CO. RECEIPTS BELOW ESTIMATED EXPENSES

Tuscola Supervisors Have a Financial Tangle to Solve at October Session.

While Tuscola county's state tax is but $16,086.17 as compared with $104,909.76 in 1932, the members of the Tuscola board of supervisors are greatly concerned over tax matters and the tax subject as it relates to county expenditures will be given a great deal of attention at the October session of the board which convenes next Monday.

The mill tax for the Michigan State College amounting to $3,677.-02 and the mill tax for the University of Michigan of $12,409.95 are the only state tax items the auditor general is asking the county to raise. Other state expenses are met by receipts from the state sales tax. But the securing of enough funds to run the county's business for the coming year with only a 5 mill tax levy is what is causing the supervisors to scratch their heads.

Five mills on the 1932 valuation of the county will realize $126,540 WATROUSVILLE MAN in round numbers. The ways and means committee in its last report estimated that the county expense would be $86,400. This with a poor fund of $63,600 makes a total budget of $150,000. The poor fund expenditures have been about $90,-000 during the past year and that fund is now overdrawn over $48, 000. The supervisors are hoping that welfare funds from the state and federal governments will be sufficiently increased the coming year to help the board to solve the county's financial difficulties.

rising prices of commodities have not been met by increased purchasing power and by reemployment. Still averse to currency inflation and devaluation of the dollar, the Chief Executive called into conference sevof his administra-Woodin tion to plan for further expansion of credit and for the reopening of closed banks, thereby freeing several billions of dollars represented by the frozen assets of those institutions. Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, not yet recovered wholly from his late illness, was one of the conferees; the others were Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Attorney General Cummings, Gov. Eugene Black of the federal reserve board, Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget; Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; Walter J. Cummings, conservator of closed banks, and J. F. T. O'Connor, controller of the currency. Following the conference the President took train for his Hyde Park home, and on the train he had a long talk with Prof. James H. Rogers, Yale economist. Rogers then returned to Washington and discussed financial matters with Douglas and others. This led to the report that some change involving the purchasing power of the dollar was imminent, but dispatches from Hyde Park said no announcement on monetary policy was forthcoming yet.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma announced that several groups working with him for inflation had decided to suspend their campaign. for the moment to permit trial of the credit expansion program proposed by President Roosevelt.

It was stated with authority that the President hopes to get a large proportion of the 5,000 closed banks reopened before January 1, when the deposit insurance system goes into effect. In order to qualify for deposit insurance, banks must be liquid. Thousands of the closed banks, the President is advised, are solvent but not sufficiently liquid to meet the requirements for reopening. To make them liquid, additional capital must be provided. To the extent such additional capital is not furnished by the communities in which the banks are situated it will be supplied by the R. F. C., through purchase of preferred stock in the institutions, according to the plan approved at the White House conference.

STEEL manufacturers, under the urging of President Roosevelt and Joseph B. Eastman, co-ordinator of transportation, have agreed to competitive bidding for the sale of rails to the railways, and Mr. Eastman announced that 700,000 tons of rails will be bought as soon as financial arrangements can be made. If the bids of the steel companies show that reductions in the price have been made, the money will be loaned to the railroads direct from public works funds.

Competitive bidding and bottom prices, it was hoped by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Eastman, also would result in the purchase by the railroads of quantities of rolling stock and equipment, which deals, too, would be financed by the government. Loans for buying rails, it was said, may run to some $25,000,000. Equipment loans may surpass that

Reports of railroad business are encouraging. The first 57 railroads reporting August business had a total net operating income of $51.054.-000, approximately double that of the preceding August. A year ago because they had lost their special the figure for the same number of | privileges for a previous riot. They carriers was $25,810,000, the in-

Gross revenues of the 57 carriers in August amounted to $247,269,000, compared with $243,-800,000 in July and $210,132,000 in August last year.

MANY of our large cities are in desperate financial straits and have been looking to the public works administration for salvation. There has been much criticism of the slowness with which the $1.750.-000,000 of federal money allocated for municipal and state projects is being handed out by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, the administrator. But Mr. Ickes met the mayors of 55 cities at the Chicago World's fair and let them know plainly that the cities themselves passed away at Bath.

"It is now largely in the hands of the mayors of our cities to determine whether the public works program will fully serve its purpose in aiding in the economic recovery of the country," said Secretary Ickes in his address. "Our national treasury is waiting to be drawn upon for hundreds of millions of dollars for useful public works.

"The administration in Washington can approve your projects and advance funds necessary to complete them. We have moved and are moving expeditiously, if circumspectly, but there is a point beyond which we cannot go.

"We can give you money; we can help you to decide what project to undertake; we can aid you in super vising your work, but we cannot de cide for you whether you want public works. We cannot force you to move any faster than you are willing to move."

OCEAN mail and ship construction contracts let during the Hoover administration are under investigation by a senate committee bama, and interesting deals are being revealed. On the first day Black charged that Henry Herberman of New York, president of the Export Steamship corporation, had directed one of his employ-tailor bill of T. V. O'Connor, then chairman of the United States shipping board. This Herberman flatly denied, but he and other witnesses were not able to easily dispose of testimony concerning alleged favors to various former officials. It was disclosed that ocean mail subsidies paid to the Export Steamship corporation annually amounted to more than the organization paid the shipping board for eighteen vessels.

A formal statement that C. Bascom Slemp, of Virginia, who once was secretary to President Coolidge, had helped to engineer the ship purchasing deal at a price lower than originally asked by the shipping board was placed before the committee by Herberman.

In a letter to Senator Black, chairman of the committee. Herberman wrote that Slemp had billed planned to go to Edgewater, N. J., him for $50,000 for legal fees in con- and ask the Ford employees there nection with the sale of the ships | to join in the demand for more $7.50 a ton instead of $8.50 as asked by Admiral Palmer of the shipping board. The sale price, Herberman wrote, was a compromise, and the "question involved was the per ton to be paid for shipping board vessels," adding that "Mr. Slemp acted in connection with this matter and felt that his services were worth, as I recall, $50,000. I actually paid him $15,000—$3,000 on July 1, 1925, and $12,000 on July 19, 1925."

Slemp resigned as secretary to Mr. Coolidge in January of 1925. Mrs. Mina G. To this compensation are added the rental of post office boxes and an allowance of 15 per cent for rent, light, fuel, and equipment. They also receive commission of 3 cents each on all the money orders.

This method of compensating these rural postmasters, it appears, prompts some of them to use various devices to increase cancella-The more stamps they cancel, the more they make.

The inspectors have reported many schemes adopted by postmasters to swell the cancellation fees. Some of them have mailed bricks, gravel and other bulky and worthless articles. Others who conduct stores sell groceries to their relatives and friends in other localities and by affixing sufficient postage on the bags and boxes insure their delivery by the rural carrier in the neighborhood. They not only received profit on the sales, but also received from the government the amount of stamps placed on the packages, plus the usual per cent.

Representative J. J. Cochran instigated the investigation, and it is expected that in the next session of congress he will lead a movement to have the present system of compensation of fourth class postmasters radically changed and thousands of the offices abolished.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away pehold, all things are become new II Cor. 5:17. PRIMARY TOPIC-Saul Learning

Love Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Saul Becoming Jesus' Friend. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Saul Becomes a Christian.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT
TOPIC—What Is Conversion?

1. Saul's Violent Hatred of the Lord's Disciples (vv. 1, 2). He knew full well that unless the movement set on foot by Jesus was stopped it would supersede Judaism. He was ignorant of the genius of Christianity. He did not know that "the blood of martyrs is the seed of the church." Prosperity may ruin the church, but persecution never. Stephen's testimony intensified his hatred instead of softening his spirit. It made him more determined than ever to stamp out the Nazarene heresy.

II. Saul Kicking Against the Pricks (vv. 3-9).

The figure here is that of the eastern ox driver following the ox with a sharp iron fixed in the end of a If the animal rebels and kicks against the sharp iron it but injures itself. This is the picture of Saul as he was madly fighting against Jesus.

1. A light from heaven (v. 3). The time had now come for the Lord to intervene. Saul was stricken with blindness and fell to the earth.

2. A voice from heaven (vv. 4, 5). This was the Lord's voice calling personally to Saul. In answer to Saul's inquiry, Jesus said, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest." Christ is so definitely identified with the disciples that he feels their suffering and recognizes treatment of them as treatment of himself.

3. Saul's inquiry (v. 6). The dictator is now willing to be dictated to. 4. Christ's answer (v. 6). He told Saul to go into Damascus where information would be given him as to what he must do.

5. Saul entering Damascus (vv. 7-The savage persecutor went quite humbly into Damascus, led by his attendants where for three days he remained blind and fasted. The day is coming when all who oppose the work of God shall get a sight of the glory of the Son, either in salvation or in condemnation (Phil. 2:10, 11; Rev. 6:15-17).

III. Ananias Ministers to Saul (vv.

1. Ananias' vision (vv. 10-12). In this vision he was instructed to go to Saul, given the name of the street and Saul's host.

2. Ananias' fear and hesitancy (vv. 13-17). He knew Saul's ministry and the authority by which he came. The Lord encouraged him to go, assuring him that Saul was no longer an enemy but a chosen vessel to bear his name before the Gentiles.

3. Ananias' obedience (v. 17). He went to the house where Saul was staying, put his hand on his arm, and affectionately addressed him as brother. He informed Saul that the Lord had sent him with a twofold

a. "That thou mightest receive thy sight."

b. "Be filled with the Holy Ghost." 4. Saul baptized (vv. 18, 19), After Saul received his sight, Ananias baptized him. It was fitting that Saul should be baptized by one not having official rank, since his ministry as an apostle to the Gentiles was to be entirely independent of

IV. Saul Preaching in Damascus

1. What he preached (v. 20). He preached Christ, that he is the Son This is the heart of the message of every minister and Sunday school teacher.

2. Where he preached (v. 20). It was in the synagogue. Because this was the place of assembly for the Jews, Saul took advantage of the opportunity to tell them that Jesus of Nazareth was the very Son of God.

3. The effect of his preaching (v. 21-25).

a. People amazed (v. 21). They knew that the very one who had been the leader in persecuting the Christians in Jerusalem and had come to Damascus for the express purpose of bringing them bound to the chief priest, was now passionately advocating that which he had vehemently sought to destroy.

b. Jews confounded (v. 22). Saul increased in spiritual strength and knowledge so that he confounded the Jews, proving that Jesus was not only the Son of God, but their Messiah.

c. The Jews sought to kill him (v. 23-25). Being unable to meet his skillful use of the Scriptures, they took counsel how that they might destroy him. So intent were they see that Germany carried out its on killing him that they watched the gate of the city day and night that they might take him. He escaped their wrath, being let down at night in a basket by the wall.

GRAY SUEDE SHOES FOR AUTUMN WEAR

Rivaling the conventional browns and blacks are the new gray suede or kid oxfords and sandals for wear with early fall clothes.

Much gray is promised in street and sportswear this season, and gray accessories promise to be more popular than ever. Gray shoes have already made their appearance with dark blue or black street frocks, and light-colored sports clothes this summer.

The new shades for fall are varied. There is gun gray, flint, and brownish taupe which blends with many shades. Gray shoes will be worn with dark coats trimmed with gray fur, and they also look smart with black navy, and certain shades of brown.

Hosiery with a slight gray cast is being shown to take the place of the clear beige and sun-tan shades of the summer. Taupe, which may be worn with black or brown, and beige with a gray rather than a yellow cast, are popular colors. These are more attractive than hosiery in a pure gray shade.

LET'S CROCHET By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Even if you have never crocheted before when you see such clever costume accessories done in crochet as those shown in this picture, you will be wanting to acquire the art. An easy matter it would be, for this attractive and novel accessory group consisting of surplice revers drawn about the waist with a wide belt, a cunning beret and flared cuffs on the gloves is done in the simplest sort of stitch. The entire combination is crocheted of mercerized crochet cotton which is to be had in a range of superb fall colorings. These crochet details are wonderfully effective on the heavy crash linen frocks the vogue for which is continuing on into the autumn days.

EGG-GRADING LAW TO AID PRODUCER

Colorado Plan Intended to Improve Quality.

Colorado's new egg-grading law will benefit poultry producers of the state by standardizing and improving the quality of eggs sold, says O. C. Ufford, extension poultryman for the Colorado Agricultural college.

Improved standards will create a demand for quality eggs, for which producers should be paid accordingly, he adds.

At present there is no restriction against selling eggs of any quality, grade or condition.

The dumping of low-grade eggs into Colorado from surrounding states, causing sudden breaks in market prices, will be prevented by the new law, which specifies that eggs shipped into the state "must be candled and meet at least the quality and grade of 'standards.' " Grades to be used under the law include "Specials," "Extras," "Trades," and also "Standards," "Checks."

Grocers, dealers and wholesalers, are required to obtain licenses from the office of the director of markets, Denver.

It is unlawful to sell inedible eggs. All eggs sold to consumers must be candled and graded. Producers selling eggs direct to consumers must candle and grade them and may get their licenses free of charge if they are selling only their own eggs. If selling direct to dealers, it is not necessary for producers to candle and grade or have licenses. If a producer buys eggs to sell with his own he must secure a dealer's license.

Range Best Place for the Health of Pullets The range is still one of the best places for the growing of sturdy, healthy pullets, in the opinion of Prof. W. C. Thompson, poultry husbandman at the New Jersey agricultural experiment station. Fresh air, sunshine, protection from excessive heat, green food and working space are essential to the efficient development of good poultry, while overcrowding of the ranges is the most frequent cause of trou-

The desirable conditions can be provided on farms where not more than 300 pullets need be ranged on an acre and rotation of crops practiced. Colony houses for growing pullets should be movable so that they may be shifted at least twice during the season. If the ranges are so managed that they have a green crop growing on them they will probably be in a sanitary condition.

Professor Thompson recommends a four-year ration plan, in which ov given range is used once dur ing the period for the pullet crop. In the year following the use of the land for birds, some cultivated crop should be grown such as corn, potatoes or cabbage. In the second year, wheat, oats, barley, rye or some other small grain crop can be planted in the early part of the season and after the harvesting alfalfa may be sown. In the third year the alfalfa is managed as a money crop and in the fourth year the poultry ranges over the second year alfalfa growth.

POULTRY CHATTER

A pullet can withstand a range in temperature from nearly zero to about 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

Chicks multiply their size eight or twelve times during the first eight or ten weeks of their lives. Therefore it is essential in good management to provide plenty of space.

Of eggs in the shell the United States is an exporter rather than an importer, having imported in 1930 only 317,000 dozen, while the exports for the same year were 18,-579,000 dozen.

A machine which automatically candles and then grades eggs according to weight has been developed. Eggs of the same weight are deposited in bins, ten classifications being provided.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative brings a perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it! And the habitual use of irritating salts, or of powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets may prove injurious.

A week with a properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will tell you a lot. A few weeks' time, and your bowels can be "as regular as clockwork." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given the youngest child. It Miss Gertrude Casey spent the I would be more than fair play, week-end at her home in Elkton. it would be a recognition of a long ignored right, if one allowed the Miss Margaret Patterson spent children to ask some questions. We ask children questions all day long. If they ask us any we are likely to Harry Crandell, Jr., of Bad Axe turn them away.

Questions are a sign of mental pent Tuesday night with his activity in the children. If instead grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Then another child raised his hand. "That's the city where the soldiers died in the Black Hole, isn't it? I've always wondered why the English were in India. Why didn't they go home and stay away from a country that treated them like that? They have so much trouble because the people don't want them there. Why do they stay there when they are not wanted in other people's country?"

That from ten-year-old Richard places him. Give the children a chance to ask the questions. You do the answering for a while. Help them to find the answers in their reference books.

It is possible for a child to get good marks in a subject and know very little about it because his mind has never questioned the subject. And it is also possible for a child to know a good bit about a subject and get passing marks only because the teacher didn't happen to ask the question that opened the vein of knowledge he possessed. If the child does the questioning the encher is informed about his conlition and the child is better inormed on his subject.

ACCUSER OFTEN HIT IN BLACKMAIL CASE

Penalty in Britain.

London.-Blackmail actions in Great Britain are always brought under a cloak of anonymity. If a conviction is obtained the plaintiff's name is never known. But if an unsavory action fails the position is reversed, the glare of publicity turns in the opposite direction and the erstwhile accuser finds himself liable to prosecution for perjury. Such a reversal took place in the Old Bailey Criminal court when Mrs. Lilian Simmons, thirty-two, was charged with threatening to Altogether she spent $750, the life-time savings of her husband and herself, and later pawned a piano, her sewing machine, and some jewelry to give him money. Finally she made efforts to regain the money and succeeded in collecting less than $100. She turned the matter over to an agent and Vivian gave her a check for $500. She was then arrested.

"You say you gave him this money because you loved him?" she was asked on cross-examination. "Yes, I always cared for 'Mr. V.." she answered.

Clarence George Simmons, her husband, testified that his income is $20 weekly. He did not know of his wife's infidelity until the case came up. He had forgiven her for that and the loss of the money.

The jury voted Mrs. Simmons not guilty. She was then discharged and the court added: "Go back and behave properly to your husband and remember he has behaved well to you. In my view this is a wickedly concocted story, and I shall retain the papers to consider whether I shall send them to the public prosecutor with a view to his considering a prosecution for perjury

WHEN one encounters what he believes to be a good tendency in human life, I believe he should mention it frequently, there is so found. I therefore mention again long used as vehicles of sex, filth and foolish romance.

The critic cites a story called "The Victory," as an example of the new naturalism he says is growing in Detroit. popularity. The story is simple and well written, and naked human nature appears in every paragraph, but the substance may be told in a few

A worthy man lives to old age with a cold, critical wife who finally completely dominates him as she dominated everyone with whom she comes in contact. The old man fears her as a child often whipped fears a cruel mother, and lives a completely suppressed life. In his last illness he has a bad cough which he knows particularly disturbs his wife, and he constantly struggles to smother it. When in dire need of assistance he is afraid to ask it, and spends many nights alone struggling to suppress his coughing. One night when seriously ill he knows he should call his wife, asleep in an adjoining room, but afraid to disturb her, he staggers about, old and gaunt, and pitiful. But he manages to suppress his coughing; his wife is not disturbed. When she enters his room at eight o'clock the next morning, she finds him dead.

I lately visited a circulating library, hoping to find a book to interest me during an approaching evening promising to be dull. There were hundreds of shelves displaying fiction, but only one little corner contained books devoted to sober truth. During a lull I talked with the librarian. "All books are fictitious," she said. "The historical novel intended as fiction contains as much truth as the memoirs of Silerius, said to have been written by the own hand of a powerful Roman. Silerius told only such truth as suited him, and exagger ated that. Was he truthful in speaking of the five wives with whom he had controversies? Was he truthful and fair in his references to other Roman generals? He wrote when very old; when all those he criticized were dead. Take the Bible, a sacred book; it gives different accounts of the same events. All truth is hidden in fiction and the reader must find it."

Silerius says in his memoirs he never knew whether he was a fool or wise man.

Grotius, contemporary and friend in a long and interesting introduction to the memoirs, says that while re was probably an execution ally sensible man, he also had unusual respect for the average intelligence of the people. Grotius believes this was the reason Silerius declared he never knew whether he was foolish or wise.

There were so many opinions conflicting with his own and he had such marked respect for the opinions of others he was uncertain as to his own judgments and rights. During the most troublesome days of the history of Rome, Grotius further says, Silerius opposed public policies later proving disastrous, but was so much in doubt as to rights of the questions under discussion nation in an emergency. The wrong policies later proving disastrous had more popular support than the policies Silerius believed to be the best way. This opposition from men he respected so confused him, he hesitated, and Rome was destroyed.

Much of the last part of the when he was old and ill. In the last chapter he says: "A funeral di-I will leave directions that he be employed, although I shall dislike to offend other acquaintances engaged in the same trade. I like those who solicit me, if the soliciting is done with reasonable politeness."

I once lived in a community where a rather decent man left his wife and stubbornly refused to longer live with her. The neighbors were astenished, for the wife was known among them as gentle, womanly, capable and intelligent. No one can understand why a man should refuse to live with such a woman. It was the reigning mystery for years and is today.

I am like others in that I do not understand.

Early man knew little more of language than the difference between yes and no; but that difference he knew well, and recognized it. He used a few exclamations indicating horror, fear, hunger, and the like, but beyond this was silent a good deal. As a result of long experience man has learned too many words and talks too much.

BLACK SATIN VOGUE EXTENDS TO HATS

Black satin's vogue for fall wear is extended to hats in the newest displays of fall millinery. Latest models in the smarter shops show a wide variety. The very wide-brimmed hats for dressier occasions are most often found with a flat crown, some of the new models measuring only an inch or two in depth. Their round, wide brims are an irresistible temptation to any brisk breeze.

High-crowned hats are plentiful also, some of them with fairly goodsized brims, but most of these are decorated with a cluster of flowers at the base to soften the harsher An attractive model is of black vel-

ENGLAND'S INNS ARE CHARMING

Old Hostelries Scattered All Over the Country.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service. that the old English continues a distinctly "going concern." Of this fact many a Red Lion or Green Dragon bears plain witness by its record of active hospitality dating back for hundreds of years without a break. Should one imagine it at all a moribund affair in its last bloom, highly picturesque but fated soon to disappear along with other landmarks of antiquity, he is greatly mistaken. Neither is it holding on merely by virtue of acquired impetus, as he might possibly

The old inn is a very living factor indeed in the scheme of modern ex-Attracted by its ineffable charm, thousands habitually resort thither for lodging or refreshment, and most innkeepers are fully aware of the substantial advantage they derive by preserving in their premises all the essentials of ancient

Now and then it happens that an old hostelry seems to be altogether one of those idyllic survivals from a bygone day, so invested by a mysterious, elusive halo of romance, and so hidden in some out-of-the-way corner that one can come upon it only by the barest lucky chance—a thing whose discovery you must ever afterward cherish in the lavender and rose petals of memory as an experience too rare to befall one mortal twice in a lifetime. But, as a matter of actual fact, old inns are dotted over the whole length and breadth of England.

Most of the Swans and Mermaids, the Mitres, White Harts, and Crowns, are not concealed in remote places, far off the beaten lines of travel, so that they have to be made the objects of special visits to be No particularly keen sight is required to discover them. Plenty of Inns Everywhere.

Besides all the old inns you cannot help discovering on the main roads and in the towns, there are those others, of course, on lonely heaths or fronting peaceful village greens.

likewise modest "ordinaries" by the brinks of the little rivers where the disciples of Izaak Walton love to lodge. And there are inns at bridge ends or where roads meet, to say nothing of seaside inns whose windows look out to sea or command busy harbor views.

In short, there are plenty of them of all kinds to offer an admirable field for the collectors. And a more fascinating holiday hobby than collecting old inns it would be hard to imagine.

Time and again at an inn you will chance upon a bit of history or romance and find the local associations with some famous personage proudly treasured by the country Think, for instance, of dropping into Dick Turpin's birthplace, the Rose and Crown, in the Essex hamlet of Hampstead! Think of drinking a toast on the spot to the memory of that doughty knight of the road! His father was the almost beyond doubt, Shakespeare Hampstead publican of that day, stayed there when he visited the and the people thereabout all knew town with his company of players in Dick's story and can point out to 1607. Though the inn was refrontyou his cockpit, now marked by a ed with brick in 1690 and "new ring of trees, just across the way.

pilgrimage to the old inns, or whether you casually seek their shelter, bear in mind that they are neither Ritz-Carltons nor Biltmores. Put aside for a little while your accustomed notions of Twentieth century luxury and splendor. Be willing to take things as you find them. For a day or two, forget about the regiment of uniformed pages you generally see in establishments—the hall porters, the bedside telephones, and all the array of patent electric gadgets that can be switched on and off at will.

Pass Up the Luxuries.

All or some of these adjuncts you may be surprised to meet with in more than one old inn where you would least expect to find them; but | shire, for example, you may be if you find none of them, it will do you no harm to walk upstairs instead of being taken up in a lift, or to go to bed by the light of a candle instead of the glare of a 32-candle power electric bulb.

What you are always certain to find in all of these old ordinaries will be comfort of a really homely, substantial kind, scrupulous cleanliness, genuine courtesy, from mine host down to "boots," and unfeigned hospitality whose character none could mistake. Not least in adding its share to your enjoyment will be that baffling atmosphere that pervades well-kept hostelries of long repute. If you are at all sensitive, you will detect it immediately you. cross the threshold.

"Atmosphere" is the only thing you can call it. It is an elusive, subtle thing that well-nigh defies attempts at close analysis; it is not exactly an odor or a series of odors: neither is it altogether attributable to what you subconsciously perceive with the eye. Rather it is a composite sense of linen that has lain in lavender, brasses conscientiously polished by generations of tidy housemaids, floors and furniture neatly waxed, good pictures on the walls, savory viands well cooked, the Martyr and Oliver Cromwell.

and a general air of tidiness along with unobtrusive but very convincing cheerful, solid comfort. Nor will it escape you that there is everywhere evident an attitude of respect for the inn's past, a silent tribute, as it were, to the character the place has acquired through its long and useful life as a haven of hospitality.

What may perhaps surprise you is the unassuming excellence of the 7ISITORS to England this year appointments quite commonly encountered. Again and again you will inn still has its sign out. It | find furniture that would bring a high price in antique shops. The landlords would scout the very idea of selling any of it; every piece is regarded as a treasured possession of the inn. It is always pleasant to eat at a fine old mahogany table or to sit on a superb Hepplewhite or Sheraton chair, and to know that all the succession of guests share the same pleasure.

Good Pictures and Silver.

You will find good pictures on the walls-Rowlandsons, Morlands, and a variety of prints that collectors eagerly covet. You will find good silver on the table and good knives that will really cut.

In some places you will have your ale in silver cans, and in the dining room of the Globe, at King's Lynn, there is a great cupboard full of old silver belonging to the house. Once this silver was regularly used on the tables. Now the cupboard is carefully locked and guests may feast their eyes on the treasures through the glass doors, but must content themselves with eating from plate of more recent date. And the story of the locking is a sad comment on the covetousness of some visitors. Aside from all the antique plenishings of ordinary occurrence, you will find some quaint survival to remind you of long bygone usages. For one thing, as like as not you will see in the hall of an old coaching inn a glazed showcase, set in mahogany framework, hanging on the wall. This was meant to hold a display of cold meats, game pies, cheese, and pastries for the inspection of passengers on the fast mail coaches. who stopped for a hasty meal while the horses were being changed and the driver refreshed with food and

Literary Shrines.

Should you choose to visit Saffron Walden and put up at the Rose and Crown, you will be reminded that, sashed and beautified in the year Whether you purposely make a 1748," and has undergone sundry other alterations in the course of the centuries, much of the original Tudor work remains as it was when Shakespeare knew it. The Rose and Crown is by way of being a literary shrine on another count, too. Himself a poet and the associate of literary men, young William Holgate, the son of the Rose and Crown's landlord, seems on credible evidence to have been the mysterious "Mr. W. H." to whom Shakespeare dedicated his Sonnets.

Time and again you will find yourself dining and sleeping at the same inn where some famous historical personage has stayed; perhaps the very same room may fall to your lot. In the George at Buckden, Huntingdongiven the room where Queen Victoria slept as a girl, when, her carriage having broken down on the road, she had to spend the night at this hostelry. The inn people will probably ask you to be careful not to disarrange anything in this sanctum, for they pride themselves on keeping the room exactly as it was when its royal occupant slept in the mahogany four-poster. It is somewhat more stimulating to the imagination to sit in the taproom of the White Horse at Eaton Socon and picture Dick Turpin coming in and calling for a pot of ale or a hot toddy. But both the George at Buckden and the White Horse at Eaton Socon are rich in picturesque appeal and quite capable of holding the visitor's interest without added lure of historic associa-

NCE*there was an unmistakable Reuben Glue who stood on a busy Corner in the Big Settlement, just where he was a Hazard for all Pedestrians. He wore a Linen Duster and carried a Carpet Bag with Red Flowers on it. The bristly Gosh-ding-its forked straight out from the Sub-maxillary and he sported a droopy Straw Hat with a Shoe-string around it. Knowing that he was under Observation by the City Folks he started in to live up to his Reputation. After rubbering at a Tall Building, with the mouth open, he exclaimed: "Gosh all Firewood! We ain't got nothin' like that out at Rutabaga Center. Jumpin' cornstalks! I'm goin' to see all the Sights if I bust Gallus! Gol sizzle! Jimminy Crickets! I 'low, calkerlate and swan that this hur Town is a Ding-Walloper!"

He paused and wiped his Freckles with a Bandanna. It was a tough Assignment-talking Dialect. As he stood there impeding Traffic. who should approach him but the Traffic Policeman. "Phwat the Divvle do ye mane, blockin' the Strate?" demanded the

A 14-Tube-Farmer.

"This is most interesting," said Agriculturist, forgetting his "Often I have wondered if any Officer of the Law really did use 'Phwat'."

"I am compelled to do so by the Exigencies of Realism," said the Constable, lowering his voice. "Even though I am of Polish Descent and was born in Roxbury, Mass., I am supposed to speak Irish, even to the extent of 'Spalpeen,' if there is such a Word."

"I get you," said the Boob from the Sticks. "Any stranger walking up to you might be the Creative Artist who puts Titles into Moving Pictures and it wouldn't do to ruin his illusions. But I am telling you that it is no Burst of Laughter to chew a straw all Day or tote this awful-looking Vanity Case."

"Then possibly I am mistaken in assuming that you have come to Town to buy a Gold Brick or trade your Farm for some phoney Oil Stock," said the Officer.

"You sure are," was the Reply. "I Our 14-tube Super Zingadino will not permit us to pick up either Honolulu or Rome, we want one with some class. This must be an off Day with you. I have been sizing you up two Minutes and you haven't clubbed any one yet. in the two-reel Comics-"

"I'm a merciful Guy," said the "I spare even the Hip-Flaskers who are begging for Trouble. I never, except on the Screen, up the Eyes and do a Turpin Fadeaway. And yet, the only People who get me sized up right are the Members of our Order. We have an extremely gum-shoe Organization called the Society of Overworked Types. Perhaps you would like to attend a Meeting." Lament of the T. B. M.

"Would they let me back out of this Character Costume and appear in my regular Sears-Roebuck?" asked the Hayseed.

"That is the idea of the Club. We get together in Private and swap Troubles and sympathize with Each Other."

the Conventional Yap was taken by the Usual Policeman to meet the Flapper, the Sheik, the Devilish Old Lady and the Tired Business Man. They dined in a quiet Alcove and, finding themselves unobserved, the Business Man took Crackers and Milk, the Old Lady ate a Frankfurter, the Flapper ordered up a Platter of Corn Beef and the Farmer wanted two Squabs with Romaine Salad and a Cafe Parfait.

The Tired Business Man said he would have to hurry as a new Girlsand-Music Show was opening and he had been advertised as a First Nighter for so long that now the Piece wouldn't ring up unless he was in the Front Row.

"If you think you are getting a Raw Deal, look at me," he said to a visiting Tulip Grower. "Just because I toil like a Turk all Day, I am supposed to hurry out about 6:30 P. M. seeking any kind of relaxing Entertainment, so long as it is Noisy, Senseless and moderately Indecent. What do I wish to do? Go home and play Chess. What must I do? Get right down in the Talcum Powder Zone, next to the Big Fiddle, and explode with Laughter at all the Wheezes which Happy Cal Wagner pulled in Sandusky in

"How about having one foot in the grave and being compelled to dance with the Other One?" asked the Devilish Old Lady. "I don't know what the Magazine Writers and Dramatists had against us Lady Relics of the Previous Century, but here about three years ago they dragged me away from my Knitting and made me go to the Cabarets, and when I say Cabarets I mean passed by the Oregon legislature the Dumps now being padlocked provides.

If my shins were frostbitten last Winter it was on account of those Ann Pennington Skirts they made me wear. Those Boys ought to have a Heart. I can't keep on going over the Hurdles forever."

"Not a Circumstance," exclaimed the Sheik. "Because I put some Patent Leather Polish on my naturally dark Hair and attended a few Parties, they brand me a Lizing to find a little Sunshine in a World overhung with the dark clouds of Restrictive Legislation and, naturally, it is embarrassing to be regarded as a Society Problem. I am convinced that the Editorial Writers and the Alarmists who are trying to fill their Churches every Sunday cannot revise Human Nature all at once simply by inventing a lot of New Labels.

"I doubt if I am any more depraved than my Grand-Dad who took Apple Jack and carried a pistol or my respectable Father who owned Trotting Horses and knew how to deal Faro. Youth has always taken its Fling but Youth never had any Press Agents until it became fashionable to peek over Transoms, work the Key-Hole and try to regulate the Affairs of Every One Else.

"Remember, it is not very long since Collegians, who are now weeping over a lost Universe, had Keg Parties on the Campus. At present, if I stay out until after Midnight and then eat Ham and Eggs. some one writes a Novel about me. Doing Their Stuff.

If he expected any Pity from the Flapper, he was fooled. She came to Bat with a Vengeance.

"When all is said and done," spoke up little Cream Face, "I am probably Queen of the Patsies and the Goat of the entire Outfit. I've got to observe the Styles or else stay in my room and yet, every time I give a Parade, wearing at least six Ounces of Clothing, the Reformers begin to toll all the Bells and talk about calling out the State Guard.

"Do you think it was any Snap to learn to smoke those Cigarettes made of Oakum? Or to drive a Car at sixty, or keep on applying French But what can I do? If I am a Short Sport I will lose my Ticket. Even the Sister who talks to the Clubs on the Decline and Fall of the Rising Generation expects me to wear Gold Slippers and pull my funny Lid over one Eve. I'm trying to look like the Pictures in the Magazines so as not to attract Attention or be regarded as a Freak."

At that moment a pale Person with Double-O specks came and sat at a nearby Table.

"Be on your Guard," cautioned am here to look up a new Radio the Business Man. "He looks like Writer. We had better do our Regular/Stuff.'

So the Yap said "I vum!" and asked for Pumpkin Pic.

While the Officer was limbering up his Brogue the Sheik grabbed the Devilish Old Lady and said. "Come on, Kid, let's melt the Wax on the Floor.'

The Tired Business Man began rolling his eyes at the Flapper, who called the Waiter by his First slip them a little TNT in Coffee Cups.

And it was all First-Class Material for the Author. He was observing Life.

Yale Lock Safety

A degree of safety is provided by the irregular shape of the key for Yale locks, so that no two keys will fit the same lock. The notches of the average key may be cut in eight depths, so that there are five notches, and the nur of different keys So that is how it came about that possible is eight to the power of five i. e., 32,768. The notches are cut automatically to the required depth and the pins in the plug are made afterward to correspond. Still a further number of key changes is obtained by milling grooves lengthwise on the sides of the keys to correspond with similar grooves in the keyway in the plug. By varying the shape and location of these grooves a great range of key changes is made possible.

Rare Moa Eggs

The moa was a giant bird, like the ostrich, which roamed the forests of New Zealand long, long ago. All the moas died or were killed by the Maoris long before the English explorers and settlers went to New Zealand. Two moa eggs were presented to the Auckland museum and the museum people regarded them as a gift of exceptional value, for there are only six other moa eggs known. Both of the two moa eggs were found with skeletons of moas many years ago.

Horses Deserted in Poland

Farmers in Poland are getting rid of their horses to stop the cost of feeding them. In one district not far from Warsaw a horse was sold for 50 cents. In another place one was given in exchange for a man's cap. Sometimes horses whose owners have failed to sell are deserted in market places.

FALL COSTUMES IN BLACK AND WHITE

Velvet or Satin With Dash of Monkey Fur.

Black and white looks like the first winner for fall, as it always is and apparently this year is not difard. I am just a young Fellow try- | ferent from any other. Except that the black is black velvet or satin. and the white is likewise. Also there's a dash of monkey fur to garnish many of the new fall costumes.

A striking black and white costume seen in one of the advance showings had a chalk white crepe frock, simply tailored, its only trimming being a bow of slithery black satin on one shoulder. It's worn with a black satin coat with lavish sleeve trimming of black monkey

Black satin gauntlet gloves and a little black velvet beret, pulled down over the eye, complete the costume, and, if you like, black velvet pumps.

The black satin suit is about as impressive a costume as you can wear right now. Especially when it has a dash of white. A nice one seen about town has a peplum flare in three tiers, a fitted belt, and a skirt that is straight and slim. It is worn with a white organdie blouse that has a Buster Brown collar and a big organdie tie. With this outfit is worn a white organdie

Black satin gloves with an organdie cuff, and black satin pumps add the final note.

FOR CAMPUS WEAR By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The leather jacket, sturdy stand by of the practical sports wardrobe, appears this fall with new style interest to enhance its popularity. Adjustable slide fasteners are used at the side front closing of the model illustrated after the manner of a smart frog trimming which makes it both practical and decorative. Practical because these fasteners make it possible to fasten the jacket as snugly or loosely as you wish, assuring a perfect fit to your particular figure. Decorative because the gleaming metal clips of the fasteners together with the metal buckle of the leather belt add a smart contrast note to the handsome dull surface of the monotone suede of the garment. The neck may be worn fastened high, with an inch-wide standup collar, or open, as shown in the picture, with one lapel casually thrown back. The flannel skirt worn with the jacket has an adjustable slide fastening, making the waistband fit exactly and eliminating the belt. The flare gauntlet gloves are of fine chamoisette and are washable. A tomboy hat with brim turned down in front and up in the back complete this up-to-the-moment costume for campus or sports wear.

STYLE NOTES

Street suits have very tight Many fur trimmings are noted tor fall.

Daytime coats have mandarin necklines. Comes now the glove-fitting silhouette into favor.

Tyrolean felt hats like men's fedoras will be worn. Many velvet woolens are shown for the new season.

The favorite fall suit is of black satin with a dash of white.

Paris Designers Revive Styles of 30 Years Ago

The trend of Paris fashion designers toward a return to the styles of thirty years ago was emphasized in the interopening of Maggy Rouff. continuing the openings of the big houses now in progress.

Maggy Rouff hints of the fashions of the "gay nineties" in featuring heavy rich silks, taffetas, failles. off-shoulder evening gowns, full swirling skirts, huge flowers and centering front decolletages.

Boldini portraits are recalled in shoulder draping, tight waists, extravagant fur-trimmed capes and coats, and a new hip-line basque for day and evening.

Colors are bronzes, burgundies, zinzoline—new bright red—black, blue and pastel colored dresses under dark heavy coats.
