Cass City High School Seniors Make Plans for the Coming Year

Twenty-six students, almost sixty per cent of the Class of 1931, are planning to attend colleges or normal schools after their graduation from the Cass City High School. Of this number, thirteen expect to enter college this fall and seven have applied for entrance to county normals. The remaining six plan to attend school after a year or more spent at home.

Effie Belle Allen will go in training for the nursing profession, perhaps at Saginaw.

Janet Allured will major in music and art at Wooster College, Ohio.

There will be four periods for each group, Bible study, recreation, drama, and craftwork. Each period is so arranged that no two groups will have the same kind of work at the same time. RAIN THINNED CROWD ON MEMORIAL DAY

Rev. H. W. Kuhlman Gave Excellent Address at H. S. Auditorium.

A steady rain on Saturday was responsible for the light attendance at the Memorial Day program held at the high school auditorium. Originally planned to be held at Elkland cemetery Saturday morning, the committee in charge of the Memorial Day service found it necessary to change the place to the school building when the rain continued falling as the hour for beginning neared. The word was passed to those who had assembled at the cemetery and bulletin boards carried the announcement in the business section.

Rev. T. S. Bottrell presided as chairman and Rev. P. J. Allured gave the invocation. Group singing included several patriotic numbers. Mrs. Barrick of Detroit, a daughter of the late John Atwell of Cass City, a Civil War veteran, read a poem she had written for the occasion.

Rev. H. W. Kuhlman, pastor of the Caro M. E. church, was the speaker of the day and gave a very fine address. He spoke of the high ideals for which the country's heroes had striven and stressed the challenge to the citizen of today that he cooperate in maintaining the high standards for which the boys fought and died.

Two Civil War veterans were present, H. L. Knight of Grant township and Theodore Burdon of Holly, a former resident of Gagetown. These two representatives of that terrible struggle of the sixties to preserve the Union were given seats prominently placed.

The ranks of the G. A. R. gradually grow thinner and there is but a handful left of the flourishing Milo Warner Post of two decades ago. Besides Mr. Knight, only three other Civil War veterans are left in this community. They are C. S. Bixby of Cass City, Jacob Hartsell of Grant township, and Andre Patrick of Greenleaf township.

The time will be July 13 to 18. The cost will be only the eats which will not exceed $2.50 each. Tents from Cass City will accommodate but 24, and the first 24 that register may go. POTATO MEN ACCEPT MARKET CHALLENGES

Will Grow Tubers to Compete in Quality with Table Stock from Any Section.

Two hundred Michigan potato growers in 32 counties will accept the challenges from other states which have been invading Michigan markets and these men have planned methods to produce a crop of potatoes which, they say, will equal any that can be grown.

This group of growers have formed a Standard Potato Club which has as its purpose the demonstration that Michigan potatoes are excellent when properly grown and which includes as members only those growers who agree to use the strict methods of growing and grading that are needed to produce high quality stock.

The methods include the use of high quality seed treated to prevent disease, close planting to avoid oversize and hollow tubers, early planting to permit the tubers to fully ripen, five spray applications to control blight and leaf hoppers, care in digging and handling to prevent bruising the potatoes, early digging to avoid field frost, close grading to throw out all off-grade stock, and marketing in marked packages which will tell the buyer who grew the potatoes.

The membership in the club is only limited by the grower's willingness to meet these conditions and applications can be made either through the county agricultural agent or direct to the farm crops department at Michigan State College.

Montcalm and Otsego counties have the largest membership in the club at present, but the growers in the trucking sections near Detroit are planning to enter and to grade and market their stock through a central warehouse.

"This day affords an opportunity to pay our tribute to the pioneers of Novesta and adjoining townships," says one of the officers in the announcement of the basket picnic. "Let us show our loyalty by a good attendance and come determined to put a happy day over big."

DEMONSTRATION OF FARM ELECTRIFICATION

Two Trucks Will Be at Ralph Clara Farm at Gagetown June 11.

Two trucks equipped for electric demonstration purposes will be in Tuscola county at the Ralph Clara farm, 1/2 mile east of Gagetown, on Thursday afternoon and evening, June 11. People are invited to come both in the afternoon and evening.

The county agricultural agent and home demonstration agent have arranged that demonstrations of household and power equipment be conducted at this time. H. J. Gallagher, agricultural engineer, Michigan State College, will conduct the demonstration on power uses of electricity and Miss Evelyn Turner of the home economics department will demonstrate the uses of household equipment and appliances. A modern electric kitchen will be displayed. The kitchen is equipped with an electric range, refrigerator, ironing machine, washing machine, ventilating fan and other appliances successfully used in many Michigan farm homes. One of the trucks will show proper farm wiring, water systems, motors, feed grinders, milking machines, and poultry house equipment.

The development in farm electrification in Michigan has been very rapid during the past two years. In 1930 over 5,000 farms were connected to high line service and hundreds of miles of farm lines will be constructed in 1931.

A few years ago farmers regarded electricity as too expensive for farm use but under actual operation electricity has been found to be one of the cheapest sources of power that can be used on the farm and the farmer who now has electricity is most enthusiastic about its use.

In Tuscola county farm lines are extending in every direction. Farmers are taking advantage of the liberal farm line construction policy and the cheap energy rates and are cooperating in getting electric service in their community.

FEEDERS WILL MEET AT MICHIGAN STATE

The annual Livestock Feeders' Day which is held at Michigan State College to report the results of feeding trials with beef cattle, lambs, and hogs will be held this year on Friday, June 26.

The report this year will cover experimental work with five lots of calves, several lots of pigs, and 10 lots of lambs. Some of the trials are repetitions of work that has been done before. This continued work is necessary to be certain that the results secured are the same for different lots of animals in different years.

In fattening baby beef animals, the values of corn, barley, and oats were compared as finishing rations. The results this year show that, while the animals make steady gains when fed oats, they do not acquire the finish which is needed to bring the top prices on the market. Two lots of calves were carried through the winter on light rations and will be fattened for the September market.

Wheat and corn were compared as feeds for fattening hogs and trials were made of the values of protein supplements and of the value of alfalfa meal as compared with the more common protein feeds. The wheat-fed pigs gained more rapidly than those fed corn but they required a little more feed per hundred pounds of gain.

The lambs were fed different grain rations and both fine wool and mutton type lambs were included in the trials. A full report of all the results will be given to each person attending the meeting.

CASS CITY WINS FROM VASSAR 19-4

Locals Collect a Total of 21 Hits Including Home Runs by Ruhl and Shagena.

Coming out of a batting slump which has bothered the Cass City High School all season, they bombarded three twirlers off the mound in a seven inning game at Vassar Friday to win by a score of 19-4. No less than twenty-one solid smashes were taken off the delivery of the opposing moundsmen, these whoppers including two home-runs, three three-baggers, several two-base hits, and the rest singles. Greenleaf lead the attack with four hits, closely followed by Retherford, Ruhl, Kercher, each of whom collected three. Shagena and Ruhl both drove the ball out of the park for home runs.

The game seemed to be all in the local's favor at the very outset as the first four men up in the first inning cracked out hits. Greenleaf lead the scoring with four runs, being thrown out at the plate on a very close decision to hold his total runs to four. The pitching was divided between Shagena and Ruhl, both of whom allowed the opposition a total of five hits. Shagena's wildness in the first of the fourth inning, when he walked two men in a row, brought Ruhl to the mound, who found little difficulty in tossing to ball past the remaining hitters.

County Field Day Friday, June 5. The track team will journey to Caro today (Friday) at nine o'clock to make an attempt for the county track championship. However, with Carlo leading the field of opposition with a formidable array of track talent in the persons of McDurmon and Smith, the prospects are none too bright.

Rural Government Costly, Antiquated, Home Rule for Counties Advocated

Rural governmental organization in Michigan, fixed by a constitutional provision years ago, is ineffective in operation, unsuited to modern conditions and in many cases so costly as to place the county in a dangerous financial position, states Professor Arthur W. Bromage, of the Department of Political Science, University of Michigan, in a paper printed in the American Political Science Review. Home rule, which should enable the county to adopt an organization suited to its needs, is the way out suggested by Prof. Bromage.

"No reasonable man in this automobile age would map out the present jungle of small counties and townships in Michigan," says Prof. Bromage. "The present system of county government was set up when the population of the state was scattered more or less evenly over the state, and a farmer had to be within a day's drive of the county seat by horse and buggy. The facts are that at present almost 85 per cent of the population is drawn into 35 counties in the southern part of the state, while the remaining 15 per cent is scattered over 48 counties in the northern parts. "There is one block of 9 adjacent counties with a total population of only 47,031 and an assessed valuation of $31,585,890. This group must, under the constitution, support 9

TAKE IT FROM DAD

By Frank H. Cheley

Traveling With the Wrong Crowd

"Dad, I need to have a chat with you," said Bob in kindly affectionate tones as Mr. Smith.

though came into the living room, his arm loaded with papers and arranged his big chair under the reading lamp.

"Yes, kid, what's on your chest now? Hope you aren't broke again?"

"No, Dad, got money but I wanted to talk to you about a little incident that occurred at school today."

Mr. Pringle, the principal, seems to have taken an uncommon interest in me this semester. Every time he meets me in the hall he slaps me on the back and says, 'How goes it? Well, yesterday he called me into his little private office and said, 'Bob, I've had my eye on you for some time now and I want to make a suggestion. I think you're traveling with the wrong crowd.' Why, Dad, he knocked the pins right out from under me but he did it so nicely I couldn't get mad. Now, what I want to know, Dad, is how can a fellow know that he isn't traveling with the right crowd? Bill and Harry and Chub have all been here many times. You know them most as well as I do. They aren't particularly bad are they? Just because they're a bit noisy and collegiate doesn't stamp them as undesirable."

Dad waited for more but evidently Bob had 'shot his wad' as he would have said.

"Pringle is a very competent man, Bob, well thought of throughout the city, a real educator, interested beyond his mere job. His suggestions on any point would be worthy of a careful consideration. I've said to your mother several times that I thought Bill and Harry were 'lightweights.' Evidently Pringle thinks so, too."

"Bob, we were talking the other day about laws. Do you recollect how many there were in every realm of life and how much progress after all was just a record of our having discovered new laws and understanding old ones and more nearly aligning our lives in harmony with fundamental laws?"

"Yes, Dad, I do, but what's that got to do with the gang?"

"A very great deal and here is how. There is a law, a most fascinating thing, which establishes the fact that all forms of life, from the lowest up, thrown together intimately under the influence of the same environment, tend decidedly to become alike. In other words Bob, a fundamental law of life says you tend to become like the thing with which you intimately associate."

"Boys gang as naturally as bees hive or sheep flock, and having ganged more or less spontaneously; the law of association begins to work and the individual units in the group begin an elaborate process of give and take in every realm of life. Group opinions begin to form; group attitudes to every conceivable thing begin to shape themselves without the group scarcely being conscious of it. Group opinions and group attitudes soon determine group actions and then you have results, for Bob, to a great degree we are what we do."

"The fellow who plays clean and fair is a good sport. The fellow who cheats and takes unfair advantage is a poor sport. The boy whose manners of acting is genteel and thoughtful of others is a gentleman."

"Let's see further. If you wish to become a great sprinter who do you train with, a coach with a wooden leg who never ran a race? Or suppose you wish to become a great violinist, with whom do you study, a trap drummer? Great athletes become like their coaches, musicians become like their masters and so the marvelous process goes on and on and on."

"Of course it is possible for a person by determination and sheer will power to resist the influence of the group and stand upon his own but the tendency under such circumstances is for him to withdraw from the group in which he is not congenial and gravitate to a group with interests like his own. So while it is true that you can modify the law of association in a way, you ultimately tend to become like the group with which you intimately live."

"Undesirable associations account for more crime than any other single fact."

"If your principal, who is friendly to you, who sees you every day and feels your influence in the school, says to you, 'Bob, you're traveling with the wrong crowd,' then your associations are beginning to show. He knows that you are capable of better things. He expects more of you than he is getting by way of a positive stand on moral principles."

"But, Dad, can't one boy reform a gang?"

"Ha, ha, my boy, that is the alibi that keeps many a boy from stepping up forward—a false loyalty again. No you will not reform your gang, Bob, very rarely if ever. If your gang influence is not of the best, get into one that is. Have all the advantage of a lift, and none of the disadvantage of a drag."

Breezes from the Hill

Audree Bliss, School Editor
Second Grade.

We have completed our arithmetic work by learning the tables of two and three.

For opening exercises, we have been reading "Ant Ventures," by Wade. We hope to be able to recognize all the common bird folks of our town and know a few of their habits.

The flag song and flag salute has been sharing our attention.

Third Grade.

Our room boasts of many pretty bouquets.

We learned a new song about our flag this week.

In arithmetic, we are still working hard on our times tables. We want to know them before we go into the fourth grade.

We have been observing a family of robins which has a nest on a nearby window sill. The three young ones have now left the nest.

Fifth Grade.

We have left Asia and are now traveling in Australia. We are getting acquainted with the general characteristics of the country; then we will visit the sheep ranches.

In the spelling contest between Ivan's and Martha's sides, Martha's team were the winners.

We are learning Henry VanDyke's poem, "A Song"; also Browning's "The Year's at the Spring."

The "A" class has made rapid journeys into decimal land with commendable success. We feel quite proud of the number of perfect papers we have.

High School.

There will be no school today, Friday, June 5, because of the Tuscola County Track and Field Meet being held at Caro.

Mrs. Ione Hamman has tendered her resignation as music and art teacher to become effective at the close of the school year. No one has been engaged to fill her place.

Our last band practice for the year was held yesterday under the direction of Mr. Burnett. Although we got started late in this event, we have had remarkable success and look for big things next year. Mr. Burnett says that he has uncovered some very good band timber and there is much more in the rest of the student body.

This will be the last issue of the "Breezes from the Hill." We hope that you have enjoyed reading them as much as we have in composing them. We wish you all an enjoyable summer.

The ice was believed to have worked its way gradually to the sea. The head was reported to be six feet long and the body 20 feet in length.

WILL SHOW BEST WAY TO HARVEST ALFALFA

It takes good weather to make hay, but hay which is left in the swath over two hours before it is raked is apt to lose considerable of its value as feed, is the statement made by members of the farm crops department at Michigan State College, who have arranged a series of hay curing demonstrations in 25 counties to show the difference in value of hay cured in the swath and that cured in the windrow.

The quality of alfalfa hay depends upon its color and the percentage of leaves retained until it is placed in the stack or mow. Livestock eat the leaves readily when they neglect to eat all the stems especially if these are coarse and woody. The leaves also contain a higher percentage of protein than the stems.

Part of the Michigan alfalfa hay crop is sold on the eastern markets and the farm crops department at the college received inquiries from buyers last year asking what methods were used to cure the excellent quality of hay which was being shipped from this state.

The first demonstration in Michigan of the right way to cure alfalfa was held at the college in June 1924 and since that time such meetings have been held in most of the counties. The acreage of alfalfa increases so rapidly, however, that new growers each year ask to have the demonstrations held in their neighborhood.

At this year's meetings, alfalfa will be left in the swath for varying periods of time before raking to show exactly what happens to the hay when left too long.

LIGHTS of NEW YORK

This summer, backgammon has taken a prominent place in the conversation. Stores all are carrying ornate backgammon sets, and one Fifth avenue establishment has the champion backgammon player giving lessons to patrons. They say this man won 35 straight games against picked opponents and has written a book proving that backgammon is as scientific as bridge. Yeah? Well, I know a little colored boy I'll back against any champion who will let him use his own dice.

One of the largest New York hotels has fifteen pianos, which have to be moved on an average of 200 times a month to meet the demands of musical guests. The boss of the movers is John Ravatino, formerly a page boy, who is not yet four feet tall. It doesn't take physical strength to boss—Napoleon and Julius Caesar were comparatively small men, and John knows all about pianos. He says an upright piano is harder to handle, because his men can't get such a good grip on it, and unless you are on the job the movers will push it along the floor. Take the legs off a grand piano, throw it on its side, and it's a cinch.

I know an upright piano is hard to handle, because Arthur William Brown and I once tried to move one. We got it stuck in a door and this was serious, because we were on the inside of a room, which had neither beds, stove nor icebox and which was a couple of stories from the pavement. We didn't even have a basket we could lower for food. If we had not been rescued it might have been another of those mysterious tragedies of a big city.

One of the skits in the recent Illustrators' show depicted a stage door with Johnnies waiting for the chorus girls to come out. As the first girl appeared, one of the men stepped up to her and said:

"Pardon me. Haven't I seen you some place?"

"I guess so," replied the girl. "I've been places."

One of the artists' models, who assisted in the show, was offered these lines, but refused them. She said it wasn't "a nice part." She was a self-respecting figure model, who later appeared in a fairly undraped tableau.

An actor, out of work last season, is lucky enough to have a big part in a real Broadway success. A friend commented on his prosperous appearance.

"Isn't that a new hat?" he asked.

"Certainly," said the actor, "the whole outfit is new. Last year, when there were hard times, I couldn't afford to dress so well, but this year, of course, I get what I want."

It is all in the point of view.

Norman Stevenson was riding down Park avenue behind a florid-faced and talkative taxi driver, who remarked that it was fine, healthy weather.

"Yes," said Mr. Stevenson a bit nervously, for the driver was looking backward and the traffic was heavy, "you look healthy."

"I should say I am," said the taximan, "there is only one man in the city whose blood is as good as mine."

"Indeed?" said Mr. Stevenson, supposing that some one with the blue blood of the Vere de Veres was at the wheel.

"Yes," said the taxi driver, missing a limousine by an inch, "I certainly have good red blood. I make good money selling it for transfusions."

"Doesn't it weaken you?" said Mr. Stevenson, politely.

"Not a bit," said the taxi driver heartily. "Of course, I can't do it too often; but they take a test and, as soon as the haemoglobins are right, I do it again. A lot of persons in this town are carrying my blood around."

This sounded a little gory to Mr. Stevenson, but it seemed the time to say something, so he inquired: "How much do they take from you?"

"Oh, about 100 c.c.s," said the taxi driver and then, seeing that he had been a bit too technical, "cubic centimeters, you know."

Mr. Stevenson wished to ask whether that was a pint or a barrel, but didn't like to appear too ignorant, so let it pass. Behides, he had been lucky enough to arrive at his destination without accident. But, if he ever needs blood he knows where to go.

Orders Out to Kill

Famous N. Y. Killer

Lancaster, N. Y. — Loggerhead Shrike, alias "The Killer," is on the black list and anyone seeing him is ordered to "shoot to kill."

Loggerhead, a hawk, has been killing sparrows and other small birds in and around Como park. He feasts on many but kills more than he can consume merely for the thrill of inflicting torture. Frequently the killer has been seen sitting nonchalantly on the same tree on which the remains of his victim hangs, casually picking the feathers from under his nails.

"The big men of America are those who never give up." We'd noticed that. When they predict better times and nothing happens, they just predict some more.

Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today. That motto is intended for the man who delays ordering his coal until cold weather comes. Order Cavalier coal now and save the difference.

Soprano: Did you notice how my voice filled the hall last night?
Contralto: Yes, dear; in fact, I noticed several people leaving, to make room for it.

Wayne All Mash Grower is a complete meal ticket for six weeks-old chicks. We have plenty of it ready for you.

Maybe we say too many nice things about Cream of Wheat flour, but you ought to hear the nicer things our customers say about it.

Give those chicks a little special attention and they'll be grateful to you. By giving them special attention, we mean feeding them Wayne Buttermilk Chick Starter. They love it, and it certainly makes 'em grow!

Here's a Good Clean Joke
He: "May I hold your Palmolive?"
She: "Not on your Life Buoy."
He: "Then I'm out of Lux."
She: "Yes. Ivory formed."

John Davis, southeast of town, has 12 sows and 1 boar for sale.

Prices were never lower on baby chicks than they are this year.

The purpose of a good feed is not only to help the chicks live, but also to supply the things the chicks need to make rapid and profitable growth.

Wayne Buttermilk Chick Starter has everything in it that chicks need.

An antique, according to a Cass City husband, is a piece of furniture you wouldn't have if nobody else wanted it.

Rapid and uniform growth of pullets in the summer months and complete development by Oct. 1st depend on getting birds to eat enough of the right kind of feed. Pullets cannot mature properly and start to lay successfully in five to six months without consuming an abundance of good Growing Mash, such as Wayne All Mash Grower.

Make that empty coal bin of yours pay you dividends. Get your coal in now and save the price of a couple of tons.

The DAIRY

NEW BARN PLANS FOR DAIRY COWS

Designed for Farmers Having Less Than 6 Animals.

New plans have been designed by the agricultural engineer working with the dairy extension office at the North Carolina State college by which cow stalls and stanchions of lumber may be built at home by those who wish to remodel old barns to house dairy cattle.

The plans have been designed in response to many requests from persons having a few cows and no place to keep them. Using these plans, barns, stables or sheds may be made sanitary and convenient for handling a small dairy herd.

A. T. Holman, agricultural engineer, who designed the new plans, says they are intended for the small producer having less than six cows. This class includes the family cows and the small herds from which sour cream is sold. The plans are not recommended for those in the dairy business and producing milk on a comparatively large scale. As explained by Mr. Holman, the plans show three complete stanchions and cow stalls including the feeding alley, manger, platform, gutter and rear walkway. Everything is to be built of lumber except the bottom of the gutter, which is of concrete.

Mr. Holman says one of the best features of the new set of plans is the low cost of construction. Only one sack of cement and about 450 board feet of lumber are needed to build stanchions and stall for three cows. The average cost of the materials used should be around $3 for one cow. The designs are simple, permitting any farmer, handy with tools, to do his own work.

Chemicals Can Be Used to Sterilize Utensils

Chemicals can be used to sterilize clean milk utensils along with hot water, and many farmers are using this method now, according to L. H. Burgwald, Ohio State university.

Chlorinated lime, 12 ounces, is dissolved in a gallon of water, the clear solution is siphoned off and stored in a glass stoppered bottle and placed in a cool, dark place.

After milking the milk utensils are rinsed in cold water, then washed in hot water with a washing powder, and then rinsed with the hottest water possible to get. When this has been done and the utensils are thoroughly clean they are rinsed with a solution made by adding half a glass of the chlorine solution to five gallons of water.

Barnyard Kept Sanitary Will Prevent Diseases

Cows should never be compelled to wade knee deep in mud and manure whole going into and out of the barn or when turned out for exercise or water. A few loads of cinders or gravel or a few tile properly placed will prevent this condition. The cows themselves should also be kept reasonably well bedded and clean. This will involve a little extra labor, but a cow that is worth keeping at all will fully repay in increased production any reasonable amount of care of this kind taken to make her comfortable. Clipping the hair closely on the flanks, thigh, and udder of cows will greatly reduce the amount of labor necessary to keep them clean.

Dairy Facts

The amount of milk fed a weaning calf should vary according to its size.

An abundance of good roughage is of the greatest importance for full milk pails at profitable prices.

Alfalfa hay is an important dairy feed because it contains a relatively high amount of protein and calcium.

One of the surest ways of helping solve the feed problem and incidentally to aid the whole dairy situation, is to cull out the low producing cows.

When the daughters of a bull come into production, that bull will soon be proved to be either a valuable breeding animal or just so much soup meat.

Newly freshened cows should not be fed heavily at first. A warm bran mash is very beneficial immediately after freshening. Ground oats, bran, and oil meal can be fed later.

Italian and perennial rye grasses are quick growing grasses and are well suited to be a part of a good many pasture mixtures, one of their advantages being that they act somewhat as a nurse crop until the slower growing grasses get a root-hold.

Wheat makes a good dairy feed in amounts up to one-third of the entire grain mixture. It should be rolled or coarsely ground and mixed with bulky feeds, such as bran or oats, in addition to enough protein feed to balance the ration.

Our village is doomed to remain in darkness for a time at least. The taxpayers decided on Tuesday that we should not enter into the proposed contract for lighting our streets with electricity, by the small majority of two. Some of our citizens favor the owning of the plant by the village and opposed the proposition which has just been defeated. It is now their turn to come to the front with a better plan. We want more light if nothing more than a kerosene lamp.

Very Accommodating

If a man wants to be a cynic, there are plenty of situations to make him cynical. If a man wants to be an optimist, and wants to trust in the world and humanity, there are plenty of situations to make him optimistic and trusting. This old world is accommodating that way. — Atchison Globe.

Professor's Good Work

The late Dr. Charles E. Bessey, professor of botany at the University of Nebraska, was responsible for the government forest in the sand hills. For 20 years Doctor Bessey had advocated the planting of trees over the sand hills and he had finally prevailed upon Roosevelt to set aside the tract and start the work. The government nursery which was established was given Doctor Bessey's name.

Saved by Forests

Gilead was never denuded of its forests as was Judea, and, as a consequence, never failed to receive rains and retain moisture. It is today one of the pastoral beauty spots of the earth, because it retained its forests, and did not leave its rocky hills in drought and barrenness.

Would Settle Wolf

A private in the army of the unemployed was overheard to say: "If the wolf keeps howling at my door I'm gonna shut him up in the pantry and let him starve to death."

What price— ROOF PERMANENCE?

SOME people spend, in repairs, far more than the cost of a permanent roof. The home owner who does this knows that such a roof is not a bargain at any price.

J-M Asbestos Shingles cost slightly more than ordinary roofing materials—but they give you freedom from repairs. You will have the double assurance of safety and permanent protection. Fire cannot burn these sturdy shingles. Time and weather will not harm them. Better still, you can choose the very style and color blend needed to give your home charm and distinction. No need to disturb the present roof. Just put the new shingles on right over the old ones.

Supreme Court Bars Reservations to Oath of Allegiance—Economy Plans for Post Office Department Are Announced.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Justice Sutherland

FIVE justices of the United States Supreme court have ruled, in the case of Prof. Douglas C. Macintosh of the Yale divinity school, that a foreigner who seeks American citizenship must take the oath with no reservations about taking up arms for the country in time of war. Macintosh refused to swear allegiance without limiting his obligation to bear arms, and therefore is denied the right of naturalization. The same decision was made in the case of Miss Marie Averill Bland. Both she and Macintosh are Canadians and both saw wartime service in France.

Justice Howard Sutherland, who wrote the majority opinion, held that the cases properly came within the principle laid down in the case of Rosika Schwimmer, pacifist leader, who was denied citizenship on virtually the same grounds. He discussed the broad omnipotent war power granted congress by the Constitution, saying: "From its very nature, the war power, when necessity calls for its exercise, tolerates no qualifications or limitations unless found in the Constitution or in applicable principles of international law."

"The conscientious objector," Justice Sutherland added, "is relieved from the obligation to bear arms in obedience to no constitutional provision, expressed or implied; but because, and only because, it has accorded with the policy of congress thus to relieve him."

Chief Justice Hughes, joined by Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Stone, dissented from the majority opinion.

TWO other decisions of the Supreme court during the week are of great interest. One reversed the judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals sustaining the patent granted Dr. Irving Langmuir in 1925 on vacuum tubes used in radio and other speech-reproduction processes. The patent is owned by the General Electric company. It was attacked by the De Forest Radio company, which contended that unless the Langmuir patents were set aside General Electric would have a virtual monopoly of the radio tube now in common use.

In the second decision the powers of the federal trade commission to regulate advertising are restricted. The commission had ordered the Raladam company of Detroit to cease advertising an obesity remedy as "safe" unless accompanied by a statement that it should be taken under advice of a physician. The commission held it had the right to protect the public in this way, but the Detroit concern complained that the body was trying to censor advertising. In this contention it was upheld by the court.

PROF. AUGUST PICCARD, Swiss scientist, and his assistant, Charles Kipter, established a new record by ascending 52,500 feet in a balloon. They are convinced they reached the stratosphere and that their observations will be of considerable value. They started from Augsburg, Bavaria, being hermetically sealed in an aluminum ball suspended from a large balloon; 18 hours later they landed on a glacier in the Alps of Austrian Tyrol. They nearly suffocated because their supply of oxygen ran short, and they suffered from hunger and thirst.

EVERY time President Hoover takes some cabinet member to the Rapidan camp for a week-end, further plans for reducing the government's overhead are concocted. First came the Army and Navy departments, and then it was the turn of the Post Office department. Postmaster General Walter Brown and his assistants were the guests and the "victims," and after the conference in the woods it was announced that a program had been adopted that would save $38,000,000 in the present fiscal year and that would produce many economies next year. However, it was emphatically stated that efficiency would be increased instead of diminished and that there would be no decrease in personnel.

The statement indicated that the department has felt the depression. It was estimated that due to business conditions revenues to the department this year would be $58,000,000 below the original estimates.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE Hyde seems to be forestalling these Rapidan camp operations by planning considerable economies in his department expenditures, though this is difficult without curtailing important services. He will be aided during the year by the termination of two emergency items—drought relief and highway construction. These totaled $160,000,000, providing aid for stricken farmers and jobs for the unemployed.

Drought loans will be collected from farmers next fall, when their crops are harvested. States which have borrowed from the $80,000,000 emergency highway fund will repay the money over a five-year period through deductions from their regular shares of federal aid.

After deducting extension service and land grant college funds, between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 remains for the department's actual expenses.

THIS year's Memorial day address by President Hoover was delivered in the memorial park at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, where George Washington and his ragged troops spent a terrible winter 153 years ago, and where more than 3,000 of those patriots are buried. The exercises of the day were impressive. Two thousand troops acted as escort to President and Mrs. Hoover and a battery from Phoenixville fired the salute. In his address Mr. Hoover reviewed his past policies in international matters and outlined his plans for the future, especially concerning the reduction of armaments.

The night preceding this, the President was the guest of the Union League club of Philadelphia at a banquet where he was presented with an oil portrait of himself.

Miss Mary Anderson

EXPERTS from many lands were present when the international labor conference opened in Geneva, but the United States was not represented. Secretary of Labor Doak appointed Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the woman's bureau, as the American delegate and she sailed May 12, with the special hope that the conference might adopt an agreement banning night work by women. But just after Miss Anderson reached Europe Mr. Doak sent her a cable instructing her to stay away from Geneva and giving her other missions for the department.

Making his action public, the labor secretary merely said the State department had deemed it "wholly inadvisable" to have any one from the United States government at Geneva, either in official or unofficial capacity.

MRS. HARRY PAYNE WHITE's memorial typifying the heroism of the men who went down with the Titanic in order that women and children might be saved was unveiled on the banks of the Potomac in Washington in the presence of President and Mrs. Hoover, and many other prominent persons. Secretary of State Stimson presided at the ceremony. The statue is the contribution of more than 20,000 American women.

MICHELE SCHIRRU, an Italian born naturalized citizen of the United States, was executed by a firing squad in Rome after being convicted of plotting to kill Mussolini and of other activities against Fascism. Schirru admitted his guilt, but said his plans had been abandoned and he was about to return to America when arrested.

INVESTIGATION of the building material industry, especially those phases of it involved in the letting of contracts for government buildings, has been begun by the federal trade commission. It is believed that the inquiry will throw a lot of light on the long existing fight between the Indiana limestone men and the granite and marble men of New England. Such, at least, is the hope of Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, who introduced the resolution calling for the investigation.

The trade commission, announcing that preliminary work already had been started, said:

"In this inquiry the commission will investigate and report facts relating to the letting of contracts for the construction of government buildings, particularly with a view of determining whether or not there are or have been any price fixing or other agreements, understandings or combinations of interests among individuals, partnerships, or corporations engaged in the production, manufacture or sale of building materials with respect to the prices or other terms at or under which such materials will be furnished contractors or bidders for such construction work."

Senator Shipstead said he introduced the resolution because of complaints that such collusion between the purveyors of building materials did exist and because of further complaints, seemingly aimed at the handling of contracts by the government itself, that specifications for buildings were so framed that they unfairly limited the sources from which materials could come.

The limestone-granite-marble controversy falls in the latter category. The charges are that Indiana's advocates have been too influential and have somehow or other put "Indiana limestone" into the specifications for too many government buildings.

Queen Helene

EXILE from Rumania and expulsion from the royal family of that country is the fate arranged for Queen Helene, the estranged wife of King Carol. According to Patria, the official organ of the Zaranist party in Bucharest, a decree has been drafted for submission to the new parliament confirming Helen's exclusion and declaring that she is no longer entitled to the rights and honors accorded to royalty. Parliament is expected to adopt the measure as soon as it assembles, and Helene will leave the country permanently soon thereafter, terminating her uncertain marital status of more than two years. Observation of the queen's saint day last Thursday was forbidden in an order issued by War Minister Stephanescu and authorized by Premier Jorga.

Helene divorced Carol while he was in exile in 1928 with Magda Lupescu. When he made a dramatic flying return to Bucharest last year she spurned his overtures toward a reconciliation and steadfastly refused to be crowned with him.

REFORM and retrenchment in the army of Japan have been decided upon by War Minister Gen. Jiro Minami. Chief of Staff Gen. Hanji Kanaya and Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto, inspector general of military education. The army personnel will be reduced by 25,000 and the savings will be devoted to making the army the best equipped in the world.

The people had hoped that the money would go toward lightening their tax burdens; but the war minister explains that only $4,000,000 a year will be saved through the readjustments planned, and this amount, while hardly noticeable in any tax reduction program, will greatly aid the nation in placing the army on a level with that of Soviet Russia and other countries which maintain effectively equipped forces.

SPAIN'S new Republican government is far from being stabilized yet. Its troubles, both external and internal, continue to cause some uneasiness. According to the authorities in Andalusia, a martial law which was proclaimed there several weeks ago may have to be continued indefinitely because of the turbulence of the Communists. Also, martial law has been reinstated in Elda, Valencia, where there was a violent revolt last December. The army, now under command of Don Francisco Aguilera, the new captain general, is kept in readiness to suppress any uprisings anywhere, of either Communists or royalists. Elections in Catalonia resulted in complete victory for Colonel Francisco Macia's party. The assembly therefore will be dominated by those who demand autonomy for Catalonia under the authority of the central government.

The other day the Republican government issued a decree guaranteeing absolute freedom of worship to all religions. The pope regarded this as a clear violation of the concordat still in existence between Spain and the Vatican, and he sent a formal protest to Madrid after a conference with Cardinal Segura, the expelled primate of Spain.

CHINA appears to be on the brink of another civil war. President Chiang Kai-shek bitterly denounces the Communist rebels of Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces and says the Nationalist government is forced to choose between accepting Communists into the party, which it will not do, or resorting to war. Large bodies of troops were reported to be moving toward Canton to attack the insurgents.

THROUGH its chairman, J. Weston Allen, the national crime commission makes a report asking all states to pass a uniform law regulating theft information, ownership records and registration to check the growing evil of automobile thefts and the use of stolen cars by criminals.

The committee also recommends the enactment by congress of the bill which makes criminal the transportation in interstate or foreign commerce of property stolen or taken feloniously by fraud or with the intent to steal or purloin. The bill passed the house of representatives but did not reach the senate during the last session of congress.

ABORTION takes a large toll of the dairy industry and it is regrettable that we know so little about control measures. Vaccines of one kind and another have been sold and some of them seem to be fairly effective in some herds and of little effect in others. One or two facts we are sure of—that the spread of the disease is largely through germs expelled in the droppings and carried to the feed given to healthy cows or heifers. Probably the contagion is carried to the feed on the feet of the herdsmen.

HAVING changed his mind about appealing from his conviction and sentence for bribery, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, has asked the Supreme Court of the United States to reverse the decision of the District Court of Appeals. His brief attacks the validity of the indictment and the admission of certain evidence.

DAIRY FACTS

ONION-FLAVORED MILK AND CREAM

To Prevent Keep Cows Off of Pastures Infested.

Onion flavors in milk and cream, which sometimes occur in early spring, may be prevented by seeing that milk cows do not satisfy their craving for green pasture plants on wild onions.

People who "know their onions" prefer them separate from milk, coffee, cream or butter. Onion cream cannot be made into a good grade of butter. To avoid heavy loss, the creamery must either refuse to buy it or cut the price paid at least 10 cents per pound butterfat.

The remedy for onion-flavored dairy products is to keep the cows off of pastures that have onions, according to John O. Tolver, deputy Colorado state dairy commissioner. Where there is no other pasture, let the cows graze two or three hours after milking time and then shut them off the onions the balance of the day, he advises.

Milk will lose part of the onion flavor if it is properly aerated by pouring over the cooler two or three times. When onion milk is separated, the flavor stays with the fat in the cream. Stir the cream frequently and do not keep lids on the cans at all.

Most Important to Feed Milk Producing Rations

The fallacy of keeping feed costs down with no regard for the amount of milk the cows produce is well shown by the records of an Illinois dairy herd improvement association. The lowest producing herd in this association had an average yearly feed cost of $29 a cow—the highest herd $70 a cow. The latter herd produced 375 pounds of butterfat and made an income over the cost of feed of $120 per cow. The herd with the low feed cost of $29 a head produced only 185 pounds of butterfat for the year at a profit over feed cost of $50 per cow. The feed bill of the higher producing herd was more than double the feed cost for the lower producers, yet the profit over feed cost for these higher producers was likewise more than double that of the cows of lower production.

For greatest profit from any dairy herd, be it only two cows or twenty cows, the important thing is to feed good milk-making rations, and to feed each cow as much of this ration as she will eat for greatest return. To learn how much feed a cow needs for most profitable milk production, a daily record is needed of the amounts of milk produced and feed consumed by each cow.

Prevent Contaminating Milk With Bad Flavors

Taking cows off of garlic or onion infested pastures five hours before milking will decrease chances of contaminating the milk with this most unpleasant odor, according to Dr. A. H. Ruehe, University of Illinois. It is better to inspect the pastures early in the spring and fence off the onion or garlic pastures.

The onion flavor in milk is not the only bad flavor to be guarded against in the spring. As soon as the weather is warm enough to quit wearing an overcoat it is time to begin cooling the milk as soon as it is drawn and thus prevent other bad odors in milk.

Improving Quality of All Dairy Products

The problem of raising the general level of quality of milk and cream at the point of production, the farm, is one that must be given more consideration. The objects of quality improvement are to increase consumption and provide the consumer with clean, wholesome and nutritious dairy products. Statistics on the per capita consumption of milk show that the southern states are low in their per capita consumption of milk; they show that these states are low in their per capita consumption of all kinds of dairy products, as compared with other sections of the country.

Abortion Control

Abortion takes a large toll of the dairy industry and it is regrettable that we know so little about control measures. Vaccines of one kind and another have been sold and some of them seem to be fairly effective in some herds and of little effect in others. One or two facts we are sure of—that the spread of the disease is largely through germs expelled in the droppings and carried to the feed given to healthy cows or heifers. Probably the contagion is carried to the feed on the feet of the herdsmen.

Bad Milk Flavors

Certain weeds, especially wild onions, garlic, and leeks impart to milk, cream and butter, flavors which are not desired, such as a most intense onion flavor, which is very difficult to remove from these products. These flavors usually appear in milk and cream in spring and fall, due to the cows having access to pastures which are not sufficiently advanced, or have dried up too much to satisfy the cows causing them to feed on anything green they can find.

HAPPENINGS IN THE NEIGHBORING TOWNS

Carefully Selected from Interesting Exchanges for Chronicle Readers.

A group of 24 students will receive diplomas from Mayville High School at the annual graduation exercises to take place Thursday, June 11, in the Mills Memorial Baptist church, Dr. C. A. Fisher of the University of Michigan will be the commencement speaker.

Donald Stapleton, teacher of the school a mile east of Crosswell, while playing baseball at a school picnic celebrating the last day of school, had both bones in his left leg fractured when one of the boys running for second base accidentally slid into him knocking him down.

The Sebawaing township board, meeting in conjunction with the board of directors of the Sebawaing Board of Commerce Saturday evening, voted to reduce the local assessed valuation of the Sebawaing plant of the Michigan Sugar Company to $100,000. It was the consensus of opinion that inasmuch as the Sebawaing factory is the only one of the nine owned by the company to be operated this year, the farmers in this territory are highly fortunate in having the opportunity to grow beets and gain the benefit of the crop, and it was only proper that Sebawaing should make a worthwhile gesture in making the company's tax burden smaller for the time being. It was pointed out that if the factory were idle, as all the other plants are, there would be little or no tax on the property and in that case the withdrawal of one of our most important crops would result in no less than a calamity to the territory.—Sebawaing Blade.

It is much easier to be critical than correct. Constructive criticism may be, and often is, helpful; but destructive criticism robs one of courage, and usually degenerates into fault-finding. The DAIRY

SUITABLE HOUSE FOR DAIRY FARM

Should Contain Nothing but Necessary Utensils.

The milk house is one farm structure which should not be big, according to H. E. Ross of the dairy department of the New York State College of Agriculture, who says that it should be just large enough to contain a milk-tank suitable for cooling and storing the milk, and a rack for holding utensils, with only enough additional space to permit the attendant to work conveniently.

If the milk house is larger than is necessary for the proper handling of the milk, he says, there is always the temptation to use it for storage purposes, and for other purposes than for which it is built. He says that this storage practice should never be followed because of the possibility that the milk may become contaminated. He adds that storage practices are also likely to be forbidden by most boards of health.

Other recommendations which Professor Ross makes are that the milk house should be near the stable and it should be connected to the stable by an enclosed passage, provided with swinging doors at each end. A plentiful supply of clear, cold water should be available, and the milk house should be convenient to the ice house, though not inside the ice house. It should be distant from any point of contamination and should, of course, be so built that wagons or trucks can be driven directly to it.

All of these points are thoroughly described and illustrated in a new bulletin by Professor Ross, published by the New York State College of Agriculture. This bulletin is available to those who want it and will be sent free on a request to the office of publication at the college of agriculture, Ithaca, New York. Ask for E 200.

Weed Out Boarder Cows in Building Up a Herd

By weeding out his boarder cows, raising heifer calves from his best cows only, and feeding milk-making feeds in proper amounts, it is possible for a good dairy farmer to practically double his dairy herd income in four years without increasing the number of his cows.

Just how this can be done on the average dairy farm is well shown in the record of a herd of cows in one of Minnesota's dairy herd improvement associations. By following these practices, the average production of this herd increased from 192 pounds of butterfat a year per cow to 317 pounds four years later. The income over feed cost per cow during that time jumped from $58 to $102. As this farmer had 16 cows in his herd he increased his income over $700 from the same cows in four years' time.

The first step in building up a profitable dairy herd is the use of daily records of milk produced and feed eaten by each cow. These records are simple and require only a few minutes time to make. The daily milk record of each cow makes it possible to feed her according to her milk production, which usually means at the rate of about one pound of milk-making grain to every three pounds of milk produced and all the alfalfa hay and corn silage she will clean up. The milk and feed records will also show which cows are profitable and which are not.

Dairy Notes

From a "Better Bull," raise better cows than you can buy.

Even in zero weather milk should be artificially cooled. Cooling with circulating water is 21 times faster than cooling with air at the same temperature.

It is advisable to have a good variety of feeds in the grain mixture. Such a mixture gives a better quality of protein and provides a feed that is relished by the cows.

If proper culling could be made of all dairy herds, it not only would conserve good feed, but it would greatly improve the whole dairy market and bring the owners much greater net profits.

To test the cream separator take about a half pint of skim milk as it comes from the separator and have your creamery test the sample. This test will tell how much butterfat is going into the skim milk.

A tried sire known to put good mammary organs on his daughters is a good acquisition in a herd.

Only cows capable of eating lots of feed are able to make the greatest profits. Give good cows plenty of feed. It never pays to skimp on their feed bill.

Twenty-six cows in the Penn state herd in 1931 averaged 4,801 pounds of milk. Last year 71 cows produced 9,426 pounds each. Better breeding is primarily responsible for the increase.

HOW

EXPERT ESKIMO SHOTS SAVED FOOD SUPPLIES.—Only expert Eskimo riflemen saved the valued food supplies for the little northern settlement of Point Barrow this fall, reported Capt. John Backland of the sailing schooner C. S. Holmes, returned to Seattle from a cruise into the Arctic ocean.

After many futile attempts to get into the harbor of Point Barrow to discharge food supplies, fuel and merchandise the ice pack finally drifted off shore. A large scow put out from shore and was laden with stores. Before the scow could be unloaded the ice again began to threaten.

In order to save the scow it was moored to a section of firm ground ice frozen to the shoreline. During the day the wind increased and the scow was again in danger. From the town Eskimos began fire with their rifles and severed the rope cables, freeing the scow, which was then permitted to drift out into an open lead away from the oncoming floes. Later it was recovered by power boats.

How to Remove Stains From Vases and Bottles

If a glass, a water cruet or a vase apparently has been ruined by allowing hard water to stand in it, fill with sour milk and let stand for 24 hours. When washed all stain will have been removed.

For bud vases or cut-glass vases, which are hard to clean, lemon is effective. Slices of lemon left over from tea or lemonade or the peeling will do. Put into the bottom of the vase and fill with water to cover the discoloration. Let stand for several hours, then clean. They will look like new.

When vases are stained where the hand cannot reach you can clean by filling with potato peelings, shaking them around briskly until the deposit is cut away. Treat water bottles in the same way or use egg shells and salt to clean them. When buying a pitcher, select one that has a large mouth. If the hand can be inserted the pitcher may be more easily cleaned.

How Nickname Came About

According to a pretty well authenticated account the nickname of "Uncle Sam" for the United States dates from the War of 1812, when Samuel Wilson, government inspector of pork and beef, was familiarly known as Uncle Sam. A New Yorker, Elber Anderson, who was a contractor, had all his cases of provisions marked in white paint, "E. A.—U. S." (Elbert Anderson—United States.) The workmen, with whom the term "United States" was still unfamiliar, interpreted these initials as referring to "Elbert Anderson" and "Uncle Sam." "Uncle Sam" Wilson lived to be eighty-four and when he died, August, 1854, the circumstances that led to the adoption of his name as the sobriquet of the United States, were recalled and recorded.

How Fish Obtain Oxygen

Most species of fish take free oxygen from the water in which they live. Usually the upper layers of water are richer in free oxygen and for that reason fish generally come to the surface when the water becomes foul and deficient in oxygen. This free oxygen in the air should not be confused with the oxygen combined with hydrogen to form the water itself. Deep sea fish are so constructed that they can live on the meager quantities of free oxygen found at great depths. There are many places in the ocean where there is practically no free oxygen and in such places there are no fish.—Pathfinder Magazine.

How Coke Yields Liquid Fuel

German scientists are perfecting the process of extracting liquid fuel from coke. The Ruhr process is a great advance over others that have been developed by reason of the fact that only ordinary pressure and medium temperature are required. All the products of the oil industry, from gasoline to solid paraffin, are extracted directly in pure condition. Five tons of coke are required to yield one long ton of gasoline.

How We Get "Junk"

The word "junk" was formerly applied to a feast, picnic, or excursion. It is now particularly applied to an excursion made by public officials, at public expense, for the ostensible purpose of investigating the conduct of remote offices of the government, the needs of distant territories, or the construction of public works. Members of congress are notorious for their junkets for inspecting distant regions under the American flag.—Exchange.

How Horse "Draws"

A horse pushes against the harness rather than pulls it. To push is to press against an object with force in order to drive or impel, or to move with steady pressure. To pull is to exert a force upon an object so as to cause it to move toward the force, or draw it.

In hanging a picture one should have in mind the ease with which the guest or member of the family may admire it. Pictures should be hung down close to the eye level of a person standing and should not tilt forward at the top.

NEED MORE ALFALFA AND BETTER CATTLE

Bankers Agree to Aid Farmers Who Try These Methods of Increasing Profits

More acres of alfalfa and better cows to eat it were two methods of increasing the Michigan farmers' income which were recommended at a meeting of farmers and bankers held at Michigan State College.

Members of the college staff told the bankers that the farmers who wanted loans for the purchase of high grade alfalfa seed, for the purchase of lime, or for the purchase of high producing cows deserved every consideration for his loan application.

The bankers through their representative, D. H. Otis, director of the national agricultural commission of the bankers, promised their aid in enabling farmers to take advantage of the advice to plant more acres of alfalfa and to improve the quality of the cattle in their herds.

Improved types of blue berries are a new crop which will be available soon for use on Michigan farms which have an area of the right type of muck, according to V. R. Gardner, director of the experiment station at the college, who told the group at the meeting that new methods of propagation perfected by the station would make planting stocks available soon. He also said that he expected this crop to be in the million dollar class in future years.

The use of federal funds in establishing cooperative associations for marketing products was explained and it was predicted that greater amounts of such aids would be used by Michigan farmers.

Another way to increase profits mentioned before the group was the keeping of cost account records by farmers. The records enable the farm owner to discard unprofitable crops and to increase those which are profitable.

SPECIAL EXAMINATIONS FOR GRADES 7 AND 8

School Commissioner B. H. McComb will conduct a special seventh and eighth grade examination June 11 and 12 for students who were unable by sickness or other good causes to write the test at the regular time in Tuscola county. The special examination has been a practice for several years, but a change in the plan has been made this year. Schools being maintained for ten months will be privileged to write at the special test this year. There are about 40 pupils of parochial schools near Richville who will write the special examination.

RURAL GOVERNMENT COSTLY; HOME RULE ADVOCATED

Concluded from first page.
000 in 1928, and of this more than one-third was delinquent. The blame for this cannot fall on the state government, since 93 per cent of the tax levy was for local government. The return of land to the state for overdu taxes is even more alarming. Senator Lennon showed in 1930 that the state owns, or is in process of obtaining, more than one-fourth the total area of both peninsulas. Nothing can alter the fact that the most obvious need of local government is the reorganization of county lines through consolidation on the basis of regional units of economic, social and political significance.

An amendment to the constitution permitting counties to devise such local government as suits the particular situation of each county, is suggested as the logical solution to the serious financial crisis of county government by Prof. Bromage. The vital principle of local government would be respected and the way cleared for trials of "county council-manager plan," similar to the city manager plan, which has proven so successful in many cities, he says.

Beneficent Nature

In the final examinations conducted in a Chicago high school, the following question was asked: "What is the essential thing about the earth from an agricultural standpoint?" One answer read: "The essential thing about the earth from an agricultural standpoint is that it revolves on its axis, thereby providing for the rotation of crops."

Tested by Misfortune

If a man is never tried by misfortune, he hardly knows whether he is honest or not, and he never knows how much of a man he is. He that has never known adversity is but half acquainted with himself. Nor is he more than half acquainted with the world. Success shows us one side of the world; adversity brings out the reverse of the picture.—Exchange.

Muskrat's Winter Abode

The muskrat's winter hut is a dome of vegetation mixed in with mud walls and frozen stiff, which enables the muskrat to eat the roots in the walls, and to keep comfortably warm from the heat generated by the decaying vegetation.
