STATE SAVES THE SCHOOL SYSTEM

Legislature Provides a Way for Schools to Get Needed Cash.

Lansing, Mich.—When the voters of Michigan went to the polls a year ago and voted to change the system of taxation in this state, hundreds of thousands of them did not realize that they had endangered the educational system of Michigan. Little did they think that through their vote that unless drastic action of some kind was taken the educational opportunities offered the boys and girls of Michigan had been terminated. School leaders by working night and day have worked out a plan whereby it is hoped that the rural, village and city public schools of Michigan can be continued as in the past.

Through a bill that was prepared by Representative Thomas Thatcher of Muskegon, for many years a well known educator of western Michigan and Representative Don Sias of Midland, a former educator, from the sales tax revenues that are to be collected and divert these funds to the schools of the state. States has abandoned isolation, N. H. Davis neutrality rights and the freedom of the seas. Specifically, Mr. Davis pledged his government never to interfere with international action against a nation that has been satisfactorily identified as an aggressor, and to participate in "effective, automatic and continuous" international supervision designed to make certain that the nations carry out their promises in disarmament.

"President Roosevelt's message," he said, "is a clear indication of the fact that the United States will exert full power and influence and accept its just share of responsibility to make the results in disarmament definite, prompt and effective." After announcing that the United States was willing to consult with the other states in case of a threat to peace, Mr. Davis set forth the American policy in these words:

"Further than that, in the event that the states, in conference, determine that a state has been guilty of a breach of the peace in violation of its international obligations and take measures against the violator, then, if we concur in the judgment rendered as to the responsible and guilty party, we will refrain from any action tending to defeat such collective effort which these states may thus make to restore peace."

Asserting that there must be real accomplishment in the way of disarmament, or a reversion to a race in arming, Mr. Davis proposed drastic arms reduction, and promised that the United States would go as far in this as the other states.

Great Britain, Germany and Italy were highly pleased with Mr. Davis' pronouncement, but France remained dissatisfied, both with the security offered by the United States and with the Davis proposals for armament reduction. The more the French get, the more they demand, and their obstinacy is exceedingly irritating to the other nations. Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour told not reduce her armaments unless a ton D. Baker, John W. Davis, Gen. John J. Pershing, John J. Raskob, Silas H. Strawn and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Another list revealed included the names of bank officers and directors to whom the Morgan firm had made loans. Some of these loans had been repaid, but many had not, and in the latter category the largest was a little over $6,000,-000 to Charles E. Mitchell, former president of the National City bank of New York, whose trial for alleged income tax evasion was going on in New York city.

FEDERAL JUDGE HAROLD Louderback of California was acquitted in the impeachment trial in the senate, but he escaped by a narrow margin. On the fifth and most comprehensive charge 45 senators voted guilty and 34 for acquittal. But under the constitutional impeachment procedure a two-thirds vote, is necessary for conviction.

IF THE administration and its supporters in congress have their way, the $3,300,000,000 national recovery bill, providing for regulation of industries and construction of vast public works, will be financed by increased income and gasoline taxes and higher income imposts on stock dividends, as well as the continuation for one year Hugh S. Johnson

1932. That was the pleted. way it was reported to the house

"That is the start of an inflationary step," Woodin said. "It is being done to inject something into the market. In other words, to keep things moving along." Woodin said additional purchases would be "entirely dependent upon conditions." The new law authorizes the reserve bank to buy up to $3,000,000,000 of securities. When the reserve banks buy bonds, cash balances of member banks are increased by equal amounts. The administration hopes that the banks, with these additional funds on hand, will advance them to industry.

President Roosevelt THEN W asked the nations of the world to agree to a tariff truce pending the outcome of the London economic conference, the administration thought it would not be in accord with good faith to assess now the processing taxes on wheat, cotton and perhaps corn and hogs provided for in the farm relief act. But Secretary of Agriculture Wallace thought otherwise, and after a conference with Secretary of State Hull he was permitted to go ahead with this undertaking. Probably there will be protests from Europe and Canada, and then the diplomats must get busy. Secretary Wallace and George N. Peek, co-administrators of the farm relief act, selected Guy C. Shepard of Evanston as administrator in charge of the packing house products under the act. He will have general charge of trade agreements between packers and between producers and processors relative chiefly to hogs and their products. Mr. Shepard was formerly vice president of the Cudahy Packing company. To handle the cotton work under the farm act, C. A. Cobb of Atlanta, Ga., was named. He is editor of the Progressive Farmer-Ruralist.

Both he and Shepard rank alongside of Prof. M. L. Wilson, appointed administrator some time ago. NEW YORK state came to the fore in favor of prohibition repeal in a manner that surprised even the ardent wets. The vote was about twelve to one throughout the state, and in New York city it was approximately forty to one. The 150 delegates elected to the convention all are pledged to repeal, and they will meet in Albany on June 27 to execute the will of the people. The Empire state will thus become the sixth to ratify the repeal amendment to the Constitution.

The record for strange meals is surely held by the dogs who ate a church. Somewhere in the Canadian north pious Eskimos built a church with a frame of walrus ribs, covered with walrus hides. It was a nice church, but between morning and evening services one Sunday, it was torn to pieces and devoured by a pack of hungry dogs.

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users. We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world. We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer -- it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.

"Henocracy" Plan Not Needed in Illinois

Technocracy, or perhaps it might better be termed "henocracy," has appeared in the poultry industry, but the owners of Illinois' 200,000 flocks need not resort to it in order to get benefits, says H. H. Alp, poultry extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. All they need do is follow the Illinois poultry sanitation plan as outlined and advocated by the college, he said.

"Henocracy" is Alp's name for the new system under which hens are kept in individual metal coops assembled in battery form. In Miami, Fla., for instance, 60,000 laying hens were placed in batteries in a ^e 500-room hotel. The concentration of so many birds in one building is made possible through the use of batteries equipped with labor-saving devices for cleaning the equipment and caring for the birds. The hen is even deprived of an opportunity to admire her egg, for as soon as it is laid, it rolls into a trough to be gathered.

The practical lesson in this for flock owners is the strict sanitary conditions under which the hens are kept, Alp pointed out. Much the same benefits which this close confinement gives in the form of disease and parasite control can be obtained by Illinois flock owners through following the college's poultry sanitation plan, he said.

OUR FOREIGN SERVICE

DUBLICISTS and teachers and leaders everywhere agree, I believe, that the demand of our age is for the specialist. The farmer has to be a specialist in the several lines he follows; the professional man or woman can hardly rise above a minimum level without concentrating on a particular subject, and the industrialist who does not understand all phases of the business that is his finds the road full of ruts.

Our government is a leader in this field of specialization. It has experts here, there and everywhere and for this and that and the other subject, but I believe few of them receive more thorough training than do those who are classified as foreign service officers. I do not mean that they have the technical training required of the scientist, or the legal learning of the law divisions, or the skill and training of the type who draft plans for a battleship or a great post office building. It is another type of training, but just as intensive.

It has been less than a score of years since congress finally was willing to enact legislation to make our foreign service one of a career type, a service in which capable individuals might properly expect promotion. That has been done and now only our ambassadors and ministers to foreign capitals remain as political plums to be picked by the victorious party each four years. It seems to me that they, too, ought to be "career" men, but it has not happened. Some of the foreign nations maintain their ambassadors and ministers in that classification and it has long been the conviction of students of the subject that such diplomats are among the best to be found in the corps at Washington.

To get into the foreign service now, it is first necessary for the applicant to pass a stiff examination. It is not a test of grade school nature. The applicant has to know one or more foreign languages; he has to have a rather broad acquaintance with business and finance and he has to satisfy a board of examiners that he knows how to conduct himself when he meets people whether on the business of his government or in a social way.

After he has done all of these things satisfactorily, he starts to "school" under guidance of the Department of State which has a group of men who have been through the experience necessary to Wednesday to their home at Leonenable them to teach the newcomers what to do. The course of study | with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and entails not only study but work in the various divisions of the department where the applicant can see what is done and how and why it is done. He learns there all of the dinner in Bay City, and in the af- born in Summerset Shire, Eng., questions that have arisen between ternoon called on Mr. and Mrs. Aug. 22, 1860. Sanitation Urged for

Checking New Disease

Strict sanitation is the only hope for checking the new poultry disease, leucosis or leucemia, which is spreading as a threat to the $37,000,the Pacific port of Corinto. 000 worth of poultry raised on Illinois farms, according to the animal pathology and hygiene division at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

No specific treatment for the disease is known at this time. Control of it must be attempted through general sanitary measures, together with the disinfection of premises before new stock is introduced. It also is advisable to avoid breeding from infected flocks.

Leucemia is a fatal disease manifested by blood changes. Alchough it has not been definitely proved that it is carried through the egg, the evidence indicates that this is the source of the disease on many farms.

Symptoms may be manifested in America and Europe were doing the world's shipping, she was severely fowls four to six months of age, and the disease may continue in chronic handicapped. form to cause heavy losses. In mature fowls the disease is marked by

The department of State, therefore, has divided its work so that one section supervises relations with a particular part of the world where the problems and the people have some common basis.

To accomplish this end and simplify administration, six divisions have been created in the department. They are the divisions of Far Eastern affairs, Latin-American affairs, Western European affairs, Near Eastern affairs, Mexican affairs and Eastern European affairs. It will suffice to show the scope of these groups to point out that China ford. and Japan are among the nations included in the Far Eastern division; that all of South and Central America are included in the Latin-American list: that Great Britain and France are among those under Western European supervision: that Albania and Bulgaria are listed as Near Eastern; that Finland and Poland are termed Eastern European and that Mexico is dealt with alone in one division.

Acting under the general supervision of the secretary, or the under secretary, the chiefs of these divisions are the direct contacts of the foreign service personnel with their government at home. Of course, in a time of crisis, the secretary or the under secretary is kept constantly informed of every development. but the routine guidance of our foreign policy after all is quite generally conceived and executed in those divisions in conjunction with the diplomat at his post of duty, be it a few hundred miles from Washington, such as in Canada, or in far-away Sumatra. ©, 1932, Western Newspaper Union.

MONDAY MORNING

FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 1933.

TAKE it any way you look at it Monday morning is a bad time for the children. The week-end broke their routine. Their bodies have been forced to adjust them selves to another rhythm and that always makes children, and grown people, irritable. They don't mean to be bad tempered, they just are, and cannot help it. When your whole body is grumbling your mind cannot maintain a sweet and strong attitude. That would be too much to ask even of one's mind.

Things are always lost on Monday morning. The brief case that John left "right there," cannot be found. The belt of Janet's dress which she knows she fastened to the dress the very last thing Friday afternoon, has vanished.

The schoolroom fares no better. indeed it fares worse. The children arrive in various' degrees of distress. They got up late, the breakfast wasn't right, the milkman hadn't come. The teacher feels dull, tired, weighted down with the cares of the ages. Monday morning isn't the happiest time imaginable for any of us. It takes a long time to get by it and that means so much time wasted. What is to be done about it?

For one thing, don't begin Saturday until Friday is nearly com-F pleted. Too many children think Saturday begins Friday noon. Keep them to their schedule. All lessons are to be completed Friday afternoon and no excuse for leaving them until the week-end is to be allowed. That means that mother will be saved hunting for a fountain pen and a sheet of note paper on which to write an excuse to the teacher on Monday morning.

All school clothes, books, what-ever has to do with school on Mon-× day morning is to be laid waiting and ready before going to bed on Friday night, exactly as it would be if it were Thursday night. That K means that mother won't have to hunt for somebody's shoe, belt, hat, and whatnot.

When things have been arranged for school on Monday morning let the weed-end have its way. Children need to break routine as well as to maintain it. Let the children ¥ rest and play, secure in the knowl-edge that they are ready for Mon-W day morning. We won't have a hundred per cent perfection but we will save a lot of trouble and time. M We can eget the school work well started by Monday afternoon in-F stead of Tuesday. And we can M maintain some sort of peace and order in the household over the zhzhzhzhzhzhzhzhzhzhzhzhzhzhzhzh week-end.

LESSON by Charles E. Dunn

Jesus Faces Betrayal and Denial Lesson for June 4. Mark 14:10-

Golden Text: Isaiah 53:3.

Our lesson introduces us to one of the most tragic characters in the Bible, the disciple whom Jesus failed to win. Now Judas presents a very baffling problem to the interpreter of human motives. On the one hand, it is easy to be too lenient in our judgment. DeQuincey for example, maintains that Judas betrayed his Master from the highest motives, in order that Jesus might demonstrate His power, overthrow His enemies, and reign as King. On the other hand, it is easy to be too harsh, to picture the traitor as altogether black, with no saving grace whatever. The fact is that he was very human. Both good and bad.

The pathos of his pitiful career ies in the fact that he might have been a saint but chose to be a devil! He had the best chance in the world to make good. And he made shipwreck of his opportunity. Daily he stood with the Master at the gates of heaven, but he chose hell's "Looked that way to me," an-swered Reagan enviously. "I always did wish I could afford them kind of clothes. I'll bet there ain't a suit in yonder that cost less'n a hundred bucks." Hanvey sank into a chair and lighted a cigar. "Ain't it tough to think of a kid like Vernon having it easy like he did and then getting mixed up in a nasty mess like this?" "You tell 'em, Jim. Yonder is the place the dagger was hanging-it fits that spot exactly. And you can tell it's a foreign thing. "Ain't any question about that.

It sure don't look awful healthy for Mister Vernon." "It don't-and I'm sorry. I be-

We know that Vernon was desperate for want of money. We know that he went to Thayer's room and that shortly afterward Thayer's dead body was found.

Now we locate the knife with which he was killed. We find it in Vernon's room and identify it positively-or will pretty soon-as being part of Vernon's collection of weapons. We have every reason to believe that the kid went plumb loco and took part in a bank robbery because he was desperate. The robber probably made a deal with him that all he had to do was-drive a car, figuring no one would ever suspect a college student's car in a college town, even if it was hitting sixty on the road. And I also know that he has lied like the devil about everything since I put him under arrest." Jim whistled softly. "It sort of makes Mister Vernon out to be a pretty tough hombre, John."

"He isn't that. I just think he went nuts." "Maybe so. . . But he sure stayed crazy a long time."

Reagan was a trifle annoyed. It did not please him to have his damning summary greeted with even the slightest semblance of

"Vernon had left the fraternity house before Welch got there, yet Welch says that he had a long rific shock to which she had been Snakes for Medicine and Food subjected. Tragedy - grim and stark-had invaded her life early, and left her peculiarly matured. There were dark circles under her eyes, to tell the story of tearful, sleepless nights-and she twisted her hands nervously. When the dean had gone she addressed Hanvey with courageous directness.

"Are you in charge of this case now?" "Yes, Miss Welch-I guess so."

"Well, I'm glad. This man here" -she jerked her bobbed head toward Reagan-"is absolutely dumb." "Is he, really?"

"I'll say he is. Else why would he keep my brother in jail? Anybody could talk to Larry and see that he isn't the kind who would kill anybody. That is, anybody but a cop!"

Hanvey turned gravely to his lar thing to do. companion.

"You see what the public thinks about you, John. And seeing that we don't need any solid ivory around here-suppose you run along and let me talk to this young lady alone?"

"Very well," Reagan rose, without resentment, and started for the door. Hanvey followed. He spoke in guarded tones. "Just had a hunch I could do more with her alone, John. Suppose you take this knife down to the jail and ask Vernon if he's ever seen it before.'

"Come back and come in. 1 got a hunch she and I will be pretty good buddies by then."

Former State Representative John Espie who during the many years he was a member of the state legislature as a representative of the farmers of the state, declares after making a careful study of the numerous sales tax bills before the legislature that Michigan farmers are going to pay just as much as they ever did. Under the new sales tax system that is sure to be adopted, there is no way the farmer can escape paying this tax. In fact there are others associated with the legislature who have the same idea as Mr. Espie. Some even go so far as to say that the farmer will pay more than ever before. Only time will tell.

Senator Francis Kulp of Battle Creek, outstanding member of the state senate who came into the legislature on the Democratic landslide last fall, is bitter in his denouncement of lobbyists who come to Lansing to influence legislation.
