COUNCIL VOTES "NO TAX" FOR THIRD YEAR HERE

Village Expenses Are Met from Savings Accumulated Previously.

THIS YEAR'S EXPENDITURES LESS THAN PREVIOUS YEAR

The village council, in session Monday evening, decided to finance the village for another year without raising any village taxes.

This is the third consecutive year that property holders in Cass City have been free from a village tax. During these three years, the village expenditures have been met from savings which have accumulated in previous years.

The annual financial statement of the village, printed on page 8 of the Chronicle, shows that expenditures of the past year have reached $8,234.51 and the receipts for the same period were $3,841.69. Expenditures this year are $1,249.62 less than for the previous year in spite of the fact that two paving bonds were retired in 1933, one a year before its maturity. Paving bonds and interest paid the past year totaled $2,495.00, while the previous year the amount expended for this purpose was $1,577.50. There is now outstanding against the village in pavement bonds the sum of $8,000.00.

This year, the council will have additional expenses of $200 for 200 feet of fire hose and about $700 for pipe for an extension of the water mains. It is anticipated that a saving in interest paid the coming year over that of 1933 will be about $90.00.

The balance in the village treasury gradually increased from $379.79 in 1925 to $19,503.36 in 1932. While the surplus increased, during the same period the tax rate decreased and the bonded indebtedness has gone from $24,500 in 1925 to $8,000 in 1934. In 1925, the amount of taxes raised totaled $12,705.90 and in 1931, the last year any money was raised by village tax, the amount was $7,677.25, or nearly 40 per cent less than the first year named.

In 1932, when citizens received their first "no tax" news, the balance in the village treasury on Mar. 1 was $19,503.36; a year later the balance on hand was $14,590.82, and on Mar. 1, 1934, the balance was $10,198.00.

Members of the village council are George W. West, president; and A. C. Atwell, M. B. Auten, Lester Bailey, W. L. Mann, J. A. Sandham and R. M. Taylor, trustees; and C. M. Wallace is clerk. A. N. Bigelow is village treasurer and H. L. Hunt, village assessor.

Passion Week Program of Churches

The following schedule of union church services for Passion Week has been prepared by local pastors:

Union service in the Evangelical church on Tuesday evening at 7:30. Sermon by Rev. W. R. Curtis.

Union service in the Baptist church Wednesday evening at 7:30. Sermon by Rev. Paul Allured.

Union communion service at the Methodist church Thursday evening at 7:30. Short talks by each pastor preceding communion.

Good Friday service at 1:30, in the Presbyterian church. The following talks will be given: "Caiaphas and Jesus," by Rev. Charles Bayless. "Peter and Jesus" by Rev. Paul Allured. "Pilate and Jesus" by Rev. W. R. Curtis. "Barabbas and Jesus" by Rev. George Spittler.

All are cordially invited to attend each of these services.

Production Loans Coming in Fast

Applications for loans through the Lapeer Production Credit Association, are coming in fast. At the present time, over one hundred have been filed for approximately thirty thousand dollars. Approvals from the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Paul are coming through daily.

Money may be borrowed for any agricultural purpose or to pay any debts that were so contracted. On March 16th, the interest rate was reduced from six to five and one-half per cent.

Generous use of this government financing agency will not only finance the farmer's debts but it will enable him to purchase the needed equipment, seeds and fertilizer for a well planned season's production.

The loans are secured by chattel mortgage and are generally made for one year. Applications are being written at the following places: Howard Fields, residence, 3½ miles west of Clio; Harry Potters, residence, 109 East Flint street, Davison; Marie Goodell, County Agent's Office, Caro; or the Home Office in the Joseph Armstrong Building at Lapeer.

It will expedite matters if the applicant will bring a written description of the farm he is occupying when he makes application.

VILLAGE TO GET 4,490 CWA HOURS

Will Extend Water Mains and Eliminate "Dead Ends" in Water System.

The Civil Works Administration of Tuscola county has agreed to furnish the Village of Cass City unskilled labor to the amount of 3,850 hours and semi-skilled labor to the amount of 640 hours for the extension of the waterworks system. The village will furnish new material for the extension of the water mains, the approximate cost of which will be $702.61. This material is in addition to material now on hand for the work which cost the village approximately $500.00 when purchased some time ago.

This extension program is for the purpose of improving the fire protection and water distribution. Laying water mains along Third street and extending the water main system from Main street to the pumping station will complete the circuits and eliminate dead ends in the water system.

It is expected that this work will commence as soon as weather conditions are favorable.

Want to Be Served by Cass City Route

Several rural route patrons in the Wickware community who receive their mail from Tyre are petitioning the Post Office Department to have their mail delivered by Rural Route No. 5 from Cass City. These families reside north and east of Wickware and do their trading at Cass City. Most of them, if not all, reside closer to Cass City than Tyre. One of them remarked to the Chronicle that he had been in Tyre but once in thirteen years.

Alfred Bartley, one of the rural carriers at Tyre, will be transferred to Deckerville, where he will fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of O. A. Dawe. Guy Soles, the other carrier at Tyre, it is said, will be the only carrier out of the Tyre post office when Mr. Bartley leaves that position.

Supt. Randall Offered Increase

L. D. Randall, superintendent of schools in Cass City for four years, is finishing his first year as superintendent at Chesaning and has been invited to return for the second year in that position. The board of education has offered him an increase in salary of $350.00 over that of last year, making the salary for the coming year $2,000.

BOY SCOUTS.

Through invitation, Scoutmaster Curtis took a group of Scouts to Bad Axe at a field day meet. After several contests were taken, one of the troops of Bad Axe locked horns with the Scouts from Cass City. It was a desperate battle and the honors might have gone any old way, but at the end of the game Cass City was victorious with a score of 14 to 12. Then the other team was tackled, with an even larger score for Cass City, which finally figured 17 to 27. The First Aid team work of Bad Axe is to be commended. Scoutmaster Curtis was asked to be judge in several of the contests.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Knadler of Cleveland, Ohio, visited the former's uncle, H. O. Greenleaf, the last of the week.

A Parting Sock!

ST. CLAIR DEFEATS CASS CITY IN QUARTER FINALS

First Loss in 15 Class "C" Contests Eliminates Cass City in State Race.

"Al" West led his quintet clear to the state finals where they suffered their first setback of the year at the hands of Holland Christian, the new class "C" state champions. His aggregation defeated the Maroon and Grey 27-13 at Lapeer on Thursday night.

Although Coach Kelly had the good record of 14 straight wins in his class and an "even" in two engagements with the class "A" Saginaw Eastern, his team was no match for the large fast cagers from the lower Thumb, when the St. Clair team was enjoying one of their good nights.

However, the school and the town are justly proud of Cass City's basketballers this year. The B squad has eight triumphs against no losses. The varsity has for the season 15 victories and two defeats. They have registered 506 tallies while allowing only 315 tallies to their opponents in these 17 games. It is one of the best seasons a local quintet has ever had.

Only three of the squad of ten men that represented Cass City in the tournaments will not be available for next year's team. It is true that men like Kosanke, Knight and Kelly are helpful to any aggregation—their records show that—but every school must lose some strength each year. Cass City will still have her center, Vyse, who will be back, better than ever next year. And there are Graham, Stafford and Ward, three who have already proven their ability—each with experience. Hyatt, Donnelly and Hulbert, all sophomores this year, have shown possibilities that indicate successful years ahead of them. And, besides all of these, there remain the twenty odd players that contributed to the perfect record of this year's B squad. Indeed, the Maroon and Grey may now look from a bright past towards a still brighter future.

But right now, basketball is fast becoming but a pleasant memory to lay along with those of past campaigns. For the season changes and whatever spring may mean to you, to Coach Kelly and his athletes it means track and baseball are at hand!

Crippled Children White Cross Seals.

"The Easter White Cross Seal Campaign for Crippled Children is progressing splendidly in all parts of Michigan and other states," said Paul H. King, First Vice President of the International Society and Secretary-Treasurer of the Michigan organization, today. "The message of Easter and the thought of the rehabilitation of the Crippled Child harmonize wonderfully.

"President Roosevelt's cordial approval of the effort has given great impetus to the movement everywhere.

"In Michigan, more than half the counties are already organized, and others are rapidly falling into line, most gratifying support, due undoubtedly to the appeal of the plan, in which all agencies, local, state and national, participate. A successful conclusion, now assured, means that community activities will receive substantial benefits and organization work of the State and international societies may go forward unabated even under present trying conditions.

"The Michigan Society, already responsible for special classes in the public schools, the establishment and preservation of the work of the Michigan Commission for Crippled Children and the recent securing of an orthopedic surgeon for the Upper Peninsula, is planning a busy year with an active educational program for the prevention of infantile paralysis."

NEWS OF THE NEARBY SECTIONS

Happenings Here and There Garnered from the Chronicle's Exchanges.

Thé Rev. Wilfred Lindsay, 74 years old, Presbyterian minister at Vassar for four years, died at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw Saturday night. He underwent a major operation there about three weeks ago. He is survived by three sisters, a brother and two daughters.

Fatally injured when struck by an automobile at Vassar Friday night, John McIntyre, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McIntyre, died in the Hubbard Memorial Hospital Saturday. McIntyre was struck by an automobile driven by Fred M. Crossy Bad Axe, when he ran across the road in front of the car. He was playing with several other children at the time. Cross took the child to the hospital and later reported the accident to the office of the sheriff. He is not being held.

Farmers of the territory surrounding Sebawaing were in receipt of checks totaling $93,000 from the Sebawaing plant of the Michigan Sugar company as an installment payment on their 1933 beet contracts. The checks mailed Friday and Saturday, bring to $5 a ton the sum paid farmers by the manufacturers. The third and final payment, expected to be made this summer as soon as the last of the sugar crop and its by-products are disposed of, is expected to increase the per-ton beet payment to farmers to nearly $6.

Depositors of the State Savings Bank of Bad Axe will receive 30 per cent of their deposits within 90 days according to an announcement made Thursday by members of the depositors' committee. The amount to be distributed will be about $120,000. The total deposits in the bank at the time it closed in December, 1932, were $472,000. At that time the bank had secured a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Since the date of closing, most of this loan has been paid off, according to Vern Geiger, receiver, in his report to the depositors' committee, T. R. McAllister, H. L. Dow and John McQuarrie.

FRUIT TREES FROZEN, PEACHES HURT WORST

Pruning Should Be Delayed Until Extent of Injury Is Shown.

Prospects for a peach crop in Michigan this year are very bad and the crop from other fruits will be more or less reduced according to investigations made by the department of horticulture at Michigan State College.

All fruit buds on Elberta peaches in this state appear to be killed except a few, perhaps, in Berrien county. South Havens and Rochesters are in a little better condition, and Gold Drops, New Prolific, and a few other varieties may produce a very light crop.

All pruning of the varieties which may have some live buds should be delayed until it can be determined what portions of the tree show any promise of fruit bearing. Two weeks of temperatures above the freezing point will give the discolorations caused by freezing time to appear in the woody portions of twigs and branches.

Trees showing serious discolorations should not be pruned heavily. If the fruit buds are dead but the wood is not badly discolored, heavier pruning is probably safe. The pruning should not extend below any live buds. Bark which has been torn loose from the tree should be tied or tacked. Later, if the bark does not resume growth, it can be removed.

Pear buds and wood have been damaged. Pruning should be delayed until discolorations caused by Turn to page 5, please.

Columbia Supervisor Died Wednesday

Edward Dillon of Colwood, for many years supervisor of Columbia township, passed away at Caro on Wednesday evening after a five-day illness. Funeral services will be held at St. Agatha's church at Getageton on Saturday morning at ten o'clock.

Mr. Dillon was in Caro on business Friday and that afternoon was taken sick. He remained at the county seat at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Sears, where he gradually grew worse.

As a member of the county board of supervisors, Mr. Dillon served on many important committees of that body and was a member of the committee in charge of the construction of the new Tuscola county courthouse. Mr. Dillon was the president of the Holy Name Society of the Thumb of Michigan District.

DENTAL WORK EXCHANGED FOR BEANS AT $3.00 CWT.

Dr. P. A. Schenck of Cass City offers $3.00 a hundred for Michigan pea beans in exchange for all classes of dental work or old accounts. Beans may be delivered at either elevator at Cass City.—Advertisement.

LOUNSBURY-THANE.

Miss Lucille Thane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Thane, of Colling and Leslie E. Lounsbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Lounsbury, of Cass City were quietly married Friday evening, Mar. 16, at the home of Rev. Ray Wilson, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church.

The bride is a graduate of the Caro High School and of the Tuscola County Normal and is teaching the Hillside School, six miles west and one-half mile south of Cass City.

The groom is a member of the 1928 graduating class of the Cass City High School. He also took a short course at Michigan State College at Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. Lounsbury spent the week-end with relatives in Flint, returning home Sunday evening. They will make their home for the present with Mr. Lounsbury's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Perry.

FARMERS GUESTS AT ROTARY MEET

Four Agriculturalists Gave Vocational Talks Before Group.

Members of the Rotary Club had farmer friends as guests at the Tuesday luncheon of the club at the Hotel Gordon and the group of fifty-five enjoyed a program at which guest speakers discussed vocational topics.

Willis Campbell had charge of the program and welcomed the guests. "Above my desk up at school," said Mr. Campbell, "is an inscription which reads as follows: 'Agriculture is the basis of all industry—livestock its cornerstone.' Your occupation is a noble one and one of which you may be proud."

Walter Schell, district chairman of the corn and hog allotment program, gave valuable information on that topic; Jim Milligan described the status of the livestock industry; Audley Rawson, chairman of the county wheat allotment, told the group about wheat legislation; and Herbert Maharg spoke on the "Outlook for Beans in 1934." All four speakers held the close attention of the group and their talks were of interest to all.

Stanley A. Striffler was welcomed as a new member of the Rotary Club.

President Schenck announced the appointment of two committees as follows: Nomination committee—Frederick Pinney, H. F. Lenzer and M. B. Auten. Transportation committee for district meeting at Saginaw on April 23 and 24—J. L. May, A. C. Atwell and G. A. Tindale.

Albert C. Dunham of Royal Oak, lieutenant governor of Division No. 1, Michigan District, Kiwanis International, will be the speaker at next Tuesday's Rotary meeting. He will also give several vocal numbers, with his daughter, Miss Kathleen Dunham, serving as accompanist.

ELKLAND RETURNED LOWEST PERCENTAGE OF UNPAID '33 TAXES

Out of a Total of $36,308, Only $3,998 Were Returned Unpaid.

75% TAX COLLECTED IS AVERAGE IN TUSCOLA

Elkland township has returned to the county treasurer the lowest percentage of uncollected 1933 taxes in Tuscola county.

County Treasurer Whittenburg had completed settlement with 20 township treasurers before Wednesday night and expressed the opinion that none of the three townships yet to submit figures would have as good a record as Elkland.

John M. Reagh, Elkland's treasurer, returned as uncollected $3,998.56 out of a total of $36,308.75. The amount returned is 11% of the total tax. The general average throughout the county is near 25%.

The following table gives the total tax roll and the amount returned in the 20 townships whose treasurers have settled with County Treasurer Whittenburg.

Township	Total Tax Roll	Uncollected Tax	Returned

C. C. H. M. Group Elected Officers

The last meeting of the Cass City Home Management Group was held at the home of Mrs. Herman Doerr on March 14, with Mrs. Stanley Warner, Mrs. Edith Bardwell and Mrs. Stephen Dodge as assistant hostesses. Nineteen members and five visitors were present.

At the election of officers, the following were chosen: Chairman, Mrs. Walter Schell; assistant chairman, Mrs. Levi Bardwell; secretary, Mrs. Stephen Dodge; recreation leader, Mrs. Martin McKenzie; project leaders, Miss Lura DeWitt and Mrs. L. I. Wood.

The review lesson on "Storage," plans for achievement day at Caro on April 20 and discussion of next year's work were presented by Mrs. N. A. Gillies.

Members voted for three lessons on kitchen arrangement and two lessons of Michigan laws for women for next year's study. The new lesson, "Goals in Homemaking," was presented by Miss DeWitt. Members discussed the housekeeping and homemaking methods of families in the five books members were required to read during the year: "Grandmother Brown's 100 Years," "A Lantern in Her Hand," "The Log Cabin Lady," "The Homemaking," and "The Life of Ellen H. Richards."

Visitors at this meeting were Mrs. John Doerr and Mrs. Ray Hulbert, who are leaders in the Bethel group and Mrs. S. Peterson, Mrs. R. McConkey and Mrs. Garber.

St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty Rejected by the Senate Despite President's Efforts—Revamping of Air Mail in Progress—House Passes Bonus Bill.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

DESPITE the fact that President Roosevelt phoned personally to a number of senators of both parties seeking to persuade them to vote for ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, the pact was defeated in the senate by a vote of 46 to 42. Thus the affirmative vote was far below the required two-thirds of those voting. Party lines were disregarded. Twenty-two Democrats voted against ratification, along with 20 Republicans. In favor of the pact were 31 Democrats, 14 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Laborite.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was said in Washington, was decidedly vexed by the defeat of a major administration measure, and he began preparations to resubmit the treaty at a future session of congress. Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Democratic whip of the senate and one of the leading opponents of the rejected treaty, predicted that Canada would soon offer the United States a substitute treaty. This may be true, but dispatches reveal that in Montreal, at least, the defeat of the pact was hailed with joy because business men there think the project too expensive to be undertaken at this time. The President's warning that Canada would, on its own initiative, build an all-Canadian waterway seems to be met by this news from Montreal.

Chicago and the Mississippi valley are blamed by Mr. Roosevelt for the rejection of the treaty, and there is no doubt that their arguments against the proposed restriction of diversion of water from Lake Michigan to 1,500 cubic feet a second were potent. This amount, according to Senator Lewis and other Middle West senators, would be wholly inadequate to maintain navigation in the Mississippi waterway. The Atlantic seaboard senators, too, were almost solidly against the treaty.

If the treaty is resubmitted, the clauses concerning the sovereignty of Lake Michigan and the Chicago diversion may be omitted; but Senator Lewis said: "So far as I am concerned—and I believe I speak also for several others—I shall not be satisfied with a mere omission, but shall demand that internationalization of Lake Michigan and the limitation of the sanitary district diversion shall be specifically renounced by Canada."

SENATOR WAGNER of New York, chairman of the national labor board, has put forth a warning that unless "misconstruction" and "evision" of the collective bargaining provisions of the National Industrial Recovery act are checked, "we may expect to witness a vast swelling of industrial unrest with the coming of spring."

Secretary of Labor Perkins joined with Wagner and other witnesses before the board in urging the passage of Wagner's bill which would create a permanent labor board and outlaw employer influence over the organization of employees. Representatives of the American Federation of Labor demand that employers be forced to recognize the unions and predict general strikes especially in the automobile industry unless prompt action is taken to satisfy the men.

BY DIRECTION of the President, all air mail operations by the army air corps were suspended by Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the corps, and the drafting of a new schedule that would insure greater safety for the flyers was begun. When the news reached him of the deaths of the ninth and tenth army mail carriers within three weeks Mr. Roosevelt sent out word: "The continuation of deaths in the army air corps must stop." He ordered that the carrying of air mail cease except "on such routes, under such weather conditions and under such equipment and personnel conditions as will insure, as far as the utmost care can provide, against constant recurrence of fatal accidents."

General Foulois, Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, chief of air mail operations, and various Post Office department officials built a revised "safety" route with the trans-continental line from Newark to San Francisco as the main line, other routes feeding into it. The intention was to reduce the number of trips on all schedules and to permit less night flying.

Colonel Lindbergh aroused interest by visiting Washington for two days and conferring with Secretary of War Dern. Soon after the secretary named the colonel, Orville Wright and Clarence Chamberlin on a committee to investigate the army carrying of the air mail.

Lindbergh, however, declined to serve on the committee, repeating in his letter to Secretary Dern his severe condemnation of the plan to have the army carry the air mail. Mr. Dern urged him to reconsider. Meanwhile, the colonel appeared before the senate post office committee to testify concerning permanent air mail legislation.

General Foulois has been working on a plan by which army flyers could join with commercial pilots in receiving training. The step follows a suggestion by Mr. Roosevelt that "because military lessons have been taught us during the last few weeks," army aviators should train with those who "later on will fly the mail" in "night flying, blind flying and instrument flying."

TWO hundred and thirty-one Democratic members of the house kicked over the traces and, with the aid of 59 Republicans, passed the Patman bill calling for the immediate payment of the veterans' bonus with greenbacks. The President has repeatedly expressed his opposition to the measure and indicated that he would veto it if it got through congress. Its passage by the senate was unlikely.

There were only two reasonable explanations for the revolt of the Democrats. One was put in words by Representative John Y. Brown of Kentucky, a Democrat, who was in opposition. He said: "You are buying veterans' votes. You are holding out this piece of bait to get veterans' votes this summer. There is not a man in the house who believes this bill will ever become a law, and yet you sit here and vote for it for your own political welfare."

The other explanation was that many of the Democrats are resentful of the "rubber stamp" label that has been put on congress and welcomed an opportunity to break away from dictation and, as one of them said, vote as their consciences directed.

IN A new revolt against the administration policy the house insisted on adding more than $200,000,000 in veterans' benefits and government pay to the federal outlays in the next fiscal year. However, this was a compromise, for the amendment adopted by the house involves a total annual expenditure of approximately $90,000,000 for veterans as compared with the $118,000,000 called for under the veterans' amendment adopted by the senate.

Briefly summarized, the house measure as sent to conference provides:

1. That all Spanish-American war veterans be restored to the pension rolls on a basis of 75 per cent of what they received prior to enactment of the economy bill last session.
2. That all World war veterans with service connected disabilities be restored to the rolls on a full basis.
3. That World war veterans with presumptive disabilities be returned to the rolls on a 75 per cent basis.

IN addition, it eliminates pensions for emergency officers, pensions for the widows of the men lost in airship disasters, and knocks out the so-called Borah amendment limiting the restoration of the federal pay cut to persons receiving less than $6,000 a year.

SAMUEL INSULL, whose deportation was ordered by the Greek government, his ticket bought and his train selected by the officials, vanished from his residence in Athens between midnight and morning, and for hours the police of the country were frantically searching for him. Then it was announced that the fugitive had been arrested aboard the Greek freighter Meotis, which had been pursued by a torpedo boat destroyer. Insull was bound for Kessy, Egypt, near Alexandria, and presumably was heading for either Persia or Afghanistan.

The Athens police learned from the Insull household nothing of the way in which Insull escaped from the city. They thought he was aided by "international crooks." The whole matter was causing great disturbance in Greece and a cabinet crisis was threatened.

THE gunboat Fulton, known as the "grief ship" of the American navy, caught fire during a storm off the China coast and had to be abandoned. The crew of 187 officers and men was rescued by two British vessels and taken to Hongkong. Only three men were injured.

WALTER J. CUMMINGS, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company of Chicago, is the new treasurer of the Democratic party. The place was first offered to John S. Cohen, Atlanta publisher, but he rejected it. Mr. Cummings' first task will be the raising of funds with which to help along the election of Democratic senators and congressmen this fall. Supposedly he will also raise the money for the next Presidential campaign.

ON JULY 1 the University of Illinois will have a new president in the person of Arthur Cutts Willard, now dean of the college of engineering in the university. Mr. Willard, who is fifty-five years old, is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is internationally known as an authority on heating and ventilation.

CRIMINAL action for alleged evasion of the federal income tax law was ordered by Attorney General Cummings to be brought immediately against Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury and one of the world's wealthiest men; T. L. Sidlow of Cleveland, law partner of Newton D. Baker; Thomas S. Lamont, son of the noted financier Thomas W. Lamont and a member of the J. P. Morgan banking house, and James J. Walker, former mayor of New York.

Mr. Cummings announced that the Department of Justice had conducted a secret investigation of the tax affairs of these four men and had turned the information gathered over to United States attorneys in New York, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Grand jury action in each of those cities was expected to result. Cases against more than a score of other men were being prepared by the department's tax division.

Mr. Mellon was quick to place his case before the people. In a long statement he denied ever having failed to pay his proper income taxes and said that in the last twenty years he had paid more than $20,000,000 in this form of rates. He characterized the attorney general's action as "politics of the crud sort." He continued:

"I feel very strongly that before the attorney general of the United States should bring a charge of this kind against me I, like any other citizen, should be given proper notice in the manner provided by law of the government's intention to assess additional taxes and should have been afforded an opportunity to meet such charges in the customary way.

"In all my years of experience in the administration of the tax laws I have never known of a single instance in which such unfair and arbitrary action has been taken."

By order of the President a new income tax procedure was put in force, designed to break up so-called "negligent" evasion of taxes. All tax returns which the government suspects of embodying willful evasion will be referred to grand juries for investigation of possible fraud.

JOSEPH B. EASTMAN and the Interstate Commerce commission have joined in recommending to congress legislation that will place under "the guiding hand of government control" the transportation agencies that use the highways and waterways of the country. Their report, which was submitted to the President, declares that regulation of motor and water transportation is necessary "if a threatening chaos is to be transformed into order." Such regulation, they said, should be concentrated in the Interstate Commerce commission.

In proposing changes in the interstate commerce act, the co-ordinator and the commission recommend liberalization of the long and short haul clause forbidding a railroad to charge less for a longer than a shorter haul, except on permission from the commission.

This clause is held by middle western interests to have damaged them substantially by preventing traffic moving by rail to the Pacific coast, and its repeal is now being sought.

LA LIBERTAD, most important seaport of the republic of Salvador, was almost destroyed by an explosion of dynamite on the docks and the resulting conflagration. It was believed at least 150 persons were killed.

ONE of Japan's new torpedo boats, the Tomozuru, 527 tons, was wrecked mysteriously off the Sasebo naval base and it was believed most of her crew of 113 men were lost. The vessel was completed only February 26 last and was a new type, carrying the heaviest armament ever given a ship of its size. It was considered a triumph of Japanese naval architecture. Several others of the same type are under construction.

BY A vote of 15 to 8 a District of Columbia grand jury refused to return indictments in its investigation of an alleged conspiracy to defraud the government on War department contracts.

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

By Home Economics Specialists Michigan State College

Seventeen cents per person per day is the average cost of the week's menus suggested by home economics nutrition specialists at Michigan State College. The cost may vary slightly due to prevailing prices of foodstuffs. By planning menus for a week, the grocery money can be made go farther and better food will be the result.

Sunday: breakfast—bread, griddle cakes with molasses syrup, coffee, milk; dinner—sub gum chop suey, rice, caramel rolled oats pudding, tea, milk; supper—cream potato soup, toast, tea, milk. Cook two cups of dry rice and save one half of it for Monday dinner. Soak one pound of brown beans for Brown Cap on Monday.

Monday: breakfast—corn meal mush with milk and sugar, whole wheat bread and butter, coffee, milk; dinner—Brown Cap, escalloped tomatoes, bread and butter, Dutch apple cake, tea, milk; supper—boiled potato with jackets, milk gravy, shredded cabbage salad, bread, tea, milk. Cook two and one-half cups of dry corn meal and save three cups of it for pudding Tuesday night. Save one half of Dutch apple cake for dinner Tuesday. Boil beets to use on Tuesday.

Tuesday: breakfast—rolled oats with milk and sugar, whole wheat bread and butter, coffee, milk; dinner—creamed liver over mashed potatoes, Harvard beets, bread and butter, Dutch apple cake, tea, milk; supper—vegetable potpourri, bread and butter, cornmeal pudding, raisin sauce, tea, milk. Use either pork or beef liver. After liver is cooked, either grind or chop it fine before white sauce is added. Soak three cups of navy beans for baked beans on Wednesday and bean soup on Thursday.

Wednesday, breakfast—milk toast made from whole wheat bread, coffee, milk; dinner—baked beans, raw carrot and raisin salad with boiled dressing, hard biscuits and butter, tea, milk; supper—raw fried potatoes, tomatoes, bread and butter, ginger snaps, tea, milk. Parboil beans and save one-third of them for soup Thursday. Bake ginger snaps, then biscuits, while beans are baking. Save one half of cookies for Thursday dinner. Save one half of salad dressing for salad on Friday. Soak one cup of prunes for pudding Thursday.

Thursday: breakfast—Corn meal mush with milk and sugar, bread and butter, coffee, milk; dinner—mashed rutabagas, potatoes with cheese and cream sauce, bread and butter, ginger snaps, tea, milk; supper—navy bean soup, toast, raw carrot strips, prune pudding, tea, milk. Boil three pounds of potatoes and save one half of them for Friday.

Friday: breakfast—rolled oats with milk and sugar, bread and butter, coffee, milk; dinner—macaroni and salmon, stewed tomatoes, corn bread and butter, tea, milk; supper—hashed brown potatoes, raw apple and prune salad, bread and butter, rolled oats cookies, tea, milk. Use salmon in macaroni as cheese would be used. Bake corn bread and cookies while macaroni is in oven. Save one half of cookies for Saturday. Soak one pound split peas over night for Saturday. Soak two and one half cups cracked wheat over night for Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday: breakfast—cracked wheat mush with milk and sugar, bread and butter, coffee, milk; dinner—German hot potato salad with frankfurters, bread and butter, rice with banana custard sauce, milk; supper—split pea soup, toast, oatmeal cookies, tea. When cracked wheat is cooked, take out one half of it for breakfast, and boil down rest to be fried Sunday morning. Mould in pan rinsed out with cold water. At noon make custard sauce, pour over rice and slice banana on top.

Directions for above recipes will be mailed if request is sent to home economics department, Michigan State College.

BROWN SCHOOL.

We are still having much fun on the ice in Mr. Goodall's field. Many of us have sore arms this week after taking the first treatment of toxin for the prevention of diphtheria. We expect to go to the high school on April 4 to get the second treatment.

Gerneth Mercer is our beginner this spring.

Lucile DeLong is back to school after the cold winter weather.

Our room begins to show that Easter is near with its decorations of chickens, rabbits and ducks.

Peter Dasho has had 100% in spelling every lesson in the spelling contest of the fourth grade. We had no school on Wednesday of last week because our teacher attended the teachers' institute at Caro.

Deaths

Orlo Pattison, 81, died at his home in Caro, Thursday, Mar. 15, following an illness of pneumonia. Mr. Pattison came to Tuscola county, with his parents, when he was a small boy and lived near Caro since that time. He was a former postmaster of Caro. Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday from the home. Rev. H. W. Kuhlman, assisted by Rev. Mr. Wilson, officiated.

He is survived by one son, Dell, and one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Hartman, both of Detroit. Mr. Pattison is well known by many Cass City people, his first wife being a cousin of Mrs. Howard Lauderbach of this place, and his second wife being a former Cass City girl, Miss Lucy Parker.

Here's why you should use Royster's Field Tested Fertilizer

GOOD quality crops are hard to grow. They take hard work, experience, favorable weather, proper soil and the right kind of fertilizer. They call for a real investment in money and plenty of worry. Yet all this means nothing if the fertilizer is not right. Why run the risk? Why not play safe? Protect your investment. Trust your crops to Royster's—the fertilizer that is tested out right in the field.

Remember this: Royster's is made in one quality only—the best. You can pay more or you can pay less, but you cannot buy better fertilizer.

Royster experts are continually studying crops like yours, learning all there is to know about fertilizing them. They never stop experimenting and improving. They test every fertilizer in the laboratory, then field-test it under actual growing conditions. Only refined materials are used to make sure that the purest obtainable grades go into Royster sacks. As a result, we know that Royster Fertilizer will give you the results you want.

See your Royster dealer today and let him know how many tons you need.

Improved SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for March 25

CONFESSION AND FOLLOWING CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-26. GOLDEN TEXT—And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter's Answer to Jesus' Question. JUNIOR TOPIC—A Question and the Answer. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Putting Christ First. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Think Ye of Christ?

In order to obviate a break in the studies in Matthew and still have an Easter lesson, the review should be omitted and the lesson for April 1 taken instead.

I. Jesus Christ the King, Taking Account of His Ministry (vv. 13-17).

1. The place (v. 13). It was at Caesarea Philippi, the northern limit of Jewish territory. It was significant that the announcement concerning the Church should take place in this region.

2. The time in Christ's ministry. It marked a turning point. His ministry was largely restricted to his disciples after this. The cross was a short time ahead. The Messiah had already been rejected. They had already charged him with being in league with the devil and sought to kill him. It was highly important that the disciples should have clear views as to Christ's person in order to stand the test of trial and crucifixion of Jesus.

3. Peter's confession of Jesus (vv. 13-16).

a. The occasion (vv. 13-15). Two questions asked by Jesus provoked this confession.

(1) As to the opinion of the people concerning him (vv. 13, 14). They recognized him as a teacher and prophet of more than human authority. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion concerning Jesus. Some think that he is only a man; others that he is a great teacher but nothing more. It was his persistent claim to be the God-man, the very Son of God, that sent him to the cross.

(2) As to the personal opinion of the disciples (v. 15). It was not enough for them to be able to tell what opinion the people held concerning Jesus. It was necessary that they have clear personal knowledge.

b. The content (v. 16). It consisted of two parts.

(1) "Thou art the Christ." This means that Jesus of Nazareth was the Messiah. The fulfiller of the Jewish hopes and expectations.

(2) "The Son of the living God." This acknowledged him to be divine. It was the recognition of his glorious person in keeping with the Jewish hope (Isa. 9:6, 7).

4. Christ's confession of Peter (vv. 17-19). Peter had made a noble confession. Now Jesus confesses him. Those who confess Christ shall be confessed by him (Matt. 10:32, 33).

5. Christ's charge to the disciples (v. 20). He asked them not to tell any man that he was the Messiah. The time was not ripe for such testimony.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced (vv. 18, 19).

Following the confession of Peter, Jesus declared his intention of bringing into existence a new body. To the members of this body he promised to give the keys of the kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. The keys entrusted to him were used at Pentecost and again in the case of Cornelius. Christ has the keys of Hades and death. Members of the Church of Christ go immediately to be with the Lord (Phil. 1:23), therefore the gates of Hades shall not prevail against them.

III. The King Predicts His Death (vv. 21-23).

This prediction was no doubt startling to the disciples. They did not yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried, "This shall not be unto Thee." Later Peter saw through the darkness the sunlight on the hill tops beyond the cross. Redemptive victory through Christ's death is yet the stumbling block to many.

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (vv. 24-26).

To follow Christ means suffering. To follow him is to turn one's back upon the world. Life can only be saved by losing it. To be Christians means to share Christ's suffering.

1. There must be denial of self. There is a wide difference between self-denial and denial of self. All people practice self-denial but only real disciples of Christ deny self.

2. "Take up his cross" (v. 24). This cross is the shame and suffering which lie in the path of loyalty to Christ. To do our whole duty will bring suffering (II Tim. 3:12).

3. Follow Christ (v. 24). This means to have the mind of Christ, to be like Christ. All such shall be rewarded when Christ comes in glory.

GAGETOWN.

Funeral of Mrs. Bliss Saturday—

Mrs. Margaret Bliss, aged 85 years, who has been a resident of Huron county for 59 years, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Patrick Kehoe, on Thursday, March 15 at 8:05 a. m. after an illness of two days. Funeral services were held Saturday in St. Agatha's church by Rev. Fr. McCullough with burial in St. Agatha's cemetery.

Mrs. Bliss was born in County Sligo, Ireland, and came to Huron county from Providence, Rhode Island. She was married to the late Patrick Bliss in 1868. She was a member of the Catholic church and Altar Society.

Cass City Schools. By Elaine Turner.

The state law requires that the school board members submit a budget of the school's running expenses to the tax commission. The board and Mr. Price are working on this budget now in an attempt to lower the tax rate as much as possible. According to the Tatcher-Sias Act, 15 million dollars should be made available for distribution to the schools of the state each year. Under this act, Cass City would receive $8,187.85 next year if the entire 15 million were distributed. It is possible that one-half of this amount will be distributed, from which Cass City will receive about $4,093.92.

The basketball team wish to take this opportunity to thank the ladies of the Woman's Study Club for the pancake supper which they gave them Friday evening, and for the support which local people have given them throughout the season.

Through the state health department, the toxoid serum for diphtheria was given to all children from ten months to six years of age on Monday afternoon. A few high school students also took the treatment.

Last Wednesday, we had a day's vacation while the teachers attended the county teachers' institute at Caro. Our next vacation won't come until next week, Good Friday, and the following Monday.

An all-high party was held in the gym Friday night and everyone present seemed to have a very good time.

The high school geography class is studying corn and cereals this week. This is one of the most valuable classes held because of the numerous practical things learned which one meets in his life each day.

The good old baseball games will soon be starting and we hope you will give us the same loyal support which you have displayed thus far this year.

The annual Junior class play will be given Friday, March 23, at the high school auditorium. It has a very capable cast of the following juniors: Bill Hyatt, Lorraine Hoffman, Howard Taylor, Carlos Vader, Arthur Battel, Everett Leishman.

Eunice Schell, Pauline Dodge, Mary Mark, Genevieve Garety and Curtis McNaughton. The play, "The Spanish Onion," is very cleverly written and very humorous. Because this is the only play which has been given this year, you can't possibly afford to miss it. The high school orchestra, which received so much credit at the Elkton music festival, will furnish music before the play and between acts.

Easy Way to Thaw Frozen Water Pipe

Water pipes frozen during the sub-zero weather in February will not thaw out naturally for several weeks after warm weather begins, but proper use of hot and cold water will thaw them rapidly, according to the department of agricultural engineering at Michigan State College.

Pouring the water into the end of the frozen pipe is not successful because the overflow carries the water and heat away too rapidly. However, pouring water through a small pipe or hose inserted in the water pipe until it touches the ice will remove the barrier in a short time.

Vertical pipes can be thawed easily by placing the small pipe or hose in the top. The hot water can be poured through a funnel to prevent waste. Hot water comes in direct contact with the ice and the ice water overflows from the water pipe as fast as the hot water is poured in.

Fresh well water can be used instead of hot water but the thawing will be slower. Water forced in by a pressure pump will do the work faster than if poured in.

Horizontal pipes are more difficult to work with but a pipe can be inserted by cutting it in short lengths and coupling these together as the pipe is inserted. A hose does not work as well in a horizontal pipe.

A standard one-quarter inch pipe is as large as is safe to use in a one inch water pipe and a one-eighth inch should be used for three-quarter inch water pipe. This allows clearance for any coupling necessary.

FRUIT TREES FROZEN, PEACHES HURT WORST

freezing have had time to appear and very little wood should be removed if serious discolorations are found. Wounds made by pruning heal slowly on discolored wood, and wood rot is apt to start in such cuts.

Winter injury to sweet cherries is variable, some orchards show serious bud-killings and some are only slightly damaged. Pruning should be done only when the amount of winter damage can be determined.

Sour cherries which were defoliated last year are apt to be frozen back. Advice given by the horticulturists is to delay pruning but to repair any injuries to the trunks.

Freezing of tree roots can not be determined until the trees start growing. Those seriously frozen will only half unfold their leaves and then will die. Trees not so badly injured will have yellowish foliage and will make very little growth. These trees may die or may recover. No treatment which will help them is practical for use on an extended scale.

Harold W. Avery, who for the past year has been conservator for the State Savings Bank of Peck, was appointed receiver for the institution by Rudolph E. Reichert, State Banking Commissioner, at Lansing. This week bank examiners have been making an audit of the assets and liabilities of the bank, but no public statement has been given out.

WAR FEAR SPEEDS FRONTIER DEFENSE

Paris. — European nations, obsessed by fear of impending war, steadily are increasing their armaments.

Two factors lie behind the increase in the arms burden—the fear that Hitlerite Germany is preparing for revenge and the belief that the disarmament conference will fail.

France has speeded up work on frontier fortifications, stretching from Dunkirk to Basle and from Mount Blanc on the Swiss frontier to Nice on the Mediterranean.

At the same time the defense ministries have been modernizing their forces and accelerating the mechanization of the army. Pierre Cot, air minister, has just authorized the purchase of 25 De Wolfine pursuit planes.

Reports from London say that the British air ministry has ordered 100 new fighting planes in addition to the regular replacement. The planes will have a speed of 250 miles an hour.

The British air ministry also has ordered a number of trimotored flying boats equipped with one and one-half pounder rapid-fire guns.

Britain also is expected to speed up her 1933 naval building program.

Belgium has just appropriated 750,000,000 francs to develop frontier defenses and enable her army to block a sudden attack from the east—meaning Germany.

This sum will be used to fortify the Herve plateau, develop anti-aircraft defense from the ground, buy new pursuit and bombing planes, increase munition stocks, artillery and small weapons.

Reports that Germany has a plan to attack France by passing through Switzerland induced the Swiss government to appropriate additional funds for national defense. These funds are to be devoted to increasing the reserve supplies of arms and munition.

New Deal Trend Seen in Industrial Toys

New York.—The NRA drive has boosted American children's enthusiasm for toys that reproduce grown-up business activity.

To meet this new industrial trend in play, a Tom Thumb business equipment show was staged at the Toy association recently, presenting workable reproductions of nearly every adult trade from store keeping and carpentry to building construction and cement mixing.

Grocery stores for the playroom are offered in cardboard with counters and a series of shelves where miniature canned goods are stored. Bargain signs, cash registers and tiny telephones that really work add to the realistic ensemble.

Office equipment, too, has boomed in childhood popularity since the NRA drive. Roll-top desks and flat-top executive desks with electric lamps, French telephones and tiny typewriters are featured.

Even ABC blocks come in wagons, or autos, molded after grown-up builders' equipment. Children can build filling stations to service toy autos and boats, skyscrapers and bridges.

20-Year-Old Tree Bears Crop of Coreless Apples

St. Joseph, Mo.—A twenty-year-old apple tree bore seedless and coreless fruit on the farm of Dr. Perry Fulkerson, near here. Never before has any tree in the orchard produced such fruit. The apples resemble the Jonathan variety.

Calf Calls on Mayor

Cleburne, Texas.—As accustomed as Texans are to cattle, nevertheless there was much excitement when a half-grown calf threaded its way down a busy street here and of its own accord walked boldly into the mayor's office. The mayor was in, and the calf ended in the pound.

Tunnel Sought to Reach Gold Deposit

Cripple Creek, Colo.—Gold deposits worth $80,000,000—six times more than the world now possesses—would be made available for low-grade mining operations under plans being sponsored by Cripple Creek mining men.

The plan calls for the digging of a tunnel five miles long to drain the gold mines in the Cripple Creek district and lower the water level 600 to 700 feet. At present mining operations are carried on as far down as the 2,400 foot level. Engineers estimate that vast bodies of gold ore lie beneath this level.

In addition to freeing the mines of water, the tunnel would release water enough to irrigate 20,000 acres of the fertile Arkansas valley between Canon City and Pueblo, Colo.

An application for a loan of $1,000,000 to finance the undertaking has been approved by Gov. Ed. C. Johnson and is now before the government officials in Washington.

Lois Lost Her Dog!

By ANNE CAMPBELL

HOW to picture happiness? Only Lois claims Happiness can run and play Tag and other games!

Once its image was obscured In a gloomy fog. That was yesterday, before Lois lost her dog!

If he would come back again Happiness would run On four joyous doggy feet Through the summer sun!

Who can picture happiness? . . . Lois, I suppose! She says joy is just a dog With a soft cold nose!

NOVESTA.

Everyone is ready to welcome spring.

Many are having bad colds and flu. Arthur Henderson was a caller in Inlay City on Saturday.

Miss Mary Colander of Lamotte was a week-end visitor at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Pringle.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ferguson of Snover were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Phebe Ferguson.

Ernest Churchill, John Zollner and Harold Sutton, who have employment in Detroit, visited at their homes here on Sunday.

W. J. Sprague made a trip to Inlay City on Friday, returning home the same day.

Arthur Henderson visited his brother, Stuart, in Pontiac on Sunday evening.

Robert Kelley of Pontiac spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Kelley. Bobbie says he is not the Robert Kelley, who is in line for congratulations.

A. H. Henderson and son, Arthur, were in Sandusky on the 20th in attendance at an agency convention for the Michigan Mutual Windstorm Insurance Company. About 40 agents were present. Dinner was served at noon at the McDonald Hotel.

About forty people attended the Ladies' Aid dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Pringle on Tuesday, March 20. Place for next meeting has not been decided.

Kenneth Auten and Miss Ettie Collins were married at the county seat on Monday. The young people are well known here and we congratulate them.

DRUNK DRIVER HAS HIS LICENSE REVOKED

Edwin Buhl was arrested in Saginaw Tuesday on a charge of breaking and entering the Henry Kamm garage at Reese on the previous Tuesday night when a car, a radio, tires and cigarettes valued at $500 were taken.

Fred Brinkman of Unionville, arrested Friday night on a charge of driving while intoxicated, was sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail by Justice St. Mary. Brinkman's driver's license was revoked.

George Link of Colling was arrested Saturday by Deputy Wm. Brady of Unionville on a drunk and disorderly charge. Justice Merle Atwood assessed $11.50 costs and placed Link on a suspended sentence for 60 days.

William Benjamin of Caro was given a sentence of 90 days in jail by Justice St. Mary on a charge of the theft of a motor block from the Caro Auto Parts.

Harold Stickland of Caro was sentenced to serve 65 days on a drunk and disorderly charge by Justice St. Mary.

Twenty-five Years Ago.

Millinery opening next week. Miss Laura McWebb is learning the millinery trade at Mrs. McGillivray's. James Lacroix has moved his household goods to Lapeer where the family will reside. Percy Eno has returned to the Canadian Northwest after spending the winter at his parental home here. William Spurgeon has returned home from the Canadian Northwest after spending the summer there. Many witnessed the work of placing the railroad bridge across the White Creek drain near Deford on Sunday. Dr. A. N. Treadgold is in Chicago taking a two weeks' course in the Chicago Post Graduate School of Medicine. Dr. J. H. Hays is caring for Dr. Treadgold's practice in his absence. Frank Howler has had the western fever for some time and Monday left for the land of his desire. He thinks of locating in North Dakota or the Canadian Northwest. The painters and paperhangers of Cass City held a meeting recently to talk over trade conditions and arrange a schedule of prices for the work in their line for the coming season. James Armstrong presided as chairman and James McKenzie was the secretary. Harry Collier, who has been engaged as a cornet player in the U. S. Navy for the past two years, visited his home in Noko for ten days. One more meeting in the interest of local option has been planned for Cass City before election. It will be held at the opera house on April 1 with Judge Blair of Portsmouth, Ohio, as the speaker.

Thirty-five Years Ago.

H. S. Wickware is building a dray for S. Karr of Gagetown. C. W. Campbell and Chas. Frost are expected home from Detroit Business University next week. Undertaker McKenzie has been kept unusually busy this week, having had six funerals in three days. The death is announced of Benj. F. Eayrs of Caro, who was one of the original promoters of the Ancient Order of Glens. E. A. Jones, living southeast of town, reports the arrival of seven pairs of twin lambs. He also states that a large deer paid him a visit one day last week, coming into the barnyard and within about two rods of him. McArthur & Gregory have completed the purchase of 200 acres of farm land in this section from John M. Smith of Reese. Eighty acres lie south of here, near the river, and 120 acres just across the county line in Evergreen township. We have had a better run of sleighing this week than at any time this winter. As a consequence, about 1,000 bushels of grain were delivered at our elevators Wednesday forenoon and about 300 bushels of custom work found its way to the roller mills the same day. The Cass City Laundry was moved the first of the week to its new location at the corner of Segar and Sanilac streets, in the old creamery building. On Saturday, an attempt was made to draw customers to the store of B. Wolksy by the ringing of bells on the street, which is a violation of our ordinances. The bells were very promptly silenced. M. Sheridan of the Sheridan House, has succeeded in completing the purchase from A. H. Ale, of the Tennant House corner, with fifty feet frontage on Main street and running back to the alley. He already had plans completed for the erection of a new house at the old location, but this will give him a still better position.

McCONNELL SCHOOL.

Teacher, Vera Flint. Reporter, Agnes Grochocki. The eighth grade finished their history and civics books and are working on their history work books. Those who have finished their grammar work books are: Elaine Klinkman, Virginia Hartwick, Mary Statler, Agnes Grochocki and Wm. Harrison. The seventh grade are at work on their geography and orthography. We received Unit IV, in the "Science of Living Things," which is the last unit. Harriett Grochocki has finished her third reader. The sixth grade have finished their grammar books. We are all glad to receive some new library books. Grace Harrison was a visitor last week. Visitors are welcome.

SAND VALLEY SCHOOL.

Eva Marble, teacher. Mrs. Gledhill and Mary Toht visited our school Friday. For art work, we drew kites. The primary group have been playing "The Golden Key" for language class. We have been learning a Dutch song, "Katrina." The Cadillac is still ahead. We are almost finished with unit five in "Science of Living Things." The fourth grade are studying the outlying possessions of the United States for geography. We have been feeding the birds and we have attracted chickadees. We had a surprise party for Clare Souden because he is leaving. We served scalloped potatoes, baked beans, salmon sandwiches, jello, and cake. The Shagena children have returned to school after a short illness. There was no school Wednesday because Mrs. Marble went to the teachers' institute. Mrs. Marble read to us "The Perfect Tribute" by Mary Shipman Andrews. The fourth grade finished their spelling book. Ralph Robinson finished his geography work book. Elizabeth Windy colored our March health poster. Beatrice Langworthy and Betty Oldenburg, reporters.

WITHEY SCHOOL.

Teacher, H. M. Spaetzell. Motto: "Anything worth doing is worth doing well." We are working hard for the spelling contests. Lucille Wentworth is ahead and Wilda Collins is second. We are playing anti at recess and noons. We enjoy it very much. Dorothy Gregory has been absent on account of her mother's sickness. The seventh and eighth grades have nearly finished their history work books. Ralph Whittaker was well pleased when his alarm clock aided him to reach the school before the teacher this morning. Wednesday, the 13th day of March, was very unlucky. We broke two windows. We had several visitors this week from high school. We had a spelling match and discovered that some of the pupils were good spellers. Cecil and Evelyn were victors of the dentist one half day this week. The CWA man was here talking over the needs of the school. This morning, our teacher said we were going to make bird books. As soon as we see a bird we are to write it down in our booklets. The one having the best book is to be given a prize. Wednesday, Betty Collins had the bad luck to get her head bruised by the handle of the door. The attendance for this month is 96 per cent. Reporters, Donna Jean Bright and Alma Catherine Elwell.

HERON SCHOOL.

Florence Slack, teacher. Nora Maharg, reporter. Madelyn Heron was absent the last part of the week because of her mother's serious illness. This is the first time she has been absent this year. School visitors Wednesday were Miss Warner from Saginaw and Lorena Doerr. The third grade spelling contest is nearing the end with the Orange side ahead only a few points. Hurry up, Yellows! Manley Fay visited school Thursday. O. F. F. Club met Friday. Those who were neither tardy nor absent this month are: Bobby Day, Charlotte Fay, Martell and Dane Guisbert, Nora Maharg, Clare Rawson, Donald and Cecil Martin.

RESCUE SCHOOL.

Memory Gen. "Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide, in the strife of truth and falsehood, for the good or evil side." Edna Ellis has been absent the past two weeks. She is having her eyes taken care of in Ann Arbor. Seventh grade have received their Michigan geography work books and are coming along nicely with them. Second grade have finished their readers. Second grade are writing letters for language. Sixth grade are working hard on their arithmetic notebooks. Third grade are studying about the Chinese for geography. Fourth and fifth grades are studying about South America for geography. Lawrence and Clifton Summers were absent on account of illness. We had a spelling match Friday night. Audrey Webster and Gladys Longuski were captains. Our visitors for this week were Miss Norma Young and Miss Helen MacLachlan. Our spelling contest ended last Friday. Lula Ashmore and Billy Palmer received first and second prizes in the higher grade contest and Justus Ashmore and Lucille Britt received first and second prizes in the lower grades. Teacher, Catherine MacLachlan.

CEDAR RUN SCHOOL.

We have four new pupils, John Cybulski and Frances, Dale and Violet Chaffee. About thirty of our people went to Ellington Thursday to receive toxoid treatment. We had no school Wednesday on account of the teachers' institute at Caro. The boys will soon finish their tooth brush holders. The girls started embroidering Friday. The eighth grade started Unit VI in "Science of Living Things" on Thursday. Reporters, Mac O'Dell and Frank Bach. Teacher, Marion Leishman.

RESCUE.

Gilbert Tebeau, John MacAlpine and Norris and Perry Mellendorf were business callers in Cass City and Caro Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor and daughters were Friday evening callers at the Arthur Taylor home. There was no school last Tuesday, as the teacher, Miss Catherine MacLachlan, attended the teachers' institute at Bad Axe. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mellendorf and sons were business callers in Bad Axe Monday afternoon. Harmon Endersbe of East Grant was hauling clover in this vicinity last week. Leslie Proudfoot has been busy these days buzzing wood. Samuel Ashmore is working for Frank Reader. A nice crowd attended the class in religion at the Jos. Mellendorf home last Wednesday evening. The last meeting of the class was held at the home of Rev. Mr. Harper in Elkton on Wednesday evening. A potluck supper was served. A large number attended the funeral services of Mrs. Samuel Heron at the Grand church on Sunday afternoon. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family by their many friends in this vicinity.

GREENLEAF.

Duncan McLeod spent a few days this week in Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Millar of Detroit spent Saturday and Sunday at the McKay farm. Mrs. Wm. Lewis is nursing at the Holdship home in Uby. She is caring for Miss Constance, who has pneumonia. Geo. Roblin lost a valuable horse last week. Mrs. Archie Gillies is numbered among the sick. Her daughter, Mrs. Archie MacLachlan, is taking care of her. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gillies have returned from Gand Valley, Ont., where they went to attend the funeral of Mrs. Duncan Gillies. They report lots of snow in that country. Some of the roads were impassable, snow being many feet deep on some of them. They made the last four miles with a horse and cutter. It is reported that Mr. and Mrs. Hempton of Pontiac are moving back to their farm a mile south of New Greenleaf. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stirton and family of New Greenleaf were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stirton of Atwater. Wm. Powell and Geo. Roblin buzzed their wood the first of the week. The McColl machine did the cutting. Many of the farmers here have taken logs to the Sweeney farm on the county line, to be cut up into lumber.

ELLINGTON AND NOVESTA.

An 8½ pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Vern Little last Thursday. She has been named Phyllis Ann. Mrs. Joseph Parrott spent from Thursday until Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tallmadge at Sandusky. Delmar Winer and Miss Edith Moore of Flint brought the former's aunt, Mrs. Fred Stine, to her home on Sunday. Mrs. Stine had been in Flint since Thursday with her sister and mother, Mrs. Bert Winer and Mrs. David Justin. She also visited another sister, Mrs. O. A. Lane, who is very ill at the Hurley hospital.

SHABBONA.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Jones were callers in Marlette Saturday. Mrs. Carrie Walden of Pontiac came Saturday to spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. Nelson Hyatt. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kritzman visited friends in Pontiac for the week-end. S. J. Jones of Flint spent the week-end here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Furness and daughter, Lorraine, spent from Friday night till Sunday with Mrs. Furness' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson, of Kinde. The Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church met with Mrs. Charles Severance Thursday for dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kritzman visited their son, Hazen Kritzman, and family of Detroit for the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hyatt entertained Mr. and Mrs. William Hempton of Pontiac Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Matilda Jones returned to Marlette Saturday where she will spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. John Harriman. Born to Mrs. Clare Craig, on March 15, at Pleasant Home hospital, Cass City, a daughter, Mary Lou. Frank Smith of Flint has purchased the stock and store building of Walter Hyatt and will take possession at once. Mrs. Harvey McGregor is a patient at the Morris hospital at Cass City.

ELKLAND.

Misses Mary and Elizabeth Ross visited at the home of their parents over the week-end. Miss Elizabeth has a position at present in the office at Ferris Institute, Big Rapids. Mrs. A. H. Maharg was on the sick list a few days this week. The Bethel Home Management Group met with Mrs. Herbert Maharg on Thursday. Mrs. Archie MacLachlan and son spent a few days this week with Mrs. Archie Gillies at Greenleaf. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sprankle and three children of Detroit spent the week-end with friends in this vicinity. The last gathering of the Bethel Family Group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Profit on Wednesday evening. These sessions have been much enjoyed by all.

Mae Foster Jay

The author of the delightful romance, "Green Needles," which will be published serially in these columns, was not forced to go far afield for the material for this story, in which the heroine wins and holds a responsible position as a civil engineer. The material came right to her doorstep—or, rather, to her tent flaps.

Mrs. Jay is the wife of a prominent engineer who has been engaged for years on big projects and developments in all parts of the country. Mrs. Jay accompanies her husband on these undertakings and her first writing was done in a tent in the Coast Range Mountains where he was employed upon a development project—the same project which Mrs. Jay later chose as the setting for "Green Needles." Through her habit of trained observation, coupled with a deep interest in her husband's career, she soon gained a rather complete working knowledge of engineering, which makes itself apparent in her handling of the technical engineering details woven into the romance of "Green Needles."

It was not only a knowledge of engineering that Mrs. Jay obtained, however, from her life out-of-doors and her contact with the great projects on which her husband was engaged. In the earlier days she wrote many articles for nature magazines, feature newspaper articles and animal stories for children, which later were published in her first book, "Raghouse Tales."

Since that time she has been writing, not prolifically, but steadily. Her published work has included fiction for both juvenile and adult. Among her best known stories, in addition to "Green Needles," are "Morning's at Seven," "The Girl of the Mesa," "Tad," and "The Yard Stock."

"Green Needles" is the story of a young girl who believes her money weighs her down and that the hope of her life is to act as if she did not have any. Accordingly, she starts out to do something worth while and becomes a successful engineer. From that the story gets its name, referring to the fairy tale of the little pine tree that did not like its own green needles.

GREEN NEEDLES. Once upon a time there was a little pine tree which did not like its green needles.

"I wish I had gold leaves!" It cried. That night a fairy passed through the forest, and in the morning the little pine tree had leaves all of shining gold.

It was very beautiful. And it was very happy—until a robber came by and stole every leaf. Then the little pine tree cried, "I wish I had glass leaves!"

Again that night the fairy passed through the forest, and in the morning the little tree had leaves of sparkling glass.

It was very beautiful, and again it was very happy—until a storm passed by and left every leaf shattered upon the ground.

"I wish I had big green leaves like those of the other trees!" the little pine tree cried then.

Once more the fairy passed through the forest in the night, and in the morning the little tree had broad green leaves like those of its neighbor trees.

Once more it was very beautiful. And once more it was very happy—until a goat and her kids came along and ate every leaf on the low little pine tree.

And then the little pine tree cried, "I wish I had my own long green needles again!"

That night the fairy passed through the forest again, and in the morning the little pine tree once again was covered with long green needles.

It was very beautiful. And it was very happy. For the birds alighted upon it joyously, crying, "Now we can build our nests here. You will hide them in summer, and in the winter you will keep us snug and warm!"

"After all," said the little pine tree, "no other leaves are so good for me as my own long green needles."

—Adapted from an old German legend.

CHAPTER I

The Gold Ball and Chain. MARY BROWN selected one of the silver forks beside her plate and deftly speared a slice of bread from a tray across the table.

David Brown, multi-millionaire president of the Peerless Copper company, stood the shock rather well, having had considerable experience in confronting the unexpected in big business—and in his youngest child.

Calmly choosing a bit of red tomato from his salad, he commented, "You turn the trick rather neatly for a novice."

"Thanks, father." Mary lifted truculent blue eyes to his amused but questioning ones. "I wanted to see if I had forgotten—but I think that's exactly the way I have seen it done in your mining camps. However, I must acquire ease."

"You're expecting to need—outpost etiquette?"

"I might," she told him meagerly. But David Brown very well knew that this was just a dramatic fore-runner to an outburst that would come later. Mary, always intense, eager, determined, was especially discharged today. For some reason she had a grievance against life.

He smiled ruefully as he followed her to the drawing room later. She was a tall girl, straight as a mast, wiry, hard and firm of muscle; yet very feminine in general appearance.

Today she had been graduated from a large eastern university in that profession which overcomes nature's forces with a slide rule and a table of logarithms. Mary Brown had been the only girl graduate from the school of civil engineering—and she had received highest honors in her class.

And still, something was seriously wrong with her world.

The butler served the coffee. Hardly had he withdrawn when the predicted outburst came.

"Money!" she cried. "What is it?" And scornfully she answered: "Shackles!"

David Brown seated himself, narrowing friendly brown eyes as he smiled. "Money—shackles? With one hundred and twenty millions of people in our country scrambling over each other to get it?"

"Because they don't know it's just a ball and chain! But—I do! I'm through with it, dad. I wash my hands of it. All my life I've been hurt by it—"

"Hurt, daughter?" a little incredulously. He had striven to make tom on my own, and working my way up. Starting with just enough money in my pockets to last until my first pay day."

"Has it occurred to you," thoughtfully, "that with the sizable fortune your mother left you, you could develop a project of your own? An engineer is rated by the projects upon which he has been chief. They are his stepping stones, one by one to prominence."

"That's the point. What credit would I get for success if I used mother's money for backing?"

"And what will you do with your neglected million?"

She shrugged. "I can't be bothered by it. You're my guardian. Dispose of it for me. There isn't a day, dad, that you don't have hundreds of requests for money. The world never dreams that the greatest kick you get out of being a multi-millionaire is that you can afford to be an idealist. Well, be an idealist with my money! Be an idealist extraordinary! Choose the person with the wildest dream imaginable—and give him the money to try to make it come true."

"Dad!" There were tears in her voice. "You started poor! You had your chance! I want mine! Has anything in life meant more to you than working up to success?"

"No," David Brown's voice was husky with memories. Working up. The glorious fight of achievement; of amassing for his wife, from an inherited few thousands, the fortune her share of which his young, ecstatic daughter now insouciantly was tossing to him, a gold ball and chain; these things had been his life.

"If it's the thing you really want, Mary, I won't bother you even with my opinion of it. I won't let your fortune bother you. I'll try to put it where it will do some good. Only, daughter, since you insist on going out to learn the sting of poverty, there must be no extremes—no spectacular heroics. You must remember that I'm still your father. I refer to emergencies of sickness, accidents—anything in which your own funds might not be adequate."

"Don't be a sil, darling!" as she rumbled the heavy shock of hair. "I'm not disinheriting you, or leaving reason behind."

"Behind? You're going to let your first job take you—quite away from home, then?"

"You hadn't thought of that?" He smiled ruefully. "I suppose I had jumped to the natural conclusion that you'd just take some job close at hand until some nice chap came along—and then you'd settle down right near me, like the other girls, and live happily ever after—"

"Dad! A prince for me?" Mary's lips twisted. "Hasn't it ever occurred to you that I'm absolutely shut off from romance? That any little shop-girl has more beaux than I? The ones I might have had have been fortune hunters—and the ones I might have wanted have run because I'm the rich David Brown's daughter. They mustn't fall in love with a rich girl—at least until their pocketbooks are as fat as hers. That's another thing money can't buy—romance. Maybe that'll come, too, when I'm penniless. And she finished the subject with a gesture."

"I want to go West; before it's all leveled and terraced and landscaped. I want to have a share in the development projects of our own country."

He sighed. "I don't blame you. Well, there was a young fellow from the West in our bank the other day. He had a mighty interesting proposition. We may loan him money. He's coming back in a month or so with more information. I could get you—"

"Oh, no! You mustn't get me a thing! Don't you see? That would be pull from the start. I want to land my own job—as my classmates are having to do."

"So be it. Well, I'll let you know what I do with your money—"

"Horrors, no! Hold up your right hand. Now swear you won't so much as remind me I ever had it. I want to forget it. I want to be what I am going to seem to be. Penniless."

He humored her. "I swear."

"And now I must run. I promised Eve I'd help her entertain the nurses from the American hospital."

Presently David Brown stepped out upon the veranda to watch the always thrilling spectacle of Mary's departure. Mary drove her own car, a long, low roadster. Like a boy, she drove. She had a boy's virility. She'd forge out her success like a boy. She'd surmount her obstacles. But—a collic came to thrust its slender nose into Brown's hand.

"But won't she be surprised when she discovers what her obstacles are, old man? The precious infant thinks she can go out and duplicate her dad's fight. Well, nobody spoiled her dad's adventure by telling him what lay around the next corner. We'll leave the girl to run her own true line, eh, boy?"

CHAPTER II

Miss Mary Has a Job. IT WAS a day in early fall when David Brown returned from the New York banking house with which he was identified to his home on the Hudson, to find the place in a state of wild confusion.

"What's up, Henry?"

"Miss Mary has a job, sir."

As the daughter of her father, Mary might have stepped from the classroom into a position to which it would have taken her years to work up; without any entering wedge, just as one of the hundreds of Mary Browns in the world, it had taken several months.

Brown went on up the stairs. "Oh, dad! Dad darling!" A starry-eyed vision in pink silk negligee leaped a rugged range of putts and boots, a shimmering sea of satin, and landed with her arms about her father, whirled him about several times, and dimmed her released feelings by a whirlwind tap dance. "Shake a foot, dad! It's to celebrate!"

David Brown watched the slippered feet for a moment, then matched her steps. "Just to show you that sixty years haven't got me down! From conversation I overheard as I came up the stairs, you have a job. Where is it?"

"It's in California. Paradise Valley—"

"Paradise—"

"Good, isn't it, that name?"

"Yes. Yes. But who is the promoter, or the development company? What rating? What do you know about the project?"

Mary laughed. "You'd be surprised. I received a cheap-looking little magazine in the mails one day a while ago, and opened it to find myself invited to invest in a home for my old age in the most ideal home site in the world—Paradise Valley. Invited to come and pioneer de luxe. For scenery, the magazine assured me, the place has the Alps backed right off the map. It aims to attract the moneyed, dad, since no house can cost less than ten thousand—or was it one hundred thousand? That idea, anyhow, I figured it would require considerable development work to create a place like that—at least it sounds like a big order—so I applied as a pioneer of progress, and this morning had orders to report for duty."

Mary picked up the momentous document. Paradise Valley, she read the heading—and again her father repeated her words. Mary paused, but he motioned her to go on. For reasons of his own he kept silent. If he told her certain things he might have told her, what first would it do? No good. Her first project would go "flooey" before she ever set out for it.

"October 20, 1913," Mary read on. Then, for reasons of her own, she skipped the rest of the heading—dad would just worry the more, the lamb, and everything would be all right—and read the body of the letter. It was brief enough.

"We can put you to work. Report at once. Salary $80 and field expenses."

"JOHN STARK, Engineer in Chief."

"I can live on that!" Mary hastened to assure her father before he had time to remonstrate.

But he agreed with her. "Yes. It's about one-fourth of what your pin-money allowance has been, but you can live on it. Well, this sounds like rather an interesting adventure. Besides, I know Stark well. He makes it easier for me to let you go, daughter. He's the right sort. One of the old-timers."

Mary wrecked his collar with a bear hug. "I knew you'd be for it."

He glanced about the room. "I've noticed a few evidences that you were assuming my consent. Well, in the circumstances, why wouldn't it be a good idea for the poor working girl to accept a lift part of the way? I'm going as far as New Orleans, leaving at midnight."

"That will be ready, dad!"

"Can you be ready?"

"I can be ready in five minutes."

The trip to New Orleans in the private car with its splendid appointments, its valet and maid service, was without thrill or excitement, being as familiar as bread and butter. Adventure began when she went aboard the pullman on the westbound train at New Orleans.

"Surely you'll at least take a compartment!" her father had urged.

"Ridiculous! I could live for a week on the extra fare."

"I'll stake you to it as a going-away present."

Mary drew herself up primly. "Sir, I can accept no favors from benevolent elderly gentlemen—however sweet."

But when they entered the pullman to find the seat opposite Mary's reservation occupied by a man's hat and bag, again David Brown re-monstrated. But Mary was adamant. "This will be just fun, dad! I'm to rub elbows with the world. How start better than by treading on the toes of the man in upper six?"

The porter's "All aboard!" came quickly, and Mary stood in the vestibule to wave good-by.

Just as if he hadn't been a friend and mother and so close a friend within him; just as if he didn't worry over her safety, secretly, David Brown waved back to her. The modern girl hates scenes, and he knew it. He could be a good sport in the modern way.

Mary Brown went slowly back through the narrow corridor to her section. She settled herself with as much awe, with as much a thrilling to newness and mystery and adventure as if it were her first trip abroad. And in a sense, it was. Always before she had been the daughter of the rich David Brown. Now she was plain Mary Brown, herself. A different person. Her pulses quickened with excitement, eagerness.

Mary Brown, herself had entered upon her career.

She adventured back to the parlor car. Every one seemed to be trying to find out all about one person, a very fair young man with an engaging personality. He was slight of build, immaculate of dress, with a scrubbed and tubbed look. His features were finely molded. His mouth had been fashioned to pleasant lines by a smile that came easily. Deep blue eyes, companions to the mouth in their humorous glance, challenged one to guess whether they were the eyes of a dreamer or a hard-headed business man. The sort of man to make instant appeal.

And yet the first words she heard him utter antagonized Mary Brown.

"Money talks!" he was laughing as she appeared in the doorway. "It's the sine qua non of all our endeavors, our successes. Without it our dreams must end just as dreams, not as achievement. And is it hard to get? I know! I've pleaded, begged, coaxed, cajoled, demanded, and threatened in the interest of this scheme of mine. Amazing, how hard it is to convince moneyed interests that you have a good thing, but," whimsically, "perhaps that's why they're moneyed. Now—"

He broke off to spring to his feet. He alone had noticed Mary entering the car. There were no vacant chairs. "Will you sit here?" he asked with his intriguing smile.

But it was lost on Mary.

"Thank you. I'm going outside," she replied, indifferently.

The door banged behind her, shutting out further conversation.

"A spell-binder," she diagnosed the fair young man. "Selling himself and heaven knows what else by the magic of his personality. I wish dad could see him work!"

Then she turned her back upon the guileless-looking individual who so unconsciously had courted her disfavor. Just another person whose god was money!

Mary realized she was hungry; it was dinner time. She hurried back, tidied herself a bit, and went forward to the diner.

When she returned to her section the seat across from her was occupied—by the fair young man! He arose as she hesitated by her seat.

"I've been wondering who my neighbor was," he said pleasantly. "My name is Denis Craig. I hope I'm not to be in your way here."

Mary acknowledged the introduction by no more than a suspicion of a nod. If she had deigned him a glance, she would have seen the blue eyes darken mischievously. "I can see that I'm not going to be in your way, however. Something tells me I'm practically not here at all."

"At least," Mary couldn't keep back, "it ought to make a nice change for you. It must be—fatiguing—to be hero-worshipped. I always feel sorry for movie idols, golf pros, baseball stars, presidents—"

She hesitated, not knowing just where to catalogue him.

"In some places," he supplied banteringly, "I have the reputation of being a professional swindler."

"How interesting! And your line, from scraps I overheard, may be oil stock or real estate."

"Good guess!" he laughed. "It's real estate. Would you be interested?"

"I'll save you exertion by saying I haven't money enough to buy the fence around it, let alone the orange ranch, Statue of Liberty, Masonic Temple or Golden Gate. Oh, Mrs. Cady!" Mary sprang up with a sudden change of manner as the fatherly farmer and his wife stopped across the aisle. "Is this your section? How nice! May I drop over for a little chat with you?" And she seated herself beside the pair at whose table she had been placed in the diner.

But unfortunately Denis Craig had warmed to them, too, and they to him.

"Well, now, ain't this nice, being neighbors, us four? Come over and join us, Mr. Craig. You've met Miss Brown, of course?"

The blue eyes twinkled wickedly. "To be exact, I believe Miss Brown has met me, but I have not yet had the pleasure of meeting her. Thanks, I won't join you just now. I want to find the porter."

"It won't do you any good," Mary said. "My father tried to get me a whole section—but the train is too crowded."

"Still, it won't do any harm to try," lightly. "Every man has his price, they say."

"You may discover," Mary did not try to disguise her scorn, "that money isn't everything."

Denis Craig looked surprised at this sudden burst of strong feeling, but the amusement deepened in his eyes.

He went on down the corridor. Mary kept the conversation away from nice young men, thus snubbing her own ridiculous curiosity as to this particular one who presently returned and began gathering up his luggage.

"I—I don't quite see how you—managed!" Mary said.

His blue eyes were dancing. "I just raised the ante."

He followed the porter down the aisle to the undesirable berth just over the wheels—for which he had just paid a premium.

Mary Brown, as she retired, felt uncomfortably as if she literally had trodden on the toes of this man. Why had she been so rude as to do so? Why had she even been interested enough to do so?

Washington's Time Ball Many visitors to Washington notice a large ball mounted on the center flagpole of the State department (formerly the State, War and Navy building) and wonder at its purpose. It is what is known as a time ball and outdoor workers in and around the capital have been regulating their watches by it for about 50 years.

CHINESE DISHES

OF ALL the interesting and intriguing things that the Chinese do, their marvelous handwork, their tireless industry, nothing is so popular as many of their dishes have become in America.

One may now in almost any market in the city find the sauces, the canned hearts of palm, the water bulbs, bamboo shoots and various food accessories used in the Chinese dishes.

Chop Suey.

The American way of preparing chop suey is usually well liked and is quite tasty without the bean sprouts, although the sauce which is made from beans is necessary to give it the proper seasoning. Fresh pork, cut into bits, is cooked until well browned, then finely cut celery is added; a few canned beans will do very well in place of the bean sprouts if they cannot be obtained. Cook until nicely done, heap in the center of a platter and put mounds of fresh hot rice around the meat and vegetables. Pour over all several teaspoonfuls (depending upon the amount served) of soy sauce. Serve at once.

Fish Soup.

To two quarts of water add chicken bones and trimmings and one and one-half pounds of lean pork, cook until it is reduced to one quart. Cool and skim off the fat. Cook a four-pound fish until tender, remove the bones and head and shred the meat into pieces about one and one-half inches long. Canned salmon may be substituted. Soak one-half cupful of dried mushrooms ten minutes in a cupful of lukewarm water and a teaspoonful of sugar. If fresh mushrooms are used peel them and cut into inch and a half pieces. Shred one can of water chestnuts the same way as the fish and mushrooms, shred one cupful of bamboo shoots. Cook the mushrooms, the shoots and the chestnuts for twenty minutes. Fifteen minutes before serving add the fish, soup stock, and a tablespoonful of soy sauce mixed with a teaspoonful of cornstarch. Cook fifteen minutes.

Afternoon Frock

This formal afternoon jacket frock for the spring includes a beautifully hand-tucked and embroidered lingerie blouse with its pleated ruffle forming a collar on the little-wrapped waist-length jacket of navy sheer matching the skirt.

Do You Know—

That the dandelion gets its name in a very peculiar manner. One of the early botanists likened its leaves to the teeth of the lion and so he called it in his native French, "Dents-de-Lion", which means "teeth of the lion."

Latent Heat
Latent heat means a quantity of heat which has disappeared, having been employed to produce some change other than elevation of temperature. By exactly reversing that change, the quantity of heat which has disappeared is reproduced. Maxwell defines it as the quantity of heat which must be communicated to a body in a given state in order to convert it into another state without changing its temperature.

Farewell Party Given—

A farewell party was given on Friday night at the home of Mrs. Laura Locke for Mrs. Pauline Montier, who is returning to Alliance, Ohio, after spending a year with her brother's family, L. M. Stenger. Mrs. Montier was the recipient of best wishes and a gift in remembrance by her Deford friends.

Farmers' Club—

The club met on Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William D'Arcy. The April meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas at Cass City.

The Ill—

Joshua Curtis arrived home Monday, convalescing nicely after being a patient at a hospital.

Mrs. William Zemke is still at the hospital but is some better.

Mrs. Florence Sherwood continues very poorly.

Fred Ball had the misfortune to fracture the patella of his left leg on Wednesday. At present, he is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ball.

Mrs. E. E. Cox, Miss Jennie Cox and Mrs. Howard Parks were at Saginaw on Wednesday where Mrs. Parks had an abscess lanced that had formed on her eye.

Mrs. Edith Benedict of Pontiac and Mrs. Kate Titus of Oxford were Sunday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Daugherty.

Lloyd Warner is the new janitor at the M. E. church, replacing H. D. Malcolm, who was caretaker for 25 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Case of Mio are visiting their son, Clarence Chadwick.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh of Flint were callers in town Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitch of Lapeer were visitors at the Wm. Bentley home on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bruce attended the Bible conference at Bay City on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pringle entertained at their home on Tuesday for dinner, the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church. About 35 were present. Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Curtis of Cass City were present and Mr. Curtis gave an inspiring talk.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gage, and Miss Florence Gallagher visited the University Hospital on Sunday where Bernard Gallagher is a patient.

Many of the young men of our location have been enticed to the cities by employment at good wages, but home and mother still seem to hold a place in their hearts. Among those who were week-end guests at their respective homes were Alton Lewis, Louis Locke, John Zollner, Andrew Karpal, Joe Sopchak, Arthur and Basil Hartwick of Detroit; Roderick Kennedy of Birmingham; Robert Kelley of Pontiac; Joe Kelley of Johannesburg; Keith Horner, Bruce Malcolm and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelley, and Nelson Hicks, of Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bruce were week-end guests at Richmond at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Griffin.

Mrs. Clinton Bruce was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Stewart, on Tuesday at Mayville.

BEAULEY.

Death of Mrs. Heron—

Mrs. Samuel H. Heron died at her home six miles north, one mile east of Cass City, Thursday, March 15, after an illness of six days. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 from the house and two o'clock from the Grant M. E. church, with Rev. Ralph Harper officiating. Interment was in Elkland cemetery.

Laura Myers was born July 15, 1877, in Grant township, Huron county. On October 17, 1900, she was united in marriage with Samuel H. Heron.

Mrs. Heron was a member of the Grant M. E. church, uniting with the society in 1918.

Mrs. Heron is survived by her husband and five children: three sons, Graydon of Detroit, Stanley and Allen, of Cass City, and two daughters, Elva and Madelyn at home. One daughter, Lucile, preceded her in death. She also leaves her mother, Mrs. John Bowen, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Converse, both of Lapeer; and three grandchildren.

Those coming from a distance to attend the funeral included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Converse, John Bowen, Henry Wildey, Lorenzo Wildey, and Mrs. Roy Stiles, all from Lapeer; Mrs. M. Martin and Merrill Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stickland, Mrs. John Dickout, all of Caro; and Mrs. John Slack, Miss Florence Slack, Howard Van Norwick, and

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a prescription. It is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they may do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clark, all of Bad Axe.
