The functions of commencement week here have had a fine scholastic atmosphere and reminded the public that it pays to study the world's wisdom and acquire skill in using the tools of daily life. Gifted speakers have addressed the public and lifted the minds of every day people to a consideration of the forces that promote sound learning and the spread of useful knowledge.

Then there has been a gaiety in these closing functions. Young folks, released from the grind of study, have broken loose in unlimited enthusiasm, until many older persons have secretly longed to be back in the ranks of ardent youth.

The whole scene has been a picture with June's flowers and the girls in their dainty dresses. The bright faces of hopeful youth have made a picture such as no artist can produce.

That Class Night holds a great interest of the public was again demonstrated Tuesday night when an audience of 800 assembled in the high school auditorium to hear the program. Friends of the graduates enjoyed hearing the representatives of the class present the salutatory, prophecy, history, valedictory and other numbers of the program which deal with the activities of the graduates as individuals and as a class.

Tuesday night's program opened with a piano solo, "Prelude," by Rachmaninoff, played by Mrs. I. D. McCoy. Other pleasing musical numbers were given by the girls' sextet, who sang for the last time as students of the Cass City High School, for five of the group are graduates and all are now numbered with the school's alumni. The sextet sang "A Moorland Ride" and "Avalon Town."

Numbers on the program by members of the Class of 1929 included the salutatory by Grace Wylie; the president's address, Frederick Brown; the class history, Chas. Simkins; the class oration, Virginia Day; the class prophecy, Margaret Landon; the giftatory, Margaret Jondreau; the class will, Clark Helwig; and the valedictory, Esther Dilman. The serious numbers showed a far greater ripeness of thought than people generally expected, while the lighter numbers were the particular delight of the students who enjoyed to the full the humor and sallies dealing with student life. The whole program was well presented.

The high school auditorium held another large audience Wednesday evening who came to hear the commencement address and witness the presentation of diplomas to a class of 57, the largest number to graduate from the school in any one year.

The grand march, "Marche de Nuit" by Gottschalk played by Phyllis Lenzen, opened the program and to its strains the class came into the auditorium and were ushered to seats in front of the stage by Robert Edgerton, president of the junior class. Rev. Geo. Hill gave the invocation which was followed by a vocal solo, "In Memory's Garden" by G. W. Landon, with Mrs. I. D. McCoy as accompanist. Mr. Landon responded with an encore.

Supt. H. W. Holmes introduced Prof. A. A. Metcalf of the education department of the Michigan State Normal College, as the speaker. The subject of Mr. Metcalf's commencement address was "Getting By." He deprecated the spirit abroad in the

GOOD HAY IS MADE BY MODERN METHOD

Time and Labor Saving Are Secondary Factors with New Curing System.

The primary purpose of the hay making system which will be demonstrated by farm crops specialists from Michigan State College this summer is not to make hay in one day but to make the best quality hay possible and sometimes this requires two or more days.

This system uses the windrow method of curing hay because, by such curing, it is possible to save a large proportion of the leaves on alfalfa hay and less labor is required to get the hay in condition to be put in the barn.

Weather conditions seldom permit complete curing so the hay is ready to go into the barn in one day, and the hay should be left in the windrow until it is cured. If rain falls on the windrows, they can be rolled over with a side delivery rake and the labor of hand turning is unnecessary.

Hay making demonstrations have been given in many Michigan counties during the past two years and have proved one of the most popular of the new farming methods. The meetings this year will be started as soon as the alfalfa crop is in the proper stage of growth.

County agricultural agents in the counties have selected the farms where the meetings are to be held and will set the time for the demonstrations in their counties.

SUGGESTS DUMP GROUNDS FOR PARK

Converting the village dump grounds into a playground for this community and a campsite for tourists is a vision which Dr. F. L. Morris hopes to see a reality before two more years roll around.

Mr. Morris conceived the idea while hunting for flat stones along the river bed during the time his beautiful residence on North Seeger St. was in course of construction. As he came toward the peninsula formed by the two branches of the Cass river, a mile south of Cass City, he saw in his mind's eye a site which possesses possibilities for a beautiful restful spot for recreation purposes and the picture persists in remaining with him.

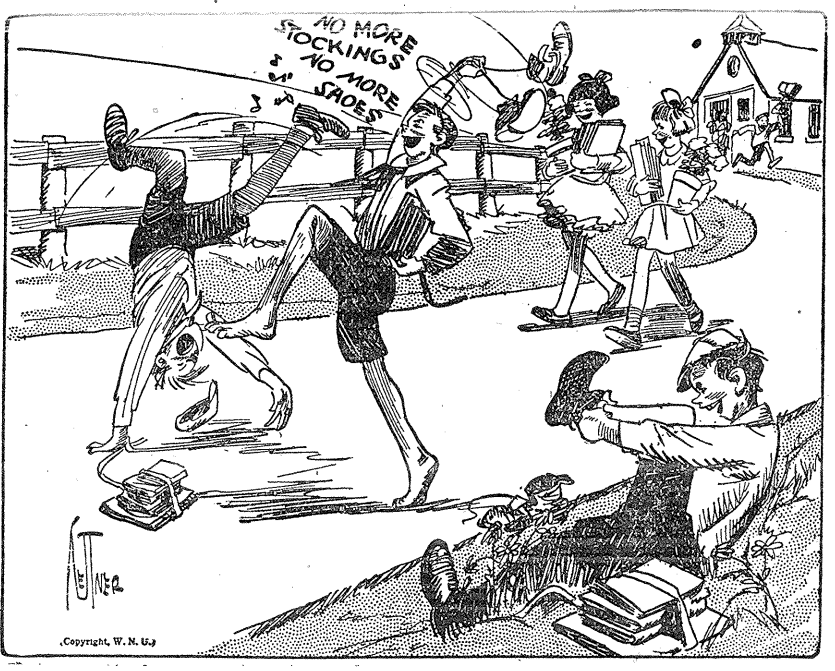

In this picture, he sees a dam built across the river a short distance below the forks which raises the water to a height that makes bathing and swimming here a delightful pleasure to young and old. He sees the peninsula cleared of debris and seeded to grass; a spot already blessed with stately elm trees. He visions a place close to town made an asset in appearance rather than a liability and the development of a picturesque spot into a place that will be sought not only by people of this community, but also by tourists who year by year are increasing in number and looking for such places as this site.

Next time you have a few spare minutes while motoring, drive down to the dump ground and look the peninsula and streams over. Shut your eyes to the debris scattered around and fix in your mind the possibilities of the place. Probably you never fully appreciated the delightful setting this little tract of land possesses.

The meeting of Evergreen Community Club will be held in Hyatt's Hall, Shabbona, Tuesday evening, June 18. All residents are especially invited and requested to bring relics of early days and stories of past experiences. A pot luck supper will be served. Everybody is invited.

LARGEST AUDIENCE AT BACCALAUREATE

Churches United for Service at High School Auditorium Sunday Evening.

The largest audience that ever attended a baccalaureate service in Cass City assembled at the high school auditorium, which proved an ideal place for this event. It is estimated that nearly 600 people were present at this service in which local churches united Sunday evening. This was the first time the baccalaureate address was ever given in the school building.

As Janet Allured played the concert march, "Capricante" by Paul Wachs, members of the senior class were ushered to seats in the auditorium by Elizabeth Ross, secretary, and Phyllis Lenzen, vice president of the junior class.

Rev. Wm. Curtis, pastor of the Baptist church, was the speaker, his subject being "Intellectual Equipment Sufficient for the Needs of the Soul." Rev. P. J. Allured read the Scripture lesson from 1 Sam. 9:1-10:1 and 6:12. Rev. C. W. Lyman gave the invocation.

An octet led the congregational singing and gave as a special number an excellent rendition of "Jerusalem" by Parker. Members of the octet were F. A. Bigelow, G. W. Landon, L. I. Wood and Virgil Logan, Misses Elymore Bigelow and Grace Beach and Mesdames J. A. Sandham and Edward Pinney. Mrs. I. D. McCoy was the accompanist.

Excerpts from Mr. Curtis' address follow.

"Clarence Buddington Kelland, in writing in the May number of the American causes his hero, Scattergood Baines, to say 'All folks is built with different length legs. That's why some is taller'n others.' Abraham Lincoln, when asked how long a man's legs should be replied in his characteristic humor, 'They should at least be long enough to reach the ground.' My own contribution to this list of terse sayings would be, 'Some folks are built so high up that they must have long legs.'"

"Israel was delighted to have given them, Saul, as a king. The great reason being, he was head and shoulders above his fellow men. A giant stalks off the whole army of Israel and holds them at bay. Our own Lincoln, standing six foot ten in his stocking feet, possessed a great soul that demanded mental training and development, as legs under himself to reach up to his soul. He had but five books for the educational work. He studied on these late at night and thought upon them during the day, and thus built a foundation under himself. And when the Turn to page 5.

RELIC OF CIVIL WAR DAYS ON EXHIBIT HERE

J. D. Brooker Has Bill of Sale of Negro Boy Sold for $1,800 on Oct. 19, 1863.

A document which recalls the days of slavery in the South is a bill of sale which conveys the ownership of a negro boy, Bill, 14 years of age, from Thomas P. Marsh to Henry O. Jenks. This rare legal paper is for a short time in the possession of J. D. Brooker of Cass City. Mr. Brooker first saw the document while on a visit in Chicago recently at the home of Mrs. Brooker's aunt, Mrs. R. G. Fisher, and Mrs. Fisher found it while viewing some of the relics left by her father, Henry O. Jenks.

Mr. Jenks, in his career, was the owner of fifty slaves. The boy, Bill, referred to in the bill of sale was purchased in October, 1863, about the middle of the Civil War, and was the last slave purchased by Mr. Jenks. The purchase price of $1,800.00 will not be considered so high when one recalls that the Confederate currency had depreciated greatly during the war and at that time a dollar was worth approximately 40 cents in English money.

Mr. Jenks lived seven years after the close of the Civil War. His slave boy, Bill, took the name of Jenks for his last name, was educated, learned the barber trade and lived to be the wealthiest negro in Arkansas.

Mr. Brooker has left the bill of sale on exhibition at the Chronicle office for a few days. The document reads as follows:

Know all men by these presents that I, Thomas P. Marsh of the County of Rox, and State of Tennessee, of the first part, for and in consideration of the sum of eighteen hundred dollars to me in hand paid at or before the enrolling and delivery of these presents by Henry O. Jenks of the County of Loureance and State of Alabama, of the second part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have bargained and sold and by these presents do grant and convey unto the said Henry O. Jenks, his executors, administrators and assigns, one negro boy named Bill, of dark complexion and aged fourteen years, to have and to hold the same unto the said Henry O. Jenks, his executors, administrators and assigns, forever.

And I do hereby warrant the said boy to be sound in body and mind and a slave for life, and I covenant for myself, my heirs, executors and administrators with the said Henry O. Jenks to warrant and defend the sale of the said boy unto the said Henry O. Jenks, against all and every person and persons lawfully claiming as to claim the same whomsoever.

In witness whereof, I have hereto set my hand and seal this 19th day of October, 1863.

"T. P. MARSH (Seal). Sealed and delivered in presence of witness, John W. Puryear."

CHANGE DATE OF SCHOOL MEETING

By act of the legislature in the session just closed the date of the annual school meetings for Michigan districts has again been changed. Two years ago the date for holding these meetings was fixed by law as the second Monday in June, a month earlier than they had been held under the old law. Now it is ordered that all primary, graded, township unit and rural agricultural school districts shall this year hold their annual meetings on the second Monday in July. The voters of each district may at that time decide whether they will continue to make that the date go back to the second Monday in June.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

CASS CITY STRONG AT COUNTY MEET

Local Athletes Break Two Records, Win in Baseball and 2nd in Track Meet.

Returning home with two new county field meet records, the county baseball championship and the second highest score in track and field events, local athletes won plenty of honors for the Cass City high school at the 23rd annual track and field meet of the Tuscola County High School Athletic Association held at Caro on Friday, June 7.

Glenn McCullough of Cass City cleared the bar at 10 feet, 10 1/2 inches, in the pole vault, which was 1 1/2 inches higher than James Brooker's high school record made at a county meet in 1920 and which had stood as a county record from that time until last Friday.

Another county record was broken Friday by Robert Edgerton, also of Cass City, who tossed the 12-pound shot 42 feet, 11 1/2 inches, eclipsing the former mark of Eastham of Caro made in 1922, of 42 feet, 4 inches.

The third new record set Friday was by the Caro relay team for the half mile in 1 minute, 37.2 seconds. The former record of 1:40 was established in 1927 by a Caro team of Ransford, Rajkovich, Strohaer and A. Moore.

In the 'championship' baseball game, Friday afternoon, Cass City slaughtered Unionville, last year's pennant winner, 17 to 3, in six innings. Ragged baseball on Unionville's part gave Cass City an early lead and the outcome was at no time in doubt. Unionville decided that the game had gone far enough at the end of the sixth inning.

In the track and field meet, Caro was first with 67 points, Cass City 45 points, Akron 12, Fairgrove 11, Vasar 6, Kingston 2, and Unionville 1. Hutchinson of Caro was high point man of the meet with 14 1/2 points. Moore of Caro was second with 13 1/2, and Edgerton of Cass City third with 12 1/2 points.

The following is a list of the events, winners and records: 120 yard low hurdles—Won by Hutchinson, Caro; second, McCrea, Caro; third, Nowland, Caro; fourth, Miller, Caro. Time—16.2 seconds. Pole vault—Won by McCullough, Cass City; second, Hutchinson, Caro; Turn to page 5.

All those living in the vicinity of the grove are requested to bring their own dishes. Mrs. Robert Brown of Caro is the president of the pioneer reunion organization.

CASS CITY'S "OPEN DAY" AT GOLF COURSE

Thursday, June 20, has been designated as "open day" for the Cass City community at the Caro Golf Club. All from this place will be given the privileges of golf and bridge at this club on this day without cost. Golf clubs will be provided for players as far as possible and the course will be turned over to inexperienced as well as real golf players for the day. Those who do not care to indulge in the sport themselves may inspect the grounds and watch the players.

Jack Arundel, professional at the Caro Golf Club, will give one hour's instruction to a class consisting of as many as care to participate. This starts at 10:00 a. m. During the remainder of the day, visitors from this point may have the full privileges of the course. The age limit is from 15 to 100 years.

Floyd L. Clark, owner of the course, says this will be an excellent opportunity for the inexperienced to become acquainted with the recreation that has become so popular with people of all ages in late years.

Michigan Happenings

Attorneys for Miss Louise King, complainant in the criminal action against Arthur Rich, which resulted in a life sentence for the Battle Creek youth, objected to Rich's petition for executive clemency. The attorneys were given permission by Parole Commissioner Arthur D. Wood to file an answer to the petition. Wood is now studying the record of the case and will not have a report prepared for submission to Governor Fred W. Green for some time. Miss King holds a judgment for $50,000 against Rich, which remains unpaid.

A tip given St. Joseph police by an angered wife resulted in the arrest and confession of Charles H. Leet, St. Joseph, to negligent homicide in connection with the death nearly three years ago of John M. Bates, veteran Benton Harbor night watchman. Judge White remanded Leet to the county jail to await sentence. Bates was killed the night of August 20, 1926, when struck by an automobile and left dying in Water street, near Park street, in Benton Harbor.

Bobby Snay, eight years old, owes his life to Fred Bjorquist, commercial fisherman, who rescued Bobby from the Manistee river in Manistee. The child and a companion were playing about the dock of the Bjorquist fishing company, when Bobby fell into the swift water. Bjorquist was attracted by the screams of the child's companion and ran to the river's edge, jumped in and after a struggle brought Bobby to shore.

The main building of St. Mary's Academy, Monroe's pioneer Catholic school, was destroyed by fire recently. The loss will reach $1,000,000, it was estimated. All of the girls in the building escaped when they were led out in orderly fashion by the nuns. Almost 50 volunteer workers were engaged when the central tower collapsed while they were inside the building trying to save furnishings and equipment.

"Honest John" Donovan, veteran Michigan Democratic leader, died recently at his home in Bay City, after a long illness. He was 85 years old. In the election that year he won by the scant margin of 61 votes in a total vote of 4,471.

Construction of the log cabin which is to become Kalamazoo's pioneer museum was started recently in Millham Park, two miles south of the city. The Southeastern Community Club is defraying the cost. A. Hawley. The minimum term was recommended. Williams twice previously served prison terms for liquor law violation.

Reversing the usual order of things, David Little, Kalamazoo contractor, when he discovered that his truck was on fire, speeded up and drove eight blocks to the fire station rather than to send for the fire department to come to the truck. The unusual procedure attracted considerable attention as the flaming truck speeded through the streets.

Thirty-two liquor law violators, 28 men and 4 women, were sentenced by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle of Bay City, to serve from 13 months to five years in various Federal prisons. The sentences were passed under the Jones Law. It was the largest number sentenced under this law since it became effective.

Tax refunds for 1918 to 1921, aggregating nearly $400,000, have been awarded to the Postum Cereal Co., of Battle Creek, by the Bureau of Internal Revenue at Washington. The refunds amounted to $94,289 for 1918; $240,721 for 1919; $24,176 for 1920 and $28,904 for 1921. They represent allowances for overassessment of income and profits taxes the bureau announces. The great part of the overassessments resulted from the bureau's original refusal to allow deductions made by the company for depreciation on some of its patents.

William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor company, and Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, world war ace, will represent Detroit on the state board of aeronautics, which was appointed recently by Governor Fred W. Green. Mayo will be the board's first chairman. After nurses and attendants at the Port Huron City Hospital had worked for 24 hours over William Deaklen, a marine chef, with sedatives, stimulants, and other remedies, the patient, who had hicoughed for 290 hours, went to sleep and when he awakened the hicough had stopped. Telegrams and telephone messages were received at the hospital from Saginaw, Detroit and other cities outlining remedies to stop Deaklen's hicoughing.

Nearly a million and a half more tons of freight passed through the Government canals at the Sault last month than in any May in history, even including the war years. Steina, Simons and Margaret were the only occupants of the car.

The third important fire within the last month caused a loss of $20,000 at Milford, when it destroyed the electric grain feed mill and store of Alfred Legg. The fire started from a baby chicken brooder placed in the show window, Deputy Sheriff Fred J. MacFarlane reported, after an investigation. The loss was caused principally by the destruction of machinery and feed in the store.

Starting apparently by sparks from a Grand Truck engine, the plant of the Booth Fisheries company at Bay City, was destroyed by fire recently. The plant was located on the river front at the head of Ottawa streets in Banks. Norman MacAuley, manager of the Booth firm, and other employees were able to save only a few books from the office, so rapidly did the fire spread.

Two East Detroit Negroes who pleaded guilty to robbing the Fraser State Bank, at Fraser, of $1,180 May 21, were given long sentences in Marquette Branch Prison by Circuit Judge Neil E. Reid of Mt. Clemens. Ollie Young was sentenced to 30 to 50 years and Reginald Holley was given from 20 to 30 years.

Ladies Flatfooted

Flatfoot is more common among women than men, according to the American Magazine. The reason, according to a medical expert, is that women toe out more both in walking and standing. The persistent practice of toeing in, standing and walking in Indian fashion, will do much to prevent flat feet.

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. B, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

FROSTING does not make the cake

The best frosting won't make a poor cake good. But it will make a good cake better... Ethyl fluid can't make a poor gasoline good. It takes the best crude and proper refining to make a good gasoline... Ethyl added to proved dependable Red Crown makes the best gasoline you can buy!

You have known Red Crown gasoline for many years. You have proved Red Crown Ethyl gasoline for five years. They are known quantities with the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) back of every drop.

You have no way to test gasoline! You can hear the knocks but you can't see what causes them.

Poor gasoline may look like the best. You can't see the gums and the sulphur in it—but if they are present they are sure to damage your car.

Gums clog the pipes—form on valves—and valve heads do not seat properly. Sulphur causes acid—acid eats wrist pins and cylinders—and you pay for repairs.

To clear up gasoline, to take out sulphur, to eliminate gums, to make it sweet and clean are expensive processes. To insure this being done is why there is a minimum price you can afford to pay for gasoline. Red Crown is sold at that minimum price. You cannot afford to pay less!

If you'd like to know what your car can do, use Red Crown Ethyl. Try it on the longest run, in the heaviest traffic, up the steepest hill. At the wheel you can feel the difference Red Crown Ethyl makes.

You can get Red Crown Ethyl anywhere in the Middle West and the price is only 3c above Red Crown—which in turn is sold at as low a price as you can afford to pay.

At any Standard Oil Service Station and at most garages.

TO THE GRADUATES.

Annually there is a class of young people graduated from high school in this city and in this county. It seems to be the custom of newspaper editors to put on a long face and a deep frown and endeavor to pass on some ponderous advice to these youngsters.

Whether they or their parents ever read it remains a mystery to the editor. Nevertheless he has the satisfaction of knowing that at least he made an effort to contribute something to this crucial period in the lives of his young friends.

Every year as we consider the boys and girls who are leaving high school we find ourselves thinking, "This is about the finest, cleanest group ever to graduate. We dread to have them graduate for many will leave town. We won't see them often in the future. They have been happy and carefree. Now their troubles will start. They are entering manhood and womanhood. How we wish they could remain just as they are."

But the facts are somewhat different. You graduates are no finer, no cleaner, no brighter than hundreds that have gone before you. You will likely, many of you, leave home—and you should look forward with pleasure to the great adventure that's ahead of you. Sure, we hate to have you go, but in that we are selfish. True, we will not see you often, but if you do your best, wherever you are, we are going to hear of it and we will all be immensely proud of you.

Yes, you will have troubles and difficulties. But do not be worried or alarmed about those. We older folks have had troubles. Those of us who had no backbone, no courage, have been overcome by our fears and dreads, and we have not amounted to much. Others of us have met the world with a smile and a determination, and we get a lot of fun out of the everyday battles of life. Life is a game—the same sort of a game you have been playing in school. You have already been able to observe what sort of a boy or girl gets ahead. The world is a huge high school. We are all students in it.

FROZEN WATER

It was a very cold night and Harry put an extra quilt over his bed.

"Oh," he said, as he got under the sheets which were very cold, "oh, isn't it cold?"

Now listening to him as he muttered to himself were the little Ice Brothers.

"Look at that glass of water," they said; "won't we have some fun!"

Harry always put a glass of water upon a chair near the bed so he could reach out and have a drink of it during the night or when he first woke up in the morning.

"Now for our fun," said the Ice Brothers. They hopped on the edge of the glass and chuckled.

They were going to have the best sort of a time! Yes, indeed they were!

And nobody was going to stop them! No indeed!

So they skimmed ever so lightly on top of the water. They could hear their other brothers at work on the window panes.

"We'll do some work, too," they said. "But the little boy won't have a glass of water when he wakes up," said one of the Ice Brothers who was a bit more warm-hearted than the others.

"You're not fit to be an Ice Brother," said the others in disgust. "You're a warm-hearted creature. You're not cold and hard and freezing as you should be."

"I know," said the warm-hearted little Ice Brother sadly. "Pretty soon they had skimmed over the top of the glass so many times that it was covered with ice."

If Harry had awakened then he would have had to drink a great piece of ice, and he couldn't have done that!

On and on the Ice Brothers worked, skimming over the glass again and again until the water was frozen solid.

Deeper and deeper they made the ice, and harder and harder. The warm-hearted little Ice Brother had no chance to say or do anything with so many against him.

"Why, if you had your way," they said, "we would never have any fun. You always melt if anyone looks at you."

"Well," said the warm-hearted little Ice Brother, "you don't care to have Mr. Sun look too hard at all of you."

"Mr. Sun is different, slightly different," said the others. And they kept at work.

Before long it was morning. Such fun as the Ice Brothers had had. Harry was now waking up, though, and they were watching to see what would happen.

He stretched out his arm, only half opening his eyes.

He partly raised himself up in bed and took the glass, holding it to his lips.

"No water!" What did it mean? Wider opened Harry's eyes and he looked at the glass.

"Well, did I ever," said Harry, in surprise. "My glass is solid ice!" "Ha, ha," chuckled the Ice Brothers. "I know what I'll do," said Harry. "I'll put my glass in the sunshine."

"Oh dear," muttered the Ice Brothers, "we hope he won't do that."

But Harry got up and put his glass on the window sill. Now Mr. Sun was shining in the window with might and main.

"What do you want, little boy?" asked Mr. Sun. "Mr. Sun, please melt the ice in my glass," said Harry.

And Mr. Sun began. "Oh, don't melt us," said the Ice Brothers. "Sorry," said Mr. Sun. "I must do my duty."

"But you shouldn't melt," said the warm-hearted little Ice Brother who had been scolded for melting so easily.

"Can't help it," said the Ice Brothers as they melted, and Harry found the ice was now his drink of water.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED TO 57 GRADUATES

Concluded from first page. land which "gets by" with cheap material and careless workmanship and cited incidents where such tactics have resulted in dire calamities. Such an outlook would seem hopeless if there were not another spirit prominent in America which says that nothing is too good; that nothing shall be done that is not done properly. And to this latter spirit the speaker pinned his faith in the perpetuation and improvement of the country's civilization.

The improvement of American civilization, he said, rested on three foundations—the American family, education and religion. In the family, he pleaded for the old-fashioned regard for the sacredness of the marriage relationship and a high standard of home life. He said education was the hope for American civilization and that he had no fear for it, but suggested that the problem of educating girls for their life work was far from being adequate. Mr. Metcalf said he did not want America to lose her spirituality. She should have no place for selfishness, greed or arrogance, but should ever keep in mind the noble lesson taught by the parable of the Good Samaritan.

He concluded his address by expressing his hope and faith that the younger generation had the ability and the courage to solve the problems facing America today and through their efforts its civilization would be greatly improved.

Following the address, Janet Allured presented the piano solo, "To Spring" by Grieg and then Dr. S. B. Young, president of the board of education, gave a brief address brimful of wholesome advice preceding the presentation of the diplomas to members of the class. Rev. P. J. Allured pronounced the benediction, bringing to a close the commencement week activities of 1929.

hour came that demanded his very soul, his God-given personality, he had legs to stand on, educational fitting if you please, that made him head and shoulders above his fellow men, and the people of this great land put the government on his shoulders and he was able to carry it well through a terrible storm.

"A young man in England, working early and late at the loom with his lessons pinned up before him on his loom, studied them as he walked to and fro during the day, and was getting the mental training that would free his soul in a great desire to be of some service to his fellow man. The transformations in the great continent of Africa as we see them today was begun by the great soul of David Livingstone. And time would fail us to tell of a Taylor in China, a Carey and a Judson in India, a Wesley heading a great religious organization, a Washington, first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen, a Roosevelt as a great statesman, a Burbank with a trail of beautiful flowers and useful plants as his monument, the artists of varied types and specialists with their contributions.

"In passing along the streets of one of our large cities, I saw seated on the walks, a cripple. He was selling lead pencils. The head and trunk of his body were fully developed. He had feet, but no legs. A subject for sympathy and pity. But more so is the individual with a great soul, having no ability of expression. A character of great wealth and no education. Opposite that character is a needy world waiting for the influence of that soul. With no language but a cry."

"The impact of this great need is becoming more manifest with each generation. Standards are being raised higher. Scholarship is even becoming popular. I predict that in ten years a college degree will be a very common rank. This advancement will react in a multitude of avenues. And the individual with a mediocre education will find himself crippled with many positive limitations. I am pleading for your own soul liberties.

I want to create within your life a hungering for greater intelligence and understanding.

"Education is not character. Aaron Burr, going through one of our greatest educational institutions, is still an Aaron Burr when he graduates. He is even more powerful to perpetuate his own vice. Even so might we mention a Leopold, a Loeb, a Rich. Our colleges are saying we don't want you to send us your morally-delinquents. We don't want to train and equip a generation of burglars and brigands.

"Train and educate for the needs of the best of your souls. Don't camp too near the earth. Don't sell out too cheap. Think along lines of your good qualities till you have found yourself, your soul. Believe you are loved by others and live worthy of it, head and shoulders above the things that vex you. One is usually as big a failure as he thinks he is. A great man is most unconscious of his greatness. He replies, 'When saw we thee an hungered and fed thee, naked and clothed thee, sick or imprisoned and visited thee.' You have seen the work of the dissolving lens as you have watched the picture being thrown up on the screen. A new form gradually comes before our eyes in the same place where we beheld another. And I know of no better closing than the picture of Jesus Christ—your Saviour and mine; He who increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man; who had an antidote for every human longing, a hope for every discouraged heart, and forgiveness for every erring life. He said that he had seen him had seen the Father. And they called his name Jesus."

Leads in Rice

Louisiana ranks first among the states for rice production. This crop covers an acreage of 456,959. All the prairie district has been transformed into one great rice field; some is also grown on the lowlands of the Mississippi valley. Other states producing rice are Texas, Arkansas and California.

Keep Evergreens Damp

See that the soil around your evergreens does not lack water this month. Much winter killing is due to "freezing dry." Soak them well with water on mild days. No harm will be done by water freezing around them. If you have evergreens in your window boxes keep them well watered, too—American Home.

Dead chicks are expensive. Purina Startena fed according to directions will avoid much of that loss.

They say you should always leave the table hungry. We do better than that. We leave it empty.

A little Cow Chow fed now will pay mighty well a little later on. Every summer we sell more Cow Chow to satisfied customers. They tell us it pays.

Calf Chow raises fine calves for about one-half the cost of milk.

It costs a lot more to let chicks die than to save them. The best feed you can buy is by far the cheapest. You can save a little money by buying cheap feeds or you can feed Startena and save those chicks. Which will it be?

Speed up broilers if you want to make the most profit out of them. Purina Chick Growena is the feed that will do it.

It will make you more money because it will put on more weight and do it quicker. Feed Growena for early, profitable broilers.

We've definitely decided not to become an aviator until they take down all the trees, high buildings and telegraph poles.

We've reached the time of life that when anybody dies we asked nervously how old he was.

One of our farmer friends says he wishes he could let his bills stand as long as the farm relief bill has stood.

We're not stretching the truth one bit when we say that it costs less to feed Calf Chow than not to feed it. One hundred pounds of Calf Chow at $5.35 takes the place of about 800 pounds of whole milk in raising that calf.

Good flour makes baking a pleasure. That's why so many use Cream of Wheat flour.

Cass City has at least one considerate husband. He says he oils up the lawn-mower for his wife before he goes to work.

The baby chick season is nearly over. Have a few more chicks to sell for July delivery. Get your order in now.

We received another car of Purina Chows last week and a car of Cream of Wheat flour this week.

It's the little things that bother us. You can sit on a mountain, for instance, but you can't sit on a tack.

What bothers us is where these girl hand-dits you read about carry their pistols.

Don't Let Your Community Make the Same Mistake

Within recent years many communities have made the mistake of paving their roads and streets at what they considered a "bargain price." The taxpayers thought they would save thousands of dollars.

In many instances the maintenance has not only wiped out the hoped for saving, but has exceeded original cost. And in many cases also it has been necessary to build entirely new pavements—of permanent construction.

There are communities, however, which know the cheapest is not always the best. Many of these also built roads and streets several years ago. And they built for permanence with concrete.

These concrete pavements, built in accordance with approved standards of construction, are in as good condition today as when they were built.

Which of these communities will yours be?

DAIRY FACTS

ONION FLAVOR IS CAUSE OF LOSS

Pest Is One of First Plants to Appear in Spring.

There is little sale for milk bearing the aroma of the wild onion, and when butter has this flavor, it is next to impossible to eat it. "Yet we have the wild onion with us in many of our best pastures," says John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at the North Carolina State college. "This pest is one of the first plants to appear in the spring and is also a visitor in late fall. Fortunately during the summer months, the plants die down and thus give no trouble. Onion flavor makes milk practically unsalable and the butter made from cream with this flavor is usually sold to a renovating plant at a very low price."

This loss is always handed down from the creamery to the milk producer since the price that a creamery pays for butterfat is determined by the price it receives for butter. It is important, therefore, to keep this flavor out of the milk, states Mr. Arey. One of the best methods of doing this is to take the cows off of the infested pasture at least six hours before it is time to milk.

Mr. Arey states that tests made with the herd of dairy cows owned by the North Carolina experiment station have shown this to be an effective way of ridding milk of onion flavor. The tests further show that this plan should not cause any great inconvenience to the average dairyman. The period of time during which the wild onion is most prevalent is usually short and so the plan need be in operation only a few weeks. If properly carried out, the method will save the dairymen thousands of dollars each season.

Milking Very Important

Part of Cow Management

The udder of a cow is a delicate organ and very sensitive to abuse or improper handling. Some persons seem to have an idea that it is simply a sack into which the milk gathers to be drawn off at milking time.

The udder, in fact, is just one large collection of cavities or milk-secreting glands lined by many cells or small pouches and surrounded by a network of arteries and veins. During the day and night these arteries are bringing together the various constituents of which milk is composed, such as fats, proteins, water, ash, etc. Along toward milking time these cells have collected their full capacity of milk-producing elements, but not until the actual process of milking is begun do the numerous cells in the udder start to give up their contents, which gravitate to the milk cistern in and above the teat.

There is no denying the fact that milking the cow is a very important phase of her management. This is especially noticeable when she has been hustled into the barn with a dog at her heels or otherwise excited.

Profitable Production of Average Dairy Cow

A dairy cow will not pay her expenses, in the opinion of Prof. J. H. Fuller, head of the dairy husbandry department at the University of New Hampshire, unless she produces at least 7,500 pounds of milk per year. This production, which he considers necessary to meet such charges as feed, labor and overhead, is nearly 3,000 pounds greater than that of the average cow in the United States.

Professor Fuller suggests a minimum of ten cows for each full-time worker, assuming that the man who cares for ten cows will also do other work about the farm. He says that a man with fifteen cows can well afford a milking machine and recommends the use of litter carriers and drinking cups to keep labor costs on the dairy farm to a minimum.

Fall Freshening Offers

Some Big Possibilities

It is not surprising that the good dairyman has his cows freshen in the fall, since it gives him the high milk flow during a season when he can control and keep uniform his rations and stable appointments. Then, too, winter is the time when dairy products bring the best prices, for a large proportion of the population of milk producers have their cows freshen in spring, and do not supply silage, roots or even good dry rations. For that reason the heaviest supply of dairy products is offered in spring and summer and the light supply in fall and winter.

Limiting Milk Yields

Milk yields may be limited by an insufficient supply of lime in the feed. Corn, oats, timothy and redtop are low in lime while the legume hays are high. A ton of soy-bean hay contains about eighty times as much lime as a ton of shelled corn.

Legume hay crops, particularly alfalfa, yield two to three times as many nutrients to the acre as the non-legume hays. Besides this, the legume hays excel in palatability and in vitamin content.

Christ, the Bread of Life.
John 6:35. Jesus said: I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst. 47. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life.

John 6:51. I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

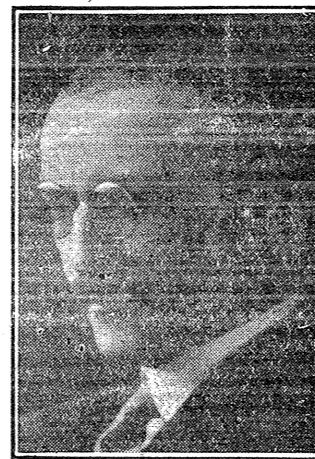

Prayer: Feed me, O Thou Bread of Life, till I want no more.

DAIRY FACTS

ROUGHAGE USEFUL IN DAIRY RATION

Limited Grain Feed Found to Be Most Profitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many dairymen, in their effort to increase the production per cow, have acquired the habit of feeding too much concentrated grain feed, says O. E. Reed, chief of the bureau of dairy industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. More net profit per cow can be made under some conditions, he says, by feeding a limited grain ration or even a roughage ration in preference to a full-grain ration.

To demonstrate this statement, Mr. Reed cites the results of an experiment by the bureau at Hinton, Mont. In this experiment three plans of feeding were compared. Ten cows were fed over a three-year period on each of the following rations: For one year (1) roughage alone, consisting of corn silage, roots, alfalfa hay, and irrigated pasture; for another year (2) the same roughages and a limited grain ration of one pound of grain mixture to each of six pounds of milk produced; and for still another year (3) the same roughages and a full grain ration of one pound of grain to each three pounds of milk produced.

On the first ration, when production was figured to maturity, the cows averaged 478 pounds of butterfat, on the second ration 584.1 pounds, and on the third 619.9 pounds. At the prevailing prices for feed and for milk and butterfat, the returns over cost of feed were $161 per cow on the first ration, $185 on the second, and $132 on the third. The limited grain ration was therefore the most profitable, with the roughage ration a close second.

Inefficient Separators Waste Much Butterfat

Butterfat left in skim milk by inefficient cream separators often costs dairymen and farmer owners anywhere from a few dollars to several hundred dollars yearly. Improper adjustment and lack of care on the part of the operators cause most of the losses. Testers in dairy herd improvement associations of 30 states find the loss from poor skimming one of the most serious problems of the industry.

Out of 30 typical cream separators recently checked by testers, only three were wasting less than $20 worth of butterfat a year and five were leaving more than $100 worth of butterfat in the skim milk annually. One new separator, only a month old, was found to be leaving 1 per cent butterfat in the skim milk, probably one-fourth of the total fat present.

In 523 demonstrations during the early part of 1928, a manufacturer of cream separators found that the average separator was wasting butterfat with a yearly value of $79.61. Tests for 1927 gave similar results.

Calf Scours Is Usually Caused by Indigestion

Calf scours is a common disease of the digestive tract and is usually caused by indigestion. The calf that scours early in life may be seriously handicapped and of course sometimes dies. Prevention is best but not always possible. Care should be taken that the calf is not overfed, that the milk is always fed warm, and that the milk is uniformly sweet and fed from clean buckets. If scours occur, cut the milk down one-half and give a dose of one to three ounces of castor oil or of mineral oil. Raw eggs may be used to correct the trouble. Two or three tablespoonfuls of lime water in the milk is sometimes effective.

Dairy Facts

Succession can be furnished with silage, mangel beets, or wet beet pulp. All of these will prove their worth at the pail.

Sweet clover is a great pasture. One acre of it will produce more than three acres of red clover. Fifteen acres of sweet clover pasture will carry forty Holstein cows from May until August.

Reports are received frequently that cows bloat on sweet clover. There is little danger of bloat if the cows are pastured regularly, keeping the clover down or if the cattle are not turned in when the clover is wet.

Alfalfa hay is highly esteemed as a roughage for dairy cows because it is rich in protein and lime and is laxative and palatable.

Clover hay is almost as valuable as alfalfa from the standpoint of the dairy cow. The protein content is not quite so high as clover.

Wheat middlings are very satisfactory when fed to dairy cattle, being higher in protein and total digestible nutrients than bran. They should also be fed with other concentrates.

HOW

COST OF WASTEFULNESS IS PAID BY CONSUMER.

Children ought to be taught to distrust the principle of something for nothing and to understand that cost goes with everything worth having. There would be a big saving in the coming generation from such instruction. And along with such teaching should go a training to avoid waste.

Bushels of wasted foodstuffs are carted away from every grocery store because of the carelessness of customers. The bargain counters are loaded with the results of shoppers' carelessness. But the losses of the bargain sales and the wastes of spoiled goods must all appear in the general cost of living. The consumer has to pay, otherwise there would be no one in business.

The bench in the park and the desk in school belong to everybody and to nobody, but the cost of broken benches and whittled desks all show up in the taxes. The rights of private property are sacred and every one has the right to do normally and reasonably as he likes with his own. But there is a sense in which all the property, all the accumulation of wealth, all the buildings and the other improvements, are community property, and the useless destruction or wasting of any of these is a general loss sustained by all.—Detroit News.

How Frog Thieves Rob Plant of Sustenance

Tree frogs sometimes borrow the insect-catching leaves of a Southern species of pitcher plant and use them to catch insects for their own purpose.

These little yellow-green frogs are often found inside the narrow, trumpet-shaped hollow leaves of the pitcher plant. The leaves normally serve as traps for insects, whose remains apparently nourish the plant. The frogs, however, rob the plants of their rightful prey as it tumbles into the mouths of the pitchers.

In a few instances the frogs are cheated, for frog-inhabited leaves have been seen across whose openings spiders had spun their webs, so that any insect undertaking to enter the inviting mouth of the trap would reach neither the frog's stomach nor the plant.

How Dogs Hunt Fish

The native finds the dog a useful companion, and utilizes him in many ways. In the Torres Strait islands, off Australia, some of the natives train their dogs to hunt fish, and when out on the reef take them with them for this purpose. One will see the animal wade into the water to a likely spot, then push its paw beneath a rock, grope around searchingly, and presently withdraw it clutching a fine fish. One dog was trained to catch fish in this way and place its capture on a stone on shore; after barking to attract its owner's attention and apprise him of the catch, it waded into the water again, intent on fresh spoil. The islander seems always to have had his dog; it figures in the old legends, and even in the old folk-stories handed down regarding the moon.

The Back-Porch Swing

How I love the children's laughter,
As they gayly squeal and sing,
When they're swinging from the rafter,
In the little back-porch swing!
Mem'ries sweet are o'er me stealing
As I watch them playing there,
Gayly swinging to the ceiling,
Breezes playing in their hair!

Look—the Boy is wildly "pumping,"
As so many times have I.
Now the ceiling he is bumping,
Soon the "cat" will start to "die."
On the board he now is seated,
Feet tucked up to clear the floor—
Oh, how oft have I repeated
This same thing in days of yore!

Now, Miss Goldie Locks is swinging—
She whom brother loves to tease.
Listen to the rascal singing—
See the dimples in her knees!
Fluffy hair—and face that's beaming,
While her cheeks the breezes kiss,
Eyes ashine with laughter gleaming;
Heart aglow with childish bliss.

Childhood days come backward winging,
As I watch them at their play—
In my mind, I too, am swinging
In the self-same care-free way.

From an old-time friendly rafter,
And within my heart there ring
Echoes of the shouts of laughter
From a little old rope swing.
