ONE DEAD AND TWO INJURED ARETOLL OF AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Harrison Brookins of Twining Died Monday, Two Days After Accident.

MISS MUNRO AND PAUL

One dead and two injured is the toll of an automobile accident at the Bethel church corner, four miles north of Cass City, late Saturday afternoon. Harrison Brookins of Twining was fatally injured and died at Pleasant Home hospital here on Monday at 5:30 a.m. Miss Myrtle Munro, a teacher in the Gagetown public school, suffered a slight skull fracture and Paul Figley of Turner received a laceration of the chin and had his chest crushed by a steering wheel.

Miss Munro was able to be moved to her home in Gagetown on Tuesday after three days in the hospital. Mr. Figley is still at the hospital and will recover. Mr. Brookins, who was fatally injured, had lacerations on his right forearm, face and ear, and a severe skull fracture, and a fractured left fore-in Section to Get Certain Federal Benefits.

Forty-one Michigan counties have been designated as being in the secondary drought area by E. W. Sheets, federal drought relief administrator.

The principal benefits accruing to Michigan farmers from this designation are the granting of special freight rates on livestock shipped from the area to other sections where feed is more plentiful, and on feeds bought for use within the forty-one counties. Freight rates will be one-half of the regular schedules.

Counties included in the secondary drought classification are Berrien, Cass, St. Joseph, Branch, ster, met at the intersection of two Hillsdale, Lenawee, Monroe, Wayne, Washtenaw, Jackson, Calhoun, Kal-

Henry Boivin, 52, of St. Charles, vho received a skull fracture when he was struck by an automobile while walking on the highway west of Unionville Monday evening, died on the operating table of the Union-ville hospital late that night. Two Bay City surgeons had been called to perform the operation.

The accident occurred on M-25, 100 rods west of the railroad tracks at Unionville, while Boivin was walking west along the road leading to the Unionville coal mines where he was employed. With him was Michael Dobya. The men were on the left side of the pavement Boivin was hit a glancing blow by the left front fender of the automobile of Emil Englehard, a farmer who lives west of Unionville.

Englehard, who didn't know his car had struck Boivin until Tuesday morning, was informed the accident happened when he was passing the car of John Sy of Unionville. Sy, who saw Boivin by the roadside, picked him up and took him and Dobya to the Unionville hospital.

"THE NOVEMBER CROSS-ROADS."

On November 6, voters of this state will be faced with six proposed amendments to the state constitution. The objects of most of these amendments are plain, and for the most part, the proposals are limited in their effects.

There is one, however, the vote on which literally brings the voters of this state to the crossroads of taxation. The amendment will not, of itself, make mandatory any change in the present system of state taxation; it would, however, open the door for the legislature to make several vital changes.

Two kinds of taxes are levied on property in this state today; a specific tax and a general tax. The gasoline tax and the sales tax are examples of specific taxes. Property on which a specific tax is not levied, pays the general tax rate. The state constitution says that that first place sector. this rate must be uniform for all classes of property—that the rate on intangible properties, such as stocks and bonds, which can easily be hidden from the assessor, shall be the same as for a barn, which manifestly can't be hidden, even though it may be nearly buriedunder a mortgage.

The proposed amendment would re-write Sections 3 and 7 of Ar- sue large numbers of paroles. ticle 10 of the state constitution so 1933 by the first year's operation through outright pardon. of such a law. More than 200,000 voters signed the petitions placing this question on the ballot. The matter is important; its scope is broad, and every voter should make his own deliberate decision regarding its bearing on the future taxes on his farm and on his home.

BETTER ROAD SIGNS.

The need of better road signs at Bethel church corner, four miles north of Cass City, is again brought to notice within the past week by the death of one person and injuto maintain a "crossroad" sign switches.

I south of the church can be held responsible for the accident, but a road sign at that point surely would serve to make driving on that road more safe for tourists, especially strangers passing through the country.

The sign on the road north of this intersection of county roads needs repainting badly and can be better placed to be at a vantage point for the observation of drivers. Better signs placed in conspicuous places will help to protect

We have had almost 100 per cent of our benefits, but so far have paid only 20 per cent of the resulting taxes. The rest will be paid in future years in addition to the normal operating expenses to the federal government. MISAVE with MORE LIVE POWER per gallon

AND IT'S SENSIBLE SAVING, FOR YOU GET KEENER PERFORMANCE, TOO!

The money you'll save this summer and fall by taking advantage of the extra Live Power in Standard Red Crown Superfuel will run into a good many dollars. For there's no extra charge to you for this powerpacked motor fuel-it's priced the same as the usual

"regular" gasoline. The price is the same, yes—the big difference is in the store of instantly usable driving energy in Superfuel. It means that your gasoline money not only takes you farther, at less cost-but faster, when the occasion calls for speed. - Not in Standard Oil history have we been able to offer greater value from a double standpointperformance and economy! — More Live Power per gallon is simply another way of saying More Live Power per dollar. Every penny of your gasoline money buys more propelling energy in Standard Red Crown Superfuel. - That sounds good to you? Then try it. Take on a tankful of more Live Power. Test it any way you wish-for getaway, for power on hills, for easy high speed—and for mileage. You'll come back for more. Try this up-to-the-minute motor fuel. Save money—and enjoy keener, more brilliant engine performance while you're saving!

Before that, Judge Williams (Lapeer County) was on the bench some 6 years, making his entire term of office 11 years and 4 months, which alone exceeds the combined terms of the two Tuscola county judges. Previous thereto. Lapeer County also had Judge Moore who served from 1888-1896, a period of 8 years. During all that time no circuit judge was from Tuscola County; in fact, from 1886 to 1927 Tuscola County was never favored with the judgeship. In the past 48 years Lapeer County has therefore held the office of circuit judge for a period of over 19 years. whereas Tuscola County has had the office for a period of only 6 years and 11 months. The president-chancellor has called an election for the presidency.

Ever since his great victory at Tannenberg, early in the World war, Von Hindenburg had been the idol of the German people, and their grief over his death was general and sincere. Their expressions of sorrow were mingled with veiled but anxious discussions concerning the possible effects on the reich of the aged leader's death and the assumption of full power by Hitler. The president, though forced to give the Nazi chief the chancellorship, had been a constant check on extreme Nazism, and he had the full confidence of other nations that has never been accorded to any other German since the war. WITH monarchists in control of the Austrian government the royalists of that country and of Hungary resumed their schemes for putting the young Archduke Otto on the old throne of the Hapsburgs. There are reports that they held a secret meeting in Vitznau, Switzerland, and formed a restoration plan which they hoped would be acceptable to France, Italy, Great Britain and the little entente. Their first object was to secure the approval of Premier Mussolini. Leaders in the movement are Colonel Randa of the Austrian army, Felix Dunkel, an Austrian monarchist, and Count Hojos of Hungary.

According to the story current in Paris, the condition placed by the little entente and the big powers to allowing Otto to assume the throne is that he will sign a pledge guaranteeing the present boundaries and other terms of existing treaties with regard to Austria and the succession states.

At a mass meeting of union laborers the leaders demanded the withdrawal of the troops, the secretary of the truck drivers' union charging borrowing more than its income for that the soldiers were "little more very long," the statement said. "We than strike breakers.'

Governor Olson's reply to this was to have the strikers' headquarters raided and their three leaders arrested. This naturally enraged the truck drivers and there was considerable violence.

The officer commanding the Guardsmen ordered the disbanding of the force of special deputies and permitted the strikers to resume peaceful picketing of the Kohler plant.

Longshoremen of the Pacific coast ended their two-month long strike and returned to their jobs in all the ports, as did the marine workers. Pending arbitration by the federal board, stevedores will be employed by employer-controlled hiring halls under supervision of observers representing the board. Control of the hiring halls was the chief issue in the strike and is still to be settled by the arbitrators, along with the questions of increased wages, shorter working hours and improved conditions.

Lesson for August 12 AMOS PLEADS FOR JUSTICE

LESSON TEXT—Amos 5:1-27. GOLDEN TEXT—Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law. Romans

PRIMARY TOPIC-A Good Preacher and a Bad King.

JUNIOR TOPIC-A Country Box Who Became a Great Preacher. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Standing for God Against the Crowd.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC-Social Justice as a Universal Duty.

I. Israel's Desolation Predicted (vv. 1-3).

1. The prophet's lamentation (v. 1). Amos lamented over the doom which was to overtake the nation. The prophet is thus represented as entering into the sorrow which was to overtake Israel.

2. The nation's utter desolation and helplessness (vv. 2, 3). Israel is called a virgin because she had never been subdued by any foreign nation (Isa. 23:12). Her falling, no more to rise, sets forth utter deso lation and helplessness to which the Assyrians subjected the nation.

II. The Urgent Call for the People to Return to God (vv. 4-9). God through the prophet said, "Seek ye me and ye shall live." The implication is that while as yet the divine judgments are not executed, an opportunity is offered for them to turn to God. The time to repent is while judgment is stayed. In their turning to God they were called

1. To renounce idolatry (vv. 5, 6). They were to turn away from the places of idolatry-Bethel, Gilgal, and Beer-sheba. The judgment of God was to strike these places. He urged them the second time to seek the Lord, promising them life. He made it clear on the other hand Lord for life he would be their destroyer.

2. To cease to pervert judgment (v. 7). "Turn judgment to wormwood" implies the bitterness to the injured of the perversion of justice.

3. To cease to dethrone righteousness (vv. 7-9). "Leaving off righteousness" means that unrighteousness was allowed to take its place. For the third time he urged them to seek the Lord. 3. They trampled upon the poor (v. 11). The rich built magnificent houses out of the gains extorted from the poor, but the prophet assured them that God would not permit them to live in the houses nor drink of the wine thereof.

4. They afflicted the just (v. 12). This they did by taking a bribe. What a picture this of our own 5. They turned aside the poor in

2. Hate the evil (v. 15). It is not enough merely to love the good; evil must be hated.

3. Establish judgment in the gate (v. 15). It was the custom in that day for the courts of justice to sit in the gate of the city. The prophet urged upon them the responsibility of placing honorable men in charge of public affairs. V. The Judgment to Fall (vv

VI. Worship Which God Hates

(vv. 21-27). Sacrifices, observance of feast days, and even singing when the heart is out of fellowship with God is most displeasing to him. Worship without holiness of life is an abomination to God.

Shortage of Food in Early Pasture

Impossible for Dairy Herd to Get Enough to Hold Weight, Strength.

John A. Arey, Extension Dairy Spe-cialist, North Carolina State College.-WNU Service.

It is false economy to make cattle depend entirely on pasturage for roughage at this season of the year. Yet many dairymen are inclined to do so on account of the usual shortage of rough feeds in the spring. The belief seems prevalent that young grass will supply a sufficient amount of nourishment for Immature grass is about 90 per cent water, and it is physically impossible for cattle to eat enough of it to maintain their bodyweight and strength and produce a profitable milk flow.

Such practices are also liable to result in the cows eating weeds, wild onions, and buds in an effort to get a sufficient ration. When they do this, their milk is unpalatable and not good for drinking or butter making.

Dry roughage provides the bulk feed needed and also much nourishment that is essential to constant and profitable milk production.

Another factor in heavy grazing of young pastures is the damage done to the sod by extensive tramping and grazing before the soil has dried out. The result will be a greatly curtailed yield later in the Temporary grazing can be provided by such grazing and soiling crops as cereals sown in the fall. Later in the summer, when permanent pastures are in good condition, the cows can gradually be introduced to a more substantial green diet. However, a grain ration is needed at all times.

Contract Acres Suggested More Illinois land will be seeded to grass during the next two years than ever before in the history of that if they would not come to the the state, prophesies H. P. Rusk, head of the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

This "back-to-grass" movement is spreading throughout the state as a result of the government's cornhog and wheat adjustment programs in which some 2,000,000 acres of land will be taken out of crop production by co-operating Illinois farmers.

A large percentage of this former wheat and corn land will be seeded to permanent or semi-permanent pastures for live stock and many Illinois producers are wondering what grass seeds or mixtures of seeds should be used.

For early live stock carrying capacity of permanent pastures, all records at the University of Illinois impossible to concentrate, and at consisting of 12.3 pounds of bluepounds of red clover, 2.5 pounds of sweet clover, 4.1 pounds of timothy, 1.6 pounds of alsike clover and .4 pounds of white clover. This mixture may be used for seeding contracted acres, without violation of the AAA corn-hog contract, provided it is in addition to the average acreage devoted to pasture in 1932 and 1933 and is not pastured in 1934.

Bees Are in Demand

Were it not that honey producing is profitable enough to induce people to keep bees, it would be necessary to raise some type of insect solely for the purpose of pollenation, says Dr. E. F. Phillips. professor of entomology at Cornell to the Empire State Honey Producers' association. So necessary is the service that bees render to the fruit growers of New York state that 600 colonies of them were im ported last year to aid in pollenization in Niagara county alone, and in other counties throughout the fruit-growing region growers are renting colonies of bees for the purpose. Not only do bees produce more than one-third of the $15,000,-000 apple crop as well.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Ruined, financially, by the stock market crash, James Nelson, Boston merchant, breaks the news to his household. Nance is on the verge of her introduction to society, the date of her debut having been set. A short time before, an elderly cousin of Nelson's, Columbine, had written suggesting that Nance come to her at Pine Ridge, Colo., as a paid companion. The offer had been regarded by the family as a joke.

CHAPTER II.—Jack urges Nancy to accept Cousin Columbine's prop-osition, thus relieving their father of a certain financial burden, and of a certain financial burden, and offering to go with her so that she will not feel too lonely. The girl is at first appalled by the idea, but agrees that Jack write to Cousin Columbine, and they will await her answer. Columbine wires welcome to both of them, and despite their parents' apprehension of Nance's reaction to the situation they know she must face, it is arranged that the two shall go.

CHAPTER III.—At the railroad station the youngsters are welcomed by Cousin Columbine. They are somewhat dismayed by her unconventional attire and mannerisms, but realize she has character and a certain charm. The driver of their car is a young man, Mark Adam, son of a close friend of the old lady. The desolation (to Nance's city ideas) of Pine Ridge appalls the girl.

CHAPTER IV.—The newcomers meet Aurora Tubbs, Cousin Calumbine's cook and housekeeper, and Matthew Adam, Mark's older brother. The old-fashioned furnishings of her bedroom further depress Nance. Cousin Columbine explains her reasons for desiring Nance to come to her, and tells some experiences of her 73 years of life on the plains.

CHAPTER V.—Nance gets better acquainted with Matthew Adam, and is impressed, despite the handicap of his bashfulness, by his evident good sense—and his good looks. good sense—and his good Jack finds a temporary job.

CHAPTER VI

T WAS ten days before Nancy saw her brother again, a rather lonesome ten days, on the last of which the Colorado sunshine gave way to what Aurora called "a baby blizzard," and Cousin Columbine went to bed with a cold. The wind was furious, and Nance retired to her tower and surreptitiously donned two pairs of silk stockings, since no chance had arisen to buy sport hose.

Even a stouter heart than hers would have found the day more or less gloomy. The halls in the old house were frigid; and wind blew through every crack. At Aurora's invitation she took pen and paper into the kitchen, meaning to write letters; but under the good woman's steady fire of conversation it was were broken by a heavy seeding last she sought the sitting room in search of reading matter.

To one of Nance's generation the contents of the walnut bookcase were not enticing. There was a handsome edition of Scott, but one glance at long pages of description was enough. There were two oldfashioned novels and a set of Dickens which looked a bit less hopeless than the others. Nancy could remember her father reading parts of "David Copperfield" aloud when she was little; but these volumes were big and heavy. They looked endless, too. In desperation she went back to the kitchen and Aurora's monologues.

"Is there a public library in this place?" she questioned.

Aurora popped a pie into the oven and responded: "What good would university, in his recent address it do? So far's I know they ain't anyone in Pine Ridge but Victor Tubbs that's got time to read, and it takes him all day to read the paper. And no wonder! He don't let even the smallest advertisement get by him. He's upset Juanita considerable by mentionin' a place in Colorado Springs where you can get a perm'nent wave for two dollars and fifty cents. She's asked Eve Adam to take her down some a $2,000,000 honey crop annually in day when they go to see Luke at New York state but they pollenate the hospital, and I won't hardly expect to recognize my own daughter when she gets back. No, we don't have any use for a library in Pine Ridge.'

Recalling the "confession" magazines she had seen Juanita indulge in at the drug store, Nance suggested: "Perhaps if you had a real good library young folks wouldn't waste their money on such trashy reading matter."

"Maybe," admitted Aurora, "but I doubt it. And if you mean those love magazines, I'll admit I find 'em'

real refreshin'." "But I thought you had no time to read!" "No more I do," replied Aurora, undaunted at this sly thrust, "but sometimes I glance at 'em to rest me. Here's Mark Adam with the milk. Shut that door quick, Mark. Do you want to freeze us? How's Jack gettin' along? How's Luke? And is your mother bearin' up under this affliction?"

Mark deposited two milk bottles on the table as he said: "One question at a time, please. This is some, storm, isn't it? Are you occupying the kitchen in order to keep warm, Nancy, or to profit by the conversation of our estimable Mrs. Tubbs?"

"Don't you be uppity, Mark Adam," snapped Aurora. "She's here to get warm, and no wonder with nothin' but a layer of silk stockin's to protect her legs. You haven't answered--' "Give me time," Mark interrupt ed, warming his cold fingers at the stove. "Jack couldn't do better. We'll have an expert milker long before Luke's ready for the job again. He sent his love to every one, and so would Matt if he wasn't so bashful. Say!" (turning to Nancy), "how'd you ever manage to rope my shy brother into taking you up to the old pine?"

"Rope him!" exclaimed Nancy. "I call that an insult."

"Well, to tell the truth," broke in Aurora, "I almost lost my breath when you rode into the yard the other day. It ain't Matthew Adam's habit, takin' girls to ride; and you're so stylish, Nancy, I dunno how he got up courage to suggest you goin' in that old truck.'

"That's the advantage of a college education," observed Mark, with a wink at Nancy. "The emergency arose, Aurora, and despite his fear of the female of the species, my brother was able, because of his superior learning, to conquer-"

"Goodness gracious!" burst out Aurora, "I never heard such rubbish. What are you giggling about, Nancy? You ought to encourage a young man to talk more sensible. How's Luke? And you didn't say if your mother was bearin' up. I always thought Luke was her favorite, or maybe it's because he ain't so husky as the rest of you."

"Luke's doing first rate. He'll home next week and hobble round on crutches. Mother's all right; and if she likes Luke best, Aurora, it's only because he's not so good looking as the rest of us. It's what they call the-er-ugly duckling complex, I suppose." Aurora snorted.

"I dunno what anybody's complexion has to do with it; but there's some folks in Pine Ridge that thinks Luke Adam's the handsomest of the lot, not excepting Matthew. And he's an awful sweet boy, too, There's Miss Columbine pounding. No, Nancy," (as the girl sprang up), "I'll go find out what she wants while you keep Mark company. Set close to the range, Mark Adam, and get yourself het through."

really doing the work all right?" dling a kitchen chair, his elbows resting on its back while he looked at the girl intently. "Mother's adopted him already-says he's just like one of her own boys, and that's high praise—from Mother! She wants you to come out and spend a Sunday when it's good weather. What in time do you do with yourself a day like this?"

"Listen to Aurora," replied Nance softly. "I wanted to read, but Cousin Columbine's books look stuffy; and Aurora tells me there's no public library. She says no one in Pine Ridge has time to read. What do they do-evenings, I

"You're to stay to dinner," announced Aurora, bursting in upon them. "Miss Columbine says she wouldn't send a dog into this storm without he had a good full stomach. Don't you make any objections, Mark Adam. Mercy to goodness! Are my pies burnin'?"

to perfection, though Aurora declared her fright had given her a palpitation.

"And I can't get a proper meal with young folks clutterin' up my kitchen," she declared. "You put some coal in the sittin' room stove. Mark Adam, and then you and Nancy clear out till I call. Dinner'll be ready in no time; and Miss Columbine'll be offended if you don't stay. She says maybe you'll keep Nancy from bein' homesick." "In that case," returned Mark with an engaging smile, "I can't refuse." It was after Mark Adam had continued on his way, fortified by a substantial dinner and armed with a numpkin pie and Aurora's "compliments" for Jack, that Nancy carried a glass of warm milk into Cousin Columbine's bedroom, and "You can sit down and let me look at you," responded the old lady. "I've got the upper hand of this cold already, and am staying here only because I believe in 'safety first.' Every hour wasted by sickness makes me impatient. There's so much to do in this wonderful old world; and when you're over seventy there's such a little time to do it in. Aurora tells me Jack's getting on all right-not that I expected anything else. He's got the Nelson grit, and there's no chance that he'll be imposed on at the Adam ranch. Eve would see to that even if John Adam wasn't the kindest soul alive. Some thought they were too easy going when the cy reminded her.

"Well, you'll see them all in good time, unless you get desperate and run away from me. I love Pine Ridge even in a blizzard; but 1 can see how it looks like the end of nowhere to a girl brought up as you've been. I was glad Mark Adam happened in at dinner time to keep you company. Has Aurora Tubbs been talking you to death?" Nancy laughed and killed time listening."

"Killed time!" echoed Cousin Columbine. "Don't ever use that phrase again, child. Life's too short at the best, and even a day like this there are things to do. Everything's made too easy for people nowadays. That's half the trouble with 'em. I was younger than you, my dear, when Father took me to Leadville. More than fifty years ago, yet I can shut my eyes and it seems like yesterday.'

"Was it much of a place at that time?" questioned Nancy as Cousin Columbine sipped her milk.

Mark grinned as he slipped off the wet jacket.

"Tell me," said Nancy, "is Jack "Sure he is!" Mark was strad-

"According to the old story they 'set and think, and sometimes they just set!" laughed Mark. "I'll bring you some books from home tomorrow, Nance. If we had a library here, even a small one, I bet the population would profit by it. All most of these people read is trashy magazines."

"That's what I told Aurora; but she said—"

"Not quite. I let her rattle on flower pots for the purpose. Some of the shacks had only canvas for roofs; and others—if you'll believe me!-no roofs at all. There were even shanties half buried in the earth, while some set up on posts. Folks were living in tents and wigwams, too-and now we shiver at a cold entry! Yes, life's too soft."

Nance laughed as she hitched her chair nearer to the stove, and questioned: "Were there any shops, or did you get provisions from a dis-

"There were stores of a sort, even at that time. I clearly remember the street where business was carried on. There were groups of excited miners, with eager, sometimes desperate faces, standing in the middle of it, arguing and gesticulating-men of all sorts and kinds, my dear; the good and the vicious with one thing in common: the lure of silver. Gambling houses were open all night, and so were theaters."

"Theaters!" gasped Nancy. "In a place like that?'

Cousin Columbine nodded "Not at the very first, of course; started, saw mills got to work, and Tuscola. dwelling places were more comfortable. Banks, and business blocks, and dance halls sprang up almost houses where many a hard-won fortune was thrown away." "It doesn't sound like a very restful spot!" smiled Nancy. Columbine Nelson laid down her empty glass and pulled the blankets a bit higher. "A mining town in boom time," she asserted, "is about as restful as a hornets' nest that has been disturbed. Bedlam broke loose after the men stopped work, and it was almost impossible to sleep till daylight." "Was that the last of the gold and silver rushes, Cousin Columbine?"

"Creede came later than Leadville, as I said; then Cripple Creek, not to mention the Pemperton hoax. my dear. Some day I'll tell you about that, but I mustn't bore you with too many tales at once. We grow garrulous as we grow old, I fear! and it's years since I've talked over those times with anyone."

"But I'm not bored," Nancy assured her. "You'll have to tell this all over again when Jack is here. I wouldn't have him miss it for the "No reason in the world why you can't. Come spring we'll make an excursion to Cripple Creek. Even now it will give you an idea of how a mining town is built; and no doubt Mark Adam would jump at the chance to drive us over. Did he say how Luke was getting on?" "He'll be home soon on crutches. Does Luke look like his brothers, Cousin Columbine?"

"Not in the least. He's the odd member of the family and resemh'es no one. Luke was a timid little boy and not quite so husky as the others. He's taking a year off before entering college.'

"Aurora says he's his mother's favorite.

"Stuff and nonsense! If she felt any favoritism Eve Adam has too much sense to show it; but Luke's affectionate, and not ashamed to let folks find it out. I've thought at times that Eve had a leaning toward Matthew; but if that's true it's only because he's so shy she wants to protect him."

"How old is John?"

"Sixteen. Living with friends at the Springs and going to high school. He's headed for college in the East. He and Mark are as alike as two peas in looks; but John's more quiet and studious like his fa-Mark's the liveliest member ther.

of the family, but Eve has a right only a high school diploma in place study forestry when his father can spare him. Put a stick of wood in that stove, Nancy, and then I'll try to get a nap.'

As Nance obeyed she glanced at the bedside table on which lay a copy of the Atlantic Monthly almost a year old. This reminded her of Pine Ridge's lack of reading matter, and she asked: "How does it happen that there's no library here, Cousin Columbine? It's a pretty small place, but doesn't anybody like to read?"

It was a moment before the old lady responded: then she said: "I suppose most of the folks 'round here are—well, they haven't a great deal of education, and no background whatever. The truth is. Nancy, any youngsters with ambition usually leave town, which is not to the advantage of Pine Ridge as a community. Then, too, every one has work to do, and reading's regarded as a luxury. That's wrong, of course; but being a pioneer I can understand it.' "But they have time to loaf around the store," observed Nance shrewdly. "And if they could get good books just by going to a library, perhaps they'd stop buying those awful magazines Juanita feeds on." "Maybe they would," admitted Cousin Columbine, "but public li-brairies don't grow on bushes; and in a place like this there's no Aladdin to rub his wonderful lamp and wish for one!" Nancy laughed as she went out, leaving Cousin Columbine to her nap. Aladdin! What would she do to Pine Ridge if she possessed his lamp? This idea, and the inspiration which was born of it an hour later, so absorbed the girl that any necessity for "killing time" was quite forgotten. "What you been doin' this long afternoon?" questioned Aurora, poking her head into the tower room without ceremony. "Supper's been ready for ten minutes; but everything's so still 'round here I thought maybe you was sound asleep.' Nancy glanced up from the lengthy and momentous letter she was writing to her Aunt Louise. "You're right, Aurora. I think I've been asleep most of but I'm waking up, thank goodness! Did you ever hear about Aladdin and his wonderful lamp?"

First Baptist Church, Bay City-On Friday evening, August 10, at eight o'clock in the First Baptist church, Bay City, Alexander Kaminsky, the famous Russian violinist who was decorated by the late Czar Nicholas shortly before the fall of the Russian Empire, will render a sacred program.

His repertoire includes concertos by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and Tschaikowsky, as well as the old sacred hymns, "Rock of Ages,"
"The Old Rugged Cross," and "Faith of Our Fathers." Mr. Kaminsky's violin program is a colorful one, forming a combination of sa-
