JUST wanted to say Merry Christmas, and thanks for the check, Mr. Breen.

Mr. Joseph Breen paused in signing a letter and smiled back at the freckled grin.

"Merry Christmas to you, Jim," he answered, "and you're most welcome to the check. Are you going out to—er—blow it all in, or perhaps give it to your mother for a holiday present?"

"Neither." The excitement of the moment made the lad forget that an office boy was conversing quite freely with the president of the company.

"Mothers ain't so stuck on checks," he continued, "they like something more personal—that shows you really thought about 'em."

"So?" the president's eyebrows went up in question. "And what," he inquired, "did you select that was personal?"

"The swellest scarf!"—Jim was warming up enthusiastically—"all blue and gold and fringe on it, long as my hand."

"It must be a beauty," agreed Mr. Breen. "Yes, but that ain't all, Mr. Breen. My mother said she hoped some folks would sing carols outside our house tonight, 'cause she loved 'em."

"And what do you think? A whole crowd of us are going to sing carols for her. Oh, boy, won't she like that?"

BRUCE BARTON

Writes of "THE MASTER EXECUTIVE"

Supplying a week-to-week inspiration for the heavy-laden who will find every human trial paralleled in the experiences of "The Man Nobody Knows."

THE FIRST MIRACLE.

The Gospels tell a different story. The life of Jesus, as we read it in the scriptures is what the life of Lincoln would be if we were given nothing of his boyhood and young manhood, very little of his work in the White House and every detail of his assassination. All of the four gospels contain very full accounts of the weeping which attended the crucifixion; John alone remembered the laughter amid which the first miracle was performed.

It was in the little town of Cana, not far from Nazareth; and Jesus and his mother had been invited to a wedding feast. Often such a celebration continued for several days. Everybody was expected to enjoy himself to the utmost as long as the food and drink lasted—and it was a point of pride with the bride's mother that both food and drink should last a long time.

Enthusiasm was at high pitch on this occasion when a servant entered nervously and whispered a distressing message to the hostess. The wine had given out.

Most of the guests were too busy to note the entrance of the servant or the quick flush that mounted to the hostess's cheek. But one woman's sight and sympathy were keener. The mother of Jesus saw every move in the little tragedy, and with that instinct which is quicker than reason she understood its meaning. She leaned over to her son and confided the message "Son, the wine is gone."

Well, what of it? He was only one of a score of guests, perhaps a hundred. There had been wine enough as it was; the party was noisy and none too restrained. Besides, there was a precedent in the matter. Only a few weeks before when he was tortured by hunger in the wilderness, he had refused to use his miraculous power to transform stones into bread. If the recruiting of his own strength was beneath the dignity of a miracle, surely he could hardly be expected to intervene to prolong a party like this.

Did any such thoughts cross Jesus' mind? If they did we have no record of it. He glanced across at the wistful face of the hostess—already tears sparkled under her lids—he remembered that the event was the one social triumph of her self-sacrificing life; and instantly his decision was formed.

He sent for six pots and ordered them filled with water. When the contents of the first one was drawn, the ruler of the feast lifted his glass to the bridegroom, and the bewildered but happy hostess: "Every man setteth on first the good wine," he cried, "and when men have drunk freely, then that which is worse. But thou hast kept the good wine until now."

The mother of Jesus looked on in wonder. She had never fully understood her son; she did not ask to understand. He had somehow saved the situation; she did not question how. And that was sufficient for her, is sufficient for us.

A World's Record

MORE than three thousand births without a single loss of either mother or child! That is the official Platt County record of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, in fifty years' family practise in Illinois.

No wonder mothers have such entire confidence in giving little ones Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsini. If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is always healthier. It keeps children's delicate systems from clogging. It will overcome the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength and energy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Charles E. Dunn

Living with People of Other Races.

Lesson for December 4.

Acts 10:30-35.

Golden Text: Acts 10:34.

Our lesson raises an issue of critical importance. The race problem is acute. Those dealing with it realistically live in an atmosphere of prejudice, hatred, and bitterness.

We have in this country over ten million Negroes, about three and a half million Jews, some 337,000 Indians, over 180,000 Orientals, besides large numbers of Mexicans. The presence in our midst of so many colored folks is a source of continual friction leading, at times, to hideous outbreaks.

More than 3,500 Negroes have been lynched in the United States. Our black brethren are also subjected to severe economic discrimination and rigid segregation. And although slavery has been outlawed, it still exists in the South in the form of peonage. Anti-Semitic feeling runs high, forcibly expressing itself in the strict exclusion of Hebrews from certain real estate developments, college and social circles. Our disgraceful treatment of the Indian is well exposed by Helen Hunt Jackson in her book, "A Century of Dishonor."

So bitter has been the feeling against Orientals that at one time there were 19 Chinese hanging from lamp posts in Los Angeles! Now race prejudice is an outward sign of an inward disgrace. In the light of the Golden Text it has no place within those areas of life we call Christian. Fortunately many forces are at work to introduce a kindlier day. The scientist is able to show that the colored races are not inferior. Education has accomplished wonders. Guardians of the law can be just, as indicated by the recent order of the Supreme Court in the notorious Scottsboro case. The churches, also, are alive to the problem, and have studied it with intelligence and sympathy. The various minority racial groups, moreover, by their own courage and initiative, have done much to soften antagonisms and silence criticism. It behooves us all, as Christians, to champion the cause of these oppressed minorities until the Master's day of universal brotherhood dawns.
