes of Mr. Mathews' sisters, Mrs. Eunice Crafts and Mrs. Mat Parker. Their mother, Mrs. Susan Mathews, accompanied her son to his home in Canada to spend some time and to visit another son, Dan Mathews, who suffered a stroke a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Susan Mathews will be 97 years old May 27, has always enjoyed good health and is still very active and did not hesitate when asked to take the trip to Ontario by auto. Mrs. Mathews was born near St. Thomas, Ontario, and married Abram Mathews at Park Hill, Ontario. They made their home at that place until Mr. Mathews' death about 16 years ago. Since then Mrs. Mathews has lived with her daughters in Cass City. She is the mother of 13 children, eight of whom are living. She also has 11 grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren. When asked by a neighbor a few weeks ago what she thought was the reason of her many years of good health, she replied, "Moderate living and getting up in the morning."

ACHIEVEMENT DAY FOR NUTRITION PROJECT

The nutrition groups of Tuscola county will hold their annual Achievement Day at Fairgrove, Saturday, May 11, at the Fairgrove High School. A fine program has been arranged. The headliner of this program will be Dr. Caroline Hedger, of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial Fund, who will be the principal speaker at the Nutrition Achievement Day.

Dr. Hedger was formerly a school physician under the Chicago Health Department. She was a member of the Board of the Infant Welfare Society at the same time and was instrumental in beginning the Baby Saving Campaign in Chicago some years ago. During the World War she was sent by the Chicago Woman's Club to Belgium to assist in the fight against the typhoid epidemic, which was ravishing the country. Her work there was largely among the children. Dr. Hedger has a large circle of friends in this state, having appeared on Farmers' Week programs and having been the speaker at Achievement Days in various counties during the past few years.

The program for Achievement Day will be as follows:

10:00 a. m.—Viewing exhibits. Every group will have some sort of exhibit featuring their work.

10:30 a. m.—Call to order by Mrs. R. L. Robinson, County Chairman.

10:30-10:45—Community singing, led by Music Dept. of Fairgrove H. S.

10:45-12:00—Address: "The Problem of the Adolescent," Dr. C. Hedger.

12:00-1:15—Dinner—(Dinner will be served by the M. E. church of Fairgrove).

1:15-1:30—Community singing and roll call of groups.

1:30-1:45—Election of County Chairman and Secretary. Business meeting.

1:45-2:00—Health Play by the Kindergarten Dept. of Fairgrove School.

2:00-2:15—Report of years project by Miss Muriel Dundas, Extension Specialist in charge of work.

2:15—Address: "What the Community Owes the Child," Dr. C. Hedger.

It is to be regretted that it is impossible to make this an open meeting, but lack of facilities for accommodating the groups makes this impossible. There are 17 groups taking the work with approximately 250 members. Each group member is allowed one guest. Those outside regular groups, wishing to attend, should see Co. Agr'l Agent D. B. Jewell, so that it might be possible to make special arrangements.

period, the visitors added several scores and the contest appeared anyone's game the last few minutes of play. Cass City won with a 15-14 score.

FOREST WEEK AND ARBOR DAY

Observance Programs Are Sent Out by Department of Public Instruction.

Plans for a state wide observance of Forest Week and Arbor Day are being made by the Michigan Forest Week Committee working in co-operation with the State Department of Public Instruction and the State Conservation Department. Governor Green has named Arthur W. Stace of Ann Arbor as chairman of the committee and Shirley W. Allen, extension director of the School of Conservation and Forestry of the University of Michigan, as secretary.

Suggested programs for the observance of Forest Week and Arbor Day will be sent out at once by the State Department of Public Instruction to superintendents, principals and county school commissioners. Luncheon clubs, women's clubs, sportsmen's organizations and other public-spirited bodies are urged to list reforestation and conservation talks on their programs during the week. The committee will assist in securing speakers for such occasions.

The committee points out that Michigan has a vital and immediate interest in reforestation. More than one-third of the state is cut-over lands which is suitable only for the growing of trees, the development of wild life, and use for recreational purposes. Much of this area will be reforested if protected from fire and other injury. Some of it will have to be planted if tree growth is to be restored. Fire swept and bare areas are unsightly handicaps to recreational development. But areas green with a new growth of trees lend beauty and attractiveness to the landscape, furnish cover for wild life, and grow daily in value as recreational assets.

The recreational attractions of Michigan not only make life more pleasant for Michigan residents but are the basis of a rapidly advancing industry that is already outstripping agriculture as a source of wealth for the people of the state. This recreational industry has gone far ahead of the old lumber industry in monetary value to the commonwealth.

The Forest Week committee urges that special attention be paid during the period from May 5 to 11 to the planting of trees by local organizations for the beautification of the highways, to the establishment of community and county forests, and to consideration of the development of state and national forests in Michigan.

THE WEEK IN THE STATE LEGISLATURE

A Resume of the Matters Which Are Claiming Attention of Solons.

Michigan Press Association. Lansing Bureau, April 26, 1929.

May 10 is being insisted upon as the final day of the present session and all hands are on deck trying to swab things up and get the most important work out of the way before the old ship of state makes port. Committees almost without exception are committing wads of bills to divers in the legislative mausoleum and are reporting out only bills of major importance, so that many pet measures will be lost in the shuffle.

Of most importance during the week was the passage by the House of the budget bills making appropriations for the coming two years. Strenuous efforts of Rep. Chas. DeLand and others to reduce the total of the appropriations were unavailing, the body of the House standing by the report and the recommendations of the ways and means committee of the House. Several amendments were voted down and on its final passage only twelve members voted against the bill, these being Calvert, Goodwine, MacRae, Culver, DeLand, MacDonald, Holbeck, Ate, Dykstra, Holland, Nichols and Gillett. The bill carries $28,334,896 for 1930 and $27,887,144 for 1931. The sum of $16,392,196 is to be raised by general taxation in 1930 and $15,934,444 in 1931, the balance coming from other sources such as license funds and fees. This will make the state tax rate slightly higher than for the past two years, but there is also an increase in the assessment value of the state, which will help keep the rate down. The bill now goes to the governor, who may or may not approve of it as a whole, although it follows the line of his recommendations.

She won similar honors in 1928 at the district contest held at Lapeer.

Douglas Hill of Flint Central High was first in orations with the subject, "A Plea for Peace."

Doris Bahr of Flint Central was the winner of first honors in declamations and Robert Heavenrich of Saginaw, second. The subject of Miss Bahr's declamation was "A Vision of War" and Mr. Heavenrich chose the same subject.

Two well known residents of this community passed away early Thursday morning. Fred Bardwell died at his home in Ellington township. The funeral service will be held at the family residence Saturday. Geo. McKee of Evergreen township passed away at Pleasant Home hospital. He underwent an operation there Tuesday morning.

BUILDING REACHES END OF PUBLIC SERVICE

Early Schoolhouse Used for Many Purposes in Cass City Since 1870.

The building which has housed the council rooms and fire department for many years has been sold by the village council and is being separated and moved to different points in Cass City. The council room part will be placed on the residence lot of Albert Creguer on Oak street where it will serve as a garage. The front part used for a fire hall will be moved to a vacant lot south of the R. D. Keating residence. Mr. Keating, B station agent of the Standard Oil Co., expects to use the building as a storehouse for Standard Oil products.

Back in 1870, the part of the building with the cupola shown in the accompanying picture was built as a schoolhouse on Seeger street, on the site now occupied by the residence of Robert Agar, sr., or thereabouts. Miss Paulina McKenney and Miss Alice Tanner were among the first teachers. Later an addition was built to the north. Here the boys and girls of the "seventies" and early "eighties" studied hard acquiring a knowledge of the three R's. Among these, older residents will recognize the names of Charles Travis, John, Tillie, Adeline and Louisa Krapf, Mary Mahoney, Andrew, George, William and Chas. Seed, Mamie and Hattie Feutchwanger, Jessie and Frank Doying, Emma and Samuel Lenzner, Eri Deming, Chas. Nash, Paulina, Sophia, Emma, Lydia and Theophilus Ahr, Minnie Laing, Rosa Seeger, Tilda Muntz, Sarah Dixon, George, Archie and Carrie Hitchcock, Hannah and Ella Fox, Etta and Angeline Alvers, Ada Armstrong, Kitty McLarty, Alex, Anna and Minnie Bottsford, Tillie Miller, Henry Colbourn, John Henry Waldon, Byron Sherwood, Walter and Nellie Gamble, Nellie Hall, Grace Polly, Etta Tennant, Jennie Buckingham, Lillie and Mack Wickware, Alfred, John and Mamie Bader.

This building, first designed as a schoolhouse, has been in use for a long period and for more public purposes than any other structure in this community. Erected as a school, it also served the pioneers of the community as a meeting place for religious services. The first church building was erected in Cass City in 1878.

After the first brick school building was erected on the hill, the old schoolhouse was moved to the corner of Seeger and Pine Streets. Here it served as council rooms, fire hall and jail. Village trustees have spent many hours here deliberating the problems of the municipality. Their task at times was no easy one, for they had two problems to face—giving the progressive element the improvements an up-to-date town demanded and at the same time maintaining a low tax rate for the conservative element. Only those who have attempted to solve such problems, know their difficulties. Occasionally during these sessions, the village marshal would interrupt the village dads long enough to place a culprit in the "cooler."

Village caucuses, fair meetings, booster meetings, law suits, and public gathering of every sort and nature have been held within its walls. The younger element, in the days when dad's word was law, were sent scampering to their homes at 9:00 p. m. when the marshal rang the curfew bell located in the cupola of the fire hall. The same bell, rung in a different manner, sounded the fire alarm and young and old lost no time in responding to its summons and hauling the hand pump to the "fire wells" and tugged lustily at the handles of the hand pump to send the water from the well through the hose to quench the flames.

A Bit of School History.

Volume 1 of the Cass City Chronicle contains two interesting letters of early Cass City school history. In the August 11, 1899 number, Aniss Clark Hoyt of El Modena, California, wrote: "In the Township of Elkland, Tuscola County, Michigan, where the section lines cross in what is now Cass City, stood a little log school house on the southwest corner, in the midst of forest trees, a few of which had been cut out to make room for the building and a scant playground.

"There in the summer of 1864, I taught my first school, it being the second term in that district. I can easily recall the picture of that school. The building was of unwehwn logs, possibly 12x18 feet. In the interior a board bench was built on three sides with the log wall for its back. At the end opposite the door was a small home-made desk, three or four feet long and set back close to the long bench, for the teacher. On each side of the room were two similar desks in front of the wall bench and facing the center of the room, for the older scholars. The little tots sat on seats in front of the desks with their little bare feet dangling back and forth. Back of the door was a blackboard, and on the other side of the door, a bench, where sat the water pail and dinner baskets. A 'tenplate' stove completed the furniture of the room. "Never was monarch prouder of his realm, than was the young girl who there began the responsible task of training young ideas; and never were subjects more faithful, devoted or docile than the band of children, ranging in age from three to fourteen years, who came to school day after day all that summer.

"In those days we had no county superintendent of schools. The trustees in each district examined teachers, granted certificates and made contracts with the teachers for each term of school. I think the trustees in Elkland in 1864 were Levi Alwood, Mr. Walmsley and Mr. Striffler. My salary was $3.50 per week. I boarded Turn to page five.

PASSING OF KINGSTON TOWNSHIP PIONEER

Mrs. Caroline Leek King Came to Tuscola County in 1880.

Mrs. Caroline King passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Hutchinson, on Tuesday morning, April 30, after several months' illness. Funeral services were held at the M. E. church at Cass City Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Geo. Hill, the pastor. Interment was made in Novesta cemetery. The Leek Ladies' Aid attended the funeral in a body.

Caroline Teeples was born Nov. 20, 1851, at Tyrone, Livingston County, Michigan. On Nov. 20, 1872, she was married to Eli Leek of Highland and made their home in Oakland County until Mar. 12, 1880, when they moved to Kingston township, Tuscola County. They endured the hardships of early pioneer days and lived on the same farm until Mr. Leek's death May 17, 1907.

Mr. and Mrs. Leek were members of the Presbyterian church in Milford and were instrumental in getting a church established in this new country, shortly after their arrival. There being no Presbyterian church near, a Methodist minister was secured from Kingston and the Leek appointment was placed on the conference list. At the same time a Sunday school was established of which Mr. Leek was superintendent a great many years. Mrs. Leek always taught a class, preferably boys, and even though sometimes the efforts seemed wasted, still in later years the fruits of her labors were evident.

She was active in all church work, being president of the Ladies' Aid over twenty years and a member of the W. C. T. U.

On Sept. 28, 1916, she was married to Lafayette King of Williams-ton at which place they resided until Mr. King's death Oct. 26, 1928.

On December 17, she came to Cass City to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Hutchinson, where she departed this life on Tuesday, April 30, 1929.

She is survived by a son, George, of Winnipeg, and a daughter, Mrs. F. E. Hutchinson, of this place. A son, Mason, preceded her October 7, 1922. Many relatives and scores of friends are left to mourn her departure.

HIGH SCHOOL WILL GRADUATE 57 IN JUNE

The Cass City High School will graduate 57 on June 12 instead of 56 as announced in the Chronicle last week. The name of John A. Simkins was inadvertently omitted from the list first published.

An omission was also made of the class history as a number of the Class Day program on June 11. The class history will be given by Chas. N. Simkins. Other numbers on this program are: Valedictory, Esther Dilman; salutatory, Grace Wylie; class will, Clark Halwig; giftatory, Margaret Jondreau; president's address, Frederick Brown; class prophecy, Margaret Landon.

LONEY'S HEREFORDS TOPPED DETROIT MARKET

Ralph C. Loney's Herefords topped the Detroit market on Monday when he sold eight head of twelve months' old steers and heifers at $112.00 each. These cattle were purebreds and were the finest bunch for their age sold from this vicinity in a long time and were a credit to the owner and the breed. The same cows which produced this lot have another fine bunch of spring calves now and Ralph will probably have another top notch bunch ready to go next spring.

SENIOR PLAY DELIGHTED LARGE AUDIENCE FRIDAY

Sickness came near delaying the senior play given at the high school auditorium Friday evening. Miss Lorine McGrath was quite ill Friday morning and Maynard McConkey left a sick bed to participate in the comedy. The audience was none the wiser, however, and all carried their parts well in the comedy, "Take My Advice." Characterizations were well done and the play was highly amusing. Other members of the cast were Glenn McCullough, Clifton Heller, Harry Bohmsack, Clara Bond, Frederick Brown and Marguerite Henry. The play was directed by Virgil Logan, instructor in public speaking.

The high school orchestra gave several selections and their efforts Friday night were the best among their presentations this year. The actors were greeted by a large audience.

The Home Guards of the Methodist church held their annual mite box opening at the church Monday afternoon. Officers elected were: President, Miss Elsie McComb; vice president, Elaine Turner; secretary, Georgene Van Winkle; treasurer, Esther Turner; ass't. secretary, Betty Hunt; ass't. treasurer, Lucile Bailey; mite box secretary, Frances Henry; supply secretary, Millicent Graham. THE WEEK IN THE*STATE LEGISLATURE

Concluded from first page.

The Turner bill appropriating two millions for the aid of heavily taxed school districts has been recalled from the governor's desk by the Senate and it is said will be hooked up with Lennon's proposition for the taxation of cigarettes, which has been reprieved from oblivion in a senate committee, in an effort to aid the poorer districts.

The Senate has concurred in a House resolution condemning cigarette advertising showing women and young people smoking.

A determined effort to declare the ice business a public utility was frustrated in the House Thursday. The bill has been lobbied for in clever fashion, but a motion to strike out all after the enacting clause was carried by a vote of 40 to 3, which automatically kills the bill.

The Senate Thursday tabled the Condon bill which would make insanity grounds for divorce.

The codification of the state fishing laws sponsored by the department of conservation has passed the Senate and will come up in the House next week. A proposition for a rod license was stricken out, but the rod license for trout fishing is retained.

A joint resolution offered by Rep. John Gillett having for its purpose the restricting of the state, an increase in the membership of the House and the limiting of Wayne county to 20 per cent of the entire representation meets with bitter opposition from the Wayne county delegation and from many out-state members. The resolution was snowed under.

Rep. Feighner's bill defining a newspaper as applied to the publication of legal notices passed the House Thursday, after being amended to apply only to newspapers printed in the English language, and to exempt from the terms of the bill newspapers which had been established and been published continuously for a period of more than two years.

The judiciary committee of the House has reported out the death penalty bill sent over by the Senate, without changes and it has been placed on general orders. The bill carries a referendum clause requiring a vote of the people of the state at the November election in 1930. There is a strong sentiment in the House to strike out the referendum and that may be done, although there is some doubt if the Senate would concur in the amendment. Proponents in the House claim that if the death penalty is needed at all it is needed now and they are willing to accept the responsibility of passing the bill and giving it immediate effect. There will likely be some sharp shooting when the bill comes up on general orders.

A proposed tax on screen advertising in movie houses was killed in the House Wednesday by a vote of 79 to 12.

Bills prohibiting hunting on Sunday in St. Clair and Sanilac counties have passed both houses.

There is a possibility of the state securing a refund of several millions of dollars from the federal government in the matter of inheritance taxes. Bills are on the way through the mill to comply with the federal proposition to refund 80% of the money which the government has collected during the past two years.

Rep. Bob Wardell, wet leader in the House, Wednesday introduced a resolution memorializing congress to call a constitutional convention to repeal the 18th amendment. Wisconsin has already done this, but it takes two-thirds of the states to force congress to act.

The Stevens bill revising the election code, the result of the work of the special commission appointed last year by Governor Green, and which recently passed the Senate, was reported out Friday morning by the election committee of the House, with some slight amendments. The most important feature of the bill is a provision for permanent registration of voters in all cities of more than 5000.

population and providing machinery for keeping the registration lists alive and clear of deadwood.

A measure which has passed both houses provides stiff penalties for removing or altering any serial numbers on automobiles.

A conservation measure which has now passed both houses makes a maximum penalty of $100 and three months in jail for wilful or careless starting of fires in grass or forests, and for malicious starting of such fires whereby lives are endangered the felony clause is attached, carrying a possible prison term of ten years.

The legislative investigation of the reasons for a recent price drop in beans is evidently having some effect in some quarters. At least it is noticed that the price has taken a decided up turn. But that doesn't stop the investigation, which may result in some new facts and figures being produced that may be interesting to the bean industry.

The Harnly Bible reading bill, introduced early in the session, and which has been a hot topic of discussion and controversy ever since, went down to defeat in the House Tuesday by the close vote of 44 to 46. Five members declined to vote on the question. The persistent lobbying for the bill by a paid lobbyist from outside the state is claimed by some members to have been responsible for the defeat of the measure and Mr. Harnly is inclined to agree with this opinion.

The Senate is still holding up the Hartman mill tax bill and the House has taken to the idea of first acting on House measures before taking up consideration of Senate measures. It is hoped that this condition may be so that no controversy will interfere with bringing the work of the session to a close within the next two weeks.

Cass City Schools

Kindergarten—Last week Mrs. Almer surprised us pleasantly by sending up two large baskets filled with ginger bread men. We all had a royal time devouring them, and like the fox in our story, snapped off a leg, then an arm, and finally a head. We are glad Mrs. Almer likes little boys and girls so much. We are taking this opportunity to thank her.

Second Grade—There were fourteen boys and girls in our room who were not absent all last month. We had no tardy marks at all and I believe that was the first this year we haven't had any.

This week we made the covers for our bird books and they were all very good. We had five birds in our book, the robin, bluebird, woodpecker, red winged blackbird, and song sparrow.

Third Grade—For language work we have been learning E. H. Miller's poem "The Bluebird." We have learned to write the Roman numerals up to one hundred. Our class have finished reading the Stone Readers.

Fifth Grade—The geography class has made some very good maps of paper pulp showing the relief of Africa. We are making graphs for spelling records this week. The B class is working on the play "William Tell." This morning the A class entertained us with a short program giving their interpretation of "Tom" and "Maggie" in George Elliott's story "The Mill on the Floss."

First Grade—Buzz-buzz, the song so common to bees and little first graders. There is one feature however (the wing like projection on their backs) that as yet we haven't grown—at least it isn't visible to the eye. This week we have developed the hive idea, even selecting a Queen. This study of beedom will certainly be interesting and possibly a little painful at times.

Cotton From Plant

Kendry is the name given to the fiber plant discovered in large quantities in Asia, and found to produce textile yarn of high quality. Tests show that a cloth made half of kendry and half of cotton is attractive, durable and suitable for clothing.

Roundabout Legislation

There is no provision in the Constitution for the repeal of an amendment and no amendment has ever been repealed. Most authorities agree that the only way to accomplish such an object would be to pass another amendment to annul the previous amendment.

Valuable "Accidents"

Scientific discoveries are often accidental. They are usually made by men trained in the line of scientific invention or observation. Oxygen, discovered by Priestley; calcium carbide, by Wilson; vulcanization, by Good-year; X-rays, by Roentgen, and radioactivity, by Becquerel, fall in this class.

Your MODEL T FORD is still a good car

THE Model T Ford led the motor industry for twenty years because of its sturdy worth, reliability and economy. Those same reasons continue to make it a good car.

As a matter of fact, nearly one-fourth of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords. Millions of them can be driven two, three and even five more years with reasonable care and proper replacements. Figures show that the average life is seven years.

Don't sacrifice your Model T, therefore, but take it to the Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of putting it in A1 shape. A very small expenditure may be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

MILLIONS FOR CHILDREN.

One of the most generous gifts of recent years has been that of Senator James Cousens of Michigan, who has provided a superb fund of $10,000,000 for the benefit primarily of the children of his state. It will be used on vocational, educational, and health problems, for the benefit of the children.
It is impossible to form any estimate of the incalculable good such a fund will be able to do. The majority of the ill and difficulties from which children and young people suffer, are perfectly remediable. There is some way to cure them. The boy who goes wrong and gets into jail, for instance, usually does so because at some critical point in his young history, there was lacking some vigorous outlet for his active nature. If he had become interested in the activities of some playground or club that gave him this outlet, he would have been too busy to get into crooked ways.
The boy who quits school because he can't keep up, often does so because the teacher is overworked in a too crowded room. If arrangements could be made to give that boy some special help, or to put him on some kind of work that he could do he would usually be able to keep up, and his school work would be a success.
When a child's health breaks down, the cause is commonly some removable defect or cause. Attention and money can cure the majority of these defects, and provide thousands of boys and girls with an equipment for useful lives who without such help will encounter some form of failure. The states and cities should supply many of these improved facilities, yet it comes hard to raise money for them. Wealthy people should be appealed to in every state in the union to supply these lacks that states and cities may neglect or feel unable to supply.

PROMPT JUSTICE.

In view of the complaints often made of the delays of the law, the fine example should be noted of the United States supreme court. Only a few years ago the docket of this court was so crowded with cases that several years were required to reach a case not advanced out of its order. The court has now practically caught up on its work.
If this spirit of prompt completion of business can be generally emulated in the lower courts of this country, the people will have more respect for our legal institutions, many losses be prevented, and the work of repressing crime will be promoted.

A CONCILIATORY APPROACH.

Hugh Gibson, representing the United States government, has made a very conciliatory proposal to the preparatory disarmament commission now in session at Geneva. He urged the powers to take some real step, not merely toward armament limitation, but toward real reduction, and he manifested the willingness of our government to accept compromises to accomplish this result.
The powers will never get very far on armament reduction, so long as they quibble and haggle over details of their respective naval armament. They should meet as friends who haven't the least idea of fighting, to discuss such a proposition. The more they meet in that way, the less the danger that they will ever fight.

LIFE AND PROPERTY UNSAFE.

President Hoover took the position, in his recent address to the Associated Press, that life and property are relatively more unsafe in this country than in any of the civilized countries of the world.
For this shocking state of things, the American people have themselves to blame. As the president suggested in the desire of our people to be merciful, they have done too much to protect the prisoner and too little to protect society. The millions of peaceful homes that are doing good work in the world, they also deserve protection as well as the persons who are accused of crime.
Hunger Knows No Reason
A hungry people listens not to reason, nor cares for justice, nor is bent by any prayers.—Seneca.

Path o' Friendship

I am proud to be a-tellin'
Of a PATH (not very wide)
From my neighbor's little dwellin'
To the place where I abide!
It's a path that wasn't laid there
Out of bricks, in pattern neat—
But it's daily bein' made there
By the tread of friendly feet.

It's a gentle, silent token
Of a Friendship warm and true,
That I hope may not be broken
'Till our days on earth are through!
It's a sign of hands extended
When the hour of need was nigh—
It's a sign of something splendid;
Something gold can never buy!

You can have your fancy pickets
All around your velvet yard—
You can screen it in with thickets,
You can have a gate that's barred.
But for me—no fence I'm needin'—
I've a yard that's open wide
To the paths that may be leadin'
From my neighbors to my side!

Lacquering is one of the most famous of the Japanese arts, and although it has been practiced for centuries, many of the details of the craft are still a secret to all but a few of the native craftsmen, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. It is known that fine gum from the urushi tree furnishes the material for the lacquer varnish, and that sometimes as many as fifty coats are applied on a base of pine or cherry wood.
Ain't Science Wonderful?
Science has made comfort possible for old age. Not so many years ago there was little recreation or amusement for one grown old. Now the tick tock of the old clock is drowned by the dinner music from a high-priced orchestra; the organ music of a great cathedral, or the chimes of a carillon on Park avenue. But science is not done yet. The things they call television is on its way.—American Magazine.

Proclamation

MICHIGAN FOREST WEEK—ARBOR DAY.

More than ever before the people of Michigan are interested in maintaining the state's natural resources. The forests of the state comprise one of its renewable resources. The forests shelter game animals, regulate the flow of streams and assure cool shady waters. They attract our own people and those of surrounding states to the outdoors by their beauty. They are an asset of rapidly growing value to Michigan's recreational industry.

It is usual to proclaim a definite date for the observance of Arbor Day on which we may consider the value of trees and plan ceremonies to accompany tree planting. In addition to Arbor Day it has been the custom in the last few years to join with other States in the celebration of American Forest Week. While American Forest Week has been discontinued this year, forests and forestry are so important to Michigan that this state cannot afford to let the spring go by without the observance of a special week of thought and action in behalf of trees and the restoration of our forest wealth and attractiveness.

The week beginning May 5th is designated as Michigan Forest Week, and Friday, May 10th, as Arbor Day in Michigan. All citizens are called upon to help in the observance of these occasions, and are urged to resolve both to promote the forest interest of Michigan and to use diligence in the preservation and protection of our wooded areas.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this sixteenth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine and of the Commonwealth the ninety-third.

FRED W. GREEN,
Governor.

By the Governor:
JOHN S. HAGGERTY,
Secretary of State.

BUILDING REACHES END OF PUBLIC SERVICE

Concluded from first page.
myself at Mr. Alwood's home, a half-mile from the schoolhouse.

"I am sorry I did not keep my record book but will try and give the names of the scholars as nearly as I can recall them. Willie, Elsie, Mary, Lodema and David Alwood, Adeline, John and Solomon Striffler, Will and Andrew Seed, Mary, Will and Geo. Muntz, Christopher, Michael and Rosa Seeger. These were the scholars I started with. Later in the summer, James Reiley, an Indian minister, camped with his family half a mile west of the schoolhouse and brought three of his children to school. The eldest, a youth of eighteen, learned his letters in three days and at the end of two weeks could read passably well. Then he went hunting and never came back to school. The second, a girl of twelve, learned to read in a short time and made good progress, but the third never learned anything at school.

"The mosquitoes were bad that summer. I remember on several occasions they became so blood-thirsty that we could not go on with our school work until I made a smudge and then opened the door and windows and let the mosquitoes go out with the smoke. The term of school lasted three months and I left the little log school house and the children I had learned to love dearly with regret.

"Two years later, 1866, I returned and taught another summer. Almost without exception, the same children attended the second term but many others were added, there being about twenty-five enrolled. It was another happy summer for me and I trust not an unprofitable season for my scholars.

"Although I followed the profession of teaching for several years afterward and with gratifying results, still my heart always turned to the children who were my pupils in the little schoolhouse as the nearest and dearest of all. Certainly I never taught any who learned more readily, were more obedient or more attractive than these 'my first boys and girls.' As the years have come and gone, it is with pride that I have occasionally heard the names of one and another, who were doing noble work in the world.

"I cannot close this sketch without

A Letter from Gerrit Masselink.
In the August 25, 1899 number of the Chronicle appeared a letter from Gerrit Masselink, then professor of mathematics at Ferris Institute at Big Rapids. Mr. Masselink wrote of the Cass City schools while he was superintendent here, as follows:

"When I commenced work in the fall of '95 there were the following teachers in the building: Belle McKenzie, primary and first grade; Mattie Spurgeon, grades 2 and 3; Ella Bader, grades 4 and 5; Carrie Livingston, grades 6 and 7; Isabelle MacArthur, grades 8 and 9. The same teachers taught during the years '96 and '97.

By the end of the fall term of '95, the high school had reached about 70 and the work was becoming too much for one teacher, and upon my recommendation, the board engaged J. T. Berry, a member of the senior class at the Michigan Agricultural College, as my assistant for three months.

"A new catalog was published in the summer of '96 and a teachers' course added to the regular course of study. This proved very successful. During that year over twenty of our students passed the teachers' examination and received certificates. Owing to the large increase of students in the high school room, the board engaged Mr. Berry to act as assistant principal for a term of six months. Our enrollment eclipsed the previous year's record and the work was very successful. The students were enthusiastic and earnest.

"During the summer of '97, the new building was erected and the school changed materially. A kindergarten was introduced and together with the first primary were given a separate room and placed in charge of Miss Allen, a graduate of the Ferris Institute. Miss Koons took grades 1 and 2; Miss Dunham, 3 and 4; Miss Howard, 5 and 6; Miss Mulqueen, 7 and 8; Grades 9, 10, 11 and 12 were put in the large high school room capable of seating 120 pupils. Miss Marsh was assistant principal. Our enrollment during that year exceeded 400. One hundred four of these were in the high school. I believe this to be a larger percentage of pupils in the high school than three-fourths of the towns of Michigan can show. The work this year was of a higher order in all departments. The new building added very much to the efficiency of the work.

"During the three years of my stay the school was greatly changed. We added quite a number of books to the library, obtained a set of relief maps, decorated the walls with beautiful pictures, fitted up the gymnasium, extended and deepened the course of study, introduced German and Latin. I maintained a vigorous lyceum for four months of the year and through the school introduced the lecture course system in the town. Many other things could be spoken of but I will stop here at present.

"I wish to speak of the loyal work of all my assistants in the various grades and the kind and courteous treatment of the good people of Cass City. Also of the board of education. I know their work is often criticized, but I am certain that they take an active interest in the school and do everything possible to advance its interests. They have always given me their entire support, and this has in no small way aided in the advancement of the school during my stay with you. I shall always hold the memories of Cass City dear, and take still a personal interest in its welfare."

CORRESPONDENCE FROM SANILAC COUNTY

"Never cross a bridge until you come to it" appeared to be the theme of the Sanilac supervisors' committee acting on bovine tuberculosis, when they decided in meeting Monday to retain only the services of a part time veterinarian during the three year period Sanilac is on the state accredited list.

The action of the committee made as an economy measure for the present to avoid hiring a full time veterinarian during the three year period will automatically require a county-wide re-test of all herds in three years or less by a corp of veterinarians to be paid for by the county without Federal aid. Had a full time veterinarian been hired the county-wide re-test of all herds would have been unnecessary, and the expense of hiring a full time supervisor would have been divided over three years in place of calling for a large appropriation to carry on the work in three years or less, the committee was informed.

Dr. Fred P. Calkins, veterinarian in charge since the tests began here will leave soon to assume charge of bovine tests in Ionia, he informed the committee.

Existing milk ordinances in the Detroit and Chicago areas provide for re-tests every three years from beginning, it is said, where only a part time veterinarian is employed following the accreditation.

As only 11 townships in Sanilac were re-tested the second time over for re-actors, 18 have been tested only once, and these 18 will require testing again starting in August 1930. Dr. Calkins said, as the three year lapse will be over for the townships started first. This would bring the beginning of the county-wide tests starting in August 1930 to enable the county to be completed before the three year accredited period expires, and the milk market for Sanilac farmers threatened. Complications caused by not retaining a full time veterinarian in charge will also cause further appropriations larger than otherwise to be made starting at the June session of the supervisors in 1930, dairymen claim.

The difference in expense of a full time veterinarian for three years, and that of hiring a part time man with the necessity of complete tests in less than three years, would be slightly in favor of the full time supervisor, with the elimination of "red tape" Dr. Calkins told the committee.

Costs of the bovine tuberculin work in Sanilac since August 1927 was declared to be $12,285 to date. A total of $16,000 was appropriated by the supervisors to carry on the work.

A part time veterinarian will be selected by the board of supervisors at their June session from a list of eligible local county veterinarians submitted to the board by the state.

The supervisors committee acting on bovine work is: Charles Severance, Warren Sweet and George Parks.

Committees representing Thumb district counties in the fight to lower property valuations will meet in Sandusky May 4 at which time a concentrated plan of action will be drafted.

Notices were sent to chairmen of boards of supervisors in St. Clair, Lapeer, Tuscola and Huron counties. All counties were expected to be represented according to communications received this week by County Clerk Joseph Dawe.

John W. Goodwine, Sanilac state representative and George C. Watson, St. Clair representative from the second district will also attend the committee meeting.

The plan to be drafted will be carried out by the various committees, and the results will be submitted to the state tax commission at their July meeting. Keen interest is being shown in the attempted valuation cut movement started by the Sanilac board of supervisors as a special session two weeks ago.

The Sanilac committee is composed of Alex Alexander, Washington; W. H. Davis, Crosswell; George T. Abbott, Marion; Charles Greening, Sanilac; John Mullett, Minden.

Seventh and eighth grade students of all rural schools will be given the annual state examinations as promotion tests May 16 and 17, School Commissioner Harry C. Smith announces.

The tests are made out by the department of public instruction. Tests will be given in the following places: Argyle, Wickware, Shabbona, Marlette, Deckerville, Brown City, Sandusky, Crosswell, Minden City and Lexington.

The Sanilac County Federation of Women's Clubs will hold their annual May festival at the Presbyterian church in Deckerville, Wednesday, May 15, directors of the federation have decided. Extensive plans for the event, which is the big affair in club circles of the county are being made. Prominent state clubwomen will appear as guest speakers.

Jurors for the May term of circuit court in Sanilac county to open May 13 were drawn for service Monday by County Clerk Joseph Dawe. Owing to the jury lists submitted by each township being depleted, eight townships are not represented on the jury list. New lists will be submitted for future service in July.

Following are the jurors drawn: Peter Byrnes, Marlette; Edward Cash, sr., Watertown; George Wallace, Washington; Wallace Massman, Sanilac; Frank J. Sheldon, Lexington; John R. Cook, Elk; Thomas Nichol, Maple Valley; William Randall, Speaker; Moses Clark, Fremont; Charles Hurley, Worth; Paul Straffon, Crosswell; Frank Conlen, Sandusky; Walter Graichen, Delaware; Bruno Schoen, Minden; James Hewitt, Greenleaf; Charles Mudge, Evergreen; James Hutson, Argyle; Elmer English, Marion; Ray Bridenbach, Forester; Manford Rich, Custer; Robert McAllister, Marlette; Hugh McLean, Watertown; William Mitchell, Washington; William H. Willis, Sanilac.

Jurors will be notified as to when to report after court is called.

Soon we'll be inhaling the fragrance of spring blossoms.

A mash hopper soon pays for itself in feed that it saves. We have several kinds to choose from.

Mr. Callahan: Did you protest against showing the movie that represents the Irish as disorderly?
Mr. Murphy: Did we? We wrecked the place.

Spring isn't the only season when you appreciate a brooder stove. You'll appreciate it more when you count up your profits at the end of the season. A Buckeye brooder gives the chicks a healthy start and now is the time to buy one.

'Member when everybody used to ask the day after Easter, "How many eggs did you eat yesterday?"

What chicks get in their feed will have a lot to do with keeping them alive and growing. More than 2,500 hatcheries say, "Feed Purina Quick Startena." There's a reason.

Another hopeless case is the fellow who couldn't get all the dirt back into a tile ditch so a friend suggested that he dig a bigger ditch, for it,

A cow that produces forty pounds of milk a day is working harder than any team on the farm. Your teams work about ten hours per day for five or six days a week while the dairy cow works twenty-four hours a day for seven days a week. No one would try to work his team on pasture alone, especially the early grass. Feed the cows Cow Chow and home grains or Bulky-Las and avoid a milk slump later on.

Our memory goes back to the time when, if a neighbor woman told how many quarts and pints she had put up, you knew she meant fruit.

"When high analysis fertilizers are bought, the farmer pays more per ton for the fertilizers, but the price per pound of plant food is less.

"When high analysis fertilizers are used, higher grade plant food carriers must be used, and there is no room for the so-called 'filler.' "Buy fertilizers on the basis of available plant food present."

Raise Your Calves

You can raise good cows a lot cheaper than you can buy them. But lots of farmers haven't been raising calves, because it costs too much to raise them on whole milk. You can raise them on Purina Calf Chow for one-third the cost of whole milk.

Speaking of the 20th century efficiency, every married man knows that the automobile has made it possible for women to do three times as much shopping as was humanly possible in the old days.

Start your chicks on Purina...keep them on Purina...you'll get more grown-up chicks and have more money left after all chick raising costs are paid. Tell us how many bags of Startena you need right now.

Calf Chow is a clean wholesome feed that takes the place of milk and raises just as good calves. Try it with your next calves.

Two gentlemen by the name of Wood and Stone were standing on the street corner when a beautiful young lady passed them. Stone turned to Wood and they both turned to rubber.

Every ingredient that goes into Startena is carefully chosen and tested. Startena is rich in life-giving and growth-producing vitamins, proteins and minerals. Every ingredient in Startena has its job to do. Every ingredient does its part in keeping chicks alive and growing.

In Five MILLION HOMES TONIGHT

There are times when all a mother's love can't soothe a fretful baby. No way of telling just what's wrong, yet something must be done. Castoria time! A few drops, and Baby has dropped off to sleep. Yet this marvelous means of quieting a restless infant is utterly harmless. There is not one ingredient but what all doctors know and approve, and would let you give your baby every day in the week. In fact Castoria is a purely vegetable product. Gas pains, constipation, even diarrhea can be dispelled in this same manner. Castoria is older than you are, but physicians still say "nothing better for babies." An old-fashioned remedy if you count its years, but parents are old-fashioned who still raise babies without its aid! And at least five million modern mothers keep it handy day and night, for twenty-five million bottles were bought last year! Buy yours now; don't wait until you need it.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

THERE is nothing that has ever taken the place of Bayer Aspirin as an antidote for pain. Safe, or physicians wouldn't use it, and endorse its use by others. Sure, or several million users would have turned to something else. But get real Bayer Aspirin (at any drugstore) with Bayer on the box, and the word genuine printed in red.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetylacetic Acid of Salicylic Acid

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois.

NEEDED BUILT-IN FEATURES

(By D. J. Walsh.)

SYLVIA NORTH sat with her friend, Helen Morris, on the seat under the old grapevine exchanging confidences. Helen, passing by, had seen Sylvia sewing and had hastened across the yard to sit beside her for a little while. Helen's lovely darkness was enhanced by a startling new hat in henna, and she kept her left hand moving restlessly in order to enjoy the sparkle of an enormous diamond, her betrothal ring. Sylvia, fair and sweet, wore a faded blue chambray. She, too, was engaged, but the diamond in her ring was like a tiny candle beside the incandescence of Helen's big one.

"I hear that Peter has bought one of those new bungalows out on East road for you," Helen said. "They're such cunning dollhouses, but all so much alike. That's what I should object to myself. Have you been out to see it yet?"

"Yes. We walked out there Sunday afternoon," answered Sylvia. "Waiked! Why, it's ever so far. I should think Peter would get a car of some kind."

Sylvia smiled. "He's doing pretty well, I think, to buy a whole house. A little later," she said proudly, "we'll have the car and everything else."

"Oliver's just bought a new car," said Helen. "One of the $4,000 kind; I don't know what they call it. He's teaching me to run it. I'll take you over to see the bungalow he's having built for me. It will be all ready as soon as we get back from our wedding trip. It's a perfectly wonderful dwelling—built-in features and everything. We shall buy the furniture in the city on our way home. Oliver says I needn't scrimp. And then, of course, grandpa will make me a nice wedding present."

Sylvia's eyes began to look a little tired. She had no grandfather to make her great wedding gifts. In fact, she had no one but Peter, and she thought Peter was wonderful, inasmuch as he was going to give her a whole house to be her own. She wasn't going to let Helen spoil anything for her now, but, she thought wistfully, she would have been quite as happy sitting under Mrs. Draper's grapevine—she boarded at Mrs. Draper's—if Helen had stayed away.

"Has your bungalow built-in features?" demanded Helen. "N—no, it hasn't," Sylvia bit her lip.

"You don't mean it! Why, Sylvia North, I wouldn't live in a house that didn't have built-in features!"

Sylvia laughed tremulously. "Well, I guess I shall have to, and I don't mind," she replied.

"I should mind like everything. A bungalow isn't a bungalow without built-in features," insisted Helen.

They sat there a little longer until the smell of frying potatoes began to creep out of Mrs. Draper's kitchen window, then Helen arose and went her way.

Sylvia, left alone, took up her sewing. She was making a lunch cloth for her hope chest, so soon to be needed. That hope chest had been filled at the expense of much thought, some sacrifice and a great deal of joyful labor. She had done her best to get ready the small paraphernalia of her new home-making, and Peter had done his best. One's best was all one could do.

A few days later Helen drove up in the shining roadster and invited Sylvia to go out to Locust avenue to look at the new bungalow. Sylvia went. She followed Helen over the sweet smelling rubbish of wood and shavings from room to room. Helen was very gracious to the workmen and very important. She gave a small order or two just to test her new feeling of ownership.

"Isn't it splendid?" she asked enthusiastically. "And almost too big to be called a bungalow. Now we'll go and look at your new house."

The contrast between the beautiful stucco bungalow on Locust avenue and the tiny dollhouse on East road was so striking that Sylvia's joy was hushed to silence. She had a key and they went in and looked around. Helen criticizing freely.

"I couldn't stand it," she said as they came out, "but maybe you can."

Sylvia was pale. She thought Helen was unnecessarily cruel. It was like eating chicken salad before one who has only dry bread. She couldn't have done such a thing to Helen, never.

They didn't say much as they drove away from the dollhouse. Helen had to watch her driving and Sylvia was too oppressed.

That night Sylvia had to sit in the parlor because it rained. After the other boarders had cleared out by going to the "movies" Peter came.

"You've been crying," he said at once.

Sylvia shook her head. He put his finger under her chin, lifted her face and studied it gravely with his shrewd Scotch gray eyes.

"Anything I can help?" he asked. "Mercy, no! You—you're wonderful, dear."

He smiled. "Sometimes I don't feel so very wonderful. Like today. Oliver Lawrence took me out to see that new house he's putting up for Helen. Call that a bungalow! Have you seen it?"

"Yesterday. Helen took me."

"Great place. Built-in features and everything. Makes our little nest look pretty slim, eh?"

"No, no, Peter! I love our bungalow."

He laughed a little as men do when they've discovered a secret.

As he was going away he said:

"Give me that key to the bungalow you've got, will you, Syl?"

"Lost yours?" she demanded.

Peter did not answer. When he went away he took the key. Without it Sylvia could not enter her paradise.

She did not see the bungalow again for two reasons. One was that Peter had both keys and another was that she thought it better not to see it until she had got over the impression Helen had made upon her. She wished that she had been so brave and strong that Helen could not have made that impression.

The next three weeks were busy ones. Sylvia kept on with her job at the library until the last minute. Then she put on her new clothes and went to the parsonage with Peter and was married in the presence of the minister's family. Then they took the train for Silverton, where they were to visit Peter's married sister for a week.

They came back one beautiful late afternoon. A cab took them from the station to the bungalow.

"We might just as well start in living there," Peter said. "I've had the furniture man put in a few things just enough to get along with until you can make up your mind what you want. It's up to you to do the real home-making, you know, dear."

Peter unlocked the door and they entered. The pink western light came in at the windows and the first thing Sylvia saw was that a change had been effected since she last saw the little house. Those adorable cupboard doors, the window seat with cover that lifted, the darling closet under the stairs—those were built-in features, and they had not been there three weeks ago!

"Oh, Peter! Where did they come from?" she gasped.

"Well, I did most of them myself with a little help," Peter replied. "After I saw Oliver's bungalow I realized that ours wouldn't be complete without a few built-in features."

Sylvia clung to his arm, her face radiant.

"And that's why you took the key—" "I was so afraid you'd find out."

"Oh, Peter!" sighed Sylvia. "What a man you are." And she rested her head contentedly on his shoulder while the sunset light welcomed them home.

Odd Judgments Made Under Ancient Laws

That persons have been and are still punished for crimes under the law is, of course, a truism, but it has lately been shown that it was by no means uncommon for organized society to punish inanimate objects for crime. Among the Kookas of India, for instance, it is decreed that if a man suffer death by falling from a tree, the relatives shall punish the spirit of the tree by cutting the tree to pieces and scattering the chips to the wind.

A king of Cochinchina is said to have become dissatisfied with the way a ship was sailing and to have ordered it publicly whipped. Within recent times in China 15 wooden female idols were tried for the murder of an army officer, found guilty and publicly beheaded.

According to ancient Anglo-Saxon law a sword, cudgel or other weapon with which a man was murdered was thought to be in disgrace, and under the law could not be used again until the crime was expiated. No cutler was allowed to sharpen the sword without a certificate to the effect that it had been freed of taint. In Norway, in recent times, such farm implements as sickles, which had been used as weapons to kill a man, were condemned to hang in the barn unused. In an old set of municipal laws of Schleswig-Holstein is a statute providing that when a man was killed while working on a building, the timber which caused his death paid the penalty by surrendering itself to the family of the victim. If the owner refused to give up the timber he was fined 9 marks.

In the town of Uglich, Russia, Prince Dimitri, a son of Ivan the Terrible, was assassinated in 1591. The signal of insurrection was rung by the town bell, and as this was a grave political offense, the bell was banished to Tomsk, Siberia, by the Russian government. There the bell languished in disgrace for many years. At length it was reconstructed and hung up in a church, but it remained in exile. Finally, in 1892, after serving a sentence of 300 years, it was fully pardoned and restored to its native village. In some of the Scottish islands the fishermen still cling to the old custom of beheading a boat from which a fisherman has been drowned. The boat is dragged up on the beach, the fishermen assemble about and curse it; then they leave it to rot upon the beach.

A French lawyer has told how a glacier was excommunicated on account of the damage it had done to life and property in the valley. In English law there was for many years a statute compelling owners of personal chattels which had caused the death of a man to give them to God. This was accomplished by turning them over to the crown to be sold and the proceeds applied to pious uses.

TESTER FINDS LOST DAIRY HERD PROFIT

Last Strippings of Milk Contain Greatest Percentage of Butterfat.

Dairymen who find that the butterfat content of the milk from their herds is too low may be able to raise the test of the milk by spending more time stripping the cows, if the discovery made by a tester in herd improvement association work is an indication of conditions throughout the state.

Charles Weeks, tester in the Genesee-Otisville association, tested 15 pounds of milk which was stripped from cows which were supposedly milked dry. The test for the strappings was 8.6 per cent butterfat. On this herd, the strappings would contain an average of 40 pounds of butterfat each month.

The herd where this test was made contained 13 cows, so more than three pounds of butterfat per cow per month was lost when the cows were not milked completely dry. An equal loss on all cows in Michigan would materially reduce the profits of the dairymen in this state.

Experiments conducted at Michigan State College show that the keeping quality of the first milk drawn from the cow's udder is lower than that drawn afterwards, so the keeping quality as well as the test of the milk is improved if the cow is milked completely dry.

Proper Use of Hammer

The muscles in a workman's hand, arm, shoulder and back become a part of a machine in using a hammer. All useless strain caused by gripping the handle too hard or by holding some muscle tense, when it might be relaxed, should be avoided. The hand should grasp the handle near the end, and the grip should be relaxed just when the nail is hit.
