

M. D. VanWagoner Stresses . Its Value to Agriculturists and Tourists.

大子 肥

Murray D. VanWagoner, state highway commissioner, in his address at Bad Axe Saturday, at the celebration of the opening of nine miles of pavement on M-53, between Bad Axe and Kinde, said he "Old Songs." considered M-27 as the most important road in the "Michigan mitten." He likewise regarded M-53 as the most important road in "Michigan's Thumb". Born be-tween Marlette and Kingston, he has long realized the great agricultural possibilities of this section of the state. With its vast amount of shore line, one is impressed with the possibilities of bringing tourists and the need of improved highways, he said.

Emmett L. Raven, Huron county agricultural agent, pointed out that farmers of Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties send $3,000,000 worth of farm products to Detroit annually over M-53.

hearings and then fix the wage rates and working hours for the recalcitrant trades. These enforced regulations will apply until the industries present their own codes.

If it is necessary to adopt arbitrary codes, these will be based on data gathered by the administration's statistical expert, Dr. Alexander Sachs, who has already prepared a setup codifying various leading industries according to a number of conditions. They have been rated according to wage scales existing in various years, chiefly the boom year of 1929, and charts have been prepared showing how far cuts in working hours must be made to restore a mass of employment equal to predepression days.

With these data Doctor Sachs has shown conclusions as to how much each industry ought to pay in minimum wages, how many employees it ought to absorb from the army of idle, and how many hours those employees ought to work every week.

Two important codes received were those of the lumber and steel industries. The former pegged wages so low and working hours so long that General Johnson said: "They are wholly unacceptable and will. in no case, be approved." A public hearing on this code was set for July 20. In submitting the code, John D. Tennant, representing the lumber men, declared it would result in "a substantial increase" in the number of employees, and that it would increase pay rolls by more than $10,000,000 in the month of August alone.

The most extraordinary thing about the lumber code is that it would set up "an emergency national committee," to be appointed by the 27 associations applying for the code, which would have the strongest of autocratic power, to the point of exerting absolute control over the entire industry.

The cotton textile code was approved by the President and went Eastman, and the director of the civilian conservation corps, Robert Fechner.

Frank C. Walker, treasurer of the National Democratic committee, was appointed secretary of the council. During the summer and perhaps longer the regular Tuesday cabinet meeting is to be superseded by a meeting of the council.

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR ICKES, in his capacity as public works administrator, and his assistants are mighty busy these days, for government departments, states and municipalities are scrambling for shares of the $3,300,-000,000 which is to be spent under the public works program of the administration. The proposed federal projects were given first consideration. and a long list of them was approved by Mr. Ickes and submitted to the President. Application from states and municipalities came next, many of them having previously been approved by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

An additional $26,276,400 of the $400,000,000 allocated for public road gifts to the states was approved when the allotments for Ohio, Massachusetts and Utah received the final indorsement of

Questions and Answers

What's the heaviest substance known? Lead? No, osmium. What's the hardest? The diamond? Yes. The most ductile? Gold. What's the hottest temperature we can produce. About 5,800 degrees Centigrade. What's the coldest? About 272 degrees below zero Centigrade. What's the most costly substance? Radium, at more than $2,000,000 an ounce. All according to Dr. B. S. Hopkins, in National Farm Journal.

disposes of letters and papers and parcels improperly addressed or never called for at the local post office and which eventually are classed as "dead letters."

Railway mail, international mail and air mail are supervised by the second assistant postmaster general. All of the finances of the postal service are assigned to the jurisdiction and control of the third assistant postmaster general.

The third assistant is responsible for determination of the income of the postal service. In other words, he seeks to work out policies and programs to keep income and outgo somewhere near even, though it has happened in very few years in history. To do that, the third assistant must seek to find the cost of handling the various kinds of mail and the performance of the many services now imbedded in the postal service. For example, the parcel post rate on a pound package from Washington to Kansas City should be approximately the same as it costs to collect, transport and deliver that package to the addressee.

It is a nice problem, but without the answer or an approximate figure, the postal deficit can get out of hand. In the hands of the fourth assistant postmaster general are concentrated all of the mechanical and engineering phases of the service. He runs a gigantic shop for manufacturing mail bags and other equipment, and buys the equipment which the government does not make. It is under his supervision that the new post office building in your town was designed and constructed (if owned by the government) and he makes the rental contracts if the building is leased. And as though he had nothing else to do, the fourth assistant is the "boss chauffeur" and garage manager and mechanic for the thousands of motor vehicles which the postal department owns and uses.

OLD FASHIONED TOWNS.

For a long time we were led to believe that the small town as an important part of American community life was slowly falling into decay. Like the crossroads store, writers said, it was doomed to extinction. Many reasons were given for this change, chief of which was the refusal of the younger generation to confirm to its old-fashioned simplicity, its exacting social standards, its determination to cling to the homely paths of truth, virtue and rugged individualism in the midst of a world that seemed to have gone mad in its wild desire to follow after strange gods.

There was a reason for this rebellion of youth. It was a time of swift changing social practices which made them restless, they felt Oriental Village-visited by thouthey were being unduly subdued. sands daily at A Century of Prog-They longed for the big centers of ress-the Chicago World's Fair. population where they were told of riches to be gained almost without effort, where there was opportunity for wider expression of personal freedom, where much of the old time restrictions surrounding youth had been removed, where life the Pontiac State hospital on Tueswas no longer the mirror of the soul.

Our Children NEARBY SECTIONS By ANGELO PATRI nonth and retired. Numbers 1 and ©, Bell Syndicate.-WNU Service. ~~~~~

THE TEACHER'S DRESS THE teacher's dress is part of

- the classroom atmosphere. I would say that it was a very large part of it. The children look at the teacher all day long. If what they see is pleasant, if the colors are bright, if the style is good, the picture attractive, the children feel better. Anything that makes them feel better makes them do better. The teacher's dress affects them on: way or the other and for everybody's sake let us hope it is for the better. Bright red clothes are not for classroom. A red costume would stimulate a class out of bounds. Red is cheerful but it has other qualities that make it unfit for school wear. Blue is always good. The children love it.

Teachers ought not to wear mourning clothes in the classroom. If they feel they must wear them they ought to be laid aside during school hours. It is our duty to make school a cheerful, pleasant, place. Our troubles, our disturbed feelings, our at Lansing. prejudices are not to touch the children if we can help it. #### Slave Breeding Continues

ŵ

Slaves are actually bred in certain parts of Arabia and Africa. Some of the mothers are sold from one owner to another and rarely see their children again. The total number of slaves in the world exceeds 5,000,000, more than the population of Scotland. These were among the startling statements made by the secretary of the Anti-Slavery society, at a public meeting in Glasgow, Scotland, to commemorate the abolition of slavery in British possessions 100 years ago.

tion of man power exceeds even the mobilization of American troops during the World war in a like period-three months. Director Robert Fechner reported that 250,000 men were living and working in the forest camps; another 24,000 were in the conditioning camps, and 25,000 more were being recruited from the ranks of the idle. These men receive a dollar a day and their keep from the federal government, and are engaged in constructive labor, whereas a few weeks ago they were idle. As Mr. Fechner says:

"They have been given a chance. Overnight they have become contributors to the family needs, to the extent of at least twenty-five dollars monthly, with direct benefit to their relatives and to local relief agencies."

 $E_{\rm tions\ between\ the\ United\ States}^{\rm FFORTS\ to\ renew\ trade\ relations}$ and Soviet Russia, earnestly promoted by Smith Wildman Brookhart, are bearing fruit. The first result is a deal by which Russia acquires 60,000 to 80,-000 bales of Ameri-can cotton. It is to be financed by the Reconstruction Finance corporation which will make a series of loans to-

The loans will be for one year and, like the $50,-000,000 advanced to China by the Reconstruction corporation for the purchase of wheat and cotton, will bear 5 per cent interest.

There was much discussion as to whether this transaction foreboded diplomatic recognition of the Soviet government by the United Statesanother of Brookhart's hobbies. Assistant Secretary of State Moley had an intimate talk in London with Maxim Litvinov, astute commissar of Russia. Riga dispatches say that Moscow expects this recognition by July 31.

L ITVINOV greatly strengthened the Russian government's world position by bringing to a successful conclusion negotiations for a pact of non-aggression with seven of its neighbors. The states signing this convention, besides Russia, are Esthonia, Latvia, Poland, Rumania, Turkey, Persia and Afghanistan. Litvinov said in London:

"The convention constitutes a new link in the chain of the Soviet government's measures systematically directed towards reinforcement of peaceful relations with neighbors. The Soviet Union is ready to sign similar conventions with any other states irrespective of their geographical position and existing relations with itself."

Several days later it was announced that Lithuania and Russia had signed a pact along the same

Delegates of the gold bloc nations, led by France, were angered both by the President's attitude on stabilization and by what they considered his dictatorial manner, and Prime Minister MacDonald was grievously disappointed. The conference leaders met and after a lot of exceedingly plain speaking adopted a resolution to adjourn, which was what the gold bloc insisted Secretary Hull alone, still upon. hopeful and clinging to the internationalist doctrines which the President had abandoned, argued for continuance of the conference and finally persuaded the other leaders to withhold the adjournment resolution until further word had been received from Mr. Roosevelt. The President's second communication was more conciliatory in tone but showed no disposition to retreat from the position he had taken. He asserted that the raising and stabilization of commodity prices was the major objective and the exchange value of the dollar in terms of foreign currencies a minor consideration. There was no mention of tariff reductions. Delegates of France, Holland, Belgium, Italy, Poland and Switzerland -the chief gold standard nationsmet informally and formed a monetary pool which pins all their currencies one to another. They also decided in principle to form an economic union. THE wheat committee of the eco-nomic conference alone accomplished something. It announced that the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina, the great wheat producing countries, had accepted the American plan for restriction of acreage and production. The agreement is subject to the assent of importing countries to some provisions for abolition of certain regulations concerning milling and guotas. # Crops Will Attract

Grain crops at Michigan State College will be harvested before Farmers' Day, Friday, July 28, but all other crops will be growing on the hundreds of acres which attract visitors to the testing ground for all crop varieties, and members of the Michigan State College staff will be ready to tell the why and wherefore of each experimental planting.

Cultural methods, fertilization, insect control, disease control, effects of irrigation, selection of petition, praying for license to sell all other problems which concern tain real estate therein described, all other problems which concern the growing of Michigan crops are continuously studied on the col-o'clock in the forenoon, at said lege fields. The answers found to production problems are now used on nearly every Michigan farm.

Plant breeding to secure higher yielding varieties or those which are immune to certain diseases is one of the most interesting phases of the crops work. College workers of the crops work. College workers are able to produce almost any type of plant wanted if they are action of a copy of this order, for type of plant wanted if they are given time enough to work out three successive weeks previous to their selections. The Michigan potato acreage is estimated at 255,000 acres for 1933, a reduction of 5,000 acres from the amount harvested last fall. Late planted fields have come up too thin and uneven stands in a good many sections as a result of the drought and heat. In northern commercial areas where soils are lighter and where June rainfall was more evenly distributed, the condition is better than in the southern counties. The July 1 condition, reported at 72 per cent, is 14 points below average, indicating a crop of 20,400,000 bushels. Last year's production amounted to 29,-
