VOTE TO CONTINUE THE CASS CITY FAIR

Eight Directors Were Elected at Annual Meeting Held on Monday Evening.

Of the thirty who attended the annual meeting of the Cass City Fair Monday night and voted on the proposition of whether to continue the fair or not for the coming year, 21 expressed themselves in favor of having a 1931 fair and nine were opposed to continuing the fair.

The gathering then proceeded to elect directors for the fair and the following were chosen: J. D. Tuckey, Willis Campbell, R. D. Keating, Grant Patterson, Herbert Maharg, Mrs. G. A. Striffler, Mrs. Harry Young and Mrs. Levi Bardwell. Four directors' terms hold over and are included with the above as the members of the board of directors. They are John May, Andrew N. Bigelow, Harry T. Crandell and Lyle Koepfgen.

Among the matters discussed was the length of the fair. Some favored a two-day exposition and others wanted a continuance of the four-day plan. It was finally decided to leave this and other matters of policy to the judgment of the board of directors. The board expects to meet Monday next to elect officers of the fair.

MARCH WEDDINGS.

John C. Randall of Detroit and Miss Helen McLennan of Rogers City were quietly married Saturday, March 21, at Bowling Green, Ohio. The ceremony was performed at the German Luthern parsonage and the couple were attended by Arthur Randall, brother of the groom, and Miss Lorraine Steinhelper, both of Pontiac.

Mr. Randall is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Randall of Cass City and graduated from the Cass City High School in 1923. He attended Ypsilanti Normal for three years, but of late has been in the employ of the Nestle's Milk Products Co. The bride has been employed in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall will make their home in Detroit.

Double Wedding.

A double wedding was solemnized Friday evening, March 27, when Miss Marguerite M. MacTavish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John MacTavish of Cass City, became the bride of Archie C. Kelly of Kingston, and Miss Eunice Krueger of Wilmot the bride of Wilfred Knapp of Hemans.

The ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. Charles H. Wright in Detroit. Rev. Wright was a former pastor of the Methodist church at Decker and was a particular friend of the wedding party. Mr. and Mrs. Knapp will make their home for the present with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knapp, near Hemans, and Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will live with Mr. Kelly's parents.

Mrs. Kelly is a graduate of the Cass City High School, being a member of the class of 1924. She received a life certificate from Ypsilanti Normal last week and will teach the Roseburg school for the remainder of this year. She has signed a contract to teach the Parker school in Lamotte township the coming year.

W. E. Berg of Akron was elected president of the council. Other officers were named as follows: First vice-president, B. H. McComb of Caro; second vice-president, Mrs. A. A. Ricker of Cass City; third vice-president, A. N. Nesman, superintendent of Unionville schools; secretary, Mrs. Frank Odie of Fairgrove; treasurer, Mrs. Edna Bates of Tuscola.

Presidents of all P. T. A. organizations in the county, principals of high schools, chairmen of program committees and six members appointed from each Parent-Teachers society are members of the county council. All P. T. A. members are welcome to attend the meetings of the county society.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY WAS WELL PRESENTED

By Verda Zuschnitt.

The Senior class play, "Miss Lulu Bett," was presented to a full auditorium Friday night. The play itself was very different from many plays and according to critics, is the best portrayal of small town life ever written. It was written by the well known writer, Zona Gale.

A short review of the play follows. The work of Miss Lulu Bett (Audree Bliss) for the past fifteen years has been to care for the household of her sister, Ina Deacon (Deloris Sandham), and brother-in-law, Dwight Deason (John Morris), who is a dentist and justice of the peace. Their two children, Diana (Loma Reagh), and Monona (Dorothy Holcomb), keep not only their parents but also Aunt Lulu very busy. Though they speak to Grandma Betts (Evelyn Retherford) as if "she didn't have a brain in her skull," she gives some very sound advice. While Diana really was in love with Bobby Larkins (Alex Tyo), she also had the attention of Mr. Cornish (Clarence Merchant), an older man, who, because of his loneliness, found the Deacon's home a very pleasant place to spend his time.

Dwight Deacon's adventurous brother, Ninion (William Bottrell), arrived to pay them a visit. He not only took a fancy to Aunt Lulu for her apple pies but also for herself and by unexpectedly marrying and taking her away gave her many of the joys she had missed. Her happiness was marred however, by the discovery that his first wife might be living. This caused much controversy but his arrival with a letter teling of her death cleared everything, much to the joy and relief of everyone.

The parts were very well taken by the students and showed much hard work and training, who with their coach, Mr. Logan, and director, Blanche Stafford, are to be commended.

DIST. COMMERCIAL CONTEST AT CASS CITY

Eleven Schools of the Thumb District Have Entered 56 Students for Events.

Audree Bliss, School Editor.

A district commercial contest will be held at the Cass City High School building on Saturday, April 11. The following schools have sent entries for this contest: Millington, Croswell, Bad Axe, Sandusky, Caro, Vassar, Sebewaing, Unionville, Mayville, Marlette and Cass City. Late entries may increase the present enrollment of 56 students in the contest.

At a general faculty meeting held Tuesday, the proposed teachers' retirement fund bill was discussed and a resolution was mailed to E. C. Robertson of Fostoria, state representative from Tuscola county. The proposed bill occupied a large part of the program at the representative assembly.

Ten copies of the Encyclopedia Britannica have been sent into the bindery for resewing and new covers.

David Orr of Caro has an interesting article in the current issue of the Magazine of Michigan called, "Rubber Lines," a mystery romance of the Cass River Valley. Cass City, then called the Forks, occupies a place in the narrative. Several extra copies of the magazine are being ordered, and if you should care to read the article, call at the school office.

EIGHTY ATTEND JOLLY FARMERS' MEET

The Jolly Farmers' Club met on Thursday, Mar. 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Knapp. Eighty enjoyed a most delicious dinner. After the meal, a short business session was held and a delightful program, in charge of Mrs. Clara Folkert, was given. Roll call was answered with Irish jokes and all took part in singing "Old Folks at Home."

Dorr Perry of Tuscola county, a master farmer of Michigan, gave a talk on "Alfalfa." Mr. Dibble from Michigan State College, talked on "Common Garden Pests and How to Destroy Them." D. B. Jewell, Tuscola county's agricultural agent, spoke on his work as a county agent. All of these talks were interesting and educational. Mrs. Folkert read an amusing letter from "Katie." Several guests were present.

MARKETING HOME PRODUCTS.

Miss Barbara Van Heulen, extension specialist in home marketing, from Michigan State College, will be at the Court House, Caro, at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday, April 7. This meeting will be especially interesting to the farm women of the county who are trying to supplement the home income by the sale of products manufactured on the farm. Miss Van Heulen will discuss the manufacturing and sale of fruit and fruit products, roadside marketing, and the making of special articles such as rugs and other handiwork. Anyone interested in the work is cordially invited to attend the meeting.

MINISTERS OF TWO COUNTIES MET HERE

Rev. P. H. Murdick of Port Huron Gave Address to the Clergymen.

The ministers of Tuscola county met in the Methodist church of Cass City on Monday at 10:30 a. m., for their regular monthly meeting. They had as their guests the ministers of the Huron County Association, who furnished the speaker for the day. The devotions were conducted by Rev. Grinnell of Gagetown. Mrs. Wm. Youngs of Detroit, who is assisting in special services at the Methodist church this week, gave a very fine violin solo.

The address of the day was given by Rev. P. H. Murdick, pastor of the First Methodist church of Port Huron. His subject was "Why Preach." It was especially for the ministry and was very helpful. He accepted the criticism of today and met it in a fair way. He discouraged the use of antique nomenclature and antique plans. The minister should grow with his day, the speaker said, and be gathering continually material for use. It may be the same old Gospel but has a right to new terminology.

The Cass City male quartet of Messrs. Landon, Stoner, Allured and Curtis, gave two numbers. Dinner was served by the ladies of the M. E. church.

After dinner, a short discussion was held on the subject, after which the ministers met in county sections for their monthly business sessions. After the business meetings, all retired to the high school gymnasium where a fierce contest in volleyball was enjoyed by all. The Huron county men proved themselves very handy with the ball and were the victors. A good handshake closed the day and all decided that it was well spent and the scheme worthy of being repeated.

ASK STATE FOR MONEY FOR TOWNSHIP ROADS

A meeting called by Farm Bureau heads was attended by 150 members of that organization at Cass City Saturday afternoon when a resolution was adopted calling upon the state highway department to apportion each year a sum of money for the upkeep of township roads. Farmers complained that they contributed to the upkeep of state roads through the payment of the gasoline tax, and as the township roads were not included in the state highway department's road program, many township roads were impassable in the spring.

Farm Bureau members also declared themselves in favor of a tax on all oleomargarine. This product, they claimed, comes in direct competition with the farmers' butter offered for sale. Reduction of the real estate tax, tuberculosis testing of cattle by the state, and a sales tax were other matters under discussion.

Members of the state legislature attending the meeting here Saturday were Representative Goodwine of Sanilac county, Representative McDonald of Huron county, and Senator Herbert P. Orr.

UNIONVILLE GIRL'S BURNS ARE FATAL

Mildred, 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Luckhard, died at noon in Unionville hospital of burns received when the Luckhard home was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Luckhard's mother, Mrs. John Kundinger, about 60 years old, also is in the hospital seriously injured as the result of a leap from a second floor window.

The fire resulted from the explosion of kerosene poured in a stove by Mr. Luckhard. He was slightly burned. His wife escaped without injuries. The family lived on the second floor of a tinshop operated by Mr. Luckhard.

HARRY SMITH GAVE TALK AT ROTARY CLUB

Harry Smith, commissioner of schools of Sanilac county, gave an address before members of the Rotary Club here Tuesday noon, on the subject of "The Rotarian's Responsibility to Young Men." Mr. Smith was prominent as an athlete while attending high school at Cass City and old friends were pleased to hear him Tuesday. Mr. Smith graduated here with the Class of 1922.

"KET" CONSIDERS IT FUN TO "DRAW PICTURES" FOR US ALL

"A gray-haired little boy drawing pictures and having a whale of a good time doing it"—that's M. G. Kettner, whose cartoons are appearing in the Chronicle. For "Ket," as he is familiarly known in the newspaper fraternity, is the sort of person who answers perfectly the familiar description "he is—— years young, rather than —— years old." You don't have to come into contact with this artist, whose personality radiates a youthfulness that belies the actual years of his age, to realize that. You see it in his work.

A native of Chicago, "Ket" studied art under the famous newspaper artist, Frank Holmes, and although he was the youngest in his class at art school, his talent was so marked that at the age of 16 he was taken on the staff of the Chicago American. This was followed by a career on the Chicago Inter-Ocean and then the newspaper syndicates claimed him and made his work known throughout the United States.

So much for the practical experience which gave him the necessary technique for cartooning. For, after all, technique, is only a part of cartooning. Much more important is what the artist puts into his cartoons and by that criterion, "Ket" takes his place among the leaders. Working under the handicap of being barred from covering politics or controversial subjects, because his work goes into newspapers as varied in their political affiliations as they are in other allegiances, he still turns out cartoons which are forceful and attention-compelling commentaries on current American affairs. And they are especially effective because they're good-natured comments on the fads and foibles of humankind. There's no sting of bitterness in "Ket's" manner of driving home his point and there's nothing in it that will hurt anybody's feelings or offend good taste.

In fact, "humanness" is the outstanding characteristic of his work. The people in his cartoons are human beings and you'll recognize yourself and your friends in nearly all of them. When he portrays an incident "Along the Concrete" you chuckle because that recalls a similar experience you had. When he records a "Pet Peeve" you're grateful to him for expressing so graphically how you feel about some of the annoyances of every-day life. And when he tells of an "Event in the Lives of Little Men,"

CARL CHASE WRITES FROM RUTLAND, SASK.

The Chronicle has received the following letter from Carl Chase of Rutland, Sask., a former Cass City resident:

This is the first time I have written to you since coming up here 19 years ago, but we still enjoy the Chronicle each week and wish we could call in and visit old friends once in a while. We greatly enjoyed the little visit with Cass City friends who motored up here last July and had Walter and Frank a little more time to spend, I would have helped them catch the big fish tale to bring home. One day's drive from here takes you to where you can catch the big ones that don't have a chance to grow down there.

This has been a very mild winter and little snow. Not cold enough to kill the buds that have been coming out on the trees for several weeks back. This has been the first winter that we have missed feeding a large number of feathered friends. Owing to little or no snow the partridge, grouse, prairie chickens and small song birds have failed to call for their usual winter hand-out.

Every spring for two or three weeks the white geese are very thick around here and sometimes in the

GRANT TWP. COUPLE MARRIED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. John R. McDonald, for nearly a half century residents of Grant township, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home three miles northeast of Gagetown, on Sunday. Seven of their nine children were present at the gathering.

John R. McDonald and Miss Harriett Turner were married in Teeswater, Ont., and came to Grant township 47 years ago. They settled at Beauley. About 25 years ago they bought the Williamson farm northeast of Gagetown where they have since made their home. Nine children came to bless their home, all of whom are living. They are Mrs. Roy V. Starr (Louise) of Lansing, Mrs. Chris Krug (Mabel) of Pontiac, Mrs. G. I. Williams (Jennie) and Richard McDonald, both of Gagetown, Mrs. Basil Hartt (Florence), Mrs. Wm. Gilbert (Frances) and Mrs. Howard McCall (Bertha), all of Pontiac, Mrs. R. H. Starr (Edith) of Port Huron, and Miss Olive McDonald of Ann Arbor. All were present at the golden wedding except Mrs. Krug and Mrs. R. H. Starr.

Local Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson were called to Houghton Lake Monday morning by the serious illness of Mr. Patterson's aunt, Mrs. William Patterson, who is at a hospital in that city. They returned Tuesday evening leaving her no better.

Rev. F. T. Kyle and sister, Miss Ella, formerly of the Erskine church and well known to many here, now of Cartter, Illinois, have both been quite ill with flu, but are now convalescing nicely. Mr. Kyle has not occupied his pulpit since February 15 but hopes to do so soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Campbell and daughter, Mary Jane, attended the funeral of Mrs. Campbell's mother, Mrs. Potts, at Harrisville Wednesday. Mrs. Potts has been ill a long time and for several months has been at the home of a daughter in Flint where she passed away Saturday evening. Mrs. Campbell has spent the last few weeks with her mother in Flint.

An audience which crowded the Baptist church Sunday evening witnessed the religious play, "The Terrible Meek," a story of the crucifixion by Charles Rahn Kennedy. The character of the captain taken by Richard Van Winkle, that of the soldier by Donald Schenck, and that of the mother by Miss Evelyn Robinson, were all exceptionally well portrayed. The play was presented under the direction of Virgil Logan. The story took place at the end of the six-hour period of darkness on Good Friday. It gave a discussion of the significance of the life and crucifixion of Jesus from the viewpoint of the captain of the guard in which he demanded a new kind of courage for Christ's empire that one day the terrible meek will inherit the earth. Violin numbers were given by Mrs. Wm. M. Young of Detroit.

MEASURE PROVIDES FOR "POOR" SCHOOLS

Senator Turner Would Like to Raise $2,000,000 for Distribution Among Schools.

By Michigan Press Association.

The first step to provide insurance for the unemployed came with the introduction of a bill by Rep. Darin of River Rouge. Industrial and mercantile plants would pay a percentage of their payrolls and the workers would also contribute a percentage of their earnings. The state would provide a three-man commission to administer the fund. When laid off through no fault of his own, the worker would apply for compensation, based on his former wage, allowing enough to live on during slack times. The state's only outlay would be the expense of the commission.

After a prolonged debate, the House passed, by a vote of 87 to 6, Rep. MacEachron's bill to tax bank stock. A hearing on the measure, backed by the administration, is scheduled in the Senate. It is estimated to raise close to $4,000,000 and is being rushed through because the 1929 law was declared unconstitutional and banks paid no tax.

Gov. Brucker is expected to sign the measure sent to him making Armistice Day a legal holiday.

So many proposals continue to be made calling for expenditure of public funds that leaders of the Michigan legislature have threatened to bar introduction of such measures at an early date.

The reaction towards new sources of tax revenue was reflected in the public hearing held on the old age pension legislation now pending. Rep. Charles Haight of Lansing had proposed a bill providing a $2 head tax to raise the approximately $1,000 necessary to pay the pension. Representative hall was crowded with people from all over the state favoring the pension, but there were few among them able to agree on a financing plan. The mayor of Detroit was emphatically against the head tax and intimated that the plan had been suggested as an easy way to kill the old age pension. A representative of a fraternal order that has advocated such a pension talked for an hour in favor of the legislation, but he was unable to make a suggestion as to how the money should be raised. A labor leader advocated placing the tax against general property. Legislative leaders were left as badly off after the hearing.

Drops Tobacco Tax.

The hearing on a tobacco tax bill was productive of more definite results. Senator Peter Lennon of Genesee county, after hearing the numerous, varied and forceful protests, decided to withdraw the measure. Not a single taxpayer appeared to defend the measure. The senator announced that he was convinced that it will not be possible to enact any kind of a sales tax at this session.

Gov. Brucker on the other hand has declared that it will be essential to adopt a specific tax of some kind to finance the $23,400,000 building program inaugurated two years ago. He is expected to send the legislature a special message on the subject.

The malt tax, in the form proposed by Senator Wood of Detroit, has been making some headway. It provides stiff fees for the manufacturer, re-

First Grade.

A story written by the first grade children from actual experiences:

"The Kitty Who Likes to Come to School—Today a kitty followed Doris to school. This is Doris' kitty. It is a tiger kitty. The tiger kitty crawled on Keith's lap and went to sleep. Grace's group were readiing a story about 'The Lambkin.' When the kitty was on Doris's lap it was purring and washing its face. The kitty must be healthy because it keeps clean and drinks milk. We had a fine time with Doris' kitty."

"MADE MORE MONEY ON BEANS THAN EVER BEFORE": John Lutz, of Freeland, Bay County, Mich., writes: "I used 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer on beans last year for the first time and I made more money on them than I ever made before. The fertilized beans yielded 17 bu. per acre and cost $28.31 an acre to grow, or $1.66 per bu. Without fertilizer the yield was 12 bu. per acre, costing $2.05 per bu., due to a smaller yield. 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers are the best I've ever used." John Lutz (Oct. 11, 1930)

$2.25 an acre for Fertilizer Boosts Profit $12.43

HERE is the kind of information every farmer wants to know about his crops—that is, just how much clear profit he makes on each acre. Through the courtesy of Mr. John Lutz, of Freeland, Bay Co., Mich., we are able to give farmers an accurate comparison of the cost of growing beans with and without fertilizer. Mr. Lutz gives the details in this letter:

"Last year I used fertilizer for the first time in growing beans and made more money than ever before. I applied your 'AA QUALITY' goods at the rate of 150 lbs. per acre on 15 acres, and in spite of drought harvested one of the best crops I have ever grown. Where I used your fertilizer, the yield was 17 bu. an acre. Unfertilized beans yielded about 12 bu., and where I used manure the yield was 14 bu. an acre.

"In figuring the cost of growing my crop, I find that, including the fertilizer, it cost me $28.31 an acre to get a yield of 17 bushels, or $1.66 a bushel. Unfertilized beans yielded 12 bu. an acre and cost $24.66 an acre, or $2.05 per bushel to grow.

"I have used other makes of fertilizer on other crops in past years, but never had as good results as I got this year with 'AA QUALITY' goods, which are the best I ever used and I certainly recommend them to my fellow-farmers." John Lutz (Oct. 11, 1930)

Since Mr. Lutz sold his beans for $3.60 a bu., he made a profit of $30.97 per acre where he used "AA QUALITY" Fertilizer, as compared to $18.54 per acre on unfertilized beans.

He got back the $2.25 per acre he spent for fertilizer, plus $12.43 an acre clear profit. That's good business.

Hundreds of other farmers in Michigan have found that "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers, and especially AGRICO, produce the largest profits year in and year out.

By increasing yields on each acre AGRICO reduces the cost of growing each bushel, and this in turn increases the margin of profit. A farmer cannot increase the price he gets for his crop, but he can reduce his costs—and that amounts to the same thing. Know your costs, don't guess. We have made it easy by providing a new crop-cost method, so simple anybody can use it. Ask your dealer for a copy.

The extra care with which AGRICO is made, the extra plant-foods which it contains—these are the factors responsible for the extra profits obtained with AGRICO. There is a brand of AGRICO for each crop. See your nearest "AA QUALITY" Fertilizer dealer and place your order now. The AMERICAN AGRICULTURAL CHEMICAL Co., P. O. Box 814, Detroit, Mich.

What Other Farmers Say

105 BU. MORE PER ACRE: When unfertilized potatoes yielded only 171 bu. per acre, Mr. H. L. Thomas, of Bellaire, Antrim Co., Mich., got 276 bu. per acre where he used "AA QUALITY" Fertilizer. He sold his crop for $1.22 a bushel, so the increased yield meant $128.10 an acre extra income. Mr. Thomas writes:

"The quality of my potatoes is indicated by the fact that from five truck loads, I sorted only one sack of small potatoes. Every dollar spent for 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer insures a better and more profitable crop." (Sept. 24, 1930)

20 BASKETS MORE CORN PER ACRE: Mr. Clarence J. Buckinger, of Vassar, Tuscola Co., Mich., got 85 baskets of corn per acre last season in spite of dry weather. This was 20 baskets an acre above the local average. He writes:

"My father started using 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer 16 years ago, and it has been used by this family ever since. This year my corn will husk 85 bushel-baskets per acre. My wheat this year was grown with your AGRICO for Grain (the premier 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer) and yielded 50 bu. per acre." (Oct. 10, 1930)

"KET" CONSIDERS IT FUN TO DRAW PICTURES

the years roll back and you're a boy again with your boyish joys and sorrows—and mainly joys. For Kettner is one of the outstanding delineators of youthful America. Although born and reared in the city, his favorite aunt was a farmer's wife (Get him to talking about her and you immediately think of Riley's poem "Out to Old Aunt Mary's!") and he had his full share of experiences in the regions of the ol' swimmin' hole and kindred delights.

Master of kindly humor that he is and keen in his appreciation of the ridiculous, not all of "Ket's" work deals with humorous subjects. The basis of real humor is a sensitiveness to the more serious side of life, and Kettner has that sensitiveness and a genius for expressing it in terms of real beauty. Some of his cartoons for such occasions as Memorial Day, Mother's Day, Thanksgiving and Armistice day are classics in reverent and restrained treatment of deeply emotional subjects.

Among the many cartoonists in America today there are some whose work has more appeal to men newspaper readers, others who are the favorites of women readers and still others who are especially popular with children. But few, if any, have that versatility which makes them popular with all members of the family.

TARS ADRIFT MONTH ON WINTRY OCEAN

Seven Found Near Death From Hunger and Cold.

New York.—Seven sailors out of Newfoundland arrived in port with a tale of a thirty-day battle with a midwinter Atlantic that seldom has been surpassed by any epic of the sea. The men were plucked out of Davy Jones' locker starving and half mad with thirst 500 miles southwest of the Azores by the German freighter Wido, taken to Panama, and transferred to the New York bound liner Carinthia, writes Tom Petty in the Chicago Tribune.

For a month they had drifted in a wrecked, leaking schooner through the ice filled northern waters with waves thirty feet high breaking over the floundering boat and making a sieve of it. No fire could be kept going in the galley and every stitch the men wore was soaking wet with freezing water. Two cases of Scotch whisky provided the only warmth aboard.

Mast Lost in Storm.

Capt. Cyril Harwood and six seamen put out from St. Johns in the John W. Miller, a chip of a schooner loaded to the guards with salt cod. They were going to "roll down to Rio," but two days out of St. Johns the schooner ran into a full gale and lost her sailing clothes. Just as darkness closed in on the second day of the storm the mainmast came crashing down, injuring three men. That night the schooner almost went to the bottom, for with every lash of the gale the big stick was sent crashing into the side of the vessel.

Great leaks were sprung. From then on it was pump, pump, pump to keep afloat. The seven half frozen seamen, injured and all, kept the shrieking pumps grinding day and night.

The crippled John W. Miller bucked and pitched its way through the great waves in a crazy, aimless manner with the men living on ship's biscuit, canned meat, whisky and water. Their first break of luck came, the men said, when the ship after a couple of year-long weeks felt the pull of a southern bound current. From then on it was just a case of drifting, almost always in a gale.

Food Is Exhausted.

The rudder had gone with the first blow, said Captain Harwood, and there was only the battered stub of a mast left and for sail there was not enough canvas left to make a shirt. First the canned food gave out and for the last four days the crew existed on starvation rations of hard biscuit and half a cup of water a day per man. The warming whisky, for which they thanked their lucky stars, had been drained to the last drop the week before.

They had long since almost given up hope of being rescued, when one morning a thousand miles east of Nassau the lookout sighted a wisp of smoke on the horizon. A few hours later the freighter Wido drew alongside the waterlogged schooner and sent a boat for them. Their last act was to open the schooner's seacocks and start her on its trip to Davy Jones' locker for water soaked derelicts are dangerous if left afloat.

Italians Revert to Sails for Training

Rome.—Giant modern three-masted sailing vessels, built of iron and with a speed up to 14 knots, are being used by Italy as training craft for naval cadets and seamen.

After several years wherein steamships were employed for training purposes, the navy department has decided to return definitely to the sailing vessels. The opinion here is that the instruction the midshipman receives aboard these boats is superior to that gained aboard a steam or motor boat.

The Italian navy now has one superb three-master, the Cristoforo Colombo, completed last year. In June of next year another, the Amerigo Vespucci, will be ready.

The Cristoforo Colombo is a copy of the old Italian frigate Vittorio Emmanuele, but has an auxiliary Diesel engine. Quarters for crew and officers vie with those aboard any battleship. And it carries usually 120 midshipmen.

Canadian Town of 150 Boasts 1,400 Children

Toronto, Ont.—Bonfield, just a speck on the map of northern Ontario and a short distance from North Bay, a divisional point on the Canadian National Railways, is in line for two world records, a medical survey indicates.

There are only 150 families in Bonfield. Yet Bonfield boasts 1,500 children. One mother of twenty-three children, twenty-two living, is a great grandmother at forty-six. Her youngest child was born a great uncle. So far as is known, he is the first baby to realize that distinction at birth.

How many grandchildren the mother of twenty-three has will be known after the census is completed next June.

Needy Families Adopted

Memphis, Tenn.—Memphis church congregations recently were called upon to pledge themselves to support destitute families. Each person was asked to "adopt" a needy family, the weekly contributions varying with the number of persons in each needy case.

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Charles Dickens and Bob Fagin

Charles Dickens, when about eleven years old, found work in a blacking warehouse at Old Hungerford Stairs, overlooking the Thames river, in an unsavory part of London. His work there consisted in covering the pots of paste blacking, first with a piece of oil paper and then with blue paper. After that he tied them with a string, clipped the paper neatly all-round and fastened a printed label to each pot of blacking.

"You don't like it here over-much, do ye, now?" the boy who worked beside him said one day.

"No, I don't like it," was Charles' reply.

The boy—his name was Bob Fagin—grinned and shrugged one shoulder; he was a large, heavily built boy with coarse features. "That's 'cause you're a gentleman!" he remarked with a wink at Pol Green, one of the other boys who worked in the big warehouse. "You look pale, sort of. May be you're worried about somethin', eh? Maybe you've got a secret!"

Charles continued to paste his labels in silence.

All that Bob Fagin had said was true. Charles was not strong, and the work that he was doing only served to increase his ill health. He was also tortured by the thought of his father who was in a debtors' prison. He had spoken to no one about it; pride kept his lips tight-shut on the subject. That was his secret.

Later in the day, just as he was applying a label to one of the pots, he uttered a startled cry and pressed his hand against his side.

"Ho!" cried Fagin, running to him. "Here's a go! The lad's in pain."

With some of the straw that covered the floor of the workroom he made a bed for his suffering companion.

"Now, lad," said Fagin, "you're still weak, and you need help. If you should try to go home alone, you'd likely fall before you were halfway there. Tell me where you live and I'll go along with you. I'll see that you get safe home to your father, I will."

Charles felt a warm flush overspread his cheeks. Home! He had no home, only an attic room in a miserable lodging-house. If Bob Fagin accompanied him he would be sure to discover the truth: that his father was in Marshalsea prison!

"I—I feel better," he said at last. "I'm sure I can reach home alone."

"And I say you can't!" the other repeated. "I guess I'm not going to let you start off alone!"

Charles' cheeks burned like fire. There seemed to be no way out of it; he must permit Bob Fagin to accompany him. But he was still resolved that he should learn nothing.

Night was closing in when he and Fagin left the warehouse together. Up one street and down another they walked in the growing darkness.

"You live a long way off, don't you?" Fagin said at last.

Charles nodded. He did not tell his friend that they were merely walking aimlessly about the city.

Finally Charles stopped in front of a strange house. "Thanks!" he said in a nervous trembling voice. "I—I'm greatly obliged to you, Bob!" and he ran up the stairs of the house and rang the bell.

A servant came to the door and frowned down upon the boy. "What is it you want?" the servant demanded.

Charles glanced nervously over his shoulder; Bob Fagin had disappeared round the corner. He swallowed hard.

"Well?" inquired the servant irritably.

"Does—does Mr. Bob Fagin live here?" the question seemed to leap from the boy's lips, unbidden.

"No!" And the door closed with a bang.

Charles turned and quickly descended the steps, whence he made his way to his miserable little attic room. He had kept his secret!

INSECT CONTROL MEETINGS.

Successful meetings on insect control were held last week at Mayville, Akron, Kingston, Bingham school, Jolly Farmers' Club, Cass City, and Linden Farmers' Club. C. B. Dibble, specialist in insect control from Michigan State College, spoke at the meetings. Inasmuch as the subject is such a broad one, Mr. Dibble confined his remarks to some of the common insects. He discussed particularly the control of the striped cucumber beetle, the radish and onion maggots, the potato leaf hopper, the bean maggot and cut worm. Details of these treatments can be secured in bulletin form from the county agricultural agent, D. B. Jewell.

Now they're telling us in the papers that science has lengthened life 12 to 14 years. Somehow it sounds to us like these government reports telling how much more money we have now than we had last month.

We will have another car of Cavalier coal next week about Tuesday.

Ray Hulburt has seed corn for sale.

Give your chicks the chance they deserve. They will repay you many times for feeding Wayne Buttermilk Chick Starter.

We have definitely made up our mind not to go around biting sharks now that Beebe has discovered that sharks are harmless except when attacked.

Cavalier coal is something more than just good coal—it's extra good coal. There's comfort in every lump.

Regardless of where you get your chicks they should be fed on the very best feed. Wayne Buttermilk Starter fills the bill.

If It Isn't Telling—

A Cass City father tried this the other night. He set a Big Ben alarm for 11:15, slipped it behind the davenport — and it worked like a charm. The young man took the hint and his hat and his leave quite suddenly.

We admit it! We're enthusiastic about Cavalier coal. But we hear so many comments from satisfied users and we fill so many "repeat" orders, that we can't help being enthused.

Stop Us If You've Heard This One.

"Your wife reminds me so much of my elder sister."

"She reminds me a great deal of her first husband."

Your baking joys will be complete,
If you will just use our Cream of Wheat!

Easter greeting to all. May this Easter time bring happiness to every home in this community.

Customer — "It is tough to pay 50 cents a pound for meat."

Butcher — "Yes, but it's tougher when you pay 25."

A savings of a few cents per chick when you buy means dollars of loss in the long run if the chicks aren't of the highest quality. Our chicks, from blood-tested flocks, are strong and healthy and properly hatched. They'll save you money.

"You sometimes find a pearl in an oyster stew," remarked the waiter pleasantly.

But the customer only grunted, and then said, "I'm looking for oysters."

For light fueling you'll find Cavalier coal the ideal fuel. It holds the heat and doesn't go out when the drafts are all checked.

Treat the hens right and they'll do right by you. Wayne Buttermilk Egg Mash contains the elements that hens have to have in order to lay well. Feed it and watch them produce!

Are your radishes up yet.

George W. Snyder, M. D., of Chicago, Said This

"It is more important to use an antiseptic for the stomach, bowels and kidneys than an antiseptic for the mouth and teeth for the reason that 95% of all diseases arise from intestinal disorders. I have prescribed Dr. Burnham's SAN YAK as a laxative and kidney diuretic for swelling of the limbs, high blood pressure with rheumatism, dizziness and diabetes and found it the one and only product I would be willing to tie to San Yak is the only laxative I ever prescribed that does not irritate and flush away the mucus membrane of the lower bowel. Hence its use in moderation is highly commendable to health." Sold at Burke's Drug Store. Be sure and get Dr. Burnham's San Yak.—Advertisement.

The button awarded is a neat emblem bearing the company's monogram, the inscription "Recognition of Service," and stars indicating the length of time employed.

In carrying out a policy of taking special notice of length of service, the company has, in recent years, awarded 429 ten year pins, 53 twenty year, 18 thirty year and 5 forty-five year pins, making a total of 505 pins.

The probate judge was recently called out of bed at 2 a. m. to perform a marriage ceremony. He stepped out on the porch, snapped on the light and made a quick hitch of it. A proper newspaper headline for that wedding would have been: "Tied Knot in His Night Gown."—Bystander.

distance it looks like acres of unmelted snow. In the fall, the grey geese are plentiful but we seldom see any white ones then. The ducks are in such large numbers in the fall that they do much damage to late threshed grain. I well remember some of the boys I used to know around there were very fond of bird hunting so tell them to happen along sometime when the season is open and I will see that they get their bag limit.

Just a few words in regard to prohibition before I close. I notice the wets try to make it appear that owing to bootlegging, prohibition is a failure. As you may know, we changed from open saloons to government control. Is government control a success? You would not think so if you could see how thick the empty bottles are on our roads. I am told a daily allowance is one case beer, one gallon wine and one quart whiskey. As that is too big a "jag" for many of the boys to carry, they sell the balance to the others that are "dry." Local beer store sells about two carloads of beer per month. Many find big profit in home brew from present cheap grain. It is my opinion that drinking is on the increase in this country and I hope that Uncle Sam sticks to prohibition.

Am enclosing two snapshots. The one with the ducks was taken two years ago and my oldest boy, Harold, is at the right.

Wishing the Chronicle many pleasant and successful years, I am

Yours sincerely,

MEASURE PROVIDES FOR "POOR" SCHOOL DIST.

Concluded from first page.

tailers, and distributors and the proceeds would be used to pay the state's debt to the counties for the care of indigent TB patients, amounting to $1,250,000. After the first year the proceeds would be used to build a sanatorium for the northern part of lower Michigan. In the form of an appropriation measure, the malt tax could not be submitted to a referendum. Also by tacking on these provisions for the expenditure of the tax money, its proponents expect to make it difficult for the governor to veto the measure.

Change School Relief.

Senator Wm. F. Turner of Morley, who introduced a measure which provided $2,000,000 for distribution among the "poor" school districts, has introduced a bill providing a plan for a more equitable distribution of the money. It has been found under the existing law that some of the money went to many school districts not needing relief. The bill, lengthy and detailed, sets up $1,200 a year for graded school rooms, $1,600 for high schools, and the plan for relief is built up from this basis. Senator Turner has declared that 3,392 school districts will receive state aid under the plan.

Municipalities and villages of more than a 1,000 population would regain title to tax delinquent lands within their limits under a measure which has passed both houses.

Park in Porcupines.

Rep. Birk of Baraga has introduced a bill providing for the establishment of a 200,000-acre park in the Porcupine mountains, in Ontonagon and Gogebic counties. He declared that the land would mostly be donated by the owners and asked that $5,000 be appropriated for surveys by the U. of M. and Michigan Tech.

Four bills affecting aviation have been introduced and will probably be ready for passage, subject to the vote of the people at the April 6 election on the question of state aid for aviation.

Rep. Frank Brown of Bellevue has introduced a bill requiring registers of deeds to permit the use of protography in making copies of their records and files.

The House has passed a bill authorizing the state to deed to the federal government certain lands for the construction of a seawall at Selfridge Field, near Mt. Clemens.

Juries and witnesses in court would be protected from photographers under a bill introduced by Rep. Armstrong of Detroit. The legislation is the outcome of experiences at the sensational trial of the alleged Buckley murderers in Detroit.

Apportionment Tangle.

Just when it began to look as though a reapportionment law might be enacted, following the senate's 28 to 2 vote on the Harding bill, protests came from Detroit that its provisions were unfair and unconstitutional, halting the progress. Another proposal will be submitted by Rep. Robt. Wardell of Detroit, attempting to give Detroit all of the four additional congressmen to which Michigan is entitled on the basis of its 1930 census. Senator Harding's original proposal was claimed to be unconstitutional because there was too great a discrepency in the population of the congressional districts it set up. The probability is that the legislature will tangle up on the division, blocking all legislation, in which event Michigan voters would elect four congressmen from the state at large in the 1932 election.

The legislative hearing of the Rubiner charges of paid legislation will likely be dropped, following an admission of the young assistant attorney general that he had no legal proof to offer at the time he made the speech.

Married women would be allowed to establish homes separate from those of their husbands, under a bill introduced by Rep. Cowan of Port Huron. It was said this was to cover the case of Mrs. Miller, nee Bina M. West of Port Huron, national committee woman from Michigan, and married to a Chicago man.

Rep. Pack of Ann Arbor has introduced one bill to stop frats from dodging taxes by deeding their property to the school.

Affecting Motorists.

Gov. Brucker and Secretary of State Fitzgerald are understood to have agreed on the form of legislation for the changes in the driving license provisions. The new bill provides for re-registration every three years, with new licenses to be issued at a cost of $1.00. New drivers must pass mental and physical tests. Revocation of the license is provided in case of conviction for drunk driving, involuntary manslaughter, or leaving the scene of an accident. Tests would be made by local authorities and the application approved by the commissioner of public safety before the license could be granted by the secretary of state. A license appeal board will be provided, composed of the commissioner of public safety, secretary of state and the attorney general.

Wm. Green, Hillman, who introduced a measure providing for drastic regulations and taxes on commercial vehicles, has submitted a compromise measure following receipt of a storm of protest. The new bill provides a tax of $1.25 per hundred pounds of vehicle weight. The original measure would have provided a 200 per cent increase.

Insurance agents and representatives of stock companies have protested the bill proposed by Senator Rushton giving the State Insurance Department authority to regulate automobile insurance rates. Cong. Person and former state Senator Seth Pulver represented the mutual and reciprocal companies, contending that the stock companies, through lower rates in this state, were attempting to crowd the smaller companies out of the business.

Senator Campbell of Indian River has introduced a bill limiting a truck driver's employment to 16 hours in any 24-hour period. It provides also for the regulation of the use of trailers.

Curb State Board.

The Senate has approved Rep. Armstrong's bill, passed by the House, providing that the chairmen of the finance committees, and an additional member from each house, vote with the administrative board on emergency appropriations. A million dollars is appropriated for emergencies.

Shell pioneers great step forward in motor fuels

SHELL

Perfects new fuel amazingly high in the anti-knock value modern engines need . . .* AT REGULAR GASOLINE PRICE

SHELL has succeeded—after months of effort! Today Shell offers a new fuel high in the precious quality that all cars need—the quality most ordinary gasoline lacks.

Study this chart. Note that most of the ordinary gasoline on the market falls below the needs of the great majority of all cars. But note that New Improved Shell 400 is far higher in anti-knock value than the ordinary fuel.

Best of all, it costs you no more than the ordinary kind!

Now you can be safe once and for all against motor ills and damage caused by gasoline that knocks. Shell acts to give you the kind of gasoline your car ought to have—at the lowest possible price. In the interest of low cost driving, Shell pioneers this great step forward in motor fuels.

You may be getting the kind of gasoline your engine should have. But millions, as this chart will prove, are putting up with poor motor operation, getting less power and facing higher repair bills than they should—due to incorrect gasoline.

Make a test of New Improved Shell 400. Try one complete filling of it—at least 10 gallons. Ask about the nation wide mileage test. Enter it, today.

See on this chart how most ordinary gasoline falls below the needs of many cars. See the false economy of cut price gasolines—inferior, if not actually dangerous to your motor. Notice that New Improved Shell 400 has the indispensable quality all cars need—high anti-knock value.
