and Retta Charter. That's the decision of the judges at the Amateur Night program at the high school auditorium Tuesday. Seventeen numbers were presented on the stage and with such an array of talent, the judges would have been glad to have had the opportunity of awarding a greater number of prizes.

The program was sponsored by the doctors and dentists group of the Community Club with Dr. H. T. Donahue serving as master of ceremonies. The program was presented after a banquet had been served to 130 members of the club by the ladies of the Baptist church. At 8:30, the doors were opened to the public and about 240 others came to enjoy the entertainment.

The following were participants in the program in the order of their appearance:

Ready Should Disaster Strike

Recent Red Cross experience over a period of ten years shows an average of 82 disasters a year in which it has been necessary to over a period of ten years shows extend Red Cross aid. The records indicate that these disasters happen all over the country and no state or section is immune. For that reason, Red Cross chapters have been requested to plan relief organizations to be ready to cope with emergencies. Mrs. F. W. Richardson of Caro, chairman of the county committee on preparedness and relief, has asked Mrs. S. B. Young, local chairman of the Red Cross roll call, to appoint sub-committees in this community to serve should relief measures be necessary. Mrs. Young has named the following chairmen of committees here: Survey—Ernest L. Schwaderer.

Chicken Thieves Active in Tuscola

Dennis Hodges entered a plea of guilty on a breaking and entering charge in the Tuscola circuit court | Harbor Beach. on March 12. He had been arrested on the charge of stealing fifteen chickens from the hen house of C. H. Stevenson's farm in Tuscola township. Hodges was remanded to the custody of Sheriff George Jeffrey to await sentence, by Judge L. C. Cramton.

Arnold Radley, 30, returned to Michigan on March 3, after a tenyear stay in Colorado, and 13 days after his arrival here he was placed under arrest on a breaking and entering charge. He was taken into custody by Deputies Erb and Hillaker on March 16, on the charge of appropriating 12 choice Silver Wyandotte chickens from the Jacob Woolman farm in Fairgrove township on March 12. Mr. Hillaker found that he had sold the hens at the Kosher Market in Bay City. Arraigned before Justice Frank St Mary, Radley pleaded guilty and was bound over to the circuit court for trial. Radley, according to county officers, also admitted the theft of 16 chickens from the R. T. Russell farm in Fairgrove town-

In last week's issue of The Chronicle, we announced that eight churches were cooperating in local conference to be held in the First Baptist church, Houghton and West streets. Other Baptist congregations have since been invited to participate. In all eleven pastors and twelve Baptist churches in the Thumb have been asked to co-operate, and are expected to gather in the local church tomorrow (Friday, March 20).

This is the first of a series of monthly one-day Bible conferences covering the churches in this section of the Thumb. An invitation is extended to all to attend all three sessions, morning, afternoon, and evening; or, any of the sessions that are convenient. It has been found necessary to change the tentative program announced in the paper last week. The new tentative program is now

EFORE you take any prepara-tion you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Payer Aspirin discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods uet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

STRENGTHEN THE BLADDER

MAKE THIS 25c TEST.

If bladder irritation causes getting up nights, frequent desire, scanty flow, backache, drink lots of boiled or distilled water. Flush out excess acids and waste with buchu leaves, juniper oil, etc, made into little green tablets called Bukets, the bladder lax. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. You Can't Guess

All That Electric Cookery Means

In the first place, there's the assurance that every dish will turn out as you wish it . . . for with the automatic control you regulate your heat to the fraction of a degree—to the last second. With all the guess work taken out of cooking you'll be surprised at the flavor of your meals.

But precision and perfection aren't all that you'll like about an Electric Range. There's the freedom from pot-watching also.

Then electric cookery in combination with other electric uses is economical.

No other dollar buys as much as the dollar spent for electric service.

PAT knew of his imposture.

That was clear. And what else? For hours after her car had left him at the door, Barry sat in the library of the big house where he had no right to be, thinking, thinking. And the more he thought, the more complete was his mystifica-

Every word Pat had spoken, every intonation, was impressed on his mind. "And, Mr. Gilbert-" she had said. "You've got courage. And a grand sense of melodrama. I suppose you picked that up in Hollywood.

How did she know?" Obviously, the crushed finger had not deceived her. After all, that would have been simple. The vague recollection of his appearance in a picture; an old circular, with his photograph. Not without pride, Barry reflected that he had won mention in advertising before he left Hollywood. What did it matter, anyway? She knew. And she had advised him to watch his step. "You're being a little bit reckless, I think," she had warned.

Was that a warning-or a threat? And why should Pat threaten? The answer to that was apparent. "She doesn't want me to ask questions about her father. But why not? What is she trying to conceal?"

That, too, was easily answered. Of course, there had been no taxi accident in Times square. It was absurd to suppose that two cabs had mounted the pavement and killed two women almost simultaneously. The Judge's accident had been at Sixteenth street. What was he doing down there—a hundred yards from Mike Kelly's-at two in the morning? The same morning Kelly was murdered? A few hours before the filing of a decision alleged to have been dictated by Kelly.

"None of my business!" Barry snapped at himself. "I'm not a detective." But why should Pat be afraid of investigation?

Why "afraid?" She was worried about her father's condition, and did not want him harassed needlessly. Under the circumstances, of course, she resented Barry's probings. "But, damn it," Barry exclaimed, "she began resenting fore I even mentioned her fa-

"Three things are clear," he began. "Kelly was expecting someone when Jack left . . . Or was he? Winslow doubted that, too. Anyway, Kelly told Jack someone telephoned. And then Hambidge arrived at Sixteenth street. Hambidge denies that he did so. And then Hambidge's daughter warns

He had begun pacing the floor. Suppose the Judge had killed Kelly. What did that prove? "I'm assuming that Kelly compelled this decision," Barry reminded himself. "Well, if he did, why should it have been filed after the compulsion was removed? It was filed the next morning. That certainly indicates that the Judge knew nothing about Kelly's death."

Once more Barry heard the hall clock strike three.

"I'm arguing in circles," "And getting nowhere. That's where I've been getting all week. Gumming things up, too. Tipping off witnesses, and making a complete nuisance of myself. I said three things were clear, and they weren't, but two are. I've landed myself in a mess, and the sooner I get out of it the better for everybody.

"If I clear out, and let things take their course, I might come back, some day, when I've really made good-"

His hand still hurt the next morning, but the resolution to "clear out" remained fixed.

And he was still dreaming. "Some day, when I've made

Willetts interrupted.

He was serving breakfast, at the

"I was talking to Evans, sir." "Yes?"

"Telling him what you told me last night, sir-concerning Mrs. Rogers, and the Kelly murder. Evans thinks it's very significant, what you said about Kelly expecting somebody after Rogers left." "He does, eh?"

"Yes, sir. And he thinks he can find who it was."

Barry opened his egg. "He'd like to tell you his scheme,

"It's no use," Barry observed, curtly. "I've decided to drop the whole business." "Yes, sir."

Willetts went on serving, but there was disapproval in his manner. Barry felt it, as he had twice hefore.

"Any reason why I shouldn't drop

"That's for you to say, sir." "But you think there is a reason. All right; sit down and tell me about it." "I couldn't, sir. My position won't permit of my sitting down in the presence of my employer. It isn't done, sir. And your position won't allow of you leaving a woman in the lurch, sir. If you don't mind my saying so, that isn't done, either.'

In utter amazement, Barry merely stared at him.

"You see," Willetts continued, quite forgetting himself, "a gentlemen's got certain responsibilities. That's what makes him a gentleman. You said this lady's 'in trouble up to her neck.' It looks to me, as though you were bound to make good, no matter what's happened." He paused, and then his own im-netus carried him on. "You said, 'I've been a loafer most of my life.' A loafer might 'drop the whole business.' There's no reason he shouldn't. But it looks to me as if a gentleman ought to carry on, sir."

"You're right, Willetts. Evans I'll be glad to see him in the library.'

Barry, the "bum," had stepped into a gentleman's shoes, and found that they had to be kept shining.

Now he had an income, and was "in luxury and papa's office." "I won't he there long? "if I defy Pat. Anyway, I'm a gentleman, for the moment, and a gentleman can't 'abandon ladies in distress.'

Pat was a lady in distress, too. he reflected. "In trouble up to her "The way I went on last neck." night," he ruminated, "anybody'd have thought that I thought the Judge killed Mike. What nonsense. That harmless old chap. If there's any chance of his being involved, why then it's up to me to find who did the trick. I've got two men to get out of difficulties.'

Evans found him ready for the 'scheme.

"As I get it from Willetts," Evans said, "somebody telephoned Kelly that he was coming right What would you do after over. you'd done that, sir?'

"Well, what would I do?" "You'd hop in a taxi."

"Probably.

"So we want to round up the taxidrivers that were in the neighborhood at that time. Luckily, there was an accident, Willetts tells me. My plan is to advertise-like as if we was the relations of the deceased lady. Fifty dollars reward for information leading to spotting the cab that deceased her."

"And then?" "Then we third-degree everybody that answers the ad. 'Did you see the accident? How did you happen to be there? It might turn the zest for "sleuthing." It was arranged that the advertisement should instruct applicants to write to box something-or-other at the newspaper.

Evans was enjoying himself thor-

"Reading the newspapers, sir, L ask myself a lot of questions about this here Kelly. Then Chink says he got home around eleven. Willetts says Mrs. Rogers says he left the Cocoanut bar around nine. Where did he go then? His chauffeur would know, wouldn't he? You'd be surprised how chauffeurs loosen up to each other."

"I get you." "Simple, ain't it? We find out where Kelly garages. Then I drive you in every Sunday, and keep the car in the same place. And I sugar up to the guy that drove Kelly. It mightn't lead to nothing, but then again, sir, it might, sir. All of Evans' suggestions were followed the next afternoon.

And Monday, by appointment, Barry brought Mrs. Rogers to Winslow.

Harwood certainly had not overstated Peter's skill at cross-examination. Sitting opposite Peggy, the attorney led her gently into reminiscence, from which, again and again, he seized upon a word or a phrase as leading to possible material for the defense.

For the first time, the thing took on pattern. Casually, verifying every statement Jack had made to him. "Tell the story in your own way, Mrs. Rogers . . . Did your husband say anything about getting even when he left you? No. What time was that? What time did he return? Wasn't gone long, was he? Not really long enough for a violent quarrel?"

"T've told you," Peggy declared; they were drinking together. And then the phone rang-'

"How do you know it rang?" "Jack heard it. And he heard some one answer it."

"Some one." "Jack isn't sure whether it was Kelly or the Filipine. They were both in the hall. Anyway, Kelly came back, and said he was expecting somebody."

"Did he say whom?" "No."

"Did he say whether it was a man or a woman?' "I don't think so." Peggy paused.

'But it might've been a woman." Peter nodded to Barry. "Cherchez la femme."

"I got another idea," Peggy went on. "It might've been the platinum blonde.' "The what?"

"The platinum blonde, Violet Fane. She's one of the girls at the Cocoanut Bar." "And why do you think it might have been she?"

"Well," Peggy said, "she knew Kelly. She'd just left him when he accused me of picking his pocket,

"And Why Do You Think It Might Have Been She?"

and Morano'd been talking to her, just before that. She might've phoned Kelly to get me off." Winslow made a note of this

"I'll find out," he promised. The interview lasted nearly two hours, and gave both of the visitors fresh confidence. "They'll indict Jack," Winslow prophesied, as his callers were going. "Probably today. But don't let that worry you. A grand jury hears only one side. We'll do our talking at the trial."

"When will that be?" "As soon as possible. We're ready now. They have no case. Just the Filipino's evidence that Jack was there. We admit that. But we deny either a motive or a throatily. "He's got brains, and a The grand jury found a true bill against Jay Rogers that afternoon. And Barry was off on a quest of his "If that was a woman," he decided, "we needn't bother any more about the Judge. And if I can catch that Filipino napping-" Winslow had warned him against "tipping our hand." "All right," Barry thought; "I'll be careful this

The "cagey Oriental" answered his ring.

Barry's last visit had been with Tim Laugherty. Charlie-and Mrs. Kelly, for that matter-had assumed that he was another detective. The Filipino was plainly star-

"Nobody is home," he said conclusively.

"You're home, aren't you? And you're the fellow I want to ask a few questions." "I don't know nothing," the butler insisted. "You know who telephoned Kelly the night of the murder."

Charlie's putty face turned two shades lighter. "I thought so," Barry said. "And, if you don't want to go straight to jail, you'd better tell me about it."

"You mean the lady that telephoned?" "That's who I mean. Who was she?"

"I don't know." "Didn't she give any name? Or leave any message?"

"Came around here though, afterward, didn't she?"

"after young Rogers went?"

"You didn't let anyone in?" 'No, sir."

"Did Kelly let her in?" "I don't know."

"But he knew she was coming?" "I don't know." "You're lying!" Barry exclaimed. You told Kelly."

"No, sir," the butler replied, very positively. "When the lady phoned, Mr. Kelly-he wasn't home yet." "What do you mean, he wasn't home—at midnight?" "The lady didn't phone at midnight," Charlie said, obviously bewildered. "It was eight o'clock when the lady phoned." "But you told him that?"

"No," the Filipino answered. didn't tell nobody nothing." "Who did telephone around mid-

"I don't know. Mr. Kelly answered that time." "But you were in the hall?" "Yes, sir."

"Kelly was sore at you. Why?" The Filipino went pale. Only for an instant, however. Then he "Mr. Kelly not sore," he said. "Him very jolly that night." "All right," Barry observed. No "tipping our hand" this time. "All right, and thanks." His tone was that of a man completely satisfied. Late that afternoon, Barry took Peg and the boy driving in the Barry's heart had gone out to Peggy and to her boy. A chorine with the domestic virtues of a clergyman's wife—that's what Peg was.

"I'd like to give Pat a squint at the under dog she thinks she despises so," he thought. The next morning there were two responses to the advertisement suggested by Evans. Barry wrote asking both applicants for the reward to call at his rooms. On the way to The Globe, he dropped in on Tim Laugherty. Tim had been assigned to a new case now, and regarded the Kelly matter as a closed incident. Barry's zeal amused him. "What're you talking about?" he inquired with mock seriousness. Barry reported his interview with the Oriental.

Tim grinned. "We knew all about that ten days ago!"

He produced his records. "There was a call at 8:16. That came from a hotel in the Fortiesan actorine named Betty Barclay. Then there was three calls from Kelly's-at 8:22, 8:27 and 9:41. That first number's the house of a lawyer named Hood. Next comes the Yale club. And the third a flat in Riverside drive."

"Whose?" "I don't know."

"What about the call that came in while Rogers was there?"

"Boloney." "You mean there wasn't any such

"Not on my records. Of course, it might've been sent from a nickelin-the-slot booth. You can't trace them things. Listen, pal, you're on a wild-goose chase. This Rogers lad done it."

METHODIST CHURCH STARTS SPRING DRIVE

Repairs to the Methodist church building here, which were halted by the coming of severe weather last fall, are to be resumed in the near future. The major item is the reroofing of the entire east slope over the auditorium, which with other necessary exterior repairs will require about $300.00. Facing the necessity of completing what had been undertaken last year, the official board at a dinner in the Methodist parsonage Thursday, March 12, pledged $150 toward the repair program and adopted plans to secure the balance needed.

Next Sunday morning, March 22, a report of progress will be made to the congregation and the plan for handling the spring portion of the program will be presented. "The unique penny-a-meal system used for the main portion of the financing last fall was a decided success, and has paved the way for our spring campaign," said Rev. Charles Bayless.

Relatives and friends from a distance who attended the funeral included the following: Mr. and Mrs. John Whale and Mrs. Omar McNutt ling and Mrs. Geo. Layman of Deerfield, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Curry of Allenton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sweet and son, Charles, of Lapeer, Miss Ruth Sweet of Orion, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Wright of Fairgrove, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hunter of Dearborn.

Died at Marlette-

Mrs. Wesley Northrup passed from this life at her home in Marlette, on Saturday, Mar. 14, and funeral services were conducted from the home on Monday. The remains were taken to Cass City and interment made in Elkland cemetery, in the family lot where her father, mother and brother were buried. Mr. and Mrs. Northrup were members of the Presbyterian church at Marlette and the pastor of that church conducted the services.

Anna Retherford was born at Imlay City June 17, 1877. Anna, at the age of 5 years, was brought by her parents to the Retherford homestead, 1 mile south and 11/2 miles east of Deford. Her parents were among the early settlers and her father, Harvey Retherford, was a soldier of the Civil War in the Union army. Mrs. Northrup's girlhood days were passed in Deford. She became Mrs. Northrup 27 years ago. Relatives and friends attending funeral services were from Detroit, Saginaw, Midland, Snover, Cass City and Deford. Of the immediate family, she is survived by her husband, Wesley Northrup, of Marlette, one sister, Mrs. Josie Brooks, of Cass City, and two brothers, Lewis and Howard Retherford, of Deford.

Birthday Party-

Relatives, numbering 28, gathered at the John Moshier farm home on Saturday, in honor of the birthday of Miss Nora Moshier. Potluck dinner was served. A beautiful birthday cake graced the table, presented by Mrs. Robt. Brown of Caro and Mrs. Frank Evo. Miss Moshier was the recipient of many

---but what a difference in value!

There's a difference in coals, too. A big difference! Some are "runty." Many are middling. Only a few are top quality.

Take Cavalier coal for instance. Here's a fuel that comes from one of Nature's choicest storehouses of quality coal. A rich coal from a rich field. It has less than 3% ash . . . more than 95% pure heat!

Just try it once, and you'll find out how easy it is to damper down economically—how easy, also, to have it quickly pouring forth intense heat. Order Cavalier now. We guarantee you'll like it.
