IRVINE STRIFFLER GOES AS CHEMIST TO ONT.

Irvine Striffler left Sunday for Chesterville, Ont., where he has accepted a position as chemist at a plant of the Nestle's Food Co. The Chesterville factory, it is said, manufactures more different lines of Nestle's food products than any other of the Nestle's string of plants. Because of this fact, with its greater opportunities in a large field of products, Mr. Striffler decided to accept the position.

MISS MCGREGORY A BRIDE OF MR. CHRISTMAS

A quiet and simple wedding occurred Wednesday evening, Mar. 19, at the First Baptist church of Farmington, when Miss Nellie McGregory and Mr. Sydney Christmas were united in marriage by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Palmer, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends. The ring service was used.

The bride wore a dress of white satin. She was attended by Miss Ruth Palzer, who wore a dress of pink crepe de Chine. Donald Palzer attended the groom.

Mrs. Christmas is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGregory of Farmington, formerly of Shabbona, Mich. Mr. Christmas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christmas of London, England. They will make their home in Farmington.

STUDENTS BEGIN WORK IN ESSAY CONTEST

Aided by material contained in two pamphlets distributed to them this week, students in the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades are beginning work on the health essay contest "Protecting Health in Youth" to be held from March 27 to April 9.

In addition to the two pamphlets, copies of which were provided by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association for each of the 140 children in the contest, three supplementary booklets have been given teachers for their pupils to refer to in writing the essays. Other materials for use in the contest have also been furnished by the Association, which is cooperating with the school in arranging for the contest as one of its Christmas seal activities.

Unusual interest is expected to be attached to the poster and figure-exhibit that will be displayed from March 28 to April 4 in the window of Burke's Drug Store, as an added feature of the contest. In writing their essays, students will be referring for information to this exhibit. It pictures graphically the "peak years" for tuberculosis deaths, and illustrates the fact that health measures taken in youth will prevent them.

The store will give the writer of the winning essay a prize consisting of a camera, which will be shown in its window with the exhibit.

LATE SNOW NOW? NO, LOOK BACK TO 1923

While many may express surprise at drifted roads and snow removal equipment busy on the highways as late as March 26, 1930, Godfrey Schulz, county road commissioner, says 1923 has a later spring record for snowplowing. That year, Tuscola county's snowplows were needed to clear away the drifts on May 10.

J. H. Schwaderer, county engineer, calls to mind that sleighing was fine in April ten years ago. Mr. Schwaderer then resided in Cass City and recalled that his brother, Fred, came to Cass City from his Novesta township farm with horses and sleighs, and the "slipping" was fine.

All the county's snowplows except the heavy caterpillar type were on the highways this week Wednesday and the travelling public welcomed the improvement made by the plows during that day and night.

CULL BOARDER COWS IS OUTLOOK ADVICE

State College Publishes Bulletin on Livestock Conditions in State.

Close culling of dairy cows from Michigan herds is advised in the agricultural outlook bulletin published by Michigan State College of 1930.

A 3 per cent increase in the total number of cows in the United States and a 6 per cent increase in the number of heifers forms the basis for cautioning against any further increase in the number of dairy cattle until a readjustment of the market for dairy products has taken place.

Poultry owners are also warned by the same publication to consider the probability that the poultry industry is now on the second year of a four-year cycle of price depression. Lower prices for poultry meats are expected for at least the first six months of 1930.

A continuation of favorable conditions for producers of beef cattle is predicted in the outlook, but the marketing of the animals as baby beef is advised. Cattle feeders of the state are advised to use caution during the next few years.

The prospects for hogs are said to be more favorable than they were last year. The number of hogs on farms in the United States is reported to be 7 1/2 per cent lower than a year ago.

No improvement in the prices of sheep is expected by the writers of the outlook. An increased number of sheep in the country and a prospective lower demand for mutton is given as the reason for the belief that no present rise in prices can be expected.

THREE ACRES IS FARM SAYS CENSUS BUREAU

Farm Is All Land Farmed by One Person, Whether It Is Three Acres or More.

A farm, according to the Census Bureau, is all the land farmed by one person, whether it is three acres or three thousand acres.

Sounds simple, doesn't it? Well, it wasn't so simple for the Government officials to decide what should be considered a farm by the enumerators during the census to be taken in April. Much study and years of practical experience were necessary before the short, concise definition was agreed upon.

Dr. L. C. Gray and Dr. O. E. Baker, of the Department of Agriculture, assisted Census officials in deciding upon what should be called a farm.

The amount of farm land owned by one person has nothing to do with the definition of a farm so far as the Census Bureau is concerned. The question is not how much land does he own but how much does he operate or farm. A man who owns 300 acres might farm half of it himself and rent the other half out to three tenants, 50 acres to each. This would go down on the census records.

GLEE CLUB TO SING FOR C. C. C. AND GUESTS

The Gaynor Club of Kalamazoo College, an organization of 18 young ladies, will entertain the members of the Cass City Community Club and their wives at the April meeting of the local club which will be held next Wednesday evening, April 2. The evening previous to the Cass City engagement they will sing at the First Baptist church in Detroit and not long ago the club was taken to Grand Rapids to sing at a meeting of Shriners. Miss Margaret McKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark W. McKenzie, is secretary of the glee club.

The meeting of the Community Club will be held at the high school auditorium. Wives of members will be guests of the club at the banquet which will be prepared and served by ladies of the Presbyterian church.

ROBBERS GET $50 FROM SERVICE STATION

William Curry, employed at a Caro gasoline service station, was held up and robbed Sunday morning and was unable to even get a glimpse of the robbers. He was seized from the rear just as he opened the door to the station, and after taking $50 from his pockets the robbers ordered him to lie on the floor for five minutes. Something that felt like a gun was shoved into his back, Curry said. After arising, the culprits had escaped.

SEEGER MEMORIAL CHAPEL AT CHURCH

An improvement in the Baptist church building is a partition placed between the wing and the auditorium which provides a room that affords a wonderful opportunity for more direct Sunday School work as well as allowing the B. Y. P. U. a more appropriate place for their meetings. This may also be used for a prayer room and for many other purposes and fills a need that has been long felt.

The partition is built partly of glass and has four large doors on each side of the center post. These doors fold back and permit the same room to be a part of the auditorium when needed. The improvement is a gift from Andrew Seeger. The chapel will be known as "Seeger Memorial" and the name appears in the glass. Others have made personal gifts in the furnishing of this chapel.

BUREAU REJECTS GRANGE'S PLAN

Says the Grange Plan Was Repealed by South Carolina in 1926.

"The most recent Grange income tax plan, proposed at the hearing of the Special Tax Commission at Lansing March 20 has few of the advantages claimed for it, was disowned four years ago in the State of South Carolina where it originated, and was rejected by the Michigan Farm Bureau before the hearing," R. Wayne Newton, Director of Taxation for the Bureau said March 24. His statement continues:

"During its life in South Carolina the income tax law which attempted to levy a state tax at one-third the Federal rates failed in every way to live up to the claims made for it by Michigan Grange leaders. It did not do away with two sets of collecting officers, and did not eliminate the necessity of filing separate and different reports by taxpayers, as was claimed at the recent hearing in Lansing.

"Prior to its repeal in 1926, the South Carolina act was described by official investigators as 'wholly a mistake' because of the attempt to follow the Federal law; yet this was the chief merit claimed for the plan by its local advocates. The same in-

TEN SIGNIFY DESIRE TO PURCHASE BROODER

When Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McComb moved from a farm to Cass City two years ago, they brought a chick brooder with them. Not having used the article since coming here, Mrs. McComb thought she would get rid of the brooder and last week she inserted a liner advertisement in the Chronicle which cost her 25 cents. On Friday, the paper had just been delivered on rural routes when a woman called over the telephone and told Mrs. McComb to hold the brooder for her. Five others wanted to buy during that day and four more signified their desire to purchase a brooder on Saturday.

You know the moral of this little story on getting cash for articles you do not need.

SEBEWAING CONDENSARY TO CLOSE APR. 15

The Detroit Creamery Co. has announced that their condensary at Sebewaing will be closed April 15. The company is closing several of its plants throughout the state, the action being taken, it is said, as a result of the present depression in the dairy industry.

The Sebewaing Chamber of Commerce is working on plans through which it hopes to make connections of some sort that will insure a continued outlet for the milk produced in that territory.

CHICKEN THIEVES WERE GIVEN PRISON TERMS

Three Admitted in Court They Were Guilty of Looting Farms.

Three men pleaded guilty Monday in the Tuscola county circuit court to charges of breaking and entering farm buildings in the night time and stealing chickens and were sentenced immediately by Judge Boomhower to Jackson prison. Leon Geroux, 24, received 18 months to 15 years; Frank Chapel, 32, one to 15 years; and Ernest Guilds, 39, one to 15 years.

The last two mentioned are married men with families. Guilds and Chapel were arrested here by Deputy Sheriff Caldwell and Undersheriff James Kirk on Saturday. Both have resided the past four years in Pontiac and returned to live in Tuscola county, their former home, about two weeks ago. Geroux was picked up by Pontiac officers Sunday and held for local officers. He had lately been employed as special deputy sheriff of Oakland county, watching summer resort property at one of the lakes near Pontiac.

The charge under which conviction was secured was made by Willis Beecher, a farmer living four miles north of Caro. Four other warrants were prepared following the court session Monday by four farmers who had lost chickens. The names of the three men were contained in one warrant and Chapel and Geroux in the three others. Three of these warrants were served on the men. They were arraigned before Justice St. Mary Monday afternoon, waived examination and were bound over to the circuit court.

Chicken stealing has been conducted on a large scale in Tuscola county this winter, as high as 260 chickens being taken in one night. Lapeer, Genesee and Oakland county farmers have had like experiences. Officers estimate that 60 farms in the four counties have been visited by thieves.

Two More Arrested. Volney Wright and Kenneth Wright of Ellington township were arrested by Tuscola officers Tuesday charged with the theft of chickens. They were arraigned before Justice Imerson, waived examination and were bound over to the circuit court.

At noon, after grace had been spoken by Rev. P. J. Allured, 350 farmers were served a lunch of ham sandwiches, doughnuts, maple syrup and coffee. Mrs. Striffler was assisted in the serving by Mrs. A. H. Smith and daughter, La Vore, of Pt. Huron. Mrs. Clifford Guyette of Flint, Mrs. Lloyd Hall of Colling and Miss Martha Striffler of Cass City. Chiffon Wrap for Moderate Weather Light Covering in Printed, Plain Fabrics, Gay With Embroidery.

When those who dash to town to see new plays or to dance to the inviting music at the hotels, the chiffon wrap is just the thing to wear over the fascinating new evening dresses. Both plain and printed fabrics are used in models of charm and originality. Most of the chiffon wraps are created of printed patterns, as they lend the most distinct air of individuality. The tiered cape is decidedly effective in chiffon. Its fullness stresses the feminine mode and its fluttering tiers accentuate the grace of the wrap. The tiers are generally filled into a neck which may have ribbons or velvet to bestow an effective decorative spirit at the face. Loops of the ribbon prove an attractive feature, too. An even simpler design which is successful in both plain and figured chiffons is one consisting of a straight, unlined piece gathered to a deep, fitted shoulder yoke. The hemline is made effective by the deep points which are cut into the hemline. Beaded embroidery is a fascinating decoration on the plain chiffons in either delicate pastels or in vivid shades. White is particularly beautiful when embroidered in field flowers in beaded designs or in massed floral designs using delicate pastel tints. Beige done in brown, silver and black white in black, mauve in blue and green, gray in rose and red are just a few of the startlingly effective combinations. Loretta Young, the motion picture actress, seen in "The Head Man," chooses a charming ensemble effect and wears orchid chiffon in a cape and dress smartly trimmed with silver lace.

Flashes of Fashion of Interest to All Women

Jenny revives the satin coat, heavily furred. An attempt to reinstate beaded effects is cited. Thin furs handled as fabrics have the lead for coats. Hatters' plush with felt and alone is important for millinery. Seed pearls have returned to favor and with them pearls of other sorts. Brown ranks high as a street color, and black remains par excellence for evening. The short brocaded jacket of Persian inspiration is one of the new style interests. An interesting high light of the Paris openings was that brunettes had largely replaced blondes. The molded silhouette, including princess effects, has returned with other once familiar types. Black velvet dresses with telling touches of ecru and other tinted laces strike a note of elegance. Hats revealing the eyebrows and forehead—forming a frame for the face, in fact—have been revived.

Hip Yoke Popular in All Fields of Dress

The hip yoke has come very quietly to the forefront of fashion. So quietly in fact that we hardly know it is here. And it appears to be firmly entrenched in every phase of the mode from lingerie to sportswear. There are wide yokes and straight yokes; yokes that masquerade as girdles. The hip yoke has even invaded the field of formal evening wear, in a very elegant version to be sure, but still there and extremely smart. The woman who used to shudder at the thought of wearing any sort of hip yoke will be delighted to see what has become of her nightmare. All types of figures can look attractive in at least one variety of yoke—and on your wardrobe shopping tour it would be wise to pause before purchasing until you have seen at least half a dozen varieties.

FARM DATA SOUGHT BY CENSUS TAKERS

Full and Accurate Information Will Assist Federal Officials in Future Plans.

Dry onions and watermelons, goats and kids, and all other inhabitants of the fields and farmyards will be asked to answer to roll call by the enumerator for the United States census who will visit Michigan farms this spring. The census, taken once every ten years, is Uncle Sam's most effective means of determining the growth and importance of his various industries, and the importance of this information depends upon the fullness and accuracy of the answers given to the enumerators' questions. Federal aid in many cases is determined upon a basis of population or the relative importance of a certain crop of a state in the production of certain crops or livestock is usually determined from the U. S. census figures. No use of the figures is made for any taxation purpose and the figures are not available for the inspection of tax officials. This year's census will give definite information of the number of radio sets used by farmers and their importance in farm life. Ten years ago the radio was an experimental toy and almost unknown in rural districts. Statistics on the number of cooperative organizations and the membership of each will be useful to the Federal Farm Board in its work of stabilizing the prices of farm products.

Large advertisement for New ISO-VIS Motor Oil. Features a large illustration of a man in a suit working on a car engine. Text includes: 'STEPS that led to the introduction of New ISO-VIS Motor Oil. A GROUP OF MEN were gathered in the research laboratory of Standard Oil Company (Indiana). Before them stood a motor. It had been driven 25,000 miles—the "turn-in" period of the average car. Bit by bit it was taken down. Micrometer measurements were made. In the 25,000 miles of driving it was found that wear on every moving part was far less than normally occurs. Literally hundreds of these tests were made before we announced New Iso-Vis Motor Oil. Scores of cars of various makes were used. Here are the results: 1 Less than normal wear on every part of the motor. 2 Less carbon deposits (almost 50 per cent less than the average of various oils). 3 Effective lubrication at extremes of heat and cold. 4 Absolute proof that New Iso-Vis will not thin out in the crankcase. You can get New Iso-Vis at all Standard Oil dealers and service stations. Try this better motor oil today. New ISO-VIS Motor Oil 30's quart. Standard Oil Company (Indiana). Polarine is also affected by our new refining process—giving it an efficiency which is exceeded only by New Iso-Vis. The price is 25 cents a quart.'

"Konjola Works Wonders" says Saginaw Citizen

Had To Live on Milk and Crackers—New and Different Medicine Comes To Rescue.

Konjola is, in countless cases, more than a medicine—it is an investment, putting men and women back on the job. Take the experience of Mr. Ed.

Mr. Ed. Wohlscheid.

Wohlscheid, 314 South 21st street, Saginaw. Imagine his joy when he was able to say:

"Konjola works wonders; it certainly did in my case. My digestion was so bad that I had to live on bread and crackers. I am a painter, and there were days when I was too weak to climb a ladder. I was restless at night, and was losing weight, strength and vitality rapidly. My attention was attracted to Konjola by the many endorsements I heard and read. I decided to try it, and that was the wisest decision I ever made. The first bottle proved that I was on the right road, and five more bottles solved all my health problems. I make this statement hoping that my test of Konjola will lead others to give this amazing medicine a chance. To me there is no medicine in the world like Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Cass City at Burke's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Advertisement.

TRUCK WILL SHOW BUILDING MODELS

Miniature Farm Structures Will Be Exhibited in Many Michigan Counties.

Recent studies have shown that ventilation and insulation methods are very important in the construction of farm buildings and Michigan State College has equipped a truck which will carry model buildings which show good building practices into 28 Michigan counties this summer.

While barn models will be featured on the truck, milk houses, brooder houses, bull pens, and other farm structures will be displayed at the meetings of which from one to four will be held in each county.

The truck begins its journey April 7 in Calhoun county and closes its tour July 11 in Manistee county. Fifty-four meetings will be held in the period between those dates.

The counties to be visited in April and May are Calhoun, Eaton, Livingston, VanBuren, Cass, Allegan, Barry, Saginaw, Bay, Clare, Gladwin, Osceola, Sanilac, Huron, Tuscola, Mecosta and Newaygo.

The truck will be in Ogemaw, Alpena, Alcona, Montmorency, Otsego, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Antrim, Kalkaska, Benzie, and Manistee counties during June and July.

County agricultural agents are making the local arrangements for the meetings in their counties.

FARMERS GROW CORN DURING BAD SEASON

In spite of the exceedingly bad season for corn in Michigan last year, the growers who competed in the annual five-acre corn growing contest produced an average of more than 53 bushels of shelled corn per acre, according to the reports of the contest.

Thirty-eight of the 45 who entered the contest used commercial fertilizer to obtain this yield, and 21 used barnyard manure in combination with the fertilizer or alone. Only three of the growers in zones 2 and 3, which includes the central and northern parts of the state, did not use commercial fertilizer.

Yields determined the profit above cultural costs, and the winner of the contest, Elmer Munk, Waldron, produced 87 bushels of shelled corn per acre. The difference in returns above cultural costs between an 87 and a 35 bushel yield was $55.17.

Alfalfa sod was used by eight of the contestants in growing their corn crop, 13 used sweet clover sod, five turned down ordinary clover, two plowed up pastures, one man used new ground, and a variety of crops preceded the corn produced by the other men.

Yields obtained by the 45 farmers in the contest more than doubled the average reported for the whole state.

THE BACK YARD GARDENER

How to Plant the Home Orchard

Fruit Trees Should Be Properly Spaced

The diagram will prove helpful in securing the maximum returns from your orchard property.

The modern orchard is usually planted in a mixture of two or more varieties of fruits. There are good reasons for this. Some of the most desirable fruit trees do not come to bear for several years but eventually make large trees and are very long lived. Others are not long lived nor of large growing habit, but bear very young. Therefore, the more important trees are classified as "permanent," "semi-permanent," and "temporary." The general mode of planting is this: Permanent trees are spotted forty to fifty feet apart in squares. Also spotted in these squares, fifty feet apart, are the semi-permanent trees, or if none of these last are used, then temporary trees may be substituted. Finally, at a point midway between the permanent trees, temporary trees are planted.

These last come to bear very early and the orchard, thereby, begins to make immediate returns to the owner. Later, when the semi-permanent are bearing and need more room the temporary trees are cut down. Still later, when the permanent trees are fully developed and bearing, the semi-

BUREAU REJECTS GRANGE'S PLAN

Concluded from first page. Investigators who condemned this income tax measure in South Carolina proposed measures for the control of tax levy increases through review of budgets and bond issues in a manner quite similar to that suggested for Michigan by the Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan Real Estate Association and Michigan Manufacturers Association at the Lansing hearing.

"Although Grange speakers laid great stress on the fact that the proposed income tax act would provide funds for equalizing local school taxes, it is unlikely that the measure as outlined in the hearing would accomplish this object. It was said that the tax would yield about $46,000,000, and could be used, first, to replace the corporation tax, which falls solely upon corporations; second, to replace the state property tax, about three-fourths of which falls upon the cities, with only a fraction of the remainder falling upon farm property and forming the smallest tax the farmer pays. The remainder, estimated at $9,000,000 could be used to reduce and equalize local school taxes, it was said.

"The experience of South Carolina shows that the estimated yield is excessive. That state lost more than 10 per cent of the expected total tax each year through one cause alone— inability to collect additional taxes which accrued by reason of additional Federal taxes assessed after the schedule was turned in by the taxpayer. Further, regardless of what the yield of the tax might be, the well known fact that the state is more accustomed to piling up deficits than to accumulating surpluses will cause most taxpayers to question whether the state would ever have a surplus to distribute to school districts. The failure of the state to distribute any school funds to poor districts under the Turner Act in 1928 and 1929 should be a warning in this regard.

"The Michigan Farm Bureau is in favor of the introduction of new and just forms of taxation into our revenue system, and the use of the proceeds of these new taxes to reduce and equalize local levies, under such control from the state as shall be necessary to insure economy and efficiency in their use. A properly drawn income tax would most certainly fit this description. However, there is no magic in the mere name 'income tax' which can justify rural support of a measure which offers only a remote hope for providing funds for use in reducing and equalizing local school taxes, but which does make important concessions to certain corporate interests. The

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

A WISE WOLF

The mother wolf thought her children were going to be perfect.

She didn't believe they would really have nearly so many narrow escapes as she had had.

The little wolf who thought he was the wisest of her children paid no attention when his mother told of the danger of the gun which the creature called man always carried.

"I will not be shot by a gun," he said to himself. "I will not let the big men get me—no, indeed." And so he boasted to himself.

"Little wolf, my beautiful child," said his mother, looking at him. "The gun is very apt to get you. Be careful, do not feel as though you knew it all."

And the little wolf said: "I will do as you say, dear mother." Still he felt he was much wiser and that his mother was a great deal too nervous—too nervous and a little bit foolish.

"Now," said his mother, "there are fine things for us to seek when we go hunting—delicious lambs, tender colts."

Mother Wolf smacked her lips and showed her great strong teeth.

And her eyes looked wild and her face very much excited.

The children began to feel that their mouths were watering for some of the fine food their mother had talked about.

"When may we go hunting?" they asked.

"Tomorrow night," said their mother. "Good," they all cried.

"Remember," said the mother, "be careful of guns. Keep out of danger. Have sport, go hunting, but try to come away safe, for no food is good if we are too wounded to eat it, and, of course, if we should be killed there would never be any more hunting."

And at this the wolves looked a trifle serious and decided they would be careful.

They did not want to be killed. Certainly not! Life was far too sweet for that, and the thought of nights and nights of hunting and of delicious sheep dinners was too pleasant.

Of course, Mother Wolf had warned them even more than she need, for the wolves are very clever and not apt to get caught.

They can destroy many sheep and colts and calves and still they will not be caught.

"Just one more thing, my loves," said Mother Gray Wolf, "if you are caught or brought right up to a fight, be brave.

"Do not forget your great jaws. They are powerful and they will help to protect you."

"Remember them!" No one had been able to ever get Mother Gray Wolf, for she had always been so clever and so brave.

How many had been the farmers, the dogs, the guns that had gone for her, but she had always come out victorious.

For Mother Gray Wolf was a very wise wolf and a great huntress. She was not one to be taken in by anyone.

So it was of a great knowledge that she talked to the young wolves.

She was as wise a wolf as ever had been—and that is saying a great deal.

Know How Mamma Felt

Six-year-old Susan usually dropped off to sleep as soon as her head touched the pillow. One night she was annoyed by her two younger brothers romping on the bed and rumpling up the covers.

She asked them to stop and then said, "Now, mamma, I know how you feel when I am naughty."

Crying for a Tooth

Baby had been fretful and Bobby had heard mother tell several friends how cross baby was, but added that she would be all right as soon as she cut her first tooth.

"How's the baby this morning?" a neighbor asked Bobby.

"All right," he answered. "Her's got the tooth her's been cryin' for."

All but One

When I went downstairs to prepare breakfast Ray was dressed all but his shoes. Breakfast was ready and still he was not down.

"Ray," I called, "haven't you your shoes on yet?"

"Yes, mother—all but one," was the answer.

Channeledrain

OF COP-R-LOY

THIS IS THE CHANNELDRAIN NO WATER GETS BY THIS CHANNEL WALL

Fire Proof—Lightning Proof—Trouble Proof—

Channeledrain Roofing is a step forward in metal roofing design because it is most successful in preventing capillary attraction— tendency of water seeping over the lap joints and getting beneath the roof.

Channeledrain has a vertical barrier to rain water which goes under the lap. This is the famous channel wall and is seen in the illustration. The channel formed by the patented design of Channeledrain Roofing is for the purpose of carrying off water that seeps or is blown under the lap. When properly applied Channeledrain drains off all the water that falls on the roof, and this roofing is so simple in design that no special experience is required to apply it.

No roofing sticks are required under the ridges, the vertical member which is the channel wall furnishing adequate support for nailing.

Not only in design but in material itself Channeledrain is a distinctive roofing. It is made of COP-R-LOY, the Copper Alloyed Steel, is coated with pure zinc by the hot galvanizing process. You can apply Channeledrain yourself and enjoy the superior benefits from this modern patented roofing through long years to come. It will save money for you. It is sold by responsible dealers.

POULTRY

GIVE PLENTY OF ROOSTING PLACE

Pullets Need Room and Fresh Air to Develop Properly.

Give the pullets plenty of roosting space and encourage them to roost early, says L. M. Hurd of the New York State College of Agriculture. Roosting helps to prevent crowding and allows the individual chicken more freedom of action and better air. Uncrowded pullets make better growth.

Clean and disinfect the houses and supply them frequently with fresh litter. Shavings, oat straw, or sand make the best covering for the floor during the summer. When more than one house is in use take care that too many pullets do not form the habit of roosting in one building. The buildings should be at least 100 feet apart to help keep the birds evenly distributed. It is not advisable to try to house more than 125 growing pullets in one colony house.

Provide good ventilation on hot nights. In addition to the regular ventilators take out the glass sash in the front of the house. To prevent possible infestation from red mites paint the perches and side walls close by with carbolineum, or spray the colony houses several times during the summer with a mixture of equal parts of crude carbolic acid and kerosene.

When there are many hatches and several weeks difference in their ages, provide each hatch with a separate range, or place the houses farther apart than for groups of the same age. Otherwise older pullets will annoy the young and prevent normal growth.

Fireless Cooker Good

Idea for Egg Layers

Hens need warm water. It's cheaper for you to warm it on the fire than to make the hen warm it with expensive feed.

You can save lots of trouble by insulating the water pail. You can make a sort of fireless cooker by placing the drinking vessel in a box large enough to stuff two or three inches of straw, excelsior, or torn newspapers, packed tightly below and all around the vessel.

Keep the material dry by covering it with tin, fitted closely under the top rim of the pail, and sloped slightly to the outside of the box so the spilled water will run off.

The water keeps warm several hours.

Profits Increased by

Culling Flock Closely

Whether the poultry producer keeps pure breeds or grades, he will increase his profits very materially by culling his flock closely every year.

Though the trap nest is the most accurate means of selecting the best layers in the flock, its use is only practicable for those who make poultry breeding a specialty.

The trap nest usually has no place on the general farm. On the average, the pullet laying year is more profitable than any other. Yearlings and two-year-olds are likely to be kept at an actual loss unless they are carefully culled.

Poultry Facts

The average fenced farm geese are the most profitable of all.

A dust bath aids materially in the elimination of body lice and should be installed.

Pure-breeds usually lay eggs that are more uniform in size, shape and color, and are more productive than mixed flocks.

Hens should stand a lot of dry still cold, but not drafts. There should be no opening in opposite walls, not even cracks, to draw a shivery current of air through the house.

Overcrowding in the poultry house discourages production of high priced eggs.

Feed hens balanced rations. Watch flock for sick birds and remove them on discovery. Keep house dry, warm and well ventilated.

The first rule in feeding the poultry flock in the winter is to be sure to feed plenty. Hens cannot lay in cold weather unless they have enough feed to keep them fat and thus have a surplus for making eggs.

Squash and pumpkin make a good succulent feed for poultry, helping to keep the bowels in good condition.

Increase the size of your poultry house to keep pace with the size of your flock. Poultry is not city bred and does not like crowded conditions.

Moist mash often helps to get more feed into the crops—a warm, slightly moistened mash fed at noon during cold weather. Liquid skim milk or buttermilk is especially valuable for moistening the mash.

WHY

Exposure to Light Improves the Hearing

Two Viennese scientists have stated that persons who are partially deaf hear much better if their heads are exposed to light. This discovery was made with the help of a medical pamphlet more than one hundred and fifty years old.

Toward the end of the Eighteenth century the University of Göttingen offered a prize for a treatise on the effects of light on the human constitution. Two contemporary scientists, who won the prize, found, among other things, that light improves the faculty of hearing.

The recent research work of the Viennese scientists proved that this assertion is correct. They experimented with slightly deaf patients by whispering words at varying distances. Then they exposed the heads of their patients to powerful electric light and noted an average improvement of 50 per cent.

The improvement lasts as long as the light is turned on, and ends, as a rule, with the return of darkness. In most cases the effect was only temporary, but in some cases the patients said they heard better for hours afterward.

The experiment failed when the patients were blindfolded.

Why Expression Is Used, "After Us the Deluge"

"Come on, we should worry—after us the deluge!"

Every so often we hear, or perhaps give vent to some such sentiment as has just been quoted.

The implication in the phrase, "After us the deluge," is that things are going from bad to worse; that things cannot go on this way much longer; that the crash is inevitable; so let's get out of it what we can for ourselves.

That is the significance with which "After us the deluge" is so frequently encountered, the reference being to the deluge in the days of Noah.

As everybody knows, the deluge flooded all the land in the world, so that every living thing that was on the side of Noah's ark was drowned or destroyed.

Why Stars Twinkle

The naval observatory says that the twinkling of the stars is a rapid shaking or vibration of their light, caused mainly by the state of the atmosphere, though partly as a result of the color of their intrinsic light. Ordinarily the bright planets are not seen to twinkle, because of their large apparent disks, made up of a multitude of points, which, therefore, maintain a general average of brightness. A star's light seems, says the Washington Star, to come from a mere point, so that only its rays are scattered by irregular refraction; at one instant very few rays reach the eye and at another many.

Why Ship Is "Schooner"

The name "Puritan" was originally given about 1564, to those clergymen of the Church of England who refused to conform to the liturgy and discipline as arranged by Archbishop Parker and his coadjutors, and insisted on a return to a "purer" form of faith and worship. In later years when such disagreements led to actual separations from the church and the formation of independent sects, the name was applied to all sorts of seceders, who ultimately became Presbyterians, Independents, Baptists, etc.

Why Letter on Ship Stacks

The big letter "E" seen on the smokestacks of certain naval vessels is a never-ending puzzle to the landman. But the Navy department explains that it designates a ship which has won engineering and improvement contests. The letter is always on the forward stack. A white "E" denotes a winner in the engineering class and a red letter a victor in the improvement division.

Why Visit Is Notable

When we think of necking we usually associate it with the present generation of flappers and cake-eaters. But the fact is that it antedates us by about 5,000 years. We read that when the queen of Sheba visited King Solomon, he invited her into his palace where he fed her wine and nectar. —Pathfinder Magazine.

Sure, They Will

"Of course," said Ben Bender, the village wag, "them counterfeiterers that was caught the other day might plead that, like a lotta other folks, they was only tryin' to make money."—Farm and Fireside.

Why "Adam's Ale"

Water is called "Adam's Ale" because at the beginning of time, before the invention of liquors, the first man and his family had only water to drink.

In an interview in the Detroit Tribune, John Carmon of Dubuque, Iowa, says: "Farmers are sore on automobiles but they will yet come to regard them as their best friends. Their antipathy is really not so much on account of danger from high speed as from the frightening of their horses. Horses are naturally going to get used to the machines in the country as they have in the city. We can all remember when a bicycle was a thing of terror to timid drivers to say nothing of a trolley car. Now neither of these are noticed."

MICHIGAN EIGHTH IN TAX PER PERSON

Find Michigan's Local Levies Up 55 Million in Past Five Years.

"State and local taxes amounted to $61.82 for every man, woman and child in Michigan, according to a recent statement of the National Industrial Conference Board, covering the year 1927," said R. Wayne Newton, director of taxation for the Michigan State Farm Bureau, at Lansing, March 14th.

"Out of 48 states only 7 showed a higher tax per person. The National average was only $48.24, showing that Michigan is nearly 30 per cent above the average. Neighboring states all show materially lower taxes than Michigan. The average tax per person in Wisconsin for the same year is $53.78; in Indiana, $48.73; in Ohio, $47.67; and in Illinois, $47.20.

States with state and local taxes higher than those for Michigan in 1927 were: California, Florida, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Nevada, and Oregon.

State and local revenue receipts for Michigan have been estimated at $236,000,000 in 1924 and $338,000,000 in 1929, an increase of $102,000,000 in only five years. About $7,000,000 of this increase came on real and personal property under the property tax, and $55,000,000 represented increases in local levies alone.

Increasing tax burdens have led the Michigan Real Estate Boards and the Michigan Farm Bureau to establish special organizations of property owners to deal with local taxation problems, the one in the city and the Farm Bureau in the country. Independent taxpayers and associations have sprung up in several localities. All the state industrial and agricultural associations are giving more thought to taxation than ever before, and a State Commission is investigating the subject.

Yet everywhere it is realized that the final solution rests with the voters at the polls and at their town and school district meetings.

The Michigan Farm Bureau warns that Michigan needs officers in every public position who are pledged to economy and capable of living up to their pledge. The people must elect such men and hold them to their promises. Voters and officials everywhere are urged to put a stop to excessive public outlays and to vote "No" on every proposed new expense unless they are fully convinced both as to the need and the reasonableness of the cost.

Those interested in tax reduction are urging all citizens to attend their town and township meetings this spring and help local tax expenditures.

THREE ACRES IS FARM SAYS CENSUS BUREAU

as four farms, because the land farmed by each man is considered as a unit.

On the other hand, one man might rent various tracts of land from 10 different owners. He might rent a few acres on shares, a few more from somebody else for money rent, and the rest from other people on different terms. The different pieces of land might be widely separated. If they were all farmed and managed by one man, however, they would all be put down together as one farm. If, however, a separate manager were hired to supervise a certain portion of the land, that portion would go down as a separate farm.

No tract of land of less than three acres will be registered as a farm unless it produced more than $250 worth of farm products last year. In the census of 1920 if a piece of land of less than three acres was farmed by a man who gave his entire time to the task, it was listed as a farm regardless of how little it produced, but this year none of these small tracts will be counted unless they produced $250 worth of products, regardless of how many people spent their full time cultivating the area. (It is estimated that approximately 5,000 tracts or less than three acres in the United States are farmed by individuals who give their full time to the occupation). This change in the classification of farms is the only difference between the Census Bureau's regulations for farm enumeration in 1930 from those of ten years ago.

There is necessarily a borderland between what is a farm and what is not. Small places on the edge of towns or villages are often the homes of city workers who undertake to keep a cow, some chickens, and probably cut a little hay or raise a large garden or small crop. If the agricultural products from such a place amounted to more than $250 dollars in 1929, it will be returned as a farm, regardless of how much or how little time the city worker gave to his farming pursuits, and regardless of how small the tract of land tended. Indeed, if a man living on Fifth Avenue of New York City raised more than $250 worth of strawberries or asparagus on a lot 50 by 100 feet, his place would be returned as a farm. The value of the agricultural products is the criterion.

On the other hand, a large country place of 10, 15 or 20 acres may not necessarily qualify as a farm. Actual farming or agricultural operations must be carried out before any tract of land will be classed in this category. A large country estate of a retired capitalist is not a farm if all the work done around the place consists in mowing the lawns and clipping the hedges. If the estate is of more than three acres, however, a very small amount of agricultural products could give it the rank of a farm, regardless of whether the products amounted to $250 or not. In such a case as this, it would be up to the judgment of the census enumerators to decide whether agricultural operations were being carried out. "Farm land is considered 'operated' not only when cultivated crops are raised on it, but also when it is used to any significant extent for pasture or for cutting hay.

A number of agricultural pursuits not usually considered by the average person as farming comes within the Census Bureau's definition. All market and truck gardens, fruit orchards, nurseries, greenhouses, poultry yards, places for keeping bees, and all dairies in or near cities, even though little land is employed, are, for census purposes, farms, provided they produced in 1929 agricultural products of the value of at least $250. If such places are of more than three acres, they are farms regardless of the value of their produce.

In 1925, the last year in which a farm census was taken in the United States, there were 15,151 farms of less than three acres. The total number of farms in the nation was 6,371,640.

The general definition of a farm—"All the land which is directly farmed by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household or hired employees"—has remained practically the same since 1870, the first year in which it was used by the Census Bureau. If the figures for different censuses are to be valuable for purposes of comparisons, they must be based on the same definitions. When the census records show that there were six million farms in the country at one time and five million at another, the meaning of the word "farm" must be the same for the two periods if useful conclusions are to be drawn, census officials have pointed out.

GIVE CENSUS TAKER TRUE FARM VALUE

Over-valuation of farm lands and buildings, when reporting to the census takers, may mean over-taxation of farmers in following years. This warning was issued March 24 by R. Wayne Newton, director of taxation for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Census reports are confidential, and tax officials are not permitted to look at the individual returns," Mr. Newton said, adding, "however, farm value figures published by the Bureau of the Census are frequently used by Federal and State officials and by many others interested in the subject of taxation, as a guide to checking assessed valuations for taxation purposes.

"Many farmers over-state the value of their farms because they have no desire to sell and would not sell unless paid a price that is considerably above the present market level. The amount such men would take for their farms has very little to do with the true value. It has frequently been said that the money value of a piece of real estate is the price it would bring at a sale between a willing buyer and a willing seller. Farmers who are unwilling to sell are advised to consider what their farm would bring on the market if they did want to sell."

SCHOOLS GET CASH THROUGH TURNER BILL

County Treasurer Orlo McDurmon last week sent checks to 14 township treasurers in payment of their share in the two million dollars appropriated by the state to the so-called "poor school districts" of Michigan. The township treasurers, in turn, will pay the sums to the school districts entitled to the money. Districts having a school tax of more than $10.00 a thousand valuation are included in the appropriation.

Checks were sent to townships as follows:

Akron	$1890.40
Arbela	98.43
Columbia	768.62
Dayton	416.07
Elkland	1396.55
Fremont	1198.47
Indianfields	3056.85
Juniaata	293.00
Koylton	279.39
Millington	1049.59
Novesta	118.85
Vassar	5740.09
Watertown	613.45
Wells	270.32
	$17190.08

In Elkland township, the appropriation goes to two school districts. Dist. No. 5, frl., receives $1,352.08 and Dist. No. 6, frl., $14.47. In Novesta, Dist. No. 2 gets all the money appropriated in that township.
