Here is the Curtiss-Bleecker helicopter that is undergoing tests at Valley Stream, L. I., and that may solve hard problems of aviation. It was designed by Maitland Bleecker.

ODD ENCOUNTERS OF BIRDS AND AIRMEN

Eagles Attack the Planes, Gulls Follow Them.

New York.—Swooping down in attack on an airplane above Buffalo Valley, near Harrisburg, Pa., the other day, a bald eagle lost his life in the whirling propeller. Encounters between birds and airmen have not been infrequent in various parts of the United States. In Europe the natural flyers and the mechanical flyers also have come to grips. Major C. C. Turner, air correspondent of The London Daily Telegraph, has assembled a number of such instances.

"Most air pilots can speak of curious meetings with birds and winged insects," he says, "and their experiences are now attracting the attention of ornithologists and entomologists. Unfortunately, few pilots are able to name the species whose strange doings they witness, and probably the only student of birds who flies in order to study them is the Duchess of Bedford.

Eagles Met Air Race.

"During the air race from Paris to Madrid in 1911 two famous French pilots, Vedrines and Gilbert, each had an encounter with an eagle in the Pyrenees. Vedrines evaded his assailant by maneuvering out of the way, but Gilbert put the challenger to rout by firing at him with a revolver.

"Generally speaking, birds are indifferent to aircraft, but they are at times inquisitive. Piloting a slow machine before the war, I had on several occasions the company of pewees, usually flying in pairs and keeping pace with the machine for considerable distances by its side or a little in front. It may have been chance, but it seemed intentional.

Won't Break Formation.

"Pilots agree that birds flying in formation will not turn aside for aircraft. One of our airline pilots encountered a vast flock of big birds near the Alps. They were flying westward in close formation. 'There were thousands of them, almost wing to wing,' he says. 'They flew through a cloud without breaking formation.' They were right in his path and he was compelled to swerve suddenly to avoid the danger. One of them was struck and killed.

"A few weeks ago a pilot arriving at Le Bourget reported that he had run into a great flock of big birds in formation near Boulogne. Two of them were killed by the machine and the body of one was caught in the wires. Its wings were 5 feet 2 inches across.

"A pilot who has made a large number of flights from Southampton to Guernsey and back, says that it is a common experience to find seagulls keeping up with the machine all the way between these points. The machine normally flies at about seventy miles per hour and it appears, therefore, that the seagull is capable of this speed."

National Guard Air

Units Are Independent

Washington.—Aviation units of the National Guard divisions throughout the country now are able to stand on their own feet and to serve the needs of the guard for training purposes without calling upon the army air corps for assistance, according to Maj. Gen. W. G. Everson, chief of the militia bureau of the War department.

As evidence of the progress made in equipping and training the National Guard aviation units, General Everson said, the plans made by the War department for the field training of the National Guard during the present year are based on the assumption that all air service necessary to the training of other arms of the National Guard can be performed by the militia air squadrons.

Field a Thousand Feet Below the Sea Level

There is one field used regularly by British military and civil aircraft which is a picnic for the visiting pilot, who must climb 1,000 feet from this field before he reaches sea level.

Operating out of the field he finds his landing speed decreased by up to ten miles per hour, his flying speed increased in like proportion, and his engine power increased by a sort of natural supercharging, due to the heavy air pressure.

The field is at El Lisan, in the great depression surrounding the Dead sea in Palestine. The field is on naturally flat ground and is 1,000 feet below sea level.

Little Nancy had been visiting and the grandfather clock had made a great impression. She attempted to describe it to her mother, and said, "Don't you think we ought to have one?"

"What kind was it?" asked the mother.

"Oh, it was tall and didn't once stop wagging its tail!"

OH, WELL, NEVER MIND

"You promised me a little kiss, you said you would not care."

"That much is true, but then you see my husband's over there."

Sense

A little nonsense, now and then, is relished by the best of men; But seen too oft, they take offense And come straight back to common sense.

So It Would

They wandered out of the movie, she clutching his arm.

"Oh, Gilbert," she murmured, "wasn't 'Oliver Twist' a perfectly marvelous film?"

"It was," he replied. "D'you know, darling, all the time I was watching it I kept thinking what a wonderful book it would make."—Unidentified clipping.

Swish-Sh-Sh-Sh!

Hopeless Henry—I wuz offered two jobs yestiddy widin' ten seconds. Soapless Sam—Where wuz dey? Hopeless Henry—One wuz at dat big white farmhouse on the hill. T'other wuz about six mille down de road.—Exchange.

Not the Only One

The Installment Collector—Your wife promised me faithfully that she'd make a payment today.

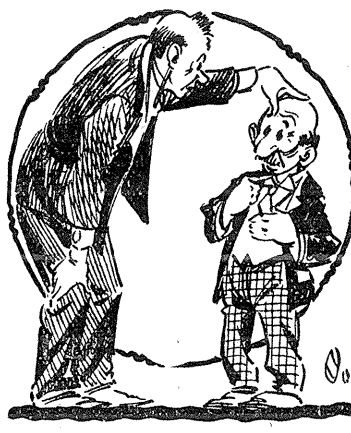

Mr. Pee-wee—What are you kicking about? She once solemnly promised that she'd obey me.

His Status

"I wonder if that Captain Spitz-noodle amounts to anything beneath the surface?"

"I should say so—why, he's the captain of a submarine."

COULDN'T RUN

"Why are you so out of breath? You haven't been running."

"That's just the reason I'm so out of breath. My wife's been choking me."

Information From the Air

My Radio! My Radio!
You tell in music sweet
How my opinions ought to go
And what to wear and eat.

Merit Is Rewarded

The hotel pianist was collecting at the tables. A man gave him a penny. Pianist (angrily)—What? You give me a penny and yet you gave a beggar six pence.

Diner—Yes—but he didn't play the piano.—Hummel.

Just an Average Couple

"Yes; you would think she was made to order."

"Maybe she does and he obeys meekly."

The Sham Battle

Captain Smiff—Hey, Sergeant Bjones, don't you know you are exposing yourself to an imaginary enemy over there 300 yards away.

Sergeant Bjones—Yes, sir, but I am standing behind an imaginary rock 20 feet high.—Pathfinder.

Everybody Watching It

Visitor—That is a beautiful clock. Is it insured?

Manager—No, but it is absolutely safe. There are more than 100 people working on this floor, and every one of them is watching it.

Resting

"How is your rest-room patronized?"

"Poorly. My girls would rather lounge at their desks."

Relativity Demonstration

An ivory tusk 10 feet long and weighing 250 pounds was recently landed in London. This is the impression one gets when the dentist says, "Now this may hurt you a little bit."—London Opinion.

Took Name From Statue

The Colosseum in Rome had been called the Flavian amphitheater, but came to be known as the Colosseum from the colossal statue of the Emperor Nero, which was near. The statue of gilded bronze was 117 feet in height.

Cherokees Ranked First

The Cherokee Indians were the largest and most important Indian tribe originally east of the Alleghenies, perhaps the highest in culture and intellectual receptivity north of Mexico.

Time to Be Young

Our sense is partially atrophied from disuse, but it is still alive, at least in old people, who alone, as a class, have the time to be young. One needs only to be old enough in order to be as young as one will.—Henry Adams.

Beautiful country—

Endless miles of paved highways—

The call of the open road—

MIRACLES by A. J. Dunlap

The miracles of ancient times—
Like Jonah and the whale;
The talking ass that Balaam rode;
The cruse that could not fall—
May prove that God abides somewhere,
But better far to me,
The old farm has her miracles
That all can hear and see.

In anxious call of mother beasts
And coo of turtle doves,
The understanding heart discerns
The miracle of Love.
The miracle of Life and Death
Stands boldly on display,
When new-born things lie dead at birth—
A scrap of useless clay.

The yawning hill-top's rugged cup
That holds the blood-red sun
Proclaims the miracle of Power.
When day is nearly done,
The miracle of Spring each year
Arrives on tree and vine
No trouble on the farm at all
To prove a Power Divine.

Under the non-skid tread of these famous Firestone Tires is a double breaker of two plies of cord fabric anchored in cushion rubber. This special construction absorbs road shocks—protects against punctures and blowouts—provides the foundation for the thick, tough tread with deeper grooves—giving longer non-skid wear.

OTHER makes of tires have only a single breaker of old-fashioned square woven fabric which Firestone discarded when they developed the balloon tire. Some makes do not have any breaker at all. The Firestone Tire is set apart as an "All Cord Tire".

PRECAUTION NEEDED IN FIELD FIRES

A warning to farmers in the southern section of the state to use every precaution to prevent the starting or spreading of field fires has been made by the Department of Conservation and Michigan State College.

A high hazard, already resulting in several serious fires in the southern third of the state, has made every grass plot and grain field a source of fire danger. In two instances farm buildings have been burned to the ground from fires catching in grain fields.

If building a fire in a field is absolutely necessary every means should be taken to prevent unintentional spread. Every available water container, barrels, pails, or pans, should be filled and placed around the fire.

Ordinarily the danger from fires in the southern third of the state is not high. However, the extreme hazard now present makes the danger of spreading fires great and the responsibility lies on the farmer to protect his own and his neighbors' property.

MARL DEMONSTRATION IN TUSCOLA COUNTY

Lime is needed on some soils in Tuscola county and this fact is generally accepted. The question remains, "What is the cheapest form in which to supply?" There are two natural sources of lime in Tuscola county, says D. B. Jewell, county agent. One is marl and the other is sugar factory lime. Marl is found in low places, often under water.

A marl digging demonstration will be held on the farm of Russell Walker, ½ mile west of the Northgrove school, which is seven miles south of Caro, at 1:30 p. m., Friday, September 5. The Agricultural Engineering Department of Michigan State College is cooperating with the Agricultural Extension Service of Tuscola County through the county agent.

The bucket type of marl digger will be demonstrated which can be operated either by horses or tractor and which costs less than $200. There are a number of places in Tuscola where it is too wet to shovel out the marl. This type of outfit makes it possible to remove the marl from wet places.

To reach the place of demonstration go west from the schoolhouse and a sign will show one where to turn into the fields.

HAPPENINGS IN THE NEIGHBORING TOWNS

Carefully Selected from Interesting Exchanges for Chronicle Readers.

It has cost Sanilac County approximately $3,000 a month, or $100 a day to take care of the wants of its "poor and needy" residents during the past ten months. From Oct. 1, 1929, to July 1, 1930, the County Clerk's office has issued checks against the poor fund for the sum of $27,748.92. These checks, of course, were issued to pay bills coming in from all parts of the county, that had been passed upon and properly endorsed by the County Poor Commissioner or other officials who have authority to do so. At present County Clerk Joe Dawe has in his hands vouchers amounting to $2,500, which he cannot pay because there is no more money left in the poor fund, and no likelihood that there will be any until the Supervisors meet in October and "dig it up." — Brown City Banner.

If Attorney General Wilbur M. Brucker, candidate for Governor at the primaries Sept. 9th, doesn't have time to visit Unionville his wife and three year old son, Wilbur, Jr., honored Unionville with their presence last week when Mrs. Brucker accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Hantel, visited their long time friend, Mrs. F. W. Wilkening. The three year old son is probably the youngest political campaigner in the state. He is very much interested in his father's candidacy. His greeting to those whom he meets is followed by the appeal, "Want you vote for my Daddy for Governor?" — Crescent.

Bids are asked by North Branch for the putting down of an estimated 250 foot emergency well at the water-works. The power to drive the pump to be used will be equipped for both gas and electricity and will have a 75 gallon per minute capacity. A 100,000-gallon elevated water tank is being erected in Imlay City for the Grand Trunk Railway system. The tank is of the conical bottom type, built of steel throughout and elevated to a height of 20 ft. by means of a one panel tower. T 6 ft. steel riser pipe will be riveted directly to the bottom, eliminating chances of leaks and acting as an additional support to the tank. No frost casing will be used. A record yield of 126 bushels of oats an acre was reported to the farm crops department of Michigan State college Monday by Ellis Aldrich.

CONTROL WHEAT SMUT WITH CHEAP METHODS

Reports from the millers in Michigan that one out of every five cars of wheat coming to market has to be graded as smutty is the reason given by the crops department of Michigan State College for advising the use of the treatments which with little cost will prevent smut in next year's crop. The treatments recommended are simple and inexpensive and either the formaldehyde or the copper carbonate methods will control the disease. Stinking smut, which shows at maturity as a mass of dark colored, oily spores inside the wheat kernel, is the disease for which treatment is recommended. Loose smut is difficult to control and is not a serious check on the Michigan wheat crop.

With the formaldehyde method, the seed wheat is soaked for 10 minutes in a solution made by adding one pint of formaldehyde to 40 gallons of water. The wheat should be spread out to dry after treating and then should be planted as soon as it will pass through the drill readily.

Copper carbonate dust at the rate of two or three ounces to each bushel of seed can be applied in a barrel churn, an oil drum, or other similar container which can be rolled to insure the thorough coating of the wheat with chemical. A gauze mask should be worn while the seed is being treated, and the treated grain is poisonous so it can not be fed.

Tests made with Berkley Rock wheat indicate that it is immune to both the loose and stinking smut.

TON-LITTER CLUB TO BE ABANDONED

Gives Way in 1931 to Pork Production Plan.

Last year Ohio growers of hogs produced more "ton-litters" than the growers in any of the other 24 states in which the ton-litter project is carried on. A ton-litter is a single litter of pigs which reach a total weight of a ton or more when they are six months of age. The project will be repeated this year in Ohio for the ninth time, and after this year will be abandoned so far as the adult hog producers of the state are concerned. It is announced by J. W. Wulchert, extension specialist in swine production for the Ohio State university.

"We feel that the Ton-Litter club, which has been one of the most popular honor production clubs sponsored by the extension service, has now served its purpose and would soon outlive its usefulness if continued," says Wulchert.

"It has interested and guided hundreds of farmers in adopting feeding, breeding, and management practices which produce marketable hogs of high quality at a time when they will bring the most money. The principles which the growers have been applying in producing single ton-litters are the principles which they must follow in managing their entire herds in order to bring the greatest profits.

"Hereafter we are going to emphasize a pork production club which will involve the application of what has been learned in the Ton-Litter club, to the entire herd. This project has already had one successful year in Ohio."

Fall Is Best Time to Buy Cattle and Sheep

Cattle and sheep can usually be purchased to better advantage during September, October and November than at any other time of the year and farmers who contemplate buying beef cows or ewes for breeding stock should take care of their needs during the next three months, according to W. H. Peters, animal husbandry chief, University farm, St. Paul.

When possible, Mr. Peters says, it is desirable to purchase breeding animals for shipment direct from the ranch or farm on which they have been produced to the farm of the purchaser. This, however, is often impractical because of the difficulty and expense involved in locating and purchasing animals that way. By using careful judgment and taking the necessary sanitary precautions, highly satisfactory purchases of breeding animals can be made at the large central markets, especially during the fall season when a wide range for selection is usually available.

Sheep and beef cattle are both in a very strong position at present and prices are moderately high. This makes it especially important that the buyer understand his business, says Mr. Peters. If he does not, he would be wise to employ the services of some reliable person who knows market grades and values and who understands market practices. The old adage that "well bought is well sold" is still one of the big factors in determining profits from live stock and has a particularly pertinent application to the purchase of feeder cattle and feeder lambs.

Live Stock Hints

- Thumps is a common symptom affecting baby pigs.
- The only sure way to kill lice and ticks on sheep is to dip each animal in one of the standard dip solutions.
- The first signs of stomach worms in lambs are scouring, lack of thrift and loss of flesh. The lambs gradually get weak and listless.
- Good pasture for growing pigs, brood sows, and other hogs is so valuable that it often makes the difference between profit and loss in the hog business.
- Scabbed barley can be fed more profitably to cattle or sheep than to pigs. Feeding experiments have shown that it is also suitable as a beef cattle feed.
- Hog cholera destroys more hogs in the United States than all other diseases combined. The losses have amounted to more than 6,000,000 hogs in one year, and the money losses reach millions of dollars yearly.
- A few days before lambing time some of these fat ewes get down in a paralyzed condition, become insensible, stiffen out and die.
- Success in growing a desirable type of market hog comes with selection of the proper kind of pig which then is given good feed and care.
- Corn silage is often fed to breeding ewes and fattening lambs. If fed too liberally and for too long a period, it is likely to produce weak, flabby lambs, deficient in vitality.

Combination of Face Brick and Siding Makes an Attractive Home

A beauty in a combination of face brick and siding. Notice the simplicity and harmony of each part with every other and study the unusual floor plans.

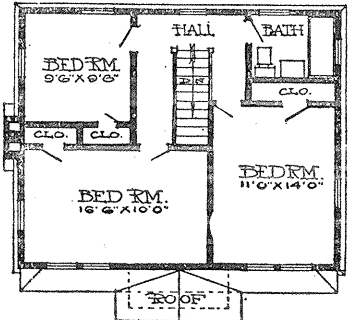

By W. A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 407 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

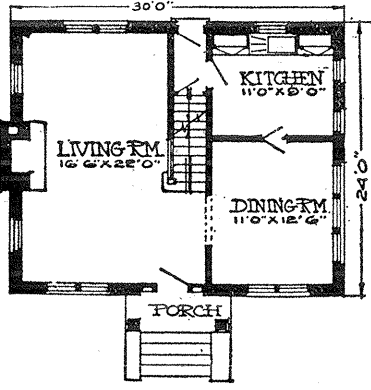

There are a great many different building materials which used alone make an attractive home. However, some people desire a combination of two materials, thereby securing an out-of-the-ordinary home. In the home building design shown in the accompanying illustration a combination of face brick and wood is used to good advantage. While the house is not large, the brick walls up to the second floor still give it an air of solidity, like-and kitchen downstairs, and three bedrooms with bath upstairs.

As will be seen by the floor plans, which accompany the exterior view, all of these rooms are of unusual good size. The entrance door leads direct-

One United States Senator, one Governor, one Lieutenant Governor, one Representative in Congress 7th district, one State Senator 20th district, one Representative in the State Legislature, one Prosecuting Attorney, one Sheriff, one County Clerk, one County Treasurer, one Register of Deeds, two Circuit Court Commissioners, one County Drain Commissioner, two Coroners, one County Surveyor, and as many delegates to the County Convention as said township may be entitled.

M. P. FREEMAN,
Clerk Elmwood Township.

State of Michigan, the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola in Chancery.

G. S. Graham, administrator of the estate of Elnora C. Fishell, deceased, plaintiff, vs. William H. Jones, his unknown devisees, legatees, heirs and assigns, defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola, in Chancery, at the Village of Caro, in said County, on the 15th day of July, A. D. 1930. In this cause it appearing from affidavit on file, that the Defendant, William H. Jones, is deceased and left unknown, Devisees, Legatees and Heirs at Law, who have no residence known to plaintiff, and that their present whereabouts are unknown to Plaintiff, also diligent search and inquiry to ascertain the same has been made.

On motion of H. P. Orr, Plaintiff's attorney, it is ordered that the said defendant's unknown Devisees, Legatees and Heirs at Law, if any there be, cause their appearance to be entered herein within three months from the date of this order and in case of their appearance that they cause their answer to the Plaintiff's bill of complaint to be filed, and a copy thereof to be served on said plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after service on them of a copy of said bill and notice of this order; and that in default thereof, said bill will be taken as confessed by the said unknown Devisees, Legatees and Heirs at Law defendants.

And it is further Ordered, That within twenty days the said Plaintiff cause a notice of this order to be published in the Cass City Chronicle, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said County, and that such publication be continued therein at least once in each week for six weeks in succession, or that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said defendants at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for their appearance.

HENRY H. SMITH,
Circuit Judge.

H. P. ORR,
Attorney for Plaintiff, Business Address, Caro, Michigan. 7-25-7

Cass City High School Opens Sept. 2

The Cass City High School offers excellent educational advantages to boys and girls who have passed the county eighth grade examination. They are cordially invited to attend this modern school during the coming year.

Courses are offered as follows:

Agricultural course, Commercial course, Academic course, and Home Economics course. The Cass City High School course offers extra credit in the following work: Art, Chorus, Orchestra, Debating, Public Speaking, Bible, Girls' Glee Club, Boys' Glee Club, Agricultural Project. Numerous school societies provide valuable training. Added advantages are to be had in the splendid churches, library, and the various lectures and gatherings which center in the community of Cass City.

The Cass City High School is accredited by the University of Michigan and is on the North Central Association list. Students graduating from the high school here are admitted to the various colleges, universities and normal schools without examination.

All high school and grade teachers are specialists in their respective fields. All high school teachers of academic subjects hold degrees.

The 1930 graduating class numbered 44 students. This compares favorably with schools in towns two or three times larger than Cass City.

The commercial course gives the student four years of special training, fitting him for the commercial field. Commercial arithmetic, bookkeeping, typewriting and shorthand are all offered in this course.

Enrollment in the high school has passed the 260 mark. Non-resident pupils have increased in the past few years from approximately 40 to 167 in 1929. Careful attention is given each pupil in planning his course of study and in his work throughout the year. We have a physical director for students.

Good roads make it possible for students to come long distances. Many drive to and from school to their homes each day. Others living much farther away have been at home week ends. Provision is made at the school cafeteria for high school students to purchase lunches at cost during the winter months. Between two and three thousand meals were served last year at an average cost of 15 cents a meal.

Cass City students won the sub-district oratorical and declamation contests in 1928 and 1929 and first sub-district honors in declamations in 1930; won first place in the district music contest in 1929; won the district championship in basketball in 1930; and more than their share in county and Thumb honors in football, baseball and track for several years. Cass City vocational boys have exhibited 21 state champions at the Michigan State Fair in the last six years.

Tuition is $80.00 a year for high school pupils. The home district must pay $60.00 of this amount per year if application for tuition has been made to the director of the home district.

The principal and superintendent will be in the high school office Saturday, Aug. 30, to aid those who wish to arrange their course of study. School opens Tuesday, September 2.

Address all inquiries to L. D. RANDALL, Superintendent.

Paneling Need Not Be

Expensive, Expert Says

Paneling, contrary to the popular impression, need be no more expensive than other methods of treating walls, says Edward W. Donaldson in "Better Homes and Gardens."

When paneling is mentioned, points out this authority, people too often think exclusively of the oak paneling of Tudor or early Stuart type of the deal or pine-paneled room of the late Seventeenth and early Eighteenth centuries; or of the ornate French paneling of sundry Eighteenth century modes. Paneling of these types is worthy of all admiration, but either adaptations or reproductions are very expensive and demand a complete environment to correspond. Without such an environment, architecture and furnishings they become absurd. There are, however, perfectly legitimate kinds of simple paneling that require neither expensive material nor highly-skilled workmanship, and such paneling can be employed in the simplest rooms with entire propriety and excellent results.

The resources available for simple paneling are wood, plaster, paint, paper, and sundry fabrics, continues the writer in "Better Homes and Gardens." For low-ceiled rooms, vertical boarding, either with matched edges or with beaded, beveled, or knotty or plain, or poplar may well be used for this purpose; the boarding may either be stained or painted and finished with wax. If people would only consent to let any kind of unpainted wood go without stain, and allow time and atmosphere to tone it, they would be repaid with delightful color, but most folks are too impatient for immediate effect. An easy type of paneling to create, and one that is comparatively inexpensive, is effected by applying wooden moldings on the plaster surface of the wall to form panels of the desired shape and size. The whole wall surface can then be painted. Again, the panels might be filled with certain types of wall paper, or with certain types of ornate patterned paper, shellacked, or antiqued and shellacked. Also, certain varieties of scenic wall paper could be used in this way. Still again, the panels might be filled with Chinese or Japanese gold or silver paper.

A further possibility for panel decoration is to apply compo reliefs in the manner of the late Eighteenth century. The ground of the panel could then be painted some pale color, like pea-green or pearl-lavender, and the reliefs painted white. Yet another way of achieving inexpensive paneling is altogether through the medium of either paint or wall paper, without applying any wooden or compo moldings.

Decorative Flooring

Adds to Home Beauty

Flooring is more than a mere surface to be walked on. It is a distinct decorative part of a room; it is one of the vital features in the construction of a house and, in many cases, it is a means of preventing the spread of basement fires and consequently a potential life-saver. These are but a few of the things that should be given careful consideration when the question of flooring is raised by the architect.

Wood floors are perhaps the most popular. And they may be laid in a never-ending variety of patterns. Narrow boards, wide boards or a combination of both, blocks, or the old-fashioned planking all make attractive and durable floorings. But, again, there is more to a floor than its surface.

All floors should be laid over a sub-floor and, with wood, laid diagonally to lend rigidity to the finished floor. The joists should be bridged to prevent sagging. Bridging involves the placing of wood or metal strips diagonally between the floor joists to minimize the chances of lateral movement.

Recently there have been introduced many non-wood flooring materials. Perhaps the most used of these is linoleum. An interesting pattern of linoleum is one which simulates the old plank flooring of Colonial days. Even the wooden pegs and butterflies which held the planks together are ingrained in this material.

Many finished floors are laid on a base of cement. To use this a special wire re-enforcing is needed. This re-enforcing is backed with a heavy building paper which holds the cement as it is poured; when it is hardened the criss-crossed wires impart strength. A base of this sort is particularly valuable in preventing the spread of basement fires. It will also aid in reducing fire insurance premiums.

Porch on Small Home

Should Blend into Scene

Porches on the small house should be a part thereof and not the excrescences they too frequently appear. Excessive groupings of posts is considered as undesirable as are ugly, short columns. The location of the porch has much to do with the exterior appearance and the interior comfort. Porches are often built so as to shut off light and sunshine which are needed within. Form and mass are always the first points of the porch to be considered. Glazed porches, which serve a double purpose as sleeping and breakfast rooms are greatly favored by home builders.

WHO AM I?

I go with you to the far corners of the earth—and remain in the memories of man long after you are forgotten—I can aid you in every enterprise—or I can cause the finger of doubt and suspicion to be turned towards you.
