SUN BROS.' CIRCUS AT CASS CITY FAIR

Elephants and Trained Animals,
Acrobatic Acts and Stunts
by Clowns.

Cass City Fair officers are enthusiastic over their choice of special attractions at the fair next month. On Monday, they contracted for what they believe will rank highest among the special free acts of local fairs. It is the Sun Bros.' three-ring circus with trained elephants, horses and other animals, all sorts of acrobatic acts and the laugh-provoking clowns. Forty-two acts in all are scheduled so the person who likes variety in special features will have his wish granted.

There will be one circus feature lacking, however, and that will be the small army of brawny black workmen who smite the stakes with mighty blows and grin good-naturedly as they stretch the "big top." And the reason they will be absent is there won't be a big tent where one must shell out the cash to see the acts. No big top will be raised for the circus acts are free to all who attend the fair and are given out in the open.

During the afternoons, acrobatic performances will be presented on the performing stand across the track from the grandstand, between heats of horse-racing. In the evening, the special attraction program will be made still better and more varied by the installation of two rings in front of the grandstand where the elephants, horses and other trained animals will do their stunts in addition to the program of platform acts. Secretary S. Champion says the track and performing stand will be brilliantly lighted for the acts at night. A regular circus atmosphere will prevail to the delight of young and old.

Those whose memories are good will remember that the Sun Bros.' Circus were here on two different occasions in years gone by and that their circus presentations ranked high.

The Sun Bros. have been placing their circus features at fairs in late years. They go from Cass City to an engagement in Virginia.

The dates of the Cass City Fair are August 12, 13, 14 and 15.

WANT TOWNSHIPS TO CARE FOR OWN POOR

Supervisors Appoint Committee to Investigate Recommendation of Poor Supts.

Robert Brown, secretary of the superintendents of the poor, reported to the Tuscola county board of supervisors last week the recommendation of the poor commission that each township care for its own poor instead of the expense being made a county-wide proposition as at present. The chairman was authorized to appoint a committee of five supervisors, with himself as a member, to investigate the matter and report at the fall session of the board.

The county road commission was authorized to employ James Berry as an inspector of bridge construction in the county. Mr. Berry is a member of the road commission and for many years was a bridge builder for the P. M. R. R.

The committee on equalization cut $435,115 from the real estate values.

THREE WEED MEETINGS IN TUSCOLA COUNTY

Considerable work is being done in the county relative to chemical weed control. Field meetings relative to chemical weed control will be held at the following farms:

Thursday, July 10, at 1:30 p. m. on the Frank Murry farm, 3½ miles east of Akron.

Thursday, July 10, at 7:30 p. m. on the Roy Jackson farm, 1 mile north, 2 miles east of Watrousville.

Friday, July 11, at 1:30 p. m. on the R. E. Lafave farm, 3½ miles west of Gagetown.

At these various places, weeds such as sow thistle, bind weed and quack grass have been treated with chemical about a month ago. The chemical control of weeds will be discussed, results noted and various weeds identified. People are invited to bring specimens of weeds for identification. The whole specimen should be brought if possible. P. R. Miller, Farm Crops Department of Mich. State College, will discuss weed control, assisted by County Agricultural Agent, D. B. Jewell. It is hoped that practical methods of eradicating sow thistle, bind weed and quack grass can be developed by these field meetings.

VASSAR WOMEN TO SPONSOR FLOWER SHOW

Members of the program committee of the Vassar Woman's club announce that they will sponsor a flower show to be held next fall. The show will be held in one of the Vassar stores and any person will be eligible to enter the contest. Judges will be appointed and awards will be made the winners of the various classes.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

John Edward Bliss, 25, Cass City; Gladys May Scribner, 20, Caro.

Hazen Peter, 28, Kingston; Mural Roberts, 20, Pontiac.

Neil A. Stephen, 19, Fostoria; Mrs. Rhea A. Gilson, 33, Fostoria.

Wesley Laurence Wilson, 27, Caro; Eiletta Pearl Abke, 22, Unionville.

400 ODD FELLOWS MET HERE FRIDAY

Members of Fraternity in Thumb Saw Grand Lodge
Officers Confer Degree.

Odd Fellows of the Thumb district to the estimated number of 400 gathered at Cass City Friday night to witness the conferring of the initiatory degree on a class of 26 candidates who came from Carsonville, Caro, Deckerville, Elkton, Cass City and other points in the three counties. The ceremony was held at the high school auditorium and this large room was well suited for a large gathering of this kind.

The evening's program opened with community singing, after which the degree work was exemplified in an impressive manner by grand lodge representatives. Included in the degree team were Grand Master Carr of Jackson, Grand Secretary Rogers of Lansing, Grand Warden Dow of Stanton, Grand Marshal Turner of Morley, Grand Herald Sharpe of Bay City, Grand Chaplain Kilpatrick of Wyandotte, Past Grand Masters Gray of Lansing, Hanson of East Tawas, Draper of Port Huron, and Committeemen Swope of Paw Paw, McLymont of Grand Rapids, Brodie of Detroit, Klump of East Tawas, Curtis of Pontiac and Rodd of Temperance.

Several members of the grand lodge roster gave talks at the conclusion of the degree work.

Rebekahs of Cass City served a fine supper to visiting members of the Odd Fellow fraternity at the lodge hall.

GRAVEL CO. IN MIDST OF A BUSY SEASON

Gravel Now Being Furnished for Paving Job, Gravel Roads and Co. Maintenance Work.

The Cass City Sand and Gravel Co. is in the midst of a busy season, enjoying a strong demand for the company's products.

Gravel is now being furnished for the paving job at Caro and for some maintenance work on roads in the county, in addition to the sale of this product to Stafford & Barnes and other contractors with road jobs.

The surplus sand, said Ernest Schwaderer, manager of the company, is also meeting with a ready sale.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

His 154th Birthday

MISS DOERR WEDS

DEARBORN MAN

One of the prettiest of the June weddings in Dearborn took place on Saturday evening, June 28, at eight o'clock, in the First Baptist church when Miss Margaret Doerr, daughter of Mrs. Alice Doerr of the St. Regis apartments, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Warrick. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. C. MacDonald, pastor of the church.

Miss Ireta La Salle of Port Huron sang two numbers preceding the ceremony. The wedding march was played by Miss Audrey Champney. Miss Doerr chose for her wedding a gown of ivory satin, trimmed with chintilly lace, with which she wore an ivory tinted veil and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John Doerr, of Cass City.

The maid of honor was Miss Loretta Jens, who was gowned in dusty rose chiffon. Miss Martha Warrick, a sister of the groom and Miss Louise Hainline were the bridesmaids. Miss Warrick wore yellow chiffon and Miss Hainline was in green. Helene Walker and Betty Giles acted as flower girls and wore frocks of orange, in orchid and yellow, respectively.

Mr. Warrick was assisted by Clayton Doerr, a brother of the bride, who served as best man, and the ushers were Frederick Allen and Edward Young.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was given in the church parlors. Upon returning from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Warrick will reside in Dearborn.

The bride attended high school at Cass City when she and her mother resided in this community.

WEED CONTROL TRAIN IN TWO COUNTIES

Will Visit Both Tuscola and Sanilac Counties July 16 to July 18.

Quack grass, sow thistle, bindweed, and other noxious weeds will have had their day after the farmers have visited the Weed Control Train and consulted with the Crop Specialists from the Michigan State College.

The fact that every farmer loses from $100 to $500 annually by the growth of noxious weeds, makes the weed problem one of primary importance to all Michigan farmers. The fact too that Michigan is developing a large certified seed trade makes it more imperative that weeds be eliminated.

Weed eradication is more or less of a community problem but each individual has the responsibility of eradicating weeds on his own farm.

The latest cultural practices and the economical use of chemicals will be discussed with all farmers who visit the train.

One weed plant may produce enough seed to seed an entire acre at the rate of one seed per square foot—43,560 seeds to a single plant. This is not at all unusual with certain of our perennials. Weeds must be prevented from seeding.

The Weed Train is being operated over the Michigan Central Railroad and will make the following stops in this vicinity:

At Reese, July 16, 3:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m. Lecture and demonstration at 3:00 p. m.
At Vassar, July 17, 8:00 a. m. and to 11:00 a. m. Lecture at 9:00 a. m.
At Caro, July 17, 1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. Lecture at 2:00 p. m.
At Sandusky, (D. C. & S. R. R.), July 18, 9:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Lecture at 11:00 a. m.

200 ATTEND BINGHAM SCHOOL REUNION

Seven Teachers Mingled with Their Former Pupils on Saturday.

The fourth annual reunion of the Bingham school was held Saturday, June 28, at the school grounds. B. H. Bingham of Muskegon acted as chairman of the meeting, the president and vice president both being absent. Over 200 were present, coming from St. Louis, Missouri, Pontiac, Holly, Muskegon, Flint, Minden City, Sebewaing, Caro, Gagetown, Unionville, and Cass City. Seven were present who had taught the school. Among these were H. P. Woolman of Detroit, who had taught 54 years ago and Mrs. Ella Whipple and daughter, Miss Ruth, of St. Louis, Missouri. Mrs. Whipple taught in 1885 and 1886. Many interesting talks were given by both teachers and pupils of past years.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. E. A. Livingston of Cass City; vice pres., Mrs. Fred Palmer of Owendale; secretary, Mrs. Mary Wald of Cass City; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Milligan of Cass City; general chairman, William Simmons; chairman of program, Mrs. Charles Roblin. It was decided to hold the reunion each year on the last Saturday in June, at the schoolhouse. Angus McPhail was given a general vote of thanks for the use of the chairs.

A delightful pot-luck dinner was served at noon and the afternoon was spent in visiting and games. The ball game ended in a tie.

Pioneer Days of Bingham School.

The following early history of the school was written by Mrs. Lena Wald of Jackson and read by Miss Stella Jackson at the reunion Saturday:

Dillman School Reunion.

The sixth annual reunion of the Dillman school will be held July 12. A pot luck dinner which will be served at 12 o'clock will be followed by a program and games. Every teacher, pupil and patron are invited to renew old acquaintances. Persons without a way of reaching the schoolhouse should call James Tuckey.—Advertisement 1

Pavement Dance at Caro.

A pavement dance on West Burnside St., Caro, will be given by the Wixson Club on Wednesday, July 9, commencing at 8:00 p. m., to which the Cass City community is invited. Proceeds will be used to purchase signs for Caro streets. Band music, refreshments and jollification. All invited.—Advertisement.

RANKS AMONG BIGGEST INDUSTRIES OF TUSCOLA

Total Worth of Co. Road Commission Is Close To Quarter Million.

"There are employed directly and indirectly by the Tuscola County Road Commission about 75 people and the pay roll runs approximately $60,000 a year," said Fred C. Striffler of Caro in a recent address before the Cass City Rotary Club at the Gordon Hotel.

"The chairman, James Berry of Mayville receives $500 a year and Godfrey Schultz of Unionville and Albert Atkins, the other two members, each receive $300. Commissioners are allowed mileage and legitimate expenses. The superintendent of maintenance receives $2,200 per annum. This with his salary as commissioner gives Mr. Schultz $2,500.00 a year. James Schwaderer is the county engineer and Frank Bowles is clerk of the board.

"Tuscola county owns about 80 pieces of maintenance equipment in the form of trucks, tractors, graders, plows, snow plows, etc., for a total of $100,000. In addition to this the county owns five gravel pits located in five different townships—Tuscola, Fremont, Fairgrove, Millington and Ellington. It is estimated that these gravel pits contain enough gravel to supply the county for the next 20 years and that they are worth, at a conservative estimate, in the neighborhood of $100,000. The building in which the County Road Commission is housed together with its equipment, etc., is estimated to be worth about $45,000.00. These figures represent replacement value and not the cost price at time of purchase. The total worth of the Tuscola County Road Commission would be approximately close to a quarter of a million dollars and represents one of the Turn to page 8.

ELKLAND TWP. BOUGHT GRAVEL PIT MONDAY

Commissioner Estimates Tract
Will Supply a 15-Year Demand of Township.

The Elkland township board voted Monday to purchase the 4½ acre tract of land with its house and barn a half mile south of Cass City from Jacob Spencer for $2,000. The purchase will be financed by a loan which will be paid in the taxes of 1932.

This tract contains a gravel pit which Highway Commissioner John Profit thinks will provide sufficient gravel for township purposes for 12 to 15 years, estimated on the present day use of that product. The township has been paying approximately $500 annually for gravel in late years. The barn will provide storage for the township's highway machinery and tools.

LEWIS PINNEY TO MAKE TRIP TO ALASKA

Will Leave July 17 with Group of Boys under Leadership of Geo. Buchanan.

Lewis Pinney, a member of the Class of 1930, Cass City High School, expects to leave July 17 on a trip to Alaska with a company of young men under the leadership of George Buchanan, a Detroit business man. They go by way of Chicago, St. Paul, Moosejaw and Banff to Vancouver where they embark for Alaska. About five days are spent in Alaska and on the return trip the group will visit Seattle, Portland, Spokane, and an Indian reservation in Montana. They expect to return to Detroit Aug. 15.

For several years, Mr. Buchanan has sponsored these Alaskan trips, often taking 100 young men on the annual trip to the territory. A boy's expenses are financed by the boy being required to earn one-third himself, one-third being paid by the parents and the other third being advanced by Mr. Buchanan with the expectation of a refund from the boy in later years. In all his many years' experience with hundreds of boys, no one has disappointed Mr. Buchanan in failing to meet his obligation.

PLAN FOUR-WEEK CAMPING TRIP TO SASKATCHEWAN

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schell and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson and son, Grant, will leave Monday for a four weeks' camping trip to points in Saskatchewan. They will go by way of Sault Ste. Marie and Carmen, Canada. While in Saskatchewan, they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chase, former residents of Cass City, at Rutland; also Mrs. Hutchinson's brother, Arthur Booker, at Unity, and several cousins at different places.

DAILY BIBLE SCHOOL CLOSED WITH PICNIC

Over 100 Children Were Enrolled in Successful Term of Two Weeks.

A large number of parents and friends attended the program presented by the children of the Daily Vacation Bible school in the Baptist church Friday evening. The program which consisted of group singing and dramatization of Bible stories was in charge of Rev. W. R. Curtis and his co-workers, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Mylo Ragan, Mrs. Stanley McArthur and Miss Mardell Starr.

This demonstration marked the close of a successful term of two weeks of the Bible school. In his opening remarks, Mr. Curtis explained the plans followed. A session was divided into five one-half hour periods—worship, Bible study, Bible drama, handicraft and recreation. Over 100 children were enrolled. Mr. Curtis presented diplomas to the pupils who were regular in attendance and performed good work. Exhibits of work by the children were on display at Friday evening's meeting.

Much credit is due Mr. Curtis and his efficient corps of teachers for the success attained and the lasting good accomplished will probably never be fully known.

On Tuesday a picnic was enjoyed in the maple grove at the home of Miss Florence Smith near Gagetown. The children with a number of the mothers and Rev. and Mrs. Curtis met at the Baptist church at 9:00 a. m. and autos took them to the picnic ground where all forms of outdoor games were indulged in. A pot-luck dinner was served at noon to nearly ninety who were present. Five gallons of ice cream, served in cones, and eight gallons of lemonade helped to make the children happy.

Glimpses of Miss Bigelow's Tour in Countries Across the Big Pond

Miss Florence Bigelow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Bigelow of Cass City, is on her way home from a delightful tour of several weeks in England, Ireland, France and Switzerland. The Chronicle is privileged to reproduce paragraphs from the letters Miss Bigelow wrote home and the following excerpts will prove interesting reading to the young lady's friends in the Cass City community:

London, England, June 4—I thought surely I would have a letter when I got down here, but not a line from anyone. Have not had a letter yet.

We arrived in Plymouth early in the morning and went through customs in a very few minutes, and then came by train to London, arriving about 2:00 p. m. The ride was lovely. The foliage is so dense and the grass so rank and green. The houses are mostly stone or cement but some villages were mostly red brick. The houses, for the most part in the villages, are built right along together in a row, the roof being continuous, just as they are in West Philadelphia. You see a few thatched roofs on detached houses or out buildings. The country is rolling, much like parts of Michigan, but the hills are a little higher, for the most part. Wherever there is a small woodlot, it is so dense you cannot see in at all. There are many, many wild flowers and of such vivid colors. The roododendron and wild yellow iris are gorgeous.

We passed the places where Sutton's seeds are produced and I wish you could see the fields of flowers.

It seemed strange to see so many sheep and cattle grazing, especially the sheep. Of course, we do not have so many of them. Some horses, too. The cows were mostly a brownish red. I think some of them were herds of

SWINDLER GETS MAXIMUM SENTENCE

Jury Found John Millic Guilty
Tuesday of Larceny
by Trick.

John Millic, recently extradited from Buffalo to stand trial in Tuscola county circuit court on a charge of swindling Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Revi, aged Wells township couple, of their life savings of approximately $2,200, was found guilty by the jury Tuesday morning. The jury came to this decision in a very short time. Judge Henry H. Smith sentenced Millic to serve not less than 4 years, 11 months and 29 days to five years. The maximum sentence for this offense is five years.

Millic reiterated his claim of innocence Monday at the opening of his trial during the special term of circuit court. Mr. and Mrs. Revi were positive in their identification of Millic as one of the two confidence men who tricked them out of their money and left a roll of newspaper clippings with dollar bills pasted on the outside, in the strong box which held the Revi savings. The Revis were robbed August 22, 1929.

Prosecuting Attorney R. O. Kern brought a police official from Buffalo to testify to finding a similar roll of newspaper clippings on Millic at the time of his arrest. Other witnesses appearing for the prosecution were a lieutenant of police from Flint and Sheriff Kirk. The defense had no witnesses at the trial.

Asa Howard of Millington pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the oil station at Carr's Corners a few weeks ago. He was given a sentence of 5 to 15 years at the state reformatory at Ionia.

Clarence Wiggins, who pleaded guilty to an arson charge several days ago, was sentenced Tuesday to 2½ to 10 years at Jackson prison.

In the trespass case of Peter V. Squires vs. C. L. Prior and Henry Lang, the plaintiff was awarded a summary judgment of $525.87, with cost to be taxed.

Decrees were granted in the divorce cases of Lucile Cutler vs. Jay Cutler; Grace MacKenzie vs. Wm. C. MacKenzie.

A TRIBUTE TO HEROISM.

One of the most enthusiastic welcomes ever given to anyone was that accorded to Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his heroic crew when they returned to New York. The admiration expressed by this great throng of well-wishers throws light on human nature and the kind of thing that pleases the people the most.

The enthusiasm for the conqueror of the poles is largely due to his heroism, plus admiration for his very great skill and power as a leader. The people do admire courage more than almost any other gift. It seems to count almost more than service to humanity. Since we all want to be courageous, but most of us do not get very far along that line, people admire those who have that quality in such a superlative degree as this man of the icy snows and his followers. We feel that if we could have our choice of all the qualities and gifts that the gods could give us, that is the one we should choose above all others.

It should not be forgotten also that the Byrd expedition was more than a mere display of physical courage. It was an enterprise of scientific investigation, the results of which will be more profound than they seem on the surface. The men who carry through such an undertaking are to be honored as among the foremost of the world's pioneers.

The majority of the world's greatest scientific investigators have had to do their work without much popular applause or money reward. The full recognition of their achievement has not usually come until after they were gone. It is satisfactory that the men of the Byrd expedition obtain recognition and arouse admiration at once. It could be wished that more of the men who have enlarged the world's knowledge could thus find equally ready appreciation.

COMMODITY PRICES.

The principal cause of the recent upset in the stock market was probably the considerable decline in prices of commodities that has occurred during the past two years. While the public feels that the cost of living is still high, declining prices do not help business. They make producers cautious about buying supplies and raw materials, which checks factory operation.

Many business men are asking how far this decline in prices can be expected to go. Some authorities think it is related to the declining production of gold, an influence that always has some tendency to depress prices. But as credit is very ample with money loaning at low rates, it would not seem that the decline in gold production could have been the cause of the recent fall in merchandise prices.

Probably the present situation is simply the operation of the old law of supply and demand, which is the basis of all business. Industrial methods have been so improved, that the farms and factories have turned out more goods than the public was able to use. Consequently, as supply has exceeded demand, prices have fallen for a time.

But such conditions never last long. Excessive supplies of commodities tend to check production, while people keep on consuming nearly as many products as ever, so that soon demand exceeds supply again, and prices rise.

The cost of living has been so high since the World war, that a very slow decline in prices has commonly been expected. But the recent fall in many staples has been sharp enough to do more harm than good. A moderate rise in some of these prices would be a good thing now, since it would convince buyers that they have nothing to gain by waiting. They would hurry into the market, and give the orders that are needed to start the industries booming at a high rate of speed.

LINDBERGH, JR.

It was a national event when a son was born to Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh. They are the nation's most cherished young folks. They have won a unique place by their great achievement and the modesty and refinement with which they have lived in the public eye, and made use of their amazing success.

Lindbergh, Jr., starts life with everything in his favor. No infant ever had a more fortunate beginning. He will have the best that education can give. Popularity will come to him without effort. Many boys can't stand the strain of so much prosperity. But the colonel and his delightful wife will deal with that situation. Their good sense will tell Junior how to use these gifts right and not be led astray by them.

Not merely does the youthful Lindbergh start out with every advantage that education and environment can give, but his heritage of character gives him a wonderful start. If there is anything in inheritance, and most authorities think there is a great deal, he will have fine traits handed down to him. If he goes wrong he will have only himself to blame. But with the opportunities he will have, he is likely to make his own place in the world.

THE WATCHWORD OF CO-OPERATION

Probably the favorite watchword of today in the business world is "co-operation." It is the method by which the economists are hoping to solve the problems of the farming population. They are teaching the agriculturists that they will not get anywhere until they combine their forces and work together.

The business world has been shaped over to the co-operative idea. The big business concerns that used to fight each other, have learned that they accomplish much more to co-operate. So they agree on joint policies beneficial to the whole trade.

Labor has learned to co-operate. The powerful labor union movement is an example. Even labor and capital, once hostile, co-operate to a large extent, and both profit.

One field where for a long time there was not much co-operation, was that of retail trade. Competitors often would not speak to each other. Now they get together in favor of policies that will help the whole trading center, and they all gain by the union.

To make the circle of co-operation complete, one more bond of union is necessary, and that is between the citizens of a community and the business men. Frequently they work at cross purposes. But to enable a community to develop and enlarge its resources and advantages, it needs a growing retail trade, as a kind of backbone and foundation which holds up the activities of the community.

To create that trade and keep it in a state of development, the citizens of the town and vicinity, need to co-operate by spending their money at home. Where they have acquired that habit and make it a matter of principle, then a sound foundation for enlarged resources and facilities has been created.

GETTING TO FIRST BASE

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

HAL JUSTICE looked around nervously and settled his slender little body into the tree crotch more firmly. How had all these kids so suddenly found out that this was a good place to see the ball game? Most of them were about his own age, but they showed no friendliness after an indifferent glance toward him. Hal knew that he looked like a sissy, with his thick-lensed spectacles and his pale cheeks. But he didn't feel like one. Not a bit. He loved baseball with a passion quite as ardent as that of any vociferous corner-lot devotee. Hal couldn't play because of his eyes. His eyes seemed to shut him out from such a lot in this world.

He could barely distinguish the bases. They were little white blurs in the distance and the men on them just animated four-pronged blotches, but he located first base and fixated his eyes on the spot. The radio announcer, whom the boys could hear clearly, would tell when the Bayshore Cubs took the field and Hal would watch every move of the first baseman.

The boy's heart swelled. He always forgot the hurt of it when he could watch his father play. He became lost in a hero worship that left no room in his mind for pain or doubt. Partly, twelve-year-old Hal understood Lou Justice's bitter disappointment over his son. A man could hardly help resenting this timid, retiring child who sometimes visibly trembled when his father spoke to him.

"He'll never even get to first base," Justice had said bitterly and Hal had overheard him. The boy wanted so desperately to please him that from very self-consciousness he appeared more awkward and diffident than he really was.

"Hey!" Hal's thoughts were interrupted by a freckled boy near him. "That's Lou Justice and he's hit a three-bagger! Oo-oo, watch it go!"

"He ain't gonna—yes, he is! No, he ain't! Beany, quit your pinching my arm! He did! I told you so! Saw it 'fore the old announcer did, too."

"He brung in two men for the Cubs, too! An' just wait'll he gets on first an' begins clawin' 'em down! The Bradenford Blues'll wish they was home with mommer."

It proved to be the best game Hal had ever tried to see. He had a much better idea of what was happening from the boys' talk than from the announcer's words. Somebody produced a pair of field glasses and Hal got one brief glimpse of the game through them. It made him gasp. Gee! What he could see if he had a pair of those things!

He began to see that his father was a sort of hero with these boys and he quivered with pride. A brief dialogue toward the end of the game arrested his attention. The freckle-faced boy demanded generally: "All o' you goin' to the meetin'?" A chorus of assent answered him and Hal asked: "What meeting?"

The freckled boy glanced scornfully at him. "You mean you don't know about the meetin' Lou Justice holds after a game? He talks to us just ten minutes and we gotta be under fifteen, too. An' tonight he holds a meetin' for them that's older. My dad says it's a fine thing. He says Justice is a fine feller to want to help kids instead of runnin' around in s-society."

For some reason this news of his father thrilled Hal even more than the game or the screeches of admiration from his companions. He would go along to the meeting. Maybe there'd be lots there so he wouldn't be noticed.

"It's gonna be," some one said, "in the Claybourne block—fourth floor. We gotta go up in elevators. Whoopee!"

Hal had never seen so many boys all together in one place. The big hall was literally filled to the doors and still they kept coming. Pretty soon everybody was standing to make more room, and presently Hal saw his father on a platform well above them, so that every boy could see his face. Hal's heart overflowed with pride. Tears streamed from his shining eyes, but nobody noticed.

They stood wonderfully still, that crowd of urchins, listening to the slow, clear speech of the baseball player. He used words they understood. He seemed to be talking to each one of them individually. Hal felt, in his own slender limbs, that he was stretching up to the stature of a man, for he was being talked to as if he were a man. There wasn't a bit of condescension in the friendly voice. At the last Justice told them to let each one try to think of something he could do before he went to bed that night that a good man would do—some little thing like holding the baby or getting in the wood or smiling at somebody you didn't like much.

As Hal sidled through the door he saw his father talking with some other men, though he turned to glance often and smile at the boys streaming past him.

There were five elevators in the Claybourne building, four in the front and one at the back. A half dozen boys who knew of the existence of the rear elevator detached themselves from the mass waiting about the doors. Hal followed them. He wanted to get out of sight as soon as possible.

The rear elevator proved to be out of order and a workman at the open shaft door warned the boys back. They retreated obediently along the corridor, but one of them turned when he saw the workman step out of sight.

"I always did wanta look down a elevator shaft, an' now's my chance." He sped back while the others watched him uncertainly.

The thing all happened in a twinkling. The running boy clutched the elevator door as he tried to stop and it slid forward, swinging him by his own momentum into the shaft. His clutch slipped but he caught hold again and hung with his head just above the hall floor.

Hal had started running as soon as he saw the boy lose his balance. "Quick!" he commanded with a squeak of pure terror for the victim. "I'll grab him an' you grab me!"

It was done in a flash—five boys strung across the corridor floor, holding in safety the sixth who was all but helpless with fright. A painter on a step ladder, who had seen the whole thing, now overcame his paralysis and descended to drag the child in the shaft to safety. One boy, too frightened to obey Hal, had fled back to the assembly room sobbing, and the rescuers had hardly got to their feet when they were surrounded with men and the corridor was packing with curious children.

"I seen every bit of it!" the painter was explaining with awe in his voice. "I never see anything in my life move so quick as that kid in glasses. Why, he was ten foot ahead of the one next after him and it's God's own mercy that he weren't yanked into the shaft, too. He slid the last of the way on his front, just like he was making home base. Talk about your nerve!"

Hal hung his head in embarrassment, wishing desperately that he could get out of that place.

Lou Justice, his face first paling, then flushing, dropped a hand on the boy's shoulder.

"Hal."

"Do you know him?" asked one of the men in surprise.

"My son," answered Justice.

Hal heard a snort of astonishment near him and saw the freckled boy, his head thrust forward under a man's arm.

"Why—why, he was with us today an' he never said a word!"

"Why—golly, kids!" Language failed him.

They took a taxi home. It was growing dusk and Hal snuggled unashamed into the arm about him.

"To think," Lou Justice was scoring himself, "that he had to risk his life before I guessed his quality."

Aloud he said: "I guess you made first base, old man."

The boy's breath caught with pure happiness. After a time he asked: "Dad, did you ever look through field glasses? A kid up in that tree today had some and I could see everything just as plain!"

The arm tightened and Lou Justice was glad of the darkness that hid his blush of shame. After this—binoculars and a grandstand seat. Yes, and the front row at the meetings.

Color Given to Sea by Various Skies and Floor

What holiday maker has not noticed the color of the sea and marveled at it?

Why is the sea blue today and green tomorrow? Why is it leaden-hued sometimes and slate-colored another day?

Water in vast bulk has, according to scientists, a natural blue color. But its hue is controlled and modified by the changing skies and the composition of the sea floor.

Looking out to sea, you sometimes see a distinct color line, about a quarter of a mile from shore. The nearer water is greenish and that on the farther side of the line blue.

This is due to the depth and character of the sea bed. The sand near shore is yellow, and this gives a greenish appearance to the water; the green becomes blue as the sea bed dips and the marine vegetation upon the bottom thickens.

What part does the salt in the sea play in determining the color? It is probable that it tends to intensify the blue. Both the Mediterranean and the Gulf stream, which flows like an individual sea in the Atlantic, are very salty and of a deep and beautiful blue in color.

Off the coast of China the sea is quite yellow. This is because tons and tons of yellow mud flow into it continuously from the great rivers of China.

So, too, with the Red sea. The peculiar color is in this case the result of rotting vegetable matter in the water. A similar peculiarity is to be found in some South American waters.

Why is the Black sea so named? Because its waters are astonishingly dark—though not really black, but rather purple in hue. There has never yet been any scientific explanation of this strange characteristic.

The part played by the sky in determining the changing color of our coastal waters is easily understood. Clear blue skies lend the sea their beauty; and purple thunder clouds transfer their frown to the face of the waters.—London Answers.

Meaning What?

Ministers' wives, as everybody knows, have a difficult lot in life, and a particular lady's lot so roused the sympathy of a friend that she remarked, "There ought to be a special place in heaven for ministers' wives." "Perhaps you're right," responded the minister's wife, "but I should rather go with my husband."—The Christian Register.

Number 1

Published in the interest of the People of Cass City and vicinity by the

Elkland Roller Mills
Edited by Roy

This issue marks the beginning of the 6th year for Grist Screenings.

Many a newspaper has quit in less time than that.

As an editor, of course we probably wouldn't rank with Horace Greeley, or H. F. Lenzner.

And it's probably true that advertising experts wouldn't grade us very high on the way we handle this space.

But that's all right, too. They're not paying for it, either.

And this much we do know:

We've had a lot of fun these past 5 years getting the Grist Screenings ready each week—and we hope you've enjoyed it as much as we have.

And we also know this: thru the columns of our little newspaper we have had an opportunity to know more people than we ever knew before—and we believe more people know us.

Those are the results we had hoped for.

Now that we're starting another year, we certainly will appreciate any suggestions you can give us.

Elkland Roller Mills

Our reporting staff is very limited.

We want to improve Grist Screenings this next year—and your suggestions will help.

Just as we intend to improve the service this firm is giving to Cass City community people.

Our years of experience, we believe, can be of some assistance to you. And they are certainly at your disposal.

And so starts another year for Grist Screenings.

Incidentally, right here before we use up all the room, we want to thank you for all the interest you have shown in this space. It helps! It certainly does!

DAIRY FACTS

COWS ON PASTURE NEED GRAIN ALSO

Cornell Station Advocates Liberal Ration for Herd.

E. S. Harrison, who is supervising the protein feeding experiment at the Cornell university agricultural experiment station, says that cows on pasture demand liberal grain feeding.

He assumes that if the pasture were ideal and the cow could get and eat all the grass she wanted she could not produce up to capacity on the nutrients she could digest from the pasture. In other words, he says, even under ideal conditions of pasture it is necessary to feed grain to heavy producing animals.

But on the typical dairy farm, he says, pastures are not ideal, particularly in a dry season, and a cow can gather only a relatively small part of the grass she needs. On many of the short, side-hill pastures in New York it takes a lot of real work on the part of a cow to collect what grass is there. This uses up energy which otherwise could go into milk production. In addition, hot weather and the annoyance of flies add to the cow's troubles and subtract from her power to make milk, and this means that dairymen should feed grain during the summer at about the same rate as in winter.

Summer silage, or a silage crop will make up for the loss of succulence in dried pasture, or even hay should be added to the ration; but the main point, Mr. Harrison says, is to feed grain during the short pasture season, and it will actually pay more profit than any grain fed at any time of the year. Not only does it help to maintain the milk flow during the summer, but it will prevent the loss of flesh by the cows, and they will go into the barn in the fall able to respond to good feeding and fully capable of giving their best returns in money to their owners.

Plan for Keeping Flies Out of Dairy Stables

Windows in the University of Nebraska dairy barn have been painted blue. This is not to please the cows' sense of beauty but to help fill the milk pails. Covering the glass openings with blue alabaster keeps the barn darker, thus making it cooler and freer from flies.

Shutting out part of the light from barns, stalls, and sheds has been satisfactory in relieving farm animals from some of the worry caused by flies, farmers declare. Openings can also be covered with burlap to a considerable advantage. Windows in the university dairy barn are so arranged as to open for ventilation without admitting direct sunlight. The blue paint with which they have been coated is easily removed and will be taken off after the summer is over.

Soy Bean Hay Excellent Feed for All Milk Cows

Soy bean hay makes very excellent feed for milk cows when properly grown and cured. The best quality of hay will be made if the beans are sown in rows about thirty or thirty-six inches apart. It will require two or three pecks of seed per acre. The beans should be one or two inches apart in the row. When sown in this way, enough cultivation must be given to keep the weeds down.

They should be cut for hay when the first leaves begin to turn yellow. The hay may be cut with the mower and the crop handled the same as alfalfa would be handled. It is best to put it in small windrows with a side-delivery rake as soon as the plants are slightly wilted. From these they may go into small cocks for further curing and from that point on handled as alfalfa hay would be handled.

Dairy Facts

Calves do best when confined fairly closely.

Calves must be kept comfortable, have plenty of sleep, and full feeding of whole milk to make rapid growth.

It is important to select a sire from a great dam if possible. No great sire has been produced by a mediocre cow.

Cows usually test highest in butter fat content of milk shortly after freshening. The test normally drops for six or eight months with a considerable rise towards the close of the lactation period.

Powdered skim milk may be substituted for fresh skim milk for calves after they are a few weeks old. It should be mixed at the rate of one pound of powder to nine pounds of water and fed in the same manner as fresh skim milk.

One of the big losses of the dairy industry is due to the selling of bulls before they are proved. A bull must be at least five years old before his value as a sire can be definitely determined.

Dynamite and Hailstones
Free Your Emotions
Gambling Never Pays Providence Provides

Lightning struck a boat carrying dynamite, off Cockburn island, in the St. Lawrence, killing thirty, blowing the big $100,000 boat to splinters. We like to read about that.

At St. Johns, Newfoundland, windows, roofs, were broken, animals killed by hailstones weighing ten pounds each. We've heard of hailstones as big as hens' eggs, but not as big as hens. That interests 1,000, 000 of us where Einstein interests one.

The learned Dr. W. J. Mayo, earth's greatest surgeon, able to remove anything you have, except your citizenship and your complexes, warns you that restraining your emotions is bad for your heart. Every time your mind interferes to check your instinctive impulses, the heart suffers. That will encourage modern young people, increasing their expectation of long life. When you suddenly jam on your four-wheel brakes, your tires suffer; so with your heart when you suddenly apply your will and control the emotions, which are your driving force.

Captain Saul of the Southern Cross can testify to man's progress in transportation. As navigator of the Southern Cross he flew the Atlantic in two days.

Some years ago he made his first Atlantic crossing in a square rigged sailing vessel, and was six months on the journey.

In spite of that, many still doubt that ocean air travel will ever "become practical."

Children of today will ask about "the old days when people crossed the ocean on the water," as they now ask about stage coach days.

And those now living will cross to Europe for about $10.

Charles S. Waters, his savings gone, killed his wife, his daughter and himself.

The money went in stock gambling. Gambling causes suicides, ruin, poverty, sorrow.

Bootleg whisky causes some suicides, many murders. Leave stock gambling and bootlegging alone.

The kindness of Providence supplies us with things when we need them. The ravens fed Elijah.

After the Napoleonic wars Europe, heavily in debt, faced long poverty.

Then came steam power, debts were paid, prosperity was great.

Kings and nobles in steel armor enjoyed leading miserable peasants to war. The latter were left dead, the nobles in their armor rode back. Then gunpowder and bullets went through the armor, nobles and kings went home, wars became less frequent.

The automobile made gigantic supplies of gasoline necessary. The country yields so much oil the oil men don't know what to do with it.

Finally, in flying, clouds and fogs, out of sight of land, make necessary information in midocean.

And the "radio" supplies it. The flyers arriving from Ireland say that without the guiding radio they could not have made the flight. As we need things we get them.

Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt says: "Character building begins in the cradle." Parents should train children from their babyhood.

An old English horse trainer, asked "When should I begin training my colt," and told that the colt was three weeks old, said: "You have lost the three most important weeks."

Children should be trained with kindness and explanation, never with whipping or other brutality, from babyhood.

But don't waste too much time correcting and nagging concerning faults that the child will outgrow with time; and not otherwise.

Two kinds of bad news from India. In the Madras presidency police firing at a crowd of "rebels," wounded seven.

More serious, from the imperial point of view, is the disastrous slump in cotton prices on the Bombay markets. Price restrictions have been withdrawn and many failures of cotton merchants are expected.

Wall Street wit which described a broker opening his order book, releasing several moths, now says, "Constructive forces are now in the saddle, but the saddle is not on the horse."

That talk is pleasing to the busy bears, but saddle and horse may be together soon and bears less happy.

Allan Hoover, son of the President, bought a set of union overalls and has gone to work in a New Jersey plant of the American Radiator company. He wants to "learn the manufacturing business from the bottom."

The best way to do that would be to get a job as office boy with Mr. Clarence Woolley, top head of the American Radiator company, and listen to observations made by that gentleman in the course of business. He really does know the business from the bottom up.

DOROTHY WEED, JAMES

PIPER SPEAK VOWS

From Flint Daily Journal.

Before a banking of palms softly lighted from the sides by floor lamps and flanked by aisle posts and baskets of the season's flowers, Miss Dorothy K. Weed and James U. Piper spoke their marriage vows before a company of their friends Thursday afternoon. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Springer, 2411 Alexander Ave., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Piper, 1513 Church St. Dr. Walter R. Fruit performed the double ring ceremony in the parlors of the church. This wedding was the first to be held in these parlors since their dedication last autumn. Preceding the service Fred Biglow of Grand Rapids, a fraternity brother of the groom in Kappa Delta Rho, gave a short piano recital, and Miss Faye Miller sang "At Dawning" and "Oh Promise Me."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. K. M. Morris of Detroit, advanced down an aisle formed of aisle posts filled with flowers and entwined with white ribbons and greens. The bridal gown was fashioned of white chiffon, with a short bodice and lace bolero caught in front with chiffon flowers. The skirt was cut in diagonal bands of chiffon and lace flaring into a circular effect. With the gown, the bride wore a picture hat of white horsehair braid trimmed with white satin and tulle. Her bouquet was a beautiful shower arrangement of white roses and valley lilies.

Miss Alice Klump of Saginaw, who was the bride's only attendant, wore a gown of pastel green chiffon, made with a high waist caught with green satin. A short cape attached to a sleeveless jacket was a distinctive touch. Miss Klump's hat was a close-fitting model of white satin, and her flowers were pink roses and baby breath. Little Marilyn Walter in a cunning colonial costume of flowered organdie was ring-bearer. Howard Piper assisted his brother as best man, while G. Eldred Clark and John Varty were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Springer chose a smart gown of green chiffon with matching green hat, while Mrs. Piper wore a lovely model of flowered pansy chiffon with a matching hat.

After the ceremony there was an informal reception at the church for the guests. Mrs. J. D. McCallum and Mrs. L. B. Bowen, members of Opportunity circle of Court St. M. E. church, presided at the punch bowls. The table was centered with tapers and a large bouquet of garden flowers.

Immediately after the church reception the guests were invited to 1410 Woodcroft Ave., the new home of the bride and groom, which was the gift of the groom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Piper acted as host and hostess there.

Mr. and Mrs. Piper left for an extended motor trip through the eastern states, Quebec and Toronto, where they will attend the real estate convention. For traveling Mrs. Piper chose a stunning black and white ensemble with a close-fitting white hat.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Piper are graduates of the University of Michigan, where Mrs. Piper was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha and Mr. Piper of Kappa Delta Rho and Alpha Kappa Psi. They both attended Flint High School and Flint Junior College.

Thursday, before the wedding, Mrs. Springer gave a luncheon for 36 of the out-of-town guests at her home. Garden flowers were used as effective table decorations. A special table at the luncheon was arranged for the four grandmothers of the bride and groom: Mrs. Inez Weed of Alliance, O., Mrs. Alice Klump of Saginaw, Mrs. Rice Springer and Mrs. J. U. Piper of Flint. There were also special places for them at the wedding.

The rehearsal dinner on Wednesday evening was given by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Piper at their Church St. home. Twenty guests, including the wedding party and members of the immediate families, were invited. Roses and summer flowers were used as table decorations.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ellis and Mrs. Inez Weed of Alliance, O.; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Klump and Miss Lucille Klump of East Tawas; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Ahn Jr. of Mt. Clemens; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ricker, Mrs. J. C. Corkins and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Lenzner and daughters, Phyllis and Shirley, of Cass City; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jenison and the Misses Mildred and Margaret Davis of Lansing; Dr. T. M. Iden, John Harbaugh and Davis Harbaugh of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Alice Klump, Mrs. C. E. Fox and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. ## Your Heels or Your Head.

William Feather, the author and editor, tells the story of a kindly employer who wished to teach a young man a lesson. The youngster had just come to work for him and to test him, the employer asked him to investigate a disturbing noise in the building. The young man hurried out and very soon returned saying that coal was being dumped into the basement.

Knowing that the building was heated with gas, the employer asked him to again go and find out more about it. At the end of the third trip the young man determined that the coal was being put in to meet any emergency, should the gas supply fail in cold weather. It took three trips for the lad to get all of these simple facts.

While the young man stood by, the employer called another employee and asked him to find out the cause of the disturbing noise. He was back in a few minutes with the whole story, was thanked and dismissed. "Now," said the employer, "do you see the difference between yourself and your friend? He uses his head. You use your feet. You have plenty of energy and if you can develop your head, we will make something of you."

This story recalls a short visit we had recently with Mr. G. Warren Peek. We were discussing a certain young person who has made rather remarkable progress in the past five or six years. He pointed out that this student had a penchant for asking questions—finding out all there was to know about any subject in school or anything that came to his attention outside of school. This seems to be the characteristic of some young people while others are content to accept what is told them and search no further for knowledge or information.

Well over one hundred young people of Clinton county are graduating from various high schools this month. Some of them are going to college and others will go to work. It makes little difference which, they will progress in the measure that they "use their head with their heels." Being young, those who start working will likely be assigned some active job. They have not yet the experience to attempt an executive position. Whatever they do and wherever they are, there is a chance for them to learn. The knowledge they gain, no matter how divorced it may be from what their ultimate work is to be, will be valuable to them.

In this connection we are reminded of the daily talks given on the radio by Floyd Gibbons, whose radio title is "The Headline Hunter." Gibbons, a comparatively young man, is a fine exemplification of what heels and head will do when used together. It is amazing what a variety and mass of information this foremost newspaper reporter of the country can cover in a short fifteen minutes. Gibbons would make good anywhere for the simple reason that he sees a thousand interesting things or mysteries wherever he is and in whatever direction he looks. He is a fine symbol of the restless spirit of progress of America.

We believe graduates will be called upon to use both their heels and their heads at the start. Their heels will soon slow up. In a decade there will be other and younger heels which are quicker than theirs. In that decade they should develop their head to the extent that it will more than make up for their lagging heels. If not, they will be tagging along near the rear of the line of march—at least well back in the column.—Clinton County News.

DEVELOPING NEW FRUITS IS URGED

Future of Industry Depends on Higher Quality.

If the New York grape growers wish to remain in the grape business, their future is dependent upon the development of more productive and higher-quality varieties, says Prof. Richard Wellington, chief of research at the Geneva experiment station. This statement applies as well to all other fruits, for the day of keen competition has arrived, and only those who grow a superior product will remain at the top.

It is not a question of more varieties, but varieties that will serve the highest purpose. No one can question that the production of blight-resistant pears, equal to the bartlett in size and quality and extending from the earliest to the latest season, would be of great benefit to the fruit industry. Only the production of mosaic-resistant varieties of red raspberries can put that industry on its feet, according to Professor Wellington. Time will tell if the newburgh variety will meet these requirements in part.

During the past forty years the Geneva experiment station has collected fruits from various parts of the world that might have any possible value. No fruit has been obtained that fulfills all the requirements of a good variety. Many possess valuable characters such as good size, high flavor and color, long-keeping quality, freedom from insect pests and disease, proper time of maturity, and hardiness of plant and floral organs. Many new combinations have been obtained which promise to be of commercial value. As an example, Professor Wellington cited the golden muscat grape which was obtained from a cross between the diamond and the muscat hamburg. This variety inherited the high productiveness, large clusters, and the delicate muscat aroma of its European parent, and the hardiness of its American parent. If this grape were black instead of a golden yellow; if it ripened a little earlier; and if it had a tougher skin for shipping, it would be invaluable, Professor Wellington said.

Several grapes like the golden muscat show promise and there are still many promising seedlings that are too new and whose merit is yet unknown.

Cherry Leaf Spot May

Be Checked by Sprays

(By C. E. GRAVES, Extension Plant Pathologist, Kansas State Agricultural College.)

Cherry leaf spot may be controlled by spraying with lime-sulphur solution. Usually only three sprays are used. To mix the spray for cherry leaf spot, use one gallon of commercial liquid lime-sulphur to 40 gallons of water. By adding two pounds of arsenate of lead, the curculio which causes wormy cherries will also be controlled. Dissolve the arsenate of lead in a small amount of water before adding it to the lime-sulphur spray.

1. The first spray is applied right after the petals fall.

2. Apply the second spray two weeks later.

3. The last spray should be applied right after the fruit is picked.

Cherry leaf spot has worked westward in the last three years. Cherries are the principal fruit crop in western Kansas. It will pay the owner of even a few trees to buy a five-gallon lard sprayer and apply the three sprays. A circular on spraying cherries may be obtained from the county agent or the agricultural college.

Sulphur Must Be Fine

for Its Effectiveness

The effectiveness of sulphur as a fungicide is in proportion to the fineness of the particles. In fact, according to experiments and studies made at the state experiment station of New York, at Geneva, all coarse particles of sulphur are practically worthless, for such coarse particles do not remain on the foliage, while fine dust will adhere to the leaves. It is only the portion of the dust that adheres that does any good. The rest of it is just thrown away; it is worse than useless, for it has cost money to buy, and it costs more money to apply it to the plants.

According to a recent report of the experiment station, sulphur should be in such a state of fineness that approximately 100 per cent will pass through a sieve having 325 meshes to the square inch.

Success With Berries

Good, well-grown, healthy raspberry plants, or strawberry plants, will give good success whether grown in Michigan or Ohio. The principle thing is to get the plants true to variety, well grown, free from disease, and delivered to you in a growthy condition. From the standpoint of getting the plants in a growthy condition it is often best to deal with a nearby grower if he has what you want as you can often get the plants dug, transported to your place, and set the same day.

unable to stoop, which hindered me greatly in my housework.

"Konjola gave me the first relief I have experienced in years. In a few weeks' time my rheumatism was entirely banished. I have no more pain or aches of any kind. My appetite is good. I have no more dizzy spells or specks before my eyes, because my kidneys are now in a fine condition. Konjola gave me this wonderful health."

Many express amazement at the speed with which Konjola works. It does, but a course of from six to eight bottles is strongly recommended. Konjola is both a medicine and a tonic, rich in up-building powers.

Konjola is sold in Cass City at Burke's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Advertisement 7-4-1

THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

Thos. N. Graham has been notified by Congressman Louis C. Cramton from Washington that he has been nominated by President Hoover as postmaster at Peck.

The members of Elk Lodge, 353 F. & A. M., at Peck, together with many visiting brethren, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the lodge at a memorial service on Thursday evening. The guest of honor was John T. Faxon, of Lexington, the only living charter member. Mr. Faxon is 81 years of age and was treasurer of Sanilac county when the court house was at Lexington.

Fifteen members of the graduating class of the Marlette High School visited Niagara Falls last week. They left Detroit Monday on a D. & C. steamer for Buffalo. They visited the falls Tuesday, took the boat on the return trip that evening and arrived home safe and sound on Wednesday.

Over 70 high school graduates of the county have applied for admission to the Tuscola County Normal school next year, according to School Commissioner B. H. McComb. From the applications 30 will be chosen by the board, members of which are Mr. McComb, Superintendent M. J. Crawford and Hon. Webster H. Pearce, superintendent of public instruction.

Grading for the stretch of the scenic highway through and northeast of Bay Port is under way by Murray & Fremont, contractors. The road, which is to be 20 foot concrete, will be 2.6 miles in length, starting a mile and a half south of Bay Port and running through the town terminating near the new railroad which has been constructed by the Wallace Stone Co.

Miss Donna Dissenroth of Leslie, Mich., a graduate of Western State Teachers' College with additional work done at the Columbia School of Music at Chicago, has been secured as instructor in music and art for next year to take the position vacated by Miss Wave Wandy in the Vassar school.

Vassar schools have raised their tuition rates to $80.00 for high school, $60.00 for grades seven and eight, and $40.00 for kindergarten and grades one to six. Figures compiled by school officials show that the average cost of instruction of each high pupil last year was $95.00.

Dr. Cole, the county dentist in Huron, working under the Couzens fund, recently stated that in five months time, he had examined the teeth of 2,000 children and found only 11% of them in perfect condition. He had cleaned and given prophylactic treatment to 506 children; extracted 212 temporary teeth and 48 permanent ones; put silver fillings in 106. General treatments numbered 122. Through this much work, Dr. Cole thought he had saved 538 teeth. In addition to all this, the doctor had given 98 talks in the county, 70 of them being in the schools.

biggest industries in Tuscola county. These figures do not include the money of this department in the county treasury.

"Money received from the state for sale of gravel from the county pits and the spreading of gravel has made it unnecessary to raise a county road tax for several years," said Mr. Striffler. "If the future management is as good as it has been, it is said that the county should have no direct tax for road purposes during the next ten years, providing the gas tax and the license tax remain as they are now."

"The county road commission plows the snow from 125 miles of state trunk line and 175 miles of county roads during the winter season. This makes practically a 1,200-mile trip for the plows to open the roads properly after a heavy storm."

In concluding his talk, Mr. Striffler gave some interesting figures on the road situation in five counties. Huron county, he said, has 136.9 miles of trunk line. This county has 86 miles of gravel, 4 miles of roads with macadam surface treated top, 109 miles of penetrating macadam and 36 miles of concrete.

Sanilac county has 146 miles of trunk line. There are 125.9 miles of gravel roads in Sanilac, 9 miles improved, 2.1 miles of road with concrete bituminous top, and 9 miles of concrete.

There are 104.7 miles of trunk line in Lapeer. This county has 79.2 miles of gravel, 2.8 miles of road with concrete bituminous top, and 22.7 miles of concrete.

Tuscola county has 148.4 miles of trunk line. There are 78.8 miles of gravel in Tuscola, 20 miles of unimproved highway, 9.3 miles of roads with macadam surface treated top, 8.4 miles of penetrating macadam, and 31.9 miles of concrete.

In St. Clair county, there are 148.4 miles of trunk line. This county has 20.4 miles of gravel, 11.7 miles of gravel road with bituminous top and 103.4 miles of concrete.

MOTHER GRADUATES WITH HER CHILDREN

One of the graduates in the 1930 class of the Bad Axe high school worthy of special note, because so unusual, was Mrs. William Jackson of West Woodworth street. For the past two years she has attended all the classes in the 11th and 12th grades, along with her three children, who attended the lower grades. Mrs. Jackson graduated with honors in this year's class. Her children are: Janice, 11 years old, Billie 10, and Bertie 7 years.

Mrs. Jackson, nee Miss Ada Collon, of Grindstone, was the whole class to graduate from the 11th grade at Grindstone, in 1911. That was the last year that W. H. Sparling was the Grindstone principal and his last year of teaching before becoming county commissioner. Before her marriage Mrs. Jackson taught six years in several schools in the northern part of Huron county.

The 11 grades Mrs. Jackson completed at Grindstone did not include Latin, higher mathematics and advanced literature, the requirements for college or university admission. For these reasons Mrs. Jackson had a very worthy ambition to complete a modern high school course.—Bad Axe Tribune.

School Commissioner B. H. McComb was allowed up to $200 for clerk hire in arranging census reports of various school districts in the county.

The following report of Neil H. Burns, S. W. Morrison and James Osburn, members of the resolutions committee, was adopted by the board:

"Whereas, Almighty God in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our esteemed fellow citizens and co-workers, the Hon. J. D. Brooker, the Hon. Giles Whitlock, the Hon. L. S. McElowney, and the Hon. Warren N. Leonard; and

"Whereas, in the death of these esteemed friends and citizens, Tuscola county has suffered great loss in that they gave to the people of the county their best services; and

"Whereas, this board of supervisors had learned to depend upon them for counsel and support; and

"Whereas, their work brought to them the affection of countless friends, both on this board and elsewhere who now mourn their loss;

"Be it resolved, that the Tuscola County Board of Supervisors in June session assembled take this means to express to the public their affection to the memory of these loyal public servants; to declare that their lives were shining examples of loyalty to their duties; and that we recommend to all who mourn that they cherish in their hearts the remembrances of these honored citizens;

"And be it further resolved that these resolutions be spread upon the records of the board and copies be sent, by the clerk, to the families and relatives of these faithful officers and our friends."

Representatives of banks of Tuscola county met with the bank depositors and finance committees of the supervisors at the request of these committees Wednesday evening to discuss the matter of depositing the $480,000 which will be received by the county from the sale of the Sebawaing River and Branches Drain bonds. The money, the supervisors' committees decided, will be divided into checking and savings accounts. The latter will be divided among 11 banks of the county, no one of which will receive more than $35,000. These deposits will bear 2 per cent interest and the banks are to provide surety bonds at the expense of the banks.

GLIMPSES OF MISS BIGELOW'S TOUR ABROAD

Concluded from first page.

Wednesday, I bought my ticket for Belfast and did that little bit of shopping.

Thursday, we took another bus trip, visiting St. Paul's Cathedral and the London Tower. The crown jewels are kept at the tower so we were able to see them. They are wonderful, but all that stuff seems rather silly to me. I guess they like it though. The stories of torture, beheadings and imprisonment they tell you about this place nearly makes one's blood curdle. Sir Walter Raleigh was imprisoned in this tower for 30 years and we saw the cell where he spent the last six months of his life. They imprison them and behead them, and then bury them in state. St. Peter's Chapel, at the Tower, is full of bodies, all of them having been beheaded, and all of the Royalty. They were a bloody lot.

Friday, we attended a meeting of the House of Commons. I have papers telling of that and will send them to Papa when I get back to N. Y. Friday night, we took a bus trip through the slums, but they are no different than in N. Y.

London, Eng., June 8.—We took the trip to the Shakespeare country yesterday and it was most delightful and interesting. We went by train, through beautiful country, to Leamington Spa and the rest of the way by bus. Leamington Spa is a beautiful Garden City and the roads from there to Kennilworth are bordered with hedges and fine trees of all descriptions. Holly is used a lot for hedges.

The remains of Kennilworth stand on a hill overlooking a beautiful stretch of country. All that Cromwell left of this large old castle is a few walls.

From here, we went to Warwick, stopping at Guy's Cliff where we saw the oldest mill in Great Britain. It is operated by a mill wheel and water, and was working when we were there. Down the river and through the trees the mansion could be seen. Warwick is a quaint village and the castle is just at the edge of it. This is a beautiful, large castle and still in use. The Countess of Warwick lives in part of it and the rest has been turned into a museum. I am sending pictures that will give you some idea of its beauty.

Many lovely paintings are housed here, many of them being Van Dyke's. On one side the windows overlook beautiful Italian gardens and on the other side the River Avon—one of the prettiest sights one could hope to see. Rhododendrons of all colors were in bloom, making almost a solid bank of color, red, pink, white, lavender; and the trees and grass are now at their best.

After this we went to Stratford-on-Avon and saw Shakespeare's birthplace. A mile from here is Shutterly where Ann Hathaway's home is. As we neared Shutterly, I saw the first Hereford I've seen in England. I have been told that the average farmer in England does not go in for pure bred cattle. He has "just cows." Those having dairies have more Shorthorns than anything else. Coming back, I sat with the driver and asked him if the yellow flowers that I saw in the fields in great abundance were not wild mustard. He said it was and that they liked it. They are troubled with wire worm and the mustard is bad for it. They plant it when they plant grain, and, of course, it is cut with the grain, but the second crop comes up and it is plowed under for fertilizer.

I saw another strange thing growing in fields. The plants are now a foot or more high. He told me this was horse beans, a smaller bean than an ordinary bean, and used for horse feed. The vines do not look like our beans at all.

I leave for Belfast tonight and John sent word that he would meet me tomorrow morning. I did not expect them to do that, as the boat gets in a little after six. I have had a letter and two wires from him.

Hotel D'Orleans, Rue Jacob, Paris, France, June 15—I think the last letter I wrote told you I was going to Ireland. Well, I have been. I left last Sunday night. Went to Heyshorn in England and from there across the Irish Sea to Belfast, getting in at 6:30 a. m. John was to meet me at 9:00, but did not get there until 10:00. It was raining and his car skidded, crashing into a stone wall. It was a good thing it was not as substantial as most of them are or his car would have been wrecked and they might have been badly injured. Esther and his sister-in-law were with him.

Kilkeel is a lovely little town about the size of Cass City, the sea on one side and the mountains on the other. John's house faces the mountains.

We came to Paris yesterday. It was raining when we arrived and it is pouring now. We leave Tuesday morning for Geneva so I guess we shall not see much of Paris.

Chemin Kreig, Geneva, Switzerland, June 18.—Well, we are here at last and I think I would be contented to park here for the rest of my life.

We had a busy day in Paris Monday. Notre Dame Cathedral, St. Chappelle and the Eiffel Tower in the morning; shopping in the afternoon.

In the evening, I took an American Express tour through the Latin quarter and they took us to five cabarets. One was part of an old prison and they showed us the torture cells and where they hung them and dropped them into the Seine, known as the Cabaret of Lost Souls. The next, The Jockey, started by two California boys was like Greenwich Village stuff, but not so well done. Then to the Cabaret of the Leaping Hare, the old hunting lodge of Henry II. and an interesting place. Then to the Moulin Rouge (Red Mill) which they say is now owned by the Western Electric. We got here at 11:30 in time for the show, after which the dance hall part is closed, but people dance until 3:00 or 4:00 in the morning on a little strip of floor in front of the bar. There was drinking in all these places, but not any ribaldry or coarseness like one sees in America. The people do not get drunk. They sit for hours over one glass and read or talk.

The last place was the Fantasia and seemed to have a better class of people than the Moulin Rouge. Home and dead tired at 2:00 and had to be up for breakfast at 7:00 as our train left at 8:15.

Soon after we got on the train, Mrs. Richards found an empty compartment and she and I went in there and slept all morning, and I slept part of the afternoon so I missed a lot of France but felt rested and awake in time to see the mountainous part. This was lovely and through this section there are many poplar trees, the first I had seen on this side.

Going from Bologna to Paris, the first part of the trip was through a sandy part and there were many sand dunes. Then through a lovely bit of country, rolling and hilly land, and you should see the poppies. Some fields looked like all poppies. They grow like weeds in the fields of grain and there is a lovely blue flower, too.

Yesterday, we had our lunch on the train and tea at Bellegarde where we changed trains. Got to Geneva about 8:00 and had dinner. You should see the place we have. It is a new building run in connection with an old pension that this man has had for 30 years. I have a beautiful room on the first floor with brand new modern furniture, a cute little tiled alcove with running water, a beautiful view out on the terrace almost like Bay Port. The furniture and furnishings are simply beautiful. I get all this and three meals a day for $2.00. Breakfast is served in my room which is the continental way. Do you wonder I am delighted after all these dirty rides.

Ted and Florence have a lovely three-room apartment complete in every detail and they are the first to occupy it. I just wish you could see it. We came right here from the station but it seems like a lively city, so clean and the air is delightful. I had intended to go to Interlaken and Lucerne but I am tempted to stay right here.

I hope I shall find some mail when I go to the American Express this morning.

FLORENCE.

YOUNG CHESS STAR

J. A. Anderson, twenty-two-year-old chess champion of St. Louis, has been selected by the National Chess federation as a member of the American chess team to compete in the International Chess tournament to be held in Germany. Anderson, while still a high school student, won the championship of Texas in 1927. During the last few years he has defeated some outstanding players.

WARNS BATHERS AGAINST USE OF POLLUTED WATER

With the opening of the bathing season generally throughout Michigan, the Pollution Control Division of the Department of Conservation has issued a warning to all bathers against the use of polluted water.

"There have been instances in the past few years in which the State Department of Health has found it necessary to close regular bathing beaches because of the polluted condition of the water," Homer S. Murphy, head of the Pollution Division, said.

"There are undoubtedly scores of places in the state, the condition of which have never been reported, and in which the water offers danger to the health of bathers. We can only warn bathers to consider possible sources of pollution before they make use of the water."

Bathing should not be permitted in river water for many miles below any community that is using the stream for expending and disposing of its untreated sewage. While the ordinary rules of sanitation should indicate this, hundreds of people bathe in such waters every year, making themselves highly subject to many forms of intestinal and skin diseases.

POISON BAIT STOPS DAMAGE BY HOPPERS

The recent appearance of unusual numbers of grasshoppers in some sections of Michigan is the signal for farmers in the northern part of the state to prepare to feed them poison bait instead of succulent forage, according to the entomology department at Michigan State College.

The proximity of large areas of uncultivated lands near farms makes it possible for the grasshoppers to develop undisturbed and then move to the farms and do serious damage to growing crops. The grasshoppers have natural enemies which will reduce their numbers but this control is too slow to be of much assistance.

Poisoned bran bait properly distributed will prevent serious damage to crops by this insect. The bait is prepared by mixing one bushel of bran, one-half gallon of cheap molasses, a little water, and one pound of white arsenic. Two or three ounces of banana oil are then stirred into the mixture. Arsenate of lead or paris green can not be successfully used as a poison for grasshoppers. A little salt added to the prepared bait makes it more attractive.

The bait should be broadcast in areas where there are numbers of grasshoppers. Care should be taken so there are no lumps of bait large enough to be eaten by animals.

The poison does not kill the grasshoppers immediately but they will stop feeding as soon as they have eaten any of it. Another formula for the preparation of a poison bait will be sent those who write the entomology department and ask for it.
