John Mark, the cousin of Barnabas, Robert VanDoran.

Barnabas, first called Jesus, Milton E. Percival.

Mary, mother of John Mark, Mrs. George E. Wilber.

Back Tax Payments Increase 145%

County Treasurer Arthur Whitcomb reports every ten days to Auditor General O'Hara the receipts of delinquent taxes in Tuscola county for the same period in 1934 and 1935.

From Aug. 1 to 10, 1934, the amount received was $1,711.02. From Aug. 1 to 10, 1935, the payments on delinquent taxes totaled $4,192.08, better than a 145% increase over the same period last year.

This shows that the campaign now in force to stimulate back tax payments is proving effective and it may be even more so during the last half of August.

BIRTHDAY ON AUG. 13

Clark S. Bixby.

Mr. Bixby, the last G. A. R. veteran in Cass City, and one of the youngest survivors of the Civil War now residing in Michigan, celebrated his 85th birth anniversary on Tuesday, Aug. 13, as a dinner guest at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. J. Striffler.

Mr. Bixby stands well over six feet today and is unusually active for an octogenarian. He served one year in Company A, Third New York Infantry, was with Sherman on his "March to the Sea," and received his discharge at Raleigh, N. C., at the close of the war.

CENTENNIAL SHOW AT COUNTY FAIR

Colorful Pageant of Floats
Will Be Event of Friday Evening.

Gates of the Tuscola County Fair, the 54th annual exposition to be held in Caro, will swing wide for patrons next Monday, and continue day and night with a fitting climax for Friday evening, which will be featured with the Centennial program. The fair this year is providing the most varied program probably ever attempted in Caro.

Outstanding in the entertainment will be the Centennial program, to be staged by Tuscola county people. It is 100 years ago that the first settlement was made near Tuscola village, and because of that fact the management of the local fair decided that due observance should be made. The Centennial program will be featured by floats depicting various eras of local history, from the signing of the treaty of Saginaw to the modern day. A county band has been organized by M. D. Orr, and leading musicians of the county play for the various attractions during the week as well as the centennial pageant.

Those taking part in the cast for the Friday night program will present unique acts Wednesday and Thursday evenings. On the former night, the act will be a Spanish fiesta, and on the latter, a New York Roof Garden. Miss Leone Lee of Cass City has been assisting in the training of the young people for the dances.

Workmen have been busy the past several weeks getting the grounds and buildings ready for the big event. 4-H club members are grooming their prize animals for show purposes. Older exhibitors will have their high grade regalia.

Rotarians Taken Into Mock Court

Five Rotarians whose birthdays come in June, July and August were responsible for the program of that club on Tuesday and they conducted a mock traffic court in which many fancied "violations" were reviewed.

Frederick Pinney presided as judge, Arthur Atwell served as clerk and Dr. I. D. McCoy, E. L. Schwaderer and Earl Douglas were deputy sheriffs for the occasion. Every member present was fined except one and he is out on suspended sentence. Where the "violation" presented a particularly good plea his fine was "reduced" from 11 to 15 cents.

Four representatives of the Starr Commonwealth of Albion were guests and Rotarians were told of the activities of that institution. Rotarians contributed funds at this meeting for the Commonwealth.

Office Closed Thursday Afternoons.
Dr. P. A. Schenk's dental office will be closed on Thursday afternoons during May, June, July, August, September and October—Advertisement.

INSECT ARMY MOVES INTO BEET FIELDS

Crop Usually Immune to Injury Now Threatened by Legions of Cutworms.

The appetites of Michigan insects appear to be entirely out of control this year; and, as a final course to their banquet, they have attacked sugar beet fields, which formerly have been immune to serious insect pests, according to the entomology department at Michigan State College.

Climbing cutworms and army worms are the offenders on the beet crop. Fields in Eaton, Ingham, and Bay counties have been badly damaged by these worms which have migrated from spring grain fields which have been harvested. The only control method which promises control is the use of poison bran bait.

In sections where the worms have not already entered the beet fields, a furrow plowed around the outside of the field will act as a barrier, and the poison bait can be applied in the bottom of the furrow. More bait should be scattered at the edge of the field or on areas within where worms are already working. Poison bait for cut worms is

The July Milk Production Drops

The milk production for July in the Detroit area, even with continued good pastures, dropped 10% under that of June, which was the highest in the history of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association records. During July, 63,279,469 pounds of milk were produced by nearly 14,000 farmers. Of this production, 33,475,913 pounds were sold as fluid sales, or Class I, in Detroit and suburbs, at $2.48 per cwt. for 3.5 test. This is the milk sold for daily consumption during each day either for retail or wholesale purposes, and amounted to 52.9% of the total production. In Class II, 1,835,932 pounds were sold at $1.30 per cwt. This is purchased by dealers for sweet cream purposes. All of the remainder was sold in Class III for manufacturing purposes and sold for 97 cents per cwt.

When these prices were averaged together, it gave the farmers $2.02 for base milk f. o. b. Detroit and 83 cents for surplus milk at receiving stations.

A year ago for the same month, 56,539,017 pounds of milk were produced, which is 10.6% less than this year. Class I sales a year ago for July were 5.6% higher than for this July, however, July sales increased 3.4% over June.

As usual, farmers on this market are paid on the base and surplus plan. This means that all the milk secured for these three classes of milk is divided into base and surplus milk when the producers are paid—base milk being the average amount a farmer produces each day according to a farm allotment made each year, while surplus milk is the amount he produces over this fixed amount. The base price this month is $2.02 per cwt. f. o. b. Detroit, while surplus brought 83 cents per cwt. at local shipping stations.

EXPECT GREAT SHOW OF MICHIGAN GRAIN

Crop Prospects Expected to Encourage Large Entry
List at State Fair.

Good crop prospects and changes in contest regulations are expected to encourage Michigan farmers to make a record number of entries in the farm crops show at the Detroit State Fair, Aug. 30 to Sept. 8, according to members of the farm crops department at Michigan State.

No entry fee will be charged on grains, seeds, or potatoes. Last year, exhibitors who could not attend the fair withheld entries because of this charge. All grains and seeds will be shown in glass topped boxes to prevent visitors from handling and mixing the grain samples. This is important to exhibitors who wish to send their entries to national shows.

The Butterfield Grain Growing Contest will be a feature of the fair again this year. In this class, awards are made on a basis of yield per acre and quality of grain. To enter the contest, exhibitors should obtain certificates from county agricultural agents. The certificates provide means for attesting the yield of grain secured. Samples of the grain are then exhibited at the Fair to prove the quality.

In the regular classes for grains and seeds, awards are made on a basis of quality only. Corn and bean exhibits may be from the crop harvested in 1934, as the dates of the fair are so early that properly matured samples from this year's crop can not be obtained. Turn to page 5, please.

REV. G. A. SPITLER DEAN OF TRAINING SCHOOL

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Spitler, accompanied by the Misses Ruth Schenck and Lena Joos, leave Sunday for Riverside Park at Buchanan, Mich., where they will attend the Evangelical Michigan Conference Quadrennial Convention of Christian Education from Aug. 19 to Aug. 25. Mr. Spitler will be dean of the leadership training school and Mrs. Spitler will be junior worship instructor. Miss Schenck represents the local Evangelical Sunday School as delegate and Miss Joos the Evangelical League of Christian Endeavor.

4,000,000 Visitors at State Parks

A total estimated attendance of nearly 4,000,000 visitors was reported from the 53 Michigan State Parks open to tourists for the first two months of the park season.

This is considered by the Parks Division, Department of Conservation, as a good attendance in view of the wet and prolonged cold weather during the first month of the state park season.

The attendance was low during June due to this circumstance, but as soon as the weather grew warm early in July attendances of campers as well as visitors began to increase.

The peak day in the number of visitors was the Fourth of July. Nearly a half million visitors were reported from the 53 state parks. The number was 489,792.

Before the park season closes Nov. 1, the Parks Division believes, total attendance figures probably will equal those of last year when more than 8,000,000 visitors registered at the 53 state parks.

CROPS OUTLOOK IS BEST SINCE 1922

Major Field and Fruit Crops.

WEATHER HAS FAVORED THE CULTIVATED CROPS

From the standpoint of crop conditions as a whole, the Michigan outlook on August 1 this year was the best for that date since 1922. Barring unusual late-season weather damage or losses, yields promise to be above average for practically all of the major field and fruit crops. According to the Federal-State Crop Report released today by James F. Thomson, Commissioner of Agriculture, and Irvin Holmes, assistant United States Statistician, Michigan is surpassed by only one northern state on the basis of present combined crop yield prospects.

The month of July was noted for excessive humidity and, although rainfall was below normal, it was ample in practically all sections except the eastern part of the Upper Peninsula and some northern counties of the Lower Peninsula. The loss of moisture through evaporation was much less than usual for a hot month. These unusual weather conditions were especially favorable for cultivated crops and, as a result, corn shows marked improvement over July 1 while beans and sugar beets made moderate gains and potatoes maintained the previous month's figure. On the other hand, winter and spring grains are generally turning out poorer than was anticipated a month ago, both in yield and quality. The damp weather favored the development of rust, and harvesting and threshing have progressed slowly because of the heavy straw, the lodged condition in many fields, and the absence of good drying weather. Fruit crops generally show a slight improvement over July 1 as far as indicated gross production is concerned, but since weather conditions have been conducive to the development of fungus.

A light lunch will be served to all visiting pastors and delegates at 5:30 p. m. All the visitors will be paired off with local members for a fellowship lunch.

Add to famous last words: I have the right of way.

With the increase in the burden of taxes the question naturally arises as to the justice in the law that exempts members of congress and other officers of the government from the payment of income tax. Especially since in most instances these parties receive more regular and substantial income from the government pay roll than they would be able to earn from any private paymaster.

Dissatisfaction with one's lot is a desirable thing if it leads to an intelligent effort toward improvement, but it is an unfortunate thing if it merely creates unhappiness over a situation for which no effort is to be made or can be made for its correction.

Happy is the individual who has found his work and is contented with his lot—for contentment is truly a goal of life. But rich as contentment is, the man, who because of that contentment no longer has the desire to think bigger thoughts and do something larger than he has ever done before has sealed the door to his material, mental and spiritual progress. The fine art of living consists in keeping in balance a measure of contentment for one's lot and at the same time be stirred with a wholesome desire for bigger and more ambitious things.

We ran across a man yesterday who did not blame the government, the banking interests or circumstances for his failure to succeed as well as he thought he should. He admitted it was his own fault.

A reader of this paper anxious to conform to all the rules of table etiquette writes in to enquire what one is to do when the dessert is lemon pie too soft and too thin to be eaten successfully with a fork. Our inquirer asks if a spoon is permissible in cases of this kind. The table editor is out for the moment but our suggestion would be that whatever is necessary should be done. Experience tells us that it is better to eat pie of this kind with a spoon and brag on it than to make a failure of attempting to eat it with a fork and thus embarrass the hostess.

WHAT WE THINK :: ::

By Frank Nixon.

I have a neighbor who is regularly employed at a job that requires ten hours a day of his time. He has quite a family and the salary he received will hardly cover all the needs. To supplement his salary he raised this year a large garden. To care for it properly requires most of the leisure time my neighbor has. He gets up early in the morning and works until dark. Already his wife has put up by the cold pack method large quantities of peas, beans, beets and corn for the winter. He tells me he expects to supply most of his table wants the coming winter from the cellar. I cannot help but contrast him with another of my neighbors who is on relief. He made no effort to raise a garden of any kind. He and his family live from hand to mouth. They always have. The spare time that he has he spends doing nothing.

How much better it would be for this man if he would make the same effort to help himself. How much better it would be for his own self respect and how much better he and his family could live.

My observation is that the average small town does a poor job of supporting its home industries.

In my town we have a high class home bakery equipped with the latest machinery and owned by a progressive and aggressive young baker, yet there is three times as much out of town bread sold in my town as there is of the local product.

I think of this anytime some one gets up in the town meeting and proposes that the town go out after other industries.

No town is justified in going out after more industries until it learns to support those it does have.

Spiced milk is easy to prepare. blackberry, pineapple, and cherry. Add a teaspoonful of sugar and a dash each of powdered cloves, cinnamon, and nutmeg to a glass of hot milk. The mixture is beaten smooth and served hot.

Children who beg for carbonated drinks can be coaxed into the milk drinking clan by adding a portion of a carbonated beverage to milk. The carbon dioxide gives the milk a snap which children like.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V-8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip—to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

a 3 week test MAKES YOU LIFELONG FRIENDS!

Meet Good Gulf!

If you haven't had Gulf gas in your tank lately, try it just 3 weeks and discover what it can do.

Then see if you don't agree with an army of amateur "testers"...

750 said "Put 'er there"

750 car owners agreed to fill their tanks with Gulf for 3 weeks—to check it against their regular brands for (1) mileage, (2) starting, (3) pick-up, (4) power, (5) all-around performance.

Result: Pals for Life

At the end of 3 weeks, 7 out of 10 owners found Gulf better in one or more of the 5 points—many on all five.

Why? That's easy! Gulf is 5 good gasolines in one. Controlled refining gives it not only 2, 3, but all five ideal gasoline qualities.

Try That Good Gulf Gasoline—and you'll stick to it for good!

THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE

A Thoughtful Legislature has made an earnest effort to lighten your tax burden

EVER since the immortal Gettysburg Address, the accepted standard for American government has been "of the People, by the People, for the People."

This applies to the matter of taxation no less than to other functions of government.

So it is entirely natural that the Legislature of Michigan has had the People of this great state in mind when it has taken certain measures to lighten the tax-burden of our citizens.

It is now the part of good, loyal, co-operative citizenship for the tax-payers of Michigan to take fullest advantage of the provisions that have been passed for their benefit.

Not only has the Legislature made generous concessions in the matter of interest and penalties, but it has also provided a convenient plan whereby taxes for 1932 and prior years may be paid over a period of time. There are indeed few tax-payers who can not now protect their homes by paying their taxes.

You can now pay up this important obligation just as you pay for a home or an automobile or furniture; putting aside a little each week or month, and then making an annual payment equal to one-tenth of the amount of your delinquent tax. On the ten-year plan you pay only a small carrying charge for this privilege.

Get in touch with your County Treasurer right away. He is prepared to accept payment of your back taxes either in full or on the ten-year plan. Bring him your old tax bills or the legal description of your property. But don't wait until the last-minute! Act now and avoid the last-minute crowds.

ICE CREAM FOR TASTY DESSERT

There's Nothing Better to Serve on Warm Nights.

By EDITH M. BARBER
NOTHING tastes better for dessert on a warm night than ice cream. Of course you know what store in your neighborhood offers your favorite ice cream which may be bought in so many flavors. You may like to serve a chocolate, caramel or crushed fruit sauce with this ice cream.

If you have an automatic refrigerator you will, of course, like to make a frozen dessert with its help from time to time. For this you will need special recipes, as it is not possible to get a smooth mixture with the use of a recipe whose directions call for turning in a freezer. All kinds of mousses which are made with flavored whipped cream can be made successfully in your refrigerator.

There are also a number of other recipes which are not quite so rich, but which give satisfactory results. Perhaps the easiest and least expensive are those made with the base of sweetened condensed milk. I can make them in my own refrigerator without stirring, but refrigerators differ and you may find it necessary to beat the mixture when it is half frozen. The time which frozen mixtures take also depends upon the type of refrigerator. If you have a cold control, two hours is usually long enough, otherwise you will have to allow four to five hours.

Vanilla Ice Cream.
1 cup condensed milk
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
Salt
1 cup cream, whipped
Mix milk and water, add vanilla and salt. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into freezing trays and freeze three to four hours.

Variation.
Peppermint Ice Cream—Substitute mint flavoring for vanilla and color with green coloring.
Burnt Almond Ice Cream—Fold in one cup macaroon crumbs and freeze.

Coffee Ice Cream—Substitute strong coffee for the water.
Chocolate Ice Cream—Melt two squares of chocolate in double boiler. Add condensed milk and water. Stir until thick and smooth. Cool, add whipped cream and one teaspoon of vanilla.

Strawberry Ice Cream—Substitute one and one-half cups strawberries for vanilla and reduce the water to one-half cup. Crush the strawberries very fine.

Apricot Ice Cream.
2 cup sweetened condensed milk
2 cups water
3/4 pound dried apricots.
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup whipped cream
Cook apricots in one cup water until tender. Blend together sweetened condensed milk, one cup water and one-half cup liquid drained from apricots. Chop apricots and add with lemon extract to mixture. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour mixture into freezing pan. Place in freezing unit.

Strawberry Delight.
1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup crushed strawberries
1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs
18 vanilla wafers
Thoroughly blend sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, and crushed strawberries. Stir until mixture thickens. Place in six sherbet glasses alternate layers of strawberry mixture and crumbs, leaving topping of crumbs. Push three whole wafers into mixture around sides of each sherbet. Chill. Top each sherbet with a whole berry if desired.

Strawberries and Rice.
1/2 cup rice
1 1/2 cups mashed strawberries
1/2 cup sugar
Cream or custard sauce
Steam the rice until tender. Add the berries and sugar. Mix thoroughly and chill in a mold. Serve with cream or custard sauce.
Panned Savory Greens.
Fry until crisp one-half cup of diced fat salt pork. Add two quarts of shredded cabbage, kale, spinach or other greens, cover the pan and cook slowly until tender. Add pepper, two tablespoons of vinegar and salt if needed.

Renovate Scrap Basket
Shabby waste paper containers, whether made of wicker, metal or cardboard, may be given a new lease of life by applying a coat of colored enamel. A modern decorative idea is to paint the lower half a different color from that of the upper half. Brown and tan, dark green and light green, or pastel shades such as light blue and lavender are good combinations. The inside may be painted light green, orange or bright vermillion.

Ironing Soft Collars
When ironing soft collars start at the center and iron toward the end, beginning at the center again and iron the other end. There will be no creases.

WILLIAM LEAVER of Shawnee, Ohio, found that, adjoining the cellar of his home, his permanent supply of winter fuel had been stored for him by nature many centuries ago. He has his own private mine opening into the basement. When the coal bin is empty he simply goes in with a pickaxe and lamp and comes back with all that is necessary to keep the furnace going.

Oil Wells at Sea Are Expensive but Pay Out

THE tremendous output of oil wells drilled at sea has justified the expense of the unusual undertaking near Ventura, Calif. A rich stratum of oil-bearing sand was discovered more than a quarter of a mile off shore. Drilling was started shortly afterward and the resultant wells far beyond the breaker line have been a highly successful venture.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

A GRANDMOTHER who finds herself mothering an adopted child, an orphan and a son of a nephew, told me recently that she was finding the rearing of children today far more puzzling to parents than when she was bringing up her own family. She, herself, is very active in probing into modern methods and discovering their virtues as well as their peculiarities.

"Parents don't punish their children today," she told me. "They watch the youngsters, seeking to understand motives. They reason with the little children until the little brains are weary and muddled. Sometimes I find a child appreciates authority. He likes to know just where he stands in the distinctions between right and wrong. Many times the child finds it baffling to decide a correct course. It may be irksome to do as he is told, but when he relies on the judgment of father and mother, as most children do, there is a foundation of principles, something to stand on. A child does not love you any less if he is justly punished."

Problem Children.

Then she spoke of the parents, and of problem children about which we hear so much today. "The problem child was an anomaly when my children were little," she said, "for every mother found all her children problems, not one out of many. Some were more easily managed than others. Some were quick to learn, others were slow. We were proud of the former and regretted the misfortunes of the latter."

"I have found that being slow in accumulating facts does not indicate a poor intelligence. It may indicate a thinker, a child who is trying to understand what he is told, and assimilate it, rather than swallow it whole, because he is told it is so. Frequently I have found in later years that what is accounted a problem child is merely one of pronounced individuality and a personality which is distinct. I might almost say distinguished. These very characteristics prove a mark of genius."

Parents and Teachers.

"Parents and teachers work together splendidly today," she continued. "Each has the welfare of the children at heart. A child may be different when at school than when at home. At school he is with minds of his own age, many such minds. At home he is but one of his age—unless there are twins or triplets! At home he cannot shine except as he is appreciated by his elders. At school with playmates he rises to be a leader, or becomes one of the rank and file of average importance."

"It is marvelous to watch a child develop. It is a pity to hamper him either by freedom unlimited when he is too young to know what to do with it, or to hem him in with too many restrictions which make him rebellious. We parents and grandparents have an interesting work to do with affection as a guide."

Books and Book Plates

In ancient days books were inscribed by hand, and book covers were, in themselves, individual. Books were rare and enormously expensive, and some distinguishing device of the owner was tooled or impressed on the bindings. Book plates would have been superfluous. When books began to be printed they were still very valuable and the continuance of the special binding was natural. Such binding added greatly to the cost of books, and it is probable that it was for this reason more than any other that book plates were devised.

The Latin term "ex libris" is used interchangeably with book plate. It means, Out of the Books of—the person indicated. Freely translated it means His Book. In both instances it indicates that the owner has a library and the specific volume is one out of the books of the owner's collection. The custom of using book plates was so universal at one time that all books in a personal library were so marked. Today it is especially unusual to have the book plate worth more than the book. So do times change and collectors' zeal stimulate values.

House Plants

If you would have healthy house plants, keep the leaves from dust, stir the earth in flower pots frequently and give the plants a little food occasionally.

Tax Tidal Wave Still Growing

Michigan's thousands of tax delinquents are responding to the state's August drive to stimulate payments in proportions approaching a tidal wave, according to Auditor General John J. O'Hara, directing the campaign.

"County treasurers throughout the state are reporting tremendously increased collections," O'Hara declared. "In some cases payments have risen by more than 100 per cent."

"There is nothing remarkable about it. It is the natural result of a systematic effort to remind the people that real money can be saved by paying back taxes before September 1, either in full or under the ten-year deferred payment plan. It is human nature to forget. But with newspapers, radio stations and billboards constantly proclaiming the benefits to be had by immediate payment it is almost impossible to forget this drive."

In the interest of county treasurers, O'Hara requested property holders to pay as soon as possible to avoid the rush that will come as the Sept. 1 deadline approaches.

"Many of these treasurers have put on extra help but still can not keep up with the collections," he said. "Those who intend to pay their back taxes will be doing these men a real favor by paying at once."

During the week, the Auditor General sent county treasurers supplies of descriptive folders which explain in full the advantages of paying back taxes before Sept. 1. Those desiring a copy of the folder can obtain one by writing their local county treasurer or by calling in person at the office.

First reports from over the state indicate that payments in full and under the ten-year plan are running about even. If this trend continues throughout the drive, collections will exceed the most optimistic expectations.

The largest check for back taxes in Wayne county last week came from the Continental Motor Corporation. It was for $53,778.00 and covered taxes for 1932, 1933 and 1934.

She calls it a Cook's Tour

NOBODY thought Katherine would make a very good wife. She seemed too frivolous. Always made a game out of everything. Hadn't a practical thought in her head—so it seemed.

Maybe that's why she does make Ed such a good wife. You still wouldn't think she was serious about a thing. Yet she must be. Because you've never seen a house kept better in your life. Or a budget balanced more neatly.

Most women come home from shopping all tired out. Not Katherine! She makes a grand game of it . . . calls it her weekly "Cook's Tour." She pores over her newspaper like a travel map . . . charts a course that takes her to bargain ports . . . and gets there without one wasted step.

How? She follows the advertisements. Watches them as closely as a sailor watches his compass. And she gets fun out of it all . . . But who wouldn't, with a happy home like hers and her knack for saving up money!

RECORDS ON HOLSTEINS.

Breeders of Holstein-Friesian cattle are rapidly becoming convinced of the importance of a breeding program based on continuous testing of their herds for records of milk and butterfat production. The Holstein-Friesian Herd Test is gaining in popularity every month and the number of cows on test now is greater than at any previous time in the history of the breed.

The herd of registered Holsteins owned by the Michigan Farm Colony, at Wahjamega, has maintained a daily average yield of 1.0 pound of fat per cow during the 306 days that the annual production test has been run on the herd. Four cows in the herd have topped the 400 pound fat mark, top honors going to the cow named Wahjamega College Reformatory with a credit of 460.7 pounds fat and 13,652.7 pounds milk. In milk production high honors for the 306 days are held by Wahjamega Pontiac Concordia with a yield of 14,540.8 pounds milk and 390.8 pounds fat. Among the cows completing lactation records at this time is Wahjamega Pontiac Concordia with a record of 524.6 pounds fat and 18,493 pounds milk. Wahjamega U. Neb Viceroy, a senior two-year-old, also completed a lactation record of 428.5 pounds fat and 12,675 pounds milk. These records were made in Class B, three milkings a day.

The program for the concert on August 25, to be conducted by that American favorite, Arturo Toscanini, is still to be announced.

Concluded from first page.

Exhibits of wheat, rye, oats, barley, spelt, and potatoes must be from the 1935 crop.

Exhibitors may use the ordinary farm equipment for cleaning up samples of grain, but the use of artificial aids such as clipping, scouring, or bleaching is objectionable. Exhibits of grain are made to encourage the production of better quality crops, and the employment of unusual methods to improve the appearance of samples at shows does not assist in this purpose.

All grain, seed, or potato exhibits must have been grown in Michigan by the person who exhibits them. Liberal premiums are awarded and the shows are supervised by members of the crops department at Michigan State College. Premium lists will be mailed to those who request them from the secretary, The State Fair, Detroit.

Lesson for August 18
MARTHA

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:38-42; John 11:17-28.
GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.—John 11:5.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Home Jesus Loved.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Home Jesus Visited.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Can I Help at Home?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Home That Attracts Jesus.

The lesson committee designated Martha as a home-maker. That she was a home-maker is to be conceded, but to view this lesson only in that light is to miss its vital point, for Christ's teachings here are equally appropriate to male and female, in the home, office, shop, schoolroom, farm, etc.

I. Jesus Revealing to Martha Her Supreme Need (Luke 10:38-42).

1. Jesus welcomed into her home (v. 38). Though Jesus had no home of his own, he could come into this home at any time and throw off the restraints incident to public ministry. What a blessed thing it would be if all homes were open to receive Jesus.

2. Mary sitting at Jesus' feet (v. 39). While this was Martha's home, Mary seemed to have lived with her. Mary had a peculiar spiritual insight which prompted her to sit at Jesus' feet and listen to his words. The real place to hear Jesus' words is "at his feet." Let no one imagine that Mary did not render any service, for the little word "also" indicates that she had been serving with Martha.

3. Martha's complaint (v. 40). She was so bent on providing a good meal for Jesus that she was on the verge of distraction. Her many assumed duties had so got on her nerves that she not only found fault with Mary, but even censured Jesus for allowing Mary to sit at his feet while dinner was being finished. She even assumed the authority to command Jesus to send Mary back to help her. The sure way to serve without distraction is to first sit at Jesus' feet and listen to his words.

4. Jesus' reply (vv. 41, 42).

a. He rebuked Martha (v. 41). This rebuke he administered most tenderly, for he knew that Martha loved him sincerely. Those who are supremely occupied with Jesus are anxious for nothing (Phil. 4:6).

b. He defended Mary (v. 42). In this defense he declared that there was but one thing needful and that Mary had chosen that good part which could not be taken from her. Those who choose this good part cannot be robbed of it by friends, foes, or circumstances.

II. A Revelation of Christ's Love (John 11:1-36).

1. The sickness of Lazarus (vv. 1, 2). Even those who are in close fellowship with the Lord are not immune from sickness. Sorrow comes even to the homes where Jesus is loved.

2. Martha and Mary send for Jesus (v. 3). Because they had come to know Jesus as more than a mere man they instinctively turned to him when this shadow fell across their home.

3. Jesus' strange delay (vv. 4-6). They sent for Jesus because he loved Lazarus. They said, "He whom thou lovest is sick." Jesus abode in the same place because he loved Lazarus and his sisters (v. 5). This mystery is to be explained by the fact that Jesus was divine and knew all things.

4. Jesus goes to the Bethany home (vv. 7-17). His mission in going into this home was twofold; to minister to the sisters and brother and to strengthen the faith of the disciples (vv. 11-15).

5. Jesus teaching Martha (vv. 18-27). As he was nearing the village, Martha met him with a complaint because of his delay. He ignored her complaint and taught her concerning the resurrection and the life.

a. "Thy brother shall rise again" (v. 23). He is saying these words to every sorrowing sister, brother, wife, husband, child, and parent.

b. "I am the resurrection, and the life" (vv. 25, 26). He is the source of life, and all who are joined to him by a living faith are in such vital fellowship as to be unaffected by bodily change.

6. Jesus weeping with Mary (vv. 28-35). In response to the Master's call Mary fell at his feet, uttering the same words used by Martha, but, no doubt, in a different tone of voice and attitude. Her words were responded to with tears. "Jesus wept." He still mingles his tears of sympathy with those he loves and those who love him.

III. Jesus Raising Lazarus (vv. 38-44).

His great sympathy now expressed itself in supernatural power. Sympathy would be valueless without this connection with divine power. It is sympathy and love linked with omnipotence that make his ministry so eloquent.

CROPS OUTLOOK IS BEST SINCE 1922

gous diseases, the proportion of Grade A stock available for market will be correspondingly reduced.

The preliminary estimate of the 1935 Michigan winter wheat crop is for a production of 17,512,000 bushels which compares with a short harvest of 10,976,000 bushels last year and a 5-year average crop, 1928-32, of 15,343,000 bushels. Rye production is estimated at 2,758,000 bushels or the best crop since 1924. As a result of excellent growing weather, the condition of the state's corn crop shows a 14-point gain since July 1. The August 1 indicated production is 46,860,000 bushels and if this is realized it will mean the largest corn crop since 1925. Many fields of oats and barley lodged badly during late July and harvesting has been quite difficult. Yield prospects on these crops have declined somewhat as a result, although they are still above average. The August 1 indicated production of oats is estimated at 43,622,000 bushels which is only slightly more than the 43,098,000 bushels average production for the five years preceding 1933. The Michigan barley crop is indicated at 4,888,000 bushels as against a 5-year average crop of 6,493,000 bushels.

The warm weather has resulted in a rapid growth on field beans, tending to offset the late start. Humid weather during late July and early August has been ideal for the setting of pods in the early fields, but many late plantings will need a favorable early fall season to mature a crop. In general, this year's crop is better on uplands than on low heavy ground where considerable replanting was necessary this spring because of heavy rains. August 1 indicated production on this crop is placed at 3,774,000 bags as against a revised estimate of 3,377,000 bags harvested in 1934. The United States dry bean crop for 1935 is forecast from August 1 conditions at 13,631,000 bags in comparison with 10,369,000 bags for 1934 and a 5-year average, 1928-32, production of 11,858,000 bags.

August 1 reports on the Michigan potato crop show that for the state as a whole the July 1 condition of 81 per cent was maintained. With about average weather during the remainder of the season, this figure suggests a total production of 26,800,000 bushels which compares with 34,304,000 bushels harvested in 1934, when the state's production was the largest since 1922. However, final yields will depend to a considerable extent upon weather conditions during late August and early September. In some of the Upper Peninsula counties and northern counties of the Lower Peninsula, the crop was in need of rain on August 1.

The August 1 indicated production of the various Michigan fruits is as follows, the 1934 harvested estimates being given in parentheses: Apples, total crop, 9,975,000 bushels (6,464,000); apples, commercial crop, 6,000,000 bushels (4,224,000); peaches, 1,989,000 bushels (517,000); pears, 673,000 bushels (745,000); grapes, 65,934 tons (61,145); sour cherries, 24,440 tons (24,990); sweet cherries, 2,220 tons (1,570); total cherries, 26,660 tons (26,560).

"City" of London
The original city of London, comprising about a square mile between Temple Bar and the Tower of London, has a smaller population, according to a census, than the city boasted in the Middle Ages. Only 11,000 people now reside in the original limits of the old city.

Heavy Tax Levies
The exactions of the tax collectors in the Near East are notorious, but the Egyptian of last century really made a record hard to beat. In one year he squeezed $75,000,000 out of the Egyptian taxpayer while the whole officially recorded revenue only amounted to $50,000,000.

Attention Taxpayers

Under Act Number 126 of the Public Acts of 1933 and Act Number 73 of the Public Acts of 1935 regarding the payment of Delinquent Taxes for 1932 and prior years, these taxes are due and payable at the office of the County Treasurer or the Auditor General on or before September 1st, 1935, and if paid in full may be paid without interest or penalties.

These taxes may also be paid in ten equal annual installments and the first installment is due on September 1st, 1935, and may be paid without penalties on or before that date. But all future installments will carry an interest charge of 4% per annum if paid on or before the due date. And after that date will carry an additional three-quarters of one per cent per month interest from and after the due date.

In case one installment is delinquent and not paid in the current year on or before the first day of September, the Auditor General shall offer the lands for sale during the following May in accordance with the provisions of the general tax law of the state applicable to delinquent taxes, and thereafter the provisions of the general tax law apply.

CHAPTER VIII

NICHOLAS BRANDON was a man of forty-five. He was rich, he was powerful, he had achieved much of what he held to be desirable.

But his experience had been empty of things that most men crave above all else. He had not seen Dawn McManus in three years until she came back to Tincup that November. He had known her all ways. He had watched her grow from infant to child; from child to a wistful, shy girl, living under the cloud of her father's tragic disappearance; but the transition from girlhood to womanhood had been made during her longest absence from the town that had been her only home. And so when he saw her, after her arrival, instead of the young girl he remembered, toward whom he had always been gentle and kind while he sought to plier her heritage, he encountered a lovely, compelling young woman. She charmed him, stirred in his heart long neglected and now twisted and distorted wants which, given liberty in his youth, might have been fine and open and clean. He wanted Dawn McManus as he never had wanted anything before.

He saw her frequently, dropping in to visit briefly in passing, taking her in his cutter on a drive to a camp once, casually asking her to do this or that with him. But he could not interest her despite his persistent efforts, and now another element was injected into the situation. When he encountered Ben Elliott that afternoon in friendly conversation with Dawn it required all his resourcefulness to retain a show of self-control. Inwardly he seethed with a hatred which now had the element of jealousy for an embittering ally. He hated Ben Elliott with all his soul and mingled with his passion for Dawn McManus was a species of hate as well. He hated her for her cleanliness, for her sweetness, for her power to attract young men to her.

A double motive impelled him, thereafter, to plot and scheme and strive to possess the Hoot Owl. Without timber and the tidy fortune it might some day represent Dawn would be without resources. And a girl without property, he believed, would be easy prey.

But complications rose to stir his ire and chagrin. And so this night—it was very late—he sat in his office, with Lydia on the other side of his flat-topped desk.

Lydia. Just that. She needed no other name for identification in Tincup. The women who, with her, occupied that short and bleak and isolated row of houses across the tracks—Section Thirty-Seven, it was called by the town—needed none but a given name. He had summoned her and she had come ac-ording to instructions, furtively and alone, long after the rest of the town slept.

She sat, a bit tight-lipped, her button eyes on Brandon's face, and listened to him talk, crisply and incisively. But after he had stopped the woman leaned just a bit further forward.

"It's a rotten deal!" she said in a quick, nervous manner. "Why, she's only a girl, Brandon; and the boy, he's as clean as a hound's tooth. It's rotten!"

Brandon shrugged and looked away.

"I don't care to be mixed up in this," she went on. "I don't fancy playing any such game."

Defiance was there, and it struck the man's temper. His dark eyes swung back to focus on her face and about his lips was the beginning of a malicious smile.

"You refuse?"

"If I do, what?"

He leaned quickly against the desk edge.

"One word to the immigration people and you go back to Canada. Do you think they forget . . . the Canadians?"

Lydia blinked rapidly and bit her lips.

"You wouldn't turn me up!" she said sharply.

Brandon leaned back, laughing comfortably.

"Wouldn't I, though! Wouldn't I? If you refuse . . . Try it, my friend, and then try Canada's memory. You've been safe from their law for three years. In twelve hours I could and would toss you to them and have the satisfaction of a duty done."

For a moment they sat in silence. Then Lydia spoke with a bitter shake of her head.

"I know when I'm licked," she said crisply. "It's rotten; a foul blow . . . but I'll have to go through with it, it seems!" She rose, and her breath was somewhat quick.

"But some day, Nick Brandon, you'll slip! For years, as I get it, you've had others carry your dirt for you. Remember, the time will come when this power you feel so sure about will crumble! The time will come when you'll have no one to turn to, no one to threaten into fighting your fights for you! I wonder . . . what'll you do then?"

"That," he said easily, "is distinctly my own affair."

CHAPTER IX

IT WAS Saturday night and Tincup was dancing. In the Odd Fellows' hall a violin, a cornet and a piano made music for the scores who had paid their fee and danced in the glaring, barren room. And among them, a cynosure for all eyes, went Ben Elliott and Dawn McManus.

It was the first time many of the townspeople had had a real good look at Dawn since her return; it was Ben Elliott's initial encounter with a social function in Tincup; it was their first appearance in public together. Curiosity prompted much of the neck craning because Dawn, the daughter of Deney McManus, always had been a conspicuous figure, but now her loveliness was heightened by a flush and both men and women forgot that she was known chiefly as the daughter of a murderer.

The two were apparently having the time of their lives. Ben talked. How he talked! He talked of this, that, the other thing constantly. He felt he must talk and keep talking of impersonal matters or he would find himself blurring words of love into Dawn's ear, there in a public dance hall. He felt that unless he kept talking of trivial things he would find himself shouting:

"You are the most lovely thing that ever breathed and I love you, love you, love you!"

So he seized upon every subject that came into his head eagerly, almost desperately.

Now he was telling her of the new bookkeeper he had hired the day before.

"Queer fellow, in a way. Seems to be capable of a much better job than keeping books for the Hoot Owl. At first I was a little leary of letting him into the office and had him in the mill a couple of days but, gee, you can't let a man who's certainly a high grade office hand do work like that!"

"I brought him in and told him I needed a bookkeeper but had just had one experience with a man that made me a little jumpy. I had a boy out there who was a little light fingered. He didn't get away with anything, luckily."

"But I told Martin—John Martin, his name is—that I was going to put him on the books if he'd take the job with the understanding that I was going to suspect him of a lot of things for a long time. He gave me one of the funniest looks I've ever seen and said he wasn't afraid to be suspected."

"So there he is. We're in the new office, now. He and I each have a little room just big enough for a bed and I like him a lot."

The dance ended and they walked toward vacant chairs and were so occupied with one another that they did not notice the hush that had fallen over the place, nor the woman who had entered, until she had crossed the floor and stopped before them.

Lydia stopped just within the threshold and shook the light snow from her fur coat and that gesture was enough to cause words to die in the throats of those who saw. Lydia, here! Lydia, from Thirty-Seven, invading this place where decent people, where good men and women and little children, were assembled.

The woman did not hesitate. Head up, intently, she crossed the floor straight toward Ben Elliott who, eyes fast on Dawn to miss no change in her mobile face, still talked with animation, unaware of the hush about them.

He did not stop talking until the woman's shadow fell upon him. Then he looked up, saw her, and rose.

He rose, because a woman was standing there, evidently waiting to speak to him. He did not know her; had never seen her before. He had no time to observe and judge. He would have risen, anyhow, because he was naturally courteous to women. He did more than rise. He even bowed just a trifle when he saw that her eyes were so fast on him. He did not notice that Dawn started, that one hand lifted quickly to her cheek.

Lydia's voice sounded sharp and hard and rasping in the silence.

"I should think you'd be ashamed of yourself!" she said.

Ben had started to smile, but this changed to a frown of perplexity. "Ashamed, ma'am?" he asked.

"Why, I—"

"Yes; ashamed! There's that poor girl in my house, sick and crying for days! You brought her here, didn't you? You're the one who got her to come to Tincup. And now, when she needs you, you won't come near her!"

"I Should Think You'd Be Ashamed of Yourself!"

Ben looked at Dawn, who was shrinking back in her chair; at other people, whose faces reflected incredulity, or vicarious guilt or fright.

"Ma'am, I . . . That is, I don't understand you," he stammered.

His eyes were taking her in, now, from her costly fur coat to the emerald earrings, and the hardness of her eyes; and, as in a daze, he classified her, put her in the shameful niche which was hers. A great flush of bewilderment swept into his face.

"Don't understand! Maybe you think you can abuse a girl like that and get away with it in this town, but not while she's in my house, you can't!"

A wave of humiliation overwhelmed Ben. What could a man do in a situation like this? What could he say? He was fouled, out-matched. Nothing in his experience stood him in stead to meet such an emergency as this one.

"Why . . . Why, this is an outrage," he began weakly. But his fighting spirit surged upward, steadied him. "I've never seen you in my life! I don't even know what you're talking about! This is either a mistake or—"

"Mistake!" the woman cried shrilly. "Don't try to get away with that! I suppose it does surprise you to have me find you here! But you've kept out of sight, dodging me and—"

"Stop!" he thundered. "Stop it, I say!"

For an instant his conviction checked her. Movement was going on about them, people shifting to see and hear better, one man mounting a chair. The crowd by the doorway had turned back to him after watching Dawn McManus scurry down the stairs. But Elliott was unaware of all this.

"There's no stopping me now, Elliott! I've come to show you up—"

"You come to make trouble on a foundation of lies!" he said and stepped closer to her.

His face was drawn and pale, now, jaws set, and his eyes flared dangerously.

"This is some outrageous plot," he said evenly, and so low that only those nearest him could hear. "This is done deliberately to give me a black eye before these people here! You're a party to a filthy scheme, whoever you are!"

"Fine words, Elliott! Fine words! But this girl's tears and misery are on your head and if you won't help her, I will. She goes back where she came from tomorrow!"

With that, she turned and, self-composed, almost proud in her bearing, crossed the floor. Ben watched her go until she had disappeared down the stairway. Then he faced about, wondering what he could say to Dawn McManus, but she was not there.

His face went blank with amazement, bewilderment.

"She ducked out," a man whispered, and the sound carried through the room.

Gone! Fled because she believed this woman? His heart went cold, but he gathered himself and stalked out of the hall.

Brandon, alone in his office, drank deeply from a whiskey bottle. Then, on a telegraph pad scrawled an Ontario address. The message itself contained but two words:

"Send Red."

He signed his name and sat back, brows drawn and after a time nodded vindictively.

Out at the Hoot Owl Ben Elliott went through a week of unbroken dismay. It was a situation such as he had never dreamed of facing.

Dawn had heard and seen and . . . believed! She had fled the hall, convincing him of her belief in Lydia's accusation. Days had passed and he had heard nothing from her. He was impelled to go to her, but under such circumstances, a young man does not do that. There are some affairs so embarrassing that words fall flat.

He was walking, wondering grimly what Dawn was thinking then, what she was doing; he was hearing once again the biting voice of Lydia; hearing, in memory, the hush fall over that dance hall.

He was wholly alone. Far behind him loggers worked in the timber; down yonder the mill sent up its plume of smoke and he could hear the distant puffing of the exhaust in the stillness.

No wind blew; nothing stirred . . . that he could see. He could not observe that slight, cautious movement to his left, that figure which watched him some and edged out through young hemlocks to a point from which his view was unobscured but where he still had good cover.

The man up there stood still. Slowly he shook off his mittens and with a bare thumb released the safety on the rifle he carried, settled slowly to one knee, placing it on the tail of the other snowshoe. His breath was not just steady as he snuggled his cheek against the rifle butt. No man's would be, shooting from ambush that way. Nor were his hands just steady.

He sighted carefully, trying to still the tremor of his arms. He let his breath slip out slowly, he squeezed.

The crack of the rifle echoed and re-echoed across the chopping. Ben Elliott lay still, as he had pitched on his face. One of his hands was outstretched, the other pinned beneath him. His face, one cheek in the snow, was turned toward the man who had fired but it was far away.

For many minutes the man in the timber remained kneeling. Elliott did not stir. Then, cautiously, the killer groped for the ejected shell, slipped it into his pocket, raised to his feet and, backing cautiously, struck into the deep timber.

"Ride America" Demonstration

K. C. Barkley of the Barkley Motor Sales has returned from Port Huron where he and members of his selling staff have been attending a special mass meeting in connection with the "Ride America" demonstration campaign which the Chevrolet Motor Company is staging during the month of August.

Plans for demonstrating the performance and exceptional riding qualities of the 1935 Chevrolet to millions of potential buyers were outlined at the meeting by E. J. McClees, zone manager. By maintenance of peak production in the Chevrolet plants, deliveries can now be made more promptly than at any time heretofore this year, it was announced at the meeting.

"The assurance of prompt deliveries," said Mr. Barkley, "was certainly good news to us. As any model can now be obtained without delay, it is a logical time to put on a real demonstration drive. A ride in a Chevrolet is a revelation in smoothness, comfort, and ease of control, and an experience which no one considering a car can afford to miss. Add to this the economy and durability which our owners find so gratifying this year, and you have the explanation of the shortage which is only now beginning to abate."

Accompanying Mr. Barkley was Otis Heath, member of his organization, who will aid him in the local staging of the "Ride America" demonstration campaign.

Sebewaing Moves to Shorten Beer Hours

From Sebewaing Blade.

At its regular meeting Monday evening, the village council took steps having in view a more stringent regulation of local beer gardens.

Chief among the actions taken by the local governing body was the passing of a resolution providing for earlier closing hours of the beer gardens. The resolution calls for stopping the sale of beer at 12 o'clock midnight and a resumption of sale no earlier than 12 o'clock noon on Sundays. On week days legal selling opens at 7:00 a. m.

Councilmen Deegan and Loeffler were delegated to visit beer garden and restaurant owners in an endeavor to secure their signatures to an agreement to conform to the selling hours as set by the resolution.

Failure of any beer garden operator to observe the new hours will subject him to the possibility of having his license revoked by the Liquor Control Commission. Precedent for such action is provided in a recent Supreme Court decision in the case of a retailer in Jackson, who failed to observe the terms of a similar resolution passed by the Jackson city council. The court ruled that "Upon request of the local legislative body it is the mandatory duty of the Liquor Control Commission to revoke the license to sell, beer, wine or spirits for consumption on the premises." This applies to cities and villages in counties having less than 500,000 population.

Under that decision the village council would have the right to demand of the Liquor Control Commission that it take away the license of any beer garden, the proprietor of which disregarded the terms of the council's resolution as to closing hours on the sale of beer. The Liquor Commission could have no other course to follow but to revoke licenses as demanded by the local governing body.

Most of the local beer licensees are said to be heartily in accord with the provisions of the council's resolution.

Famous Cow at Michigan State Fair

More celebrated than any cow except the one that jumped over the moon is Deerfoot Guernsey Maid, prize milk yielder of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition.

Arrangements were completed Saturday to have "the Maid" brought from her Massachusetts home to Detroit for the Michigan State Fair, Aug. 30 to Sept. 8.

While at the Fair the "bovine heroine of the white silences" will be milked daily in the presence of visitors—but she won't mind their stares. She has been a celebrity and a cynosure ever since she got back from Little America.

The Maid's big moments started when she arrived in Big America after spending nineteen months in the polar regions.

She was given the key to the city of Washington, D. C.; she ate alfalfa from the banquet table of the Commodore hotel in New York; she mooed over the radio; she was carried about on a platform by members of the Rutgers football team; she grazed aristocratically on Boston Common (where even the Boston Cabots and Lodges can't walk on the grass); and she posed for a picture wearing a high hat placed on her head by Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts.

Deerfoot Guernsey Maid produced as high as 38 pounds of milk daily while in Little America. This output despite the fact that she was often exposed to temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero.

The Maid was five years old when she was taken to Antarctica. She is now well past seven. She gained a hundred pounds while "down south." She is a beautiful cow, according to bovine standards of pulchritude, being well contoured and orange-fawn and white in color.

The fact that the Maid still yields 18 pounds of milk daily, although she hasn't been freshened in two years, continues to amaze dairymen.

The celebrated cow will be brought to Detroit by train from her home pasture in Southboro, Mass. The trip here will be nothing at all in the life of a cow who has globe-trotted more than 20,000 miles.

While at the State Fair the Maid will be exhibited in the Dairy Building with no charge for visitors.

QUESTIONS ARISE ON GAS DELIVERY

Many wholesale distributors of gasoline are making inquiry of the Department of State as to requirements for permission to deliver gasoline to retail stations during night hours, after Sept. 21. An act of the 1935 legislature, aimed at possible gas tax evasion by deliveries to retail stations by night, will, on its effective date, Sept. 21, bar such deliveries between 9:00 p. m. and 5:00 a. m., without permission from the Secretary of State. Information as to conditions necessary for such certification, is being forwarded to those who ask for it.
