John Michler, Kingston; Harrison Maier, Mayville; Bert Kester, Millington; Elmer Haines, Vassar; Carl Volmar, Caro; Frank Biles, Akron; Audley Rawson, Gagetown; Milton Adams, Fairgrove; Ernest Buschlin, Unionville; and Meredith Auten, Cass City, are the men chosen in Tuscola county as members of the organization committee to begin the work of reducing the wheat acreage in this county as requested by Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture.

This committee will be charged with explaining to Tuscola farmers and business men how the plan will work and how the people of this county will benefit from its opera-

The purpose of the wheat production allotment plan is to insure the farmer a price for his wheat which is equal in purchasing power to that of the 1914 crop. This can be obtained only by reducing the production of wheat to a point that guarantees a generous supply for the needs of the people of the United States but that does not create an enormous oversupply to demoralize the domestic and the world wheat markets.

There are a number of salaries fixed by the constitution which are beyond reach of the legislature. Then there are a number where bills introduced to strike the statutory salaries and place the compensation of officials before each session when the biennial budget is being prepared failed of passage. Though there may be many dissidents. carpers and selfish hideouts, it is apparent that the people are determined to give the N. I. R. A. program a fair trial. Industrial leaders in general are willing to shorten work hours, and increase wages. There is, however, one section of the "jobs agreement" that arouses considerable distrust. We have seen the result of action of that kind in the continuing descent into the economic hell of the past four years."

While pleading for voluntary action and promising the creation of "rolls of honor" of signers to be posted in their home towns, Mr. Roosevelt warned his hearers that the law gives him power to deal with those who try "to thwart this great common purpose by seeking selfish advantage."

BRAZIL'S CITIES ARE WONDERFUL

Rio, Sao Paulo, Pernambuco and Bahia Pictured.

Prepared by National Geographic Society.
Washington, D. C.—WNU Service. ENSUS enumerators recently have completed counting 42,-931,042 people in Brazil. While the state spreads over an area greater than that of the United States, nearly every great population center lies on the Atlantic coast.

There are ten Brazilian cities with more than 100,000 inhabitants. Of the first four, Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Pernambuco (Recife), Pernambuco owes much of its progand Bahia (Sao Salvador), only Sao Paulo is inland.

Rio de Janeiro, the capital, contributed nearly 1,500,000 people to the census enumerators' figures. Amid Brazil's amazing coastal panorama of verdant forests, mysterious rivers, foaming cascades, untrod mountains and polyglot populous towns, Rio remains the very acme of human interest.

As the traveler enters glittering Rio and beholds the alabaster-like city of palms, marble, mountains and color, he is astounded. Here is an illusion from the Arabian Nights dream, a magnificent super-city never built by man. Look at those amazing mountain peaks that rise from the sea. They cannot be of this world; they are unreal, like a landscape on the moon.

To enter this great world port you walk down the gangplank and straight out into a formal garden with a big bronze fountain. This leads off into a Fifth avenue-like boulevard which in turn flows into a wide, world-famous beach drive, past embassies, clubs, and more palms and geometric gardens. Dingy docks, pawnshops, pool halls, quickand-dirty cafes, cheap rooming houses, touts and runners, dirt, smells-all the trash and claptrap of many other water fronts, are ABRHTBE missing here.

Rising fully 1,200 feet and almost straight out of the sea, Sugar Loaf, lofty sentinel of the Rio harbor, is easily the city's outstanding landmark. Incoming air pilots, if half lost in fog or rain, hail its familiar outlines with grunts of relief. In a queer aerial trolley—a dizzy trip which is a supreme triumph for the nervous-you can reach its top.

Sao Paulo, second largest of Brazilian cities, is capital and business metropolis of Sao Paulo state. It is one of the oldest cities in South America, but its age has not deprived it of modern commercial development.

Fifty years before the Capt. John Smith-Pocahontas episode at Jamestown, Va., a Portuguese sailor founded Sao Paulo and married the daughter of a native Indian chief. Later Jesuit missionaries established a church at the settlement 31 5 12 11 5 and held the first religious service on the feast day in celebration of the conversion of St. Paul.

Sao Paulo's Swift Growth. For three centuries Sao Paulo enjoyed isolation, unfettered by colonial laws of Portugal. It was about that time, at Bahia. In 1875 the ball is Sao Salvador. According to the of commercial progress started rolling among the inhabitants, and newcomers were instilled with a boom | in All Saints bay in the neighborspirit. In slightly more than fifty | hood of Bahia during the early days years the city has increased in population from 26,000 to nearly 900,-000. New streets that were built | Portuguese government, however, were made broad and straight and flanked with modern buildings. The railway depot, municipal and state government buildings, museums, libraries, schools, and some of its new business buildings would be flattering additions to many cities of the world of the same size. Three huge public gardens and more than fifty parks break the monotony of the miles of streets.

Sao Paulo might properly be called the city that coffee built. Many of the palatial residences are those of coffee "barons." In Sao Paulo streets huge trucks, heavy carts, and perspiring men laden with sacks of coffee are always within eye shot. Coffee was not introduced into Brazil until two centuries ago, but the price of coffee now largely governs the rise and fall of Sao Paulo's prosperity. While Ethiopia is the original home of coffee, Sao Paulo state has adopted the greater portion of the descendants of the original coffee berries. If all the coffee plantations in the state were in one plantation, it would cover an area as large as Delaware and Rhode Island combined.

More than 3,500 miles of railroads now use Sao Paulo as a hub. The railroad from Sao Paulo to Santos, the city's port on the Atlantic, has been one of the world's most profitable steel highways, although its upkeep per mile is staggering. In the 87 miles of sinuous tracks between the cities, trains must climb from sea level at Santo to nearly 3,000 feet at Sao Paulo. In one sevenmile section the line rises more than 2,000 feet. Pernambuco, third largest city, is the easternmost city of the western hemisphere and is called the gateway to South America for Europe-South America-bound aviators. Pernambuco state, of which the city is the capital, and two other states, make up the northeastern shoulder of their continent. To Brazilians, the city is known as Recife.

Huge Reward Ready For Wheat Growers

Benefit payments for wheat acreage reduction in Michigan amounting to $2,500,000 a year are dependent upon the full cooperation of state farmers with the federal plan for wheat adjustment, according to B. W. Allin and H. W. Gilbertson, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, who talked to Michigan county agricultural agents at Kalamazoo and at Flint.

The average Michigan annual production of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat would qualify the growers for the huge sum but this amount will be reduced proportionately by the number of farmers who prefer to play a lone hand in the wheat game rather than to cooperate with their neighbors.

The members of the U.S. Department of Agriculture explained that the purpose of the federal plan is to bring the price of wheat to a point where it has the same purchasing power as it had in 1914. average time of hitching to the This is to be done by making it profitable for wheat growers to reduce their wheat acreage so that plenty is raised for domestic consumption but no burdensome surplus is produced to depress the price of wheat sold. Mr. Gilbertson stated that the increase in wheat prices to farmers would result in benefits to all classes of industry as the added purchasing power of farmers would be reflected in calls for more manufactured goods and for increased pay rolls in factories.

County agricultural agents and Smith-Hughes high school teachers will address local meetings in their counties to explain how the allotment plan operates. Committees to administer the plan in Michigan counties will be selected by farmers following the local meet-

In some states farmers have christened it the "potato bug bird" since it is especially fond of the bug and its

RUTH

LESSON TEXT-Ruth 1:6-19. GOLDEN TEXT—Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. I John 4:7.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Gift of Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ruth the Loyal.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Ruth the Loyal.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Message of the Book of

In order to grasp the material contained in the subject there must be swept into view the whole book of Ruth. The lesson committee recognized this and assigned the book as the lesson text. However, for convenience the lesson text which is to be printed has been confined to the first chapter, verses 6-19. I. Ruth's Connection With the Jewish Nation (1:1-15). 1. The sojourn in Moab (vv.1-31). On account of famine in Bethlehem of Judea Elimelech with Naomi, his wife, and their two sons sojourned in the land. During this sojourn Elimelech died, leaving Naomi, the widow, to care for two fatherless sons.

2. The marriage of the two sons (v. 4). During the sojourn the two sons fell in love with and married Moabitish women named Orpah and Ruth. For God's chosen people even to sojourn in the world exposes them to the likelihood of intermarriage of the members of the family with the people of the world, 3. The death of the sons (v. 5). In a brief time, three widows were left in the one family relation. This family went to Moab to escape trouble, only to have their troubles greatly increased. When God's people go into the world to escape difficulties they are sure to suffer in consequence. II. Naomi's Return to the Land of Judah (vv. 6-14).

Because of the chastisement that was sent upon Naomi, she resolved to return to her country. The purpose of God's chastisement is to cause his children to return unto

When the time came for Naomi to go, Ruth and Orpah accompanied her for a distance. This she permitted, but determined to place before them frankly the difficulties that would confront them. Having laid the matters before them, she urged them to turn back. As much as Naomi loved her daughters-in-law, she would not have them go with her without knowing fully what their decision meant. III. Ruth's Noble Choice (vv. 16-18).

This choice on her part meant: 1. No chance to marry again. In to marry outside of their own peo-

2. She must renounce her gods. Idolatrous worship could not be carried on in the land where God's people dwelt. This was delicately touched upon by Naomi when Orpah went back (v. 15). Orpah went back when it was plain that there was no chance to marry again. At this time Naomi put an additional her religion. Ruth was equal to the up. Her very expressions have "no poetry has outrivaled, and no pathos has exceeded, and which have gone through centuries with the music that will not let them be forgotten." She was determined to share Naomi's journey, her home, her God, her lot in life and her grave in death, whatever that would be. It meant that she would renounce her heathen gods, and worship Jehovah. IV. Blessings Which Attended

Ruth's Choice (chaps. 2-4). 1. She found the true God (1:16). Instead of her heathen gods who were unable to help her, she now had a living God-the God of Israel. 2. She found human friends

(chap. 2). As she went to glean she was led to the field of Boaz, a man of wealth and grace. The servants treated her with consideration. Even Boaz gave instructions for special consideration to be given

3. A good husband and a happy secured a husband, but a man of 30 days. God who had an abundance of this world's goods.

4. An honored place in the Israelitish nation (4:13-17). Though she had to forsake her own people, she became one of a nobler people.

5. She became a link in the chain of Christ's ancestry (4:18-22, cf. Matt. 1:5). The one who fully decides for Christ and gives up all for him shall receive a hundredfold in this life, and in the world to come eternal life.

Have your neighbors ever dropped into your home to borrow the weekly collection of circular letters, hand bills, etc., that the users think are as good as advertising in your favorite country newspaper? — Monomonee, Wis., Falls News.

Few people realize the actual coverage of even the most modest country newspaper. Not long ago an advertising expert was quoted as saying that careful research had ascertained that a certain well known metropolitan paper is read—on an average—for the space of twenty minutes, while the average country newspaper has a "reading life" of three hours to its credit.

It is kept around the house for a week and everyone in the family takes his turn in going through its pages.

This is some thing for both the subscriber and advertiser to think about.

Good prices for oats with enough quality to make them suitable for seed are predicted by the farm crops department at Michigan State College, which advises farmers to save any of this grain which is suitable for planting next year's crop.

New oats will probably be of fair quality in this state but the yield will be very low. Reports from the principal oat producing states indicate that a short crop is being harvested all over the country and that buyers are already looking for stocks of seed oats.

Feeding tests made by the animal husbandry department at the college show that oats have no exceptional feeding value for most classes of live stock and that other grains should be substituted for them when there is an opportunity

Michigan has a ready market for grains and seeds built up through Morning worship service at 11:00 years of supplying high quality present unusually short oat crop to place their entry first. Victory will probably start buyers to Junior and Senior Endeavor at searching in Michigan for good

 COMPETITION

TT IS an excellent human quality, this ambition to excel. It is the stimulus of growth. Few of us can run our best without a pacemaker Teachers found this out long ago and made the most of it.

"Look at this, John Smith. Five right out of ten. Fifty per cent. Harold, you got a hundred. That's a mark to be proud of. If I were you, John Smith, I wouldn't let Harold show me up like that. Maybe he is smarter than you are?"

"Finished already, Caroline? Always the first. Gertrude, aren't you ever going to catch up to your friend? She's leaving you far behind. Don't let her beat you like

tive instinct to action. Ambition has been stirred but it was of that kind of ambition worthy men have died. It is an unworthy ambition. It rested on personal grudging, fear, 'and finally hatred. Bitter feeling is the certain result of such competition. The children take sides, the parents take sides and soon the community is involved in a wasteful struggle costs too much.

Competition is essential to sturdy ambition but the competition should be centered upon one's self. It is much harder to get a child to compete with his self of yesterday than it is to stir him to fight against his classmate. But when we consider the aim of this competition there can be no question about the sort we want to foster. We will put a soft pedal on any competition that pits one child against another, one class against another. The only growth the child is concerned in is his own. It should be that growth he competes against and for.

Let each child have a plotting sheet. Teach him how to make a curve of his progress in the subjects that you think he needs to cultivate. Spur his interest on with all your might but keep it on that red line he is tracing on the sheet. He will be just as thrilled to see it take on heights as ever he could

Even then we have to be on guard against the wrong sort of competition. One child will have a higher peak than another, and more of them but if you have made the meaning of the chart plain no harm can be done.
