YOUR FIRE BILL.

It has been said that the greatest tragedy of fire lies in the fact that it is unnecessary. More than 80 per cent of all fires, large and small, are due to some one's oversight—a little care, a little thought, perhaps the spending of a little money, would have prevented them.

Fire would not be so serious if it were entirely an individual matter—if the person who allowed his property to burn because he permitted hazards to exist uncorrected, paid the bill. But we all pay—every member of the community is assessed, directly or indirectly, for a share of the cost.

The direct fire bill in this country is around the $400,000,000 mark a year at present, and in some years it has passed the half-billion mark. The indirect loss is several times as great—observers say it runs close to two billions.

Fire prevention is easy—care and thought are the main essentials. And every fire that is prevented means actual money saved to you.—Hot Springs New Era.

In addition to the alarming figures quoted above, there is another loss—an incalculable value, that is just as preventable. That of approximately 10,000 human beings whose lives are snapped out annually, to say nothing of perhaps fully twice that number who suffer more or less serious burns, or injuries incidental to fire.

Fire prevention week, October 6 to 12, 1935.

Those who are careful where they put their confidence are not so apt to lose it.

BUSINESS IMPROVES.

Is business improving? Is there reason for believing that permanent improvement is actually under way? We are not attempting to answer those questions to your satisfaction.

The institution referred to is the National City Bank of New York, one of the country's greatest financial institutions. Like all other great financial institutions, the National City Bank is conservative in its statements, and when it permits a note of optimism to get in, it means something, means a great deal, in fact.

"The persistence and spread of the business improvement over the past nine or ten months, despite both political and economic handicaps, have made a strong impression upon all observers.

ic handicaps" mentioned in the review, but "despite" those handicaps, the National City Bank of New York presents what is, for it, a right optimistic view of both present and future business conditions.—Tribune, Blackwell, Okla.

A critic asserts that no notable American fiction has been written lately. But just wait until next year's campaign get's going.

AS A MAN THINKS.

Observance of certain notable days should remind us of the obligations which those days suggest. Nothing is more important than the focusing of attention on the needs of our world. It is highly important that people think, think seriously, think aright, and that their thinking shall prompt actions and give color to their days.

The popular form of government is that in which people do their own thinking, elect their own officials and crystallize the sentiment that makes the laws. But we too much and too often emphasize thinking en-masse. It is splendid if we can have the majorities for ushering in every needed reform.

As a man thinks, so is he; so is his neighborhood; so is his community; so is his nation. One man has often set in operation a train of influences that never spent their force until the desired reform was won.

The wisest man is he who changes his mind and does different thinking today from that of yesterday, if convinced that he was wrong yesterday. It is not only important that we have firm convictions, but it is equally important that we have reasons for our convictions.

As a man thinketh, so does a nation think. As a nation thinks, so is it. The nations of the world thought for years in terms of militarism, commercial rivalry, secret treaties, jealousy, suspicion, and intrigue.

Now our civic responsibility and humanitarian obligations tell us that we must think in terms of arbitration, love, service and universal peace.

Let us continue to change our thinking. It is time our thoughts leaped from armaments to the personal needs of man.

Being a college president is easy. All he has to do is to please the board of trustees, the parents, the undergraduates and the alumni.

Some folks object to following the footsteps of others, because they want to make bigger footsteps themselves.

Being a college president is easy. All he has to do is to please the board of trustees, the parents, the undergraduates and the alumni.

An expression of appreciation is more satisfying than a sack of gold, if you already have a sack of gold.

The average housewife has more concern for the one fly in the house than she has for the ninety and nine that are outside.

The one thing that the several schemes that have been proposed for the purpose of distributing the wealth do not take into consideration is the inherent differences of ability, energy and thrift.

Whosoever, therefore, shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven.—Matthew 18:4.

There were 923,525 more motor cars licensed in this country in 1934 than in 1933. These figures indicate that either conditions were considerably better in 1934 than they were in 1933, or else a good deal of the depression exists in the minds of many rather than in fact.

An economist pleads for a stabilized economic system. The ants have had one for ages, and look at them.

The greatest discovery a man can make in life is his own limitations.

A positive opinion is not a sign of knowledge. It may be merely evidence of a mind closed against the admission of a new idea.

That Third Meal.

Every well-informed parent today knows that growing children need three full meals a day. They also know that school work calls for as much nourishment as a day of active play.

Equipment, however, is not the most important thing. It is what the child gets to eat that counts. Next to that we should think of pleasant surroundings and a congenial atmosphere for lunchtime at school.

For most children who are compelled to remain at school over the noon hour, the school lunch is one of the three daily meals. That fact needs emphasis, for it is too often overlooked. It means that we should give just as much thought to the selection of food and the amount as we do to any meal at home.

A brief case, containing papers and the keys to Mr. Meiser's home and garage were in the car.

The Word "Bat"
The word bat, as the name of the flying mammal, was an apparently sudden shift of name taking place about 1575. Prior to that time, for some three centuries, the name was variously bakke, bakce, bake, bak, back. The earlier middle English name was from the Scandinavian atten-bakke, "evening bat."—Literary Digest.

Crisis Nears in Italo-Ethiopian Embroglio—Mussolini Defiant, Great Britain Ready—Committee of Lawyers Hits Labor Relations Act.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD © Western Newspaper Union.

MATTERS in Geneva were rapidly approaching a crisis—a crisis for Italy and Ethiopia, for European peace and for the League of Nations itself.

Benito Mussolini holds eight portfolios, announced in Rome that Italy would accept no compromise and would not retreat from the course it has laid out in East Africa...

Premier Laval's speech before the League of Nations was exceedingly clever but did not clear the situation sufficiently. While he gave assurance that France would abide by the league covenant...

One after another the nations represented in the league announced their support of the British stand against Italy. If the British do not back down—and that seems unlikely—and if Italy persists in its adventure...

If in the next three months either side accepts the council's decision, the other party is automatically outlawed if it starts a war at any time in the future.

It is believed in Geneva that the penalty easiest to apply would be a general boycott of all trade with Italy.

"Take a look at this," virtually said Great Britain to Italy as she massed a great fleet of powerful warships in the Mediterranean. Many of them were at Gibraltar, others at Malta and Alexandria...

"UNCONSTITUTIONAL" is the verdict of the American Liberty league's committee of 58 lawyers on the Wagner-Connelly labor relations act.

"It is our belief," said the opinion, written in the form of a brief, "that the statute unnecessarily and arbitrarily infringes upon the individual liberties of the employer and the employee and is therefore invalid."

The act seeks to provide collective bargaining rights for labor, with the national labor relations board sitting in as referee in disputes. This is the first of a proposed series of opinions on recent federal legislation by the committee of lawyers.

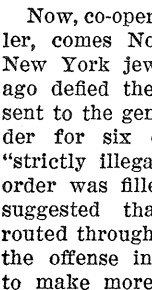

Raul E. Desveraine of New York, chairman of the general committee, denied that it was "packed with Republicans," but he did not explain why no labor lawyers and no attorneys with New Deal leanings were appointed to serve.

Frank E. Morrison, American Federation of Labor secretary, said: "This committee simply represents the views held by special privilege and big business, which have always opposed every piece of legislation introduced in congress and the states to bring a little more happiness into workers' homes."

A. E. MERCKER, who used to be secretary of the Interstate Early Potato committee, has been made head of the potato section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and his troubles are just beginning.

Now, co-operating with Mr. Chandler, comes Norman C. Norman, a New York jeweler who some time ago defied the jewelers' code. He sent to the gentleman farmer an order for six or more bushels of "strictly illegal potatoes," and the order was filled at once.

Hitler also put through a third law establishing the Nazi Swastika as the national and trade flag of Germany. The war ministry was instructed to adopt a war flag of black, white and red.

In his address to the reichstag Hitler said that by the laws adopted he hoped to deliver a fatal blow to Communism and Jewry. He also discussed the Memel question and warned Lithuania that justice must be done to Germans in Memel "before events take form that one day may be only regretted."

THE Committee of Jewish Delegations has appealed to the League of Nations on behalf of the Jews of Germany, declaring that "the conscience of mankind will not tolerate that Jews should be degraded in this century as pariahs."

DEATH came to Jules Cambon, one of France's "elder statesmen," at Vervey, Switzerland. He was ninety years old and had lived in retirement since the close of the World War, though he was frequently consulted by high officials of France.

ACCORDING to the Atlanta Constitution, President Roosevelt will open his southern campaign for renomination by delivering a speech in Atlanta late in November, when he will be making his annual visit to Warm Springs. This led many to believe the President would thus challenge the political strength of Gov. Eugene Talmadge, one of his bitterest critics.

RESOLUTIONS adopted by the Iowa Farmers' union in convention at Des Moines demand that President Roosevelt dismiss Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from the cabinet and halt "the program of hunger." The AAA was called "infamous, worthless and vicious."

THE Commercial Telegraphers' Union of North America, at its annual convention in Chicago, voted to bar Communists from membership. International President Frank B. Powers of Chicago and Secretary-Treasurer W. L. Allen of Winthrop were re-elected.

COMPTROLLER GENERAL MC-CARL in a formal opinion held that there is no legal authorization for the federal government to pay out any funds for the construction of a furniture factory at Reedsville, W. Va. This has been a project especially favored by Mrs. Roosevelt. It was intended originally that the factory should make furniture for government offices and give employment to transplanted coal miners.

MARRINER S. ECCLES, head of the federal reserve system, has been re-appointed by the President, and so will be chairman of that board that will put into operation the new banking reform law. Later the President will name six other members of the board.

PAID advertisements in weekly magazines of national circulation are now being used by the treasury to promote the sale of baby bonds. The aim of the campaign is to interest small investors in these bonds, the smallest of which sells for $18.75, with a cash maturity value of $25 in ten years.

SIX hundred members of the German reichstag, all fervent Nazis, met in special session in Nuremberg and at the demand of Reichsfuehrer Hitler passed two laws bearing down hard on the Jews in the reich. The first of these new statutes prescribes prison sentences as penalties for marriages between Jews and citizens of German kindred blood, and declares such marriages void if performed in a foreign country.

Hitler also put through a third law establishing the Nazi Swastika as the national and trade flag of Germany. The war ministry was instructed to adopt a war flag of black, white and red.

Improved Uniform International LESSON SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for September 29 JOHN (THE MINISTER AND HIS PEOPLE)

LESSON TEXT—Third Epistle of John. GOLDEN TEXT—Beloved, imitate not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God; he that doeth evil hath not seen God.—III John 11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Letter From John. JUNIOR TOPIC—With Ink and Pen. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making Our Church Friendly.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Friendly and Hospitable Church.

1. Personal History. 1. He was the son of Zebedee and brother of the apostle James (Matt. 4:21). The implication is that his father was in easy circumstances, for he had boats and hired servants (Mark 1:19, 20).

2. He was a disciple of John the Baptist (John 1:35-40). This was a most valuable training, for John was a man sent from God (John 1:8). The fiery eloquence of the Baptist no doubt profoundly impressed him.

3. He was called to follow Jesus (Matt. 4:21, 22). He was first called into the relationship of a disciple, he now is appointed as an apostle (Mark 3:13-19; Luke 6:13-16).

II. His Character. 1. He was reserved. That is, he was decidedly reticent about himself. He speaks of himself as "the disciple whom Jesus loved" and "that other disciple."

2. He possessed a rare gift of penetrative insight. The truths set forth in his writings did not come as a result of reasoned judgment, but of penetrative insight. He was indeed a seer.

3. He was thoroughly masculine. Christian art does him a thorough injustice in portraying him as effeminate. He was intense, vehement in his temperament. He was truly a "son of thunder," as Christ declared (Mark 3:17).

III. Some Instances of Behavior. 1. Intolerance of irregular service (Luke 9:49, 50). There was a certain disciple who seems to have been intelligently witnessing and God had honored his testimony with power to cast out devils. John forbade him because he was not working with them.

2. His righteous indignation displayed (Luke 9:51-56). When Jesus had set his face toward Jerusalem some Samaritans refused to extend hospitality to him. This treatment of his Master so aroused the anger of John and James that they desired to call down fire from heaven to burn them up. This action grew out of John's great love for his Master.

3. John's care of Christ's mother (John 19:25-27). From the cross Jesus beheld his mother and committed her to the tender care of John. The intense love that he had for his Lord would move him to express the tenderest affection for his mother.

IV. His Third Epistle. This is one of the three private Epistles of the New Testament and gives us a look into the early church life and also a picture of the aged apostle. This Epistle consists of the following parts:

1. The salutation (vv. 1-4). This letter was addressed to Gaius, with the fervent wish that his temporal prosperity and physical health would be measured by the measure of the increase of his spirituality. His supreme joy was to hear that his children were walking in the truth.

2. His praise for Gaius (vv. 5-8). This praise was for the hospitality which Gaius showed toward some traveling evangelists. In spite of the opposition of a certain prominent member of the church, Gaius received these preachers into his home. To receive God's messengers into our homes and send them forth on their journey is a deed worthy of God. One of the best ways to help the truth is to show hospitality to its messengers.

3. His condemnation of Diotrephes (vv. 9, 10). The sin of this man was his over-weening self-confidence and arrogance. He loved to have the place of pre-eminence; therefore, for that reason he refused to receive these traveling evangelists and expelled from the church those who had received them into their homes. He even maliciously attacked John the beloved pastor. His spirit of pride moved him to acts of tyranny toward others.

4. His commendation of Demetrius (v. 12). Demetrius was perhaps the bearer of this letter. John gives the assurance that Demetrius was of good report among all men. His life of good deeds proved that he was in fellowship with God.

CASS CITY DOWNS HARBOR BEACH, 41-0 Concluded from first page. However, many of these were such that a team of their calibre do not make twice. They might have covered punts a little faster, or given the quarterback better protection when he was receiving a punt. The interference might have gone a little faster, and the ball carrier could have followed the blockers more closely. However, these are all minor faults that even more experienced teams possess. The line put up a defense that did not allow the Orange team a good gain all afternoon. Except for a couple of wide end sweeps where the Cass City ends were caught in too far, Harbor Beach found that circling the ends was unprofitable business. The fullbacks and halfbacks were meeting their men at the line of scrimmage with low hard tackles. The pass defense too was functioning successfully. Harbor Beach had only one faint scoring chance and for the rest of the time found the going rather difficult. Their one opportunity came when they were allowed to run with a recovered fumble. Captain Quick caught the runner short of the goal line, and the home team lost ground on the next three plays. The offense of the Kellyites was as effective as their opponents was inadequate. For the first game of the season the Hilltoppers showed a surprising variety of plays executed with an equally surprising aptitude. Cass City was in mid-season form as they administered the worst defeat they ever dealt a Harbor Beach team. The opening line-up was Vaden and Martin, ends; Quick and McAlpin, tackles; Davenport and Withey, guards; Boulton, center; Stafford, quarterback; A. Reagh and Kloc, halfbacks; and Hunter, fullback. In all 23 men saw action in this inaugural tilt. Saturday, they journey to Bay City to meet Central's eleven. Last season this game ended in a deadlock. This year's team has it in their power to give the Class "A" team another good battle.

EDISON CO. BUYS THE COMMON STOCK OF MICHIGAN ELECTRIC Concluded from first page. owned for a long time small amounts of the securities of the Michigan Electric Power Company, both bonds and preferred stock. The common stock of the Michigan Electric Power Company has been held by banks located at New York and was recently offered to the Detroit Edison Company. A study of the situation indicated that its purchase would benefit both companies. By providing working capital when needed, it would enable the M. E. P. Co. to more thoroughly develop and cover the Thumb district with its service. It might also prevent speculative interests entering this district. With these considerations in mind, the purchase was completed. "This change in ownership of the common stock will bring no change in the management of the company. It will continue to be operated as an independent utility. There is no intention at present to consolidate the operation of the M. E. P. Co. with that of the Detroit Edison Company. The change will bring the control of the Michigan Electric Power Company nearer home and may eliminate some of the disadvantages of a long distance control from which it has occasionally suffered. To this extent the customers and security holders will benefit."

POULTRY FOWL POX WEAKENS NEW LAYING CROPS Disease May Strike at Any Time of Year. Supplied by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois—WNU Service. No matter how high poultry prices may go next fall and winter, the new crop of layers which farmers are now building up will never be profitable if fowl pox gains a foothold. Outbreaks of fowl pox, if promptly diagnosed, may be suppressed by proper cleaning and disinfection of the premises and by destruction of all infected birds. If a large number of fowls are infected, destruction is not so practical a measure as sanitation coupled with vaccination. While the disease may be more frequent during the coming fall and winter months, it may occur at any time of the year. Chickens and turkeys of all ages are susceptible to fowl pox, but the effects are more serious in young cockerels and pullets than in mature fowls. The death rate in young stock may be high in some outbreaks. Fowls that do recover often are stunted. In pullets that are laying and in older laying stock, the malady lowers production and in some cases stops it entirely. All birds in the flock should be vaccinated if symptoms of the disease are detected or if there is danger of fowl pox being introduced into the flock. Either fowl pox or pigeon pox vaccine may be used, but pigeon pox vaccine is less effective. Its use is best limited to cases where a severe reaction may cut egg production or injure weak birds. Immunity to the disease lasts for six months to the life of the bird. The best time for vaccinating flocks on infected premises is in late summer, at least two months before the birds begin to lay. Pullets that are to be vaccinated should be given sufficient time to recover completely from the effects of the handling and treatment before entering production. Eggs for the Incubator Need Careful Attention Eggs to be used in an incubator should be selected from healthy, vigorous hens that are good producers, says Prof. A. L. Romanoff of the department of poultry husbandry at Cornell university. "Use eggs uniform in size, shape, and color and of good shell texture, because all of these qualities are transmitted to the new generation of chicks. Do not wash the eggs to be used in the incubator, as washing destroys the cuticle, an outside layer of the shell that keeps out harmful bacteria." Professor Romanoff advises that eggs be kept only for a reasonable time before they are placed in the incubator. They should be protected from dust, dry or humid air, and extremely high or low temperatures. The wrong temperature may kill the developing chick even before incubation. Peat Moss Found Useful Known and used by thousands of farmers and dairymen as a sanitary and highly valuable bedding for animals, German peat moss is equally useful to the gardener and poultryman. It is pure vegetable, the best humus making material, and has high moisture retaining power. It also neutralizes acids resulting from artificial fertilizers. It is valuable as a summer mulch covering, to keep grass green and ideal for use in chick brooder houses and poultry runs, as it is noninflammable and prevents spread of vermin. In the Poultry Yard An egg a day does its bit toward keeping the doctor away. Both disease and worms can better be controlled when hens are confined. The demand for frozen poultry in England continues at satisfactory prices. There are three chickens on farms for each person in the United States. Infertile eggs, produced from flocks without males, are most satisfactory for preserving purposes. Keeping only standard bred flocks for breeding is an important factor in determining egg size, shape and color. It is an economic waste for farmers to rear a new flock of layers each year, disposing of the two-year-old hens because they will not produce enough eggs to pay their board. The raising of a flock of geese is so simple that every farmer should avail himself of the opportunity. The expense is very small. The birds require very little care, either summer or winter.

Clover Seed Crop Short This Year. Recent crop reports indicate that the supply of seed from the various kinds of clover and other legumes, while larger than last year's, will still be below the average production for the years 1928 to 1933, according to the farm crops department at Michigan State College. The supply of sweet clover seed for the United States is expected to be 11,000,000 pounds short of the average production. The crop this year is 7,000,000 pounds greater than it was last year. Sweet clover was damaged by dry weather in some places and by too much rain in others this year. Supplies of red clover seed are still effected by last year's drought, as many stands would have produced seed in 1935. The carryover of red clover seed from last year is small but is larger than expected because the sales were 20 per cent below expectations. White clover seed production will be only about one-third of the 1934 crop. Most of the white clover seed is produced in Louisiana, Idaho, Oregon, and Wisconsin. Scarcity of this seed will effect the price of lawn grass mixtures in which it is included. It appears now that the supply of alsike clover will be a little larger than it was in 1934. More winter vetch seed will be available, the reports showing increased acreages in Oregon and Michigan. No report is given on alfalfa seed. Michigan agricultural agents stated that the crop in Michigan is very uncertain. Less seed was harvested from the first cuttings and second cuttings left for seed were good in some sections and poor in others.

Many Plan to Organize for Rural Electrification. The Michigan Rural Electrification Association has completed its first series of meetings throughout the Lower Peninsula in which a plan was presented for securing help from the Federal Government in building rural electric lines to distribute electricity on a co-operative or mutual help basis. Prominent speakers discussed the practical problems of groups of farmers who want electric service in meetings at Midland, Cass City, Adrian, Dowagiac, Grandville, Big Rapids, and Lansing. During the past week maps showing the location of farms not now having electricity have come to the association from every part of the Lower Peninsula with requests from Farmers' Unions, Granges, and township officers for assistance in organizing local prospective electricity users into co-operatives to secure help from the Federal Rural Electrification Administration. The largest project received to date is from two townships in one of the very best farming sections of the state where approximately 2,000 farms are without electric service. The details will be worked out for presentation to the federal authorities. As soon as possible the prospective users of the area under consideration will be invited to a meeting in their locality at which time they will be advised of the cost of electric service in that particular locality. Other projects have been received, according to the officers, from Midland, Tuscola, Lenawee, Cass, Huron, Gratiot, Jackson, Ionia, Mecosta, Shiawassee, and Van Buren counties. As soon as possible the rates will be computed and, if agreeable to the applicants, co-operatives will be formed and formal application made to the Federal Government for loans to build lines.
