CEMENT WORK ABOUT HALF DONE ON M-81

Contractor Schwaderer Expects to Complete Two Miles by Monday.

Favored with fair weather, E. B. Schwaderer, the contractor who has the job of improving the 3½ miles of M-81 between Cass City and the junction of M-81 and M-53, will have the cement laid on a little better than two miles of the project by June 20.

On Tuesday afternoon, one-half of the width of the cement highway had been completed from Cass river bridge to M-53 and a half mile had been finished on the remaining width of the highway on this stretch. The hard surface will be 20 feet in width when the road is completed.

Rain interfered with the work the first week in June and slow progress was made in cement laying because of the weather conditions, but since that time things have been clicking with preciseness and advancement has been very satisfactory. A very nicely finished and smooth highway is being laid. It is expected that the early days in July will see all the cement work completed on the 3½ miles.

Trucks travel like clockwork from the loading platforms next to the D. & H. R. R. to the cement mixer. Each truck carries two batch boxes and each batch box holds 3,370 pounds of sand and gravel and 600 pounds of cement. Arriving at the station where the mixer is working, a crane lifts the batch box from the truck and dumps the contents into the hopper of the mixer. When the contents of two boxes have been dumped into the hopper, the sand, gravel and cement is transferred into the machine, thoroughly mixed in a few minutes and then placed on the roadbed. Two finishing machines follow the mixer and the surface is leveled off and smoothed to a nicety. A great saving of labor is made by the use of the finishing machines over the methods employed several years ago.

Two thousand one hundred sacks of cement—105 tons in round numbers—are used every day on the job. Approximately 1,750 square yards of roadway are laid daily. This means that a truck and two trailers carrying 700 sacks of cement make three deliveries a day to Cass City to keep the road machinery busy.

Three Out for Road Commissioner

The first nomination petitions to be filed in Sanilac for county office were filed by William Robinson, Republican candidate to succeed himself as road commissioner at the September primary.

It is the first time that the office of road commissioner has been elected by the people. The board of supervisors under a resolution nearly two years ago decided to elect commissioners by popular vote.

Robinson filed petitions with the county clerk containing about 200 names.

Three candidates have announced themselves for the office including Robinson. They are Arthur Meredith, Shabbona, and Edward Bullis, Evergreen. Only one road commissioner will be elected this year.

Nomination petitions for the candidates at the Sept. 13 primary are required to be filed on or before 4 p. m. Tuesday, July 26, with the county clerk. The petitions must bear the names of at least 63 qualified voters of Sanilac, and not more than 250 names.

SANILAC TO RETURN INDIGENT FAMILIES TO DETROIT

Frank E. Derby, secretary of the Sanilac poor commission, was notified by Detroit welfare authorities to return any Detroit families now living in Sanilac and receiving aid from Detroit. The request will be complied with. There are said to be only a few families in Sanilac, who came here within the last year, and who have been on the Detroit welfare list.

The financial condition of the city of Detroit was cited as the reason for asking the families to be returned. Detroit formerly made an allowance for their indigent families living here. The present financial condition of Detroit forbids continuance of this plan, it is said.

COUNTY PAID TRIBUTE TO DEAD LECTURER

Many Gathered at Caro M. E. Church for Funeral of Herbert L. Cope.

Funeral rites for Herbert Leon Cope, 59, nationally known humorist and lecturer, were largely attended Sunday afternoon in the M. E. church at Caro.

Rev. H. W. Kuhlman, pastor of the church, officiated and several eulogies were spoken by friends of the one whose philosophy of cheer and clean humor had endeared him to young and old.

Rev. Addis Leeson, formerly a pastor of the Caro M. E. church, spoke of Mr. Cope's college days and his associations with him as a roommate at Albion. He paid sincere tribute to his "college pal" in his remarks.

Rev. Ray Willson, representing the Tuscola County Farmers' clubs, told of 20 years of association with Mr. Cope at club gatherings and his willingness at all times to make himself useful in community activities.

Rev. Kuhlman said he never found a better or more appreciative member in his church and a representative of the International Association of Chautauqua and Lyceum bureaus, paid a fine compliment to Mr. Cope's talent as an entertainer and his ability to fit himself to any audience.

Ann Campbell, Detroit News poet, read an original poem composed for the occasion. In it, she spoke of the unusual devotion of Mr. Cope for his mother.

Burial was made in the Caro cemetery and this service was in charge of Mt. Moriah Lodge, F. & A. M.

Herbert Leon Cope, nationally known lecturer and humorist and speaker on chautauqua and lyceum circuits in Michigan for the past 30 years, died at his home at Caro on June 9, following an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Cope was taken ill shortly after he made his last public appearance before the Detroit Creditmen's association.

During the World War he entertained thousands of soldiers in training camps as a Y. M. C. A. speaker, where he was known as "Kill the Blues" Cope.

His most famous addresses were "Religion of Laughter," "Family Remedies," "The Smile That Won't Come Off," and "Smilin' Through."

13 Took Their First Communion Sunday

The congregation of St. Pancratius church witnessed an impressive service Sunday morning, June 12, when 13 boys and girls took their first communion. They were John Kloc, Chester Kruzal, Bettie Garety, Leonard and Jack Guilds, Jack Kenney, Kenneth Ball, Louis, Ivan and Elton O'Connor, Irene Kruzal, Josephine Kloc and Jennie Polheber. Rev. Fr. Wm. X. Fitzpatrick officiated.

Immediately after the service, a breakfast was served in the basement of the church which was beautifully decorated with clusters of locust. The table decorations were white roses and white mint cups with small white bells attached to the handles. At the table where the guests of honor sat, the centerpiece was a cake in the shape of a lamb. A bird held by streamers of white hovered just above the lamb. Three young ladies and eight young men waited upon the company.

Detours on Side Roads Reveal New Conditions to Auto Travelers

Those who have made trips to the southeast and northeast while improvements are being made on the highway 3½ miles east of Cass City, on M-81, have had the opportunity to learn new things about conditions on the side roads.

One of these is that there is an unusual means of reducing afforded to the person overweight, on the road on the Elkland-Novesta town line, west and east of the Sand Valley school. A few auto trips on this stretch of neglected highway with its series of bumps and hollows should help considerably to bring the traveler down to normal weight.

A pretty scene brought to the notice of many in late weeks is the rock garden on Shadyawn Poultry Farm of John Atfield, 3 miles north and 2½ miles east of

4 CHURCHES UNITE IN SUMMER PROGRAM

One Hundred Forty Pupils, 4 to 13 Years, Attend Vacation Bible School.

Every morning at nine o'clock, approximately 140 children between the ages of 4 and 13 years, assemble at the Cass City school building to attend the Daily Vacation Bible school which began here Monday morning. The school is sponsored by the local Baptist, Methodist, Evangelical and Presbyterian churches.

The children are divided into three main groups: the beginners, the primary and the juniors. The 34 beginners who consist of little tots from four to six years, under the supervision of Rev. Bottrell, are busily engaged each day in listening to Bible stories, in their dramatization, in learning new songs, and in handiwork. This week the tiny artists have constructed little paper baskets and picture frames. Rev. Bottrell is assisted in this department by the Misses Elymore Bigelow, Lucile Bailey and Phyllis Lenzner.

Bible stories and worship, music, dramatization, recreation, and handiwork coordinated with the Bible stories occupy the time of the 59 enrolled primary students. Rev. Curtis is in charge of this department and his assistants in drama and handiwork are Miss Mara Vader, Miss Irene McComb, Mrs. Curtis and Miss Marion Reagh. Mrs. Glen Folkert conducts the music period.

Rev. P. J. Allured with his assistants, Mrs. Ernest Croft, Miss Janet Allured and Miss Helen Batzel, guides the 45 enrolled juniors in their notebook work, Bible stories, and learning of songs. The juniors include in their notebook work, "Knights of Service" and "How to Build a Strong Body." They are memorizing the books of the Bible.

Miss Marjorie Graham serves as secretary of the school.

Union Sunday Evening Services.

At a recent meeting of the pastors of the cooperating churches, it was decided to make evangelism a special subject for the summer. The following schedule for the union Sunday evening services was adopted:

Judge Urges Wills Be Revised to Fit New Values

The change in financial conditions, property values, etc., has automatically had its effect on wills that should be examined and revamped to fit the new conditions.

Judge McCluskey points out that in many cases certain specific sums have been left individuals and the residual sum is to go to the relatives or friends. It may have been the intent of the person making the will to leave the residuary legatee the greater portion of the estate, says the Lapeer Press, but in view of the shrinkage of values, the residuary legatee may be left nothing under the above specifications.

The judge cites an example where an estate was left which a few years ago was valued at $15-

000. The will provided that $5,000 of this amount be paid to certain persons in specified sums, the residue going to the widow. The maker of the will died a few weeks ago and an inventory of the estate shows that its value has shrunk to less than $8,000, not because there is a lesser quantity of property and securities on hand but because each of these has decreased considerably in value. This means that after the specified sums totalling $5,000 are apportioned to those named, the widow will have less than $3,000 left and her husband intended that she should have had $10,000, the greater share of the estate. Similar cases are continually coming to the attention of the probate court.

For this reason Judge McCluskey urges that persons inspect their wills and revalue their property to fit the new conditions. He states that he is willing to confer with those who come to him and explain the situation in order that it may be more clear to anyone interested. Above all things, he urges that wills made, be looked over and revised if necessary.

ALL STATE CROPS ARE ABOVE AVERAGE

Fruit Prospects Remain Fairly Good, Correspondents Report.

All Michigan crops reported on June 1 were above average condition according to reports received from crop correspondents of the Michigan Co-operative Crop Reporting service. Wheat and rye were practically all in head throughout southern and central Michigan at the time of report, stands where mostly good, and growth was generally heavy. Some local damage was caused by fields being flooded by heavy rains in May. Oats and barley were making good growth although some fields were yellowed by cold and wet weather. Corn, bean and potato planting made good progress in the beginning but rains stopped the work and have greatly retarded its completion. Some of the early plantings had to be reseeded. Hay and pastures made a marked re-

ALMER FARMER FOUND DEAD IN FIELD

Neighbors and Officers Spent Many Hours Searching for Missing Man.

John Ames, 68, mentally unbalanced for some time, was found dead about a half mile from his home in Almer township about ten o'clock Tuesday morning. Officers and neighbors had spent part of the night and the greater part of the morning hours searching for him.

Mr. Ames had been held at the county jail building for about ten days because of his ailment. Last week showed considerable improvement in his condition and he was taken to his home Friday and was in the charge of a caretaker. Monday night, he became unmanageable and the caretaker telephoned the county jail requesting officers to take the man in charge again. While the caretaker was telephoning, Mr. Ames left the house, and though diligent search was made, Ames could not be found until ten o'clock the next morning. It is thought that the man traveled in the vicinity of his place until he fell exhausted and passed away.

Physicians were of the opinion that Mr. Ames had died ten hours before the body was discovered on Tuesday.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Senate Passes Its Revenue Bill, Rejecting Sales Tax After Hearing President Hoover—Von Papen Becomes German Chancellor.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

HEINRICH BRUENING, chancellor of Germany, and his cabinet were forced to resign by President von Hindenburg because the latter did not agree with his program to save the country from further financial collapse and to provide work for the unemployed. This was really a considerable triumph for Hitler's Nazis, but they decided to permit a stop-gap government to function until autumn, when it is expected there will be a general election in which they will have a chance to make good their claim of controlling the reichstag.

Herr Bruening

The aged president selected for temporary chancellor Lieut. Col. Franz von Papen, a man of whom the United States has heard little since 1915. At that time he was military attaché of the German embassy in Washington and became involved with Karl Boy-Ed, naval attaché, in plots that violated neutrality. Both of them were dismissed by the American government for "improper activities." Returning to Germany, Von Papen became a general staff officer. He is a Catholic Centralist, as is Bruening, and is editor and principal owner of the Catholic organ Germania.

Von Papen's government, largely rightists, is called a "feudal" cabinet by the Berlin press because it is dominated by members of the old German nobility. The new chancellor is expected to be a stern ruler, for he has often demanded a "national dictatorship" freed of parliamentary trimmings. He is known to favor a Franco-German union against Russia.

C. E. HUFF, head of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, recently filed charges against the Chicago Board of Trade because it denied membership to the corporation. In a communication to the Department of Agriculture Huff alleged the board was violating the grain futures law. Secretary Hyde took up the matter and announced that the grain futures commission would investigate the complaint, the hearings to begin in Washington on June 8. The commission is composed of Secretary Hyde, Attorney General William D. Mitchell and Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lammont.

PROF. NICHOLAS JORGE, once tutor of King Carol of Rumania, has resigned as premier and may be succeeded by Nicholas Titulescu, now minister to London. Which means that the semi-dictatorship of the country has been found a failure.

The resignation of the government was the result of financial difficulties. Rumania is broke and the treasury is empty.

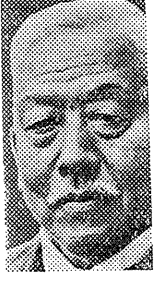

WASHINGTON'S police force had a problem when the hitchhiking army of 1,500 war veterans reached the capital city to present their demand for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus. The men had been conveyed most of the way from the Far West in trucks supplied by state authorities eager to get rid of them, and Senator Costigan of Colorado introduced a bill calling for immediate appropriation of $75,000 to feed and house them.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, in a Memorial day address at the Washington Soldiers' home, declared that by adopting a course based on threat and coercion these veterans were causing their fellow countrymen in this time of national distress to wonder whether their soldiers served for patriotism or merely for pay.

"I warn you as your fellow soldier and friend," Senator Lewis continued, "that you risk the defeat of the relief measures you now have a right to hope for, by placing yourselves where the charge can be made that you have come here to terrorize the public servants and force their surrender through weakness or cowardice."

Ruff Stuff
"I am told," writes a dear old whist whiz from Westchester, "that nowadays bridge champions train for their tournaments something like football players. What similarity is there in their training?" "Tackling the dummy," smiles the New York Times.

JAPAN'S new coalition government under the leadership of Admiral Viscount Makoto Saito is naturally finding its chief problems in China, and especially Manchuria. They planned early recognition of the new Manchurian state of Manchoukuo, but surprisingly this is earnestly opposed by Count Uchida, president of the South Manchurian railroad and perhaps the most influential Japanese on the mainland. He says recognition should be delayed until the new state proves its ability to stand alone, and that Manchoukuo with its tremendous natural resources will continue to exist even if no nation is prepared to recognize it as an autonomous state. Uchida, who may yet become foreign minister in Saito's government, feels that Japan should continue to pour money into Manchoukuo and that other nations should be given equal opportunity of commercial and financial penetration.

Premier Saito

Japanese military forces continued their drive against the rebels in Manchoukuo, forcing them toward the Siberian border. Hailun was bombarded from the air and set on fire.

Ivestia, organ of the Soviet Russian government, charges certain Japanese elements with seeking an invasion of eastern Siberia to "facilitate Japan's preparations for war against the United States by making available for the Japanese military machine the rich natural resources of Asiatic Russia."

In a sharp warning to Japan not to try to lay her hands on Siberia, the vigorous editorial pronouncement called attention to "recent demands in certain sections of the Japanese press for war against Soviet Russia."

It is true that Fascist newspapers of Japan have been demanding that Siberia be conquered now to preserve the future of Manchoukuo.

M. M. NEELY, Democratic senator from West Virginia, seldom speaks in that august body, but the other day, after listening to his colleagues, he raised his voice and for fifteen minutes told them in scathing language what he thought of them and their verbosity which, he said, was losing the government more than $83,000 an hour. He quoted the Bible and lambasted the Congressional Record, and in conclusion he read into the record a 34-line poem on the value of terse speech. If, as he maintains, senatorial speech costs nearly $200 per heart beat, the rhyme he recited must have set Uncle Sam back about twenty-five hundred bucks. And the whole speech, based on his estimate of $83,000 per hour, cost $20,000.

M. M. Neely

However, the lay citizen will sympathize with Mr. Neely's indignation, though with no hope that the senators can be persuaded to talk less and do more.

Puritan Simplicity
The simplicity of dress of the Pilgrims and Puritans of New England, was largely the result of the superseding of Puritanism as an ideal in England, early in the Seventeenth century. Clothing was stripped of all ornamentation or frivolity and so remained during Cromwell's life. The hardships endured by the early New England colonists made it necessary for them to adopt simple and practical ideals of clothing.

Mouse at Home Anywhere
The common house mouse is a native of Europe or Central Asia, and is readily distinguishable from the native white-bellied mice of North America by its nearly uniform brownish color, explains Pathfinder Magazine. It is now found in nearly every country in the world, and its distribution is apparently limited only by the Arctic and Antarctic circles.

Evaded Effort
It's pretty hard to get ahead of the youngsters. A teacher called for brief essays on "The funniest thing I ever saw." One boy got through several minutes before the others and the teacher asked to see his effort. On his paper was written: "The funniest thing I ever saw was too funny for words."—Boston Transcript.

Brides Yield to Lure of Fine Lace

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Perfection her beautiful face. She carries calla lilies, for they are extremely popular for bridal bouquets. Her slippers are satin sandals.

WITH enchantment of spring-time all about her, the bride of today must needs look her prettiest in order to tune in with the picture. In answering this challenge for bridal array of glamorous beauty, fashion turns to lovely lace as the happiest solution. Of course some brides are loath to depart from traditional satin, and so the mode enters into a compromise this season, announcing a fifty-fifty proposition of lace and satin for the smartest wedding gowns, or of all-lace if you really prefer.

Fortunately for the brides and others who look their winsomest in lace, American lacemakers are producing replicas of antique designs and textures which are that authentic in motif and mesh as to defy experts, nor is the cost prohibitive. As to the picture herewith "the bride wore" or is wearing a gorgeous gown of off-white satin handsomely garnished with dune lace in an heirloom pattern—a lace that would be priceless if it were as "down-through-the-family" as it looks.

The lace makes a bolero bodice, closely fitted with an under-the-bust waistline which is the very newest silhouette—infinite flattery to good figures. There's a quaint pleup of lace, too, and you will please to note the pointed panels of matching lace which are so decorative on the skirt.

The court veil is arranged from the confines of a charming little pearl and lace Juliet cap that forms an alluring aura about the bride's perfectly coiffed head, setting off to perfection her beautiful face. She carries calla lilies, for they are extremely popular for bridal bouquets. Her slippers are satin sandals.

For those whose fancy turns to diaphanous effects rather than stately satin an outstanding French creator of modes advocates the alliance of lace with dainty chiffon. When the lace is a filmy cobwebby sort, the effect is indescribably lovely and youthful.

True to the high importance of cotton in the mode, fashion is arraying the bride's attendants in beguiling organdies, especially the embroidered types, or if not organdie then most likely in dotted or plain net of exquisite quality. The very latest move is to top the bridesmaids' frocks with cunning little jackets in bright shades, for white with touches of high color in the accessories is very smart for the wedding cortege.

Another item of interest is the important wider-shoulder feeling which is expressed in gowns for the bridesmaids, either via capelets or epaulet silhouettes which cap fair shoulders. The gown worn by the matron of honor as shown in the picture features these new "lines," the wee capelet of crisp embroidered organdie standing out wide-shouldered in accordance with the latest mod of the mode. The dune lace macramé which fashions this charming frock is in an entrancing shade of turquoise blue. The embroidery forms a pattern which glistens like delicate frosting on its transparent organdie background. Her bouquet is sweet peas in delicate pink.

SNAPPY CLOTHING FOR MOTOR TRAVEL

All the ingenuity of the dressmaker's art has been turned loose this season on clothing for motor travel.

An all-weather, all-time, all service traveling costume consists of a long tweed coat, a matching skirt, a harmonizing sweater and a silk blouse as well as a silk dress to match the lining of the coat.

With this combination one may be warmly dressed for traveling in cool climates, for boat trips, night motoring, etc., coolly dressed for warm climates, and immaculately and freshly gowned for dinner in a hotel—all without carrying extra luggage.

One such combination worked out by a New York dressmaker for Collier's Weekly shows a coat of red, brown, black and beige mixed tweed (the red predominating) with a big roll collar, a soft, clinging sweater in two of these tones, a red silk blouse and a simple, tailored red silk dress.

A woman may motor hundreds of miles in such a suit, wearing the skirt and sweater, changing into the dress for dinner, wearing the same chic little red felt hat and tweed coat, and feel delightfully fresh for the evening.

Afternoon Chiffon
Sheer, fresh and youthfully chic are tucked chiffon afternoon frocks. Crisp white organdie collars and cuffs give a springtime lilt to them. One with the hip and waist fashioned of diagonal tucks wears a bright red and white flower on one shoulder and a red suede belt.

Made of String
Very smart indeed are belts made of natural colored string held together with narrow yellow cord. Bags of brown rough silk are also ornamented with the same string.

Badge of Famous Order

The Maltese cross was originally the badge of the Knights of Malta, a religious and military organization which resided on the island of Malta after it was expelled from Rhodes by the Turks. This cross is formed of four barbed arrowheads with the points meeting in the center. In modified and elaborate forms it is the badge of several modern orders.—Pathfinder Magazine.

"Who's Who" Eligibles

Who's Who in America says: "The standards of admission to Who's Who in America divide the eligibles into two classes: (1) Those who are selected on account of special prominence in creditable lines of effort, making them the subjects of excessive interest, inquiry, or discussion in this country; and (2) those who on account of official position—civil, military, naval, religious, or educational."—Washington Star.

Walnut Long Appreciated

As a food the walnut stands in a class by itself, says an article in the Washington Post. Walnuts were raised and valued very highly by the peoples of ancient times. The Greeks gave to the tree the name Caryon, due to the strong scent that emanated from its foliage. Emperor Vitellius is credited with introducing the nut into Italy, whence it spread to Gaul via the conquest of that country by the Roman legions.

Flattery

First we flatter ourselves, and then the flattery of others is sure of success. It awakens our self-love within, a party which is ever ready to revolt from our better judgment and join the enemy without.—Steele.

"CARS ARE LIKE HUMANS" says this Nurse

Miss Lane learns from Mrs. Chester Orchard, nurse of Peoria, Ill., that cars, as well as humans, need good care. The Orchards have driven a Ford Model A 30,280 miles.

An Interview by MARGARET LANE
Reporter, London Daily Express and International News Service

ANY NURSE will tell you the same. A clean system spells a clean bill of health. And that goes for cars, as well.

Ask Mrs. Chester Orchard of 716 West Maywood, Peoria, Illinois. She's both a nurse and a motorist, and she sees to the clean running of her car the same way she keeps a trained eye on the health of her baby daughter.

"I don't know much about a car's insides," she admitted, "but there is one sure way to make it run smooth and give no trouble. My husband put me up to it. He insisted I use Iso-Vis and he was right."

We drove fast and smooth from her suburban home the odd mile to the hospital. "What's wrong with that?" she smiled, flicking off the ignition, "sounds pretty good, doesn't it?"

"Well, I suppose I take good care of her. I have her overhauled as conscientiously as I take my baby to the doctor, but there's never been an ounce of engine trouble."

Mrs. Orchard's 30,280 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A.A.A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil stations and dealers.

If all the brooms in Cass City were laid end to end, it is estimated that 99.6% of the girls would let 'em lay.

You can't expect to raise healthy chicks without proper care and feeding. Wayne All Mash Chick Starter answers the feed problem.

Many feeders tell us that they raise chicks on Wayne at a worthwhile saving in feed cost. No feed is wasted in the litter.

Sluggish pullets are not good layers. Proper feeding with Wayne All Mash Grower makes the young hen feel gay and she produces.

CASS CITY

Jane Regny designed this unusual and very likeable frock for afternoon wear, featuring one of the neat daytime prints in a small all-over patterning in soft shades of blue. The styling which calls for front flat-fitted skirt lines in contrast to a graceful tiered flare at the back is admirably demonstrated in this model. Many of the smart lace evening frocks have adopted this tiered, flared effect at the back with flattering success.

AFTERNOON FROCKS NOT SO ELABORATE

With the return of beige as a costume color, other pastels have come into prominence—soft pinks and greens and blues. But there is no elaboration to these frocks. They do not approach the feminine fashion of afternoon dresses that we have always associated with the name. For these are essentially day-time dresses. The smartest frocks are fashioned along simply tailored lines without much trimming, except perhaps the ever-present lingerie touches. Rough silk crepes and flat silk crepes are used, but always silks with dull surfaces. Sheer crepes also, of the heavier varieties, that tailor almost like flat crepe, are very smart for spring. Black dresses, with plenty of white trimming, will, of course, be worn with black coats, but many women will seize this opportunity for lightness and brightness. Coral, pink, light greens and blues and beige all make smart frocks to wear with black coats. With a blue coat the lighter shades of blue form a pleasing contrast. With brown, beige or the aquamarine shades are particularly attractive. These dresses, fortunately, will not be long. Longer dresses will be of a more formal type for late afternoon occasions and formal dinner. These frocks will be more elaborate, and lower as to décolletage.

Flower Hues for Spring

New spring colors blend several tints. Blue lavender, yellow green, banana yellow, watermelon red, saffron rose and pink gray are among the outstanding hues already seen.

Black and Yellow

Pastels become more popular with the spring. White may be worn at any time, and an unusual combination for the daytime is a black and yellow shown by Worth.

Movie Music Makers

Cinema organs contain hundreds of pipes ranging from reeds the size of a toothpick to those large enough to hold a man. There may be as many as two hundred stops, two hundred and forty keys, and thirty-two pedals.

Modern Woodmen of America Nears Half-Century Mark

Modern Woodmen of America, which is represented in this community by a local organization, rounded out its 49th anniversary on Tuesday, January 5, 1932. The fact that a society of such magnitude has functioned continuously for nearly half a century, and with marked success, is regarded as an event of no slight importance in fraternal insurance circles, and many of its local Camps will observe the occasion with suitable programs. It will be the subject of much comment in the fraternal insurance world, and throughout the extensive jurisdiction of the Modern Woodmen of America, which covers the United States and four provinces of Canada. The many thousands of its "Camps" located in as many communities, both urban and rural, are the evidence of its long life and virility. These have been maintained through all the happenings of 49 years, a period during which the nation has undergone a truly wonderful development, entering into a distinctly modern era and scoring remarkable progress in numerous fields.

The beginning of this organization dates back to the days when Chester A. Arthur, as the successor of the lamented James A. Garfield, stricken down by the bullet of an assassin, occupied the presidential office, and it has been serving its wide constituency without interruption during the administrations of Presidents McKinley, Cleveland, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover. This is one method of estimating the time that has passed since the Society began writing life insurance.

The Society has been an eyewitness of the bringing of the telegraph and telephone systems to a high degree of perfection; it saw the inauguration of the motor age, the practical outcome of the late Thomas Alva Edison's marvelous inventions, in the installation of power utilities, together with the tremendous transformation wrought by Marconi's discoveries; it was in operation long before the day of wireless messages over the air, before the period of the airplane, the dirigible, the radio, the moving picture, and its latest development, the "talkies." It was a hearty youngster when the United States declared war against Spain, and it was of mature age when the United States entered the World war. The mention of these landmarks in its history brings a realization of what is comprehended in its long record of service. It has survived all the ups and downs of social, economic, industrial, and political events, and has grown to proportions undreamed of by its founders in 1883.

Being the largest of all fraternal insurance societies with aggregate reaching the tremendous aggregate of one billion dollars, it has paid over 275,000 death claims amounting to more than $470,000,000. Voluntary financial relief extended to members and their families through local and general efforts and Head Camp action in times of flood, earthquake, fire, and other calamities have totaled $8,000,000.

The Society's forms of life insurance for men, women, and children measure up fully to modern life insurance standards. Camps for young people are now in successful operation as well as the thousands of Camps for men. Without the sacrifice of any of those fraternal features for which the Society has long been distinguished, the forms of life insurance protection it issues have been completely modernized. As Modern Woodmen of America draws near to the completion of a half-century of operation it looks back upon an uninterrupted career in the course of which, from humble beginnings, it has built up for itself a reputation for stability, soundness, and safety, which in no small degree is responsible for the confidence reposed in it for many long years as well as for its unprecedented growth.—Advertisement.

CYCLES OF PROSPERITY

People who complain because business does not recover its old prosperity more rapidly, should consider how these experiences occur after every great war. It was so in the days following our great War between the States from 1861 to 1865. It was so in Europe after the Napoleonic wars.

These experiences follow regular cycles. The governments are forced by war to buy quantities of supplies, which leads to great advances in prices and wages. People feel that this inflated level will continue indefinitely.

Some little thing will prick the bubble. It may be some big failure, or many small ones. People become suspicious. The banks ask people to pay their loans, people sell securities to pay their debts, stock markets fall, people create runs on banks, those who have lost money restrict purchases, people are thrown out of work, earnings of corporations and individuals decline, and they can't pay their debts.

From every such experience, recovery came in time by natural causes. What causes it? Principally, because in such a period people consume more than they produce. Our present statistics of retail distribution show more sales than the factories are producing.

HUMAN NATURE DOESN'T CHANGE

We hear a good many people remarking that the younger generation has no manners, that the boys and girls of today are rapidly sliding down to perdition and that things were so much better when these complaining individuals themselves were young.

We seem to remember having heard old folks talk in a similar strain when we were young. We are strongly inclined to believe that the bad manners and worse morals of youth have always been a subject of complaint by their parents and grandparents from King Solomon's time, and perhaps farther back than that.

Our belief is strengthened by recently seeing a letter written in 1795 by an English woman who said among other things: "Our manners become more licentious, our men are indifferent, our women bold and assuming. The pertness of fifteen is allowed to give her opinion on all subjects. She awes into silence her superiors and understanding, for who can wish to hold an argument with a flippant tongue? But a more serious consideration is the hideous undress of the present day, for to be perfectly fashionable is to be half naked."

In the same letter elderly women were criticised for resorting to cosmetics in the effort to make themselves look younger. We have heard people around here talk about how disgusting it is for a woman old enough to be a grandmother to try to look like a flapper. Regardless of whether it is disgusting or not, our point is that it is nothing new. A hundred and thirty-seven years ago people were saying the same things.

One thing is certain. That is, that each generation has to learn its own way about and find its own way of living. In other words, codes of manners and behavior generally are good only for the generation that subscribes to them. And when we consider that half of the people of the United States are under twenty-six years old, it seems to us the young folks have about as much right to decide such things for themselves as the older ones have to prescribe for them.

Deford

Ladies' Aid Luncheon—Last October, the members of the M. E. Ladies' Aid, in order to better their financial status, divided their membership into two equal groups, termed the Sunshine and Shadow groups. The contestants on each side then passed among themselves and outside friends, small sacks, in which the contestants were to deposit one cent for each day, that favored their respective side, with the Sunshine or the Shadow. The contest closed at Easter time. When the sacks were collected, the Sunshine side were the winners. The aggregate amount collected was sixty-two dollars. On Friday last, the two groups and their friends had a luncheon at two o'clock, on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Retherford. Cake, sandwiches and ice cream were served to the gathering, followed by a short program. An enjoyable time is the general opinion of those present.

USE OF TRAILERS INCREASING IN MICHIGAN

The use of trailers is constantly increasing in Michigan. This is shown in the records of the motor vehicle division of the department of state. Up to June 1, 1932, a total of 48,859 trailer licenses had been issued this year. This is an increase of 9,269 over the same period last year, and the number of licensed trailers in use on June 1, 1932, was nearly double the number licensed on the same date in 1930 when 28,140 trailer licenses had been issued.

ALL STATE CROPS ARE ABOVE AVERAGE

Concluded from first page. Recovery from low condition at the beginning of May. Fruit prospects remain fairly good, although considerable damage from freezing weather occurred around the 1st of May. Sour cherries were seriously injured in southwestern counties, and to a lesser extent in the central and northern portions of the West Michigan fruit belt. While the winter wheat crop of the United States is estimated at only 410,669,000 bushels as compared with 787,465,000 bushels harvested in 1931, the condition in the northern states east of the Mississippi river is fairly good and Michigan is expected to show a production of 14,511,000 bushels. The condition in the hard winter wheat belt west of the Mississippi showed a further decline during May. In addition to a heavy acreage abandonment, Hessian fly and various diseases are making serious inroads on the remaining stand. The average condition for the entire country is 64.7 per cent as compared with 84.3 per cent last year. The Michigan condition is the same as one year ago, 90 per cent. The condition of other Michigan crops is as follows: oats, 83 per cent; barley, 83 per cent; rye, 86 per cent; and hay, 82 per cent. All of these are from one to three points above the ten-year average. Pastures were reported at 87 per cent as compared with 65 per cent one month ago, 76 per cent one year ago, and 83.5 per cent the ten-year average. Apples were reported at 62 per cent of normal. This is 21 points below last year's condition on the corresponding date and nine points under the ten-year average. The prospective decrease from last year appears to be chiefly in winter varieties. The Baldwin, a leading variety, set very poorly. The condition of the United States apple crop is 58.5 per cent as compared with 75.7 per cent on June 1 last year. The peach crop of the United States also is much below that of last year, the condition being reported at 51.7 per cent as compared with 78.5 per cent in 1931. The crop is estimated at 48,927,000 bushels whereas last year the production amounted to 77,743,000 bushels. The crop was heavily damaged by spring freezes in the southern states and it is probable that northern markets will receive a much smaller supply from that source than usual. This should afford Michigan growers a better outlet than in other recent years. The condition of Michigan cherries was reported at 66 per cent of normal, ranging from about 80 per cent in the Grand Traverse region down to 40 per cent in the extreme southwestern counties where freezing weather occurred on several days around the blooming period. The condition last year on June 1 was 80 per cent. Pears show a condition of 76 per cent as compared with 60 per cent last year on the same date.

Tomatoes Need Care to Prevent Disease

Tomatoes, which are often the chief pride of the home gardener, are attacked by several diseases which can be prevented or controlled by simple treatments, according to experts on plant disease at Michigan State college. Two types of blight, early and late, at times cause serious losses. Plants attacked by early blight show brown spots with concentric rings or ridges about the spots on the leaves. Black spots which become covered with a black, velvety growth appear on the fruits. This disease appears early in the growing season. Late blight usually does not occur until the latter part of July, and the plants attacked by it show dark, water-soaked areas on the leaves, an appearance similar to that caused by freezing. A white, downy growth appears on the undersides of the leaves. The fruits usually show rot near the stem end and this spreads around the circumference of the fruits faster than it penetrates into the interior. Spraying with a 4-4-50 solution of Bordeaux mixture at intervals of a week or ten days will control both the blights of tomatoes. Another enemy of the tomato plant is called Grand Rapids disease because it first appeared near that city. The symptoms of this disease are a progressive wilting of the leaves from the bottom of the plant upward. Rough, brown spots surrounded by a white halo may occur on the fruits and make them unusable. Sprays and dusts will not control this disease. Affected plants should be pulled and burned to lessen the spread of the disease. A detailed discussion of tomato diseases is given in Circular Bulletin No. 139, which will be sent free to anyone requesting it from the Bulletin Clerk, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

VETERAN BUREAU IS GROWING RAPIDLY

Billion a Year Concern, With Costs Mounting.

Washington.—Renewed agitation for the passage of legislation permitting World war veterans to borrow the remaining 50 per cent of the value of their bonus insurance certificates served to focus attention on the tremendous growth in recent years of the funds expended by the war veterans' administration.

Testimony delivered before the house appropriations committee by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, disclosed that the veterans' administration is now a billion dollars a year concern with expenditures still growing. His figures revealed that in 1933 the veterans' administrator expected to expend in excess of a billion dollars on administration of veterans' matters, payments to beneficiaries, on adjusted compensation certificates, hospitalization and other activities.

During the past twelve years the independent establishment handling veterans' matters has expanded by leaps and bounds until today it is estimated it will take 40,000 civilian employees to care for the interests of the hundreds of thousands of veterans now receiving aid from the government in one form or another. During the next fiscal year this department will utilize facilities at more than 300 hospitals and furnish beds for in excess of 63,000 patients.

Build New Hospitals.

With the approximate billion dollar appropriation, which it now seems assured of receiving, new hospitals will be built, no beds provided, approximately a million veterans given treatment of some kind, or funds for some particular reason, loans made to other veterans on bonus certificates, compensation paid to disabled veterans and salaries paid to the army of employees.

In event legislation is passed permitting the veterans to cash the full value of their compensation certificates another two billion dollars would be added to the sum which the veterans' administration would handle in the next few years.

The big items of the veterans' administration bill as requested for 1933 by General Hines follow:

Administration, medical, hospital and domiciliary services, $116,000,000.

Army and navy pensions, $225,000,000.

Adjusted service certificate fund, $150,000,000.

Military and naval service, $110,000,000.

In his budget message President Hoover asked $1,000,399,000 for veterans' administration affairs, approximately one-fourth of the entire federal budget.

Of this sum $150,000,000 was for use in making loans to veterans on their bonus certificates. The house appropriations committee cut this figure to $949,237,795. Virtually no cut was made at all inasmuch as the $50,000,000 reduction was effected by cutting down the figure for bonus payments with the definite understanding General Hines can go to congress to get this sum, if it is needed, in a deficiency bill next December.

322 Hospitals Utilized.

As of December 31, 42,255 veterans whose hospitalization was authorized by the veterans' administration were receiving treatment. Three hundred and twenty-two hospitals were utilized; 64 by the administration itself, 216 belonging to the state and civil institutions, 17 to the public health service, 16 to the United States navy, 7 to the United States army, and 2 to the Department of the Interior.

On December 21, 1931, the veterans' administration was afforded domiciliary care for 17,210 additional veterans. During the 1931 year the department treated 850,469 out patients and gave 2,148,432 physical examinations.

As of December 31, 1931, 318,114 veterans were receiving compensation for disability incurred in, resulting from, or aggravated by military service during the World war. Compensation was also being paid to the dependents of 97,543 veterans whose death occurred in, or resulted from service in the World war. The amount of compensation payments, depending upon the degree of disability, ranges from $5 per month for a temporary partial condition to $200 per month for what is known as a double permanent and total disability.

General Hines said the number of active awards for disability compensation has increased by 135,024 since June 20, 1923.

A big increase in the number of those receiving benefits for disability resulting from other than military and naval service was recorded last year.

Homemaker's Corner

Give your child a chance to practice making his own decisions, urges Miss Catherine Miller, director of the Michigan State College nursery school. One of the greatest obstacles to the best mental and emotional development of children is the exercise of parental authority, the demand of parents for unquestioning obedience. Help through suggestion or example may be given, but directions given as commands inevitably limit and may eventually altogether hinder the child's ability to make correct choices and right decisions.

Too much domination of a child may hold him to develop into a shy, cowering personality, lacking in initiative, fearful of his own opinions, and accepting as his leader anyone who is willing to take the lead. Whenever a mother has to say, "You cannot do that," she should remember that she also must plan deliberately to give her child enough understanding of the situation and enough experiences so that he will gradually begin to choose to do what she requires.

Gradually, a child should be allowed to make more and more choices, choices that affect his own well-being and the comfort of the family. First, let him decide those things that are not of fundamental importance, but plan to increase his responsibility month by month and year by year. Thus, with adolescence and its desires for independence, a child is already able to make decisions, to choose intelligently, and to rely on himself.

An understanding of the interests and activities of children is necessary to all parents. They should never demand of children that which is not childlike. They often endeavor to make of wriggling, squirming, active children, quiet, sedate, settled adults. Physically and mentally children must be active.

Shad's Appeal to a Higher Court. DOOLITTLE recovered from his fainting fit. He did not confess, as the colonel hoped he would do. The sheriff took him to the county jail that day. Colonel Blake and Shad went to the hotel for dinner and waited for the evening train. As they were sitting together in their room the colonel said:

"Tomorrow is Christmas. Bumpy Brown and your friend Bony are coming down to spend the day with us. Do you realize how old Bumpy has been growing? He's a whale of a man."

The colonel lit his cigar and smoked a moment. In the silence Shad wondered what was behind the words of his chief.

"These are the facts," Blake began. "Bumpy had learned that Doolittle—a married man—was making love to his daughter. He warned her against him. Then he warned his daughter's seducer and probably in rather hot language. Doolittle pushed him off his place. Bumpy may in his anger have sworn to get even. After that whenever he was in his cups he d—d Cy Doolittle. When he was indicted for murder and his life in peril he must have suspected the truth that Doolittle had tried to get rid of his wife so that he could have Carrie. But old Bumpy held his peace. Why? Not even to save his life would he bring discredit on his daughter. To him death was better than shame. I doubt if in all the records of human action we may find a nobler sense of chivalry. It is curious that this shabby old tinker, often tippyng about the countryside, should now have us all sitting lamby at his feet. Of course he wanted the girl to marry Royce. Now, Royce is an honest but rather stupid fellow—a good deal of a dunce, I would say. I don't wonder that the girl wouldn't have him. Doolittle and Algire made a tool of him in one way and another—notably in buying the rubbers, in building up the alibi of the guilty man and in misleading the detectives. I have never thought that his brain could create the mystery we have had to solve."

That Christmas day at Colonel Blake's house was never forgotten by those who had a part in it. The reward of five thousand dollars was distributed according to the plan of Shad and his chief.

To Bumpy Brown the income on two thousand five hundred dollars for life.

To Bony a sum sufficient for one year's board and schooling.

To Shad a certificate of deposit for the balance.

Bumpy cooked the oysters and the turkey and by request prepared the mashed potatoes with unlimited allowances of cream and butter. Then the cook was called to the table. He said:

"No, sir, by Jee-dix, I'm too scared 'n' nervous to take a place in the front ranks. Besides I'm liable to bust out a-cryin' any minute—you've been so good to me."

Bumpy was finally induced to come and drink his coffee with them. Colonel Blake arose and with characteristic humor reviewed the career of Shad Morryson.

It was then that Sheridan Morryson made the little speech now quoted from his memoirs:

"Colonel and Mrs. Blake: The little things I have done are partly due to your faith in a homeless lad and to your interest in his welfare. For all that I thank you. I must also thank Bony for his help and friendship. I do not forget the kindness and the good heart of Mr. Brown. I may know handsomer men, but I shall never know a better man. There is one whose name you know to whom I am more indebted than to all others. That is a debt which I can only pay, which I shall gladly pay, with my life and my devotion if I am allowed to do so. I hope that I am not breaking the rules of the court in saying this much. I fear that I am like a bee that has been forbidden to trespass in a flowery meadow."

The colonel laughed. Then he turned to Mrs. Blake and said: "Mother, this boy is not like other boys of his age. He's really quite a man. If he and Ruth want to be engaged I suppose that we may as well take down the trespass sign."

"Bees can't read, anyhow," the gentle lady answered with a smile. Shad went to Ruth's side. They embraced and kissed each other. A gale of merry laughter had arisen. In the midst of it Colonel and Mrs. Blake and Bumpy and Bony came and embraced the happy youngsters.

Again a scrap from the memoirs: "Yes, it was unusual. I say only that it was good for us. We were in the same school and college until we were twenty-two. Our love filled the years with happiness and inspiration and mutual understanding. We helped each other. We knew each other. We had learned the gentle art of keeping step. We were in no danger of falling out when we were married the day after our graduation—a trouble that comes too often of slight acquaintance. Bumpy Brown came with his parrot and a handsome gift of money. Robert Royce and his wife Carrie, and Bony, then an able law clerk, and Betsy Spenlow and Doctor Gorse and Mr. and Mrs. Smithers were at the wedding. We were a famous pair and people came from far and wide to greet us.

"For twenty-five years we have lived and wrought together. Time has been kind to us. There is still gold in her hair and the glow of the corn-flower in her eyes and the tint of roses in her cheeks. I—well, I am still a lover. Have we not seen enough of the peril of straying to keep us in the straight way?"

[THE END.]

AIRPLANE ROUTE TO EUROPE IS PLANNED

Survey Awaits Sanction of Iceland Government.

New York.—Immediate and detailed survey of the air route to Europe by way of Canada, Greenland, Iceland, the Faroe Islands, and England, with a view to establishing a transatlantic mail line, awaits only the sanction of the government of Iceland of a bill just introduced in the parliament of the land.

This bill would give to the Trans-American Airlines corporation, a subsidiary of the Thompson Aeronautical corporation, now flying passengers and mail between Cleveland and Detroit and between Detroit and Chicago as well as to northern Michigan, permission to establish a base in Iceland under a contract running for 75 years and giving the company exclusive privileges for 15 years.

Survey to Be Made.

Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of the board of the Curtiss-Wright corporation and a director of Trans-American, said recently that there would be no delay in making a study of the exact route and flying schedule to be followed should this bill become a law. The detailed work before the proposed transatlantic airline, which would become an international undertaking, might require a permit for two years, he added.

The northern route to Europe has held the interest of airline operators for several years because of the shortness of the over-water legs involved. None exceed 400 miles in length. The United States army round-the-world flyers made use of this route, as did Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three companions, who brought their plane into New York harbor after an unheralded flight from the North sea by way of the northern islands and Newfoundland.

England Studies Route.

Last August Parker D. Cramer, pilot of many fine flights, and his radio operator, Oliver Paquette, were lost on the last short leg of a flight over the northern route, that from the Shetland islands to Copenhagen.

Cramer had taken off secretly from Cleveland on July 28 to blaze a trail for the Trans-American corporation, and had successfully flown by way of Canada, Labrador and the Greenland icecap as far as the Shetlands.

For more than a year the British arctic air route expedition, headed by Capt. H. G. Watkins, studied the conditions in Greenland and last autumn Lieut. N. H. D'Aeth, flying officer of the expedition, reported that he considered the route across Greenland feasible for scheduled flying operations.

Women Refused Ballot by Quebec Legislature

Quebec.—Standing true to its traditions as the stronghold of Old world conservatism in the New world, the province of Quebec remains the only section of the British empire where women are still forbidden to vote.

By a vote of 52 to 23 the legislature has refused to extend the franchise taking the stand that "women should be queens of their homes and not political intriguers or hustling loafers."

The question was not decided along party lines, for two Liberal members sponsored the bill which would have given women the vote while other Liberals were equally strong in opposing it.

Dr. Anatole Plante, sponsor of the bill, argued that the present situation placed Quebec women in a position of inferiority to those of other Canadian provinces.

Radio Jazz Arouses Turtles From Sleep

Des Moines, Iowa.—Mrs. Clarence Cornwell has as pets in her home two turtles that, in outward appearance, are just like any other, but inwardly, Mrs. Cornwell believes, that are far superior to the run of the water turtles. The pets, it seems, have a soul for music. So long as there is no music in the room they lie almost motionless in their tank of water. But the instant the radio brings orchestra music into the house they become excited and swim rapidly about kicking their feet, so Mrs. Cornwell says, in time with the music.

Round Table Volume Contains Million Words

London.—Reports of proceedings of the second session of the Indian Round Table conference, including verbatim speeches, fill a volume of more than a million words. The Bible is about 25 per cent shorter. It is estimated that during the first and second sessions more than two and a half million words were spoken. At least another half million will be spoken by the time the round table proceedings are finished in a third and final session in 1934.

Sparrows Steal Milk

Harrow, England.—Householders who have found their morning milk missing from the doorstep, have discovered that sparrows and chaffinches are the thieves.

Now You Can Buy On Faith....

"I talked with grandma the other day," said the young housewife. "I told her I dreaded this daily shopping — that I hardly knew where to begin. And she made me feel ashamed; she actually did!"

We know just about what her grandma told her. "In my day you would have dreaded shopping much more. It was a real chore then. From place to place you went, looking, looking, tasting this, sniffing at that, buying on suspicion and not on faith. You didn't know who made the things you bought; they didn't have labels; most of them weren't in packages.

"Now you know by name most of the things you buy. You buy a can of So-and-so's Beans today, and you know they'll be just the same when you buy them again. You read the advertisements in your paper, see where the best values are offered, make up your list, and out you go and get it over with in a jiffy! Count your blessings, my dear—they are many."

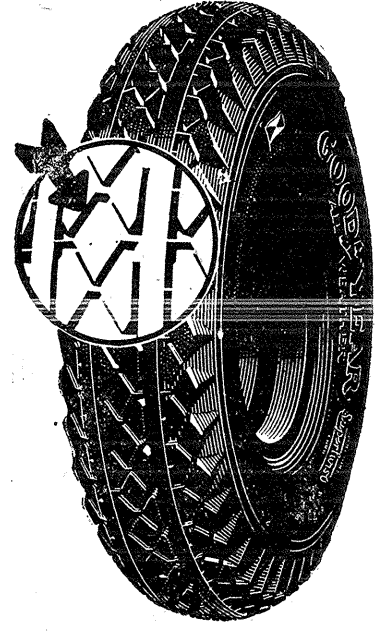

Trust the products advertised in this newspaper. Read the advertisements and simplify your shopping.
