Following on the heels of the inauguration by a single day came 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. the convening of the 58th legislature and the governor's message to the lawmakers on Thursday. With the house of representatives divided almost equally between members of the two parties, observers see an interesting session in prospect during which most anything can happen. Partisan considerations are bound to have a wide influence on much of the legislation to be enacted. On no small number of bills it is expected that votes will be cast one way or the other for no reason at all except that the lawmaker happens to be either a the following officers: republican or a democrat.

Michigan citizens who have not traveled the roads of other states do not appreciate the extent and the excellent construction of the highways here, according to members of the Michigan State College staff who have occasion to drive long distances. Recent snowstorms emphasized Michigan's ability to cope with highway problems when people returning from other states Shake-up in signed with relief when they reached the state line and found the proper equipment clearing the roads at the proper time.

These highways are the avenue down which the tourists' dollars travel to Michigan pockets. Travelers remember the good roads on their journeys and are apt to avoid the bad spots on their return.

member of the last legislature, was chosen sergeant-at-arms and Leland Galt of Grand Rapids, postmaster.

While the house struggled with its organization, the senate on the opposite side of the building idled away the hours in recess, preferring to know what happened in the lower chamber before proceeding with its own organization. Senate republicans in caucus were able to reach a speedy agreement on their slate of officers and Thursday morning elected Fred I. Chase, Lansing, secretary; Senator Adolph H. Heidkamp (R) of Lake Linden, president pro-tem; and Senator Gordon F. VanEenenaam (R) of Muskegon, administration floor leader.

Senator VanEenenaam has long been a close friend and advisor of the new governor, while the selection of Chase as secretary brings back to the senate's service, after two years of retirement, a man who formerly was assistant parliamentarian of the national house of representatives.

Before either house is able to settle down to the serious work of the session it will be necessary to dispose of several election contests. Included among these contests may be the question of permitting a seat to at least one member of the legislature who figured prominently in the recent recount fiasco and is charged with having allowed certain illegal practices to prevail in the handling of ballots.

In the upper chamber former Senator J. Neal Lamoreaux of Comstock Park (D), is challenging the seating of Harold Sauer (R) of Kent City, and Charles Q. Carlisle (R) of Saginaw is questioning the election of Dale Doyle (D), also of Saginaw.

In the house, notice of three contests had been filed: Former Rep. Fred E. Watkins of Pontiac, (D), has declared exceptions to the election of Jos. A. Long, (R), of Milford; former Rep. Wm. Birk, (R), of Baraga is challenging James K. Jamieson (D), of Ontonagon; and Charles Hallman, (R), is contesting the seat of Philip J. Rahoi, (D). Both men are from Iron Mountain.

Before a house virtually jammed with state officers, members of the supreme court and spectators, and to the hearty cheers of party followers, Gov. Fitzgerald and the outgoing executive, William A. Comstock appeared Thursday afternoon; the latter to present his ex-augural address and the governor to deliver his message to the

Gov. Fitzgerald's message to the legislature, consisting of nearly happiest ones we ever had. THE KENNEL MURDER CASE By S. S. Van Dine Copyright by W. H. Wright WNU Service

CHAPTER X

The Scottie's Trail.

 $A^{\,\rm T}$ NINE o'clock the following morning Vance called at the oftices of the American Kennel club, and explained to the secretary, Mr. Perry B. Rice, the nature of the information he sought. Mr. Rice introduced us to Mrs. Del Campo, the head of the show department. Mrs. Del Campo, when Mr. Rice explained to her what Vance wanted, found the marked Englewood catalogue. Turning to the Scottish terrier section, she ran her finger down the list of Pupy Bitch entries until she came to the winner of the class. The owner's name was given as Julius Higginbottom, and the name of the dog itself as Miss MacTavish. The breeder was Henry Bixby.

Vance made a note of these data, and expressed his admiration for the A. K. C. system.

When we arrived at the district attorney's office on the fourth floor of the Criminal Courts building, Markham was in conference with Sergeant Heath. Swacker, the district attorney's secretary, ushered us immediately into Markham's private office.

"Things are moving." Vance sat down and took out his cigarette case. "I have just come from the American Kennel club and have discovered a bit of most interestin' information. The wounded Scottie, Markham, belongs to none other than Julius Higginbottom."

"And who might he be. Vance? And why does the fact interest you?"

"I have met Higginbottom. He's a member of the Crestview Country club, and he has a large country estate at Mount Vernon, where he spends his entire time living what he imagines to be the life of a country gentleman-"

Heath sat forward in his chair.

"It was the Crestview Country club at Mount Vernon," he interjected, "where Miss Lake and Grassi went to a dance Wednesday night." | during the mornings, and the win-"And that's not all, Sergeant." Vance sprawled luxuriously in his troubled. "Yes, sir, it would be chair and took a deep inhalation. "Higginbottom knew Archer Coe didn't mean to be impolite, sir-no, pretty well. Several years ago Higginbottom inherited, from an for a moment. . . . A most trying aunt, a very fine collection of early $\big|$ and delicate situation." He put his Chinese paintings, many of which | head a little closer to Vance. Coe bought from him at a preposterously low price. Higginbottom Englewood show ?--- and why should is something of a gay bird-the you be interested?" He glanced sporting type of man-and knew nothing of the value of the paintings. After he had sold them to porch. "George! I hope your quester up with Coe, but without any success, and there has been a certain amount of bad blood between them ever since. Higginbottom was a major in the World war and is a hotheaded sort of a chap." Markham beat a nervous tattoo on the desk. "Well, where does that get us?"

he asked. "Are you implying that Higginbottom came down from Mount Vernon with his dog and murdered Coe?

"Good Lord, no!" Vance made a slight gesture of annoyance. "I'm not implyin' anything. I am merely reportin' my findings. But I must confess that I find the relationship between the Scottie and Major Higginbottom and Archer Coe a bit satisfyin'. I am motoring immediately to Mount Vernon, where I hope to have a polite-and I trust, illuminatin'-intercourse with the major concerning Miss MacTavish.... Would you care to hear the result of my social endeavors?" "I'll be here all afternoon," Markham answered glumly.

We had little difficulty in finding the Higginbottom estate, and we were lucky enough to find the major sitting on the big colonial front porch. "To what do I owe the honor of this call, sir?" He spoke with hospitable good nature. "I am really delighted. You should come oftener."

"I'd be charmed." Vance sat down beside a small glass table. "But today. Major, d' ye see, I hopped out here on a little matter of business. . . . The truth is, I'm dashed interested in a Scottie bitch belonging to you-Miss MacTavish-who was shown at Englewood. . . .' At the mention of the dog's name Higginbottom gave a loud cough, pushing his chair back with a scraping sound, and glancing over his shoulder to the open window leading into the house. The man seemed deeply perturbed, and his tone of voice and his manner, when he answered, struck me as most peculiar.

"Yes, yes; of course," he blustered, rising and walking toward the front steps. "I rarely go to dog shows any more. By the way, Mr. Vance, I want to show you my roses. . . ." And he walked down the stairs toward a small rose garden at the right. Vance lifted his eyebrows in mild astonishment and followed his host. When we were out of hearing of the house, the major placed his hand on Vance's shoulder and spoke confidentially:

"By gad, sir! I hope my wife didn't hear that question of yours. She's generally in the drawing room dows were open." He appeared most annoying if she heard it. I sir, by gad !--but you startled me "Where did you hear of that little bitch of mine?-were you at the

"At the Belle Maison apartments at 90 West Seventy-first street." Vance's eyes flickered very slightly as he took out a cigarette and lighted it slowly. "That's the small apartment house just across the vacant lot from Archer Coe's residence, isn't it?" "That's right. The fact is, Mr.

Vance, I was calling on Miss Delafield the very night he was murdered." "Indeed, Major. That's most interestin'." Vance leaned over and snapped off a dead leaf from one of the Talisman bushes. man transfixed, and the blood went from his face. "I-I-really. . . . Are you-sure?"

he stammered. "Oh, quite. Quite. As I told you, planation without question. I have Miss MacTavish in my apartment now. I found her in the house -in the lower hall. I took her to Doctor Blamey-she's coming round in first-class shape. . . . But how do you account for the fact, Major," ---Vance looked at the man squarely-"that your dog was in the murder house at the time the crime was committed?" "Account for it!" the man blustered excitedly. "I can't account for it. . . . Good gad! This is incredible! I'm completely bowled over-" "But how does it happen, Major,"

Vance cut in placidly, "that you have not heard of the dog's absence from Miss Delafield's apartment-" "Oh, I forgot to tell you," said the major, and hesitated.

"Ah, what did you forget to tell me?"

The major shifted his eyes. "I omitted to mention the fact that Miss Delafield sailed for Europe on Wednesday night." "The night Mr. Archer Coe was murdered," Vance said slowly.

"Just so," the major returned aggressively. "The reason I happened to be at her apartment that night was because we were having a farewell dinner, and I was to see her off on the boat." "And how does it happen, Major, that your dog was not returned to your kennel here when Miss Delafield sailed for Europe?" "The fact of the matter is"- Higginbottom became apologetic-"Doris-that is, Miss Delafield-on my advice, left the dog in the care her maid, who was to look Higginbottom seemed to ponder the question; but before he could speak Annie supplied the information.

"Ah, yes. Quite right, Annie." The major pretended to be grateful for having this moot point recalled to his memory. "Miss Delafield," he explained blandly to Vance, "said

to Show Radio Beacons

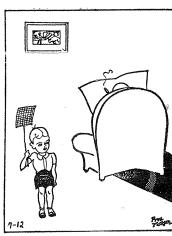

Washington .- A device for visual interpreting signals of aeronautical radio range beacons has been developed by W. E. Jackson and L. M. Harding, radio engineers of the Commerce department's aeronautics branch, according to Rex Martin, assistant director of aeronautics. Signals, Martin explained, are received through headphones by airmen who rely upon them for guidance during periods of poor visibility.

The device features an indicator which, fitted in the instrument panel, is similar to the contrivance used for blind landings. It is open-faced and has two needlesone vertical and one horizontal. The vertical needle, Martin explained, is chief indicator, and when a plane leaves a course defined by a radio beacon, this needle will move accordingly. However, he added, if the plane is exactly on course, the vertical pointer will remain in center of the dial.

The horizontal indicator, the offi- cial revealed, shows the volume of received signals, which the pilot may adjust as he sees fit.

Cleopatra knew how to put a Crimp in a Check Book. When Solomon began giving Presents to the Queen of Sheba she never begged him to stop because she was afraid he could not afford it. Going a little further back, the fuzzy gentleman who wore a Leopard Skin bias, and naught else, always had the Inside Track if his Cave was stocked with fresh Pterodactyl Meat. And, checking up on those Relatives, can we not be certain that the gimpy and enterprising Ape who climbed the highest Palms and brought down the milkiest Nuts was the White-Haired Papa of the Jungle?

When the four Dulcineas out at Musselwhite began to look around for Feathers that could be used in a Nest, they were simply running true to form.

Lib was the first to take the High Jump. After burning up many a ton of Anthracite Coal to keep the Front Room warm through the Long Winter Evenings, and holding Hands until her fingers were Blue, she finally picked out a large slow-moving Pachyderm with the very attractive Name of Wes. She pinned the Ribbon on him because he had just come into 160 acres of good Land. Other Improvements on the Same included a House with Scroll-Work around the Eaves and $800 worth of Lightning Rods on the Barn.

Anyone who expects to live on the Income from a Quarter Section should be ready for a Diet of Rainwater and Crackers. The net on that much Land, after paying Taxes and making Improvements and Repairs, would not keep the average Family in Bluing. Furthermore, any time Congress gets too busy trying to do something for the Farmer by mere use of the Vocal Cords, any good Fertile Tract is apt to be a Liability instead of an Asset.

Wes thought he was rich but he was sitting on the Front Stoop of The Poor House. One cannot obtain actual Money from a Farm except by plastering a Mortgage, and any Gentleman who lives in Town and wears a White Shirt with a Granite Button and devotes the life-long day to Checkers and Criticism of the Government, has a Fat Chance of battling his Way out from under an incumbrance.

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard his wonderful words and witnessed his mighty works. Various opinions were extant about him. Since Jesus was soon to go to the cross, it was necessary for the disciples to have a definite and true conception of him. In order to help them into the right conception he as the spokesman of the group of disciples. I. Peter's Confession (vv. 13-16). 1. How provoked (v. 13). Two questions put to the disciples called forth this great confession. a. Who do men say that the Son Jerome of Watertown. of Man is? (v. 13). He first inquired for the opinion of the people concerning him. It is not enough to think that he was a great teacher. Had he been content with this, he store now occupied by T. H. (v. 17). He pronounced him blessed. He was truly blessed, for he both possessed and confessed Christ. His confession showed his touch with the Heavenly Father.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced by Christ (vv. 18-20). At this juncture Christ declared his intention of bringing into existence a new body. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body.

He declared that Peter should be a foundation stone in his Church. Christ is the chief corner stone upon which the Church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter, and on this rock, the truth confessed is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Enh. 2:20). He further declared that association in this new body Duncanson and Miss Adah Caldthe gates of Hades should not pre- nest Schwaderer and the Misses vail against it.

EARN COAL--you will buy it more wisely.

Coal is more than something just "black and dirty" that will burn. It is a much more extensive subject. To describe the particular quality of the different coals in the U.S. alone would require more than a thousand pages of a book the size of a large mail order catalogue. More than 3000 different valuable articles are made from coal or its by-products. A whole division of the science of chemistry is required to cover the subject. So while our advice to you, "Learn Coal-You will buy it more wisely," doesn't mean that you should know everything about coal, we do believe that an explanation of a few of the more important points about home heating will make your coal dollar go farther.

In selecting domestic coal for your home or heating plant there are four basic qualities to consider:

1.	Volatile matter	or gas.			3.	Moistur	re.
2.	Fixed carbon.	p			4.	Ash con	ntent.

The first two are the heat giving qualities, so, therefore, the higher the percentage of these two, the more heat given off.

The last two qualities-moisture and ash content-are detrimental to the first two and are of no value. The lower the percentage of these last two, therefore, the more heat value.

Simple, isn't it. But very important. In exactly the same proportion that these four basic qualities are present in the coal you buy, just in that proportion do you buy heat or waste.

Remember this: "Cheap Coal" is really expensive if you have to heap in more shovelfuls to obtain less heat.
