AMONG FIRST TO BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

First among the buyers of tuberculosis Christmas seals in Gage-town was Miss Edith E. Miller, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association has announced.

By purchasing the first seals here, Miss Miller automatically becomes a member of the Order of First Seal Buyers, organized by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated societies this year to recognize those who make their contribution to the annual sale early.

"If Michigan residents continue to be as ready and as generous with the contributions to the seal sale as these members of the Order of First Seal Buyers have shown themselves to be, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated societies will be able to make the increase in their 1935 programs that is vitally necessary to a successful year," Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, commented.

County Home Rule Praised at National Municipal Meeting

The county home rule amendment to the Michigan Constitution, the "No. 4" defeated in the recent elections, made a very good showing, nevertheless, considering that it appeared at an election when most voters were giving their attention to a bitter party battle, declared Professor Arthur W. Bromage, of the University of Michigan political science department at the 40th annual convention of the National Municipal League. He predicted the popular acceptance of the plan within a few years.

Despite defeat, the proposed Michigan amendment was so soundly planned that it might well serve as a model for other states, Professor Bromage told the League meeting, where he led a discussion of county government. Its failure to pass he attributed to interest in the State party struggle; the presence of too many amendments on one ballot, preventing careful thought on each; and the questionable quality of some of the proposals, which tended to put the voters in a "no" mood for all.

Presenting the same amendment to the voters again, under favorable circumstances, with complete explanations of its possibilities and limitations, will probably place Michigan among the seven states already having simplified county government. Professor Bromage believes. He told the League that Michigan might save up to 30 or

Wide Circle of Guests Gathered at Ray Hulburt Farm Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hulburt were pleasantly surprised Thursday evening when about 100 friends, relatives and neighbors gathered at their home, northeast of town, the occasion being their silver wedding anniversary. ## BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS HERE MONDAY

Marlette to Invade Local Lair for '34-'35 Inaugural Contest.

With but one week of practice, Coach Kelly will bring his basketball team forth on Monday, December 10, to do battle with the Marlette quintet. This year's squad is full of experienced men and should have another successful season. Marlette will be of unknown strength as they are performing under a new coach. If the invading cagers prove too strong, the short period of previous practice may seriously handicap the Maroon men. However, as the season's squad suffered little by graduation in comparison to the average years, the players should be familiar with each other and the style of play—at least sufficiently so to overcome the disadvantage of the limited practice.

The schedule of the Hilltoppers is not yet complete. Nevertheless it already includes many that should be unusual encounters. Besides the regular Upper Thumb competition, a home and home arrangement has been included with last year's state champions, Holland Christians, the first of these games to be played away on De-

200 ATTENDED BETHEL CHURCH JUBILEE

Church History Was Read to Audience by John Profit on Sunday.

Two hundred people, on Sunday afternoon, attended the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Bethel church four miles north of Cass City as a Methodist society. Among that number were many former residents of the Bethel community who came from near-by towns to attend the service.

Rev. Norman C. Karr of Lapeer, a young man in Bethel 50 years ago, delivered the Gospel message. Greetings from the Cass City Methodist church were given by Dr. I. A. Fritz, and Rev. Frank M. Field, district superintendent, brought greetings from the denomination at large.

Special music was provided by the Bethel choir in charge of Mrs. Audley Rawson. The "request numbers" of old time congregational hymns were numerous and all joined heartily in their rendition. Particularly interesting was the period of reminiscence and testimony and many who remembered the early days of the church and community participated in this part of the program.

A statement from the historical record in front of the Membership and Class Meeting Book of the Cass City Charge of 1869 and following years was read by John Profit. In this it is recorded that the Cass City pastoral charge was formed from a part of what was originally known as "the Cass River Circuit" in the jurisdiction of the Detroit annual conference. Eight ministers served during the 14 years from 1869 to 1883 inclusive. The ninth minister assigned to Cass City by the Bishop of the Detroit conference was the Rev. Nathaniel Dickey, (1883-85). Here is quoted word-for-word from the record:

"This was a fortunate appointment."

TUSCOLA FARMER IS AMERICAN OATS KING

Several Awards Made to Thumb Farmers at International Show.

Michigan claimed the oats championship at the grain show of the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago with the entry of Ellis Aldrich of Fairgrove. He was the first American oats king since 1931.

Two Tuscola county men won awards in the barley (six-rowed other than region one). Ellis Aldrich of Fairgrove was first and Ludwig Loesel of Reese, third.

Mr. Aldrich also was seventh on his exhibit on navy beans; Clinton Metcalf, Fairgrove, eighth; Ernest Hagen, Uby, thirteenth.

Harry Crandell, Jr., a member of the Cass City Livestock Club, won second prize in the best pen of lambs in the junior livestock feeding contest. This is the fourth time he has finished in this position at the International.

Entries from Michigan State College, at East Lansing, and from the farm of Harry Crandell of Bad Axe were the only United States animals which offered competition to the sweeping victory of a Canadian sheepman at the class for fat Cotswold. Crandell's pen exhibit placed second in the class for pens of three and fifth in the wether lamb class for Cotswold breed. Michigan State's entry won second in the yearling wether class of the Cotswold show and second in the wether lamb class. Chas. J. Shore of Glenworth, Ontario, won the other major Cotswold ribbons.

Many Are Driving Without Licenses

Approximately 260,000 Michigan motorists are operating automobiles without drivers' licenses, according to records of the department of state.

Under the present motor vehicle operators' license law, which was adopted by the 1931 legislature, 750,000 motorists obtained new licenses by December 1, 1931. These licenses must be renewed every three years but thus far in 1934 490,000 have applied for new permits.

While operating a motor vehicle without a proper license has been a misdemeanor in Michigan for years, the financial responsibility act, adopted by the 1933 legislature, makes a motorist without a license liable to the provisions of that act.

"The present operators' license law is intended to bar those unfit to operate automobiles from the highways," Secretary of State Clarke W. Brown asserted. "It protects every user of the highways. I suggest that every automobile driver look at the expiration date of his present license and if it has expired or will do so in a short time, he should apply for a new one."

In order to provide prompt issuance of licenses, the operators' license division of the department is now working 24 hours a day.

MICH. FARM COLONY HAS VALUABLE HERD

Daily Average of .9 Pounds of Fat Per Cow Has Been Maintained.

One of the purposes of dairy cattle breed associations is to assist in the improvement of the cattle, both in type and yield. The Holstein-Friesian Association of America has taken a forward step in building a sound foundation for a better breeding program. Holstein breeders who have their herds on continual test are accumulating a mass of valuable data. The association is training its fieldmen to analyse this data in order to assist the breeders as much as possible in locating the families which have the inheritance for high production and good type.

During the first 66 days of the annual production test being run on the herd of registered Holsteins owned by the Michigan Farm Colony at Wahjamega, a daily average of .9 pound of fat per cow has been maintained. Five cows in the herd have topped the 100 pound fat mark, top honors going to the cow named Wahjamega Mechthilde Sylvia with a credit of 129.0 pounds fat and 3917.2 pounds milk. High honors for milk production are held by the cow named Wahjamega Pontiac Concordia with a credit of 3940.8 pounds milk and 103.4 pounds fat. During the last month of the test three cows topped the 50 pound fat mark. The cow named Wahjamega Coronis Lunde led the herd for the month with a yield of 57.6 pounds fat and 1897.6 pounds of milk. A two-year-old heifer, Wahjamega Coronis Jane has completed a lactation record of 13665 pounds milk and 461.5 pounds fat. This record was made in Class B.

The "Texas Leaguer"

A "Texas leaguer" is defined in Webster as a fly that falls too far out to be handled by an infielder and too close in for an outfielder. The term is evidently derived from the Texas Baseball league, but the date and circumstances are obscure.

Tanagra Figurines

Among the many ancient peoples a figurine was used as a mortuary substitute. In the ruins of Tanagra, Greece, an ancient town of Boetia, there have, since 1873, been found beautiful painted terra cotta draped female figures from six to nine inches, known as Tanagra figurines.

LEARN COAL--you will buy it more wisely

Coal is more than something just "black and dirty" that will burn. It is a much more extensive subject. To describe the particular quality of the different coals in the U. S. alone would require more than a thousand pages of a book the size of a large mail order catalogue. More than 3000 different valuable articles are made from coal or its by-products. A whole division of the science of chemistry is required to cover the subject. So while our advice to you, "Learn Coal—You will buy it more wisely," doesn't mean that you should know everything about coal, we do believe that an explanation of a few of the more important points about home heating will make your coal dollar go farther.

In selecting domestic coal for your home or heating plant there are four basic qualities to consider:

1. Volatile matter or gas.
2. Fixed carbon.
3. Moisture.
4. Ash content.

The first two are the heat giving qualities, so, therefore, the higher the percentage of these two, the more heat given off.

The last two qualities—moisture and ash content—are detrimental to the first two and are of no value. The lower the percentage of these last two, therefore, the more heat value.

Simple, isn't it. But very important. In exactly the same proportion that these four basic qualities are present in the coal you buy, just in that proportion do you buy heat or waste.

Remember this: "Cheap Coal" is really expensive if you have to heap in more shovelfuls to obtain less heat.

Two in Hospital Recovering from Tip-Over Sunday Morning.

Two Granite Falls teachers are still in the hospital here following an accident caused by the blowout of a tire on the car in which they were driving to Minneapolis last Sunday morning. The injured teachers are Miss Mary Hyde, whose back was badly wrenched, and Miss Marion Thonvold, who suffered severe bruises. Miss Thonvold is expected back on duty Monday, but Miss Hyde may be forced to remain in the hospital somewhat longer.

Miss Hyde, Miss Thonvold, Miss Esther Rygg and Miss Glacia Cole started for Minneapolis Sunday morning with Miss Cole driving. Near Stewart a rear tire blew out and Miss Cole lost control of the car, rolling down a ten foot ditch and turning over several times. The accident could have been much more serious, but as it was Miss Cole and Miss Rygg were able to be on the job Monday.

Could This Accident Have Happened with Your Car???

... This article from a recent number of a Minnesota newspaper brings home the danger of driving with worn tires. No one is immune to blowouts no matter how good a driver he is, unless the tires are in good condition.

... Why take a chance? You may be in the hospital next. Tires are cheap and it doesn't pay to take a chance.

... Ask us about Firestone Tires. They're good insurance against blowouts, and they're mighty good tires any way you look at them.

Fit your car for winter driving here. The best of Oils, and Eveready Prestone or Alcohol for your radiator.

UNSUNG HEROES.

There is something fine and reassuring about the little touch of relief which good crops and good prices have brought to the farmers of this locality. Out of it are coming experiences which revive one's faith in the fundamental goodness of human nature. Those who have been hard pressed for years are taking prompt advantage of their favorable turn of fortune to settle the old accounts that they could not take care of until now. It is not necessary to remind them of their obligations. It was their acute knowledge of those obligations, and their honest desire to discharge them, that worried them through all those lean years. Now that they have got a "break" they are only too glad to clear the record.

That is the heartening aspect of it, the willingness with which they meet their obligations when they have the means. It does one good to think that he had faith in them, and patience. It makes one rejoice in their good fortune, because they are worthy.

Take the case of this plain man well past middle age who walks in and asks in an apologetic tone, "How much do I owe here? It goes back three or four years, I guess, but it wouldn't do any good to try to collect it before because I didn't have the money. I got it now, and I'm going to settle up." He pays, with a buoyant feeling of pride and relief.

That kind of frank, straightforward honesty hits you where you live. You know you are dealing with a man, the kind of man who forms the backbone of the world. You know that if all men possessed his sense of obligation, honesty and fair dealing, his willingness to labor faithfully for a living, there wouldn't be any crazy booms or tragic panics because there wouldn't be any gamblers or cheaters to bring them about.

We read much about the lives and activities of those who gain notoriety in crime. How much more inspiring, elevating and reassuring it would be to read of the honesty, the devotion to duty and the sacrifice of those millions of unsung heroes on whose honesty and labor the whole super-structure of society rests.—Times, Chilton, Wisconsin.

LOOKING AHEAD—YEARS AHEAD.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors, in a recent article, says that amazing changes and extraordinary wealth and posterity lies ahead. It will come, he says, when people start to adopt the changes which science has wrought in the last five years. Economic conditions have diverted their attention. They have ignored what is going on in the way of scientific progress. Changes in houses—the homes in which we live—which are as great and as revolutionary as the changes from the buckboard to the automobile are at hand.

These changes are:
Air conditioning in homes, shops, factories and office buildings. Temperatures and humidity can and are being controlled by new devices. Disease breeding dirt and dust can and are being removed from the air one breathes. Many of the causes of discomfort and ill-health can be controlled.

Houses of fabricated materials which will be built in factories and shipped to the user in sections represent another revolutionary change. Not only can substantial and vastly improved houses be obtained this way, but the time element required in present day building is largely eliminated. Also, it is claimed, the cost of homes can and will be materially reduced.

The type, speed and comfort of railroad trains is another revolutionary change which Mr. Sloan believes is coming rapidly. Already new type trains are being used in an experimental way. The changing of this equipment in itself will provide a vast army of workmen employment.

Science has not stood still in the last five years. Changes for better things have been planned. The upset in economics has merely postponed some of these changes which would have been well on their way to adoption, Mr. Sloan believes. One has only to know that the population of the United States is about 130,000,000 people and that there are about 30,000,000 homes together with the fact that American people adopt changes for the better more rapidly and readily than any other in the world, to realize the significance of these statements.

Private industry and private initiative which have so courageously carried this country to leadership in the world will again lead it out of the economic doldrums if given a chance.

There are interesting days ahead. Our children and their children will accept as commonplace what we are now shaking our doubtful heads over.—Clinton County Republican News, St. Johns, Mich.

WE MUST PRESCRIBE FOR OURSELVES.

At the low point in a business depression, a man whose personal affairs were in bad order, wrote: "The big business leaders have made a horrible mess of things."

It did not occur to the man to accuse himself and exclaim: "I have made a horrible mess of things."

He had had six years of uninterrupted prosperity in which to put his house in order. He might have utilized the cream from those fat years. He could have paid off the mortgage on his house, retired his business obligations and accumulated a surplus to tide him over hard times. If he had done these things, and if several million others had been as frugal, the crisis that later distressed everyone might not have occurred.

Too many of us are disposed to blame "the system" when we are in difficulties. The system under which we operate is based on freedom of individual enterprise. Each of us is allowed a loose rein in the management of his affairs. We may save money or spend it. We may work or loaf. We may insure our lives or take a chance of leaving our families destitute. The government and public opinion exercise only moderate control.

When everyone is happy and well-fed, we hear hurrahs and hosannas for the genius of our business leaders. Some of these leaders come to believe that they are really Napoleons of finance and industry. They become recalcitrant. The wise man, however, discounts such nonsense because he realizes that all men are human and that excessive ambition leads to Waterloo.

Instead of relying on the wisdom of others, he puts his faith in his own common sense. If his earnings double and triple in good times, he takes the surplus and puts it where he knows it is safe. While others are borrowing money at the peak of prosperity, he is rapidly getting himself out of debt.

How many have the courage and foresight and independent judgment to follow this obvious procedure? History reveals that such common sense is rare. Too many men pay in hard times the debts acquired in good times.

It's no use relying on business leaders or government to save us from the consequences of folly. Each of us must be his own physician. If we will diagnose our condition and prescribe the remedy promptly, we can enjoy permanent economic and financial health.—News, Van Nuys, California.

HELPING BOYS.

"No man stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."

With so many million of men out of work it is such an easy matter to become careless and pay no attention to boys. Men are doubly busy with the affairs of business and trying to figure out how they can live up to their codes. Worrying details occupy one's mind. Yet, all about us, are boys who need help—the help that comes from encouraging words, a helping hand, a little boost. All these helpful things take just a minute of any man's time—and yet they mean so much to a boy.

It does not take long for a boy to grow and develop into a man. It may be that what we say today will have a big influence on what kind of a man he will be. Are we doing the thing that will help the boy? Just a cordial word of greeting in the morning as the boy is on his way to school will frequently give the lad just the needed encouragement for that particular day. Do we do that? Can we truthfully say that we have been the means and channel by which a boy gets inspirations to do better things.

There is so much we can do in boys' work without ever having to take any time to do it. Most men are willing to do this if they only realized how easily it can be done.

"No man stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."—Times-Herald, Alliance, Nebraska.

Give Account Books to Contract Signers

A farm record book designed to assist farmers in assembling and preserving information on farm operations can be obtained free from county agricultural agents or from the farm management department at Michigan State College by farmers who have crop contracts with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The 1935 record book is similar to the one distributed last year but has been simplified and improved. It provides for the inclusion of records for which there was no space in last year's book. Filling out crop contracts is made easier if the record books are kept up-to-date. The books are also very convenient in making out financial statements for use in applying for loans from the government or from other sources.

The college farm management department issues another account book which is more complete than the one distributed by the government. The college account book is designed for a complete cost account of the farm operations, either crop growing or the production of livestock. Assistance is given farmers by specialists from the college or by county agricultural agents in opening and closing this account book.

Contract signers who do not use the college book, which is sold at cost, should ask for the one given away by the government. Books can be opened at the beginning of the calendar year or later when the inventories of feed are the lowest. Account books do not increase the farm income but they enable the farmer to determine which farm operations are most profitable and which lose money.

Story Starts Rush to Sell Muck Land

Michigan farmers who were encouraged by a newspaper story to attempt to sell members of Michigan State College staff muck lands for onion growing were told by the soils department of the college that the story contained an error.

The writer said that college employees had found that onion growing was very profitable and were quietly buying up suitable areas of muck soil. Owners of such soils read the story and decided that the need for quiet was past and appeared at the college in numbers with offers to sell all or any part of their muck holdings.

As usual, the story has some foundation, as members of the soils department have been working for years with owners of muck soils in an attempt to make the growing of crops on this soil more profitable for the owners. The reporter had seen or heard of this work and decided that the college men were actuated by selfish motives and were attempting to buy the land.

College officials are pleased with the story, as it is stated that the onion growers were making money and that is exactly what the soils specialists have been attempting to help accomplish. Muck soils vary a great deal in character and it is necessary to handle the different types in various ways and to grow the crops which are suited to the particular type.

The college already owns what is probably the most complete set of muck plots in the country and is spending money liberally to find ways of improving crop practices on this type of soil. Visitors are invited to inspect these plots anytime during the crop season.

200 ATTENDED BETHEL CHURCH JUBILEE

Concluded from first page. ment. His pastorate of two years was really a 'revival pastorate.' Very many souls were brought to God. Revivals were held on the entire circuit, which embraced Cass City, Bird's Schoolhouse, Grant Centre, and Dickout's. During the hay harvest, June, 1884, a most gracious revival took place at Winton Schoolhouse which formed the nucleus of the Bethel M. E. church, four miles north of Cass City. . . . This revival . . . resulted in the union of the Winton and Bird Schoolhouse appointments into the above church. In 1885, Rev. J. H. McCune was appointed to Cass City circuit and remained three years. His work was good, and resulted in a number of accessions to the church. During his pastorate some little effort was made toward the erection of the Bethel church. . . . The foundation of the church was laid, contract let and material placed on the ground. . . .

"September, 1888, Rev. Samuel Gilchies was appointed to the work. Cass City, Grant Centre, Winton's and Dickout's were the appointments. The matter of building the Bethel church was delayed until the Spring of 1889. Seeing that the work spread out too far for any one man, the services of Judson Cooper, a young man from Tuscola, were secured. He came on Jan. 1, 1889, and labored with the pastor the remainder of the year. At the conference at Alpena in September, 1889, Brother Cooper, with Manly Karr, both local preachers, were received on trial into the travelling connection, upon recommendation of Cass City Quarterly Conference. During this year, '88-'89, gracious revivals took place. At Grant Centre about 60 souls sought God and 46 were received into the church. At Cass City, a gracious awakening took place, and about 50 souls were saved. The year closed favorably, and everything was bright for the future."

Mr. and Mrs. John Profit, Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall, Mrs. Jas. Day, Mrs. Audley Rawson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Maharg and Geo. Charter were members of the general committee who assisted the pastor, Rev. Charles Bayless, in planning the program and arrangements for the jubilee celebration.

CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS BOOK LISTS OFFERED BY UNIVERSITY

In Christmas shopping for children's presents the great array of finely printed and illustrated books offered nowadays by bookshops and department stores seldom fails to catch the eyes of mothers and fathers, aunts, uncles and grandparents. The main difficulty experienced by the elders is what book is best suited to the age and character of the child they have in mind.

Some of this doubt may be removed by a series of free booklists offered by the University of Michigan Library, graded for boys and girls of all ages from the picture book time, beginning with two of age, to high school students of adolescent years. These lists, which are also arranged under separate headings, such as fiction, science, invention, building, history, travel, and biography, are prepared by Miss Edith Thomas, head of the Library Extension Service, who also chooses the books for the Children's Fund of Michigan. They may be obtained by writing to the Library Extension Service, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Recent studies of child education have shown that the reading habits acquired early in life and in free time at home do much to influence growing minds and character, Miss Thomas states. Developed regularly with books properly suited to different ages, such good reading habits easily carry over into adult life where they add greatly to pleasure and knowledge. In addition, Miss Thomas points out that the fine illustrating and printing now being lavished on many children's books is an indirect introduction to an appreciation of artistic values.

JUNIOR CLASS TO OFFER "THE CAVE GIRL"

Concluded from first page. an upon whom to bestow his affections, the son will finally settle down. The eligible woman is Millicent Graham, who goes on the trip accompanied by her coquetish mother, Esther Turner. To keep his plot from becoming too obvious, the father invites Grant Ball to accompany the expedition. Grant is supposed to be a none-too-efficient competitor for the hand of the one eligible woman working on the idea that competition will more quickly enlighten his "play boy" son. Rogers, the family butler, played by Vernon-Turner, and Lloyd Donnelly, who plays the part of the French guide, complete the personnel of the party.

A second camp in the same neighborhood, headed by Professor Orlando Sperry, is also enjoying the Canadian scenery. Frank Morris is the absent-minded professor is endeavoring to prove his theory that man needs but turn to nature and nature will provide. His companion and semi-adopted daughter, Helen Doerr, is his only companion. Helen, however, decides that nature should be aided and when she finds such a well-equipped expedition so close to theirs, she helps herself to provisions.

How the guide is falsely accused of being the thief, how he leaves the party threatening revenge, how means of returning to civilization are lost, how under the directions of the Cave Girl, the combined parties succeed in their forced return to nature, how the professor gives up nature for contract bridge, what happens when the guide returns with Grover Hulbert, the sheriff, and how all the plotting helped the tangled romances must all remain as unanswered questions until Friday, December 14.

Much work is being done to bring the Northern Wilds down to the limited space provided by the high school auditorium stage. Some credit for the finished production should be given to those who labor to produce the setting. With this background, the amateur performance has the needed foundation for a success.

Your Farm Sale + Our Advertising = Money in Your Pocket

THERE'S A MATHEMATICAL FORMULA THAT'S JUST AS CERTAIN AS ANY YOU EVER LEARNED IN SCHOOL!

ANY FARMER who's going to hold a public auction should look upon the Chronicle as a partner in his enterprise.

He can furnish the property to sell. He can supply an auctioneer. But he CAN'T furnish the bidders—and he can't have a sale without them.

That's where we come in. That's our job. We'll GET him a CROWD—if he'll give a half a chance.

We'll carry the news of his sale to other farmers—not only his neighbors, but to hundreds of other prospective bidders. We'll do the job quicker, easier and cheaper than anyone else in the world. After all, we've been doing it for many years, and we ought to know how by this time.

That's why nearly all farmers who hold public sales have learned to place their advertising in

At the present time relations with the Class "A" Saginaw Eastern team have not progressed to the setting of actual dates, but an agreement is hoped to be soon effected that will bring another spectacular scrimmage before the local fans.

New raiment has been purchased which, it is predicted, will at least make Cass City the best dressed team in the circuit. It is the hope of the promoters that these flashy trappings will arrive in time to make the squad "look good" against Marlette.

40 per cent by simplifying local government and that like savings were possible in other states.

In Michigan, as is the case with many states, Professor Bromage pointed out, the form of county government is at present rigidly prescribed. Because of industrial development, population shifts, and various local problems and conditions unknown when the state constitutions were drawn, many counties, both large and small, find that they might better have systems of local government planned to fit their particular needs.

The Michigan amendment makes this possible without compelling any county to change its system unless it decides to do so on its own initiative, he said. Only a majority vote of the people can cause local reorganization. Such reorganization may be according to a plan suggested by the Legislature, or by a locally devised system, submitted to the people by the

The township is in no way affected by the amendment, abolition of that unit or transfer of its functions to the county not being mentioned, states Professor Bromage. "The goal is simply to permit counties to reorganize themselves to efficiently meet their present-day governmental needs."

First Baton Used

The history of the use of the baton or conducting stick is traced at least as far back as the Fifteenth century, by which time it had become customary to beat time to the Sistine choir at Rome with a roll of paper called a Soi-fa. The baton first came into general use in England as comparatively recent as 1832 or 1833. One of the earliest instances of its employment was in Spahr at the Philharmonic in 1820. The baton was not used at Leipzig until 1835.
