CASS CITY MARKETS.

December 5, 1935.

Buying price—

Table listing market prices for various commodities including Wheat, Oats, Rye, Beans, Light Red Kidney Beans, Dark Red Kidney Beans, Spartans, Six-row barley, Buckwheat, Peas, Butterfat, Butter, Eggs, Cattle, Calves, Hogs, Hens, Broilers, White Ducks, Colored Ducks, Turkeys, and Geese.

Poisonous Fungi

Some names of fungi indicate that their bearers are poisonous, such as the Death Cap; this is a very poisonous toadstool which is sometimes taken for a mushroom, with fatal results. It is also named the Destroying Angel. Another, poisonous toadstool is called the Poison Pie, as it resembles a small pie.—Answers Magazine.

Cormorant Fishing at Night

In Japan cormorant fishing is done usually at night. Torches are lit, and as the fish, attracted by the light, gather around the boats or rafts, the birds are let into the water. This method of fishing also saves bait, for in daylight fishing with cormorants it is necessary to attract schools of fish by pouring a large amount of bait around each boat.

Males and Females

Nature does not produce an equal number of males and females among many kinds of living creatures. For example, there are only 33 males for every 100 female octopi or eight-armed cuttlefishes, while there are 819 males for every 100 females of Latrodectus, a genus of poisonous spiders.—Collier's Weekly.

Discovered Columbia River

Columbia river was discovered by the Spaniard Heceeta, in 1775, and called St. Roque. Afterward, in 1792, Captain Gray of Boston explored the stream and changed the name to Columbia.

Another America's Cup Challenger

ANOTHER British challenge for the America's cup has been received in New York from Charles R. Fahey, airplane builder and owner of Shamrock V. He asks for a series of races either next year or in 1937. Mr. Fahey is here shown with his wife in their London home.
