Tuscola's Total Taxes for 1929 Are Close to a Million Dollars.

At the recommendation of the agricultural committee, the board of supervisors, during the closing days of the October session, voted to engage a full time county veterinary surgeon to care for tuberculosis testing of cattle in Tuscola county. Five thousand dollars was appropriated for this work, $3,000.00 of which is to be used for the veterinarian's salary for the first year and $2,000.00 is for t. b. Berniece G. Baird, 24, Mayville. tags and supplies and mileage. The position has been offered to Dr. High, who has been with the State Department of Agriculture for many years, and is well recommended by an official of that body.

The agricultural committee reported the payment of $919.74 for mileage for the county agricultural agent from Oct. 1, 1928 to Sept. 8, 1929.

The amount of taxes to be raised in Tuscola county this fall will come within $35,000.00 of a million dollars. The exact amount is $965,602.29. This is for all taxes-state, county, school and for all township purposes. WHETHER he is fat or lean, we can fit him. Get him to come in and let us measure him just once, then he's set for a lifetime.

We measure him by a system called trunk ratio.* It isn't painful, not even a lot of bother. One reading of the tape measure and we know the size.

We'll give him a suit that really fits-he won't need to order a size larger to get more room, nor a size too small to get rid of the slack. Peninsular Union Suits are made to give gently where elasticity is needed, then come back to their correct shape.

And from top to bottom, a Peninsular will pass your own inspection. Fabrics? Come in with him and look them over. Flat lock seams? Yes. madam, that's the way they're stitched throughout. Buttons are put on with twenty-six stitches of strong thread-these buttons are specialties for bachelors, but you'll appreciate them, too.

Send him in. He can tell you just what he wants from then on.

"The Golden Bridge"

1873 the Pennsylvania railroad built a 13-span, single track bridge across the Susquehanna river at Havre de Grace, Maryland. In 1904 the railroad built a double-track bridge to re place the old one and offered to present the original bridge to the counties, which it connects as a highway bridge since it is on one of the main routes between Philadelphia and Wash ington. Strange to say, the counties turned up their noses, so to speak, and declined to accept the gift. The railroad then offered the bridge to a group of citizens of these two counties, who accepted it promptly, had a romantic vision, "put up" $100 each as a working fund and began to operate it as a toll bridge. Auto traffic developed "by leaps and bounds," and the owners made money "hand over fist." From 1910 to 1923 it is said to have netted them more than $1,000,000, having been nicknamed "The Golden Bridge."

In 1923 the state road commission purchased the structure, under legislative authority, for $585,000, and con tinued the tolls until it was paid for and improvements were added.

The old span was narrow. Two trucks could not pass. Tob overcome this handicap and double its capacity, the annual traffic having grown to about 275,000 vehicles; an ingenious plan was worked out, whereby another deck was anchored to the superstructure. Now, all north-bound traffic moves via the upper deck, and all south-bound traffic via the lower or original deck and the tolls have been cancelled.

A deer indicates dignity and wealth, while the unicorn Kilin is the emblem of perfection that appears only at the birth of a virtuous ruler.

Friends-

Allow me, as one of your merchants, to make this suggestion to you.

It's but six weeks to Christmas. Why not now, when Holiday Goods are arriving and you have some spare change, pick up some of the goods you will need. It will be more pleasant for you by getting better service, and if your merchants haven't what you want, give them time to procure it for you. It will divide the rush period into a steady trade and all will be happier for it. Why not enter into the spirit of it now instead of saying "I wish it never came," or that it was all over.

Colder Weather Is Here With Us Now

Let me suggest to you some items you will need. For chilly nights, what's nicer than to snuggle into a warm blanket, and they are priced reasonable from $1.00 each, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $4.00 to $10.00 per pair., or a fancy blanket to take the place of a comforter from $2.00 to $5.00 each and part wool.

How about cold mornings? B. V. D.'s are fine in the summer. Why not try a nice fleeced union for $1.25 suit or part wool ones for $1.50. Nice heavy 100% wool one for $4.00.

You have taken care of your body. Ever get cold feet? We have part wool hose for men for 25c; for ladies, Rayon and wool 50c. Lisle and Silk, $1.00. Also higher priced ones if you wish them.

How about Gloves priced from 50c to $5.00. Look them over.

There is no excuse for anyone who plans to build or is building a new home to have other than an attractive house. Designs for modern homes have been brought to a point of excellence where exactly the right number of rooms to meet the family needs and their arrangement can be had in a home that is good to look at and one of which the owner may be proud. Take, for example, the modified Dutch colonial home shown in the accompanying illustration. Added to this rectangular house are an enclosed vestibule, an open terrace and a sun room. These give the exterior of the home an appearance of size much greater than its dimensions and add to its comfort and attractiveness.

This house is designed for the farm family or a family living in town that requires three fairly large bedrooms. It is 26 feet wide and 22 feet deep, exclusive of the sun room at the end and the terrace at the front. The home contains six rooms. The living room is 13 feet 6 inches wide and 17 feet 6 inches deep and in the center of the wall which separates it from the sun room is an open fireplace. The sun room is reached through double french doors at the front of the room. "An open stairway with one turn leads | mum of labor.

Early Political Parties

President Jackson's administrations were the first to be so called Democratic. These of Washington and John Adams were known as Federal and those of Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and John Quincy Adams as Democratic-Republican.

Temporary Fences Save Time, Labor and Money

THEY cut labor costs by letting the stock do L much of the harvesting. They turn into money much forage so often allowed to go to waste, enable you to rotate stock and hogs over different fields and maintain fertility. Live stock as well as hogs salvage much grain left in the field.

For instance-dividing either permanent or temporary pastures, hogging off part of your corn, turning in on legume crops-all these practices are profitable and all can be followed through using a few stretches of temporary fence here and there on the farm.

Temporary fences can be quickly erected on Red Top Steel Posts. With a Red Top Driver these drive easily through hardest soil at the rate of 200 to 300 a day. And after using them for temporary fences they can be withdrawn and used in your permanent fence line-makes your fence post dollar do double duty.

Come in and let us show you the advantages of the Red Top Post that make it the most dependable and economical post for you to use for all purposes.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—In the usually quiet home of Rev. Mr. Tolliver, Methodist minister in the small town of Red Thrush, Iowa, his motherless daugh-ters, Helen, Miriam, and Ellen—"Gin-ger Ella"—are busy "grooming" their sister Marjory for participation in the "beauty pageant" that evening. With Eddy Jackson, prosperous young farm-er, her escort, Marjory leaves for the anticipated triumph. mate of his character.

CHAPTER II—Overwork and nerv-ous strain attendant on the building of a new church to replace the out-grown structure has affected Mr. Tol-liver's eyes to the point of threatened blindness, and he is forbidden to use them, though continuing to occupy his pulpit. Ginger has tried in many ways to add to the family's slender income, but she is not discouraged Mariory to add to the family's slender income, but she is not discouraged. Marjory, with Eddy Jackson and a friend he introduces as Tub Andrews, returns in triumph, acknowledged the prize beauty, and with fifty dollars in gold, the chief prize. She gives the money to her father as part of the expense necessary for the treatment of his eyes by Chicago specialists.

CHAPTER III—With Miriam, Mr. Tolliver leaves for Chlcago. Eddy Jackson brings another friend, Alex-ander Murdock, who he says has just returned from a tour of the world, to the parsonage. Ginger, whose heart is set on her two sisters making rich marriages (Helen is engaged to a pro-fessor of mathematics, Horace Lang-ley, poor in the world's goods), is at first elated, but becomes chilled at the announcement that Murdock is workanouncement that Murdock is work-ing in a "chain" grocery store. Obvious-ly no "catch," Ginger thinks, and snubs him. Mr. Tolliver returns, his eyes unimproved and the doctors giv-ing him little hope.

CHAPTER IV—Marjory unwittingly gives Ginger the germ of an idea which may fill the parsonage treas-ury. She pens an appeal, in the form of a chain letter, for the donation of a dime for a "Parsonage Home for the Blind," which she signs "E. Tol-liver, Treasurer," and sends to three women whose names she had seen in a newspaper, in other towns, urging them to continue the chain. She gets results at once and feels her problem is solved, quieting unacceptable thoughts as to the propriety of her act by reasoning that her appeal real-ly is for a home for the blind, her fa-ther. Helen is married, and leaves the parsonage.

After all, Miss Jenkins was merely a temporary companion in the parsonage. It was Marjory, the pretty twin, who, since the marriage of Helen, and in the absence of Miriam, must reign as hostess. It was a pleasant experience for Marjory, and she took it seriously, superintending the entire arrangement of her father's room for the young minister, and merely permitting Miss Jenkins to dust and sweep, and Ginger to wash the windows.

All during the Saturday morning, as their hands were busy with their thoroughly rehearsed in her part, seated herself sedately in the living room with the Central Christian Advocate. Marjory repaired to her father's room to give a last deft touch to table, to curtains, to the fall of the lace bedspread. Ginger, after meeting the postman half way down the flagstone path, started to the attic with her mail, six letters, each with a small hard roundness in one corner. Six dimes were added to her hoard in the doll's trunk. Ginger shook the trunk affectionately. Two dollars and eighty cents now. Not so very much, yet, but still, considering the original outlay of three postage stamps, it was doing very well. And certainly, business was growing. Never a day passed now without at least one welcome letter for E. Tolliver, one dime twenty-and at the very number, Miss Jenkins went to the door, a flustered and flushed Miss Jenkins, unused to doing the honors of a house. For Ginger, aghast at the stumbling confusion of the embarrassed Miss Jenkins, of which she heard every word, in impulsive eagerness to rush to the rescue of the parfor the home. "Yes, such a misfortune." "Yes, such a nice man. That's your bathroom—you needn't be afraid to use it, it goes with this room. We have another one at the back. Marjory emptied the closet for you, and the bureau drawers are empty. We have supper at six o'clock, and- Oh, I forgot to introduce the girls. But they didn't come down, did they?" Beneath the bed, Marjory writhed in helpless fury at the poor woman's fluttering anxiety. But she went out at last, and closed the door behind her. Marjory lay rigid beneath the bed, hating the young preacher, hating Miss Jenkins, despising herself for her childish curiosity. Her only hope was that quick-witted Ginger, missing her, would guess her predicament, and devise a scheme to get the new boarder out of the room for a while.

apple barrel counted the approved Hiram Buckworth hearing the slight sound, the click of the latch, opened the bathroom door.

"Yes?" he called: "What is it?" The door to the hall stood open. He crossed the room, and looked down the corridor. At the farther end, he saw, or thought he saw, the flying French heel of a white slipper. "Haunted," he said to himself.

'That's nice." But when he went back into the room, he not only closed the door. carefully, but turned the key in the lock as well. "'I ask you-very con-fiden-tially""

-he whistled softly as he turned back into the bathroom-"''Ain't-she --sweet?" "

Miss Jenkins had gone straight from her reception of the new minister to the rescue of Ginger Ella, for she had rightly interpreted both the sudden crash and the ensuing silence as indicative of disaster in that direction. Unfortunately for that young person, the apple barrel had nails in it, nails that stuck inward. Ginger, bleeding on hoth arms, bruised on both knees, and altogether furious, was further annoyed by the fact that she was pinned into the barrel by the inturning nails. At every slight motion to extricate herself, there were ominous little sounds of tearing cloth spelling ruin for the summer frock. With Miss Jenkins' help, however, she managed at last, slowly, not without pain, to get herself out of the barrel with only a few minor rents and stains of blood upon the precious garment.

Some two hours later, Hiram Buckworth, with his most ingratiating smile, stepped out onto the ramblershaded veranda, where his eyes fell upon a pleasant picture. Miss Jenkins sat in a low rocker, carefully mending a torn new summer frock, while Ginger, in a plain flame-colored smock, sat on a stool shelling peas. And in the hammock, one slim foot crossed over the other, both white arms over her head, lay Marjory, so still and lovely that Hiram Buckworth caught his breath at sight of her.

"I beg pardon," he said pleasantly, 'may I come out? I don't have to stay in my room until supper, do I?" Marjory sat stiffly upright in the hammock. Ginger shook the dust of the garden from her hands, and set NY THE to tell you about it," Marjory added. "I don't recall that she mentioned it," he said pleasantly. "It seems very reasonable indeed."

"But when you consider that you only get fifteen-" Ginger's voice trailed off to a significant silence.

"But we decided that if you objected, we would keep you for eight," encouraged Marjory.

"I shouldn't think of objecting," he said. "Quite the contrary. I am sure putting up with me is worth even more.'

"And I will do your laundry with the girls'," added Miss Jenkins. "And there really isn't much to spend money for in Red Thrush." They told him of their father, of his patience, his faith, his sense of humor. They told him of Joplin Westbury, and the new church. They told him of Eddy Jackson, at Pay Dirt.

"And whose boy-friend is Eddy Jackson?" he asked, reflective eyes on Marjory, sitting stiffly erect in the hammock.

"Nobody's. Eddy Jackson isn't that kind," said Ginger indignantly.

"I may as well explain Ginger, I mean Ellen, right at the start," said Marjory, laughing. "She is against boy-friends. She thinks they are simply disgusting. And she thinks the rest of us-even Miss Jenkins-are simply man-mad. Ginger thinks a man who 'paws' should be shot at sunrise, if not sooner." He smiled understandingly. "And who, then, is Eddy Jackson?" "Eddy Jackson," exclaimed Ginger, with one of her broad sweeping ges tures, "is father's best and dearest and most intimate friend, a genuine character, and no base pretender."

In the early evening, answering their meek request over the telephone, Eddy Jackson, busy with his experiments, sent one of the college students in his car for them and they drove out to the farm. Eddy was still busy in the laboratory, but Mr. Tolliver waited on the porch for them, with Miriam, and-this to Ginger's speechless fury-Alexander Murdock. Without a word to any of them, she marched into the laboratory, completely spoiling a delicate experiment. "Eddy Jackson, you double-crossed me."

"I did not," he denied, quickly following her line of thought. "I didn't invite him. He came out by himself this afternoon, and he looked at Miriam, and stayed. I don't think he'll ever go home again. And besides, you didn't tell me to keep him away from anybody but Marjory."

This Ginger could not deny, so, with her usual sang froid, she dismissed the entire subject, and led Eddy out to meet the new minister.

Hiram Buckworth shook hands with him cordially. "I am glad to meet you," he said, "and I am looking forward most keenly to knowing your father. I have heard nothing but the recital of his rare virtues since I reached Red Thrush."

"My father?" Eddy was nonplused. "You must be mistaken. I have no father, my father is dead-"

"I know." Eddy Jackson laughed. "You mean Ginger Ella. Sure. She puts me, and her father, and Moses in the same class. We're all archangels together." To be continued.

YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature was in lavor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for consti-pation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-testing and youngsters have it tasting, and youngsters love it. Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Cald-well's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello. Illinois, for free trial bottle.

said Ginger.

"I shall be very dignified. I dare say he will think I am twenty-one." "Well, remember he's a preacher, and don't waste your good powder on him,"

"Mr. Westbury says he is a very brilliant student, very."

"Such a dumb name, Hiram," complained Ginger. "Wouldn't you just know his parents were Methodists?" By one o'clock they were dressed for his arrival. Miss Jenkins,

It sweetens the stomach and starts the liver and bowels without cramping or overacting. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" er you may get an imitation fig syrup.

There's peace in the household guarded by Castoria. Peaceful sleep for Baby. Uninterrupted rest for Mother. For a few drops of pure Castoria will quiet any fretful infant. Or put the little one back to sleep when there's an upset dur-ing the night.

Parents, don't try to do without good old Castoria! It isn't fair to the baby, and it makes things hard for you. You can't give Baby medicine meant for grown-ups-or shouldn't! Castoria is the solution. It is always safe. It al-ways does the work. And although it acts as swiftly as an opiate or a narcotic, it contains neither. Castoria is purely vegetable. Give it whenever there's constipation, colic, diarrhea. No less than five million modern mothers have come to depend on Castoria, for twenty-five million bottles were bought last year! Get yours to day; don't wait for some night when it's needed, and the drugstore is closed!
