

100 AT THE BINGHAM SCHOOL REUNION

Fourth Annual Gathering Celebrated with Fine Program and Dinner.

(From Gagetown Correspondent.)

About 100 former pupils, teachers and residents with their friends attended the fourth annual school reunion held Saturday at the Bingham school. The crowd began to gather early in the morning and greetings were exchanged. At noon, tables were spread under the beautiful maple trees and all did ample justice to the pot luck self-serve dinner.

Mrs. E. A. Livingston presided at a business meeting. The following officers were elected: Mrs. E. A. Livingston, president; Mrs. Chas. Randall, vice president; Miss Mary Wald, secretary; Chas. Seekings, treasurer; Mrs. Nellie Bradley, program committee.

Mrs. Kate Roblin, chairman of program committee, took charge following the business session. Harry Gordon, a former pupil, now of Holly, Mich., gave the first talk which was intermingled with poetry, humor, and wit. Nearly all his schoolmates' names were mentioned either in a joke told of them, an incident connected with school days, or otherwise. Mrs. C. P. Hunter gave a reading and Iva Butler, a recitation. Miss Birdell Sprague, now principal in Jackson school, gave a few remarks regarding her early school days which began in this school. Mr. Woolman, the first teacher and who has always attended this reunion, compared education in his early years and now. Mrs. Frank Burgess gave a vocal solo and Mrs. Henry Paul reviewed her early school years. Wm. Miller of Detroit greeted old schoolmates, this being his first return, and in his interesting talk, he spoke of possibilities which grew out of such gatherings and that men and women who had received their early training in just such rural schools as this were equal and qualified to combat with men and women who had received their training in the very best schools. The Melvin O'Dell family furnished music throughout the program.

Meet at East Lansing for Thirteenth Annual Championship Contests.

There are at least 600 Michigan boys and girls who are not going to let any superstitions interfere with their efforts to attend the thirteenth annual boys and girls club week held at East Lansing, July 6 to 10, for the purpose of choosing sectional champions to represent their section of the State in the contests held at the Michigan State Fair next fall.

From the 600 who come to Michigan State College, teams to judge sheep, cattle, hogs, poultry, and crops will be chosen; and the girls will furnish champions in the making of clothing, in canning fruits and vegetables, and in other household arts. The healthiest boy and girl also will be selected.

The champions from the East Lansing camp compete against those to be chosen at Gaylord Aug. 10 to 14 and at Chatham Aug. 3 to 8. Teams from the three sections meet at the State Fair in Detroit in a series of contests to determine who shall be Michigan's representatives at the National Boys' and Girls' Congress held in Chicago late in November.

State and local bodies aid in bearing the expense of selecting the State champions and of sending them to Detroit and Chicago. Those making the Chicago trip are the survivors from competitions which involve more than 25,000 boys and girls enrolled in the clubs of the State.

To keep the youngsters from becoming disgusted with too many tasks the East Lansing camp program offers them a variety of games and other entertainment.

MISS GILLIES, BRIDE OF ARCHIE McLACHLAN

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gillies, Greenleaf, was the setting for a pretty wedding at twelve o'clock Saturday, June 27, when their only daughter, Miss Beatrice Jane Gillies, was united in marriage to Mr. Archie McLachlan, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus McLachlan of Grant township.

Rev. H. F. Roberts, pastor of the Frazier Presbyterian church of Greenleaf, read the wedding service. The altar, where the nuptial vows were spoken, was banked with a profusion of roses and peonies in tall floor baskets against a background of orange blossoms.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of egg shell satin. Rose pointed lace veiled the cap from which her tulle veil extended in soft folds. She carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Miss Dorothy Tindale, bridesmaid, wore a flowered chiffon dress and carried roses and sweet peas. Fred McEachern served as best man. The wedding march, "Bridal Chorus," by Lohengrin, was played by Miss Eleanor McCallum.

Following the ceremony, a wedding luncheon was served after which Mr. and Mrs. McLachlan left on a motor trip through the east, visiting Watkins' Glen, New York City, Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., and other points of interest.

While most everybody was suffering from the intense heat here the first of the week, there was at least one place in Cass City where the temperature was from 10 to 20 degrees below zero.

An ammonia ice machine installed in the hardening room of the Parrott ice cream factory makes it possible to maintain this low temperature. The room is large enough to hold 2,000 gallons of ice cream.

NO RESIDENT FISHERMAN'S LICENSE EXCEPT FOR TROUT

Residents of Michigan are not required to have a license to take any species of fish in season, except Brook, Brown and Rainbow trout. Recent legislative discussion concerning a general rod license led many people to the impression that Michigan now has such a license. The bill was not adopted and regulations so far as needs for fishing licenses are concerned remain as they have in the past.

The Fish Division of the Conservation Department has been receiving scores of inquiries as to whether a license is necessary to fish for other species than trout.

SUNSHINE SCHOOL TO RECEIVE STANDARD PLATE

Mrs. Pearl Dossier is director, Urvan Cross is moderator and Mrs. Gertie McCree, treasurer of the district.

SEED HOME SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Sunday afternoon, June 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Seed in Elkland township when their daughter, Alethea Catherine, became the bride of Walter Kilpatrick of Pontiac.

Peonies and roses formed a beautiful setting for the ring ceremony which was performed by Rev. T. S. Bottrell, pastor of the Cass City Methodist church, in the presence of the immediate family. They were attended by Donald Seed, brother of the bride, and Miss Betty Phillips of Pontiac.

A dainty luncheon was served at the close of the ceremony.

NO WONDER GAS STATIONS ARE NUMEROUS

How much gasoline did your automobile use in 1930? If you are an average Michigan driver, you purchased 501 gallons during the year, according to figures of the department of state.

In computing this figure, however, no allowance was made for excessive consumption by buses and trucks, so that in all probability, the pleasure car driven did not use quite the average number of gallons.

Statistics show that Michigan ranked fifth in the United States in amount of gasoline consumed. To supply the state's needs for one month, 100 trains of 75 tank cars each, are needed.

PUPILS HELP KEEP DOWN FOREST FIRES

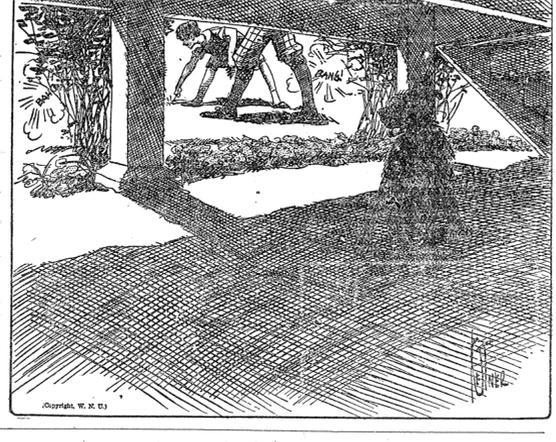

The school children of Michigan are playing an important part in keeping down the number of forest fires, and more and more prevention education will be directed to them, according to the Forest Fire Division of the Department of Conservation.

Within recent years many schools, especially those in the northern part of the state, have taught pupils the ways and means of preventing fires. This sort of teaching should be extended to schools in the southern part of the state as well, it was said.

The Division realizes that prevention methods should not be taught only to those living in the districts where forest fires occur frequently. People in these areas realize the real seriousness of fire and know how to prevent them. It is to those living away from the fire area and who go north during the summer, that prevention methods should be taught.

Early in the spring the school commissioner of one northern county ordered that short essays on forest fire prevention be read once each morning for a week to the pupils of every grade in every school in the county. Such a program extended to every school in the state should result

"Resolved further, that the clerk draw warrants upon the special court house building fund in payment of such service stipulated therein upon orders from the said building committee.

"Resolved further, that the said committee at such time and places as they may decide advertise for bids upon plans and specifications prepared by said architect and at such times as said committee shall determine that plans, specifications and bids are suitable and proper that a meeting of the board of supervisors be called to consider and if advisable to approve.

"Resolved further, that said special building committee may in its discretion call into conference at such meeting any supervisor whose opinion or advice may be desired."

The report of the county officers' salaries committee was accepted and adopted. The report provided that the prosecuting attorney shall not receive an allowance for stenographer hire and that the phrase "necessary expense" as used by the committee in their report dated Oct. 30, 1930, pertaining to the prosecuting attorney be defined to mean expense incurred outside of Tuscola county, that is, railroad fare, meals and lodging. The expense account is subject to the approval of the supervisors. The county school commissioner's salary was fixed at $2,500 annually, with a mileage allowance of seven cents a mile and actual expenses in the discharge of his duties. All expenses are to be fully itemized. Twelve hundred dollars are allowed for clerical help.

The board of supervisors, in an endeavor to secure state aid for School District No. 1, Indianfields, has sent the following letter to Dr. W. A. Crooks, superintendent of the Michigan Farm Colony at Wahjamega:

"We have given consideration to the school tax problem in School District No. 1, Indianfields, in which district the Michigan Farm Colony is located. Since the Michigan Farm Colony is non-assessable and the remainder of District No. 1, Indianfields, has a valuation of less than $27,000, the school tax rate has become excessive and burdensome. It is now very evident that the district cannot long carry the school load unless additional aid is granted by the state. We, the supervisors of Tuscola county, hereby solicit your co-operation in this matter which is of vital interest to the taxpayers of that district."

WALMSLEY-CLARK.

Miss Martha Walmsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walmsley of Cass City, and Mr. Floyd M. Clark of Pontiac were united in marriage on June 22 at Pontiac. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. H. Savage, pastor of the First Baptist church in that city.

Articles made by the pupils were on display and were much admired. On Saturday, a picnic was enjoyed in the woods on the farm of Miss Florence Smith near Gagetown.

Meade township will hold a special election on July 8th, for the purpose of raising money by an additional district tax to take care of a deficit said to approximate $4,000 mostly in the school funds of the township. The township, it is said, owes the Pinnebog schools $1,700 and the board of education there threatened to sue for their money. In the case of a suit it is likely that the court would order the deficit spread upon the tax rolls and for this reason it was decided to petition for the special election. Most of the signers to the petition, it is claimed, were from Pinnebog. The township board met Monday night and decided to hold the election.

John Geiger, 63, resident of Pigeon for over 20 years, died suddenly of angina pectoris. Mr. Geiger, who was employed by the Huron county road commission, was on his way with the repair crew to work at Sebawaing and passed away suddenly about three and one-half miles west of Pigeon.

COOL OFF!

Can you remember when the snowbanks were three to five feet high on West Main Street and the fellows in the McGregory Block, Tyo's Barber Shop and west to the Opera House corner had to take several hours to shovel off the sidewalks? You hoped for warmer weather then. Well, you are having that wish fulfilled this week.

MOUSSE WITH CANNED PEACHES WELL LIKED

Mousse With Canned Peaches for Dessert.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service. Peaches and cream in combination become a dessert de luxe when the cream is frozen. A mousse, or ice cream frozen without stirring, is especially good for the purpose since mousses require somewhat heavier and richer cream than ordinary ice cream, made by churning in a freezer with a dasher. Peach melba is the dessert made by putting the ice cream into large halves of canned peaches, and it is a very pretty and attractive dish, but sometimes a little unmanageable on the plate. For that reason you may prefer to slice the peaches into convenient sections and serve them, with a little of the juice they were canned in, as a sauce or garnish. Vanilla is the most satisfactory flavor for mousses that is served with a fruit sauce, unless some of the fruit pulp is mixed with the cream and frozen also. To make plain vanilla mousse, frozen either in a refrigerator with a mechanical unit or by packing in ice and salt, the following recipe from the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture may be used:

1 cup double cream. 6 lbs. sugar. 1 cup rich milk or 2 egg whites. 1 cup sugar. 1-16 tsp. salt. 1 tsp. gelatin. 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Soak the gelatin until soft in a little of the milk or thin cream. Heat the remainder, and pour over the gelatin. Add the sugar and stir until dissolved, and put the mixture aside to chill. Whip the double cream. When the mixture containing the gelatin has thickened slightly, beat it to incorporate air. Add the vanilla, and fold in the whipped cream and the well-beaten egg whites. The egg white improves richness, increase volume and improve texture. These proportions will make over four cupsfuls before freezing; or, if the egg whites are not used about three cupsfuls.

DINING CENTERS IN BIG KITCHEN

Convenient Spot for Family Eating Place.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service. In the country, large kitchens are more or less necessary, because at certain seasons food must be prepared in considerable quantity to provide for the extra helpers in the farm work. Frequently it proves practical and convenient to use the kitchen as a family eating place, rather than to carry food and dishes some distance to the dining room. The kitchen range makes the room very comfortable and it is not necessary to increase the heat elsewhere in the house, if much of the family activity goes on in the roomy kitchen. However, from the homemaker's point of view, the main consideration, in having family meals in the kitchen, is the step-saving feature. The old-fashioned way was to put a large table right in the middle of the room. This was apt to make more work than it saved, for the housewife had to walk around it constantly in getting meals and doing other tasks. It always seemed to be laden with odds and ends about the time it was wanted for the next meal. A much better plan, when a large kitchen does double duty, is to group the dining table and chairs at one side of the room, and bring the work centers close together on the other sides. Placing the dining table to one side does away to some extent with the temptation to use it as an extra kitchen table.

The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture has made a study of convenience in the kitchen, and emphasized the need of grouping work centers to route the tasks in logical order. Preparation of raw foods, cooking, serving, and clearing away and dishwashing, are the four activities that follow each other every day, and several times a day, in most kitchens. Compact centers for these jobs should therefore follow the same order around the room from left to right, for the right-handed worker. The centers for serving and clearing away and dishwashing should be nearest the dining room and close together. In this case they will be nearest the dining center. A glimpse of the sink on one side of the picture shows that this plan has been met in a satisfactory way in the farm kitchen that was photographed. The large closet is near both the sink and the table for putting dishes away or for setting the table.

Fresh Cheese

If you cut cheese in long strips and put in a glass jar, screwing the lid on tight, it will keep fresh till the last bit is used. It can be kept in the ice box in this way without harming other food.

GILBERT WAS NOT A FAILURE

By FANNIE HURST

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) (WNU Service.)

GILBERT was at least twenty-six before he first began to realize that some of the mountain tops toward which he had directed his footsteps were not going to be so accessible as he had dreamed. Gilbert had come from an achieving family. His father, up to the week of his death, had been one of the most important barristers in town. His mother had practiced law in a highly successful way up to the last year of her life. His brother, at thirty, was already a surgeon of more than local importance. His sister, a college graduate herself, had married one of the outstanding bio-chemists of the world. So it was by background, environment, example and possibly inheritance that Gilbert, even before he was finished with college, should turn his footsteps resolutely toward accomplishment.

It is true that the subject of law had never particularly interested him. He had not a systematic mind. The conception of ideas interested him more than their execution, and if he had any preference at all, it was for a large part of the day before a good fire, or a sun-kissed meadow, and reading.

But a man cannot foster such inclinations if he hopes to get ahead in this world. Gilbert knew that. Unless you had a marked talent of one sort or another, the safest road to achievement lay along lines of one of the substantial, remunerative professions. Medicine. Law.

With his slender talent for writing, the best he could probably hope for would be a journalistic or editorial career.

And so it was that Gilbert turned to law. It was not that he did not bring a fairly average equipment to this work. He had a good mind, even an unusual endowment of intelligence, and every law office of the city was open to the son of his father.

The secret of his failure to progress, along about the time he was twenty-six, was a subtle yet a fundamental one. L. S. heart was not in his work. Intellectually, he wanted to be a successful lawyer. Emotionally, he yearned for the blue days at Capri, where he had been taken as a young boy on his first trip abroad. He yearned for the sweet indolence of that kind of life, with perhaps a pad and pencil at his beck and call, so that he could write as a dilettante writes, from impulse rather than ambition or necessity.

The instinct to struggle was not in Gilbert, and yet, surrounded as he was by the examples of successful people, he had not the courage to let go. And so for four years after these first realizations began to dawn disquietingly upon him, he struggled ahead at a profession that was unfavorable to him. It was impossible to plead a case with fervor about which you felt so dispassionately.

The claims of one set of human beings against another could not, did not, interest him. The cunning, devious, shrewd phraseology of the contract, so fascinating to some types of mind, elicited no real interest from Gilbert. The ramifications of the law, its interpretations and its practice, aroused in him nothing more than a weariness for the rather purposeless struggles of mankind against mankind.

At thirty, on an impulse he was never thoroughly able to comprehend—nor the amount of courage that went with it—Gilbert resigned his position as junior partner in a well-known law firm, left superficial explanatory notes to a few of the members of his family and his friends, drew out a saving account of some several hundred dollars and took a ship going Mediterranean way.

That was the beginning of fifteen years of wandering over the hoary face of the hoary earth. Lingered, when necessary, in one city, in one port, in one village or another, long enough to lay up, by simple manual labor, sufficient money to sustain him for a brief period of the future. Those of his friends who happened to encounter him in their travels, described him sadly as a pale, dragged fellow wandering aimlessly across the face of the earth.

In a way, that was how Gilbert regarded himself. While the new life was far, far preferable to the old, and not a regret lurked in his heart, at the same time there was also a futility, an aimlessness, a seeking after he knew not what. Gray began to come out in his hair and a stoop was upon his back. Even the variety of new scenes, new faces, began to pall. The second era of his discontent was upon him.

It was not that the fifteen years following his decision had been unhappy ones. On the contrary, they had been rich, fruitful, yielding and adventurous. The university of the universe had been Gilbert's. Figuratively and literally speaking, he had kept lean, whetted with an appetite for life, for wisdom, for experience, for love. And yet sometimes it seemed to Gilbert, as he entered a new port, as he steamed out of another, as spiced and foreign wines slid against his palate, as the sweet, mocking eyes of exotic women beckoned him, as he lived and learned and suffered, that after all he was getting nowhere.

And that, for one who has made the kind of momentous decision that Gilbert had fifteen years before, is a disheartening realization. He had sacrificed everything. Well and good, but only if the sacrifice had been justified.

Whither? was the question that began to engrave itself acidly into the heart and mind and the consciousness of the wanderer. Freedom and what to do with it? Leisure and where to spend it? The world his playground and where to play?

He was always coming, he was always going. Maidens smiled at him out of their casements. They had homes. They belonged there. They were rooted to some soil. Everybody, it seemed to Gilbert, was rooted to some soil and even though the men with whom he came in contact in the cities and along the countryside—family men with responsibilities—listened with wistful eyes as Gilbert recited his adventures, they were secure men, surrounded with the intangible aura of belonging.

It began to dawn upon Gilbert that he belonged nowhere and yet that was not what was bothering him. He would not, had he been able to manipulate backwards the magic time-carpet, have returned to the life he had so deplorably discarded back in his youth days. If certain dissatisfactions, nostalgias were upon him, they were not those of regret.

He was sick with quest. Neither must you think that in all these years Gilbert had been without the pastimes, the amours, the gratifications that have to do with women. He had crossed the paths of many and they had left their memories upon him. Yet, at forty-five, Gilbert, failure, was still seeking.

It was in Naples, of all places, when Gilbert was forty-eight, that he ran across, in the open market place, a girl named Chita. She was selling lemons out of a big beautiful basket and she had driven in that morning with them piled on a donkey cart, from the incomparable hills of Amalfi. She was beautiful in a brown, Italian way, no strapping of a girl, but with a blown maturity to her. Rich, rather dusky skin and white teeth that flashed against it.

Gilbert, who spoke many patois of Italian, drove back in the hills of Amalfi with her in the donkey cart. She lived in a white adobe house with an ancient grandmother and their worldly possessions consisted of seven lemon trees, an orange tree, a goat and a silk quilt. The view from the adobe house was the incredible Bay of Naples, Mount Vesuvius, turquoise blue of sky and water.

Gilbert and Chita were married in the small church in the center of the square of the nearest village. She wore orange blossoms from her own tree and the little ceremony was attended with all the pageantry of these peasant people of the hills.

Gilbert had built a wing to the adobe house, which he calls his study. Most of his mornings he writes in there, his view the sail-specked, blue-decked Italian bay. Afternoons, he helps Chita in the orchard and, before supper, he milks their goat.

His book is half finished and he has increased the fruit trees around the house until they number twenty. The old crone of a grandmother blesses him each day. Chita is as full-time as summer. She is with child.

Gilbert knows well in what light his life will be regarded by the world he has deserted.

In his own eyes, he is no longer a failure.

Mirror Superstition
A woman is apt to be made miserable because she breaks a looking glass. She believes she will have deaths in the family, and other bad luck, for seven years. This belief is one of many popular superstitions which are not supported by scientific or other trustworthy investigation, but are truth to those who believe them. The question of the effect of this belief on the health and outlook of the believer has been the subject of much investigation, but the general answer seems to be that some persons give no second thought to their fortune when they break a mirror, and seem to suffer no ill consequences.

"Science" and "Art"
According to Jevons, a science teaches us to know and an art to do. Astronomy, for instance, is the foundation of the art of navigation; chemistry is the basis of many useful arts. The arts are distinguished as fine arts and useful arts, the former including painting, sculpturing, music, poetry and architecture, the latter (useful arts) including the trades. The sciences have been variously classified. The principal ones are physics, chemistry, astronomy, meteorology, mathematics, geography, geology, ethnology, anthropology, archeology, biology and medicine.

Maine First to Can Corn
Maine generally has been acknowledged as the early home of corn packing in this country, and its claim has been a just one, says an article in a Portland (Maine) paper. About 1839 Isaac Winslow began his experiments in canning corn near Portland, but it was not until 1862 that a patent was issued and then it was to John Winslow Jones, Isaac's nephew. The first recorded sale of canned corn was from Nathan Winslow to Samuel S. Pierce of Boston. The invoice was dated February 19, 1843, and was for one dozen canisters of preserved corn at $4.

Delaware's Nickname

Delaware is known as the Blue Hen state from the notoriety that one of her native sons, Captain Caldwell, acquired in the Revolutionary war for his love of cockfighting, and also his well-drilled men known in the army as the "Gamecocks." His idea was that a blue hen produces the best cocks.

PLAIN CURTAINS ARE FOUND BEST

Successful in Treating Figure Papered Room.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service. The choice of curtains for any room is determined by its use, the character of the wall, and the other furnishings. If the wall paper is figured there is already much color and design in the room. To add more pattern, usually of a different kind in the window hangings would produce confusion and restlessness. However, an interesting contrast may be secured, according to the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture by using plain curtains when the wall paper is figured. They may repeat the background color of the paper or one of the dominant hues in the design.

The illustration shows a successful window treatment for a room of this kind. The ceiling is rather low and the divisions in the wall space tend to make the window seem shorter than it really is. For this reason simple curtains were selected and made to

TWO SENTENCED TO 90 DAYS IN CO. JAIL

Alfred Rately, 20, of Detroit, and Chas. Lachrone, 20, of Watrousville pleaded guilty in Justice Wm. Imeron's court Monday to charges of unauthorized tampering and dismantling an automobile. They were sentenced each to pay a fine of $100 or 90 days in jail. They chose the jail sentence. The automobile had been stolen June 11 from Edward Doyle of St. Clair Shores and driven to a swamp south of Wahjamega, where the two boys had made a good start in wrecking it. They denied stealing the car.

Visible Ear Has Little to Do With Hearing

Hearing sounds is the result of the movement of a small bone which is connected with a diaphragm in a similar fashion to the construction of a reed loud-speaker. The visible ear has little to do nowadays with the collection of sound, for the power of twitching it into different positions has been lost by disuse.

Just as the whole body is sensitive to light, so can bones of the head receive sound. This is one reason why some people who are deaf can hear when wireless headphones are used.

Normal ears are sensitive only over a certain definite range of air vibrations. We do not greatly appreciate a note of less than ten per second or of more than 10,000 per second. Most loud speakers work only up to approximately 4,000 per second, yet this is sufficient to interpret music quite well.

Children and dogs can hear higher notes than adults. If a whistle is gradually softened until the note becomes so high as to be inaudible, it will still call a dog effectively.

Noise exhausts physical energy, and if boiler-makers become accustomed to clatter, the ear becomes so insensitive that they often hear better in noise than in comparative silence.

Hair's Growth After Death

Certain claims have been made that in rare cases hair has been proved to have grown after death. The United States public health service has stated there are no authentic records of such cases. The widespread belief in this growing is held to be caused by the shrinking of the skin toward the roots of the hairs, giving an appearance of hair growth. The same may be said with regard to growth of nails.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Use silk thread for basting velvet.

"As ye sew ye may rip" unless each step of garment making is planned in advance.

In washing silk stockings do not wring them to remove the water; squeeze them and pat them between towels.

A whisk broom is a good clothes sprinkler; it gives a fine spray, sprinkles evenly, and is quicker than hand sprinkling.

A piece of waxed paper folded over the sharp edge of a knife before butter is cut, will keep the butter from sticking to the blade.

A wire spoon-shaped whisk, or egg beater, is excellent for folding beaten egg whites into a cake mixture or for smoothing thin batters.

The best playthings for children of all ages are those which provide materials for interesting occupations, such as buildings, sweeping, or snow shoveling.

Thorough rinsing is as important as thorough washing for successful laundering. Soap or soda left in clothes yellows them and increases their tendency to scorch when ironed.

CENTRALIZING HOME SEWING SAVES STEPS

Both Large and Small Equipment Centralized for Sewing Where There is Good Light.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service. While we usually think of sewing as one of the jobs we sit down for, it is quite possible to walk about the house considerably in making very simple garments. For example, are you in the habit of doing your cutting on the dining-room table, because it is large enough? Then, undoubtedly, before you can set to work sewing, you must walk to your bedroom or some other room that provides the good light you require, a low, comfortable chair, and a place for your work basket. After the preliminary, basting or pinning, you are to stitch the seams on the sewing machine, which may be in another room. Stitching is generally followed by pressing. Does this mean going to the kitchen or even the laundry to use the ironing board and iron? And where do you keep your "findings" and finishing supplies? Buttons, snaps, bias binding, tape, etc., as well as your tape measure, skirt gauge, scissors, needles, pins, piece boxes, or patterns? Where is your dress form, if you have one, or your full-length mirror?

A state home management specialist in extension work for women asked several sewing club members in one community to make a simple apron, and measure the distance walked while they did so. One woman reported that she walked 534 feet and had to go into five rooms just to make that one simple garment. Another woman walked 524 feet and entered seven rooms.

Clothing specialists in the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture point out that a few well-considered changes in most instances would have saved many of these unnecessary steps and also cut down the time for making the aprons or any other garments. If sewing is to be done pleasantly and efficiently, sewing equipment and tools should be grouped near each other. Of course, in many homes a whole room cannot be given up to sewing, although this is very satisfactory when it is possible. With thoughtful planning a corner can often be found where all the chief tools for sewing can be kept together.

Some women do most of their sewing after the hard work of the day is over. They are tired, and if the sewing equipment is not convenient their fatigue is increased until sewing seems a most irritating task. Other women have to "get the sewing in" as best they can throughout the day. For these it is particularly necessary that there should be no lost motion hunting for accessories or repeating work that has been disarranged by much moving about.

Delicious Hot Sauce Is Good on Various Puddings

Here's delicious hot pudding sauce which your grandmother, doubtless, knew how to make. She would have used it for cottage pudding, plum pudding, and other hot cooked desserts for which its flavors are suited. The ingredients are given by the bureau of home economics.

1/4 cup butter. 1/2 tsp. salt. 1/2 cup granulated 2 eggs. sugar. 1/2 tsp. vanilla. 2 tbs. boiling water. 1 tbs. lemon juice.

Cream the butter, and add the sugar, salt, boiling water, and the well-beaten egg yolks. Cook over steam and stir constantly until thickened. Fold into this the well-beaten egg whites and the vanilla and lemon juice. Serve at once.

When planning curtains, an allowance for shrinkage should always be made. An extra 2 inches may be added when cutting them, and after the curtains are hemmed an inconspicuous tuck may be basted to the wrong side just below the casing. It provides a practical means of having the curtains the proper length at all times, and can be quickly and easily ripped out before they are laundered.

OAK TREES ARE MOST SUSCEPTIBLE TO LIGHTNING

To seek shelter under an oak tree during a thunder storm is almost as dangerous as to search for gasoline with a lighted match. Of all trees, the oak is most susceptible to lightning. So says a bulletin issued by the Davey Institute of Tree Surgery, which has been studying the phenomena of lightning in relation to trees.

If you must get under a tree, says the Davey Institute, find a beech, for it is rarely ever the victim of lightning. The ratio of the oak to the beech in being struck by an electrical bolt is 60 to 1, according to observations made over a period of years.

The roots of a tree tap the electrical field of the ground. When a storm cloud is overhead the positive electricity in it is attracted by the negative electricity in the earth, and lightning follows.

Trees, such as oak, which have a large root area naturally have larger electrical fields than others. Oaks also have "tap" roots, which go far into the ground and bring up large quantities of water to the tree, which serves as another attraction for electrical bolts.

The best advice is to avoid trees altogether when lightning is at work, as it would be somewhat difficult for the layman to make a scientific selection in time of emergency. Better to keep in the open spaces, if no house is near, and get thoroughly wet than to suffer yourself as a target for lightning.

WHEAT EQUALS CORN IN FEEDING TRIALS

Michigan wheat growers can derive some consolation, in this year of low prices for that grain, from the results of the feeding trials at Michigan State College which show that wheat is equal to corn as feed for fattening hogs and that the costs of gains made with wheat are no greater than with corn.

The lots of hogs which were fed wheat ate less tankage than those fed corn, and both lots gained equally rapidly. The wheat was ground and mixture of 70 per cent tankage and both rations were fed in self-feeders. Each lot of hogs received alfalfa meal, and a supplemental feed of either a mixture of 70 per cent tankage and 30 per cent linseed meal or a straight tankage supplement.

The reports on the hog feeding trials and the results of the experiments with sheep and baby heaves were explained to the 100 livestock feeders who attended Feeders' Day at Michigan State College. The beef cattle which were fed barley gained more rapidly and at a lower cost per hundred weight of gain than those fed corn.

Each lot of cattle received linseed meal, alfalfa hay, and corn silage in addition to the grain. The barley-fed lot gained 2.25 pounds per day, the corn-fed lots gained 2.17 pounds daily; the feed costs per hundred weight of gain for each grain were: barley, $7.07; corn, $7.43.

The feeding trials with sheep showed that native medium wool lambs gained more rapidly than western lambs and the gain was more economically. Feeding corn silage to the lambs increased the rate of gain and decreased feeding costs. Both barley and corn were superior to oats as a fattening ration. Corn and barley were nearly equal in value.

POULTRY FACTS

SWAT FLIES AND SAVE THE CHICK

Use of Traps and Destruction of Breeding Places Urged.

By G. T. KLEIN, Extension Poultryman, Kansas State Agricultural College.

Chickens may be of the opinion that flies are good to eat, but when the truth is known, flies are their worst enemies. For flies carry to them that most dreaded of chicken diseases—the tapeworm.

To prevent chicks from eating flies is not easy. Sour milk feeding during the summer months is one of the greatest hazards. If it is fed, the milk should not be too sour, and a small amount of milk fed at a time. The vessels should be washed once a day and kept clean and sanitary. Wet mash should be fed in very small quantities during hot weather. It should not be allowed to sour. Keeping the house clean and sanitary and dark much of the time makes it unattractive to flies.

The use of fly traps and the destruction of breeding places will help to reduce the trouble from tapeworms. Tapeworm remedies should be used on most flocks. A combination of kamala and nicotine sulphate is the best remedy to use, although it should not be used unless the birds are infested with worms and then the flocks should be wormed during the late summer or early fall.

Keeping Mash Sanitary Will Prevent Disease

Often small contrivances will do a great deal of good in helping to prevent the spread of disease. One of the most important is to put a revolving board or stick above open mash hoppers. This can be arranged so that if a bird hops upon it, it will turn around. This will prevent the chickens from getting into the hopper and thereby avoid much trouble from droppings.

Self-feeders are usually built with projecting roofs that answer the same purpose. If droppings are kept from the mash hoppers there will be less wasted feed and at the same time there will be less trouble from both disease and parasites.

Desirable Weights for Many Chicken Breeds

Leghorn cockerels should weigh one pound at six to seven weeks, one and a half pounds at nine weeks, and close to two pounds at twelve weeks. Pullets should weigh two pounds at fifteen weeks, and three and one-third pounds at twenty-four weeks.

Heavy breeds such as Rocks, Rhode Islands, Wyandottes and Orpingtons should weigh one pound each at seven weeks, a pound and a half at nine weeks, and over two pounds at twelve weeks. Pullets should average two and a half pounds at fifteen weeks, and over four pounds at twenty-four weeks.

These figures were obtained after many experiments at the New Jersey state college of agriculture.

Poultry Hints

Clean, dry litter in the hen house adds greatly to the hen's comfort.

Chickens are kept on about 90 per cent of the farms of the United States.

A pullet that eats two bites while her sister is eating one is worth just twice as much.

If the cleanings from the poultry house are left where the chicks can scratch in them the droppings from one diseased chick may cause the death of dozens of others.

A good ration for geese would be equal parts of yellow corn meal, wheat bran, wheat middlings, ground oats to which add 15 per cent of meat scraps, one-half per cent of fine table salt.

Get new blood of a high-producing flock every year. See that they are not related.

Duck eggs are incubated at the same temperature as chickens, rather lower than higher if anything. The difference is that they require more moisture.

There is a difference of opinion in regard to rape pasture for hens. It is generally agreed that it darkens the egg yolk. Rape pasture is usually intended for young stock only.

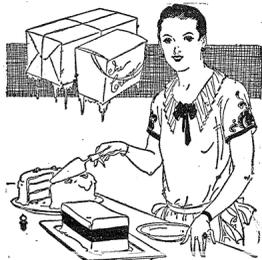

Duck eggs are generally hatched in machines that have moisture carrying trays. Some go so far as to sprinkle them daily.

Poultry flocks are culled in the summer to remove the slacker hens, and in the fall to select the best individuals as future breeders.

Do not forget the old saying, "A stitch in time saves nine." If you are losing an abnormal number of pullets from disease or other causes, find out immediately what is the cause of it.

DEATH DIARY BARES HINDU GANG SECRETS

Found in Effects of Slain University Student.

San Francisco.—Like a roving spirit of the mystic East, whence he came, Sant Ram Pande, slain University of California student, has returned from the dead to point the finger of accusation at his murderers.

He came back in the text of a little red book of handy pocket size, a diary, in which he kept a minute record of his last month of life.

Found by accident among soiled laundry and personal effects he left with a friend the night before he vanished, the blood red book was hailed by Sheriff Charles J. McCoy of Yuba county as the possible solution to the university student's mysterious slaying.

May Solve Fourteen Murders.
And if it solves Pande's death it may go far toward unraveling the fourteen other murders of his countrymen that have baffled state, county, and city peace officers for months, Sheriff McCoy believes.

Beginning January 7, 1931, it contains a daily record of Pande's comings and goings and names some of those he feared. The name of Nukan Singh, held in jail in Sacramento for the student's murder, appears prominently, the sheriff said.

So highly do the authorities prize these last writings of the slain man, they refused to divulge details of its contents. It is being closely guarded, and will be until men named in it are captured, McCoy declared.

Relentless Pursuers.
That Pande was close on the heels of the Hindu murder ring, authorities are convinced. It was his relentless pursuit of the slayers that prompted them to kidnap him and throw his headless body into Cache slough, near Rio Vista, chained to a tractor wheel, according to Clarence S. Morrill, chief of the state bureau of criminal identification.

Coincident with the finding of the diary, McCoy also learned of a plot to kidnap Delip Singh, president of the East India corporation. Shortly after one o'clock in the morning, recently, a Hindu attempted to lure Delip Singh from his cabin on the pretext of needing help to get his stalled automobile started. Delip refused to go. McCoy said investigation indicated the unknown Hindu was trying to coax him into a trap.

"I am unable to furnish Dr. George Somerville's address. His mother lives here on Ferris Ave. but I do not know their house number."
"I wish you all a fine day and a good time."

"You will please observe the following rules governing the passing of the cane to the winner who must qualify as eligible by the following rules:

"I trust this little remembrance will meet with your approval and that the winner will enjoy the necessary good health to attend many more home-comings at Holbrook."

CHICKEN CHOP SUEY CAN BE MADE AT HOME

Chicken Chop Suey Is Quite Delicious.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service.

Perhaps you have always thought of chop suey as a dish that is too unusual and foreign to prepare at home.

As a matter of fact, chop suey is unknown in China; it originated in Chinatown in San Francisco, in an attempt to give visitors something out of the ordinary.

Why not invite your friends or family to try a Chinese supper some evening? If you have any Chinese accessories or decorations, so much the better.

At least, you can make chicken chop suey and rice the main attraction, with preserved ginger for dessert.

The Chinese do not use bread and butter, because they have the rice, but you may serve it if your family prefers. The vegetables on which we depend for vitamins are incorporated in the chop suey-onions and celery.

The recipe below is from the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

1 fowl, weighing 3 to 4 lbs. 2 cups sliced Brazil nuts or Jerusalem artichokes.

Put the fowl on a rack in a kettle, half fill with boiling water, cover tightly, and simmer until the meat is nearly tender.

Remove the meat from the bones, discard the skin, and cut the meat into small pieces. Cook the green pepper and onion in fat in a heavy skillet for three or four minutes, turning them frequently.

Put the fowl on a rack in a kettle, half fill with boiling water, cover tightly, and simmer until the meat is nearly tender.

Remove the meat from the bones, discard the skin, and cut the meat into small pieces.

TO RUSH WORK ON FEDERAL BUILDINGS

Jobs Costing $330,000,000 to Be Accelerated

New York.—To expedite building projects of the federal government and thus help to relieve unemployment, the Treasury department has recently placed construction work totaling $130,000,000 in the hands of private architects throughout the country.

The magazine, which began a campaign to stimulate employment and building by accelerating these federal projects, publishes the assurance of Secretary Heath that part of the government's construction program will utilize private architects.

"The department will continue to employ outside architects in connection with the larger projects wherever it is evident that the public building program will be expedited by so doing," says Mr. Heath's statement.

"Projects for which the limits of cost are fixed at less than $150,000 are of such a size and character that plans for certain buildings already constructed can be adopted to such projects, thereby saving much time in the preparation of drawings and specifications.

Plan Monument to Mark Famous Comstock Lode

Virginia City, Nev.—A national monument may be established on the Comstock lode, that old-time producer which brought $7,000,000 of new wealth in silver into the world, according to word received here from Senator Tasker L. Oddie.

The Comstock lode practically financed the Civil war with its great underground wealth pouring into the lap of the Union at a time when it was sorely needed by the nation.

Virginia City was once the largest city between Chicago and San Francisco. In 1864 it had a population of 30,000 and made possible Nevada's admission to the Union, while the camp now has but 558 souls.

"Didn't Crimmon Gulch take up the idea, just for novelty, of offering a prize for the toughest-looking man?" "Yes," answered Cactus Joe.

The enterprise fell through. There wasn't anybody who would have had nerve enough to face men who were maybe jest lookin' for trouble and formally announce to one of them that he had won the prize.—Washington Star.

Planning Ahead

Father had his little daughter on his knee. "What are you going to do when you grow up?" he asked her.

"I'm going to marry an engineer," replied the child.

"And what kind?" he asked. "A civil engineer?" "Oh," replied the little girl, "it doesn't matter what kind. I'll soon make him civil."

Colonial Lines Followed in This Thoroughly Modern Six-Room Home

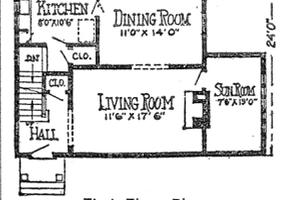

By W. A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper.

On the basis of exterior appearance, this two-story gable house would be described as a colonial, and it is evident that, thus far at least, the designer followed the example of our early New England ancestors.

The form is simply rectangular with a similar addition at one end providing for the sun room demanded by present-day standards and with a small lean-to addition at the rear sheltering the service entrance.

The walls are treated with the conventional lap siding, laid with wide exposure and painted in a light color in true colonial style.

The entrance also adds its share to the colonial effect with its pleasing classic lines. The french doors which admit one to the sun room from outside are a de-

stucco satisfactory When Properly Mixed

Prior to very recent years stucco was generally compounded by unskilled labor and applied in a more or less haphazard manner.

In recent years, however, much research work has been carried on and much has been done by large manufacturers of building materials toward bettering the quality of stucco and toward determining the proper classes and kinds of underconstruction over which it should be applied.

It is erroneous to assume that a good stucco material can be compounded in a mortar box by throwing together cement, sand, lime and coloring matter, as is often done.

The ultimate answer, therefore, to the stucco question is the selection of a reputable material, the proper preparation of the underconstruction to receive the stucco and the application by mechanics who understand their business.

Corner Is Easy Part of Home to Decorate

Many home feel that a corner is a very difficult part of the room to make attractive.

In reality it is quite the easiest part of the room to decorate tastefully, because of the fact that there is a definite background provided; a background is of such necessity to set off the charms of lovely things that often a screen is used for lack of a wall.

The simplest arrangement for a corner is to place a round or an octagonal table there, and use with it a chair, either a Windsor, a coxwell or a comfortable wingback chair—at any rate a chair that one will love to read in.

On the table there will, of course, be a lamp and books and the little things that make a grouping really a living thing.

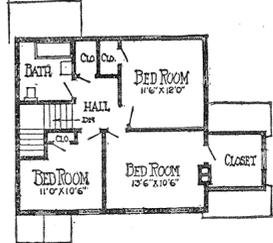

But there must be more than this. On the walls of this corner there should be pictures. Without these the corner will be dead and unfinished.

What kind of pictures, and what size pictures should be used there? In deciding, remember that the pyramid form is that toward which the artistic furnisher always works.

In creating a grouping of furniture we strive toward the creation of a triangular area. Therefore, the pictures for this grouping must be smaller in width than the top of the table parture which in no way detracts from the harmony of the whole. It should be noted, too, that the style has been well preserved in the design of the garage, which may be seen at the rear, a wise measure in producing a really satisfactory residence.

But the moment that one steps inside this home, the colonial impression is lost, for there is no central hallway, that very essential feature of the true colonial design. However, the arrangement is one which will appeal and the prospective home owner need not feel that anything has been sacrificed by this departure.

This living room occupies the entire front of the house with the exception of the space required at one corner for the entrance and stair hall.

At the rear are the dining room and kitchen, while above stairs will be found three large bedrooms, all provided with closets and one with an enormous closet, which should delight the housewife who is ever in need of storage space.

over which they are used. They must not be too small, indeed, but just large enough—and this is a very important matter.

On the left-hand wall of this corner let us place a picture about 14 inches high and 18 inches wide. This will hang so that as one standing in the room looks at it, the center of the picture will be just about at the level of the eye.

Immediately below this will be placed a smaller picture, about 7 by 9 inches in size. These two pictures will quite well fill the wall and yet there will be plenty of light wall space all around them, as there should be.

On the right-hand wall space of this grouping we shall use a mirror for various reasons. If a picture were used there would perhaps be a feeling of overcrowdedness, or at least a feeling that too many pictures had been used.

Another reason for using a mirror is that the corner of the average room is naturally not particularly light and frequently needs something to brighten it up. More than anything else, a mirror will do this.

Therefore, we see two areas of color as we look at the corner—the brilliant orange and blue chintz lamp shade and its reflection in the mirror.

These color areas add immeasurably to the brilliancy of that part of the room. They attract attention to a corner that might otherwise have been flat and dull.

The mirror has been placed in such a position that it not only reflects part of the lamp, but also part of the picture on the opposite wall. This is as it should be, for the duty of a mirror is to multiply the color notes in a room, making it a more animated and inviting place.

Filler, Wax, Dye Give Protection to Floors

The newest floor of the newest house must be protected against the onslaughts of Bobbie's sturdily-shod and active feet. For like many another form of beauty, floors are quickly marred unless they are protected to withstand the tests to which every wear puts them.

To keep the fine color of such close-grain woods as pine, cypress, maple, birch or beech, the application of a paste wood filler in natural shade is applied. This fills the pores, gives a hard foundation, covers up defects and tones the wood to an even shade.

Finished with two coats of paste or liquid wax, these woods so treated make an enduring floor which will stand many a hard knock from kiddies' toys or Rover's claws.

For the colored effects which some find desirable, a coat of wood dye is applied, then lightly sanded. A finish of wax is, of course, used as a rule.

GOOD DOUGHNUTS ALWAYS POPULAR

Useful Where Simple Refreshments Are Served.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service.

Good tender doughnuts, freshly made, are useful for innumerable occasions where simple refreshments are called for. At church societies and other community gatherings something inexpensive but popular is usually served, and doughnuts, with a beverage of some sort, answer this need admirably.

When a chance caller comes during the late afternoon, doughnuts with coffee are much appreciated.

Tender Doughnuts, Freshly Made.

After the evening "four-some" at cards, doughnuts and a fruit drink are appropriate.

The United States Department of Agriculture gives the recipe below for doughnuts. The ingredients given make about 40.

Doughnuts. 1 cup milk. 5 tsp. baking powder. 4 1/2 cups sifted soft-wheat flour. 1 cup sugar. 2 tsp. fat. 2 tsp. salt. 2 eggs. 1/2 tsp. cinnamon. 1/2 tsp. nutmeg.

Place the fat in a warm place until it becomes soft, though not melted. Combine with the sugar. Stir in the beaten egg yolks, and add alternately the dry ingredients, which have been sifted together, and the milk. Add only a small quantity of liquid at the start.

After the flouring and fold in the well-beaten egg whites last. Roll out the dough about one-third inch thick without handling it any more than necessary. Cut out the doughnuts and fry in deep fat, hot enough (375 degrees Fahrenheit), to make a doughnut rise to the surface quickly and to brown each side in about one minute.

One of the secrets of success in making doughnuts is the use of a plain mixture such as the above. A rich dough tends to absorb too much fat in frying. The dough should be rolled smooth and not too thick, for a rough surface absorbs more fat, and a thick doughnut does not cook entirely through in the short frying period.

Pastry improves by chilling, so after the dough is mixed, wrap it in waxed paper and keep it in the refrigerator a few hours.

Mattresses will last longer and be more comfortable if they are turned frequently, sunned and cleaned with a brush or vacuum cleaner brush attachment.

To save time in doing the home laundry fold towels after the last rinsing, run through the wringer smoothly and hang straight to dry; they will not require ironing.

To Cream Butter To cream butter easily scald the bowl before using.

Hoover's Plan for War Debt Moratorium Not Wholly Liked by France—Aviators Fly Across Atlantic Ocean.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Walter E. Edge

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S plan for a one year moratorium on reparations and war debts probably will go through unless France blocks it. Hailed with cheers by most of the world, the proposition was received rather coldly and suspiciously by the French. Ambassador Walter E. Edge got busy with the government leaders in Paris and worked hard to gain their acceptance of the plan, but the best he could obtain from the cabinet was a note carrying modified approval. This, forwarded through him to Washington, lauded Mr. Hoover's initiative but insisted that Germany must continue payment of the "unconditional" annuities as provided under the Young plan, though France would waive the conditional payments for a year inasmuch as America will waive war debt payments for the same period. The unconditional annuities France is willing to turn back to Germany through the Bank of International Settlements if the money is needed.

Great Britain and Germany had already given the plan their full approval, and Mussolini sent word that Italy accepted it unequivocally. Belgium, which is as jealous of her reparations as France, was expected to follow the French lead.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon arrived in Paris and immediately began conversations at the Quai d'Orsay in the hope of reconciling the plans of Mr. Hoover and of the French cabinet.

The President early was assured of the support of the leaders of both parties and all factions in congress, and during the week he canvassed the entire membership of both houses in order to learn just what position they would take in the matter. The result was not made public but it was presumed he had assurances of far more than enough votes to put over whatever legislation will be necessary.

There is no pretence that Mr. Hoover's plan is wholly altruistic. It is designed to help bring to an end the existing depression by reviving trade and business and if it succeeds in this, the United States would be expected to reap its fair share of the benefits. That the mere putting forward of the proposition was at least temporarily beneficial was shown by the new buoyancy in the stock exchanges.

PROVIDED the proposed reparations and war debt moratorium really turns the business tide toward prosperity, it would be a profitable investment for the United States. Such is the opinion of Ogden L. Mills, under-secretary of the treasury. He asserted in Washington that the loss of about $250,000,000 which this country will not collect next year if the plan goes through would be more than made up in a short time if it brought about a return of better times.

Ogden L. Mills

"From indications thus far," Mr. Mills said, "it appears that the world at large looks upon the American proposal as a hopeful business factor. Stocks have risen in the big exchanges. With better business the tax receipts of the treasury will increase."

Mr. Mills declined to predict whether it will be necessary to recommend a tax increase to the next congress to supply revenues for operating the government during the next fiscal year. He pointed out, however, that a postponement of war debts payments would cut the treasury receipts during the next year by more than $250,000,000.

This year's deficit, on the basis of income tax returns, probably will not greatly exceed $50,000,000.

Up to the close of June 19, total expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts were $4,116,605,000, as compared with an estimated expenditure for the fiscal year of $4,335,000,000.

If business conditions improve treasury officials anticipate an immediate raise in the income tax and other receipts. Commerce department officials said that they were hopeful better financial conditions abroad would be reflected in American foreign commerce.

FIRST of this year's crop of American transatlantic flyers to hop off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland were Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in the single motored cabin plane Winnie Mae. Their destination was Berlin, and though they did not make the flight to the German capital without stop, they did succeed in getting safely across the ocean. They landed at the Sealand airdrome near Chester, England, after circling over the city of Bangor, Wales. Post was the pilot of the plane throughout the flight and Gatty acted as navigator. They were heard from only once on the way across, the liner Drottningholm picking up their radio call. Post and Gatty set out to make the circuit of the globe in ten days. They remained at Chester only long enough to refuel and eat lunch, and then flew to Berlin and thence onward toward Moscow.

Only a few hours after Post and Gatty hopped off, Otto Hillig and Holger Høiriis started from Harbor Grace in a big, heavily loaded Bellanca plane with the hope of making a nonstop flight to Copenhagen, Denmark. But they lost their way and landed at Krefeld, Germany.

Ruth Nichols, flying from New York on the first leg of her projected trip across the Atlantic, landed at St. John, N. B., and ran her plane into a rock near the airfield. She was painfully injured and the plane was so badly damaged that it was necessary to postpone her flight indefinitely.

James ("Jimmy") Doolittle, one of America's most daring and most expert flyers, had another narrow escape from death when his new speed plane started falling apart while he was traveling 250 miles an hour only 100 feet up, near St. Louis, Mo. He came down safely in a parachute and the plane was demolished.

NEW YORK'S latest death mystery—that of Starr Faithful, beautiful but erratic, whose body was found on the sands of Long Beach—is still unsolved and may remain so. The authorities had hoped the information brought back by Dr. G. Jameson Carr, ship's surgeon of the Cunard line, would reveal how the young woman came to her death. She had admittedly been infatuated with him and on his return from England he gave the grand jury two notes from her in which she told of planning to commit suicide. But Starr's stepfather, Stanley E. Faithful, took one look at them and declared they were forgeries. Handwriting experts were to be called on to settle this question.

Both letters were addressed to Doctor Carr in care of the medical department of the Cunard line at Liverpool. One, postmarked June 2, and written on stationery of a New York hotel, flatly declared Starr was going to end her "worthless, disorderly bore of an existence—before I ruin any one else's life as well." The second, written two days later from Mineola, was in flippant vein and reiterated her intention to commit suicide.

SIR HUBERT WILKINS and his weary crew managed to get the submarine Nautilus into the harbor of Cork, Ireland, after its stormy voyage across the Atlantic. The commander said that after the batteries were recharged he would proceed to England for other repairs, and that he hoped to reach the North pole, by the sub-ice route, in two months.

The mishaps and delay suffered by the Wilkins expedition led Dr. Hugo Eckener to abandon his plan for a meeting between the Graf Zeppelin and the Nautilus at the pole. The dirigible will make a six-day cruise into Arctic regions in July on a scientific mission.

DWIGHT DAVIS, governor general of the Philippines, has had enough of that difficult and thankless job and has notified the administration in Washington that he would like to quit as soon as President Hoover can conveniently fill the post. He says merely that he desires to take up again his residence in the United States.

The knowledge spreading through official circles that Mr. Davis has offered his resignation has already produced booms for two men as candidates for his position. They are Theodore Roosevelt, governor of Porto Rico, and Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy. The official expectation is that one of the two will get the post and at present Mr. Roosevelt appears to be in the lead.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK, head of the Chinese Nationalist government, has begun his great effort to exterminate the communists and bandits. He concentrated about 200,000 troops in Kiangsi province and held a war council in Nanchang at which the military operations were all planned. If these succeed, he believes it will put an end to resistance, both political and armed, to the Nanking government, for he minimizes the doings of the opposition in and about Canton.

General Chiang sailed from Nanking aboard a Chinese gunboat to lead the forces, leaving Finance Minister T. V. Soong in charge of political affairs during his absence, while General Chiang estimates, will be about two months.

WITH due formality President Hoover received William Duncan Herridge, the new minister from the Dominion of Canada. In accepting his official letters of credence Mr. Hoover declared that the establishment of direct diplomatic relations between the United States and Canada and served to strengthen international friendship. Mr. Herridge, who is only the second Canadian minister to the United States, referred to the maintenance of a legation in Washington as an aid to cordial relations.

PEACE between the Vatican and Italian Fascism, instead of being within sight, is as far away as ever, according to Pope Pius XI. The Holy Father, addressing 700 members of the congregation for propagation of the faith, declared in so many words that he and Premier Mussolini were at swords points and that it had been impossible even to start talking of agreements. He asserted that the church is being persecuted in Italy worse than in Mexico and Russia, and that 9,000 organizations of the Duce's followers have been given the task of persecuting him. However, he declared his faith in providence and said the bishops in Italy had informed him that there was increasing unrest in the country because of the "intolerable surveillance, odious espionage, secret reports and continuous menaces."

Mussolini in his latest note to the Vatican was rather conciliatory, but the Duce was firm in his attitude toward the Catholic Action societies. He left the fundamental issue which has always existed as to the respective rights of the church and state in educational matters exactly as it has always been.

MEXICO'S troubles with the Catholic church have been renewed by the action of the Vera Cruz state government in restricting the number of priests conducting services to one for every 100,000 inhabitants. Priests in Mexico are warning their congregations that another religious conflict is likely. They said priests in Vera Cruz had been harshly treated, and that a few had been killed.

These remarks are believed to have been inspired by a riot at Huastuco, in the state of Vera Cruz, during the burial of Father Felipe Cano, who died from injuries he had sustained in a clash between liberals and Catholics at Chavacita.

SPAIN is settling down to normalcy under the republican rule, but the subject of the status of Catalonia is not yet settled. Alexander Leroux, minister of foreign affairs, went to Barcelona, center of the stormy province, the other day to sound out the intentions of Col. Francisco Macia and his Catalan following who demand rather more than autonomy for Catalonia. It has been considered likely that Leroux will be the first premier under the new constitution which will be drafted by the constituent cortes.

Restoration of the Spanish monarchy, with himself on the throne, is the ambition of Don Jaime de Bourbon, the Carlist pretender, who is now sixty years old but vigorous and full of schemes. It is reported that Gen. Martinez Anido, his chief military aid, has gathered an army in northern Spain and expects to overthrow the republican regime. But pretenders seldom have any luck in such ventures, and the government at Madrid probably isn't worried by this threat.

FLAMES starting on a wharf at St. John, N. B., swept the waterfront and practically ruined the entire western section of the port. The property damage was believed to exceed $10,000,000, and several lives were lost. The conflagration raged for hours, destroying docks, grain elevators and several steamships. The greatest loss was suffered by the harbor commission, federal property valued at $3,500,000 being burned.

FOR the first time in the history of Ohio a woman is to be electrocuted. At Jefferson, Mrs. Julia Maude Lovther of Ashtabula, twenty-three years old, was sentenced to die in the electric chair at the state penitentiary on October 2 for the murder of Mrs. Clara Smith, her employer and the wife of the man she loved. Smith, twice convicted of complicity in the killing, also is under a death sentence.

FOR the first time in its history Rotary International has elected a European as president. At the annual convention of the organization in Vienna the delegates selected Sydney Woodroffe Pscall of London, England, to succeed President Almon E. Roth of California. Rufus Fisher Chapin of Chicago was re-elected for his eighteenth term as treasurer.

CHILE, through its minister of foreign affairs, has invited the foreign ministers of all the Pan-American nations to attend a conference on the existing financial crisis, to seek methods by which their governments may co-operate to prevent a complete commercial and economic breakdown. The United States is included in the invitation and presumably will be represented by an official observer. The date and place are not set.

Delicate Sarcasm

When the tomato was regarded as poisonous it was called a love apple, which shows that there was delicate sarcasm in the language a century or so ago.—Miami (Fla.) Herald.

Avoid Complaint

Complain as little as possible of the wrongs done you; for, commonly speaking, he who complains sins, because self-love always makes us believe the injuries done to us greater than they really are.—Francis de Sales.

THUMB NOTES.

Hiram Huff, 34, Grant township farmer who shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Elsie Huff, 32, Apr. 16, was on June 30 committed by Judge X. A. Boomhower to the state hospital for the criminally insane in Ionia. Judge Boomhower said that if Huff should become sane while in the hospital, it would be necessary that he be returned here for trial on a murder charge.

Was in a local store the other night and overheard an episode that covers the case pretty thoroughly. A customer had tendered a $10 bill in payment for a small purchase and the merchant had some difficulty in making the change. He got enough to make $5 with the purchase and then went over to another till to get the other five. Just for a joke, he remarked to the customer, "That is all right. I will hand you the other five some day next week." There came a look of surprise over the man's face and he seemed rather nonplussed for a minute, then saw the point and said, "Well, that is all right but it sounds differently when it comes from the other side of the counter." Come to think of it, how much different is it to stand a man off for one's change than to stand a merchant off for one's necessities.—Croswell Jeff.

What might have been another lake tragedy resulted in a cold ducking for two men of the U. S. C. G. 160, stationed here at Harbor Beach. Sunday morning a sailboat with a canoe in tow, broke the strands of rope and the canoe drifted into the dock where Floyd Duford and "Dud" Currier caught it and started to paddle back to the sail boat, which was making an attempt to turn and pick the canoe up. In the meantime the coast guards were attracted by the trouble and started out to give aid, and as they rounded the dock, the men in the canoe started to race with them, which resulted in the capsizing of the canoe. Both men heated from the strenuous paddling took cramps and if it were not for the quick work of the coast guards, another tragedy would be woven around Lake Huron.—Harbor Beach Times.

Bruce E. Braun, son of Judge Times, and Mrs. Joshua Braun of Bad Axe, has been appointed to a position with the U. S. department of commerce, division of aeronautics, and will be stationed at Philadelphia. A part of his work will be the inspection of airships which must conform to certain standards of safety established by the department.

Personal "I. Q."

The intelligence quotient or "I. Q." of a person is determined by multiplying the mental age by 100 and dividing by the actual age. Thus the intelligence quotient of a normal person is 100. A person with an "I. Q." below 80 is rated as subnormal, while one with an "I. Q." above 120 is rated as gifted. About five persons in 100 will be found to be 20 below normal and about five 20 above normal.
