Cuba in Turmoil as Machado Refuses to Quit the Presidency—Germany Rebuffs Britain and France—National Recovery Progress.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

GERARDO MACHADO, president of Cuba, appeared to be reaching the end of his rope, but was stubbornly defiant of his opponents and flatly rejected the plan that was offered by United States Ambassador Sumner Welles...

however, might not be interested in the products affected by the treaties because the treaties would affect particular products which would best be manufactured in some one nation.

French fears of another war with Germany were sharply stimulated by the abrupt refusal of the Hitler government to consider the parallel requests made by Great Britain and France that Nazi propaganda in Austria be discontinued.

Italy had declined to join Britain and France in their protest, but did make friendly representations to Berlin concerning the Nazi aerial propaganda over Austrian territory.

ARIZONA became the twenty-first state to ratify the prohibition repeal amendment, the wets winning by a majority of more than 3 to 1. Their victory was unexpectedly complete, although the dries had failed to muster enough votes to place delegates on the ballot.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT by his appeal to both sides and Hugh Johnson by vigorous argument and threat brought the big bituminous coal strike in Pennsylvania to an end. Their efforts were ably seconded by Edward F. McGrady, the NRA labor representative in the controversy.

Under terms of the truce reached in Washington the miners are to lay their problems before a board appointed by the President, pending acceptance of the coal code. Miners are to employ their own check-weighmen to calculate the amount of coal produced, upon which their pay depends.

CHINA'S last faint chance to recover Manchuria and Jehol from Japan probably has disappeared, for Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, the independent commander who had been leading the fight against Japanese aggression, has given up and signed a peace pact with the national government.

KIDNAPERS AND RACKETEERS

THE man most publicized as an underworld character now reposes in Atlanta federal prison. He is the notorious Scarface. He went to prison not for bootlegging, or for racketeering, or for narcotic trafficking, or for gambling and vice rings, or for murder. He went to prison because he refused to divide with the federal government the proceeds of these modern activities.

Fundamentally, it differs from booze in two major features. First, the average citizen abhors it and will, as a decent citizen, do what he can to stop the traffic. So narcotic laws are enforced with comparative ease.

But prohibition is just about gone. The galling gold of the "alky" fountain is missing. What becomes of the successor to the millions of his majesty the Scarface? Late reports had him fleeing toward Mexico while in his clutches writhed the victim of a sensational kidnaping.

involve a manufacturer of forbidden fruits who paid one hundred thousand dollars to kidnapers. These men actually marched him into his bank and stood by, pistols concealed in their pockets, while the victim got the money and handed it over in the presence of the vice president of the bank, unaware, of course, of the whole procedure in its true significance.

"Why not fight back?" I asked this victim. "You handed over the money but you know who got it. Why not fight?"

"I've a wife and children," he answered simply. "What's money, with their lives at stake?" Jack "Legs" Diamond was a bootlegger. He was an interesting one in that—to the best of my knowledge—he was the first of the tribe to lay the urban problem on the suburban doorstep.

Men were tortured on the highways; others were kidnapped. The country was roused to fever pitch. That section preferred applejack to the so-called liquors of their urban brethren. Jack tried to control the applejack traffic. Deprived of bootleg money, he had to replace it some way. War broke out. Jack died broke. Only recently his widow was found murdered in her bed.

"Dutch" Schultz, beer baron of New York's Bronx, found things slipping in his business. The old profits of bootlegging vanished. He was so often mentioned in connection with crimes of violence that now he is a fugitive, a cowering craven in fear for his life and a man for whom the world, upper and under, has little but scorn.

Lesson for August 20

SAMUEL LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 3:1-10; 12:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT—And Samuel said unto the people, Fear not: ye have done all this wickedness: yet turn not aside from following the Lord, but serve the Lord with all your heart.

I. Samuel's Birth (1:1-20). He was given to Hannah in answer to her prayer. His name means "asked of God."

II. Samuel Lent to the Lord (1:24-28). In connection with Hannah's prayer for a man child, she vowed to give him to God. He was to be a Nazirite all the days of his life.

III. Samuel Called of God (3:1-10). Dwelling within the sacred courts and ministering before the Lord with Eli, is the innocent Samuel who is to become the savior of his people. In Samuel we have a striking pattern of child religion.

IV. Samuel Established in the Prophetic Office (3:11-21). Up to this time Samuel obeyed Eli. The time has now come when he must directly hear and obey the Lord. The first message entrusted to him was a most terrible one.

V. Samuel the Judge (7:1-17). People called to forsake their idols (vv. 1-6). Because of their sins God permitted the nation to be bitterly oppressed by the Philistines. Samuel promised them deliverance on condition of repentance (v. 3).

VI. Samuel's final address (12:1-25). When Saul, the new king, was crowned, Samuel graciously retired, turning over to him the nation's affairs.

a. Samuel's challenge to the people (vv. 1-5). He reminded them of the way the king had been given and showed their direct responsibility for the change in government. He reviewed his own administration, showing his walk from childhood, and his career as judge and ruler.

b. Samuel reviews God's dealings with the nation from the time of Moses (vv. 6-15). He showed them that national prosperity was conditioned upon obedience (v. 14). Though they had displeased God in choosing a king, if they would fear the Lord and render obedience, national prosperity would still be given them.

c. Samuel's personal vindication (vv. 16-25). The hour was so critical in the nation's history that Samuel sought to indelibly impress upon their hearts its meaning. This he did by praying for thunder and rain out of season. They saw this as an example of God's mighty power which, if directed against them, would destroy them instantly.

Flowering Dogwood Trees Contrary to popular belief, flowering dogwoods are not native only to the more temperate districts, but may be found growing in most of the acid soil districts except possibly the extreme northern states.

SECRETARY OF STATE CORDELL HULL, back from the London conference, is again in his offices at the State department, and has lost none of his internationalism. He still believes all nations can and should cooperate to end the world depression.

In advancing bi-lateral trade agreements under the most favored nation principles, Hull explained that such agreements would relate primarily to commodities of a non-competitive nature. He explained that reciprocal trade agreements would not necessarily conflict with most favored nation treaties, because such agreements would be thrown open to signature by other nations which,

Turning Back the Pages

Items from the files of Cass City Newspapers of 1898 and 1908.

Twenty-five Years Ago. August 21, 1908.

Heratio S. Earle, state highway commissioner and a candidate for the nomination of governor, was a visitor in town Wednesday. His stay did not exceed four minutes but Mr. Earle said more in that short time than many people do in an hour or a day. Mr. Earle was campaigning and Cass City was only one of 29 places that he was billed to speak on Wednesday.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McDonald, of Elkland township, on Wednesday afternoon. The contracting parties were Roy Starr and Miss Louisa McDonald.

Herb Ehlers, Cass City's crack shortstop player, has been engaged to play that position on the Saginaw team.

Leo Heineman has purchased the grocery and china store of Doyle & Dietz at Kingston and will take possession of the same about Sept. 15.

S. Champion, manager of the opera house, has completed arrangements for the presentation of Fred Raymond's new play, "Old Arkansas," at Cass City within a few weeks.

Efforts are being made to organize a ladies' literary society or study club in Cass City and a meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. G. Benkelman next Monday afternoon when the matter will be considered.

Edward Brotherton left Tuesday for Caron, Sask., on a business trip. He was accompanied by Jas. Dillman and Miss Fern Tanner.

During the electric storm Sunday night, S. F. Bodey of Grant lost a barn, 50 tons of hay and one horse.

Thirty-five Years Ago. August 18, 1898.

Miss Nellie Ross, an employe of the Eastern Michigan Asylum at Pontiac, is spending a brief vacation at her home here.

A half dozen Epworth Leaguers wheeled out to G. F. Scupholme's on Sunday afternoon and conducted a prayer meeting.

D. O. Ramsey, aged 86 years, walked from Deford to Cass City on his birthday, Saturday, Aug. 13. He is a member of the Grand Army.

Married at the groom's home, two miles northeast of town, on Wednesday, Samuel Striffler and Miss Mary Kaiser of Caro, by Rev. F. Klump.

Miss Sarah Emmons, who has been visiting here for some time, has returned to her home in Flint. She was accompanied by Eugene Bockstedt and the trip was made a wheel.

Myron Hanson, who has been assisting of late in Bond's pharmacy, has accepted a position with H. J. Miller, Vassar druggist. Archie Monroe is assisting Mr. Bond at present.

Everything is now in promising condition for the early installment of our electric light and water-works plant. The bonds have been disposed of to W. J. Hayes & Sons of Cleveland, O.

The Gleaner picnic held in Bailey's grove, Ellington, was attended by 1,300 people.

BEAN PROSPECTS DECLINE SHARPLY

less than that indicated by July 1 conditions and 18 per cent smaller than the 357,679,000 bushels harvested in 1932.

The state's winter wheat crop is yielding in line with earlier indications, the total production being estimated at 12,720,000 bushels or an average return of 16.0 bushels per acre. This is 3.5 bushels below the ten-year average yield. Complaints of shrunken grain are quite numerous.

Prospects for oats and barley continued to decline during July. Many fields were too short and too poor to warrant harvesting and threshing and were either pastured or cut for hay. Oat production for the state is estimated at 21,831,000 bushels. If this figure is not exceeded, it will be the smallest Michigan oat crop since 1881. The condition of the Michigan barley crop on August 1 was only 49 per cent of normal, indicating a prospective crop of 3,766,000 bushels which compares with 6,560,000 bushels harvested last year.

While corn varies widely in condition and growth of fodder has been less than usual, the crop has withstood the drought and heat fairly well. The August 1 condition of 73 per cent is only 3 points below the ten-year average for that date and suggests a total production of 33,902,000 bushels against 45,969,000 bushels in 1932.

The state's buckwheat crop has suffered from heat and drought as well as from grasshopper damage in northern counties where much of the acreage is located. The 1933 planted area has been estimated at 28,000 acres whereas last year only 20,000 acres were harvested for grain. However, with poorer yields prospects than a year ago, the indicated total production amounts to only 238,000 bushels as against 290,000 for 1932.

Sugar beets are one crop that has withstood the drought and heat well. While conditions are still considerably below average, August 1 reports indicate a slightly larger production than was estimated on July 1 this year. The indicated 1933 tonnage for Michigan is set at 982,000. In 1932, factories reported 1,215,000 tons harvested.

Second cuttings of alfalfa were shortened by dry weather but yields on the first crop were generally good. Total production of all tame hay promises to be only slightly less than last year and close to an average size crop.

Apple prospects also improved during July. The total or agricultural crop is now estimated at 7,840,000 bushels, an increase of 35 per cent over the light 1932 production. Approximately 60 per cent of this year's crop or 1,566,000 barrels is rated as commercial which compares with 1,063,000 barrels a year ago. Prospective production for peaches and pears remains the same as on July 1. The state's cherry crop, estimated at 25,697 tons, is the largest in the history of the state. The condition of the Michigan grape crop on August 1 was 76 per cent or 5 points above average for that date. The indicated production is figured at 61,818 tons as against 71,220 harvested last year.

The Real American Baseball
Formerly the best horsehide from Russia and the finest wool from Australia were used in making baseballs. The test of time has proven that similar domestic materials are as good as the pick of the imported articles. The ball cover, comprising 25 square inches of leather, is stitched and sewed by hand, as attempts to yoke machine ingenuity to that task have thus far failed.
