BRINGS SUIT AGAINST CASS CITY VILLAGE

J. C. Corkins Asks $5,000 Damage from Condensary and Village.

John C. Corkins has brought suit in the Tuscola county circuit court against the Village of Cass City and the Nestle's Milk Products, Inc., seeking damages to the amount of $5,000.00 and asking that the defendants be restrained by an injunction from discharging sewage into a drain which empties into the Marsh Drain, a creek, which crosses land in section 33, Elkland, where Mr. Corkins and his family reside, just outside the western corporation line of the village.

The plaintiff states in his declaration that all the sewage from the village is discharged into the drain and noxious odors and disease germs result which are detrimental to the health of himself and his family. He says the Nestle's Food Products, Inc., also uses the same drain in the operation of their milk condensary plant.

Divide Work of Poor Supt.

At a session of the Tuscola county board of supervisors on Sept. 8, it was decided to divide the work done at present by the superintendents of the poor. The welfare committee will take care of the distribution of funds for food, clothing, shelter and medical care and the superintendents of the poor will look after the county home and hospitalization. The welfare committee will investigate all cases where aid is obtained from the county and pay all bills up to the amount available from the R. F. C. or state funds for that purpose. If the bills should amount to more than the money available, the county clerk and treasurer will transfer the difference to the welfare committee out of the general fund of the county.

G. F. Schultz and Supervisors Purdy, Rawson, Noble and Burns, members of the welfare committee, were authorized to secure an assistant to investigate all welfare cases. The assistant's salary is to be paid from federal and state funds.

The county treasurer was authorized to refund interest paid on taxes collected in July, 1933.

Struck by Car, Leg Fractured

Max is a nephew of Mrs. Walter Schell of this place.

Large Number at Starr Reunion

The ideal September weather, and the large crowd which assembled at the Starr school, on Labor Day, helped to make their fourth annual reunion a very pleasant event.

A bounteous basket dinner was enjoyed at noon, in the shade of the beautiful maple trees, which were planted by former pupils, and following this was a program of songs, readings and musical numbers.

The welcome was given by Percy Starr and the response by Rev. Roland Starr of Detroit.

A pantomime entitled "Wanted: A Wife," afforded much merriment.

An interesting number, read by Archie McLachlin, was a contract for the building of the first school in Dist. No. 1, f. r. l., Argyle, and was dated May 11, 1872.

A pie eating contest was won by Stanley Morrell, with Jack Hoagg second.

After the program the time was spent in visiting and recalling past experiences.

The oldest person present was Mrs. Neil McPhail, aged 81, of Argyle and the youngest was Norma Grace Hyde, two-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hyde of Decker.

Visitors were present from Port Huron, Detroit, Capac, Almont, Mayville, North Branch, Rose City, Cass City, Decker, and Sandusky.

It was voted to hold the reunion again in 1934 on Labor Day and the following officers were elected: President, John Hind; vice president, Percy Starr; secretary, Mrs. Edd. Rose; treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Hillacker.

MISFORTUNES HIT SPENCER FAMILY

Son Had Leg Broken; Daughter Broke Arm; Family Lost Home by Fire.

Lyle Spencer, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterle Spencer, is in the Morris hospital with his right leg broken at the thigh, a severe cut above the eye and many bruises which he received Saturday night when struck by an auto at the corner of Main and Segar streets, next to the Folkert store. Bernard Swick, 20, of Owendale, driver of the Oakland roadster which struck Spencer, backed the car from the curb in front of the McCaslin barber shop and, instead of keeping to the right, cut the corner at a good rate of speed and struck Mr. Spencer as he was about to cross the road. With Swick were John Simmons and Wesley Dunn. Swick had no driver's license and no insurance, according to the statement of officers.

Lyle Spencer, the young man injured Saturday night, suffered a dislocated shoulder when a horse threw him several weeks ago. Goldie Spencer, his two-year-old sister, had her left arm broken recently, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sterle Spencer, lost their farm home at Wickware by fire on August 23.

VETERANS TO C. C. C.

County Clerk S. W. Morrison has received notice that the Detroit Office of the Veterans' Administration has been authorized to assign an additional quota of 244 veterans to the Civilian Conservation Corps. Veterans of the Spanish-American or World War may secure applications from the Detroit office which should be filed by Sept. 25. Those accepted must be citizens of the United States and in physical condition to perform manual labor and endure the rigors of camp life.

COUNTY SEAT NEWS.

Thieves operating in Tuscola county have turned from poultry to potatoes. Four calls came to Sheriff Kirk reporting theft of tubers within the past week. A report from Bay City says one farmer lost 150 bushels.

John Fisher of Indianfields was fined $7.50 by Justice Imerson on Sept. 8 on a disorderly charge.

Sheriff James Kirk brought Ray Lukenbach from Perry, N. Y., to the Tuscola county jail on a warrant charging him with uttering and publishing false checks. Officers say that Lukenbach passed three worthless checks in Cass City, one in Gageton, and three in Vassar.

Leo Conkaert, 43, a Belgian sugar beet worker, attracted considerable attention in Unionville last week, county officers state, when he persisted in butting his head against a telephone pole. He was finally persuaded to desist from that practice and taken into a house and his wounds dressed. Leo then started to bunt a stove, breaking that household article. He was taken to the village hospital and his wounds again dressed. While attendants left the room to wash their hands, Leo sighted a razor which had been used to shave his head. He grabbed that instrument and slashed both sides of his throat. His condition, after this experience, was very serious.

Lucy G. Lee wishes to announce the opening of the fall term in piano, theory, ear training and harmony. Classes are scheduled to begin Monday, September 25, at the Sherwood studio, East Main St.—Advertisement.

NRA TO BRING NATION BETTER TIMES

"The National Recovery Act is not perfect but we know that it is a practical plan to bring us to better times if the plan receives the support of the people of the United States," Congressman Jesse P. Wolcott told Tuscola county business people at a meeting of the Caro Board of Commerce. There were about 150 present to hear addresses on the NRA. Several came from other towns in the county.

Fifty-two Years Ago Big Forest Fire Swept the Thumb District

Fifty-two years ago this month the Thumb district was swept by a big forest fire and the following account of the conflagration is taken from the initial number of the Cass City Enterprise published on Sept. 8, 1881.

The Fire of 1881.

"We write amid smoke and cinders of the most terrible ruinous fire that ever visited the Huron peninsula of Michigan. Ten years ago a conflagration swept through this region leaving in its wake a charred and blackened country, but with all its hideous terrors it was not so terrible in its destruction of property and life as the fire of this week, for the very good reason that there was not so much to destroy. At this writing it is utterly impossible to form any intelligent estimate of the amount of damage done. In the sacrifice of human life it is simply overwhelming. From all directions reports of the finding of the blistered and charred remains of men, women and little children have continued to come in, until it is thought that within the burned district of the three counties no less

STEINMANN-LORENTZEN.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized Sunday at the home of Charles Steinmann at Peck when his daughter, Miss Helen G. Steinmann, became the bride of Donald Lorentzen, son of Mrs. John Lorentzen of Cass City.

The marriage service was read at 12:30 p. m. by Rev. William Firth, pastor of the Methodist church of Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorentzen were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Richardson of Port Huron.

The bride wore a gown of green crepe with bodice of white.

A wedding dinner followed the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Lorentzen left at once for a short visit to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, New York.

STATE GRANTS HELP TO SCHOOLS

$3,000,000 Loans and Back Pay Were Promised Tuesday.

Michigan's crippled school districts are promised approximately $3,000,000 in immediate relief from the state, according to a report sent out from Lansing Tuesday.

An eleventh-hour move to help out the districts hopelessly in debt brought the authorization Monday of a $1,450,000 loan fund and a decision to pay the school districts approximately $1,500,000 due them in unpaid bills.

State school experts said the new funds would help the more distressed districts but they refused to accept them as a substitute for the $15,000,000 demanded by educators to meet the school crisis.

The authorization virtually wiped out a $1,500,000 emergency appropriation established by the legislature and called the state emergency appropriation board into action for the first time since its creation two years ago.

The loan fund was voted by the emergency board, composed of members of the state administrative board and four members of the legislature. The administrative board later authorized the payment of the unpaid accounts, including $1,100,000 in Turner law bills.

The $1,450,000 loan fund will be extended against school district deposits in closed banks, estimated by the department of public instruction to total more than $8,000,000.

Governor Comstock personally led the fight for the establishment of the loan fund.

"It seems to me," the governor said, "this is a very proper use of the emergency fund. It is probable that the banks will pay 40 to 50 per cent when they are re-organized. We are not exhausting the fund, but merely loaning on it."

Poured Molasses in Crank Case

One morning last week when Clifford Secord went to his garage at the rear of his place, on West as we have made our way through the desert of destruction and looked upon the realm of the dead. Mothers were found cold in the embrace of death with their little children clasped in their blistered and blackened arms, bearing eloquent testimony to the genuineness of their parental fidelity and the almost superhuman efforts which they made to save from the jaws of death those who were dearer to them than life. Well authenticated stories are recited of the devoted heroism of the husband in his utter abandonment of self and the sacrifice of his own life to save that of his wife, who may truthfully write over his grave, "He died for me." For two weeks past the fires have been burning with more or less fury but not until last Sunday was the real danger apprehended.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Cuban Radicals Oust De Cespedes, Setting Up Junta Government—"Buy Now" Campaign Organized by NRA—Vermont Votes for Repeal.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Carlos de Cespedes

SOLDIERS, sailors, students and the radical wing of the ABC revolutionary organization that upset the Machado regime in Cuba decided that the methods and program of President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes were too mild. So they staged a second revolution while the president was far from Havana inspecting hurricane damage and forced De Cespedes and his entire government to step out. The affairs of the island republic were placed in the hands of a commission consisting of the five leaders of the revolt, Sergio Carbo, Ramon Grau San Martin, Guillermo Portela, Porfirio Franco and Jose Miguel Izarrari. This junta announced that the five would serve with equal power except that Portela would be the "nominal president before the diplomatic corps."

This revolution, the second within a month, was accomplished without bloodshed, but the rebels, after arresting their officers, had posted machine guns at strategic points in Havana and guns from the fortifications were trained on the presidential palace. De Cespedes hurried back to the capital, met the junta members, and turned the government over to them after they had rejected as unsatisfactory his explanation that it was impossible to accomplish all the revolutionary aims in twenty-five days.

Ambassador Welles was formally notified of the change, but had nothing to say to the press. The news surprised Secretary of State Hull in Washington, and it seemed all the good work of Mr. Welles and Assistant Secretary Caffery was being undone. President Roosevelt immediately ordered four warships to Cuban ports, but this, it was explained, was only to protect American lives and property and did not constitute armed intervention. Privately, however, some officials admitted that intervention under the Platt amendment was nearer than it had been for many years.

Much was made in the newspapers of the fact that Secretary of the Navy Swanson went to Havana just at this time, but it was credibly explained that he was on a previously arranged trip to the Pacific coast and that his call on Ambassador Welles had no connection with the Cuban crisis.

Carbo, one of the junta and a magazine editor and leader of the youth movement, said the overthrow of De Cespedes was determined upon when it was discovered that Mario Menocal, lately returned from exile, was organizing a counter-revolution. The radical leaders, also, were utterly dissatisfied with De Cespedes' appointments to his cabinet, some of his ministers having been too closely identified with former administrations of which the radicals did not approve.

process of economic recovery necessarily entailed the raising of prices but gave assurance that this would be controlled by the government.

Two troubles the recovery administration has run into were described by Mr. Johnson as, first, the failure of some employers to live up to their agreements under the blue eagle, and second, misunderstanding of the codes between employers and workers, with some resultant strikes and lockouts.

"Our chief reliance is on the force of public opinion," he said. "We know that to take away the blue eagle is a more severe penalty than any puny fine. It is, we think, enough, but if it should prove not enough, there are plenty of penalties in the law."

"In stating this plan we have been accused of inciting a boycott. Of course, what people are doing is not a boycott. No willing employer who complies with this great national purpose can live in competition with a chiseler who does not. The whole idea is based on unanimous agreement and action. It is for the benefit of the American people. It is their plan or it is nothing."

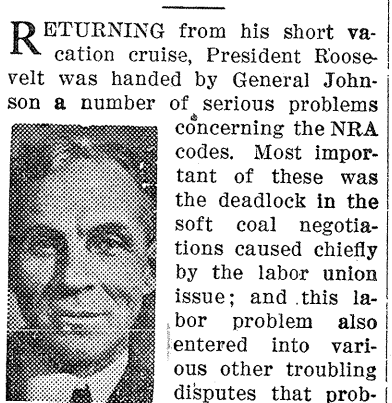

"It cannot last a month if a few unwilling or cheating employers are permitted (by the advantage of lower costs) to ruin the business of their willing and honest competitors."

RETURNING from his short vacation cruise, President Roosevelt was handed by General Johnson a number of serious problems concerning the NRA codes. Most important of these was the deadlock in the soft coal negotiations caused chiefly by the labor union issue; and this labor problem also entered into various other troubling disputes that probably will have to be settled by the President himself.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor was determined that the provision in the automobile code, permitting employers to deal with workers on the basis of their individual merit, should not be included in any other agreement, and he promised union labor he would seek its elimination from the automobile code.

Henry Ford was another problem, but it was indicated the government would not take any immediate action in his case. The whole country watched interestedly to see whether he would sign the code within the allotted time, and when he failed to do this and said nothing about his ultimate intentions, Johnson was besieged with questions as to what he would do. Talking to the press in Chicago, it seemed that the administrator weakened a little in this matter. He said Ford did not have to sign the code, and if he went further than its provisions, that would be all right with the government. The NRA could intervene, he said, only if a group of Ford's employees complained to it of unfair treatment. Johnson did reiterate his opinion that Ford would be brought to time by the force of public opinion.

Dispatches from Detroit said a wage revision was in progress at the Ford plant. No formal announcement of this was made, but officials said it was a gradual process and that about one-fourth of the 40,000 workers had received increases from $4 to $4.80 a day. The code specifies a 43-cent-an-hour minimum wage for the Detroit area. It also specifies a 35-hour week, while Ford employees who are on full time work five eight-hour days a week.

Henry Ford

REVERTING to the union labor problem, it is interesting to note that Henry L. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, has issued to all its members an appeal to stand firmly in defense of the open shop and in opposition to an interpretation of the labor clauses in the national recovery act which, he says, would be writing into law a mandate for a closed shop.

President Harriman asserted that employers throughout the United States had shown a splendid spirit of co-operation in preparing and adopting codes of fair competition. In return, he declared, industry should be given adequate assurance that the recovery program is not to be turned into a vehicle for forcing the closed shop on the country.

VERMONT, which was one of the few states that the prohibitionists really thought might vote against repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, disappointed them by going for repeal by a vote of more than 2 to 1. This despite the fact that election day was fair and the hopes of the dries were based largely on good weather that would bring out a large rural vote to offset that of the wet cities and towns.

Even though prohibition should be repealed this year Vermont would continue without hard liquor under its present state law. Beer and wine of 3.2 alcoholic content were authorized by the legislature this year, but a state enforcement act prevents anything stronger.

Formal ratification of the repeal amendment was completed by the state conventions of Arizona and Nevada, the vote in each case being unanimous.

TWO deaths marred the otherwise successful international air races held at Glenview, a Chicago suburb. Roy Liggett of Omaha was killed when his plane fell from an altitude of 200 feet at the start of a race, one of the wings breaking off. Miss Florence Klingensmith of Minneapolis, an entry in one of the last final races, was dashed to instant death when fabric on the right wing of her fast plane tore loose and she lost control. Jimmy Wedell of Texas, a self-made aviator, was the star of the meet, for he set a new speed record for land planes. He flashed along a three kilometer course four times at an average of 305.33 miles an hour. The previous record, established by Maj. James H. Doolittle, was 292.33 miles an hour.

FIFTEEN hundred delegates to the convention of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks in Chicago adopted a resolution urging congress to put postal employees on a 30 hour week, and a bill to bring this about probably will be introduced in the house next session by Congressman James M. Mead of New York, who addressed the convention.

WHAT to do with the Jews is a question that a German Nazi commissioner has been studying, and his report declares Germany must begin international negotiations to help find and set aside a new country, larger than Palestine, where Jews from all parts of the world shall be settled. The report says in part:

"It is of interest to the whole world that the Jewish problem should be settled once and for all, since Jews will remain centers of unrest, constantly creating secret societies which tend toward Bolshevism. To scatter the Jews in all directions will not help. It is best to afford them the possibility of forming a nation, settled in one country. Then they will no longer wander restlessly through the world."

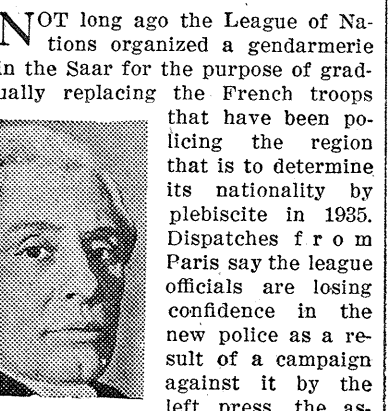

The expert who made the report calculates that 1,800,000 persons should leave Germany to achieve his ideal. This number includes 600,000 Jews, 600,000 Jews who adopted the Christian faith, and an approximate 600,000 descendants of mixed marriages.

Nazi German Christians dominated the Prussian church synod in Berlin and pushed through 20 motions, including one barring non-Aryans or persons marrying non-Aryans from the pulpit and from church offices. Cases in which special services in behalf of the church can be proved were exempted from the non-Aryan rule.

NOT long ago the League of Nations organized a gendarmerie in the Saar for the purpose of gradually replacing the French troops that have been policing the region that is to determine its nationality by plebiscite in 1935. Dispatches from Paris say the league officials are losing confidence in the new police as a result of a campaign against it by the left press, the assertion being made that it is fast falling under the influence of the German Nazis. Therefore the gendarmerie may be dissolved, although to do this and again charge French troops with the maintenance of order would probably increase the Nazi strength in the Saar.

Speaking at the dedication of a monument to Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour attacked the recent Nazi demonstrations at the Niederwald monument near the French frontier and declared in so many words that France was not intimidated. He said the situation would be grave "if our patience was born of a knowledge of our weakness. But that is not so, for France knows she is strong enough to resist violence."

The foreign minister reaffirmed France's intention not to swerve from a policy of safeguarding Austria's independence and of building a central European economic union. Chancellor Hitler told 100,000 of his storm troops at the Nuremberg Nazi party convention that Germany was not looking for war.

WITH President Roosevelt's acceptance of the NRA Automobile Code, Chevrolet, the world's largest builder of motor cars, officially begins operations in accordance with the administration's recovery program.

Although the official code was signed only a few days ago, it will be of interest to Chevrolet's many friends to learn that the Chevrolet Motor Company started to carry out the spirit of today's recovery program over three years ago!

At that time, we put into operation a "share-the-work" plan, whereby our workmen cooperated in spreading the work to give more men jobs. By means of this plan, as well as by regulating hours of work per week to meet retail demand, and by building up parts stocks in lean seasons, it was possible to carry 33,000 men on our payroll through the depression. For eleven months of each year since 1929, we have kept our employment within 10 per cent of this average. We are justly proud of that record. We are also proud to say that Chevrolet workmen did not, at any time during the depression, become a burden on public welfare departments.

On August 1st of this year, Chevrolet announced a blanket wage increase as well as the adoption of a 7½-hour, 5-day week and the employment of 12,000 additional men. This wage increase was the second in the last 4 months, Chevrolet having been among the first to put a blanket wage increase into effect.

We feel that the President's recovery program deserves the whole-hearted support of every citizen and manufacturer in America. It is a bold, swift, courageous plan to start the ball rolling toward economic recovery. Its sincerity is unquestioned. Its objectives are admirable. And the direct, forceful steps the President and his associates are taking to make it a success, should stir the pride and admiration of every American.

We are proud and glad to do our part. And we are deeply grateful to the American people for the patronage that has enabled us to anticipate the present recovery program and to play our part today. After all, the immense number of men employed by Chevrolet is a direct result of the continued preference America has shown for Chevrolet.

GIVE UP ROOSTERS FOR QUALITY EGGS

Illinois Sale Proves Idea Is a Good One.

A loss of five million dollars annually, which spoiled eggs are estimated to be causing Illinois farmers, could be materially reduced if all poultrymen in the state followed the lead of White county farmers in getting rid of surplus roosters, according to H. H. Alp, extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

A total of 1,387 roosters weighing 8,619 pounds—more than four tons—were rounded up off the county farms and sold during a recent "rooster day" staged as part of the college's campaign for quality Illinois eggs. Bringing five and one-half cents a pound net, the roosters put almost $475 cash into the pockets of farmers. A crowd of 3,500 people attended the "rooster day" event and sale.

Roosters are one of the chief offenders in causing egg spoilage, because the germ in fertile eggs will begin to develop in warm weather without the eggs being put under a hen or in an incubator.

Not only roosters but also other causes of poor quality eggs should be guarded against, because the golden-yolked, middle-west eggs will bring a premium price on the markets if producers will give them proper care and handling prior to selling.

His suggestions are:
 "Feed a balanced ration and limit the feeding to that ration."
 "Gather eggs twice daily."
 "Keep eggs in a cool, moderately dry place cooler than 60 degrees Fahrenheit."
 "Cool eggs before placing them in the case."
 "Eliminate dirty eggs by providing a nest for every six hens, by keeping the flock confined to the house until noon on days when it is wet outside, by keeping all broody hens off the nests and by keeping the house clean."
 "Protect eggs from heat and sun when marketing them."
 "Market eggs twice a week."
 "Sort eggs according to size and color of shell."
 "Sell to dealers properly equipped to handle eggs."

State College Poultry Department Sells Meat
 The poultry department at the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., sold solid chicken meat to its egg customers in disposing of several hundred eight-week-old broilers at the end of a feeding experiment. The method is recommended by L. M. Herd to poultrymen in localities where the meat can be marketed.

The broilers were killed and skinned, and only the breasts, thighs, livers, giblets and hearts were sold. One man usually killed and stripped from eight to ten birds an hour. At twenty-five cents an hour the cost was about three cents a bird. The meat sold to regular egg customers for thirty cents a pound, and moved readily, he says. A two-pound broiler brought about thirty cents, or about the cost of growing a broiler. The shrinkage from the live weight was about 54 per cent.

It is unnecessary, Professor Hurd points out, to wait until the broilers weigh two pounds for they can be killed any time after they weigh a half-pound. It is more profitable, he says, to sell broilers as solid chicken meat than to kill and bury the cockerels as soon as the sex can be determined, as many poultrymen did this year.

Disinfect Laying House
 Twice a year has been recommended as the proper number of times to thoroughly disinfect the laying house; once a month would be better. It is next to impossible to properly disinfect an earth floor. With a concrete floor and cheap spray outfit, an extra half hour after cleaning out the litter will be ample time to make a thorough job of disinfecting.

POULTRY NOTES
 A truckload of capons, turkeys and chickens was sent to the Philadelphia market recently by 42 Yadin county (N. C.) farmers at a net profit of $897.04 to the growers.

No permanent laying house should be built without consideration as to best type of soil, drainage, and sufficient land back and front so that rotation of yards may be practiced.

An attempt to obtain production of larger eggs by culling hens at a hatchery in Fort Atkinson, Wis., brought results when a Rhode Island Red laid an egg which weighed a quarter of a pound.

Shade is important. Sometimes one can provide natural shade, but in other cases artificial shade may be necessary. Besides plenty of shade, be sure that the poultry house has proper ventilation.

Alfalfa, Clover Bring Late Crops

To Be Used Where Chinch Bugs Have Riddled the Corn and Barley.

By J. C. Hackleman, Crop Extension Specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, WNU Service.

Extensive areas in central and north central Illinois where chinch bugs have ruined the corn or barley crops can best be planted to alfalfa or red clover. Planting these legumes not only would put a crop on land that otherwise would be idle and costly, but also would be in line with the national agricultural adjustment program, which is designed to reduce the acreage of grain crops. Illinois farmers already have adjusted their cropping systems to the point where they are growing a million acres more of legumes than they were in 1910-1914, but the acreage can be vastly extended by seeding alfalfa and red clover on land where the corn or barley has been riddled by the chinch bugs, provided the soil is adapted.

It is important that soil conditions in the field be known before either alfalfa or red clover is seeded. The land must be sweet and must have a sufficient amount of phosphorus. Simple tests are available for determining this. The seed bed already has been prepared and by occasional additional cultivations can be kept in excellent condition for seeding. Red clover and alfalfa can be seeded in mid-summer. This will help to solve the problem of crop acreages and will make it materially easier for farmers to put a crop adjustment program into effect for 1934.

Choosing something to replace corn that has been ruined by chinch bugs is doubly difficult because the crop must be one that is immune to the bugs and that can, at the same time, be planted at late date. Sudan grass and millets, which could be seeded at this season of the year, are out of the question because they are highly favored foods of chinch bugs.

About the only cash grain crop available at this date is buckwheat. This will yield from ten to as many as twenty-five bushels to the acre, depending upon soil fertility and seasonal conditions. The best varieties are Japanese and Silver Hull.

Finds Phosphates of U. S. Worth Billions

The $300,000,000 worth of phosphate rock which the phosphate deposits of the United States have yielded to date is a small item compared to the total phosphate resources of this country. Workers of the bureau of chemistry and soils have completed a survey of America's phosphate resources which has been published by the United States Department of Agriculture. They estimate American phosphate resources at 6,200,000,000 long tons, worth approximately $18,000,000,000.

Because the phosphate deposits of the United States form its most valuable natural fertilizer resource, and because phosphatic fertilizers are used more widely and in greater quantities by American farmers than fertilizers containing other plant-food elements, these findings are of interest to farmers and fertilizer manufacturers.

This survey discloses the occurrence, production, and reserves of phosphate rock in the United States and presents detailed information on their chemical composition which indicates the comparative value of all the domestic varieties of phosphate rock that are of commercial importance at the present time.

Dairy Income

The cash income of farmers from sales of milk and milk products in 1932 is estimated at a little less than a billion dollars ($985,000,000). Adding to this the value of the milk, cream, and butter used in households on the farms where produced, gives a gross income from dairy products in 1932 of about one and a quarter billion dollars ($1,260,424,000). With the prices of most farm products declining even faster than the prices of dairy products, the proportion of the total income of farmers derived from milk increased from 19 1/2 per cent in 1929 to 24 1/2 per cent in 1932. If allowance is made for the value of the milk cows and the calves of milk cows sold or slaughtered in 1932, the total income of farmers from dairying was close to $1,400,000,000 or about 27 per cent of the income from all farm products.—United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Age of Freshening

In the examination of Advanced Registry records, Prof. C. W. Turner of the Missouri College of Agriculture has drawn the following conclusion concerning the effect of age at first freshening upon the later production of heifers: "The most efficient milk and fat production (utilization of nutrients) will be obtained by breeding animals to calve them at from 20 to 24 months of age, maximum production at about 30 months of age, and within 5 to 10 per cent of the maximum production at from 23 to 28 months, depending upon the breed."

Tuition Rates Lowered

Tuition rates in the Cass City High School have been reduced from $80 to $65 per annum. As the school district from which the non-resident pupil comes pays $60 of the annual tuition, this leaves but $5.00 for the pupil to meet. This is $2.50 per term, payable the first week of each term.

We have tried to meet the needs of a rural community by offering courses in the following fields: Home Economics, College Preparatory, Agriculture, and Commercial. The records of these departments speak for themselves and in spite of the times, the work offered this year will be of a larger scope and, we believe, still better. The teaching staff is an experienced one, each teacher having from two to twelve years in this school. All are college graduates trained in their respective fields. The teaching staff has NOT been reduced.

Our tuition rates have been lowered and terms made easy; the living costs in Cass City are the lowest in years; text books are cheap (few changes have been made the last few years and many used books are available); everything is in your favor to get that high school education now. Be ready and prepared for those better times when we get around the corner.

If you are interested in attending school and are concerned about a place to stay, the matter of your tuition, or getting necessary books and supplies, call and see the school officers. Perhaps any one of a number of arrangements can be made.

Our Government
—How It Operates—
By William Bruckart
TO CHANGE INAUGURATION DATE

THOSE of us whose span of life carries us beyond the end of 1935 are almost certain to witness an epochal change in our government. After more than 150 years, our nation is about to alter a basic date in our system of government, namely, the date upon which the terms of our Presidents, Vice Presidents and senators and representatives in congress begin. In all probability the change will have been ordered in advance of 1936, but it will not take effect until early in 1937.

The fundamental revision is to take place through adoption or ratification, by the several states of the so-called "Lame Duck Amendment" to the federal Constitution. It is the consensus now that its ratification as a part of the organic law is only a question of time.
So, in a few years then we will witness the convening of our congress in January of each year for sessions of no fixed duration or life up to one year, and each four years we will see a President inducted into office in the same month. Congress now meets in December, of course, but its sessions, started in the odd years, end automatically on March 4 of the succeeding even year; the sessions beginning in December of the even years may run through to the following December, if the legislative body so choose. The new amendment will start the sessions on January 3, of every year, and they may continue until that date of the next year if the work has not been done in the meantime.

In the case of the Chief Executive, he will take office on January 20, of the year following his election. The term of office beginning next March 4, therefore, appears certain to be the one break in a steady succession of four-year terms for President since the formation of our government, for it will be reduced by the difference of time from January 20 to March 4, in order that the succeeding Presidential terms may be for four full years.

The purpose of the amendment is, in the words of its author, Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, "to bring congress closer to the people." And there is not a great deal of disagreement about that. It will make congress a body more responsive to the people, because senators and representatives who are elected in November will take office in just two months thereafter.
Considerable research has failed to disclose how the term, "Lame Duck" had its origin. It has long been applied to the unfortunate politician who guessed wrong as to what his constituents wanted, and was defeated. He has served through another session of congress, however, before surrendering office to a successor.

While the new amendment will make congress more responsive and closer to the people, there is and probably always will be some lack of unanimity of opinion as to its value. The school of thought in congress that opposed the amendment felt there was danger that congress would be too responsive to public will; that there were such things as whims and public demands based on misinformation, and that the present period of delay afforded time for the electorate to "cool off."

Those who look at both sides of the question see that danger. They recognize it is possible for a majority of the citizens of the Republic to be swayed by demagoguery from a raucous minority. Some act of a foreign nation might possibly engender such steaming hatred just in advance of an election as to cause the selection of a majority of congress willing to rush into war. Or there may be some domestic issue about which the flames of public sentiment may be fanned, with a subsequent action by congress that would be regretted in later years.

On the other hand, those who fostered the change and who passed it through congress have contended that this new responsiveness will work both ways. It is their view that senators and representatives will "hear from home" more quickly than ever before if sentiment swings back from the point that it reached at the polls. Plenty of safeguards are said to exist.
After watching the performance of congress through more than a decade, I hold the conviction that they represent a rather good cross section of the population that elects them. The voters now and then get one who is better than the average and now and then put one in office who does no credit to the district or state from which he or she comes. But the average of anything is the sum total of all, divided by that number. Representatives and senators, as I have seen them, make up a congress representative of the public which usually, therefore, has had just about what it is willing and entitled to receive.

Lesson for September 17

SOLOMON

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 8:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise; be thankful unto him, and bless his name, Psalm 100:4.

PRIMARY TOPIC—In God's House. JUNIOR TOPIC—A King Worshipping God. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Learning to Worship God. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Value of a House of Worship.

I. Solomon Anointed King (1 Kings 1:5-40)

The divine choice as to David's successor had not been known (v. 20). David is stirred to action by the combined appeals of Bathsheba and Nathan. At David's command the faithful three, Zadok, Nathan, and Benaiah, speedily anointed Solomon king.

II. Solomon's Acts to Establish His Kingdom (1 Kings, 1:41-2:46)

He noted certain dangerous elements which if allowed to develop would weaken, if not destroy, his rule. 1. Adonijah placed under surveillance (vv. 41-53). Placing him on good behavior displayed both clemency and dignity on the part of Solomon. Adonijah fled to the altar, not to worship God, but to save his life. His repentance was not real. Solomon ordered his execution (2:13-25).

2. Abiathar removed from the priesthood (2:26, 27). He had joined Adonijah in his plot of usurpation.

3. Joab executed (2:28-35). Joab was a party to Adonijah's rebellion. Besides this, he had treacherously murdered his rivals in the army.

34. Shimei executed (2:36-46). Solomon first paroled him and confined him to Jerusalem, but when he broke his parole, had him executed.

III. The Divine Favor Upon Solomon (1 Kings 3:4-14)

1. God's gracious offer (vv. 4, 5). Solomon made a lavish sacrifice, showing that he had strong impulses toward the Lord. This was followed by the Lord's gracious offer.

2. Solomon's wise choice (vv. 6-9). He was keenly sensible of the difficulty and of the responsibility of his position.

3. God's unstinted gift to Solomon (vv. 10-14). Because Solomon appeared before the Lord in the proper attitude, God gave him more than he asked for.

IV. Solomon Building the Temple (1 Kings 5:1-8:56)

1. Preparation (5:1-18). He secured from King Hiram:

a. Wood for beams, ceilings, etc. b. Stones for the great foundation. These were all to be so shaped that there was to be no sound of the hammer while the temple was being erected.

c. Skilled workmen. 2. The erection of the temple (6:1-38).

a. Located on Mt. Moriah (II Chron. 3:1). b. Dimensions: Ninety feet long; thirty feet wide; forty-five feet high—this on the assumption that the cubit was eighteen inches in length.

c. Its contents. (1) The brazen altar. (2) The laver. (3) The golden candlesticks. (4) The cherubim.

3. The dedication of the temple (8:1-66). The dedicatory services consisted of:

a. Bringing up the ark (vv. 1-11). The ark was typical of Jesus Christ. God dwells among his people through Jesus Christ (John 1:14).

b. Solomon's address to the people (vv. 12-21). He pointed out to them that God had chosen David to be king, yet did not allow him to build the temple, but promised that his son should complete the work.

c. Solomon's dedicatory prayer (vv. 22-53). In his prayer, Solomon gratefully acknowledged God's goodness in the past, and pleaded that the promises made to his father should be verified. He asked that God's eyes might be continually open toward the temple, so that:

(1) In case of contention he would be their judge (vv. 31, 32).

(2) If smitten by the enemy, even though they had sinned, God would forgive and restore (vv. 33, 34).

(3) In famine, upon confession, God would forgive and send rain (vv. 35, 36).

(4) In pestilence and sickness, God would hear and forgive (vv. 37-40).

(5) In case of the coming of the foreigner, because of the news of God's favor toward Jerusalem, his prayer should be heard (vv. 41-43).

(6) In going out to battle, their cause should be maintained (vv. 44, 45).

(7) If taken captive, God would hear their prayers and restore them (vv. 46-53).

d. Solomon blesses the people (vv. 54-61).

e. Solomon offering sacrifices of thanksgiving (vv. 62-66).

Save Vegetables, Fruits by Drying

Simple Screen Set in Sun or Modern Cabinet Get Good Results.

By Miriam J. Williams, Extension Nutritionist, Colorado Agricultural College.—WNU Service.

Drying is a simple and economical method of preserving vegetables and fruits for winter use. Dried products keep well, refresh and cook easily and are usually of good texture and flavor. They are easily stored since they are about one-fifth of the fresh products in size and weight. There is no question of non-acid vegetables being "safe" when they are dried.

Provided vegetables and fruits are quickly and thoroughly dried and stored away from insects, there is no doubt as to their keeping qualities.

Equipment for drying may vary from the simplest screen set in the sun, upon boxes or chairs, to cupboard-like arrangements with several trays, using artificial heat. Chief considerations are protection from dust and flies, high temperatures and free circulation of dry air. A sloping roof with a heat-reflecting surface makes for a higher temperature than a horizontal surface.

Fairly mature vegetables and fruits with a high sugar content are easier to dry than the quick-growing, immature kind. Green vegetables such as green peas and spinach deteriorate somewhat during storage after drying, although greens especially retain their fresh color when dried quickly. Many consider dried greens superior to canned greens. Vegetables to be dried should be fresh and in prime condition for the table.

Colorado Farmers Find Trench Silos Valuable

Several hundred Colorado farmers will dig trench silos on their farms this year, according to present indications.

More than 500 farmers who appreciate the value of silage in feeding live stock dug silos last year. A plow, a slip or fresno, a spade, a team and a farmer's labor are all that are necessary in digging a trench silo.

Many farmers have found it convenient to dig their silos when their labor and equipment were not needed for other farm work.

Silage from trench silos has proved to be fully as good a feed as silage from upright silos, according to H. B. Osland, associate in animal investigations for the Colorado Agricultural college experiment station, and C. A. Smith, extension dairyman.

Beekeeping

Swarming should be modernized as much as any other branch of beekeeping. The old method of climbing into the top of a tree with a basket at the risk of being severely stung or being injured by falling from the tree, should be a thing of the past. The risks taken in such cases far outweigh the value of the swarm.

Swarming can be largely controlled by modern methods of better management. The percentage of colonies that attempt to swarm is greatly reduced by clipping the wings of queens prior to the swarming season. Those who cannot be present when swarms issue, in which case clipped queens may be lost, may put a queen-and-drone trap over the entrance for a few days when a colony is found preparing to swarm. The best policy, however, is to treat such colonies so that no swarms will issue. This is done either by making an artificial swarm or by removing the queen.—Montreal Herald.

Slump in Farm Lands

Average value per acre of farm land in the United States March 1, this year, was 73 per cent of the average for the years 1912 to 1914 as reported by the Department of Agriculture. The corresponding index a year ago was 89, and two years ago 106. Values for the entire country are about 43 per cent of those in the high record year, 1929. Greatest decline occurred in Iowa where this year's value index is 58, compared with 80 a year ago, and 213 in 1920. The figures indicate that average value per acre in that state is only about a fourth that of 1920.

Agricultural Hints

In 1931 the number of farms electrified was 698,786.

Alfalfa can be cut three times annually if the stand is vigorous and plant food is plentiful.

A thousand tons of beef are being fed for the fall market by 2,000 4-H club boys and girls in Ohio.

Recent tests indicate that treating pastures with ground dolomite limestone will increase the production of nutritious grasses and clovers.

By planting a 30-acre garden and establishing a canning plant for canning vegetables produced in the garden, the city of Pittsfield, Mass., last year realized two dollars worth of food for every dollar invested.

Automobiles Made While You Wait

One of the very unusual exhibits at the Chicago World's Fair is that of General Motors, housed in a vast building in which automobiles are made as vast crowds of visitors watch the process. The above picture of special interest because the photograph was made by W. G. Stubb, president of the Eastman Kodak Company. He visited the exposition and toured the grounds as an amateur photographer.
