Bethel Home Coming Plans Complete

The fiftieth anniversary home coming and union at the Bethel Methodist church scheduled for Friday, May 1, will feature an address at 3:00 p. m. by Rev. W. C. S. Pellowe of Saginaw. His subject will be "The Old Mill Stream" and will be worth while for those who can only attend a part of the day.

The celebration begins with a family basket picnic dinner at noon. Tea, coffee and ice cream will be furnished free to all who attend. Group games are planned for the children. Greetings and reminiscences from former members and pastors will occupy the early afternoon. A historical sketch of the beginnings of religious activities in the Bethel neighborhood, dating from the late sixties, has been prepared by Mrs. Kate Karr of Grand Rapids and will be included in the program.

The affair is open to the public and everyone interested is urged to attend.

Plan Wild Fowl Sanctuary on Cass

William Miller, Warren Wood and J. D. Tuckey are interested with others, in a waterfowl sanctuary along the Cass river, south of Cass City, and Mr. Miller has been in correspondence with state and national conservation departments regarding the establishment of the Cass River Waterfowl Refuge. This project, it is proposed, will start from the forks of the Cass river in Novesta township and run 4 1/2 miles west along the stream, with a width of approximately 100 yards on each side of the river.

It is understood the state will do the posting of the land, furnish wild decoys, and contribute wild rice and other seed for food for the fowls.

Office Closed Thursday Afternoons. Dr. P. A. Schenck's dental office will be closed on Thursday afternoons during May, June, July, August, September and October.—Advertisement.

LIVINGSTON—WILBER.

Miss Marian Livingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Livingston, was united in marriage to Mr. E. Clyde Wilber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Wilber of Brooklyn, Michigan, on Saturday, May 25, at the parsonage of St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal church in Detroit. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Doris Livingston, and the groom by his brother, Mr. Wayne Wilber.

The bride was gowned in a rose crepe dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilber left immediately following the wedding ceremony on a week's trip to Niagara Falls and other places of interest in the East.

The bride is a graduate of the Cass City high school, Class of '29. The couple will make their home in Detroit where both are employed.

Hurry to Pay Dog Tax in Month of May

Four hundred fifty dog owners paid their dog tax to County Treasurer Whittenburg in the period from May 18 to 27, and that official expected an equal number will do likewise in the last four days of this month to avoid the double penalty which becomes effective on Saturday, June 1.

Dog taxes could have been paid to township treasurers earlier in the year, but since March collections have been made by county treasurers. Present rates are: Male dog, $1.00; unsexed, $1.00; female, $2.00. The tax will be doubled commencing June 1.

Board Sets County Tax Rate at 7 Mills

The county allocation board, at a meeting on May 23, decided that the tax rate for county purposes in Tuscola will be set at 7 mills. In 1934, the rate was 5.3 mills. The 1935 rate may be lowered if the board of supervisors see fit to spread a debt service, but this they have failed to do in late years.

The debt service rate could have been established on obligations which existed previous to Dec. 8, 1932. At that time, the poor fund of the county was "in the red" for a sum approximating $50,000.00. Inquiry is being made to ascertain if a debt service rate may be made at this date for that obligation. Expenditures for the poor fund of the county have been increasing since 1932 and the poor fund has been more and more "in the red" and county funds are unusually low at this period in spite of a recent loan of $10,000 made in order to carry on the county's business.

The county allocation board made a rate of 8 mills for township and school purposes. Township officials have requested rates from nothing to 3 1/2 mills for their township funds. All schools have been allocated a minimum rate of 2 1/2 mills in order that they may share in the Thatcher act governing state grants to schools.

Five Injured in Auto Collision

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frutchey and daughter, Mrs. A. D. McIntyre, all of Saginaw, and well known in Cass City, were injured in an automobile collision eight miles north of Clare Sunday afternoon. Mr. Frutchey, president of the Frutchey Bean Co., received cuts on the nose and badly wrenched wrists; Mrs. Frutchey, dislocated and possibly fractured jaw; and Mrs. McIntyre, a scalp wound. Mr. and Mrs. Frutchey were able to be taken from a hospital to their home on Tuesday. Mrs. McIntyre was taken to her home after the accident.

Others in the second car who were injured are: C. W. Bower, Wellersville, Ohio, lacerations on one leg and tongue bitten through; in Clare hospital. James Brinkerhoff, 906 Beaver street, Wooster, Ohio, one kneecap fractured and one ankle badly sprained.

Brinkerhoff was recovering from a previous accident in which he had suffered a leg fracture and was unable to walk without the aid of crutches.

DEFORD LOSES ITS ELDEST RESIDENT

C. J. Malcolm Taught in Rural Schools for a 30-Year Period.

Deford lost its oldest citizen Sunday in the death of Charles J. Malcolm, a resident of Novesta township for 55 years. He had been ill about a week. Funeral services were conducted at the Deford M. E. church on Wednesday afternoon, by Rev. W. L. Jones, pastor of the church. Entombment was in the Novesta cemetery.

Charles John Malcolm was born in Scotland, Ontario, on June 6, 1843. At the age of 19, he commenced teaching in the schools near that place, and later came to Michigan, where he taught in rural schools near Imlay City and Lapeer. He came to Deford in 1880 and taught several winter terms in Tuscola county. He was a school teacher for a 30-year period. Summers were spent in cultivating his farm, one mile west and one mile south of Deford. He was employed for several years as a monument salesman and served for eight years as postmaster at Deford.

Mr. Malcolm married Miss Jane Westbrook while he was a resident of Scotland, Ontario. She died 25 years ago and eight years later he was united in marriage with Bessie Kelley of Wilsonville, Ontario. She passed away two years ago. A year after coming to Novesta township, Mr. Malcolm lost his farm buildings in the big forest fire of 1881 and he and his wife and three children saved their lives in the conflagration by going down into the farm well where they remained for a period of about 12 hours.

Mr. Malcolm was a charter member of the M. E. church at Deford and a Maccabee. He is survived by three children, H. D. Malcolm and Mrs. Nellie Lester, both of Deford, and Mrs. William Mathison of Farmington.

Beef Breeders See Better Days Ahead

Higher prices for beef cattle have aroused the interest of Michigan livestock men who have planned three cattle feeders' tours and a consignment sale of beef cattle within the next three weeks, according to the animal husbandry division at Michigan State College. The feeders' tours will be held in Lenawee county May 29; Calhoun county, June 6; and Kalamazoo county, June 7. The annual consignment sale at Gladwin is set for June 13.

On the tours, stops will be made at farms where a total of more than 17,000 cattle are on feed. The different rations used and the finish and gains acquired by the cattle while on these feeds will show the possibilities of utilizing Michigan feed stuffs in producing quality beef.

Cattle for the Gladwin sale were selected by Sidney Smith, Orion; Harold Harwood, Ionia; Milo Shaw, Middleville; and Joe Purdy, Swartz Creek, as a committee representing the breeders of the different kinds of beef cattle. All breeds of beef cattle will be in the sale.

This consignment sale is intended to assist in placing first class breeding stock in the hands of newcomers in the livestock business. Cattle are taken from the best herds in the state and are sold at auction for such prices as they will bring.

NEITHER TARDY NOR ABSENT IN EIGHT YEARS AT SCHOOL

Over one hundred students and parents enjoyed a picnic Saturday at the Crawford school in celebration of the close of a very successful school year. A potluck dinner was served at noon after which a program was given and various races held. A ball game between the men and the boys ended in a 19 to 13 victory for the men. Four students of the school were neither tardy nor absent during the year. They are Bobby Wilson, Kenneth

Warner, Wilma Warner and Norman Crawford. The last named has the distinction of being neither tardy nor absent during his eight years of school. Miss Alison Milligan, who has taught the Crawford school for the last four years, will teach at Columbia Corners the coming year and Miss Mary Alice Gibbs of Caro has been engaged to teach the Crawford school.

ELECTED TREASURER OF OUTDOOR ADV. ASSOCIATION

The men attended the annual convention of the society in Saginaw on Thursday and Friday. Samuel Champion was re-elected treasurer of the association. Other officers elected are James G. O'Dwyer, Jackson, president; W. W. Rogers, Lansing, vice president; L. A. Kremer, Detroit, secretary. Benton Harbor was chosen for the 1936 convention.

300 ODD LAWS HAVE BEEN PLACED ON BOOKS

Michigan Legislature Closed 1935 Session on Friday Night.

By Frank D. Brown, Special Correspondent.

Another legislature has come and gone. In its wake have been left some 300 odd laws to be placed on the statute books to guide and regulate Michigan citizens and Michigan business. Amid the confusion and horseplay so characteristic of the declining days of every session, the gavel of Lieut.-Gov. Read and Speaker Schroeder resounded throughout the capitol corridors late Friday night, bringing to a close the 1935 deliberations and a session that has not been without its interesting, though sometimes unsavory, aspects.

The 58th legislature is to be remembered more for the bills it did not pass than it is for those that it gave its approbation. In the final analysis this can in one way be considered a "break" for the public. Although approximately 300 bills were passed, this number is comparatively small to that of previous assemblies. Especially is this true in view of the fact that more than 1,050 measures, good, bad and indifferent, were thrown into the hoppers of the lawmaking mill during the five-month grind.

Not all of those bills approved and laid on the governor's desk will become law. Already the executive has exercised his veto power on several sent to him earlier in the session and the likelihood exists that others' will meet the same fate.

It is too early to secure a composite picture of what really was accomplished. Not until Gov. Fitzgerald has had the opportunity of scrutinizing the bills before him and the lawmakers return 20 days hence for their final adjournment will it be definitely known what was done. Even then the true merit of much of the legislation will be an unknown quantity until it has been in operation over the period of the next several months.

That the administration's program of economy and governmental reorganization was wrecked by certain recalcitrant legislators, so much is evident. Of the comprehensive agenda submitted to the

New Store Opens Here on June 5

A new store to be known as The General Store will be opened in the Ashley block, next to the Opera House block, on West Main street, on Wednesday, June 5, with a stock of new furniture, rugs, dishes, paints, radios, and refrigerators. Harry Bowman is the manager. The store building has been completely remodeled. A new maple floor has been laid and up-to-date lighting equipment has been installed. Walls are done in ivory, cream and light buff. A wonderful transformation has been made in the appearance of the place.

"See Harry" is an expression which will be used in the store's advertising.

RAWSON WINS 440-YARD DASH FOR C. S. BEARCATS

Ralph Rawson of Cass City, at Central State Teachers' College, won first place in the 440-yard dash in a recent track meet between Alma College and the Central State Bearcats. His time was 55 seconds. He also ran anchor man on the defeated relay team.

FEW CHANGES IN CHURCH APPOINTEES

Rev. G. A. Spittler Named Pastor Here for Third Year.

Rev. George A. Spittler is welcomed back as pastor of the Evangelical church at Cass City, having been appointed to serve the local church as minister for the third year. Similar privileges of welcoming the return of pastors are extended to a large percentage of congregations in the state inasmuch as there were few changes made in pastorates when Bishop G. E. Epp read the appointments at the closing session of the Michigan State conference of Evangelical churches at Elkton Sunday afternoon. The Elkton high school auditorium where the last session of the conference was held was filled to capacity.

The only changes made in the Thumb section of the state is at Caro where Rev. W. F. Boettcher is the new minister, coming to that point from Buchanan, to which place Rev. C. A. Sanders, pastor at Caro for five years, has been assigned. But three changes were made in the Bay City district, five in the Detroit district, and six in the Kalamazoo district.

The following is the list of ministerial appointments: Bay City District—Conrad A. Wilkie, district superintendent. Bay City, W. T. Banden; Brown City, S. Young; Caro, W. F. Boettcher; Cass City, G. A. Spittler; Chesaning, H. A. Gunyan; Coleman, C. B. Turn to page 8, please.

Public Morals Fail as Mosquitoes Sing

Mosquitoes, those corrupters of public morals which sing as their victims wall are unnecessary evils whose numbers can be reduced to bearable limits by destroying their most obvious breeding grounds, according to the entomology department at Michigan State College. Mr. Mosquito is a fine gentleman who goes about the countryside in the evening, humming a gay tune, and quieting his appetite by sipping plant juices. He carries a wireless antennae which enables him to locate his public menace of a wife if the screams of her victims leave any doubt of her whereabouts.

Mrs. Mosquito is just a pain in the neck or other exposed parts of the human anatomy. When she is not laying eggs to perpetuate her worthless species, she is stabbing some one in the back. Along with the pain and nervous shock transmitted to persons bitten, the mosquito deposits any disease germs she may have acquired from previous victims. Malaria, yellow fever, and other diseases are transmitted solely or in part by mosquitoes.

The duplicity of the female mosquito is proved by her stealth in seeking places to deposit her eggs. They must be placed in water which will not dry up before the eggs hatch nor be so disturbed by winds that the larvae can not come to the surface to breathe or to escape.

Minister Addresses the Unknown Soldier

The climax to the annual Memorial Sunday sermon by Rev. Charles Bayless at the union service in the Baptist church Sunday evening was reached when the preacher quoted from The Congressional Record for June 16, 1934, wherein a Christian minister who had seen service overseas in the Great War indulges in a stirring confessional. The passage, greatly abridged, is as follows: "It was an inspired idea to deposit the body of an unrecognized soldier in the national memorial of the Great War. . . . So this is the outcome of western civilization, in which democracy and science have had their widest opportunity, that the whole nation pauses, its acclamations rise, its patriotic oratory flourishes around the unrecognized body of a soldier blown to bits on the battlefield. . . . It was the war lords themselves who picked him out as a symbol of war. So be it! As a symbol of war we accept him from their hands. . . . "I have an account to settle. . . . today between my soul and the Unknown Soldier. . . . I received him. Turn to page 5, please.

Bake Sale Saturday.

Ladies of the Presbyterian church will conduct a bake sale at Wanner & Matthews' store on Saturday, June 1, commencing at 1:00 p. m.—Advertisement.

STARMANN—SHERMAN.

Dr. Bernard H. Starmann announces the marriage of his sister, Miss Martha Clementina Starmann, to Mr. Arthur Frost Sherman of Saint Joseph, Missouri. The ceremony, performed by Rev. Charles F. Buddy, of St. Joseph's Cathedral, a particular friend of the family, took place at 4:00 p. m. Saturday, May 25, in Chicago. They were attended by Miss Lucy Lee Wadsworth of Port Huron and Dr. B. H. Starmann of Cass City.

Mr. Sherman is district manager of northwest Missouri and Kansas for the Investors Syndicate of Minneapolis, Minn. The bride has been the guest of her brother, Dr. Starmann, since the death of her mother a few weeks ago, and has made many friends during her short stay in Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman will be at home at 1009 Powell street, Saint Joseph, Missouri, after June 1.

7 Rotarians Have a Birthday Party

A new feature in programs was instituted in the Rotary club Tuesday when seven members were honor guests at a party with a birthday cake, gifts and "Uncle Neal."

Guy Landon presided as Uncle Neal, and before an improvised microphone, announced the name of each little fellow, who came up in turn and greeted the folks back home. Each honor guest received a gift after he had deposited a number of pennies equal to his age. Uncle Neal, in an astrological reading, depicted truths and others distinctly related facts regarding their lives. Ashton Tindale, reputed to be the eldest boy in the group, cut the birthday cake.

Pearl Schenck received a prize for estimating the nearest to the number of pennies deposited, his guess being 338. The correct number was 340.

Honor guests included "Eddie" Corpron, "Willie" Campbell, Meredith Auten and Ashton Tindale, who were heralded into this good old world in April, and "Frankie" Reid, Paul Allured and Guy Landon, who claim May as the month to celebrate their anniversaries. Other members of the club are looking forward to "their parties" in later months.

Carries Mail Last Time Today

Today (Friday) is the last day that Walter C. Schell will deliver mail on Route 4 out of Cass City. Tomorrow he is retired by the United States Postal department, not because of inefficiency, but because regulations say every carrier must be retired after 30 years of service.

Mr. Schell graduated from the Cass City high school in 1901, and after teaching four years in rural schools, he received his appointment as rural carrier when two carriers were added to the local post office in making Tuscola a full county system in mail delivery. The route was laid out in 26 1/2 miles and the salary was $60 a month.

The first two summers, he pedaled a bicycle every other day over his course, but in the winter season, with some of the roads a ridge of dirt between mud puddles, horses were daily necessary. In fact, up until 10 years ago, horses were used more or less, double and single, as the season demanded. Eight horses were employed during Mr. Schell's 30 years as carrier, two of them serving 12-year periods. In those earlier years, none of his patrons received a daily paper.

A motorcycle was purchased in his third year on the route, but that was retired when parcel post was instituted in 1915. That year he bought his first automobile and he has used five cars altogether.

In 1916, the route was extended to 29 miles. In his 30 years as carrier, he has delivered 1,000,000 papers.

SHEEP DIPPING IN TUSCOLA CO. THIS WEEK

Sheep dipping and drenching will be supervised on Thursday and Friday of this week by Delmar LaVoi, Sheep Specialist of Michigan State College, and E. L. Benton, County Agricultural Agent, at the farm of Otto Monte in his cement tank on Thursday, Decoration Day, and at the farm of Paul Leix, south and west of Mayville on Friday in the county portable tank.

Several flock members are expected to bring their sheep to these places for treatment and will have a chance to become acquainted with Mr. LaVoi who is considered an authority regarding sheep. The expense of their dipping and drenching is pro rata per sheep making the total a few cents only per head. Other schedules for various localities in the county are now being arranged by Mr. Benton.

TUSCOLA ONE OF FEW VOTING "NO"

Farmers Oppose Wheat Production Control 149 to 122.

Tuscola county is one of a few counties in the state to register a vote of protest against the current policies of the AAA in reference to wheat production control. One hundred twenty-two voted to continue the control, while 149 voted "no" in Tuscola.

Early returns showed that farmers of the nation favored the continuation of the wheat adjustment program by 179,029 votes to 28,330.

The official result of the Tuscola county summary of the wheat production election ballots total as found by the Wheat Allotment Committee is: One hundred fifty-five signers of 1933-1935 contracts voted of which 115 voted yes and 41 voted no, regarding a continuation of the wheat production adjustment program after the 1935 crop year.

One hundred thirteen non-signers of wheat allotment contracts for the same period of which seven voted yes and 106 voted no.

The polling places voted as follows:

	Yes	No
Caro	50	34
Mayville	2	13
Reese	10	16
Cass City	8	9
Unionville	7	31
Gagetown	6	5
Fairgrove	15	18

Vassar	11	13

Large Audiences See "Crazy Politics"

Through the cooperation of 128 local people, the presentation of "Crazy Politics" was made a successful venture and crowded houses at the auditorium on the nights of May 23 and 24 greeted the performers. Twenty-five were in the speaking cast, while others appeared in the German band, the men's caucus, the singing politicians' group, four choruses, and other groups. Again it was demonstrated that Cass City can produce.

PLAN TO MAKE 1935 THEIR BANNER YEAR

A meeting of the 1935 Cass City Livestock Club was held at the high school and the following officers were elected: President, Arlington Hoffman; vice president, Meredith McAlpine; secretary, Lewis McGrath; treasurer, Grant Hutchinson; advisory board, Dan Hennessy, Frank Hutchinson and Milton Hoffman; local club adviser, Willis Campbell.

An executive meeting was held Wednesday evening and plans for the year were discussed. Present plans are to again show a carload of Southdown lambs at Buffalo in December, individual lambs at the Junior show at Detroit, and individuals at Kansas City as well as a full line-up at the Michigan State Fair of all kinds of stock.

Any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 20 wishing to join the 1935 livestock club should see either "Barney" Hoffman or Willis Campbell at once. There is no limit to the number of new members and the benefits boys and girls get from this type of supervised farm practice. The club plans to make 1935 their banner year.

Mr. Campbell has located three excellent Holstein calves and two Chester White gilts that will make good foundation stock for beginners.

Helpers Needed at Vacation School

The Community Daily Vacation Church School scheduled for the three weeks term (Monday, June 10 to Friday, June 28) at Cass City high school, is being staffed by a committee on personnel, of which Rev. Charles Bayless is chairman. Some vacation school workers of former years have been secured for the 1935 term. Some new assistants are being recruited by each of the four resident ministers who will take active parts in the daily routine of the school as in former years. There are a few vacancies on the staff, especially in the Beginners and Intermediate departments. Any students of high school or college age who would like to acquire practical experience in working with a group under adult supervision are requested to get in touch with Mr. Bayless immediately.

The courses for the various departments will be as follows: Turn to page 5, please.

300 ODD LAWS HAVE BEEN PLACED ON BOOKS

Concluded from first page. Lawmakers by the governor last January, only one recommendation has been accepted and adopted, and that is more or less of minor importance. Approval was given to a proposal which merges the corporation division of the department of state with that of the state securities commission.

Whether or not a special session of the legislature will be called this fall remains a matter of deep speculation. Like most other governors, the present executive is not particularly anxious to add to his responsibilities of running the state by calling the solons back into session, albeit, developments of the next few months may make it incumbent that he summon their return in order to accomplish all that he has set out to do.

The delinquent tax situation lacks solution; the PWA enabling bills are lost in a maze of constitutional argument; and certain budget items present a problem in balancing the sheet. This early, following on the heels of adjournment, there is on foot in Wayne and Oakland counties a movement to secure some action on delinquent taxes through a special session. It is possible that enough pressure can be brought to bear on the governor to result in an extra session sometime around September in which event some of the tasks left undone during the regular meeting might be taken care of.

During a special session the chief executive enjoys an advantage that he does not when the two houses are concerned with their regular biennial confab. Only such matters as the governor desires to submit to them can be considered by the lawmakers on special call.

Outstanding among such bills as passed are: the $22,500,000 school aid appropriation and the old age pension and welfare appropriation.

The school aid bill, now in Gov. Fitzgerald's hands for over a week, is considered a compromise measure between the school people and the executive. He is expected to sign it but on the other hand there exists a possibility that the schools might not receive the full appropriation. If the money is not available, the state, naturally, will not be able to pay it out. It all depends upon future tax collections and this may prove a joker. In the end, the schools run the risk of receiving only an amount approximating the $20,000,000 originally insisted upon by the administration.

Repeal of the unenforceable and unproductive head tax enacted by the 1923 legislature and the setting of a new old age pension system was consummated during the closing days of the session. An annual state appropriation of $2,000,000 to be matched by a like amount from the federal government is intended to finance the pensions.

Pensions will be granted to persons over 70 until 1940 when the age limit will be reduced to 65 years. There is a proviso in the bill, however, that permits the dropping of the age limit to 65 before 1940 should adequate revenues become available in the meantime. The administration of the pensions will be placed for the most part in the hands of county boards to be composed of the county agent, the superintendent of the poor and the probate judge.

Once defeated in the house, Senator Munshaw's prison products bill was taken from the table during the closing hours and passed by the representatives. As sent to the governor it removes prison industries from competition with free labor and makes operative in Michigan the protective devices of the federal act which prevents dumping of such products from other states on the local market.

The Flynn bill, introduced by Senator Felix H. H. Flynn (R), Cadillac, providing for exemption from the three per cent sales tax of goods used in "agricultural producing or industrial processing" has been signed into law. The loss of revenue to the state from this enactment is estimated variously at one-half to one million dollars annually. The proposal to likewise exempt certain foodstuffs from the tax was lost by the wayside some days ago.

Summing up the minor, yet relative important accomplishments of this legislature, the following bills must be included:

The Dunkel-Baldwin bill making it a felony to advocate the overthrow of the government by force.

The Thatcher bill permitting voters in any school district to vote a tax for tuition in excess of that provided by the state.

The integrated bar bill giving the supreme court supervisory power over rules and regulations affecting the legal profession.

The bills setting up a civil service commission for the state police.

And, the bills transferring control of the State Psychopathic hospital to the regents of the University of Michigan; the giving to the State Board of Education control of the schools for the blind and deaf; and, the abandonment of the state school at Coldwater.

BEEF BREEDERS SEE BETTER DAYS AHEAD

Concluded from first page. A banquet program to be held at Gladwin on the day of the sale will have a list of speakers including James Thomson, State Commissioner of Agriculture; C. D. Lowe, U. S. Department of Agriculture; Professor G. A. Brown, M. S. C.; Senator Sam H. Pangborn, Bad Axe; Professor J. D. Hayes, University of Ohio; and Milo Grinnell, editor of the Michigan Farmer. C. V. Ballard, M. S. C., will be toastmaster at the banquet.

Although beef prices are better, the numbers of cattle in the United States are greater than they were in 1928. Reductions in cattle on drought stricken ranges in the West accounted for the heavier slaughter last year. There are only four per cent less cattle on Michigan farms this year than last, and the cattle population in Michigan last year was an all-time high. The cattle removed from Michigan farms have been most all animals which could well be spared in the interest of more profit from the herds.

PUBLIC MORALS FAIL AS MOSQUITOES SING

Concluded from first page. when they are ready to leave the water as adults.

Applications of oil on still water kill the mosquito larvae because they must breathe at the surface, but people who have placed oil on stagnant pools about their homes are astounded to find plenty of mosquitoes appearing about the premises. These people believe that the story about pouring oil on troubled waters is a lot of hooey. They consider the oil wasted and that the scientists who urged them to use it are a lot of crack pots who ought to be rolling hoops somewhere out of the way of busy people. The scientists are a long suffering people who bear this unjust accusation without reply.

The answer is that the insidious female mosquito has check-mated the oil pouring program by laying eggs in places where most citizens would never think to look for them. Tin cans thrown out behind the smoke house are greeted with glee by egg laying mosquitoes, eave-troughs which fail to drain are good incubators, water pots in furnaces are accepted if they are left filled with water after the fire goes out, and cisterns and rain barrels are refuges in time of trouble.

One of the pleasant facts about mosquitoes is that there are several species and that they work in shifts, when one gang finishes its blood letting the other crew attacks the weakened victims. The house mosquito is that pleasant beast which lies in wait until you are ready to go to sleep and then pounces on you. The malaria mosquito entertains you on the porch after supper while the house mosquito is ambushed waiting for you to retire.

All Michigan mosquitoes lay their eggs in water and most of them travel only short distances from the places where they hatch. They can be controlled if stagnant pools are drained or coated with oil and all other breeding places searched out and either drained or treated with oil film. Water in cisterns can be coated with oil without ruining the supply of soft water. Tiny puddles of water in ruts or in depressions can be filled. An early start on the mosquito control campaign will save a lot of annoyance and may prevent the outbreak of serious diseases.

U. S. NAVY AIRCRAFT IS SECOND TO NONE

Planes Equal or Superior to Any Other Nation.

Washington.—America's "fleet that flies" is equipped with planes and motors equal or superior to those of any other nation in the world, and still further advances are now in sight, Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, declares in his annual report to Claude A. Swanson, secretary of the navy.

"The bureau . . . is upheld in this opinion," the document adds, "by the reports of various committees of congress which have during the past year inquired exhaustively into the subject. Every effort has been made to expend the funds at the bureau's disposal in such manner that the efficiency, reliability and usefulness of the aircraft and equipment furnished the operating forces would be the maximum possible."

Hails Expansion Statute. The most progressive step taken by the government in the development of naval aviation during the fiscal year 1934, Admiral King said, was passage of the Vinson-Trammell act authorizing aircraft construction commensurate with the strength of the "treaty navy."

"The 1,000 plane program prescribed in 1926 (as a result of the Morrow airplane board's recommendations) did not provide for ships authorized and constructed subsequent to that year," Admiral King says, "with the result that new ships had to be provided with aircraft by curtailment of other activities for which provision had been made, so that the ratio of aircraft to ship strength constantly decreased. The Vinson-Trammell act removes this restriction and a tentative program providing an orderly expansion of the naval air arm over a period of five to seven years has been prepared by the bureau of aeronautics and submitted to the Navy department for consideration and approval."

Greater Range Sought. "Constant effort is being made to improve the characteristics of naval aircraft, particularly in regard to speed, range and striking power," the report adds. "Increased employment of long-range patrol bombing squadrons is expected. Future plans involve service tests for larger seaplanes of this type with great range, bomb loads and speed. "It is desired to increase the striking power of carrier-based scouting planes by including arrangements for dropping heavy bombs in diving attack. The development of such an airplane is now under way."

Admiral King points out that the speed range of the navy's latest type planes has undergone marked improvement during the last year.

PROTECT YOUR LIFE AND THE LIVES OF OTHERS!

THERE are three questions you should ask yourself about the tires you buy:

- 1—"Will the non-skid tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"
- 2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"
- 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

Answer No. 1—Harvey S. Firestone early realized the value of tire traction and safety and was the first to design an All Rubber Non-Skid Tire. Through the years Firestone has led the way in the design and development of tires with most effective non-skid treads.

Firestone does not depend solely on traction and non-skid tests made by its own engineers—it employs a leading University to make impartial tests for non-skid efficiency of its tires, and their most recent report shows that Firestone High Speed Tires stop the car 15% quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires.

Answer No. 2—Blowout protection must be built into a tire. Friction and heat within the tire is the greatest cause of blowouts. Firestone protects its tires from friction and heat by a patented process which soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber. This is an additional process known as Gum-Dipping, by which every 100 pounds of cotton cords absorb eight pounds of rubber. This extra process costs more and is not used in any other make of tire.

Leading race drivers investigate the inbuilt qualities of the tires they use, because their very lives depend upon their tires, and they always select Firestone Tires for their daring speed runs. In fact, Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the gruelling Indianapolis 500-mile race for fifteen consecutive years, and they were on the 5,000-pound car that Ab Jenkins drove 3,000 miles in 23½ hours on the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, at an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, without tire trouble of any kind. These amazing performance records are proof of the greatest blowout protection ever known.

Answer No. 3—Thousands of car owners reporting mileage records of 40,000 to 75,000 miles, is proof of the long mileage and greater economy by equipping with Firestone High Speed Tires. Let these unequalled performance records be your buying guide.

Go to the Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store or Firestone Tire Dealer and let him equip your car with Firestone Tires, the safest and most economical tires built.

MEMORIAL DAY.

This week a grateful nation pauses in the inexorable march of time to pay tender tribute to its heroic dead. Memorial Day was instituted sixty-seven years ago by the Grand Army of the Republic, shortly following the close of the Civil War.

In the march of the Republic since that historic struggle between the North and the South the Spanish War veterans and the American Legion have become a living and breathing part of this hallowed day. Under their keeping the meaning and purpose of its originators will be carried forward into the coming years.

INDEBTEDNESS.

Frederick Pinney, representing the boys' work departments of the Community and Rotary clubs of Cass City, appeared before the village council Monday night, requesting that body to prepare and make available the room in the second story of the village hall for the use of the Boy Scouts and other youth organizations.

Such a contribution, involving a heavy sacrifice in time and energy, has been made for Cass City boys for about six years by Rev. Wm. R. Curtis, who just recently resigned from his position as scoutmaster here.

As a contribution to newspaper decency we noticed that none of the pictures used in connection with "Mother's Day" showed her smoking a cigarette.

We can understand the enthusiasm of the motorist who succeeds in getting 21 miles to the gallon; but never the cute alec who thinks it smart to get 80 m. p. h. out of a quart.

In respect to King Edward's jubilee anniversary a hill tribe of India resolved not to steal cattle for an entire year. This being the third year of the reign of Franklin couldn't the grafting politicians agree to something like that regarding relief funds.

THE REAL MENACE.

Roger W. Babson, economist, sounds a note of warning over the huge spending program of the government and over the prospect of building a gigantic political machine at the expense of the American taxpayer.

industry. While Babson deplors squandering national capital, he deplors far more the squandering of national character. In waste of the latter he finds the greatest danger to healthy reconstruction.

A GRAVE PROBLEM.

Ten persons were reported to have lost their lives in traffic accidents during "Safety Education Week," grim reminder that something more drastic than educational coercion is needed to weed these potential killers from the highways. Right now nobody claims to have found the right solution to the problem, but eventually a way will be discovered for their elimination.

LIFE'S OPPORTUNITIES.

Rural and city schools, and soon the higher institutions of learning will be closed for the summer months. It is the period of the school year when the youthful graduate will be faced for the first time with the necessity of discovering some place where education will be helpful in getting them placed to good advantage.

Perhaps a hick town is one of those wide open spots along the highway where central can tell you whether it is a boy or a girl.

Damage was confined to the kitchen.

The weather man favored farmers on Monday and Tuesday with copious showers which were greatly appreciated by the agriculturalists, but were rather inopportune for the grade operetta which was scheduled for Monday evening on the school lawn. Showers that day caused a postponement until Tuesday and a heavy rain on Tuesday made a postponement necessary until Wednesday evening. The Chronicle goes to press too early this week to give a report on Wednesday night's weather, but indications earlier in the day were that the operetta would be favored with fair weather at last.

Gov. Fitzgerald Signs Flynn Bill Exempting Farm and Industrial Supplies From Sales Tax

Gov. Fitzgerald on May 23 signed Senator Felix H. H. Flynn's bill to exempt from the 3% sales tax goods purchased for consumption or use in industrial processing or agricultural production. The Flynn Act will eliminate $500,000 or more in sales taxes paid by farmers and manufacturers on supplies and machinery annually, according to the Michigan State Farm Bureau. The Farm Bureau and 180 associated farmers' elevators and creameries, and manufacturers were at odds with the State Board of Tax Administration in the courts and elsewhere for nearly two years before the dispute about pyramiding of sales tax was settled amicably in the legislature. The Flynn Act is now in effect.

Farm groups in this territory that were associated with the Farm Bureau in seeking exemption of seeds, feeds, fertilizers, machinery and other farm supplies were: Tuscola County Farm Bureau, and Farm Produce Company, Cass City; Caro Farmers' Elevator.

Below are the sales taxes paid by farmers May 23 on materials and equipment for use or consumption in producing farm products for eventual sale at retail. The Flynn Act provides that property bought for use or consumption in agricultural production is no longer subject to sales tax. Figures compiled by Michigan State Farm Bureau, Lansing, Michigan.

LARGE AUDIENCES SEE "CRAZY POLITICS"

Concluded from first page. vide persons of ability, who draw large audiences for home talent plays.

The plot of the show was built around the campaign for mayor in a small town. In an effort to pick a candidate that would appeal to the people, a woman was nominated. This was done with the intention of running an intellectual and dignified campaign, with the slogan, "The hand that rocks the cradle will save the city." However, the woman candidate failed to arrive, and a newspaper reporter dressed up in woman's clothes and impersonated the missing woman. The reporter, who played the fake mayor, did not like the plan for a dignified campaign, and decided to run a "Whoopee," syncopated song-and-dance campaign. Complications arose that were extremely funny, and the climax was an exciting and completely unexpected one.

The production was sponsored by St. Pancratius church. Net proceeds were divided evenly between the church and the Universal Producing Co., each receiving $137.67.

CARRIES MAIL LAST TIME TODAY

Concluded from first page. carrier, he has travelled 22 miles continuously and may be said to be thoroughly familiar with the scenery along that highway. Today he is delivering mail to some patrons he carried to when he first started in the service. Many of his patrons are the children and grandchildren of the original list. Of the 60 patrons of the first year, 10 are still receiving mail on Route 4. They are: Joseph Parrott, Rinerd Knoblet, Wm. Little, John J. Hayes, Robt. Spaven, O. A. Hendrick, Anthony Buetler, Thos. Little, Percy Read and Lafayette Goodell.

Mr. Schell has served under five postmasters: H. S. Wickware, J. C. Corkins, J. M. Dodge, Mrs. E. Hunter and Arthur Little. He is the father of five children. Two have graduated from college and the last will graduate from high school next week. A forty-acre farm Mr. Schell owned and worked when he started carrying mail has grown to a 75-acre tract. Recently he purchased 100 acres of the Sterling swamp and timber land and sugar bush in section 26, Elkland. Probably he can find enough to do to keep him out of mischief even if he retires tomorrow as mail carrier.

MINISTER ADDRESSES THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Concluded from first page. I deceived myself first, unwittingly, and then I deceived him, assuring him that good consequence could come out of that. As a matter of hard-headed biological fact, what good can come out of that? Mad civilization, you cannot sacrifice on bloody altars the best of your breed and expect anything to compensate for that. My friends, I am not trying to make you sentimental about this.

I want you to be hard-headed. We can have on the one side this monstrous thing or we can have Christ, but we cannot have both.

"O my country, stay out of war! Cooperate with the nations in every movement that has any hope for peace. O church of Christ, stay out of war! Withdraw from every alliance that maintains or encourages it. And O my soul! stay out of war! I renounce war. I renounce war because of what it does to our own men. I renounce war because of what it compels us to do to our enemies, bombing their mothers in villages, starving their children by blockades. I renounce war for its consequences, for the lies it lives on and propagates, for the undying hatreds its arouses, for the dictatorships it puts in place of democracy, for the starvation that stalks after it.

"I renounce war and never again, directly or indirectly, will I sanction or support another! O Unknown Soldier, in penitent reparation I make you that pledge."

HELPERS NEEDED AT VACATION SCHOOL

Concluded from first page. partments are: "Let's Go Out-of-Doors" (Beginners); "Exploring God's Out-of-Doors" (Primary); "Living in Our Community, with the emphasis on "being Christian neighbors," (Juniors); and "We All Need Each Other" (Intermediates). The subjects for study involve the use of the Bible, Christian hymns and poetry, simple materials gathered from the out-of-doors, and Christian biography. They are skillfully adapted to both the vacation-attitude of the children, and to their varying abilities in the different age groups. The text-books for 1935 are those for the second part of a three-year plan, prepared by an inter-church commission of the International Council of Religious Education.

POTENTIAL RUNS CAUGHT AT THE PLATE

The Caro game was interrupted at the end of the sixth inning by a persistent rain that prevented further play, giving Cass City a 1-0 victory. The six innings that were played were the best offered for the home fans this season. Both sides caught potential runs at the plate by exciting relays to high-light their good defensive play. Graham scored the only run of the game when he singled, stole second, went to third on an overthrow at second and scored on McNaughton's infield hit. Graham allowed the visitors but three safeties while the Maroon men collected six.

Against Vassar, the Hilltoppers opened a hit attack and outscored their opponents 9-7. Among the 14 hits made by Cass City were home runs by Graham and Donnelly and two triples by McNaughton. Although Vassar got but five safeties, they received six walks and scored seven runs.

The game with Mayville scheduled for Tuesday was postponed and will be played on Monday, June 2.

SAFETY WEEK BENEFITS.

Michigan has just concluded its annual safety education week, a period set aside for the purpose of arousing public opinion to a realization of the responsibilities that go with the operation of a motor vehicle. Among accident causes stressed during the campaign were inattention of drivers, driving too fast for existing conditions, failing to slow down at intersections, incautious approach to pedestrians, driving while fatigued, driving while under the influence of alcohol, pedestrians running into highways and stepping from behind obstructions.

Most motorists will give respectful heed to sensible suggestions regarding the safe operation of their cars at all times under all conditions. Others will not. There is a certain number heedless to every warning, which explains the reason why a number of persons were killed in traffic accidents during the very week the campaign was in progress. The great problem facing enforcement officials is to find some way to ban the reckless driver from the highways. It will be a difficult task, but eventually some solution will be found. The fact that 943 persons lost their lives and 10,736 were injured in traffic accidents in Michigan last year is a challenge to every citizen. Somehow, some way, this useless sacrifice of human life must be brought to an end.

Record Reigns

Louis XVI's reign of 72 years, from 1643 to 1715, is the longest in modern history. King Pepi II of the sixth Dynasty ascended the throne about 2568 B. C., at the age of six and reigned for more than 90 years. Emperor Francis Joseph of Austro-Hungary reigned nearly 68 years; Queen Victoria of Great Britain nearly 64 years; George III of Great Britain 60 years, Pedro II of Brazil 58 years.

The Bulldog

Although the bulldog is no longer a utility animal, his influence on the canine race has been considerable. It is said that even in its most diluted form the blood of the bulldog transmits its qualities to every descendant, and that his indomitable courage has been passed on to every breed with which he has been crossed.

New Device to Improve Police Marksmanship

Los Angeles.—Police officers may soon be equipped with an attachment for their service pistols which will make each officer a deadly marksman in the dark.

The device, known as the automatic night light, the invention of A. B. Scott, Los Angeles engineer, soon will be in quantity production, although offered for sale only to city, county and state peace officers.

The invention, which fits securely on the muzzle of a regulation police pistol, consists of a small flash bulb, a clover-leaf shaped aperture and a system of lenses. In operation it throws a clover-leaf shaped beam along the path of the bullet, with the bullet striking the point where the inner points of the four beams of light meet. The secret of the device lies in the lenses, which enable the light to illuminate the object aimed at, although a person in front of the pistol cannot see the rays.

Each set of the equipment will bear a serial number and sales will be registered just as the sale of pistols is now recorded.

Rubber

The sap of the rubber tree, known as latex, looks like rubber, suspended in the form of microscopic particles, much as is the butterfat in cream. Like milk, the latex will spoil on standing and so must be worked into rubber as soon as possible. This process is no longer carried out by the tedious method of evaporating the latex over a smoky fire. Instead, acetic acid is added to the latex, throwing out the rubber as a white, sticky clot. The rubber is then pressed into slabs and dried and is ready for shipment to the manufacturer.—Chicago Tribune.

Fire in Grate for 133 Years

For 133 years a fire has burned in a grate in the isolated Saltersgate inn near Pickering, England, and it probably will burn for another 100. The blaze was lighted in the days of the stage coach and never has gone out. In the olden times passengers arrived at all hours of the day and night and always demanded a fire at which they could get warm. The inn keeper decided it was better to keep the fire always burning than to start it afresh when he heard the coachhorn. When railways succeeded coaches, no one thought of extinguishing it.

The upper 60 feet of the monument is marble.—Literary Digest.

Lesson for June 2

OUR DAY OF WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 100; John 4:20-24; Colossians 3:15-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.—John 4:24.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Lord's Day.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Lord's Day.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Should We Do on Sunday?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What We Do When We Really Worship.

1. The Origin of the Sabbath

(Gen. 2:2, 3).

When God had completed the heavens and the earth he desisted from creative action. Since his creative work was finished in six days, he ceased from action on the seventh day, which was, therefore, called the Sabbath or rest day. The Sabbath was not a Mosaic but an Edenic institution. It is older by centuries than the Sabbath given to Israel at Sinai.

11. The Sabbath Given to Israel

(Exod. 20:8-11).

It was made a peculiar sign of covenant relation between the chosen people and God (Deut. 5:11-15). It enjoins a twofold obligation:

1. Work through six days (v. 9). Work was God's primary thought for men (Gen. 2:15). It expresses man's normal condition. The command to work six days is just as binding as the command to rest on the seventh day.

2. Rest on the seventh day (v. 10). There must be cessation from work on the Sabbath. Since God gave the example and then sanctified the day, it should be kept holy. It was not only to give relief to the body, but to be a time when man's thoughts would be turned to God. It was designed to keep fresh in man's mind the consciousness of God and her mercies. It was thus made for man's well-being (Mark 2:27).

III. The First Day of the Week

(Acts 20:7).

The early Christians met on the first day of the week to break the bread of fellowship and to worship God. Paul used this assembly as an occasion to preach the gospel. Doubtless this became the day of rest and worship in honor of the Lord's resurrection.

IV. True Worship Taught (John 4:20-24).

1. True worship is not confined to a particular place (vv. 21, 22). The place is unimportant. The all-important thing is to have the right conception of God as revealed through the Jews. Since God is omnipresent, the true worshiper can hold intercourse with him anywhere and everywhere.

2. It must be spiritual (vv. 23, 24). God is Spirit. Therefore, only those who through regeneration have a spiritual nature can truly worship God.

V. A Psalm of Worship (Ps. 100).

1. Whom to worship (v. 1). Worship should be rendered to God, for he alone is worthy.

2. The spirit of worship (v. 2). Worship should be joyful. This joy should be manifest in the singing of praises to God.

3. Who should worship (v. 1). All the world should worship, not merely the Jews, but all nations. The peculiar mission of the Jews was to call all nations to the worship of the true God.

4. Reasons for worship (vv. 3-5). God should be worshipped because he is God. Being God, he is our Creator, Preserver, and Savior.

VI. The Soul Poise of the True Worshiper (Col. 3:15-17).

1. Peace rules the life (v. 15). The one joined to Christ by faith and resting in his finished work is at peace with God and should be at peace with all members of the body whose head is Christ.

2. Give thanks to God (v. 15). In spite of all troubles which beset the Christian, they should all be drowned in his constant giving of thanks to God.

3. Christ's Word to dwell in the heart (v. 16). It is not enough to know the truth; the very words of Christ must be made real in experience. They must be made to dwell, that is, be at home in the heart.

4. The definite function of the Christian (v. 16). It is to teach and warn others. Christ's words dwelling in the believer will result in blessing to others. The Christian should always maintain a joyous attitude.

5. The Supreme motive (v. 17). All that the Christian does and says should be for the glory of Christ. The enthronement of Christ as the Lord of life means that all the Christian's duties are performed with the consciousness of union with Christ. He knows that his life belongs to Christ, who died that he might live.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS.

"I wonder if it's loaded. I'll look down the barrel and see."
"There's only one way to manage a mule. Walk right up in back of him and surprise him."
"Watch me skate out past the 'Danger' Sign. I bet I can touch it."
"These traffic policemen think they own the city. They can't stop me. I'm going to cross the street now. Let the chauffeurs look out for me."
"Oh listen! That's the train whistle. Step on the accelerator and we'll try to get across."

French Colonial Cotton Is New Threat to South

Havre, France.—American cotton may well look to its laurels. A cargo of 840 tons of cotton has arrived from French Equatorial Africa. It is the first time such an important amount of it has ever arrived in France. It is consigned to a French spinning company. The French spinners are beginning to realize the value of the class and quality of the cotton furnished by big African concerns to France during the last three or four years.

The production reached 2,300 bales in the past season.

2,400 Applicants Would Be Philadelphia Firemen

Philadelphia.—Ninety vacancies in the Philadelphia fire department attracted 2,400 candidates. According to Civil Service Examiner Charles S. Shaughnessy, the list of applicants included graduates from the United States Naval academy and one from West Point. Examinations were given here recently. The job pays $35 a week the first year, $38.50 the second year, and after three years' service, $42 weekly.

Bitterness in Quaker Factions

Bitterness of feeling between two factions of the Quakers—Hicksites and Orthodox—in a Jefferson county (Ohio) community in the 1820s became so peculiarly intense that although they all used the same meeting house each group had its own graveyard. Each group believed that the respective brethren could not rest well in the same cemetery with the others.

Transportation

Blowing Up Skins Which Buoy a Yellow River Raft.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

STREAMLINE trains and giant airliners recently have been in the spotlight in America; Italy is still applauding an air-minded son who sped through the air more than 400 miles an hour a short time ago; and Great Britain is just quieting down after celebrating the victory of her flyers who won the London-Melbourne air race. In Germany streamline trains are linking additional cities as quickly as the new type transportation equipment can be manufactured.

Modern transportation, this. But one can still find types of transportation facilities, even in the world's largest cities and their rural neighborhoods, that were in use decades and even centuries ago.

There is not a sizable town in the United States in which one cannot hail a taxi, and in many of them charter a plane; yet the top-hatted cabbie, whose pompous figure held sway over traffic on boulevards in the gay nineties, has not been entirely shelved. These "taximen" of another era have jealously watched as new traffic lights have been installed, traffic lanes have been painted to keep modern motorists from crushing bumpers and fenders, and streets have been widened and trees sacrificed to make room for more of their rivals; yet they still constitute something of a traffic problem.

Ox-Drawn Vehicles.

Within sight of concrete, 40-mile-an-hour highways, and less than a hundred miles from Washington, D. C., and Annapolis, Md., ox-drawn vehicles still lumber along; while in the isolated mountain regions of the West, sure-footed burros and pack mules continue to be the only companions of many rugged prospectors.

Millions of visitors arrive at Atlantic City by automobile, airplane and train, yet to see the "sights" along the Boardwalk, they hire three-wheeled rolling chairs. Others arrive at Bermuda aboard palatial steamships but take to bicycles and horse-drawn carriages to tour the island.

What traveler leaves Durban, Natal, without employing a Zulu rikshaman? The dark-hued tribesman in gay-feathered headdress and scant clothing, is one of the colorful features of the South African city. In remote Szechwan province, China, wheelbarrows, which are the local transports, have worn ruts in flagstone pavements; in Sumatra, if one goes native, he must travel in a buffalo-drawn cart whose thatched top is shaped like a sway-backed horse, and is pointed at each end. In Palermo, Sicily, the purely Sicilian way to get about is by native cart, a two-wheeled vehicle on whose side panels are gayly depicted Bible scenes and Sicilian panoramas; and in Ireland, the Irish jaunting car on which passengers sit back to back and face outward lends atmosphere to a tour of the Emerald Isle.

Llamas still carry loads in the Andes, and elephants still are favored among the tiger hunters of India. In spite of progress in Belgium, the morning milk is still delivered by dogcart at many a doorstep, and dog sleds are yet the most dependable transportation in the icy wastes of the Arctic and Antarctica. The tired explorer enjoys comfortable travel in a hammock-like chair borne by native porters in central Africa; the mountaineers of northern India and western China employ the yak as their beast of burden; the camel still plods the caravan routes of north Africa, Arabia and central Asia; and the carabao (water buffalo) is the dependable draft-animal of the East Indian islands.

"Floating Population."

Land transportation is of no interest whatever to millions of Chinese. Children are born, grow up, marry, carry on their lives, and work aboard the sampans of China's floating cities.

Most of the great river cities of southern and central China have such a "floating population," but the boat dwellers of Shanghai and Canton form large communities in themselves. A traveler of sufficient energy could laboriously progress for miles by jumping from the deck of one sampan to another.

Like the Dutch canal boat dwellers, these river folk are a race unto themselves, apart from the common run of their fellow men. In many cases their mode of life has been handed down from father to son for generations. When China's teeming acres became overcrowded and expensive, and a growing commerce demanded river transportation in even larger volume, many ingenious Chinese combined business with economy and took to living aboard their tiny craft.

Although business might call far and wide along the numerous rivers and canals it was the large commercial centers at the mouths of mighty streams that offered the most lively carrying trade. Hence these cities early became headquarters for the water dwellers.

The riverman often made long voyages up country, but he always came home to roost. Hence the dirty, evil-smelling stretches of river and backwash surrounding such centers as Canton and Shanghai, and even around Hongkong and Singapore, became the native heath of an army of sampan dwelling Chinese, who from childhood have known no other life.

The visible means of support of these communities is the carrying trade from wharf to wharf, and from bund to steamer or junk, across river and up canals.

Barnyard Afloat.

Some sampans house petty merchants and peddlers who carry on a small trade in the necessities of life from boat to boat within the water colony itself. Occasionally a craft is filled to overflowing with huge white ducks which fatten in the daytime on the tidal mud flats or harvested fields, and at night walk a gangplank back to their floating barnyard. They proceed, one by one, in a quacking and pushing single file, each hurrying not to be the last duck aboard. The return home in the evenings is sometimes hastened, it is said, by giving the last duck a sharp crack with a switch. The awkward procession soon learns the trick and a comic tumult arises not to be the unfortunate tail of the procession.

Chinese sampans are marvelously easy to handle, being the product of generations of adaptation to environment. They dart like water spiders here and there amidst the harbor traffic, clustering like barnacles around the great steamers anchored offshore. With lightning swiftness, they flee in droves before an approaching storm, each knowing as if by instinct his own place in the quiet reaches.

In spite of the shifting needs of commerce, family life aboard proceeds about its daily routine as usual, albeit in rather more cramped quarters. Clothes, vegetables, and babies are washed side by side in the stream and the cooking is done above a diminutive brazierlike stove. Growing children help with the handling of the boat and cargo, and grandmothers in blue cotton ragged garments smoke long-stemmed pipes. At night all draw together and neighborly chatter from boat to boat sounds like that of a newly arrived flock of blackbirds. The river folk are poor but extremely cheerful, especially over the evening meal.

Lights from great modern liners shine across the harbor and music from an occasional gaily decked pleasure barge floats from the mid-stream channel. In few other places lurks so strongly the spell of the East.

Raft Transports.

On the shallow, shifting Hwang Ho, or Yellow river of China rafts are the principal means of transport, especially for freight cargoes. There are two types of raft: one using as buoys inflated sheepskins, and the other, large ox-hides which are stuffed with wool and then tied up to keep them water-tight. The sheepskin rafts vary in size, according to the use for which they are intended, ranging from as few as 12 to 15 skins on the small one-man rafts. For the large rafts some 120 ox-hides are used.

The ox-hides are carefully treated on the inside with salt and oil. This treatment not only preserves and waterproofs them but also keeps them flexible. There is no extraordinary technique required in the construction of a raft. Poles are lashed together, forming a framework to which the hides or sheepskins are fastened.

Moslem Chinese who form a considerable percentage of the population of Kansu province, are the sturdy people, they stand well the hardships of river life. It is far from an easy life with all the contrasts of heat and cold and the strenuous labor involved in handling the clumsy transports through the rapids; or freeing them, once they have stranded on a sand bar. The men, however, are happy and friendly.

RIVER DISAPPEARS; BAFFLES EXPERTS

Engineers Search for Stream Without Success.

Bonneville, Ore.—A turbulent river which flowed out of a mountain at the south abutment of the famous legendary bridge of the Gods west of Cascade Locks, Ore., disappeared in 1918 and army engineers say they cannot find it.

The engineers searched for months for the stream, sufficient in volume to supply the city of Portland, but announced they were baffled and would give up the search temporarily.

The army experts must find the missing water eventually, because they have to make the mountain behave. They cannot have the huge rock, which Indians claim once formed a natural bridge across the wide Columbia river, sliding around the landscape as it has in the past.

The mountain threatens to cause trouble for the Union Pacific railway trackbed through the Columbia gorge. The federal government is building a new bed for the railway between Bonneville and Cascade locks to replace the present line, which will be covered by water when the Bonneville power dam is completed and the Columbia river is backed up for fifty miles.

The mountain slowly is sliding toward the Columbia river on a bed of solid rock. The migratory grounds, known as Ruckel slide, is saturated with water, crumbling and unreliable.

The missing stream used to flow from eight bores into the mountain-side made by the Union Pacific, to preserve its tracks from being swept away. Before the tunnels were built it cost the railroad $50,000 a year to keep its line in repair over a mile and one-half stretch.

In 1918 the flow of water ceased. The railroad tracks, however, were not affected further. Engineers theorized that the flow was halted by a disturbance within the earth, which caused the interior of the mountain to buckle. They believed the stream found a new subterranean passage into the Columbia.

Geologists assert that an entire lake probably is held within the mountain. Government engineers recently bored three tunnels into the mountain to a depth of 1,000 feet. They also drilled a number of wells to supply Harney valley with water. Now they are waiting to see how much water will come out of all the bores during the winter and hoping the entire vagrant river will come to the surface.

Location of Fountain of Youth
The supposed location of the Fountain of Youth is in the Bimlni Islands, off the coast of Florida. Ponce de Leon stopped there in search of it. The spring to which the legend refers is still flowing there.

THE LUCKY LAWRENCES

By Kathleen Norris

CHAPTER XII

AFTERWARD they went upstairs, through the familiar halls and past the familiar doors, to talk desultorily, inconsequentially, of anything and everything.

When Gail went upstairs after dinner, supposedly to superintend the little boys' retiring, it was to be noted that she remained there some additional moments.

The tawny locks that had been bobbed three years ago were longer now and gathered in a cluster of curls at the nape of her neck.

Phil, Lily, Sam, Ariel—they all sat in the room that had once been the lesser drawing room but that now had been changed into a living room.

The fireplace was opened, and logs crackled there. The boys' blocks and books were stored on the shelves, and a ring of comfortable shabby old chairs circled the hearth.

Sam drafted for tomorrow afternoon's Challenge the announcement that would take all Clipperville by surprise.

There was a step at the side door, a gust of rain-sweet air penetrated to the sitting room. Gail had known this must come. She did not stir, except to raise her eyes to Dick Stebbins as he came in.

Phil did most of the talking. Dick talked, too, to Lily—to all of them except Gail. To her he did not speak directly until the clock struck ten and she got to her feet.

"Ariel, you must go to bed. You must be dead. Come on!" "Are you coming back, Gail?" said Dick then, with a glance.

"I think not. We'll be talking," Gail said, with a smile, "all night." "Tomorrow I'll have to hang around the hospital in the hope of seeing poor Willoughby."

"If he died, Dick," Phil asked, "would that kind of throw the monkey wrench into your plans?"

"Well, in a way. There are two or three other propositions I could follow up," Dick answered, unruffled.

"Willoughby is doing the London work for his eastern firm," he said. "And there was some talk of my going with him."

"If you didn't, might you practice here, Dick?" This was Gail. "I don't think so—not in Clipperville," he answered decidedly. "International law, you know . . ."

"Seen 'Caravan'?" he demanded abruptly, looking at Gail. "You mean the big musical comedy?"

"No, I haven't. It's playing in Oakland tomorrow." "I noticed that," said Dick. "Want to go up?"

They were all looking on, suddenly awakened, suddenly aware of the situation. But she could not see anything but the lean, homely kindly face that was smiling—just the hint of a smile—at her.

"I'd love it!" she said. The great news rocked Clipperville breakfast tables the next morning, and Gail, walking to the library in the delicious autumn freshness after the rain, was assailed on all sides.

"The family knew she was married," Gail said, over and over again, hoping that this was not stretching the truth to the breaking point. "But they were both so young—and Van had no prospects—and then that unfortunate business of the bankruptcy came."

But Ariel's marriage was in second place for her. She was thinking all the while that it was almost nine o'clock, and that in eight hours Dick Stebbins was coming to the house to take her off for dinner and the theater in Oakland, 35 miles away.

She did not have to wait so long to see him. At about ten o'clock he walked into the library and came up to the desk. Gail saw his hulking figure in the entrance arcade, and her heart turned over completely, and the hand that was resting on her desk blotted trembled.

When he stood before her she reached both hands across the high desk. "Dick, we couldn't say much before Lily last night. She's not to know everything. But how are we going to thank you for standing by Ariel, for saving her?"

They sat down presently on a great fallen redwood, up in the sweet shadowy woods, and smiled at each other. "Gail," said Dick then, "do you know that you have grown to be the most beautiful woman in the world?"

Her blue eyes deepened oddly, like summer water touched by cloud shadow. "If you say so—" she stammered, finding her voice with difficulty.

Neither one could seem to speak again. Dick stood up, and after a second Gail got to her feet, too, and turned as if she would have gone back down the trail.

"I guess you know what I've come back for, Gail," Dick said then. "You've always been the only woman in the world for me. But to come back and find you—what you've grown to be—with all the town—every one—more or less in love with you—"

He stopped, for Gail had come up close to him and was holding out her hands. Dick put his big arms about her, and crushed her against his heart.

her hands. Dick put his big arms about her, and crushed her against his heart, and they kissed each other.

It was half an hour after that first, deep kiss that shouts from the deserted party brought them back down the trail. Their hands were linked as they followed the rushing stream back; it was four o'clock on an October afternoon, the sun was already sinking.

Hot light poured through the thinning foliage, and lay graciously among the red, twisted madrone branches, and on the shafts of the redwoods. The birds were all still now, but bees went by like bullets, and here and there bright-winged flies buzzed in weaving columns in the sun.

"And all that time—all that time, Dick, you cared?" "Yep. But I didn't know it was going to be all that time," he said honestly. "It—sort of—went on, from day to day."

"I knew I cared," the girl said seriously. Suddenly the two stopped on the rough trail and smiled at each other.

"This all seems like a dream," Dick confessed. Sun-browned, her tawny hair in a little disorder, her blue eyes bright, she stood looking up at him without speaking—her man, the man who was to take care of her, stand by her, and love her, all her days.

"Dick, after all these years—after all the other girls—it's so strange to think of myself as engaged!" "It's strange to me to think that, at last—" He stopped on a brief, odd little laugh. "That at last I've gotten Gail Lawrence!" Dick finished it boyishly.

"It's all so strange," Gail mused, her fingers clinging to his, the glory and beauty of the autumn woods about them. "I'll be Mrs. Richard Stebbins!" she said.

"Gosh!" the big man said, smiling down at her, small and square and tawny-headed, flushed with walking, radiant in this exquisite hour of fulfillment.

"It's all come out like a story," Gail decided contentedly. She jerked her head, with a sudden little touch of self-consciousness, toward the unseen picnicers. "They know," she said, with an abashed grin.

"I don't know why they know," Dick answered, surprised. "Oh, they do! But let's have it—ours, for just a little while," the girl pleaded. "Let's not tell them today, anyway."

"You're the boss," Dick agreed, as they went on. The others were making preparations for departure. It was four o'clock. Gail gave no sign as she began to help gather sweaters and cups; Dick said nothing. But Lily shot Phil a significant glance, accompanied by a brief nod, and Phil went up at once to his sister and caught her by the arm and turned her about.

After that every one laughed and shouted. It was Ariel who was the most surprised; entirely taken aback. "But Dick Stebbins, Gail," she said later, in a faintly complaining tone, in the privacy of their own room. "He—after all, his father was our father's—well, foreman! Employee!"

"Ariel, you little fool!" Gail answered with a joyous laugh. She was too happy to quarrel. "Well, after all, birth does count," Ariel said discontentedly.

But Gail was too much absorbed in her own thoughts to hear her. If Mr. Willoughby lived, then Dick would duly depart with him in a few weeks' time, and instead of following up the London offer would establish himself somewhere in the East, possibly in Washington.

If his superior died, Dick would go east at once, and follow the same course. In either case he and Gail would be married in—say eight months. "Call it a year. It's safer, Dick."

"Eight months. Maybe six." "That would be April or May!" "April or May." He came soberly into the library, ten days after the picnic, to tell her that old Willoughby had quietly slipped away.

Gail's face paled a little. "So it's no London?" "No London." "After all your work, Dick!" "Oh, that! It'll come in, somehow, some day."

"But it does mean a fresh start?" "In a way it does. But the thing I mind is leaving you." "No help for it!" she said gallantly. "I suppose not."

"I have something, you know," she said hopefully, after a pause. "Phil is fixing it all up now. Ariel wants money, and Sam and I would as soon wait. So it looks as if we might get the ranch, he and I, and he says he'd like to live there and farm it, and put out twenty acres of table berries. If he does, even though it might be some time . . . And then there's The Bells of Saint Giles!" she added, in increasing hope. Dick laughed.

"I'll all work out," he said, following the laugh with a faint frown. "But—it isn't just what I wanted to offer you, my darling." The last word fluttered her senses, and she laughed excitedly. "Besides, there may be a miracle!" she said.

Dick looked into the honest, shining, loving blue eyes so near his own, and lightly touched the square, capable hand. To be continued.

The Morning Inspection Most schools have adopted the morning health inspection in some form. And when carefully conducted by a teacher who recognizes the responsibility that is in my opinion the first line of defense against communicable disease.

Then, at the opening of school before many contacts occur, is the time to find and sift out the pupils showing some departure from normal health. The deviation may be slight, but at the same time, it may be the start of something really serious. It is truly an instance of "a stitch in time."

The inspection should be brief and simple but thorough. No hesitancy or alarm should be shown by the teacher. No comments should be made lest fear arise. When excluding a pupil, smile and give orders quietly. The teacher should never diagnose. His job is to observe, and knowing the usual appearance of his pupils, he should be alert to every change.

Danger at Bull Fights Bull-fighting is the only sport in the world in which spectators, sitting far away in the stands, are injured or killed each season. This freakish but frequent accident occurs when a bull jerks his head and hurls a sword into the crowded stands.—Collier's Weekly.

The Harpsichord The harpsichord, a popular instrument of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries, produces a tone entirely different from that of the clavichord because strings of the latter are struck by tangents instead of being plucked or twanged by quills.
