tion has been confined to the hospital and without his vote on important measures the republicans can only hope for a "stymie," that is, unless enough democratic bolters can be found to ride along with them. This latter possibility is rather remote in event efforts are made to reorganize committees and the blood of the partisan ox is spewn along the path of legislative accomplishment.

Rep. Ward, it is understood, has sufficiently recovered from his prolonged illness to be brought to Lansing in event the importance of his absence demands such a radical step, however, this is considered mere idle gossip. The republicans likely, will seek to make peace with their neighbors as the easiest way out of an embarrassing position and the present session brought to a close as quickly as possible.

For the first time in years, if not in the history of a Michigan legislature, one of the houses has adopted the procedure of regularly convening in the morning rather than at the usual hour of two o'clock. The legislative workday has been a standing joke with the public for some time; the time of actual meeting usually running from 2 p. m. conception of just what a real day's work amounts to.

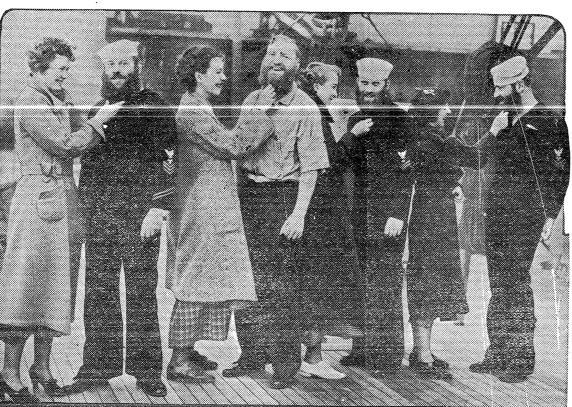

The governor is still in combat byists in the captital-the Michigan Educational association. Gov. Fitzgerald declared this week that the schools have and always will be fully taken care of but on the other hand deplores the tactics of the school group to 'hi-jack" the state treasury.

"Not in a single instance have we failed to meet the demands of the schools," the governor declared. He pointed out that the state has already advanced $2,000,000 a year ahead of time and has released in addition $2,600,000 this year from the $10,000,000 appropriated to as-sist the schools. "What the school lobbyists are attempting to do is gradually remove from local authorities all authority," he said.

The patronage squabble which has been raging in Lansing for the past two months seems to have taken a more resigned attitude during the past few days. While there is still plenty of pressure being exerted in various quarters most of the job-seekers have come to the conclusion that there is no use in forcing matters and that the thing will work itself out with the pass- oldest surviving veteran of the Gray, chief patronage dispenser of day.

The whole matter smacks of by both the state and the federal governments.

So the merry grind goes on. In the House, 295 bills have been introduced to date and in the Senate 228. Most of these will never see the light of day for which fact the people of Michigan can be truly thankful.

The measures would repeal the mill tax for these two institutions and thus remove from your tax receipt next year the last semblance of a property tax levied by the state.

Rep. Brown declared that unless these bills find approval that the entire administration program is placed in jeopardy. "If the administration's program to abolish the $3,500,000 state property tax is to be accomplished, these bills must pass," he declared. The bills were advanced from general orders to third reading and will undoubtedly meet eventual approval, both in the House and the Senate.

Save 28¹/₂% On Your Oil

That's a real saving for every motorist. It means almost a third reduction in your motor oil cost. This is an actual fact that was proven by the A. A. A. on the Indianapolis Speedway. To make the test they borrowed five popular makes of cars picked at random, ran them for thousands of miles and then checked the oil consumption. The results proved Gulf-lube to be America's longest mileage medium priced motor oil.

It tells you how you can be sure of getting farm buildings that are the last word in strength, rigidity, permanence, through tested construction principles, and do it for less money.

More Than 100 Farm Buildings

Each has received the stamp of approval of the agricultural engineers of 15 leading State Universities—the nation's best building au-thorities on farm construction. Think what that means to you!

Lumber That Gives You a Better Job At Lower Final Costs

We not only furnish FREE BLUE PRINTS of any of these buildings to our customers but we show how Weyerhaeuser 4-SQUARE lumber can be used to give better construction at lower final cost—the right lumber to use and how to use it. It will pay you to know all about this new service. We'll be glad to explain it fully.

Lesson for March 17 PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:1-19. GOLDEN TEXT—But prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him. Acts 12:5b. PRIMARY TOPIC—How Peter Was Freed From Prison. JUNIOR TOPIC—How Peter Was Delivered From Prison. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Prayer Helps. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of United Prayer.

The young church had met and overcome some serious difficulties. She first had to face religious persecution at the hands of Jews. Then came internal troubles as to the support of certain widows. The separating wall of Pharisaical legalism was broken down in the admission of Gentiles into the church, but finally she had to meet the naked sword of civil authority. Through all these tests she was more than conqueror.

I. Peter's Imprisonment (vv. 1-4). 1. By whom (v. 1). Herod, the grandson of the wicked Herod who slew the innocent children of Bethlehem. His half-sister, Herodias, secured the death of John the Baptist.

2. The reason (v. 3). It was to gain the favor of the Jews. Herod was not a Jew but an Edomite. Therefore, he knew that his success was dependent upon his having the good will of the Jews. He seems not particularly to have hated the church, but to have loved popularity, for the sake of which he manifested a deep sympathy for degenerate Judaism. Since the church had so developed as to be a successful rival of Judaism, he saw an opportunity to curry favor with the by putting forth his hands Jews against it.

3. The method (v. 4). He was arrested, put into prison and guarded hy sixteen soldiers, one group of four for each watch of the night. Humanly speaking it was impossible to escape. They had doubtless heard of Peter's escape from jail before, so they thought they would take no risks this time. However, they reckoned without God

II. The Church of God in Prayer (v, 5).

The church was at a crisis. James, one of the brethren of the church, was dead, and Peter, the most prominent of all, was in prison. In this desperate strait, they betook themselves to prayer. This was a noteworthy prayer. 1. It was unto God. All true prayer is unto God. 2. It was united prayer. There is pecaliar power in the united prayer of God's people.

3. It was more than unceasing prayer. It was the intensely earnest desire of the soul stretched toward God.

4. It was definite prayer. They specifically offered prayer to God for Peter.

III. Peter Delivered by an Angel (vv. 6-11).

This occurred the night before Herod's plan to make a public display of him.

1. Peter sleeping (v. 6). This shows that he was not disturbed over the matter. The Lord keeps in perfect peace those whose minds are stayed on him (Isa. 26:3). 2. Peter leaves the prison (vv. 7-10). A heavenly light shone in the prison. The angel smote Peter on the side. The chains fell off. Peter put on his clothes and passed by one guard after another, through the iron gate and into the city. The whole transaction was orderly and leisurely, showing that God is not in a hurry. 3. The effect upon Peter (v. 11). Although the matter was so wonderful to Peter, who thought himself in a vision, when he came to himself he knew that God had miracuiously delivered him from Herod's wicked hands. IV. Unconscious Unbelief (Vv. 12-19) 1. The behavior of Peter and the church (vv. 12-17). Peter went to the house of Mary and knocked. The knock was answered by Rhoda, who was so overjoyed that she forgot to open the gate, and went right in and told them that Peter was at the gate. The disciples were not prepared for such good news, even accusing her of madness. She, undaunted, insisted. They offered as an explanation that perhaps it might be Peter's guardian angel in his likeness. Peter rehearsed unto them the Lord's dealing with him.

2. The behavior of the soldiers (vv. 18, 19). There was great agitation among them as to what had become of Peter. This was a serious matter, since they were responsible for him. Not being able to account for Peter's escape, Herod commanded that they be put to death. - After this, Herod went down to Caesarea, where he was adored as a god. Because he arrogated this honor to himself, the Lord smote him. Herod died, but the word of the Lord grew and multiplied. CHAPTER I.—The luck that had brought the Boston Lawrences to California just as the beginning of the gold rush seems to have desert-ed the present generation. From a 4,000-acre ranch, their holdings have shrunk to a small farm and the old family home in Clippersville. The death of their poetic father forced the three eldest children to work so that Sam and little Ariel might continue their education. Phil, now twenty-five, had gone from high school to the iron works. Gail works in the public library and Edith in the book department of Clippersville's largest store. Besides their financial worries, seventeen-year-old Ariel is becoming more and more of a problem, and Phil is fascinated by "that terrible" Lily Cass, whose husband has deserted her. She has three little children. crept down to the main cabin for breakfast only anxious to avoid notice, to secure the earliest possible escape for home. They were all going up to San Mateo, for it appeared that Van was to take the place of a missing polo player; every one was very much excited about the game.

But she was in a fever to get home. Van's arguments, his pleading, fell on deaf ears. Ariel per-CHAPTER II.—Young Van Mur-chison, whose family owns a chain of flour mills, returns from Yale. He and Gail had been very close friends before he went away to col-lege and Gail now has visions of the turning of the Lawrence luck. Dick Stebbins, Phil's best friend, has the run of the house. Ariel jus-tifies her sisters' fear by sneaking out of the house at night for joy rides. She is almost detected on her return from one of them, but she hoodwinks the family and they think they have suspected her unjustly. CHAPTER II .-- Young Van Murhaps murdered, Phil and Edith crushed with terror and doubt, and they wanted her to go to San Mateo and applaud the chukkers of a polo game! In the end she had her way, and was established in the roomy empty back of a big closed car. Van saw her off reproachfully.

Then she must have gone back

"You piker!" "I know it." She smiled a sickly smile at the handsome boy. "Why don't you stay and swim, anyway. It's noon; you'll cookdriving home through the valley!"

"I can't. I promised Ariel-" "Oh, Ariel nothing! Listen, I got one good look at your little sister, and I want to tell you something! She can manage her own affairs."

in a quandary. CHAPTER IV.—Van asks Gail to go with him for a week-end at Los Gatos with the Chipps, his uncle and aunt. Phil and Edith disapprove because the invitation did not come from Mrs. Chipps, but Gall indulges in a little deceit, which satisfies them, and goes. She is received cold-ly by Mrs. Chipps and her guests. The second night the house party guests drive sixty miles to Mocker-son's roadhouse, where there is much drinking. As Gail's party is about to leave, she glances from a window, and sees a raccoon-coated Her face, already pale with heat and emotion, grew whiter. "How d'you mean you-you saw Ariel?"

"Why-" He looked at her in puzzled surprise. "Why, she was at your house that Sunday night, two weeks ago."

He had not seen her at Mockerson's then! Gail sank back.

"Come on, have a change of heart, and let's swim! And then we'll go up to San Mateo." $G^{\rm AIL}$ had a sick moment of vertigo, of terror. What she saw, His laughter, the grip of his big brown hand, would have been irrewhat it signified, where she was sistible twenty-four hours ago. But and where Ariel was-everything Gail was hardly conscious of them rushed together in a complete denow. Absolutely, apologetically, she persisted, said her farewells. The world that was all pleasure -swimming, bridge, polo, tennis, frocks, trips-closed behind her as a pool closes over a stone.

ing that it was somebody else talking, that it was all a part in a play -in one of their Sunday night charades.

"Fun! They stayed at the Fairmont," said the eager Edith. "Oh, did you, baby?"

"We went to a movie," Ariel supplied.

Then-then the girl at Mockerson's wasn't Ariel? Or else . . Gail's first impulse to tell her sisers of her sickness and fright died away. She dared not risk that yet. Peace and shadiness held the kitchen. Home. The infinite peacefulness of it! Gail, looking at Ariel, could not believe that her feverish, frightened suspicions of last night had any basis whatever. This was all reassuring, all soothing. It was not believable that this innocent child of seventeen, in the blue organdy, had upon her mind any secret as disgraceful as a midnight escapade at Mockerson's. But as soon as they had an opportunity to speak to each other alone, Gail went straight to the point. "Ariel, did you ever hear of a roadhouse called Mockerson's?" The blond head, with its drift of flyaway gold hair, came up like a flash. And Gail knew. Ariel shrugged slightly, wary eyes on Gail's face.

"Yep," she admitted briefly. Then there was a long silence. Ariel's eyes met her sister's.

"Some of us went over from the Chipp ranch," Gail said, returning the steady gaze. "What were you doing there, Ariel?"

"What-what you were, if you were there and saw me, I suppose !" Ariel blurted, in a tone that was meant to be bold and turned out merely trembling and frightened. Gail took the shock without a sign, going on patiently.

"Who were you with, dear?" "Oh, don't dear me!" protested Ariel, in sudden ugliness. "You know you think I'm a lost soul, and you're going to tell Phil, and stir up all sorts of trouble."

She stopped fiercely, as Gail merely sat, silent. From vague worry and apprehension about Ariel, suddenly the whole fearful danger had sprung upon her. This morning it had been no more than fear; now it was fall knowledge. "You weren't in San Francisco with the Camps, then?" "Oh, yes, I was! We went down from there." "Where was Mrs. Camp?"

"She had to go to San Rafael. She left us at the Fairmont." "Just you two girls? Did she know you went out that night?" "We didn't tell her-no." There was a pause. Then Gail said, "Ariel, I can't believe it!" "You were there," Ariel offered accusingly.

"Oh, I know it !" Gail covered her face with her hands. For the first time the younger sister seemed a little impressed. and she spoke in a lower tone, a tone that had some hint of huskiness or of apology in it.

"Just the same, you're not right, Ariel," Gale persisted. "Honor is what-well, what it always was-Michigan: and dignity and self-control. If we turn ourselves into animals, we only have to work our way back to decency, sooner or later. Gluttony in food isn't any more expensive than-than developing appetites for-for-other things-"

'I know what you mean," Ariel relieved her briefly.

"Surely-surely no sane girl could think that the sort of marriage that goes on now, with jazzing and fighting and divorce-" Gail began eloquently. "Surely no girl thinks that is worth while! Why, girls like that are burned out election. at twenty. Their lives are over! They're fit for nothing! They go on for a few years . . . Ariel, at your age, to go on as you are going on, is simple ruin." "And if I sit down at home, then what of it? Why, Gail," Ariel said, in a confident voice, "I'm no fool! I'm not taking any chances." "Taking any chances!" Gail echoed, rolling up her eyes. There was a pause. "Now listen, Gail," Ariel began on, more confidently, aware that she was gaining ground, "we can't get away from it, we can't have any fun here unless we take chances! Nobody could get away with anything in this town! Just as soon as I can I'm going to get out, and I advise you to! Why, what does it matter," she rushed on-"what does it matter what Van Murchison wants-how much he wants to fool around, how young a kid he is? He's rich, he's going to take his wife East, and abroad. What do you care about the rest? You don't want to change him, you want to marry him. Let him be giddy-Phil said he was giddy. Let him be wasteful and frivolous if he wants to be! What is it to you? He gets you out of Clippersville, and away from these gossiping old busy bodies!"

Clippersville.

Most terrible of all to Gail was her little sister's easy air of conspiracy, her casual quick assumption that they were both in the same boat. Gail was frantic with why?" Van shouted. "Oh, nothing !" Gail, actually writhing, saying the soundless words of prayers with trembling lips, added no more. But her soul was sick.

"Ariel! Oh, my G-d-not yet eighteen!"

It was like a horrible dream. She was miles-miles from home, from Phil and Edith, and security and goodness and help. The need to be at home gnawed at her flesh like teeth; her face burned, she could not breathe.

"Van, how far are we from home?" "From Los Gatos? Let's see-"No. From Clippersville."

"Oh, Clippersville? Oh-well, about seventy miles." Seventy miles! They seemed to fall on her heart like so many separate blows. Was somebody driving Ariel seventy miles home tonight? What was she doing away from home? Where did Phil and Edith think she was? Perhaps Phil and Edith were dead. . . .

Perhaps they were scouring the town for Ariel, telephoning Dorothy, telephoning the Lovelaces! And she not there! "Papa told us to take care of the children! And little Ariel, that Mother only stayed with four days

"And what does Ariel know about danger? Nothing. She's a baby. Men think she's pretty, and it amuses her. She never dreams. "Oh, my G-d! Where is she now?"

It was impossible that 12 hours must pass before she could be home again and know the worst. Hourshours! They proved to be the longest through which she had even lived.

Vaguely, secondary things penetrated the flaming wall of thought that shut her in. She realized, alone in her comfortable cabin room, that she was not going to sleep.

Ariel! Ariel! Ariel! She walked out under the redwoods just as dawn began to paint the western face of the canyon with streaks of vermilion.

run quietly, cautiously, three o'clock. She would find Phil there, haggard and wild, Edith stricken, Sam making frightful suggestions about dragging the river and notifying the police.

"We Lawrences can never hold up our heads after this again," she thought. Not that it mattered, if Ariel, frightened and sobered, were home, were safe!

Thirty miles more! Her face was burned by the hot wind, and her head splitting. Twenty milesten miles. Finally the swimming treetops of Clippersville. Gail's heart was suffocating her.

She said only incoherent farewells, as she descended from the back seat into the heavenly green shadiness of the old garden, and catching up her heavy suitcase ran for the side door.

On the threshold of the quiet, shaded kitchen she stopped short. Edith was sharing a light refection of artichokes and bread pudding with a book, "Martin Chuzzlewit." Ariel, dainty and cool, was sitting at the other end of the kitchen table, cleaning gloves in gaseline. For a moment revulsion of feeling made Gail feel actually dizzy and weak. But if Ariel saw anything amiss her smile of surprise and welcome gave no sign of it, and Edith's delight covered all other she could breathe again. emotions for a space. "Oh, Gail, we didn't expect you heavy dark Lawrence brows drawn about on all sides, strangely, as they did in dreams, "But tell us, tell us, tell us!" Edith pleaded.

"And what'd you do last night?" Gail could finally ask, when the swimming pool, the frocks, and the general excitement of Far Niente had been pretty generally reviewed. "Ariel was with Dorothy Camp. So the boys and I had to console each other!"
