

Give Cow Adequate Rest in Lactation Periods

Dairy cows may produce their own weight in solids in the milk during one year. The ordinary farm cow that will produce 7,000 pounds of milk, produces 910 pounds of solids in a year. This is almost equal to the average dairy cow weight.

When you think of the amount of mineral, fat protein produced by this cow in one year, you begin to see the importance of giving the cow an adequate rest period in order to build up her body for this year of strenuous effort. Many good dairymen allow their cows two to three months' rest either on good pasture or on feed between lactations.

Old Indian Pastime
A snow snake is a long, slender shaft, curved slightly at one end, to be launched so as to glide endwise over a surface of ice or snow—a game which was popular with the American Indians, and is still played to some extent today.

Great Confederate Soldier
Although without military training, General Forrest was ranked as one of the best cavalry leaders in the Civil war. Sherman said he was "the most remarkable man the war produced on either side." He was the idol of the South, and one of the last of the Confederate chieftains to give up the struggle.

Judgment of Cow Feeder Is of Much Importance

There is more to economical feeding than a correctly planned ration. Success, after all, rests with the skill and intelligence of the individual farmer. It is the eye of the feeder that keeps every cow right up in condition and always looking for her feed. Roughage will be fed in such quantities as a cow can clean up but not more. Grain will be fed in proportion to production. If the meal mixture is about as suggested above, Holsteins will be fed at the rate of one pound of grain to each three and a half to four pounds of milk produced; Ayrshires, one pound to three of milk. If the cows are milking heavily they may get more grain than this. Here is where the judgment of the feeder comes in. Where home-grown grains are largely fed, more grain will be required to maintain milk flow and it is because of this that the heavy feeding of home-grown chop is not always economical.

This BALL AND BOTTLE TEST

The more body an oil has, the slower the ball drops. Note that used New Iso-Vis has practically the same body as the fresh oil.

...lets you SEE that New Iso-Vis will not thin out from dilution"

"Just 3 seconds of your time and a flip of the wrist—that's all it takes for you to make this interesting test. You'll probably get a big surprise from watching the four steel balls sink through the oil to the bottom of each bottle.

"What these little steel balls tell you is the gospel truth—New Iso-Vis will not thin out from dilution. And what's more, it's the only motor oil that will stand up like this.

"Here's a challenge. Fill up with New Iso-Vis. Then when it's time to drain, come in. Try your own oil in the Ball and Bottle Test. See for yourself that New Iso-Vis will not thin out from dilution."

RESULTS of Indianapolis Speedway Tests, Certified by A. A. A.

- 1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.
- 2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, the engines and chassis of all cars were lubricated effectively.
- 3 Oil Added: only 63/100 of a quart—average for all cars—of Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy) in 1,000 mile test at 30 miles per hour.

TOO MUCH CREAM FOR ONLY ONE TO USE
(© by D. J. Walsh.)

MISS MARY SANDFORD awakened as usual at 6:30. Immediately there came the sound of a jingle and a slam from the back porch.

She lay on her pillow thinking sweet, vague thoughts until Percy, the yellow cat which slept on the foot of her bed, jumped up and came to rub her cheek.

On the back porch she searched for the little note she had painstakingly written the night before. It was missing. He had taken it with him!

Mrs. McIntosh was out taking in her milk as Mary tried to steal by on her way to Mrs. Gray's.

"What about yourself?" retorted Mrs. McIntosh flushed in turn. She went into the house rather quickly.

That day it rained. The roof sprung a leak. Mary had to climb into the attic and put a couple of pans under the eaves to catch the trickle.

Not for worlds would Mary have admitted, even to Percy, the cat, that she was in love with a milkman.

All up and down the street women, some of them married, too!—were buying lots of milk. It wasn't that the milk was so much better than Mr. Ransome's, but it was peddled from a blue truck by a dashing young fellow who whistled a different tune at each house.

beside the two women. A dark, laughing face looked out. "Can't I take you ladies some place?" cried the milkman.

A week later Mary awakened much earlier than necessary. She lay waiting for the familiar sound of the jingling bottles. She had put out another dollar for cream tickets—and dear knows she could not afford them.

No sign of him anywhere. Another half hour. Suspense, agony. Mrs. McIntosh came in. "Where's our milk?"

"Where's our milk?" "I wonder!" "Maybe something has happened! Why! You are pale as a ghost!"

"Sorry I'm late, lady! But I'm just learning the route," explained the red-headed youth.

"Learning the route? Where is Widdy—Mr. Twaddell?" "Sold out to me—threw up the business. Got married yesterday—left town for good.
