LARGER SCHOOL UNITS ON STATE'S PROGRAM

Large Schools Provide Better Opportunities for Students, Says Harry Smith.

With the state paying the greater share of the education program in Michigan today, it will not be long before the state will insist on larger school units if the people of a community do not institute such a program themselves, Harry Smith, school commissioner of Sanilac county, told Cass City Rotarians Tuesday. The state pays 79% of the financial load of Sanilac county's schools.

"Educational advantages are being gradually multiplied and the larger school provides opportunities to the student impossible in the smaller units," he said. "In rural schools that have pupils in all eight grades, one teacher must hear 40 classes a day, devoting 10 to 12 minutes to each group. In a larger school, with several teachers, 40 to 45 minutes are possible for each class period and naturally the pupil has a better opportunity because of the longer teaching time."

Mr. Smith gave a comprehensive description of the new experiment in the Thumb of Michigan—the township unit school in Marlette. All districts in the township are included and next year, after the addition to the Marlette village school building is completed, rural schools in the township will be closed and pupils transported from rural districts to the central school. A school bus will pass the door of every child going to school in that township and it is estimated that no child will be longer on the road than 45 minutes to reach the school. The state pays up to $40 a pupil each year for transportation and $1,000 a year for the upkeep of each of the five busses which will be in use. Crosswell is endeavoring to organize a township unit system.

Schools in Cass City Community.

An ideal situation for this territory, according to Mr. Smith, is for the surrounding schools from 8 to 15 miles and lesser distances, according to their location to the larger high schools, to limit their curriculum to the eight lower grades and have all the students above that age in the territory attend high school in Cass City where diversified courses of study having home economics, physical education, shop work and agriculture, in addition to regular studies, are offered to students.

Schools have been accused of neglecting to teach practical subjects and this has been more particularly noticeable during times of stress than in those of prosperity, he said. Woodshop activities in schools are a fine thing for boys, especially for those in rural communities.

Visual education gives deep and lasting impressions to the pupil and pictures are a means of successfully teaching geography, history, hygiene and other subjects, Mr. Smith said. He uses pictures on the screen to illustrate the Yellowstone National Park, the Old South in Colonial Times, and other subjects to rural school children. School groups in Northwest Sanilac county have viewed these illustrations at his invitation at the Shabbona Community hall.

Mr. Smith graduated from the Cass City high school in 1922 and has been school commissioner in Sanilac county for several years.

Two Roof Fires; Little Damage Done

Fire starting from a spark from the chimney damaged the roof and a room on the second floor of the W. O. Stafford residence on Garfield avenue Saturday afternoon. Quick work by a number of men kept it from more serious damage. The fire department was called out Sunday morning to extinguish a roof fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Auten. The fire was put out with chemicals. Only slight damage was reported.

100 Students Vie for Show Honors

Competition is keen between regular and short course students for prizes in the Little International Livestock Show to be judged Thursday, Feb. 6, at Michigan State College.

The Little International, one of the features of Farmers' Week, has attracted over 100 students of both courses with the result that about 110 animals have been marcelled and trained by the students.

Training for the International is the first step in showmanship experience for many of the students. Gold medals will be awarded winners of each of the five livestock divisions. Ribbons are the prizes for class winners.

Among the 25 horses to be shown by the students will be old Pervenche, Belgian full-bred mare, winner of nine grand championships in fairs all over the country. Dairy cattle, beef cattle, hogs and sheep will also be shown in competition.

Judges are George Cooper, Ann Arbor, dairy cattle; Brady Wallace, Fowlerville, horses; C. R. Lealand, Ann Arbor, sheep; Joseph Purdy, Swartz Creek, beef cattle; and Will S. Adams, Hillsdale, swine.

Joseph L. Heirman, Rock, senior in agriculture, is student ringmaster. Student superintendents of livestock divisions are Roy Wallis, Rudyard, and Wilbur Dexter, Grand Haven, dairy cattle; Fred Boudeman, Kalamazoo, horses; John M. Converse, Union City, sheep; Alvin J. Wells, North Adams, beef cattle; and Gale H. Gibson, Lansing, swine.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, SANDUSKY WINS

Doubles Score on Locals Who Had Previously Defeated Them 28 to 6.

Sandusky playing good fast basketball, took the apparently overconfident Maroon and Grey squad into camp to the tune of 26-13. The second stringers won both of their encounters during the week to continue their now famous string extending over several years of play. Coach Kelly says he will leave the solution to this mystery for the down town Barber Shop and Curb Stone Coaching Association to solve.

Brown City, the Sanilac county champions, were beaten by Cass City here last Friday 31-22, making the locals' a total of six games won and two lost up to the present time. Grant Reagh was high point man in the Brown City game with 11 points. Grant Ball, who finished his athletic career at the end of last semester, distinguished himself by scoring a pretty field goal for Brown City. It is rumored that the superintendent of Brown City is sending him a nice green Brown City letter.

It may be that in pointing for the all important Caro battle here tonight, Sandusky was overlooked. Be that as it may, Sandusky is a much improved team over the one that took the floor here a few weeks ago.

The battle tonight promises to be the most hotly contested between these two schools in years, with Caro, striving to keep their slate clean, and the locals fighting to even the season's score, as Caro won the first encounter by a margin of three points. There will be no advance in admission for this battle of the season.

25 RESPOND TO LINER OF CARO FIRM

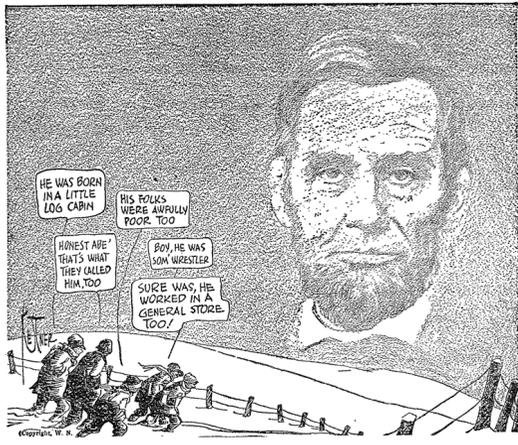

Allan Schrader, a member of the firm of Metcalf & Schrader of Caro, was in the Chronicle office Monday and said he found a Chronicle liner an effective and profitable way to sell the building on the corner of Main and Grant streets, now occupied by the Bentley Blacksmith Shop.

William Bentley sold the firm this property a few months ago and Metcalf & Schrader advertised for bids for the building which was to be removed from the lot by March 15. Twenty-five persons interested in buying the building interviewed Mr. Schrader. William Merchant is the purchaser and he will use the lumber to build a tool shed on his farm.

Metcalf & Schrader will erect a gasoline service station on their lot on East Main street this spring.

Howard R. Taylor of Cass City is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity at Michigan State College, East Lansing. Taylor was initiated with traditional ceremonies last week. He is a freshman in the division of hotel administration.

MARKET SANELY, J. F. THOMSON ADVISES

Agricultural Comm'r. Tells Michigan Farmers of Quality Program.

Intelligent marketing is the sound, sane solution of Michigan's agricultural problems. The Michigan state department is aiming its program at such a goal, declared James F. Thomson, commissioner of agriculture, in an address on Wednesday evening, Feb. 5, before a mass meeting of farmers attending the twenty-first annual Farmers' Week program at Michigan State College.

Sister states have marketed carefully graded farm products while Michigan agriculture in competition with these states has been somewhat lax in developing modern marketing methods, the state agricultural commissioner asserted. Because proper grades are used, products from other midwest states have flooded the largest Michigan markets. The remedy, Commissioner Thomson pointed out to the farmers assembled at East Lansing, apparently can be developed through the Michigan bonded farm produce plan.

"Michigan is the first state in the union to adopt a plan whereby farm products go to market carrying a state inspection label guaranteeing grade and quality," said Mr. Thomson.

"Thousands of bags of Michigan potatoes shipped into Chicago are carrying the bonded label, so far a proved success. After thorough investigation, we find that this label is worth 85c on each bag of potatoes, bringing premium prices for the first time in many years. Back of this bonded label program is the entire inspection force of the state department of agriculture.

"Each inspector has been schooled in grading regulations. Adequate police powers have been given this field staff to cover enforcement of more than 90 laws under which the department operates, but the inspectors are carrying out their work on an educational rather than on a law enforcement basis."

National action must be stirred up to halt increasing importations of foreign agricultural products, the commissioner declared. He cited the increased importations in seeds, eggs, oats, corn, dried milk and butter to show increases for 1935 over importations of 1934 of from 126 per cent for seeds to 3,160 per cent for dried milk and butter. Action must be taken, the speaker asserted, to assure the American farmer the return of domestic markets.

Missionary from India to Speak Here

Miss Agnes Gardner, for a number of years a missionary to India, will speak at the Nazarene church Sunday, Feb. 9, at 2:30 p. m., to women and girls over sixteen about her experiences as a trained nurse behind Zenana walls.

At 7:30 in the evening, she will speak to a mixed congregation on "India's Night." She will make a dress without pins, needles, thread or thimble and will speak in it. She will show curios and pictures of India. Everyone is welcome to this evening service. This will be interesting to boys and girls as well as to grown-up folk.

WANT SCHOOL FOR FARM COLONY YOUTH

Tuscola and Huron Ministers Bring Matter to Attention of Legislators.

Over 30 ministers from churches in Huron and Tuscola counties were guests at Wahjamega Farm Colony Monday. Following a luncheon, Dr. J. T. Redwine, medical superintendent, addressed the group. Two parties were then formed for a tour of the hospital and other points of interest.

The occasion was the annual joint session of the two ministerial associations of the Upper Thumb. A brief business session was conducted with Dr. J. Leslie French of Caro in the chair. One resolution of public interest was adopted. It was declared to be "the sense of the meeting" as follows:

"Whereas, we have learned that there are at least one hundred and fifty children of school age who are teachable at the Michigan State Farm Colony for Epileptics; and whereas, we learn, further, that there is a complete absence of common school facilities at Wahjamega;

"As ministers of Christ and as loyal citizens our great commonwealth, we regret to note the continued denials of this basic American right;

"And we urge upon our State Legislature, through its proper authorities, the provision of adequate grade-school facilities for the child-population of Wahjamega at an early date."

Another matter of general interest was information that skilled services represented by the hospital staff at Wahjamega are available without cost for diagnosis, counsel and psychiatric treatment looking toward the cure of personality difficulties of problem-children and incipient juvenile delinquents. Public school officials and community service agencies are invited to use the facilities of the hospital and personnel on an outpatient basis, "inasmuch," said Dr. Redwine, "as the institution is owned and operated by and for the people of Michigan."

Fine Farm House Destroyed by Fire

The fine farm home of Chris Schwaderer, bordering the western corporation line of Cass City, was completely destroyed by fire on Wednesday noon and the flames spread so rapidly that few articles of household goods were saved.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwaderer, both over 80 years of age, were just about to sit down to the noon-day meal when the fire was discovered. It apparently started in a partition behind the chimney, but the smoke filled the house so rapidly that few household goods were rescued. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

An alarm was sounded in the village and cars rushed men towards the farm, but the autos were stuck in the snow a short distance after leaving M-31 and the fire fighters' arrival from town was delayed.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwaderer remodeled their farm residence about ten years ago.

Two American Historical Events Are of Unusual Interest to a Cass City Family

One historical date in American history and one official document of the nation are revered more than many others by the family of Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Morris of Cass City.

The date is the birth anniversary of the Great Emancipator on February 12 which will be observed as a holiday by many citizens next week, and the document is the Declaration of Independence.

Dr. Frank Lincoln Morris is a distant relative of Abraham Lincoln, the relationship coming through Dr. Morris' grandmother—his father's mother—who was a cousin of the former president.

Mrs. Morris' ancestors, the Heath family, were decided property in New Jersey by the Indians, on which at a later date the State Church at Trenton was erected and from the steps of this edifice the second public reading of the Declaration of Independence took place.

the four corners of the bride's table. Other appointments of this table were white candles, cut flowers and a three-tier wedding cake made by Mrs. Harry Fisher and adorned by Donna Marie Fox, her granddaughter.

At three o'clock the bride and groom of fifty years ago renewed their vows, Rev. E. A. Hazard of the M. E. church performing the ceremony. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Fisher's former neighbors, Byron Greenfield of Caro and Mrs. Annie Brandymaier.

A two-course luncheon was served after the ceremony, guests being seated at small tables. The ice cream was centered with a figure "50" in gold color.

Friends were in attendance from Pontiac, Caro, Cass City, Columbia, Unionville and Akron.

HUNTER REINSTATED IN GOLDEN GLOVES

His Match with Misko on Monday Was Fine Amateur Performance.

Don Hunter, 18, of Cass City had another chance in the Golden Gloves tournament in Bay City last night, the committee acting favorably Tuesday evening on an application for reinstatement of Hunter after considering all phases of his defeat at the hands of Tommy Misko of Saginaw in Monday night's preliminaries at Bay City Armory.

Most of the discussion on Monday night's contests centered around the scrap which had no equal in Golden competition in Bay City. It was between Hunter and Misko in the novice welterweight class. The two lads appeared equally matched and this contest was the best on the program. There was little to choose until the final minute when Misko unloaded a belated barrage of punches which gave him a shade in the opinion of the two judges. Referee George McMullen cast his vote for Hunter. Fans raised considerable hue and cry for the reinstatement of Hunter and the committee acted favorably for the Cass City lad's restoration in the list of contestants in the matches of Thursday night.

The Bay City Times, in its comments, on Monday's match, says: "Fans and officials alike agree that the Misko-Hunter fight was the best amateur performance ever staged here, and one which surpassed many professional scraps. The bout was extremely close throughout, and Misko was given the decision only because he finished stronger."

Walter A. Olsen, one of the judges, scored the first two rounds even and gave Misko a 5-4 margin in the last heat for a total of 15-14 in favor of the Saginawian. Ray J. Kuhn, the other judge, gave Hunter a one-point shade in the opening round, gave Misko the same standing in the second, then scored the last one 5-4 for Misko for a total of 14-13 in favor of Tommy. Referee George McMullen gave Hunter the opener, 5-4, gave Misko the second by the same figures, and gave Hunter the edge in the last chapter, 5-4, for a 14-13 decision in favor of Hunter. The three ballots stood 42 for Misko and 41 for Hunter.

"The two judges were eager that Hunter be given another chance if possible. Both agreed the fight was as close as any they had ever seen, and only the rule forbidding draw decisions prevented them from having the scrap end even-up."

"Scores of fans also have requested that Hunter be returned to the wars. So now he's back in, a full-fledged member of the novice welterweight division. He will not be pitted against Misko Thursday night, please."

THIS AND THAT

HE IS easiest fooled who fools himself.

ONE paragrapher says that apples are better than castor oil. What isn't?

FRANK WHITE chopped down this week what he thinks was the biggest shade tree in Cass City. It measured 3 1/2 feet in diameter at the stump. The tree, a poplar, stood in front of the Leslie Townsend residence. Mr. Townsend intends to plant a soft maple in place of the poplar which variety is not popular in this day and age.

SEVERAL farmers residing on side roads are realizing the experiences of 20 years ago with highways blocked with snow and going without mail delivery for several days. Wednesday morning was declared the coldest one of the winter by owners of "unofficial" thermometers which registered all the way from 8 to 14 below.

"LEN" WITHEY is the first of the Leap Year eligibles to inform the Chronicle that he has had a proposal in this year of 1936 when the girls may ask as well as answer. "Len" says that the maiden is but 25 years of age, while he is 72, but he's heard of a greater range of years when marriages were successful ventures. He didn't say, however, whether he said "yes" or "no" to this proposal which came early in January.

ROTARIANS are practicing two nights a week, and those with leading parts more often, getting ready for the big minstrel show next Wednesday evening, Feb. 12, at the auditorium. The chorus is busy on negro spirituals, "Wagon Wheels," "The Oregon Trail," "Red Sails in the Sunset," and other songs with a swing and melody that's fascinating. The end men, soloists and quartet members are on the program for special numbers. All in all, it's an event that promises a most entertaining evening. Proceeds of the show go to the crippled children's fund.

IT'S NOT how old you are in years but how young you feel in spirit! That's William Bentley's theory of life, and though in his 78th year, he looks with enthusiasm on the change of location for his blacksmithing business. He expects to add 10 feet to the building in early spring, making his new shop approximately 30x40 feet in size. "Billy" was born in Canada and started learning his trade at the age of 12 when blacksmiths "made everything." He came to Cass City in 1879. Though he farmed near Silverwood for ten years and ranched in New Mexico for seven, during that period he always did blacksmith work for his neighbors and he has been within reach of his anvils for 66 years.

Magician Comes to C. C. C. Meet

Harry E. Cecil, a magician from Detroit, will be the entertainer at the February meeting of the Cass City Community Club on Wednesday evening, Feb. 19. The occasion is a father and son banquet which will be served by ladies of the Catholic church. The program is under the management of the elevator and mill men's group.

Mr. Cecil appeared here in 1933 as entertainer on ladies' night of the Community Club and his program was so well received that the program committee decided it would be particularly interesting to the youthful guests of the club on Feb. 19.

Attention Tuscola County Taxpayers.

Due to the number of calls at the prosecuting attorney's office from the various township treasurers regarding the seizure of personal property for the payment of both real and personal property taxes, attention is called to sections 34 and 37 and 38 and 38 and the following sections of the 1929 Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan. The law makes it the duty of all township treasurers to endeavor to collect all taxes by levy and sale before the treasurers can return the tax as unpaid to the county treasurer.

RULE OF REASON.

The stirring political disputes now raging indicate one of the most momentous presidential campaigns in the history of this country. Already the leaders are engaged in saying nasty things about each other. There is no demand for that sort of tactics. After all we are all Americans interested in the good of the nation and it will be far better if we keep our feet on the ground and let reason and not emotion temper the things we have to say.

THE SHOWDOWN.

The claim has been repeatedly made that thousands of property owners are in a position to pay their delinquent tax bill, but have refrained from payment through the hope that the statewide tax sale, scheduled for May 1, would be halted by a special session of the legislature, and further extension of time granted. These hopes were blasted a few days ago when Governor Fitzgerald emphatically declared: "I refuse to pussyfoot on the issue. So far as I am concerned the tax sale is going on."

ONE WAY OUT.

While statesmen frantically search for constitutional means to lift agriculture to a plane compatible with industry a quiet movement is under way on the farms that is destined to have greater influence in helping the farming industry to its place in the sun than any governmental scheme so far devised. We refer to the work of the 4-H clubs.

While their elders are discussing congressional legislation these "Future Farmers of America" are engaged in the task of finding better marketing methods for farm produce. They realize there has been a change since the horse and buggy era. The city dweller, with limited storage space, is guided in his purchases by compact, neat-looking packages, rather than the quality of the things he buys.

The young folks are meeting that challenge by carefully preparing for market the products of the farms. Potatoes, apples, vegetables and other produce is being carefully sorted, graded and placed in suitable containers. Gradually markets that had been taken over by Western growers are being recaptured. Industrial Michigan provides the best market in the world for farm produce grown on Michigan farms under perfect soil and climatic conditions. There is not a sensible reason in the world why we should go outside to supply these demands.

Now We Know Whom to Blame

What We Think

It is a pretty well established fact that a man can't serve two masters—or two mistresses, but the fact doesn't keep a lot of men from trying it.

You are reasonably safe now in expressing any disbelief you may have in Santa Claus.

It looks as though the Supreme court tried to kill the farmers' Santa Claus.

I have come to the conclusion I would rather be subsidized than be paid allotment checks. I have noticed that no subsidy has ever been declared unconstitutional.

I don't think the human race has much to be proud of—especially when it looks back and considers what it used to regard as the essence of wisdom that now appears so ridiculous.

It hasn't been so many years ago in this country that the best minds of the day believed in witchcraft and innocent men, women, and children were forced to walk on hot plow shares to prove whether or not they were guilty of witchcraft.

Someone said the other day that nature never makes a mistake. Well, how about the peach buds that come out too early and get nipped?

I notice the United States is still selling oil to Italy. My guess is that if the United States doesn't watch her step she will be into this war up to her eyes before she knows it.

We like to tell how strong we are for peace, but at the same time have no objections to our industries and munition men furnishing the supplies with which other nations at war may carry on the fight.

I think that if the oil men are going to be permitted to sell oil to Italy, the munition men should be allowed the same privilege of selling munitions.

If I were in the munition manufacturing business I would demand equal rights with the oil industry.

Not long ago a friend of mine had the misfortune to lose his wife. He cried all over my shoulder about it, and told me that his home was broken up forever.

In less than two years he was married again and he is happier with his new wife than he ever was with his first one.

All of which goes to show that few of us know very far ahead what is ahead of us, nor do we know whether the things that happen to us that look like calamities at the time are really calamities or blessings in disguise.

I have to confess that I have never been excited at a political meeting to the point where the expression of my enthusiasm required cheering to the extent of two minutes.

I think I have a normal amount of faith in the human race but not enough to permit me to accept a call as a minister with a congregation whose salary schedule is limited to the weekly collections.

Two Minute Sermon

God's Plan Still Waits to Be Tried. (By Thomas Hastwell).

When I read of the mistakes, and the errors, and the blunderings of the children of Israel and the other peoples of the earth in those early days, it appears strange, that, with so many examples of the results of their wrong doing before them, they would have turned aside from the error of their way and done the things that the Lord commanded them to do.

But, on the other hand, when one looks at the world today, even after 2000 years of Christendom and finds a situation essentially no different than that which faced the ancient people, it is all the more strange. It is especially strange when one thinks that there is not a problem today involving nations or groups of nations that could not be solved by the same law laid down nearly two thousand years ago on the hillsides and roads and in the market places of Galilee. Our own economic situation, the tangle of European affairs, the threat of world war—all would yield to the same simple rule. We still grope in the dark persisting in our own experiments that have proven false many, many times. God's plan still waits to be tried.

WE DRIVERS

A Series of Brief Discussions on Driving, Dedicated to the Safety, Comfort and Pleasure of the Motoring Public. Prepared by General Motors

No. 7—SLIPPERY WEATHER

ICE AND SNOW always bring problems for drivers. These problems are the result of less friction. And that is interesting, because usually we are trying to reduce friction all we can. We use ball and roller bearings to overcome friction. We smooth and polish parts to reduce friction. We put oil in our cars to avoid friction. But we can't get along without friction, just the same.

For, after all, we couldn't start a car, we couldn't stop a car, we couldn't turn a corner, if it weren't for friction. The friction between the road and our rubber tires is what gives us traction.

Most of the time we have plenty of traction. But in certain climates every year, winter comes blowing and blustering down from the North, and the first thing we know he has spread ice and snow over our roads, and our whole traction condition is changed.

But automobiles are pretty well prepared these days to meet any conditions. All we have to do is to adjust ourselves to these changed circumstances.

For instance, many skillful drivers start their cars in high gear on very slippery, icy streets. Ordinarily this would be a bad thing to do. But when our tires have to start us going on slippery ice or snow, starting in second or "high" is harmless and it does help to avoid spinning wheels, side slipping and difficulty in getting under way. If you haven't tried this after stopping at intersections, you may be surprised to find out how much more quickly you get started again. Only remember to engage the clutch very slowly.

This business of starting in slippery weather can be quite a problem. But stopping is even more so. However, most good drivers agree on one method that they find quite satisfactory. First of all they begin to slow their cars down at quite a distance from where they want to stop. They press the brake lightly at first and release it almost at once. Then they press again and release quickly. By a series of brief, moderate brake actions, instead of one continuous pressure, they gradually reduce speed and can usually stop without skidding.

Many of the best drivers always make it a point not to disengage the clutch as soon as they apply their brakes, but to wait until the car has almost stopped. While this is their general practice, they say it is especially important on slippery roads, as they claim it reduces the chances of skidding. But if we use this method there is one thing we must look out for. We have to remember that on a slippery surface it is very easy to stall our engine by using our brakes when the clutch is still engaged.

Outside of starting and stopping, most winter skidding is at turns and curves. Many good drivers tell us that they treat every slippery curve or turn as though it were going to be a stop. In other words, they approach curves using the very same system of short, moderate brake actions. The result is that when they reach the curve they are going so slowly that they can actually give the engine a little gas and put some power in the wheels. With power turning the wheels, we are not so likely to skid.

After all, the main thing to do about driving in slippery weather is just what we do about walking in slippery weather. We are all pretty careful about that. The first thing most of us do when we go out on a slippery morning is to put out one foot cautiously and get the feel of the surface to see how careful we have to be. The best drivers we know do practically the same thing with their cars. The first thing they do after they get started, is to test the surface. They make sure that there are no cars too near, and then they gently apply the brakes. If they don't skid, they resume speed and apply the brakes again—this time a little more firmly.

In this way they determine the surface and know the degree of caution they must exercise to be safe. This seems like a very sensible idea.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

Julius Jonas was blinded completely by a gun cleaning accident when he was forty-eight years old. He managed to learn Braille, but ahead of him seemed to be only years of broom and mop making—rather a bitter prospect since the accident had not only cost him his sight but a fine income as well. Refusing to accept such a fate, Jonas went to one of the large life insurance companies and applied for a job. He got it. Now at sixty-two he is one of the most successful life insurance men in the city, his income being far larger than many men with sight. Incidentally, he has never capitalized his infirmity, his selling being strictly on the merits of what he has to offer.

Having proved to himself that it could be done, Mr. Jonas began giving attention to other blind men, his thought being to teach them to help themselves. Having found no Braille books of insurance rates, he had made one for himself. From that, he made copies which he presented to other blind men whom he persuaded to enter the business. At present, there are about 200 in the city. Not satisfied with that, he wrote Braille books on insurance and followed those with books on salesmanship, so that now there is a complete course for the blind. And all because one man refused to surrender to blindness!

In one section of New York, a moth is not merely a household pest but Public Enemy No. 1. It is the crowded blocks between Sixth and Eighth avenues, Twenty-sixth and Thirty-first streets. That is the fur district of the city and in it is concentrated about 75 per cent of the entire fur business of the United States. As the fur business of the country amounts to about half a billion a year at retail prices, it is easy to get an idea of the value of the pelts handled there—and why moths are enemies. More than 12,000 persons are employed by the various fur houses and last year the pay roll amounted to almost $25,000,000.

Heard about an artist who came to the manager of the syndicate for which he works in great distress. It seems that his wife had learned the size of his weekly check and was furious because he was not earning more. So he wanted to be allowed to pay the accounting department $5 a week in cash with his check hoisted accordingly, thus causing the wife to believe he had received a raise. The arrangement was entered into and the artist has home peace now. The incident strikes me as curious, since with artists and newspaper men, the wife is usually the last to hear of a raise.

Anthony Rocco, who plays a seven-stringed guitar in the El Patio lounge of the Rockefeller Center Roof, is the same Rocco who played but one note in a recent broadcast. He was engaged to play a long, whining note on his guitar and his transportation was paid from Chicago. At the last moment, the note was eliminated. But the producer was informed he would have to pay Rocco anyway. So the note went back into the score.

Edwin Ross, author of "One Being Living," is an ERB worker, being connected with the drama department of the PWA as a play reader. Born in San Francisco two years before the earthquake, he became an orphan at seventeen. In 1932 he married an orphan. His first work was published during his first year of marriage and his second during his second year, which may or may not be an argument for matrimony. He maintains that his latest work was not done on government time.

Heard about a well-known man whose hobby is collecting ash trays without the formality of paying for them. It seems that whenever he encounters one not in his collection, he can't rest until it is acquired. His wife keeps careful track of him and whenever it seems that trouble or embarrassment may ensue, she arranges a settlement which she is careful to keep from him so as not to spoil his pleasure.

Prefers Prison to Working for Relief

Fremont, Ohio.—Because he preferred going to prison rather than working for the township trustees, W. G. Jones, fifty-five-year-old farmer and relief client, was given a one to three year sentence in the penitentiary. Jones, charged with non-support of his five children, was sentenced by Judge A. V. Bauman. Township trustees had complained that he had squandered an inheritance of $700 and refused to work.

Do You Ever Wonder Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out
Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN. He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief. Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this. You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

DISHES THAT ARE DIFFERENT

A CREAM puff pastry is very simple to make, but the baking is the test of its perfection. Bagdad Cream Puffs. Heat together one cupful of boiling water and one-third cupful of corn oil. When boiling add together three-fourths of a cupful of flour mixed with one and one-half tablespoonfuls of cornstarch and one-half teaspoonful of salt, all well sifted together. Stir and mix vigorously until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Cool and add one at a time three eggs, beating well after the addition of each; now add one teaspoonful of baking powder and beat well and drop by spoonfuls on a baking sheet, shaping into circular form. Bake from 35 to 45 minutes, depending upon the size of the puff. Cool, cut with a sharp knife near the bottom of the puff, remove any doughy center and fill with the following:

Cut one-half a package of dates and one cupful of marshmallows with the scissors. Dip the scissors into water to keep the mallows from sticking. Chop one-half cupful of nutmeats, add one cupful of cream beaten until stiff, add a pinch of salt and a flavoring of vanilla. This amount will make one dozen large puffs.

Irish Kisses. To one-half cupful of peanut butter add one-half cupful of dates, three-fourths of a cupful of powdered sugar and two unbeaten egg whites. Mix and beat until they are thoroughly blended. Drop by teaspoonfuls on buttered baking sheet and bake 15 minutes. This makes 18 kisses.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore from Long Beach, California, that they enjoyed their trip west very much and are now admiring the flowers which are in bloom as well as many other beautiful sights on the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Striffler entertained twelve guests Monday evening in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Striffler. Progressive cards were played. Mrs. Striffler was presented with two beautiful birthday cakes, which were cut and served at the supper.

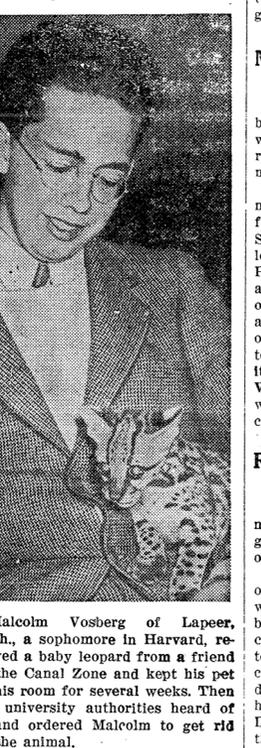

The Pinney Dry Goods Company believe in doing their housecleaning early and during the last week the interior of the store has received a fresh coat of white paint. The office at the back of the store, which had been raised above the main floor, has been lowered.

Below zero weather had no terrors for four Cass City ladies who wanted to hear the Russian Imperial Singers, appearing Wednesday evening as the third number on the Consistory series of entertainments in Bay City. The quartet who braved the winter breezes are Mesdames Andrew Bigelow, Herman Doerr, Norman Fisher and Harold Jackson. They spent the afternoon in Saginaw.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Striffler were callers in Swartz Creek Friday evening. Edward Mark, who had spent the week in Lansing, returned home with them. Mr. and Mrs. Striffler were called to Swartz Creek because of a head-on collision of two cars in one of which Mr. Mark was a passenger. Both cars, driving slowly because of a blinding snow storm, were badly damaged but no one was seriously hurt.

About forty women from the various missionary societies of the Cass City churches listened to a very interesting and comprehensive address by Mrs. Albert I. Good on her work as missionary in Africa in the local Presbyterian church Thursday evening. Rev. P. J. Allured presided as chairman and Mrs. R. A. McNamee, president of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church of Cass City, introduced the speaker. Mrs. Good inspired her hearers to a more active interest in foreign missions.

SMUGGLING GUNS TO ETHIOPIA NEW GAME

Runrunning Adventurers Now Turn to Arms.

Paris, France—Europe's gangsters and international adventurers, who have found time on their hands since bootlegging booze into America became a dead industry, have discovered a new racket in gun-running into Ethiopia.

While the chancelleries are busy trying to find a solution to the quarrel between Benito Mussolini and the emperor of Ethiopia, Halle Selassie I, gunrunning racketeers are busy rushing into East Africa the munitions which may blaze when talking ceases.

With some 500,000 men to resist the might of Italy, and the need for airplanes, tanks and motorized artillery, the ruler of Ethiopia has sent emissaries to munition plants of Europe to try to obtain the equipment necessary to carry on war against the white invader of the kingdom founded, according to legend, by Solomon and the queen of Sheba.

Secret Orders Placed. Owing to the ban on export of arms, the Ethiopians have not been able to buy enough war stocks, although the emissaries have offered gold from their fabled mines. Some secret orders have been passed and ships, under sealed instructions, have sailed mysteriously from several ports in Europe down through the Suez canal and the Red sea.

Normally, they carry trinkets and western goods for the emperor's people, but in reality they have been loaded to the Pilsoll line with powder and arms. The gunrunning racketeers are supplementing this traffic. Mostly Greeks, Germans, Armenians and other individuals of no defined nationality, they have spread their activity from the capitals of Europe to the shores of the Red sea and the inland frontiers of the emperor's kingdom.

Their agents throughout the western capitals are charged with the mission of buying all available rifles, shot-guns and revolvers and, if possible, machine guns. These are then shipped to the nearest port, where bartering goes on with the captains of vessels bound east of Suez.

Racketeers Charter Ships. The smugglers' agents offer big rewards to sea captains who are willing to use up available space in loading guns for the East African war. As, however, the number of vessels available on the regular routes is limited, the racketeers have been chartering vessels of their own, idle tramp steamers, yachts and sailing craft.

Crammed full to the decks with grenades and rifles and machine guns, they steer for the Red sea, unload their cargoes and rush them over the caravan routes by camel and mule pack to the frontiers of Ethiopia.

Here the Ethiopians, hungry for the guns which they need to defend their soil, are ready with precious gold-dust tied in cloth, which they pay to the gun traders. Throughout the vast desert wastes of Arabia and the Yemen, where Lawrence roused the tribes against the Turks in the World war, the gun traders today are searching the land for guns which they can ship across the stretch of water which separates the Arabian state from Africa.

Arabian tribes, eager to help their Ethiopian neighbors against the invading Europeans, gladly contribute their sharp-shooting rifles to the cause, especially when they get well paid for their benevolence.

Man Unknowingly Makes Longest Telephone Call

Vancouver, B. C.—A Vancouver business man established a new world's long-distance telephone call record, but didn't know it until a month later.

It happened this way: The business man wanted to speak to a friend in Sydney, Australia, but Sydney telephone officials couldn't locate him there, so they tried Perth, 1,500 miles away, found him and connected the two men, without informing the Vancouver man about it. After talking five minutes over 19,000 miles of land and water, the two men hung up. Later it was revealed that the call from Vancouver to Perth was a new world's record for a commercial call.

Radio in Arctic Circle Aids in Birth of a Boy

Dixon Island, U. S. S. R.—Communication by radio enabled a surgeon here to conduct a difficult case of childbirth many miles away.

Doctor Firsov of Cape Desire, on the Novaya in the Arctic ocean, was attending the case there, but because it presented unusual difficulties he sought the advice of Doctor Nikitin of Dixon island. Radio connection was established and the doctors discussed the case for three hours. After hearing the details, Doctor Nikitin gave his instructions.

Three hours later he received another message—this time from the proud father of a son thanking him and the radio operators for their aid.

FENCE POSTS SHOW PROSPERITY RETURN

Demand Unfailing Barometer to Woodsmen.

Escanaba, Mich.—Woodsmen in the upper peninsula of Michigan do not have to read the agricultural journals in order to get an idea how the farmers in the corn belt and other sections of the country are faring. There is an unfailing barometer of the changing weight of the farmer's pocketbook, and that is the insignificant-looking fence post.

When the farmer is hard pressed, as he has been during the last few depression years, he allowed his fences to fall into a state of disrepair. But when money starts to jingle in his jeans again he takes the usual pride in them and becomes a heavy buyer of posts.

The peninsula division of the Chicago & North Western railway is reporting unusually heavy shipments of posts this summer. A large percentage will be used for replacement, but the trend toward diversification of agriculture is also a factor. Western grazing lands, for instance, are being converted into small farms, necessitating the construction of enclosures.

There is a noticeable increase in the summer volume of pulpwood traffic. Railroad officials attribute this upswing to the manufacture of many new paper products, such as table covers, curtains, bakery supplies and wrapping paper.

With the increasing demand for paper products, the lowly jackpine has taken place beside the spruce and balsam pulpwood. This heretofore useless wood is now the important element in producing paper of fine texture such as that used for waxed papers. The United States forest service has worked out plans for considerable reforestation of jackpine and other pulpwood to meet the demands of the paper industries in Michigan and Wisconsin in the future years.

Texas Boy, 15, Harvests Crop "Raised by Moon"

Mykwa, Texas.—Elmer Alford Fowler, fifteen years old, who farms 15 acres "by the moon" and his weather almanac, is the envy of Texas 4-H club boys.

Elmer, barefoot and in the fifth grade at school, waits for the "full of the moon" to plant and harvest because a "full moon yields a full harvest."

He expects to make 65 bushels of corn per acre. He has harvested 75 bushels of peas from an acre and a half and expects to pick as many more.

Elmer farms while his fifty-year-old father, J. A. Fowler, "works out."

"Corn husks are thick, so you can look for a hard winter with lots of rain and cold," he says. He knows all the signs of the zodiac and plans according to "indications."

Elmer's father said he foresaw the depression and traded his $2,000 city home for his farm. Since 1926 value of the property has mounted to $15,000.

Elmer likes to farm because of the freedom. "You can work when you want to and quit when you want to," he said.

Wolf Posing Automobile Doing 50 Miles an Hour

Springfield, Mo.—If you don't believe a wolf can run 50 miles per hour, you can get an argument over the question any time from Frank Hoesy and several other farmers in the vicinity of Rube Rose farm, six miles southwest of here.

Hoesy shot the animal with a rifle after dogs and men on horseback had pursued it all one day. The dogs finally chased the animal into a pond, where Hoesy killed it.

Hoesy said he and other hunters were traveling 50 miles an hour in an automobile down a highway and were passed by the wolf.

That's their story and they're sticking to it.

Sentenced to Spanking

Chester, Pa.—Sentences that they be spanked by parents were meted out to three boys and a eleven-year-old girl when they were arraigned before Magistrate Robert McBride on charges of "borrowing" an automobile.

Pilgrims Take New Highway to Mecca

Jerusalem.—The opening of a new direct route between Iraq and the Hijaz is causing considerable worry in Syria.

The protest is from the merchants of Damascus and outposts on the old Syrian route. On the new route, agreements have been reached with the governments of Iraq and Hijaz for establishment of a sanitary post and a passport office at Idha. To date 2,000 foreign pilgrims have journeyed over the new highway. Pilgrims from Mecca will not be allowed to carry cameras. The reason for the ban is to prevent photographing of the rites and scenes sacred to the Moslem religion.

Dad Puts Stamp on Sonny's Eats

If dad criticizes the food, don't blame the youngsters sitting at the table if they refuse to eat something new. That bit of psychology is offered to parents by Dorothy L. Moore, assistant professor of nutrition at Michigan State College. Taste in food is a matter of habit and must be developed like other habits, she says. "Children are quick to imitate the likes and dislikes of father and mother or any other person whom they especially admire," according to Professor Moore. "We must not make the child 'food conscious.'"

When serving food which the child may dislike, it is best to serve in small helpings and with other foods the child likes. The new food should be served a number of times at intervals until the child becomes familiar with the flavor, she insists.

Miss Moore has made a special study of diets for children of pre-school age. Fried foods are taboo for the pre-school child and raw fruits and vegetables should be kept out of the diet until the age of three. One quart of milk per day is essential to the health of young children, according to Miss Moore.

A day's diet suggested for the pre-school child, as prepared by Miss Moore, follows:

Breakfast: Prunes (seeded and cut up), wheat cereal with sugar and thin cream, 1/2 slice of buttered toast and one glass of milk.
9:30 a. m.: Cod liver oil followed by 1/2 glass orange juice.
Dinner: One small liver patty, two to three mashed potatoes with butter, 1/3 to 1/2 cup buttered carrots mashed, 1/2 slice of bread and butter, 1 small piece of sponge cake with fruit sauce, 1 glass milk. Lunch at 3:00 p. m.: 1/2 glass of milk.
Supper: One egg coddled, 3/4 cup cream tomato soup, 1 buttered graham cracker, 1/3 to 1/2 cup string beans cut fine, 1/3 cup apricots cut fine, and 1 glass of milk.

HUNTER REINSTATED IN GOLDEN GLOVES

Concluded from first page. day night, but there are many who believe this same pair will fight straight through the class to wind up as rivals in the championship tiff Friday night.

Don Hunter has been training for a few weeks under the instruction of Soldier Dombrowski, former state feather champion, who believes that his protege will go far in the amateur matches of the Golden Gloves series. Mr. Dombrowski is an employe in the branch office of the state highway department in Cass City.

Hunter entered his initial contest at Bay City at 146 1/2, on Friday night when he knocked out Woodrow Swartz, 146, of Bad Axe, in one round.

The Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association and the Michigan State Turkey Growers' Association have endorsed and are recommending the use of tattooing equipment for protection of poultry flocks from thievery. This service is now becoming popular and lends to positive identification of the chickens and apprehension of the thief.

Many states are endorsing this plan of tattooing poultry. Michigan loses annually many thousands of dollars from poultry stealing. If the poultry farmers will cooperate and brand their birds, the Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association will see that all police officials are organized so that thieves will be apprehended when the stolen birds are sold on the market.

The Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association has in the past endorsed and sponsored many worthwhile enterprises such as poultry improvement, improvement of hatchery conditions, regulations of chick auctions, honest advertising of poultry products, egg grading law and is now thinking of sponsoring a campaign for increased egg consumption.

As an inducement for farmers to cooperate in the prevention of poultry thievery the Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association has made arrangements with the National Tattoo Registering Association whereby each poultryman that buys an outfit for tattooing poultry will become a member of the Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association for one year and will receive a monthly news letter of coming events and timely poultry topics.

More information can be obtained from the county agricultural agent.

RENTER BUYS FARM IN TUSCOLA COUNTY

Valentin Marzluff of Saginaw, who has been renting and farming land in the Thumb section for a number of years, has bought 160 acres in Tuscola county and will make his home here. Announcement of the purchase was made by Thomas Skegdell of Big Rapids, field representative of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, through whom the purchase was made.

Mr. Marzluff has livestock and machinery sufficient for operation of the farm, including 2 teams of horses, a herd of 19 dairy cows, grain and feed.

Mr. Skegdell said that a year ago the land bank owned 192 more farms in Michigan than it owns now. During the year 1935 it sold 281 farms in this state, largely through the National Farm Loan Associations and their officers. Most of these farms were bought by local people, and most of the buyers were farmers who are making their homes on the farms bought. Some bought land to add to that they already owned, and there were some buyers from other states. A smaller proportion of the buyers of the past year have been city people who are getting out of the cities and into the country.

248 Farm Boys in Short Courses

Increasing interest in better farming methods has brought the largest winter short course enrollment in 14 years to Michigan State College, declares R. W. Tenny, director of the college short course. The short winter program permits the state's farm youths to obtain information and training in general agriculture, dairying, poultry, dairy manufacturing, agricultural engineering, floriculture and commercial fruit production.

First year students in the winter short course number 50 of the total enrollment of 248. Not since 1922, when the farm boys numbered 354 in short course work, has the enrollment been as large. The present term will be concluded March 6 when graduation exercises will be held for those who have completed the second year 16-weeks' course and the one year eight weeks' course.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for February 9
JESUS INSISTS ON RIGHTEOUSNESS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 6:39-49.
GOLDEN TEXT—Why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?—Luke 6:46.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Tells Us What to Do.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Code for Helpers.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Overcoming Our Faults.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Test of Our Religion.

In verses 20-26 Jesus sets forth the inner spiritual condition of those who are members of his kingdom. In the lesson text for today he sets forth the principles governing the life of his followers.

I. Love Your Enemies (v. 29).
Love here is not mere natural affection. Love is not sentiment but is the sincere desire for the welfare of another, and the willingness to do all in one's power to accomplish that which is good for the individual. To love friends is easy, but to love enemies is only possible to those who have been born again and have been made partakers of the divine nature.

II. Do Good to Them Which Hate You (v. 27).
Love is positive in its nature. The disciple of Christ will not merely refrain from doing injury to the one who hates him, but will be concerned with and engaged in doing good to him.

III. Bless Them That Curse You (v. 28).
To bless means to speak well of, to invoke a blessing upon. Injury by words is hard to let go unchallenged. The disciple of Christ will express the spirit of his Lord and will, therefore, return blessing for cursing.

IV. Pray for Them Which Despitefully Use You (v. 28).
It is obligatory upon the Christian to pray for those who heap abuses upon him. The best commentary on this is Christ's own example. "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do" (Luke 23:34). When Christ was reviled he reviled not again; "When he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously" (1 Pet. 2:23).

V. Patiently Endure Wrong and Injury (v. 29).
The Christian is not to bristle in defense of his rights, but rather to suffer insult, injury, and even loss. This expresses the law which governs the individual's action and should not be pressed so far that evildoers go unchecked. Rightly constituted government has been ordained of God for the protection of the innocent and punishment of evildoers (Rom. 13:1-8).

VI. Give to Every Man That Asketh of Thee (v. 30).
This text does not authorize promiscuous giving, neither does it mean that any request made by the idle, greedy, and selfish should be granted. There is a giving which injures the one to whom the gift is made. It would not be proper to give a man money to buy whisky. The principle enjoined is to give the thing needed to the one asking. The supreme need of every able-bodied person is to be given a way to earn his living.

VII. Do to Others as You Wish Others to Do to You (vv. 31-35).
This is called the Golden Rule. It is the sum total of Christian duty as it pertains to human inter-relationships. If this rule were lived up to, the problem of capital and labor would be solved, war would cease, international relations would be peaceably adjusted, and all profiteering in business would end.

VIII. Be Merciful (v. 36).
This means to be filled with pity and compassion; to enter into sympathy with every need of others. Our supreme example is the Heavenly Father.

IX. Censorious Judgments Condemned (v. 37).
This means that the evil or fault in others should not be sought out. We should not sit in critical judgment upon the action of others. This does not, however, prohibit the estimation of others by their deeds.

X. Compensations of Right Living (v. 38).
The believer who gives freely of money, loves sincerely, makes the Golden Rule the standard of his life, shows mercy and kindness to others and refrains from impugning the motives of others, will be fully rewarded. God will see to it that there be no loss.

XI. Danger of Following False Teachers (v. 39).
The teacher who does not know God and the way to heaven will lead others into ruin. Only such as know God should be followed.

XII. Those Who Reprove Others Should Live Blameless Lives (vv. 41, 42).
Evil doing should be removed from our lives before bringing others to account.

XIII. The Sin of Profession Without Fruitbearing (vv. 43-46).
The one who is in fellowship with God will practice the principles which reveal God's nature.

To revive wilted cut flowers place the stems in a deep bowl or vase and pour boiling water into the container. Then reach down into the hot water with the scissors and cut off each stem. Finally run cold water into the container until the boiling water has been cooled.

Home Canned Chili—Four or 5 pounds pinto beans, 4 pounds hamburger, 4 onions, 1 quart tomatoes. Salt, red and black pepper to taste, 10 cent can chili powder (or to taste). Put the beans on to cook as for table use. Fry the hamburger and chopped onions in two tablespoonfuls of fat, stirring it to cook the meat partly done, then add to the beans when they begin to get tender. Add the tomatoes and season and put in jars. Process three hours. Add water to cover beans in the jars. When opened, add more water. This makes about eight quarts.

An Appreciation.

Rotarians triumphant! Peace and Good-Will is their aim, The world is their field—mankind is their thought, Encircling the globe, keeping time with the sun— Never relenting till some good they have done.

Picking up little children, curing their ills,

Restoring the mind, giving sight to the blind,

Bringing back lost hope, setting men on their feet,

Obedying their orders, they're all bound to keep,

Doing good here and there, however they fare,

Those great hearted gentlemen— Rotarians all,

Marching along, serving mankind. —William Miller.

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy. A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help. This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult. Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

Sand Valley School. Teacher, Miss Anthes. Reporter, Agnes Windy. The little folks finished their health books. Miss Anthes read the story of "The Three Goats" to the little folks Thursday. They played "The Three Goats" Friday. We are sorry to have Donna Wagner leave us. We are sorry to have Elizabeth Windy not with us in school on account of her mother being ill. We received our presents from the tuberculosis association. The school received a pretty globe. The ones who sold twenty-five cents' worth received a pencil, a tablet or a box of colors. The third graders are learning the poem of "The Land of Story Books." The fourth graders are learning "The Children's Hour." The sixth graders are making a trip across the United States. They are also learning the Preamble and "The Village Blacksmith" for English. The eighth graders have learned "The Psalm of Life" and the "Gettysburg Address." Mr. Krapf visited our school on Friday. We drew names for Valentine's day. The co-ops next week are: June Nowland and Kenneth Robinson. The eighth graders received their reading test that Mr. McComb sent. They enjoyed them very much. The ones who received five-month certificates are: Lance Robinson, Joe Windy, Bobby, Henry, June, Evelyn and Lila Nowland. There are some who have missed only one day.

Greenwood School. Teacher, Mildred Everett. Reporter, Bernice Vorhes. The first grade have finished reading their Elson Basic Reader, Book One. We cut out snowflakes for wall decorations. The third grade are learning to divide by 2 and 3. The fourth grade are learning to read and write large numbers. Miss Everett has read the story of "The Ugly Duckling" to the primer and first grade. They dramatized the story. The upper grades are making health posters for hygiene. The seventh grade had a test in measuring ability in silent reading Friday morning.

Greenwood School. Teacher, Marjorie Shier. Reporter, Lena Little. Jack Frost has been busily employed during the past week, his greatest enjoyment being among fashionable boys. A huge calendar, "The Bluebird's Morning Song," and a generous supply of pencils from the J. E. Wurm & Co. of Sebawaing are our present admiration. Letters of appreciation were written to each. A little gray mouse, who lived in our cupboard, became so destructive that we no longer cared for him. Friday, Priscilla Endersbe brought us instant relief in the name of Pussy, who quickly made the mouse into cat. Now Pussy is not just an ordinary cat, but indeed, a very accomplished one. During school hours she lay noiseless upon the seat beside her mistress. At noon, she ate daintily from a white napkin surrounded by a select group of small admirers. We are now reading "Little Women" by Louisa May Allcott. Select books and stories are being studied by the eighth grade. A spelling contest led by two progressive fourth grade pupils, Virginia Sowden and Manley James Endersbe, to end at Easter with a party for the winners was begun this week. Neighbors beware! We have a new soccer.

McConnell School. Several friends of the school having requested that we have school notes in the Chronicle so we are sending our first news this week. Because we have kept silent on news does not mean that we have nothing to report. Our numbers are not large, enrollment is twenty but our activities have been numerous. Last fall when the woods were at their gayest we took a two and one-half mile hike along the Cass river noting the tree varieties and action of the river in cutting its bed. At Christmas time in spite of the fact that we chose the worst night in December, our school house was well filled for the program. Ask the folks who were present about it. We have two 4-H clubs organized and doing things. Seven boys are members of the Handicraft Club which we call the McConnell Cutters. All have made articles enough for their exhibit and some have made others for gifts or have sold them. Six girls belong to Mother's Helpers. One more meeting and they will have completed their second article, aprons. Last Friday, from 2:30 until 4:00, the boys' club were entertained by some of the mothers at the home of Mrs. Charles Klinkman. They treated us fine and both the boys and their leader enjoyed the feed. Gerald Seeger, Stella Kolton, club presidents. Jason Kitchin, teacher.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola in Chancery: The petition of John J. O'Hara, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A," contains a description of all lands in said County of Tuscola upon which taxes were assessed for the years mentioned therein, and which were returned as delinquent for non-payment of taxes, and which taxes have not been paid; together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee and expenses, as provided by law, extended against each of said parcels of land.

Your petitioner further shows that in all cases where lands are included in "Schedule A" as aforesaid for taxes of 1890 or of any prior year, said lands have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale or sales so made have been set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction, or have been cancelled as provided by law. Your petitioner further shows that in all cases where lands are included in "Schedule A," as aforesaid for taxes of 1932, or of any prior year, said lands have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale, or sales, so made have been set aside by court of competent jurisdiction by Legislative Action (See Act 126, P. A. of 1933, as amended by Act 11, Extra Session of 1934, as amended by Act 73, P. A. of 1935), or have been cancelled as provided by law. Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses as set forth in said "Schedule A," are a valid lien on the several parcels of lands described in said schedule. Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on the said described lands have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land contained therein, and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands, that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid. And your petitioner will ever pray, etc. Dated January 6, 1936.

TO TURN GHOST CITY INTO A RESORT

a memorial to James W. Smith, who first came to this community early in the Twentieth Century, and to his plans for a summer estate. Smith was one of those drawn by the beauty and attractiveness of the county's lake shore. Others, such as Dr. Phelps, who came over 40 years ago to remain and establish a permanent summer home, and the band of Detroiters, including Jerome Remick, Luther S. Trowbridge, and Eddie Guest, who were early members of the Pointe Aux Barques settlement, likewise came under its spell.

Smith, then a Flint youth, migrated to Huron City as a guardsman at the once-lonely beacon. He came to know and love every feature of the shore from Harbor Beach north to the tip of the Thumb and participated in many rescues of disabled vessels. And at the end of his service of nearly 10 years, he promised himself that he would return and build a home near by.

The Smith Trucking Co., which he later formed in Detroit and which grew up with the automobile industry, brought Smith moderate wealth, and true to his promise, he obtained 153 acres bordering the Lighthouse Station in 1925. Spending $200,000, he built modern farm buildings, a water-pumping plant and a long nine-hole golf course with a complete sprinkling and drainage system. He drew up plans for a spacious seventeen-room brick home, but death in 1927 intervened before he saw completion of his dream of one of the county's finest estates. His wife, Mrs. Hattie B. Smith, carried out the construction, but died only a year later.

The new club, to be known as the Lake Huron Club, will leave intact as far as possible the original layout. A private organization, it will offer year 'round inducements for resorters. It is the plan of the organizers to reconstruct the golf course along the most up-to-date designs, to build tennis courts and establish a stable in the farm buildings. A polo field may be added later. Rebuilding of the 1,500-foot pier, which was part of a shipment of steel presented by Smith to the City of Port Hope for a municipal dock but which has been scattered by lake storms and the winter ice, also may be undertaken. The large colonial home will serve as a clubhouse.

Arrangements are being made to make the club a stopover for yachtsmen cruising the lakes. Otis F. Barthel, American member of the Harmsworth Trophy Race committee, and president of the Interlake Yachting Association, has expressed enthusiasm on the proposal and describes the harbor at Harbor Beach, close by, as one of the best on the lakes.

ARCHITECTS SEARCH FOR BUILDING STONE

Marble Highly Valued From Earliest Times.

Washington.—One of the most strikingly beautiful buildings in Washington is the new United States Supreme court building. Its exterior is fabricated with white marble, while its interior is enhanced with columns and panels of the same stone but richly colored.

"Among the most ornamental of all building stones, marble has been valued by architects from earliest times," says the National Geographic society. "White drums of marble from Mt. Pentelicus reared toward the clear blue sky of Athens, the graceful temples on the Acropolis. Domed Byzantine structures and Roman buildings were floored with mosaics of vari-colored marbles, veined and mottled. Visitors to the Pantheon may tread on a marble floor polished by the pinnacles of august Romans over 1,800 years ago.

Favored by Sculptors. "Not only has marble been a popular building stone, but it is the favorite among sculptors. From it Phidias, Praxiteles, Canova, and many other artists carved their masterpiece. Carrara, in north-western Italy, which supplied Michelangelo with marble for his famous statue of David, still supplies modern sculptors with some of their finest working materials. In Carrara, a city of quarries and marble cutting factories, even the humblest homes have white marble lintels and steps.

"The most beautiful foreign marbles from Italy, the French Pyrenees, and Belgium. In the United States, marbles underlie most of the eastern mountains from Vermont to Georgia, and parts of the Rocky mountains. Vermont supplies 60 per cent of the amount quarried in this country.

"Marble is merely an altered form of limestone, transformed by heat and strong pressure. Limestone is much softer than marble. "Limestone is found in many colors ranging from pink and red, through yellow to green and blue. From quarries in Indiana and Kentucky comes the variety best known in the United States.

"Although limestone is durable, it deteriorates under acids in the air and rain, especially under the sulphuric acid contaminating the air of cities. How waters containing chemicals affect the stone is dramatically shown in Mammoth Cave, Kentucky, where subterranean streams have eaten away the beds of limestone, hollowed out vast underground caverns.

Granite is valuable. "Granite, igneous rock that has cooled, is a building stone valued for its hardness, strength, and durability. Unlike limestone, it is little affected by chemicals in the air and rain, but abrupt changes in temperature frequently cause it to crack. In regions where the temperature drops 80 degrees in a day, granite has been known to shatter into boulders, gravel, and sand.

"Because it is so hard, the cost of cutting and polishing granite once prohibited its use except in a roughly dressed state. But now less expensive methods have been discovered, it is one of the most popular building stones.

"Porphyry, another igneous rock, usually a beautiful red in color, was prized by the Romans, but is little employed by modern architects, because of the difficulty and expense in cutting and polishing it. New York city's famous 'brownstone fronts' are made of sandstone, a popular building material composed of grains of sand held together by a cementing material.

"The new air-conditioned home of the National Geographic society contains stones from many states and foreign countries. Its front steps are of pink and gray North Carolina granite. Limestone blocks and columns of the facade came from Bedford, Ind., and green marble spandrels from the French Alps.

"In the foyer gleamed reddish-brown pillars and pilasters of polished Rojo Alicante marble from Spain. Walls are of lustrous Italian Botticino marble, a rich cream color, above a base of Belgian black marble. Brown Stenna and gray Roman travertine form a large eight-pointed star in the floor."

Blame Henpecked Mates if Women Go Hysterical

Berlin.—"If women go hysterical their husbands are to blame in most cases, and especially the henpecked ones!"

This is the conclusion reached by Dr. G. Giehm, psychiatrist of a large sanitarium at Zepernick in the north of Berlin, as a result of an investigation of cases of hysterical women.

This kind of husband constitutes the greatest danger for the hysterical patients, he believes.
