Great Rejoicing When First Railroad Engine Reached Here 53 Years Ago

Fifty-three years ago last Monday the railroad track of the Pontiac, Oxford and Northern Railroad was completed to Cass City and the first railroad engine made its appearance here. A grand reception was tendered the construction crew and Nov. 18, 1882, was an eventful day in the early history of the village.

The following paragraphs written in the early eighties tells of the day's program:

"The crowning event in Cass City history, and the one on which glowing anticipations of future growth and prosperity are based, was the advent of the first railroad, the Pontiac, Oxford & Port Austin Railroad. Under the inducement of a handsome bonus of $6,000 and right of way contributed by public spirited citizens of the town and village and liberal aid from other localities along the projected line of the road, the work of construction was commenced about two years ago, and after a period of

SLIMKO—QUICK.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Slimko announce the marriage of their daughter, Theresa, to Hazen Floyd Quick. The couple were married by Rev. Fr. Kujawa at St. Joseph's parish in Sandusky, Saturday, Nov. 16, at 11:00 a. m. They were attended by the groom's brother, Basil, and the bride's sister, Mary.

The bride was attired in a pretty Copenhagen crepe dress with a corsage of roses and baby chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid wore a brown crepe dress with a bouquet of rose-buds and lilies of the valley.

YOUTH RECREATION CENTER STARTED

Village Council Will Remodel Space in Second Story of Village Hall.

Members of the village council, at a special meeting Tuesday evening, voted unanimously to stand the expense of remodeling the room in the second story of the village hall for the purpose of providing a youth recreation center in Cass City. This will be operated by a board of directors appointed by the Christian Citizenship League.

It is planned to divide the space into two rooms, one to be a room equipped with books, magazines and table games, and the other a room with piano and chairs for active games, children's parties, meetings and conferences. The carpenter work in the remodeling program will be done as a class project of the manual arts department of the local schools under the direction of Delmar Youngs and J. Ivan Niergarth. The rooms will be heated by a hot air furnace in the basement of the council rooms building.

Colt Numbers Gain, Demand May Be Less

For the first time in many years, the supply of horses appears to be catching up with the demand, and any considerable increase in the number of colts raised will result in a supply of work horses in the near future larger than the number now on farms, according to information gathered by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Farmers are urged by the Bureau to follow closely the trend of the next few years in colt production and in the use of mechanical power by the farmers. Any unusual increase in the numbers of colts grown or in the use of mechanical power will decrease the demand for colts ready for sale three to five years hence.

LOCALS TO START BASKETBALL PRACTICE

Present Schedule Has Four Home Games Out of Eight Contests.

Cass City is taking a week's much needed rest, after completing one of the toughest football schedules in the history of the school, before they begin basketball practice in defense of their Thumb, District and Regional championships. Cass City basketball teams have fought their way through the last four consecutive district tournaments, and have twice won the Regional championship, getting into the final round of the state last year where the Holland Christian "tall boys" gave them a decisive beating.

The fighting Maroon and Grey football squad lost one Class C game this year to the champion Sebewaing aggregation, and also lost their encounter with the Bay City Central eleven. Their only other game with a Class A school was with the reserve squad of Saginaw Eastern whom they trounced 31-6. Sebewaing's victory was the first and only one against the Cass City boys by a Thumb team during the last three years.

This year's team was handicapped by injuries and sickness to the extent that only one game saw all of the regulars in action at the same time, that being the opening game with Harbor Beach. This year's record is as follows:

|                   |    |                |    |
|-------------------|----|----------------|----|
| Harbor Beach..... | 0  | Cass City..... | 41 |

| Saginaw Res.....  | 6  | Cass City..... | 31 |
| Bad Axe.....      | 0  | Cass City..... | 27 |

Totals.....44 166
Total points for the last three years are Cass City 727, opponents 120.

Cass City basketball squad will start practice Monday, Nov. 25, in preparation for the defense of their championships. The basketball schedule for the season is as follows:

While Mr. Dodge's family suffered little loss in the fire of '81, Mrs. Dodge's folks lost everything and she was badly burned. Though she was only a child of seven, she remembers it vividly.

Other inconveniences are being experienced continually so that workmen may complete their alterations and improvements and the management may keep the theater open at night. One important reason, the management states, for keeping the show open during

Maple and Other Varieties of Trees Donated by C. J. Striffler.

The planting of about 200 trees on the old fair grounds at the order of the village council and completed under the direction of C. U. Brown is the first step towards transforming these 20 acres into a real city park.

Some of these have been planted in the southeast corner of the plot, a row extends from the entrance to the east and another from the entrance to the grandstand, while another row is planted on the south side of the race track.

One hundred seventy-five of the trees are of the popular maple variety, some are elm and there are a few hickory nut and basswood trees. C. J. Striffler had the kindness to donate the trees to the village and they were taken from his grove.

V-8 LEADERSHIP

ON OCTOBER 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly ten months instead of a full year.

One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm.

These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out, in the United States alone, $140,119,326.00 in wages and $523,111,389.00 for materials.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1936 IS NOW ON DISPLAY. THE CAR THAT LED ALL OTHERS IN 1935 HAS BEEN MADE STILL BETTER FOR THE NEW YEAR

The annual meeting of the Tuscola County Christian Endeavor Union was scheduled for the Evangelical church at Cass City last night (Thursday) with a banquet at 6:30, followed by five parallel conferences on officers, devotions, recreation, extension and citizenship, and an address by Dr. Blossom of Vassar.

Miss Marion Wilson, a graduate of the class of 1927 of Caro high school, was admitted to the practice of law by Judge Louis C. Cramton, in circuit court Monday morning. Miss Wilson, who passed her bar examination two weeks ago, becomes the second woman to be admitted to the bar in this county, first honors being held by Mrs. Daisy Stillson Barrie, of Vassar, admitted several years ago.

William Wetters and Mr. Wellman were in Cass City the first of the week taking an inventory of the electric light system here for the Detroit Edison Co., recent successors to the Michigan Electric Power Co. Both men are making similar inventories of systems in other Thumb of Michigan towns. A. L. Lason of Detroit, a representative of the Detroit Edison Co., was a business caller in Cass City on Wednesday.

Next Sunday at Caro at 3 p. m., representatives of the various high school centers of Tuscola county, the P. T. A.'s, the churches, the service and other clubs will meet to formulate plans for a follow-up program to the assemblies now being held in the schools by W. D. Bayley, Canadian legislator and educator. Already several communities have appointed their members to this County Committee and all others are asked to take this public notice as an invitation to send at least a carload to Sunday's meeting. The program will consist of a short address by Mr. Bayley on "What is being done, here and elsewhere to revive alcohol instruction." A discussion of the program for the county and the election of an executive will follow. Those attending this conference are asked to go to the county building where they will be directed to the meeting place.

Rev. Charles Bayless was re-elected president of the Cass City Community Club at a meeting of the board of directors on Wednesday evening. Dr. P. A. Schenck is vice president; J. Ivan Niergarth, secretary; and Dan Hennessy, treasurer. The membership dues for 1936 will be $1 a year, the same as last year.

Mrs. Louis Koeltzow of Montrose was the guest of Mrs. J. E. Seed Friday. Mrs. Koeltzow was formerly Miss Mabel Moss and taught the fifth and sixth grades in the Cass City schools several years ago. While a teacher here, she made her home with Mrs. Seed. Her son, Paul Koeltzow, is a teacher in the Deford school.

Representatives from Eastern Star chapters at Caro, Gagetown and Bad Axe attended the meeting of Echo Chapter here Wednesday evening. Gagetown conferred the degree on a candidate. The traveling gravel which goes to the lodge conferring the degree was taken to Gagetown and will be surrendered when the Gagetown chapter entertains neighboring chapters. Supper was served at the close of the lodge session here on Wednesday night.

Michigan orchard owners will be interested by the outlook for cherries and apples published by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics after a survey of statistics from all fruit producing states.

The economists say that prospects for better prices for apples during the next 5-year period are good; but that the supply of cherries is apt to be as large as that for the past few years, when prices have been low.

Moderate increases in replacements and plantings of apples will be necessary if the average production of the last few years is to be maintained 10 to 15 years hence. This is especially true of late apples.

Increased competition from foreign apples is expected in export markets as tree plantings have increased in other countries. The imposition of trade restrictions against U. S. shipments is apt to be another unfavorable factor in the export fruit trade.

In spite of some tree losses, the number of sour cherry trees now in orchards is sufficient to produce greater quantities of fruit in favorable years than the normal market demands. Prospects for sweet cherries are not much more favorable.

Miss Ione Catton of Lansing, general secretary of the Michigan Council of Religious Education, will be in Sanilac county for three services on December first.

She will speak at the Crosswell Presbyterian church in the morning during their regular worship hour at 10:30.

At 3 p. m., she will meet with the officers of the County Council at the Sandusky Presbyterian church for an executive meeting, to make plans for the county work. All Sunday School superintendents in the county are invited and urged to attend, also. At 7 p. m., Miss Catton will speak at the Sandusky M. E. church on the subject, "You Take the High Road." Young people, especially, and all other Sunday School workers in the county are urged to attend this service. Miss Catton is a great leader among young people and her message should be very inspirational. The evening program will be featured by special music.

Oscar Buschlen is president and Vernon Severance is secretary of the county organization.

Rye Growers Face Low Future Price

A combination of factors has caused Michigan rye growers to receive such low prices for their crop that an adjustment program for next year's harvest for the crop is necessary if any improvement is to be expected, according to R. J. Baldwin, administrator for the AAA in Michigan.

The main factors confronting the state rye growers are a crop this year much above normal needs, a very limited export market for foreign rye, and total rye supplies for the coming year approximately double those needed for domestic requirements.

Rye production in the United States this year is estimated at 52 million bushels, as compared with 16 million bushels last year, when the drought was the worst on record, and as compared with the 5-year (1928-32) average of 39 million bushels.

The rye carry-over on July 1, 1935, was estimated at more than 11 million bushels, and with the crop of 52 million bushels the supply for the coming year will amount to nearly 64 million bushels. The United States ordinarily needs only about 32 million bushels for its domestic requirements.

This big crop and supply has had a bad effect on price. The average farm price of rye for the United States on October 15, 1935, was 42 cents a bushel, while the average for the 1934-35 year was approximately 71 cents a bushel. The parity price of rye on October 15 was 90 cents a bushel. Prices were below the average in some of the important producing states. For instance, the North Dakota average price of rye on October 15 was 31 cents a bushel. In South Dakota it was 36 cents. In Wisconsin the price was 46 cents. The average Pennsylvania price was 58 cents a bushel.

With the rye program it is aimed to hold annual production in the United States to the actual domestic requirements and prospective export outlooks and to maintain farmers' income through adjustment payments.

More Hogs Growing on Nation's Farms

Increased supplies of pork are in sight from the larger crops of spring pigs this year, according to the annual outlook published by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The outlook also states that the crop of fall pigs is decidedly larger than last year. Hog prices are expected to average higher than in the marketing season of 1934 and 1935 but are expected to be lower than for the summer months in 1935. Continued increases in numbers of hogs produced during 1936 and 1937 are expected. The increase next year is predicted at between 20 and 30 per cent, and the 1937 production is apt to be still higher. Slaughter of hogs was very light in the first quarter of 1935, but the slaughter for the last quarter is expected to represent more than a normal proportion of the year's total. The number of hogs slaughtered under federal inspection in the marketing year 1934-35 was the smallest in a quarter of a century but this year's slaughter is expected to be even smaller. A better demand from domestic consumers for pork appears probable but no improvement in export demand is in sight. Germany has fewer hogs than one year ago but imposed tariff barriers prevent normal foreign trade.

Murderers Not Common Criminals

The majority of murders are not committed by common criminals, a fact that is confirmed by a study which shows, writes John Piquet, Knoxville, in Collier's Weekly, that two out of every three murders in America are committed by persons who have never before been arrested.

Here's a fuel that comes from one of Nature's choicest store-houses of quality coal. A rich coal from a rich field. It has less than 3% ash . . . more than 95% pure heat! Just try it once, and you'll find out how easy it is to damper down economically—how easy, also to have it quickly pouring forth intense heat. Order Cavalier now. We guarantee you'll like it.

Women should take only liquid laxatives

MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation.

Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes any sluggishness or biliousness, your money back.

Help Kidneys

If poorly functioning Kidneys and Bladder make you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Stiffness, Burning, Smarting, Itching, or Acidity try the guaranteed Doctor's Prescription Cystex (Sis-tex) — Must fit you up or money back. Only 75¢ at druggists.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

A. Bigelow to the Chronicle. "If in the churches of our village, the ladies' hats were removed at the beginning of the sermon and replaced before the singing of the last hymn, the result would be a very marked improvement in the feelings of preacher and people. In one large church which I have attended, there were cards tacked in conspicuous places about the vestibule and auditorium requesting the removal of ladies' hats."

If ever the soundness of this mutual company and the protection afforded to our members was put to the test it was during the past year. ## CHAPTER V

OLD Roderick pointed with his pipe up at the big house, where young Roddy lived with his wife Corinne.

"You know," he said whimsically, "maybe I'm gettin' on, but I swear that house ain't sitting right on the ground. It's up in the air a little more every night I look at it—and farther east, too."

Silver laughed with Jason and Steve.

"It ain't likely to go much higher with that big hired girl they have in it." Steve, the hired man, observed drily.

Jason cleared his throat. "Oh, I don't know that she's so big," he said. "She has better ankles and feet than most girls in Heron River."

Phronie opened the door and called out to them. "I wish one of you youngsters would run up and borrow some cinnamon for me I've started to make cookies—"

"Can't you ever rest, Ma?" Jason said, getting to his feet.

"I'll go, Jase," Silver said quickly. "You stay here and play."

While she went lightly up the slope she thought again, as she had countless times during the past week of Corinne's baffling attitude toward Roddy's brother. She appeared to be cordially itself toward him; was, in fact, almost glib with sincere solicitude. Perhaps that was the trouble, Silver reflected. For through it all, Silver had had the distinct feeling that Corinne was deliberately shutting poor Jason out of her consciousness. She feared, too, that Jason sensed this, and often wondered how long his pride or perverse humor would sustain him under the same roof with his brother's wife.

Then there was Paula. But Jason was different and Paula too shy for the development, as yet, of any friendship between them which might be embarrassing to Corinne. Only yesterday, however, Corinne had called Paula sharply away from the yard where she was watching Jason repair a corn-crib, and had set her to some trivial and unnecessary task.

When Silver entered Roddy's house, she found Corinne writing letters in the living room. Roddy, at the dining room table, was at work over his ledger.

"Phronie wants to borrow some cinnamon, Corinne," Silver explained when Roddy's wife inquiringly turned her head. "I can find it myself in the kitchen."

"Oh," Corinne said inattentively. "Paula will be down in a minute. She's upstairs—tidying her hair, I suppose. She'll find the cinnamon for you. I'm sure I don't know where she keeps it. Sit down, Silver. I must get these letters finished."

Silver picked up a copy of Vanity Fair and seated herself in the dining room. Roddy gave her an odd, vaguely troubled look, then dropped his eyes again to his ledger.

But immediately there was the sound of a car entering the driveway, and Corinne went to answer the doorbell.

"I'd better go home," Silver said quickly to Roddy.

A gleam of anger lit Roddy's eyes. "You stay where you are," he commanded. "Didn't you tell me people round here had to get used to you?" Silver had no time to make a reply.

A tall, granite-faced woman with a mottled red nose and a hat that bore a stiff little feather, entered the living room. In her wake, not unlike the trailing ruffle of a great ship, came a simpering miss of seventeen or eighteen, much befuddled, and wearing a flowered leghorn hat.

It was Mrs. Leander Folds, the school superintendent's wife of Heron River, and her daughter, Ethelwyn.

"My dear," Mrs. Folds was saying loquaciously, "I suppose I should have telephoned. But I am a woman of impulse, you know! We just got back yesterday from our holiday in the Black Hills, and heard about Roddy's marriage. We were out driving, and I thought this would be a good time to catch you in. We must—we just must have you in our reading club. Ethelwyn here is secretary of it, and it's so instructive for the young people—"

Mrs. Folds had advanced farther into the room, and now her eye fell upon Silver. A curious, tight look appeared on her face as though she were holding her breath. Silver stood up.

"Have you met Silver Grenoble, Mrs. Folds?" Corinne asked hastily. "My husband's cousin."

"How do you do?" Silver said, but made no move toward the two visitors.

"Oh—" Mrs. Folds surveyed her thoroughly. "How do you do? Roddy's cousin by—by marriage? Of course, yes, yes. And how do you do, Roddy? Oh, dear. I just thought of something." She turned abruptly and patted Ethelwyn's arm. "Run and see if I brought that book I wanted Mrs. Willard to read. It ought to be in the car. If it isn't, wait for me there, my dear."

Ethelwyn vanished docilely, although her eyes a moment before had been frankly devouring Silver. Silver could feel the hot blood pounding in her throat, her temples. Mrs. Folds' strategy had been so brutally obvious. Yet she was powerless to move.

"Now," said Mrs. Folds, "I can't stay a minute—but you must promise to come to our meeting on Tuesday, Mrs. Willard. We are studying Hardy at the moment—with one of the moderns thrown in, just for relief, so to speak." She smiled apologetically.

Roddy gave a sardonic bark of a laugh. "Hardy? You don't consider him a modern, eh?"

Mrs. Folds looked bewildered. Corinne agitatedly stepped closer to her and said, "Thank you so much, Mrs. Folds. I shall be glad to come, indeed."

"By the way, Mrs. Folds," Roddy said coldly, his face curiously white beneath his tan, his eyes two grayly burning slits, "has this club of yours a limited membership?"

Mrs. Folds reddened unbecomingly. "Er—yes, it has," she plunged. "You see—our house is small—"

Silver stood with her hands clenched about the table's edge, back of her.

"That's fortunate," Roddy interrupted Mrs. Folds, and laughed aloud. With that he slammed shut the covers of the ledger, flung it with a sharp report down upon the table and strode through the dining room into the kitchen.

Mrs. Folds smiled feebly and extended two fingers to Corinne. As though across waves of heat, Silver saw Mrs. Folds fall out of the house, Corinne accompanying her.

Paula had come down the back stairs. She entered the dining room and handed Silver the can of cinnamon. Silver was suddenly aware of Roddy standing before her with crossed arms.

"You'll find this place isn't worth the trouble, kid," he said somberly. "The women will knife you—every chance they get."

She gave him a steady look. "Mrs. Folds can't hurt me—really," she said with a proud lift of her head.

Roddy's lips moved in a hard way. "That isn't all of it," he continued. "I meant to tell you when you first came in, but I didn't get a chance. That man Gerald Lucas was enquiring about you today in Heron River."

For a moment Silver leaned heavily against the table. Her eyes were fixed wide upon Roddy's face, as though she expected to hear him repeat his words.

Corinne came bithely in through the front of the house.

"What an ogre of a woman!" she cried, laughing. "I'm glad you snubbed her, Roddy. I couldn't very well, because I thought she meant to invite—"

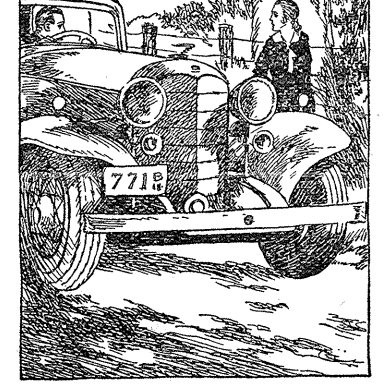

"Phronie is waiting for the cinnamon, Corinne," Silver said dully. "I must go."

But it was Jason who took the spice into the house to Sophronia. Silver felt that she could not, right now, bear the interior of the stone house, even for a moment.

"I'm going for a walk," she told Jason.

"A walk?" he asked, and frowned. But Silver broke away and started for the road. She thrust her hands into the pockets of her sweater and walked blindly into the last sinking glow of the sunset.

Presently a long, graceful roadster turned the corner and came toward her. As it slowed down and stopped beside her, the man at the wheel laughed with pleased surprise and leaned over the door. Silver glanced up at him.

The man was Gerald Lucas.

"How'dja make it do that, Charlie?"

Charlie Chase and Joyce Compton, stars of Charlie Chase Comedies, had good reason to be surprised like a jackrabbit. It had never happened before—so it's a safe bet that they had Standard's new double-quick-starting gasoline in the tank.

Don't think for a minute that this new gasoline is so fast that your car is liable to take off before you're ready. It's not that lively. But it is a remarkably fast-starting gasoline. And by that we don't mean a gasoline that simply gives a flash of action and then sputters and chokes when you try to drive away. We mean a gasoline that, even in bitter winter weather, responds to the first kick of the starter, catches hold at once, and gives you full steam ahead in regular mid-summer form.

That's promising a lot. But this gasoline has fully 35% greater warm-up speed, in zero temperatures. So get some of this new Standard Red Crown ... and SEE WHAT HAPPENS next time you step on the starter!

Sold by Standard Oil Stations and Dealers everywhere, at the price of "regular" gasoline.

CITRATE: aids blood; builds red corpuscles. NUX VOMICA: finest of tonics; for vigor, energy. BILE SALTS: stimulates liver bile; necessary to health.

light of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 25c, only a fraction of its worth. This offer is good today and tomorrow ONLY.

What It Will Do!

Indo-Vin will cleanse your bowels (gradually, not drastic or severe) as they were NEVER CLEANSED BEFORE. It will bring out gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been in your system a long time, causing you months of misery.

It helps make the digestive organs sweet and clean, and will give you the greatest appetite you EVER HAD IN YOUR LIFE.

IT WILL clear up skin eruptions caused by the impurities in the organs, will overcome the sallowness or "muddiness" that is due to sluggish liver and will put a ROSY GLOW into your cheeks.

Indo-Vin will make your stomach, liver and bowels more active, build you up in general and make you LOOK, ACT and FEEL like a DIFFERENT MAN or WOMAN, years younger than your real age.

To get your first bottle for 25c (today and tomorrow ONLY) bring coupon to the store below, or send 25c (stamps or coin) to Indo-Vin, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio, and medicine will be shipped postpaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Soule will still reside on the farm and we are ready to lay a wager that Jesse will not be idle.

men employed on the construction to dinner. A procession was formed, and, headed by the band, marched to the town hall, where a bountiful repast awaited them. When the railroad men had satisfied their appetites, the crowd who had assembled to celebrate the day gathered around the tables, over three hundred people dining in the hall. Before returning to the work, the men formed in line in front of the hall and gave three hearty cheers for "the ladies of Cass City," three for the "prosperity of Cass City," and three for "the band." That day track was laid to the depot grounds. A flag was displayed during the day on the flag-staff of the town hall. Business was generally suspended, and all gave themselves up to the celebration of the auspicious event.

"Under the impetus of this new connection with the outer world opening up new facilities for traffic and business enterprise, a 'boom' has commenced, not only spirited, but bidding fair to be permanent. Many new buildings, both business and dwelling houses, have been constructed; many others are under way, among them several business blocks of brick; two new churches, viz., of the Baptist Society and the Evangelical Association, are in

The Name "Parsifal"

The name Parsifal, used in Wagner's opera of that name, is apparently an adaptation of a name appearing in many countries: "Perival, Parzeval and Parsifal, all apparently derived from the Welch Pcedur, the meaning of which is searcher for the basin or cup. The opera is concerned with the search for the Holy Grail, or cup, from which Christ gave to his disciples the wine at the last supper.

Clean Efficient and Serviceable

Many remarks have been made to the effect that there is something clean, efficient and serviceable about the very looks of an electric range. People are glad that they have stopped thinking that a stove has to be just a stove with a special spot where it must be placed, where the asbestos protects the wall from the intense heat, and the chimney opening where the smoke and fumes must go out, and the zinc plate beneath to keep the wasted heat from charring the floor.

Modern electric ranges present the clean, efficient and serviceable appearance because they do not require any special spot. They may be placed anywhere, convenient to the user, no chimneys, no asbestos, no zinc. There are no smoke, fumes, overheating, or such like. Electric ranges are built to cook with. All heat displaced is utilized in actually cooking, not in heating the house, nor smoking up the neighborhood, nor throwing off unhealthy fumes.

Electric cooking is the really modern method. In addition to its cleanliness, efficiency and serviceability, it is safe and economical.
