SENATOR H. P. ORR EXPLAINS PROPOSALS

Amendments Are Printed in Full in the Chronicle
This Week.

State Senator Herbert P. Orr, at an open meeting of the Woman's Study Club in the high school auditorium Tuesday afternoon, gave a talk on the amendments which will be submitted to voters at the election Nov. 8. Mr. Orr explained what a "yes" or "no" vote on each proposal would mean. The gist of his explanations are contained in the following paragraphs:

Proposal No. 1.

A YES vote repeals the bone-dry provision of the State Constitution but it does not repeal the Prohibition law of the state. A NO vote leaves the situation just as it is at the present time.

Proposal No. 2.

A YES vote limits the amount that may be assessed against real estate to fifteen dollars ($15.00) per thousand valuation for all purposes. This includes school district, village, township, county and state activities. A NO vote leaves the taxing power of the several municipalities as it now is.

Proposal No. 3.

A YES vote on this amendment changes the representation in the House of Representatives of the state so that the one hundred members of the Legislature will be apportioned to the various counties according to population. The greatest change that it will effect, will be to give to Wayne county approximately thirty-nine representatives in the State Legislature and also will change the term of office of Senators to four years instead of two. A NO vote will leave the representation as it now stands.

Proposal No. 4.

A YES vote will exempt from taxation $1,000.00 of personal property of every household and will exempt homesteads up to $3,000.00. A NO vote will leave the taxing power with reference to personal property and homesteads as it now is.

Proposal No. 5.

A YES vote will permit any person who has resided in the state for six months and in a city for 20 days prior to election to vote in any ward or precinct in which he happens to reside on an election day. At the present time he must reside in the ward or precinct 20 days prior to election. It also will permit the electors of the township to vote at a polling place within the limits of the city which has been incorporated from territory formerly a part of the township. A NO vote leaves the law in its present condition.

Proposal No. 6.

A YES vote will prohibit the governor from pardoning persons convicted of first degree murder. In other words, it will make a life-sentence, a life-sentence unless new evidence be given to show the innocence of the convicted person. In such case such a person shall have a new trial. A NO vote will leave with the governor the power to pardon, reprieve, or commute the sentence of any person convicted of first degree murder.

Proposal No. 7.

A YES vote will limit the electors who may vote upon the question of the direct expenditure of public money or the issuance of bonds to taxpayers regardless of whether the vote is taken in a school district, township, village, city, county or state. A NO vote leaves the law in its present condition.

Proposal No. 8.

This is not an amendment to the Constitution but is an exercise of the right of referendum guaranteed to the people by the Constitution. A YES vote will require all persons handling oleomargarine or kindred products to secure a license from the Department of Agriculture. This license is $100.00 for manufacturers, $100.00 for wholesalers, and $5.00 for each retail store. A NO vote will set aside the act providing these license fees and leave the situation with reference to the handling of oleomargarine as it now stands.

For the information of voters, the Chronicle has printed on page two of this number the proposals in detail. They should be read carefully by every voter before visiting the voting booth.

Senator Orr was introduced to his audience here Tuesday by Mrs. A. A. Ricker, a member of the Republican state central committee. The high school boys' quartet contributed two vocal numbers, "We Journey to the City" and "Ivory Palaces."

720 YDS. OF CLOTH FOR RED CROSS HERE

Society Will Meet Here Monday
Afternoon to Plan
Relief Work.

Miss Charlotte Stewart, field representative of the midwestern branch of the American Red Cross, met with the Tuscola County Red Cross directors and the board of supervisors at Caro Friday to make arrangements for the forthcoming annual roll call which starts very soon.

Miss Stewart said that because of so much unemployment the situation is much harder to master than during the war. Forty-five million bushels of excess wheat at one time and forty million bushels at another time have been taken to 5,000 milling concerns to be ground into flour, and by being conservative, they are expecting this to last through the winter.

Now the government is giving five hundred thousand bales of cotton to be spread over 3,000 districts in the country.

Cass City's share will be 360 yards of outing, 180 yards of gingham, 180 yards of basket weave material for dresses. Mrs. Edward Pinney and Mrs. G. A. Tindale from Cass City attended the meeting at Caro.

Monday afternoon, October 24, a meeting of all members of the Red Cross of Cass City will be held at the council rooms at three o'clock to plan for the disposal of goods and for the coming Red Cross drive.

Brown City Man Murdered Monday

Sanilac county authorities and state police are investigating the murder of Thomas Liffander, 55, Brown City oil dealer, found dead with his head battered in early Monday. The body was found outside a shack on his premises. Little is known of Liffander's connections, and officers are tracing a number of clues. Robbery was apparently the motive as Liffander's pockets had been looted. An autopsy showed he had been struck with a heavy instrument on the head, fracturing his skull. Three men were held for questioning in Sandusky early this week, but proved alibis. Officers are working on a Detroit angle, that Liffander may have been killed by some enemy of Detroit.

It is the first murder in the history of Brown City.

SAYS CASS CITY WILL WIN.

Thos. A. Rowe, secretary of the Saginaw-Tuscola Y area, predicts that Cass City will win from Caro today in the annual football tilt in which both towns are so greatly interested. The game is played at Caro.

7 BALLOTS TO ELECT SCHOOL EXAMINER

Irene Pomella, Argyle Teacher, Chosen by Sanilac Co.
Supervisors.

A majority of the important business of the October session of the Sanilac supervisors remained to be transacted the last three days of this week as the board swung into its final sessions.

Tax apportionment, setting of the county budget, action on salaries for next year, appropriations and other issues of importance were scheduled to be taken up today and Saturday.

The session early this week was occupied by committees preparing their reports. Back charges and claims committees held other committees from completing their work, due to the detail involved.

Election of a school examiner and a poor commissioner was a feature of election day Saturday. Miss Irene Pomella, Argyle rural teacher, was elected school examiner on the seventh ballot in a field of five candidates after two had withdrawn on the fourth ballot, and a third on the seventh ballot.

Starting with four votes, Miss Pomella ran her total up to 16 votes winning over Frank Pagle, Sandusky, who received 13 votes on the final ballot. Other candidates were: John Wengert, La Motte; Roy Severance, Evergreen, and Charles Warczynsky, Delaware, incumbent.

Albert Clayton, Melvin, was re-elected poor commissioner unanimously.

A resolution was passed tabling indefinitely the proposal of Dr. Henry Scholer, Deckerville, that a county hospital and county physician be established. This action will leave the medical care of indigent persons with the poor commission as has been the practice.

The expense of the county infirmary was reported at $9,005.47 to Oct. 1 for a one year period, with receipts of the infirmary at $2,087.97.

Penalties on delinquent dog taxes were reduced by the board to $2 and $4 for male and female dogs respectively, if paid before Nov. 1. Notices had previously been mailed to 1,750 delinquent dog owners demanding payment.

A large committee appeared before the supervisors asking that the board appropriate for a county nurse, which was referred to the appropriations committee. Work of the Red Cross in establishing the nursing service here was lauded, also their influence in obtaining 880 barrels of free flour, and 6,500 yards of cloth for making clothes for needy persons.

Supervisors also agreed on a compromise settlement with Sheriff L. C. Hagle on the civil fee controversy. The sheriff will pay $1,000 before Jan. 1 and also remit fees collected from July 1 this year to Jan. 1. The settlement was agreed on as the best way to save expense to Sanilac county, and the sheriff.

The settlement was advised by acting Prosecutor Leonard J. Paterson. Paterson said his advice from the supreme court was to the effect that several points in the case were new, and that a settlement was for the best interests of all concerned.

FOUR MORE CANDIDATES FILE EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Four candidates in the primary election have filed expense accounts in addition to the four reported in the Chronicle in a recent number. The four and the amount reported expended by each follow. Conrad Mueller, $117.45; Henry VanWagon, $123.65; Roscoe J. Black, $59.65; Daisy Stilson Barrie, 2 cents for postage.

Pheasant Hunters Busy in Woods

Woods of Thumb counties were besieged by hunters when the annual pheasant season opened Saturday. L. I. Wood sold twenty-one small game licenses in September and one hundred eighty-five licenses from October 1 to October 18.

Last year Mr. Wood took in $686.00 for deer, trapping and small game licenses. Of this amount, $167.50 were for deer licenses.

Ringneck pheasants are said to be plentiful this fall. Woodcock and partridge are also numerous. The pheasant season ends Wednesday, October 26. The bag limit on pheasants is two in one day and four in a season.

Pres. Hoover Speaks at Detroit Saturday

President Herbert Hoover is to deliver his third address of the campaign in Detroit next Saturday night.

President Hoover will not talk to a hand-picked audience. As far as its seating capacity goes, the doors of the huge Olympia amphitheater will be thrown open to all who desire to hear him. The Olympia seats 20,000 persons but it is expected that five times that number will seek admission to the hall.

"I believe President Hoover's Detroit speech will be heard by at least one million voters in Michigan," said former Governor Fred M. Green, chairman of the committee on arrangements. "The broadcast will carry to all parts of the state and in every county there will be huge county meetings at which arrangements have been made for radio reception of the president's address."

The Republican county committee suggests that radio owners invite in their neighbors to hear the president's address Saturday night.

TUSCOLA POOR FUND

$42,635 IN THE RED

A. W. Atkins Re-elected Road
Com. and W. J. Kirk,
Supt. of Poor.

The Tuscola county board of supervisors gave two groups rising votes of thanks this week. The first occasion was when Supervisors Keinath, Heckroth and Dillon, as a special committee, returned from a visit to the Huron county board of supervisors where an agreement was effected regarding the interest due on Sebewaing River Drain bonds. To save the bonds from going into default, both county boards agreed to advance into the Sebewaing River Drain fund the delinquent taxes of the two counties and divide the small sum yet necessary on the basis of percentage of the original division—Huron county 47.3% and Tuscola county 52.7%. Huron county sent its share of the money—$5,673.00—with the Tuscola county committee.

The committee on roads and bridges reported that after a thorough inspection, they find the roads and bridges in the best condition they have ever been in Tuscola county. The county road commission was given a vote of thanks.

Road Commissioner G. F. Schultz reported total receipts by the commission to be $283,135.93 and total disbursements for the year were $192,887.45, leaving a balance of $90,248.48 in the road funds.

One hundred dollars were appropriated to the Starr Commonwealth, $100 to the Eastern Michigan Tourist Association, $100 to the Salvation Army, and $100 to the Thumb of Michigan Potato Show.

Drain Commissioner Conrad Mueller and Robt. Brown, superintendent of the poor, both submitted reports to the supervisors. Mr. Brown reported that orders on the poor fund for the year ending Sept. 30 were $19,486.41 for medical and hospital care and nursing, $20,602.56 for temporary relief through the 23 townships, $7,669.47 for temporary and permanent relief at other institutions other than the county infirmary, $879.86 for miscellaneous expense, and $11,160.57 for county farm expense making a grand total of $59,798.87. The poor fund was overdrawn $37,091.74 the first of the year, and the overdraft on Oct. 1, 1932, was $42,635.22.

Commencing Jan. 1, 1933, and continuing for two years, all funds belonging to Tuscola county of every kind shall be deposited in the People's State Bank at Caro, the board voted. Sixty-five per cent of the funds shall be treated as a trust fund protected by a depository agreement and the trustee shall be the Detroit Trust Co. The 35% of the county funds not covered by the depository agreement shall be treated as other public deposits.

The county clerk was designated as a purchasing agent for supplies for the county.

The resolutions committee presented a resolution that each township supervisor be permitted to give as much work as possible to men who are on the welfare in the township, such as brushing the township highways or any other work that would come under the township ruling at any time when necessary to be done. The resolution was adopted.

At the election of a road commissioner, A. W. Atkins of Vassar was elected to succeed himself, receiving 16 votes and Loren VanCleve 7. W. J. Kirk was elected superintendent of the poor, without opposition, to succeed himself. At the election of a school examiner, Miss Bernice Turner received 14 votes, Miss Lura DeWitt 4 and Miss Ula North 3.

Dr. O. G. Johnson of Mayville, chairman of the Taxpayers' League, spoke before the board of supervisors on Wednesday morning on the subject of economy.

COW AND CALF SHOW AT DETROIT SCHOOLS.

Six out of ten of the 115,000 Detroit school children who saw the cow and calf exhibited by Michigan State College and a Detroit Dairy Association were having their first experience in viewing the animal which furnishes their daily lunches with milk.

The cow and calf were taken on a specially equipped truck to 80 elementary Detroit schools in the downtown districts. The exhibit was given in place of the nature study period in their course of study. Many of the youngsters had never seen a cow alone and the majority had never seen a cow and her calf together.

The children were allowed to pet the cattle and seemed to be greatly pleased to make the acquaintance of the source of their milk supply. The animals themselves showed equal interest in the proceedings, the calf found the environment so satisfactory that it gained 70 pounds in the four weeks covered by the school visits.

Some of the pupils were only convinced that milk does not grow in bottles when the cow was milked as they were watching. The simple facts about the cow's ability to turn foodstuffs into milk was explained to the pupils and an explanation was given of how the milk reaches them in bottles.

The Detroit Dairy and Food Council and the Detroit Board of Education worked with Michigan State College in arranging to have the exhibits visit the schools.

To Hold Horse Fair and Plowing Match

Some of the best draft horses in the world will be shown in multiple hitch in the plowing contest to be held in conjunction with a horse fair at Michigan State College Nov. 1 and 2.

Plans for the meeting have been made by the Michigan Horse Breeders' Association and entries for the plowing contest and show can be made through H. H. Barnum, county agricultural agent at Mason, Mich. The plowing contest will be held Nov. 1 and a horse show and pulling contest is planned for that evening.

Four, five, six and eight horse teams will be entered in the plowing event. Most of the horses entered are part of the regular power plants used by Michigan farmers in doing ordinary farm work. Multiple hitches have become popular among farmers who have found it necessary to cut down the number of teamsters needed to handle the horses used in their farm operations.

Grand champions in both Belgians and Percherons will be on exhibit at the evening horse fair. Classes for saddle horses are also included in the show list. Ribbons only are to be awarded.

The pulling contest will bring out heavyweight teams which have held state and national records. Four teams are already entered in this event.

A sale of draft horses will be held November 2. The horses in the sale will be in the plowing contest or in the evening show.

Five Requests for Every Child Eligible for Adoption

If one out of approximately every 100 childless families in Michigan would suddenly apply for a child, the entire 2000 aided by the Michigan Children's Aid Society during the year, would have a foster home in prospect.

According to the annual report of the society just released, it was necessary to place 563 of the total number in foster homes, some temporarily and others permanently.

Two-thirds of the dependent and neglected children reached were retained in their own homes. By soliciting relatives in all parts of the state, by supervision and encouragement and by the help of medical agencies, many families, whose case seemed almost hopeless have been kept together.

Typical is the case of a family in a northern county—father away seeking work, mother sent to the hospital for at least three months, four little girls without a home except with already over-burdened neighbors. A temporary foster home was found by the society, nourishing food was given, teeth attended to, tonsils removed and

During the last twelve months, Miss Sarah Salisbury, Children's Aid worker in Tuscola County, placed two children in foster homes, gave aid and supervision to 27, and solicited aid in behalf of a number of others.

Applications from childless families for children to adopt have decreased under current business conditions but there are still five requests to every child eligible for adoption, physically and mentally. The babe under two years has a hundred hands outstretched for him but the homeless child who has reached the age of six and over seldom has such a reception.

Field workers for the Michigan Children's Aid Society are assigned to various sections of the state and during the year have been called into every county in behalf of unfortunate children.

Fifty and Fit

A MAN is as old—or as young—as his organs.

At fifty, you can be in your prime.

Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years?

There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. It will make a most amazing difference in many ways.

This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. It starts its good work with the first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All druggists keep this preparation.

In the Gulch.

GOING down to breakfast the next morning they found Starbuck waiting for them. When he asked what they were going to do with their day, Markham said they were intending to drive about and have a look at Brewster and its surroundings. This brought forth an invitation from the mine owner. "If you are out on the Topaz road, stop at the Little Alice. I'm going out there shortly."

The invitation was accepted, conditioned upon their driving that far. As they were taking the roadster out of the hotel garage Landis asked what was to be the program for the day.

"I want to take a shot at trying to find out what Canby did with those two unaccounted-for hours yesterday morning."

The "shot" was fired methodically by making inquiries on all the roads leading out of Brewster, and it led to nothing until the round brought them to the road over which they themselves had driven in. Here, at a cottage, Markham stopped the car, saying, "There was a light in this house when we came by yesterday morning; I noticed it. It's only another of the wild chances; but we'll ask."

A woman answered their knock, and Markham began the well-worn formula.

"Pardon me, but we'll be grateful if you would answer a few questions for us, if you can. You were up early yesterday morning, weren't you?"

The woman nodded. "I was—all of that. My baby was sick."

"Do you often notice the passing of cars?"

"I couldn't very well help it, could I—living that close to the road like this?" Then, pointing to the roadster, "I saw that car, or one just like it, go by a little after day, yesterday morning."

"Quite right; and we were in it. Was it the only one you saw?"

"No, there were three more; big cars, all just alike. Two going into town, and one coming out. I was

How One Woman

Lost 10 Lbs. in Week

Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, go lighter on fatty meats, potatoes, butter, cream and pastries—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at any drug store in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.—Advertisement 1-4.

sitting by the window."

"Could you see this big car well enough to tell us how it looked?"

"It was a fine, closed car, painted a kind of light yellow; a limousine, they call 'em, don't they?"

Markham nodded. "I suppose you couldn't see the people in it, could you?"

"Only that there was two of 'em in the front seat; a man and a woman."

"Exactly. Now the next one; when did it come along?"

"Maybe a half hour or so after that. It was going the other way. It looked like the same car. Anyway, it was the same color."

"And the third one; which way was it going?"

"It was going in, and it was a big, yellow car, too, just like the others. I saw it good."

"Could you see the folks in it?"

"I could see only the one man, driving."

"An extraordinary good witness, that woman," Markham commented, when they drove on; adding, "That was a happy thought of yours, Owen—timing those three cars. Where does it land you?"

"I think you know. The three cars just alike were one and the same car. And the man driving it all three times was Canby."

"Check! The next question is, why did he double back after he had left the professor and Betty at the hotel?"

"Wait," said Landis; and after a brow-knitting pause, "I'm trying to remember. Coming over last night you repeated for me the talk you overheard between Canby and the three in the Copah garage. Didn't you say something about Canby's meeting the others, as agreed?"

"You've got it! He did say just that. That's why the Fleetwing hasn't shown up in Brewster; they've left it somewhere along the road; and Canby picked them up and brought them in. We're framing the puzzle up, a bit at a time. I—hello—here we are at the Little Alice. Shall we stop?"

"Have to, won't we? If Mr. Starbuck sees us, he'll think it queer if we drive past without stopping."

Markham parked the car, and as he was doing it, Starbuck came out. "You are just in the nick of time to have a noon snack with us," was the mine owner's greeting. "Come on over to the mess shack and meet the staff."

This was their introduction to the engineers' and officer men's mess; and after the meal Starbuck took them in hand and showed them through the mine.

After they had tramped for what seemed like miles in the network, Starbuck halted them in a well-lighted heading where the chattering clamor of the air drills was deafening; and the silence, when the drills stopped, and the miners began to unlimber and drag them back from the heading, was almost painful.

"This is our main lead," Starbuck explained, when the stoppage of the drill clamor gave him leave, "It's what the old miners call a 'true fissure' vein, and they have a belief that such veins grow richer the deeper you drive." Then, "They are aiming to load the holes and fire, and we'd better move out."

As they came out of the mine, Markham asked the location of the Quavapai. Starbuck pointed up the road toward Lake Topaz.

"It's on the other side of the spur in the next gulch. If you are going that way, you'll see the dump as you pass the mouth of the gulch."

They saw it, hanging like a huge gray beard from the mountain side, but a turn in the gulch hid the mine buildings. The side road was barricaded against traffic, and beyond the barricade they saw a man with a gun.

"What do you make of that?" Landis asked.

"No visitors need apply. I wonder what Canby has up his sleeve in there?"

"Time may tell. What do we do now. Go on hunting for the Fleetwing?"

Markham made a sign of assent. "I'd like to know where those three men left it, and why. Also, why Canby went out to meet them."

They stopped at the hotel to glance over the register in search of the three names Markham had copied from the record in St. Joseph. The names did not appear, and, as they were driving out of the hotel grounds they met Canby driving in, not in the yellow limousine, but in a sport roadster. The other occupant of the single seat was Betty Lawson. Canby seemed not to see them, but Betty did and she waved to them.

"You see," said Landis gloomily. "I see that you are taking it lying down." Markham returned in a half growl.

lowing; a car that was apparently having trouble making the grades, since, however slowly they drove, it never overtook them. After a time Landis spoke of the struggling driver.

"That Lizzie seems to be making hard work of it," he said, when, on one of the reverse loopings, they could see it across the intervening gulch. It was stopped, and two men were apparently doing something to the motor.

Markham gave the halted car only a passing glance. "This is the gulch where we saw the fire night before last," he pointed out. "Suppose we climb down there and have a look."

They got out and scotched the wheels with stones. The descent into the gulch was down a precipitous slope. Before they had gone very far they came upon what appeared to be a rough trail, with crushed and broken bushes to mark its course.

"What's been happening here?" Landis asked. "More rock rolling?"

"Looks like it; we'll find out when we get to the bottom."

At the bottom of the gulch they came suddenly upon the thing they were searching for—the remains of the fire. Wedged in the bottom of the gulch was the wreck of a large car crushed into a shapeless heap of junk, and with everything burnable blackened and destroyed.

"Now we know what made the scarred trail," said Markham. "That car ran off the road and came down here and burned up. Is it the Fleetwing?"

Before Landis could reply, there came a vicious spat on the face of the rock debris which they were standing, followed by the crack of a rifle. They ducked behind the boulder, and at that there was an other report and the clang of a bullet upon the iron work of the wrecked car.

"What the—?" Markham choked, grabbing for his pistol. But Landis was cooler.

"Easy," he counseled. "It's those fellows up at the fliver. Don't waste your ammunition. The automatic won't carry half that far."

"D—n!" grunted Markham. "We're penned up here like rats in a trap!"

"No trouble about getting out of it, with all these rocks to dodge around," said Landis. Then, in a sudden upblaze of passion, "I've had about enough of this d—d ambushing business, haven't you? There is good cover on this other side of the gulch. We'll climb out that way and see if we can't do a little of the ambushing ourselves!"

Markham had always thought of Landis as a dreamer, a thinker, a student—as anything but a fighting man.

But here was an entirely new development. The dreamer, pale of face, to be sure, but with his jaw thrust out and the light of battle in his widest gray eyes, was storming up the steep ascent at a pace that made his heavier follower pant and blow. Thus it came about that Landis was the first to step out of a thick growth of little spruces at the level of the road. Markham burst out of the cover a moment later, and what he saw was a further proof that a lifelong friendship may not reveal the whole man, even to his closest intimate.

The small, dusty, rattletrap car was standing as they had seen it from the opposite side of the gulch. Beside it were two men with their hands above their heads in deference to Landis' covering pistol, and at their feet lay the rifle with which one of them had been firing into the gulch. Before Markham could get his breath, Landis was grilling the pair snappily.

"What did you fellows mean by firing at us when we were down a gun."

"What do you make of that?" Landis asked.

"No visitors need apply. I wonder what Canby has up his sleeve in there?"

"Time may tell. What do we do now. Go on hunting for the Fleetwing?"

Markham made a sign of assent. "I'd like to know where those three men left it, and why. Also, why Canby went out to meet them."

They stopped at the hotel to glance over the register in search of the three names Markham had copied from the record in St. Joseph. The names did not appear, and, as they were driving out of the hotel grounds they met Canby driving in, not in the yellow limousine, but in a sport roadster. The other occupant of the single seat was Betty Lawson. Canby seemed not to see them, but Betty did and she waved to them.

"You see," said Landis gloomily. "I see that you are taking it lying down." Markham returned in a half growl.

"You think I wouldn't break in if I had an opening—that I don't care enough? Good Lord, Wally, I'd give the best ten years of my life if I could go back to where I stood with Betty before I began to bury myself in this cursed invention of mine!" He choked up at that, and when he went on, "Show me an opening, Wally, and I'll walk into it if I—I'm gaping on the other side of it! That's how much I'm taking it lying down!"

"Um; that sounds more like it," was Markham's gruff approval, and he drove on.

Before they had gone far, Landis, looking back, saw a small car following; a car that was apparently having trouble making the grades, since, however slowly they drove, it never overtook them. After a time Landis spoke of the struggling driver.

"Where are you fellows from?" he demanded.

"We're from Tennessee. Been to Utah, seen' if hit wuz a fittin' country for white folks. Hit ain't, and we're aimin' to go back where we come from."

Landis lowered his pistol, but held it in readiness. "Why did you stop here?" he asked.

The man jerked his head toward the open cowl of the car, where a disconnected ignition wire offered the reason for a stop.

"Go ahead and fix it," said Landis curtly.

pealing to his mate. "Good gravy! You don't reckon we'd shoot at a man, knowin' it wuz a man, do ye?"

At this point Markham took a hand.

"Where are you fellows from?" he demanded.

"We're from Tennessee. Been to Utah, seen' if hit wuz a fittin' country for white folks. Hit ain't, and we're aimin' to go back where we come from."

Landis lowered his pistol, but held it in readiness. "Why did you stop here?" he asked.

The man jerked his head toward the open cowl of the car, where a disconnected ignition wire offered the reason for a stop.

"Go ahead and fix it," said Landis curtly.

He and Markham waited beside the road until after the car had limped on around the next gulch looping. Then they got into their own car and headed for Brewster.

"Well," Markham said, after they had left the scene of their late adventure a mile or more to the rear, "what's the answer? Is that wreck in the gulch what is left of the Fleetwing?"

"I couldn't be sure. But it was an Eight. You saw that much, didn't you?"

Markham nodded. "Next, what's the answer to the two men in the fliver? Have you figured that out?"

"No; though I more than half believe they were lying. It's lucky for them that I wasn't sure."

"Gosh!" said Markham with a laugh. "A little while ago I said something to the effect that you might be lacking a few of the red corpuscles. I take it all back—every last word of it. Why have you never shown me the fighting side of you before, Owen? You haven't, you know."

Landis' smile was a mere tightening of the lips.

"You've heard the old saying, 'Beware the wrath of a patient man,' haven't you? I'm patient, Wally—too d—d patient, I guess. As I said, I'm fed up. From this time on, by the Lord Harry, I fight for my own hand! I've been robbed and sandbagged and shot at, and the next man that tries it is going to get the best I've got in the box!"

"Gosh!" said Wally again; and this time he did not laugh.

On the flight down the mountain nothing happened until they were on the stretch approaching the side road leading to Canby's mine. Here, however, there was a near accident.

As they ran down they saw a heavy truck backing out of the main road leading to the mine. Markham sounded his horn, but the driver of the truck held on in a way to place the heavy vehicle fairly across the highway.

It was too late to stop, and Markham did the only thing there was to do if a collision was to be averted; stepped on the gas, and with a quick twist of the wheel whipped the roadster around the rear of the backing truck with no more than inches to spare between a deep roadside ditch and the trundling menace.

No word was spoken until they were speeding over the mesa road toward the city. Then Markham said, "We ought to have shot that truck driver, Owen. It would have been justifiable homicide, don't you think?"

"I don't think; I know," was the gritting reply. "That was one of Canby's trucks; I saw the name. 'Quavapai mine' on it as we came up. It's running in my mind that we'll have to kill a few people out here, yet, before we're through, Wally. And by heavens, I'm telling you, right now, if they keep on asking for it, they'll get it!"

New Discovery Reaches Cause of Stomach Gas

THERE'S NO "LIFE" IN STALE GASOLINE

ONLY fresh GAS PACKS FULL POWER!

FRESH-MADE gas packs "life," punch, power. But as staleness increases—power decreases. The "light ends"—the "easy starting" elements—evaporate. Besides that, a physical change takes place—making gas sluggish, weak and "dead."

And the staler the gas, the stickier it is—the more apt to foul your motor. And the more apt it is to knock.

The entire petroleum industry has long sought ways to overcome gas deterioration. Gulf, after years of study, now announces a system that assures you of FRESH, full-powered gasoline! Here's how...

By making the best possible gasoline and refining out the elements (unsaturated hydrocarbons) that cause early deterioration. Thus Gulf postpones staleness.

And by rushing this FRESH gas to you like some perishable food—giving it no time to get stale.

Gulf has spotted its huge refineries in many sections of the country—so that every Gulf filling station is close to a source of FRESH-MADE gasoline. Gulf has geared its whole distribution system to high speed. Fast trucks speed FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day.

Get your money's worth—get FULL power. Get FRESH gas—delivered FRESH. Get Gulf—exclusively.
