MISS HELEN TURNER HONORED AT SHOWER

A charming social event took place recently when teachers of the Wright avenue school at Alma gave a shower in honor of Miss Helen Turner, one of the teaching staff, whose marriage to Mr. Mack Little of Cass City will be an interesting affair of June.

The shower was given in the home of Miss Lota Thomas on West End street, Alma, and occurred in the evening. Games, visiting and sewing on towels for the bride-elect made the hours pleasant. Late in the evening, the guests were invited to the dining room where "dainty and colorful appointments" made the table very attractive. Lavender and yellow were used as color notes, small corsages of lavender sweet peas being used beside each plate, and lovely yellow daffodils forming the centerpiece. Following the refreshments, Miss Turner was presented with a variety of beautiful gifts which were in keeping with her coming wedding.

Miss Turner is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Turner of Cass City and graduated from the Cass City high school with the class of 1924. She teaches the first grade at Alma. The Alma Record says that she is not only much loved by her little folks but is also very popular among the teachers and local people.

Thumb of Michigan Prize Song Will Be Sung First Time in Public Here Tonight

"THE THUMB OF MICHIGAN."
(Air—"Marching Through Georgia").

Sing a song of Michigan, the best State in the Land,
Sing a song about the Thumb, the "main part of the Hand"
Its beauties are beyond compare, its homes are in demand,
So we are singing of Michigan.

Chorus—
Hurrah, Hurrah, Let's sing about the Thumb,
Hurrah, Hurrah, it's here we like to come,
Its people are among the best, they surely make things hum,
So we are glad we're in Michigan.

The lake shore drives are wonderful, the scenery is grand,
We stop and go in bathing, or we lie upon the sand,
And then we take a little ride, in boats at our command,
While we are singing of Michigan.
(Chorus)

Its modern homes are beautiful, the lakes are simply great,
The people come from far and near, it's here they congregate,
In all the lands of other states, they've never found its mate,
So we are singing of Michigan.
(Chorus)

Nor is it all on pleasure bent, for we would have you know,
The farmers in the Thumb raise crops, the very best that grow.
Its people are the thrifty sort, who like to make things "go"
So we are singing of Michigan.
(Chorus)

Then too, our manufacturers are always on the job,
They give our men employment and their purses do not rob,
For they believe in dealing square, and never cause a mob,
So we are singing of Michigan.
(Chorus)

So if you're discontented and would like to change your lot,
Just come and live in Michigan, within this beauty spot,
And if you ever wander far, back home you soon will trot,
For you'll be homesick for Michigan.
(Chorus)

C. C. H. S. WINS 3 GAMES IN PAST WEEK

Had Upper Hand in Struggle with Bay City Central Here Wednesday.

Bay City Central High School, leaders of the Saginaw Valley League, were defeated by Cass City High School here Wednesday afternoon.

The locals secured nine hits and eight runs, while Bay City's crack outfit had eight hits and six runs to their credit.

Kelley starred for Cass City on the offense, getting four hits out of five trips. Vatters pitched for Cass City after the fifth inning, allowing only three hits and two runs. Joos threw two men out at second base.

Score by innings:
Bay City..... 1 0 0 1 1 1 0 2 0—6
Cass City..... 1 3 0 0 0 0 2 2 *—8

Cass City defeated Crosswell Friday 9-8 for the fifth consecutive victory of the season. The game was the most interesting home game played up to date, Luther winning his own game in the last inning. "Lefty" Clement started his first game of the season and pitched three hitless innings only to have the Crosswell sluggers fall on his offerings for five hits and five runs in the fourth. Luther relieved the rookie and retired the side without further damage. At the fourth, Crosswell led 5-2 and from here to the end of the lucky ninth, the maroon team ran their total to six while Crosswell squeaked in three more runs for a total of eight.

Needing two runs to tie in the last half of the ninth, the first hitter rolled out second base to first. Vatters hit cleanly over second base. Brown singled Vatters to third and took second on the throw. McLarty was safe at first. While the Crosswell infield was holding Vatters at third, Capt. Kelley put on the "squeeze" with the bases loaded, scoring Vatters. Brown, trying to score on the late throw to first, was trapped off third and tagged for the second out, McLarty taking third and Kelley second. This brought Luther up with the tying and winning runs on the paths. He drove the first pitch past the scoreboard for the ball game.

Cass City ran its streak of victories to six straight by defeating Harbor Beach here Tuesday 10-4. The locals have but one game left to play in the county and Thumb leagues, Vassar at Vassar, Friday, May 31. Should the home team win that game, Cass City will be playing in both the county and Thumb field days.

Harbor Beach led the locals for the first four innings and the chances to keep the slate clean looked slim. In the fifth, two runs came with three clean hits to tie the score and in the sixth, the tie was broken with Cass City in the lead 5-4. The local attack concentrated in the eighth to score five runs and put the game on ice 10-4.

Vatters pitched the last four innings and allowed just one hit.

North Branch and Cass City will meet at the city park after the Memorial Day program next Thursday afternoon. Both teams are undefeated this season and a closely contested game is anticipated.

172 CRIPPLED CASES HANDLED AT CO. CLINIC

Seventy-five Considered Corrective Cases and 50 May Be Treated at Home.

One hundred seventy-two cases were handled in the Tuscola county clinic held under the direction of the Caro Rotary Club at Murray hall at Wahjamega on Tuesday and Wednesday. The clinic which was free was for the benefit of crippled children of the county. Dr. T. A. LaFerte of Detroit, an orthopedic surgeon, was in charge of the work and was assisted by Mrs. Martin of Lansing, active head of the Michigan Crippled Children's Commission.

Sixty-nine children appeared the first day for examination and 103 on the second day. While definite classifications will not be completed until next Monday, a preliminary survey shows that about 75 are operative or corrective cases, about 50 may be treated successfully at the children's homes, and about 50 were either of a helpless nature or were not at all serious.

The clinic was a very interesting affair. Mrs. Martin stated Wednesday that the clinic was one of the best she had attended and she was especially well pleased with the arrangements provided by Dr. Dixon for the work at Murray hall. Dr. Dixon and Fred Striffler of Caro represented the Rotary Club in this project. Mr. Striffler was appointed county chairman some time ago by the Michigan Crippled Children's Commission and has spent considerable time in this worthy cause.

FARMERS MAY STILL DEFEAT WEATHERMAN

Emergency Measures Suggested To Avoid Losses from Adverse Conditions.

Kid Rain and old man Winter have certainly won the opening rounds in their annual battle with the farmers of Michigan, but the board of strategy in the crops department at Michigan State College suggest emergency measures which can be used to defeat the pair before the bell closes the contest.

Early varieties of corn, M. A. C. Yellow Dent, Golden Glow, or Pickett, can be grown for grain to replace oats or barley which could not be planted due to unfavorable weather conditions. If the oats or barley were to have been used for a companion crop for a seeding of alfalfa, the alfalfa can be sown alone in June or July. The chances for a catch are better than with a companion crop.

Soybeans can be grown to advantage in Michigan either for hay or for grain. Soybean hay of excellent quality can be made by cutting for grain, a high protein concentrate is obtained.

Soybeans should be sown after the corn crop is planted. Detailed directions for choosing varieties and for cultural methods can be obtained from Special Bulletin No. 100, published by the Michigan State College experiment station.

Michigan Happenings

A 13-year struggle against disease will have been won at least in part next month when Miss Frances L. Lee, of Lowell, 22 years old, who has been operated on 11 times during that period, receives her high school diploma. Miss Lee, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Lee, was stricken with osteomyelitis, a bone inflammation, when 9 years old and has been under the knife repeatedly since that time. Her actual time spent in high school, according to Supt. W. W. Gumsier, is about two years, her course having been interrupted six times by operations.

In the face of pronounced public demand, twice manifest by overwhelming votes in the legislature, Governor Fred W. Green vetoed the Lennon-Wood bill providing electrocution for first degree murderers. The veto was announced a few minutes after the enrolled act was laid upon his desk. He had repeatedly declared he would not delay in disposing of the subject when it formally came before him, but at no time in the months that it has been subject of controversy and discussion had he let it be known to anyone just what he would do.

Fifty years ago the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baldy of Flint, took place. Recently they were buried side by side at Centerville, Mich. Mr. Baldy, 76 years old, despondent because of the death of his wife, 69, on the eve of their golden wedding anniversary, took poison and died a few hours later in the Hurley Hospital. His last minutes of consciousness were devoted to speaking with regret of the fate that marred what was to have been a happy anniversary. They had lived in Flint 16 years, going there from Manistee County.

One of the country's most successful bird banders hails from the Soo. He is M. J. Magee, who during 1928 banded 1,985 individual birds. Included in this number were 1,283 purple finches, a bird rarely seen down here. Since 1921, when Mr. Magee first started banding operations, he has handled over 11,000 birds. From this work 941 bands have been returned to Washington that were recovered from birds banded by him that had been killed or found dead.

The state has been offered one mile of the shore line of the Straits of Mackinac lying adjacent to Wilderness Park in Emmet County for $15,000. The proposition will be accepted provided a lease granted the County Road Commissioners for a right-of-way along the beach is abrogated. This addition would give the State almost complete control of the shoreline for 10 miles west of Mackinac City to the headquarters building in the park.

Roy Wing, of Owosso, 13 years old, is in the Memorial Hospital, suffering from a bullet wound in his stomach, received when a revolver he was carrying in his belt was discharged. The boy had attended a motion picture theater and on the way home became excited in talking over the picture with his chum. He gesticulated too wildly and the revolver was fired. Despite his wound, he walked a mile to his home. He is expected to recover.

Flint Central High School won the band championship of Michigan by a third of a point from Grand Rapids South High School at the State music contest held at East Lansing recently under auspices of the Michigan State College, it is announced by Ada Bicking, assistant superintendent of public instruction and director of music education. The orchestra championship was won by Hamtramck, with Grand Rapids Union second.

Seventeen grandchildren, one great-grandchild, and four sons were among the friends and relatives who joined in expressions of thanksgiving at the recent golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Diehl, of Detroit, 3531 Grand avenue. Mrs. Diehl, who is 71 years old, is a native of Detroit. Mr. Diehl, 75 years old, came to this country from Germany in 1872. He is a real estate and insurance agent.

Quiet cows give more milk, and music keeps them quiet, so the cows at the Detroit Creamery farms on Gratiot road near Mt. Clemens are getting radio concerts daily. The huge barns of the company have been fitted with loud speakers, and the radio is turned on at milking time and the songs and music are kept going while the animals are being groomed.

Dell Harwood, 40 years old, of Mosherville, was killed by a Michigan Central passenger in Jackson, at the Michigan avenue crossing. He walked into the path of the train. He had been employed in a Jackson factory. He leaves a wife at Mosherville.

From two to four feet of snow covered the region near Marquette recently, following a rain which turned to snow. Several inches of snow also fell over a large part of the copper mining territory.

The total vote in the recent State bird contest held by the Michigan Audubon Society is as follows: Robin, 45,541; chickadee, 37,155; bluebird, 17,024; goldfinch, 15,866; cardinal, 12,288; quail, 8,792; Baltimore oriole, 6,355; house wren, 5,433; meadow lark, 4,978; red wing blackbird, 4,255; song sparrow, 3,071; downy woodpecker, 2,941; morning dove, 2,390; whippoorwill, 2,268; bobolink, 1,920; kingbird, 1,840; cedar waxwing, 1,320; brown thrasher, 1,039; rose breasted grosbeak, 1,598; purple martin, 997; and catbird, 575. Grand total, 184,209, including 2,869 votes for 69 other birds.

Michigan's most forehanded cigarette dealer appeared in the person of M. H. Butler, who runs a general store at Marine City. He sent $5 to the secretary of state, at Lansing, asking that he be supplied with that amount in the cigarette package revenue stamps provided for under the new law. The law will not be in effect until August 27, so Butler will have his stamps in plenty of time, even though they can not be sent to him until arrangements are made to have them printed, which will be sometime in July.

Armed with a shotgun, Mrs. Orlo Bailey, of Antrim Township, living near Owosso, prevented employees of a Flint lumberman from cutting down a walnut tree on her farm, while her son summoned officers. The Flint man had bought "the best 10 trees" in her woods for $100, but when they cut them down, they found one of them partly rotted, and started to cut another. Prosecutor G. F. Frigel held that she had fulfilled her agreement and said that he would issue a warrant if they sought to take the eleventh tree.

Early Agriculture
The art of agriculture, the first step in civilization, was first practiced in the Near East—in Asia or Africa—according to archeological research, and the first grain growers are believed also to have been porters. These two arts spread into the Aegean area, to the plain of Hungary, to Switzerland and the Rhine country, and then to the Atlantic coast. It is now asserted that agriculture and the potter's art reached Britain at the dawn of the Neolithic age.

Royal Residence
Buckingham palace is situated in London at the west end of St. James park. The building has been many times changed and the present facade is 300 feet in length. The great state rooms are the throne room, 66 feet long; the green room, 50 feet long, 33 feet high; the grand salon, 110 feet long, 60 feet broad; the picture gallery, 180 feet long. There are 40 acres in the garden.

Bluffed Intruder
Confronted by a housebreaker while he was lying in bed, John Stone, thirteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stone of Gardiner, Maine, did not crawl under the sheets and whimper, but instead called out to the man who had flashed a light on the bed. "What's the big idea?" "I was sent here," replied the intruder; then he turned and left the house as he had entered it.—Exchange.

Jap College Girls
Many universities in Japan admit girls as "visitors," but not as fully accredited students, because there are no preparatory institutions which qualify girls for admission. The girl students are not regarded as university graduates even if they complete the regular course with high standing. Girl students in Tokyo are making a vigorous campaign for coeducation both in universities and preparatory schools throughout Japan.

FARM POULTRY

COD LIVER OIL HELPS HENS LAY

Much Needed in Winter as Substitute for Sunshine.

Cod liver oil is an important item in winter rations for poultry because it helps to maintain egg production, prevents lameness, and helps them to lay strong-shelled eggs. It contains vitamins A and D which promote growth and maintain vitality and disease resistance, says the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

Cod liver oil is essential to hens that are closely housed during winter. Vitamine D in the oil is a substitute for direct sunlight, according to poultrymen at the college, who say its use, therefore, is most desirable during winter and early spring when direct sunshine cannot be used or when little is available.

Satisfactory Rations for the Laying Flock

According to the test work conducted at Wisconsin and other stations, satisfactory corn belt rations for the laying flock must contain plenty of yellow corn, some form of milk and leafy green feed, or a green feed substitute like fine green alfalfa or clover hay, to furnish vitamine A. Vitamine D, the ultra-violet ray factor, is equally important. To get it in sufficient quantities during the winter and early spring months requires the use of cod liver oil or a good deal of direct sunshine or sunshine received through a glass substitute that really admits the ultra-violet rays. Professor Halpin recommended the use of all three—cod liver oil in the laying mash, an open shed or yard for good weather, and effective glass substitute windows.

Making Mash Palatable Is Problem for Keeper

Making a dry mash palatable so that the laying flock will eat it in sufficient quantities is one of the problems of the farm flock keeper. That is one of the virtues of commercially mixed mashes. The manufacturer has put various ingredients together that not only produce eggs but that taste good to the hens even though they are receiving a liberal grain ration. Putting in plenty of ground yellow corn and not overdoing the ground oats and bran portions helps make the mash more popular with the hens.

Poultry Hints

- Feed oyster shells to poultry.
Grit, oyster shell and plenty of drinking water are necessary in the production of eggs.
Feed a ration that includes a good egg mash, some hard grain and some green feed, and good, clean water.
If several ordinary shipping crates are available, it is possible to fill these with the hens that are to be celled before starting with the work.
About four o'clock in the afternoon the hens should have all the grain they will clean up. The mash hopper should be kept open all the time.
During the winter birds should eat one and one-half to two times as much scratch grain as mash, but they must eat sufficient mash to produce eggs.
In all cases the amount of grain varies with flock conditions. Heavy breeds consume more feed than light breeds.
Culling out the "boarder" hen reduces the extra feed bill and also brings in extra money through sale of nonproducers.
Poultry houses which are too high are usually cold and drafty in winter. This may be remedied, easily and cheaply, by putting in a straw loft.

Solitude
In our modern day, with the pace that our civilization tries to establish and to maintain, a great many people are made nervous by peace and solitude. Our speed of life is such that usually, when we seek repose, we make a mad dash for it. But solitude has a hand to still the pulse's leap, a voice to calm and reassure. Solitude is a room into which we can retire whenever we need a change from present company. It is a bourse of soace and reflection. American Magazine.

More fertilizer can be used with profit on beans. It will assure you maximum acre yields in seasons of good prices for beans and minimum bushel growing costs in years of lower prices.

Bam: Huh? Wha's matta, wush yo neck?

There are no better fertilizers for beans than Armour's BIG CROP, the Pioneer High Analyses. They are made right from the best fertilizer materials for beans. They contain highly available plant food and are in excellent mechanical condition for drilling.

Cream of Wheat flour costs you no more than many cheaper grades of flour. Why not eat good bread?

I am a baby chick just out of the egg. Nature has filled my little bread basket with enough food to last 72 hours. Then it's up to you.

If you feed me a dirty mash or table scraps, I'll probably die.

But if you start me on Purina Chick Star-tena and feed me according to the Purina Plan, the chances are nine to one that I'll grow up and make you money.

When in doubt say "Purina."

There will be a big demand for chicks in June. If you want chicks, then order them early.

Purina Calf Chow fed according to directions means mighty good calves besides a saving of about $10 or $15 on each calf. Worth saving isn't it?

FOR OUR SOLDIERS.

There is a fine appropriateness in the thought of the national Memorial Day, as we recall the brave men of all our former wars, who served their country well, and have passed on to some eternal camp ground.

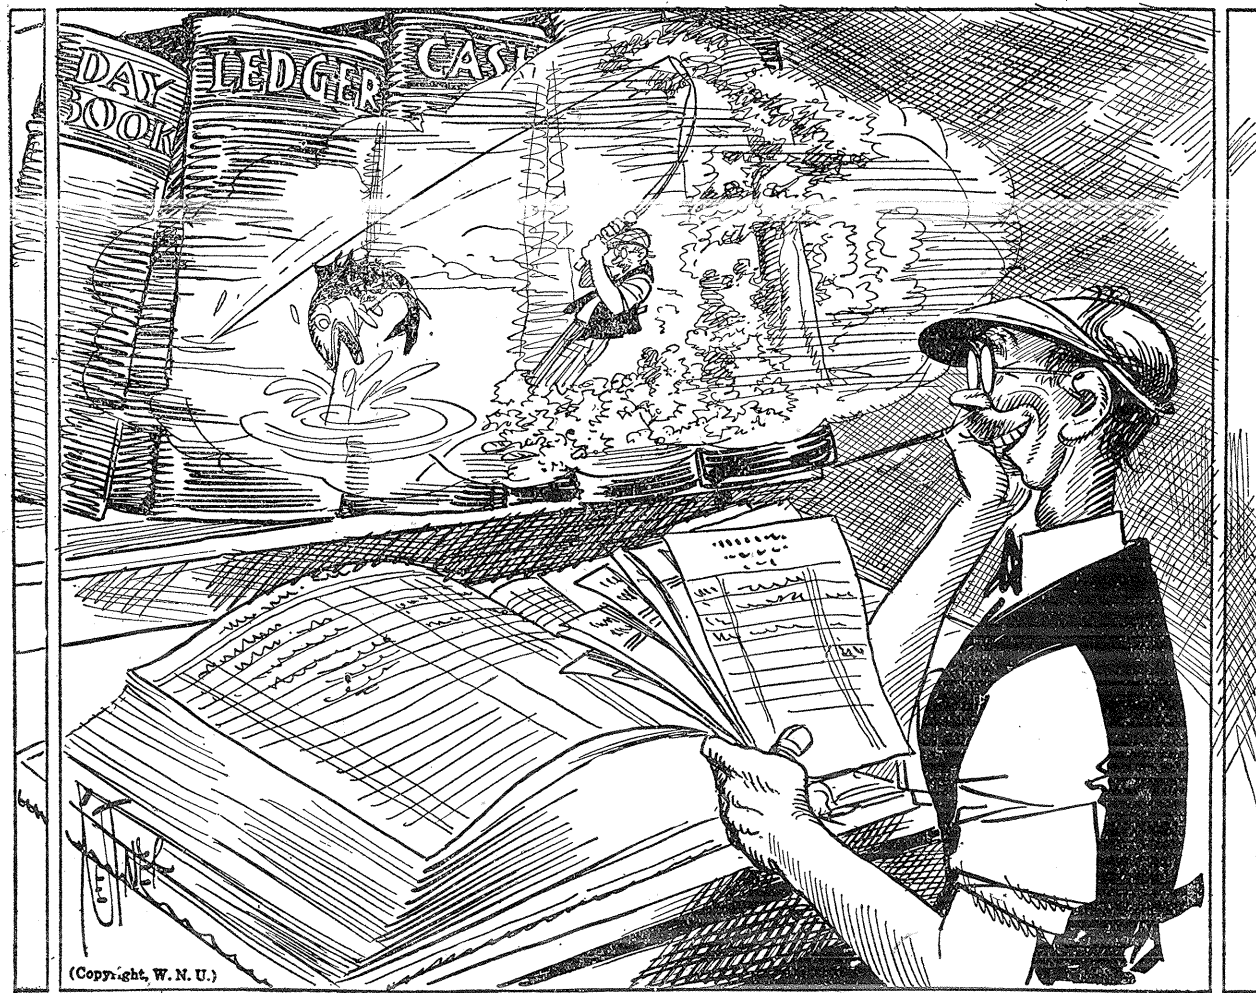

Just as the spring time of the growing year has revived the flowers of our gardens and the trees of our streets, and covered them with foliage and bloom once more, so we can imagine these men of our former wars, recovering the vitality and strength of youth in some fairer world where there are no more battles to fight against any dreaded foe, and has been a pathetic thing for all these years to see the men of the Civil War growing old, their steps gradually bending under the weight of years. They have lived well and done their duty as citizens, and have been a force making for the preservation of our ideals. We have honored and cherished them.

We cannot think of them, when they are laid away, as having perished forever. The nobility of soul and spirit that enabled them to fight for their country, cannot be imagined as resting inert in the grave, disintegrating like so much dust and ashes. We must think of them as recovering the life and vigor they once had, under conditions no doubt very different from ours, yet such that human life has a better chance than it ever had amid the trials and disappointments of earth.

The men of all our wars deserve all the honor that we can give them, and then very much more. They bore the burdens that the rest of us laid on them, and they bore them well. They met dangers that human nature dreads to face, and did so with a cheerful heart. We must never forget them. The very many of them who are still with us, and still young as World's war veterans, must be honored as having been foremost in the service of the nation.

THE THOROUGHNESS OF SCIENCE.

PASTURED COWS NEED GOOD GRAIN MIXTURE

High Producing Animals Need More Nutrients Than Grazing Furnishes.

The use of grain for dairy cows on pasture is advised by members of the dairy department at Michigan State College. The grain should be fed at the rate of one pound of grain mixture for every six to seven pounds of milk.

One Michigan farmer whose feed records were checked by a herd improvement association tester increased the production of butterfat in his 10 cow herd by 900 pounds through the use of a grain mixture on pasture. Records were kept on this herd through two successive years.

His cows received a full grain ration on pasture the first year, and the grain cost an average of $9.00 per cow for the three months. The next year the same cows received no grain while on pasture and their production of butterfat was reduced 90 pounds per cow from the previous years record.

In this case, the feeding of $90.00 worth of grain during the three pasture months made this dairyman a profit of $440.00. The grain mixture recommended by the dairy department is made up of equal parts of barley and oats, or corn and oats, and one-half part of linseed oil meal or cottonseed meal.

Feed analysis figures show that sweet clover is the most evenly balanced crop for pasture. Cattle can obtain sufficient protein by eating 100 pounds of this clover and enough total digestible nutrients by consuming 103 pounds. Eighty pounds of alfalfa furnishes the protein needed by a cow but the animal has to eat 160 pounds of the plant to get sufficient total digestible nutrients.

Among the Missing

Another thing which we imagine is entirely obsolete in this machine age was the emery bag shaped like a strawberry, to take the rust off needles with, and, while of course no one would have any use for it now, it's quite a loss to the world of art.

Morality Its Own Reward

Cass City Schools

Kindergarten—Friday of this week is to be celebrated in the morning by our annual "Pet Day." In the afternoon, we are to spend the time, following our recess period, by a sojourn to the woods. It is needless to say our jolly little pals from the first grade will be with us.

First Grade—This week we are making "Health Booklets" with the material sent from the Department of Health. The little boy and girl posters portray our every day activities in picture form. Along with this study, we have discussed posture of the trees (etc). To make it more interesting we are observing the Cass Citizens so as to find a true sample of good posture. Beware of our searching eyes!

The seventh grade Home Economics class are making croquettes and dishes suitable for a dinner. Vegetables are such an important item in the diet that this week will be spent studying the principles of vegetable cookery and various methods. The freshmen will continue work on budgets and inventories and take up cleaning, care of clothing, darning, patching and stain removal.

A week ago Friday, the dresses in the 9th and 12th grade clothing classes were finished and taken down to Cathcart's store. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Boyes kindly consented to be the judges and on Saturday afternoon, they scored the dresses. No names appeared on the dresses and the freshmen dresses had to compete with those made by the seniors. For many of the freshmen girls this was their first attempt at making a dress. Although the prize ribbons have not yet arrived, the following is the result of the contest:

Marguerite McQueen, 99, senior. Harriet Tindale, 97, senior. Virginia Day, 95, senior. Janet Allured, 90, freshman. Margaret Pelton, 90, freshman. Elizabeth Knight, 83, freshman. The first five have been sent on to Newark, New Jersey, where they will be judged and then they will be sent on to New York to enter the Borden's National Dressmaking Contest. The seniors are now making a child's garment, and will begin house construction and if time, "care of the sick."

Store-Advertising Is Expensive If You Do But Half Enough of it—and Profitable When Made To Match Your Store's Present Importance and Future Possibilities!

Half-done tasks are never profitable. WHATEVER they cost is usually too much. For the result aspired to is never reached.

A really GOOD STORE, but half-advertised, represents a lost opportunity of no mean importance to the community.

For a good store is of more immediate service and value to the people of a city than are many of the useful public institutions. It concerns more intimately the daily lives of the people—helps to solve the how-to-live-within-the-income problems—gives to the dollar of the housewife a little more than its customary buying-power.

Such a store should KEEP IN CLOSE TOUCH WITH THE PEOPLE. It cannot render complete service unless it does. It cannot do this unless it is ADEQUATELY ADVERTISED—unless its "store news" is fully told, all the time, and reaches the alive people who plan their shopping always after a consideration of the ads.

Every GOOD STORE will prosper under the "advertising test"—and that test should be made ADEQUATELY, CONFIDENTLY.

A Leprechawn
 A Leprechawn is a creature of fancy, similar to the fairies believed in by many American children. A Leprechawn in Irish superstition usually is a pygmy spirit who is supposed to grind meale, make shoes and do other services for persons who treat them well. It is believed by the Irish that if a Leprechawn is spellbound by a fixed gaze he will give up a fairy purse of inexhaustible funds.

Nine Years of Suffering Ended By New Konjola

Grateful Man Had Been a Victim of Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble until New Medicine Relieved Him.

"Konjola surely is a wonderful medicine," said Mr. Joe Bochinski, 130 Monroe street, Saginaw. "For nine years I searched vainly for relief from stomach trouble and rheumatism. My food did not digest, gas formed and my stomach bloated. Suffering followed every meal. Rheumatism settled in my legs, hips, arms and shoulders. My poor condition worried me.

"What a pleasant surprise Konjola gave me. My stomach was corrected, food digests perfectly, and gas and bloating have vanished. Rheumatism has been relieved wonderfully, and I feel immeasurably better all over. I certainly owe a debt of gratitude to Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Cass City at Burke's drug store, and by the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Advertisement.

SAME PRESCRIPTION HE WROTE IN 1892

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as today. People lived normal lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings. The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe bowel stimulant. This prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative. It has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds, fevers. At your druggist, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Grant's Genius as Soldier Admired by War Students

But Always in His Heart Commander Was a Man of Peace.

Ulysses Simpson Grant—chance gave him the "Simpson" for a middle name—was born in a little two-room cottage, near the river front, at Point Pleasant, Ohio, a straggling village perched on a bend of the Ohio river about twenty-five miles southeast of Cincinnati, April 27, 1822.

He was graduated from West Point in 1843, No. 21 in a roll of 89, with a rank of second lieutenant, and was stationed at Jefferson barracks, near St. Louis. Before the Mexican war broke out he had courted and won the heart of Julia Dent, the daughter of a big planter, but did not marry her until August 22, 1848, six months after the war had come to an end. He had none of the war fever—it was not a war that made any appeal to his patriotism and Grant was never a militarist in principle. But Grant was a soldier and took orders. He went into the battle of Palo Alto a second lieutenant, in May, 1846, and entered the City of Mexico 16 months later, with the same rank, although he was frequently mentioned in reports for gallant conduct and was afterwards brevetted first lieutenant and later captain for distinguished gallantry in the field. Longstreet later gave this report of his Mexican career: "You could not keep Grant out of battle. He was everywhere on the field, always cool, swift and unharmed in battle, unconscious apparently as though it were a hailstorm instead of a storm of bullets."

After the close of the war, Grant continued in army service until 1854, when, despairing of making a livelihood for his family out of his meager salary and having no ambition for a military life, he resigned his commission and went back to the plow. Then followed years of biting poverty and of successive failures as a farmer and in business—wasted years, dreary, indolent years, hopeless and neglected years. But failures never daunted him—he never cursed his luck. If plans for the Vicksburg campaign were novel and startlingly bold—new methods of warfare entirely to the men and the officers under him—yet he had the faculty of impressing them with their feasibility. Vicksburg stands unchallenged today as a master stroke of strategy, with Grant in the role of the master strategist.

Grant's strategy at Chattanooga was another evidence of his genius that brought acclaim from the severest of his critics. The battle was fought out upon Grant's plans and under his immediate direction, and Grant's recognition of the "psychological moment" for the final attack that won the battle would have delighted the heart of Napoleon—that was an achievement after the great master's own teachings. And in those tremendous final campaigns that ended at Appomattox, the student of strategy will find much to interest him, to clinch his faith in Grant's genius. Here we begin first to hear of Grant's policy of "attrition"—the terrible attrition of the Wilderness, of Spotsylvania, of Cold Harbor, of battle after battle, without rest or ceasing, until Lee was worn down, nibbled away to nothing by Grant's merciless momentum. But it was not all "attrition," not all hammering. There were remarkable flashes of his strategic genius often evidenced—he was the one general who was always doing the unexpected. As, after the battle of Cold Harbor, when Lee was expecting him to cross the Chickahominy, Grant executed one of the most brilliant flank movements ever recorded of any army, when, with the Army of the Potomac, 115,000 strong, he crossed the James river at Wilcox Landing, entirely eluding Lee's observation and constructing for the purpose one of the greatest military bridges that the world has seen since the days of Xerxes, leaving Lee for nearly a week in absolute ignorance of his whereabouts. Here is what a distinguished foreign military critic has written of that campaign: "There were soldiers more accomplished, as was McClellan; more brilliant, as was Rosecrans; and more exact, as was Buell, but it would be difficult to prove that these generals, or indeed any others in the services, could have accomplished the task which Grant brought to complete success in that campaign."

And then the tragic close of that great career that was like the climax of a Greek tragedy, still too fresh in the memory for its poignant passages to be recalled—the struggle with the wreck of fortune, the last sad days at Mount McGregor, with the nation's heart in its throat. Out of it comes forth in clear and resonant utterance his "Let us have peace," and his primal vision one thing failed, he tried another and never despaired—neither, perhaps, did he hope for much. Then on April 11, 1861, the shot that opened for him the door of opportunity was fired at Sumter—and it found Grant waiting at the door. On the 15th the news reached Galena that Lincoln had called for volunteers. On the 19th Grant was drilling a company and in a week he led his men to Springfield the capital of Illinois, to render his services to the nation.

Was Grant a great military genius? How often was that question asked in the days of storm and stress when, silent and unexplaining himself he went smashing through the best laid plans of technical military men—how often, too, in the after days when the experts and the memoir writers were dissecting his campaigns.

Knew War in All Its Phases.

Grant was a pioneer in the business of big driving and big pushing, and a past master, as well, of the patient art of attrition that we heard so much about in the late World War. Grant always knew what he wanted to do—behind all his big driving and big pushing was Grant's clear and quick thinking brain that saw far and planned boldly, according to the rules of war that he had learned at West Point, supplemented by some rules that were peculiarly his own and which were of the very essence of common sense. Like Foch, Grant was the first man to put his finger upon the weak spot of the federal military organization in the early years of the war—the lack of centralized control and of co-operation among the different armies. His first great stroke was one that showed his exceptional genius for the strategy of war.

Not only did he grasp the importance of the capture of Vicksburg, but his execution of the campaign, that ended in its downfall was characterized by the first real evidence of military genius that had developed in the war up to that time. He was the first of the American generals to perceive that in a comparatively fertile country it was not necessary to lumber his movements with commissary impedimenta, but that the thing to do was to let his army live on the country and to make its necessities a spur to quick and decisive action. It was a Napoleonic idea. All of Grant's of the coming of a day when "the nations of the earth will agree upon some sort of congress, which will take cognizance of international questions, whose decisions will be as binding as the decisions of our Supreme court are upon us"—a vision that paved the way for The Hague tribunal, the first step toward a parliament of the world. The man of war passed from the stage in a dream of peace—his last message to the people a prayer of thankfulness that peace had come, as he hoped, to permanently remain. "If it is within God's providence," he wrote, when his tongue was no longer able to utter words, "that I should go now, I am ready to obey His call without a murmur. I am thankful for the providential extension of my time to continue my work, and because it has enabled me to see for myself the happy harmony which has so suddenly sprung up between those engaged but a few short years ago in deadly conflict."—Kansas City Star.

Michigan Happenings

Youth and age traveled through the air together when "Grandma" Wilhelmina Schultz, 103 years old, Michigan City, Ind., resident, flew to the new Benton Harbor airport's formal dedication at Michigan Field which held interest in the recent Blossom Week festivities. Mrs. Schultz alighted at the spot where Miss Lillian Shepherd of Battle Creek, queen of the Blossom Festival, landed when she came there and was elected ruler of the seventh annual fete of southwestern Michigan.

Marriages in Michigan during 1928 according to figures given out at Washington by the United States department of commerce, increased nearly 3 per cent over 1927, while divorces showed an increase of only one-tenth of 1 per cent. There were 37,300 marriages in the state in 1928, compared with 36,273 in 1927; and 10,533 divorces compared with 10,525 in 1927. Annulled marriages numbered 82 in 1928 and 86 in 1927.

The destruction of the house and barn on the farm of Lawrence Zarembo, Menominee farmer, in Menominee Township, with a loss of $5,500 and no insurance, is attributed to a gopher hunt. A neighbor saw the gopher run into a hole beneath a stump near the Zarembo barn and set fire to the stump to smoke out the animal. The barn caught fire from sparks and the blaze spread to the dwelling.

Workin' in the Yard

There's nothin' that pays you a finer reward Than work that you do in improvin' the yard! The beauty that follows, I'm here to contend, Rewards you full measure for all that you spend.

And oh, but it's fun, in your blue denim shirt And an old pair of pants, to get down in the dirt And bury your hands in the bountiful soil— I tell you I know of no pleasanter toil!

But I am not thinkin' of truck that you grow In veg'able gardens, I'd have you to know! I'm glad to let others plant lettuce and peas (And also the carrots and squash, if you please!) I'm thinkin' of jonquils, the dahlias and phlox And gay little creepers that border the walks— I'm thinking of roses, of pansies, and all The flowers that bloom in the summer and fall!

While some prefer fishin' to idle the time, And some think that golf is a pleasure sublime,

And some think a ball game the finest of fun, When all of their workaday labors are done, I'd rather be spendin' my duty-free hours While whistlin' and hummin', in raisin' the flowers!

BUYS BIGGER AIRPLANE

Standard Oil Co. (Ind.) Replaces the Famous Stanolind with Finer, Faster Stanolind II., to Be Used for Company Transportation and as Flying Laboratory.

A giant new airplane, all metal, tri-motored, and carrying nine passengers, has just been delivered by the Stout Division of the Ford Motor Company to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), according to announcement by Allan Jackson, Vice President, speaking for the Directors of the latter company, from its offices at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. It has been christened "Stanolind II."

The original STANOLIND was the first giant passenger plane to be purchased by an industrial organization for use in its business. Although originally ordered in June, 1925, it arrived in Chicago from Detroit on the same day, and almost at the identical moment that Lindbergh landed in Paris, May 21st, 1927. During the twenty months of service before it was sold for the larger, finer, and speedier STANOLIND II, it traveled upwards of 81,000 miles, carrying nearly 6,200 passengers, the great majority of whom had never before flown in an airplane. That the Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believe in the safety and advantages of this form of transportation is shown by the statement that the joint mileage of the Directors totaled 87,436.

STANOLIND II is equipped with three Pratt & Whitney "Wasp" motors, each of 410 horse power, a total of 1,230 horse power, giving it a high speed of 140 miles, and a cruising speed of 115 miles per hour. It can go to a 20,000 foot ceiling, and with its gasoline capacity of 355 gallons stored in three tanks in the wings, fly 630 miles without refueling.

It has an overall length of 49 feet 10 inches, and an overall span of 77 feet 10 inches, giving it a wing area of 885 square feet and a gross load capacity of 13,250 pounds. As the weight of the plane and three motors is 7,894 pounds, it leaves 5,356 pounds available for carrying of crew, fuel, and passengers. The actual passenger and baggage capacity is 2,611 pounds, but as the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) officials believe in excess safety factors, the plane will not be permitted to carry a greater load than 2,025 pounds, which represents nine 200 pound passengers and 25 pounds of baggage for each. Seating capacity is provided by adjustable reclining chairs in the 16-foot cabin, which is 4 1/2 feet wide and 6 feet high.

Provision is made for amply heating the plane during cold weather. It is electric lighted, has adjustable windows, and is equipped with two flares for emergency landing in case night flying is done, while in the cabin of the two pilots will be found both magnetic and earth inductor compasses, turn and bank and drift indicators, altimeter, speed indicators, and the usual navigating instruments for both day and night flying. At the rear of the passenger cabin is located the lavatory and toilet, the baggage being carried in compartments in the wings.

The STANOLIND II will remain in Chicago for a week or ten days before going into active service.

May 24th, 25th and 26th, it is to act as the flagship of the St. Paul Association of Commerce's "Good Will Tour" from St. Paul to Winnipeg, carrying as passengers the famous flying St. Paul City Council. June 3rd it will leave Wichita, Kansas, as the flagship of the Second Kansas Air Tour, on its two weeks' trip around that state.

THE AGE OF COMBINED EFFORT

Perhaps the most distinctive feature of the present economic era, is the tendency of people to unite their efforts, to join their strength together, and to concentrate in larger units than formerly.

The previous age was an age purely of individual effort. But people have learned in these times that the individual is faced with too great difficulties when he tries to accomplish things alone. He needs somehow to join his forces with that of his neighbors. So we see many business concerns uniting into great combinations and consolidations, which accomplish remarkable results of efficiency. A great many small business concerns are of course able to pursue an individual and independent life, but they need to work more co-operatively than formerly with their neighbors.

In the field of community life, people have learned that they cannot accomplish much while acting by themselves alone. They need some form of combined action. This principle applies particularly in the field of retail trade. It is for the interest of the people in a community to have retail trade doing such a good business that the merchants can afford to carry large stocks of the most modern goods.

These retail stores can live up to that ideal, if they get all or practically all of the trade of their home people. But if a large part of that trade goes elsewhere, then a heavy blow is dealt to the retail trade of the community. The principle which leads many big business concerns to unite their corporations, which leads people to join in home town improvement work, also needs to persuade people to consolidate the efforts of everyone toward creating a fine retail business center, and the first step toward that end is for people to buy their supplies at home.

"You hit your husband with a chair? Pray tell me why you did it, Mabel."

"Divorced, my dear, not buried—

Father: "Why were you kept in at school?"

Son: "I didn't know where the Azores were."
