TWO NEW TEACHERS SIGN CONTRACTS

Instructors in Music and Latin and English Engaged This Week.

All but one of the 20 instructors in the Cass City school for the coming year have signed and returned contracts. The position which is yet to be filled is a teacher of history and French in the high school. Two new teachers were engaged during the past week. Miss Dorothy Howell is the new instructor in Latin and English. She has earned a Master's degree and for the past three years has taught in the Gladwin schools.

The band at the Cass City school will make more rapid progress next year because the new director, Robert B. Clayton, of Sault Ste. Marie, will be enabled to devote more time and attention to this organization. Mr. Clayton is the new teacher of music at the school here and in addition to band instruction, he will have charge of vocal music in the junior and senior high schools. Delmar Youngs organized the school band here last year and the members progressed nicely considering the time he could devote to that organization in addition to teaching shop and junior high subjects.

Mr. Clayton has completed two years as musical instructor in the schools at St. Ignace where he taught vocal music, string music classes and the school band and was in charge of a community chorus. Of the 120 high school students at St. Ignace, 50 were members of the senior band and 35 of the junior band.

Mr. Clayton studied at the University of Arizona at Tucson, Arizona, and then transferred to the State Normal School at Marquette, Michigan, where he finished in 1934. At Tucson, he was a member of the University band and played first violin in the Tucson Symphony Orchestra.

Bingham Reunion Well Attended

A few sore arms and "crawly" necks are all that remain of the 1936 Bingham school reunion. But what's a picnic without a ball game and an ant or daddy-long-legs crawlin' up your arm?

Although a dog ate up Mrs. O'Dell's plate and "Charley" and "Bill" ate three platefuls each, everyone was so uncomfortably stuffed that the ice cream had to wait until after the program.

An enjoyable program with reminiscences from former pupils followed the business meeting. New officers for 1937 are:

President, Miss Irene Hall.
Vice president, Mrs. Chas. Seekings.

Secretary, Mrs. Harold Evans.
Treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Simmons.
Refreshment committee, Miss Mary Wald, Mrs. Randall, Mrs. E. Bears.

Program committee, Chas. Seekings, Geo. Sealey, Miss Janet Laurie.

109 Attend the Hartsell Reunion

One hundred nine members of the Hartsell family attended a reunion held at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hartsell, seven and one quarter miles north and one mile east of Cass City, Saturday, June 27.

Tables were set under trees and a bountiful potluck dinner was enjoyed by all those present. The business meeting was called to order by the president of the organization and the following officers were re-elected: Martin Hartsell, president; Marion Hartsell-MacAlpine, sec.-treas. There were union singing and a short program followed by a very interesting talk given by Charles A. Thomas, evangelist from Flint. Mr. Thomas is a grandson of the late Jacob E. Hartsell.

The oldest member of the family attending the reunion was William Hartsell, ninety-seven years old, from Pontiac. Mr. Hartsell has good health, enjoyed himself all day, and returned to Pontiac that evening. The family hopes to see Mr. Hartsell at many more reunions and wish him the best of health. The youngest member of the family was tiny Doris Hill, six weeks old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hill of Flint.

Those who came from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Decoe of Yorba Binda, Cal., J. H. Rowe

NEW GAS STATION OPENS HERE TODAY

Metcalfe & Schrader's Building Is Leased by M. D. Hartt.

The new gasoline service station erected by Metcalfe & Schrader on East Main Street, just west of the Elkland Roller Mill, will be opened for business today (Friday) with M. D. Hartt as manager.

The new building, 30 by 35 feet in size, is constructed of white glazed tile, with a blue and yellow trim, and a black foundation strip of the same material. The roof is made of metal tile. The building is a very attractive one and is a great improvement in that section of the village.

In the northwest corner of the building is the office and stock room, 16 by 18 feet in size, and at the east side is the greasing room approximately 14 by 33 feet, and entered from the outside by an overhead door. Rest rooms and a coal storage room occupy the remainder of the building. Woodwork will be finished in white enamel.

M. D. Hartt, who has leased the station, is well known in this community, having been engaged in the grocery business in Cass City for 11 years. He will be assisted by Cameron Connell, an experienced station attendant.

Moore & Root are the building contractors, Edward Baker the electrical contractor, and Kilburn Parsons is installing the plumbing.

Penny-a-Meal Boxes Due Next Sunday

New asbestos-slate shingles will be installed on the east slope of the main roof of the Methodist church here, and other repairs to the exterior of the building will be completed during July, according to a schedule adopted recently by the board of trustees through a committee of which Audley Kinnaird is chairman. This will finish a program of repairs undertaken one year ago and representing expenditures to date of over seven hundred dollars in materials and labor on both the church and the parsonage. "A pay-as-we-go policy" has made these repairs possible without creating any burden to be carried along for future settlement," said Rev. Charles Bayless. "And the number of people, cheerfully cooperating, who have an immediate share in the repair fund is a large percentage of our total church constituency."

All "penny-a-meal" boxes held by Cass City Methodist people are to be turned in at the 10:30 morning service next Sunday, July 5. A table will be provided for this purpose in the main entry. Dr. I. A. Fritz, treasurer of the repair fund, reports that several people have already paid part or all of the lump sums promised toward the shingles for the east roof. "All outstanding contributions to this fund are due and payable during July," said Dr. Fritz. "Our cordial thanks to those who have already paid."

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Little and children were callers Sunday at the Chas. Ewing home in Pinnebog.

MOST STORES WILL BE CLOSED ON JULY 4

Following the custom of former years, most business places in Cass City will be closed on Independence Day—July 4.

As the holiday comes on Saturday, business places will be open Friday night, July 3, to permit customers to make their week-end purchases.

THE CHARLTONS MARRIED 50 YEARS

Will Welcome Friends at Open House at Their Home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Charlton, well-known residents of this community for many years, celebrated their golden wedding Wednesday, July 1, passing the day quietly at their home on North Oak Street. Because members of the immediate family could not be present on that day, Mr. and Mrs. Charlton will receive at open house from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. on Sunday, July 5, when they will be glad to welcome their friends.

Mr. Charlton was born near Kingston, Ontario, September 13, 1861, and came to Michigan in October, 1880, settling at Clare. In February of the following year, he moved to a farm, five miles east and one mile south of Cass City. July 1, 1886, he was married to Miss Lillie M. McConnell, who was born August 20, 1866, four miles east of Cass City.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Charlton lived on a farm three miles west and one mile south of Cass City and have resided near here since, except five years spent in Detroit where Mr. Charlton was nightwatch for the S. L. Bird & Son Clothing Co.

They returned to Cass City and purchased the Samuel Striffler farm of 160 acres, one mile east and one mile north, where they lived until seven years ago when they moved to town.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton have two children, Mrs. Norman Gillies of Crosswell and Kenneth Charlton of Akron. One daughter, Mrs. Harry Talmadge, passed away a number of years ago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Charlton are active and enjoy fairly good health. Mr. Charlton had but two sick spells in his life in which it was necessary to call a doctor. They will be waiting to welcome their friends Sunday afternoon, July 5.

THORNTON REUNION.

The Thornton reunion was held at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cosgrove on Sunday, June 28. A potluck dinner was served on the lawn at noon, and ice cream and cake were served later in the day, with George Thornton, oldest brother of the Thornton family, cutting the beautiful three layer reunion cake.

The oldest present was George Albright, 80 years old, of Bad Axe, and the youngest was Richard Haley of Elkton, who will be one year old July 5.

Those present from a distance were Mrs. Martha Knirs and family and Miss Irene Bronson of Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. George Thornton and family, Miss Alice Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Thornton, Mrs. Ellis Willis, Miss Elsie Williams, Miss Joyce Thomson, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siewert and son, all of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thornton and son, Thomas, of Royal Oak, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cooke and daughter, Geraldine, and Mrs. Harvey Jess, all of Sandusky, John Knirs and daughter, Agnes, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. John Bezemek, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Haley and family and George Albright, all of Bad Axe, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Appley and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Haley and family, Mrs. Pepper, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Huff and family, all of Elkton, Mr. and Mrs. Connie O'Connell, son, Clifford, and daughter, Florence, of Owendale.

WITHEY SCHOOL REUNION.

The Withey School, Dist. No. 2, Evergreen, held its annual reunion Saturday, June 20, on the school grounds. At noon many enjoyed a potluck dinner which was followed by a program in the afternoon. Songs were given by Greta Hicks, Dorothy Collins, Stella Patch, and Helen Warner. Wilmer and Kenneth Warner entertained with musical numbers and Clara Jean Bunker gave a reading. Dan Preston was the oldest teacher present and gave an interesting talk. Mrs. Warren Churchill, a former teacher, recalled some early memories of the school.

The oldest pupil present was George Gotham. Mr. Gotham spoke of the early history of the school before the present district was established.

At the business meeting it was decided that the reunion would be held again next year on the third Saturday in June. The following officers were elected: President, William Patch; vice pres., William Hicks; sec., Mrs. Ralph Youngs; treas., Mrs. Leigh Biddle.

A ball game completed the day's activities.

PLEASING VARIETY IN VOCAL RECITAL

A program of well-known and favorite songs was presented on Thursday evening, June 25, by a number of voice students in recital. The vocalists, students of Miss Veda Bixby and residents of Bad Axe, Pigeon, and Ubyly, offered their numbers before an interested audience in the Evangelical church here on that evening. Pleasing variety in the program of thirteen vocal solos was introduced by a piano selection, a cornet solo, and a male quartet who sang several numbers. Mrs. Wesley Heberly of Sebewaing was the accompanist for all numbers.

The recital was sponsored by the choir of the Evangelical church and an offering taken at that time will be used for the purchase of music for that organization.

The same program of songs was presented in Ubyly and in Pigeon last week.

SUPERVISORS REFUSE FAIR APPROPRIATION

Will Make New Agreement Regarding Bank Deposits in October.

Tuscola County Board of Supervisors went into session on Monday after a three-day adjournment, took Tuesday off, and resumed their deliberations again Wednesday morning.

On Monday, Carl Mantey, secretary of the fair, appeared before the board and asked for an appropriation for the Tuscola County fair. Supervisor Ackerman moved that the matter be referred to the ways and means committee and his motion was seconded by Supervisor McFarlane. Supervisor Brown made a motion, seconded by Supervisor Shott, that the motion be amended to read that "we favor no appropriation." Apparently a majority of the supervisors believed with Messrs. Brown and Shott that the fair being the only general fair in the county should be self-supporting, for the motion as amended was passed.

On Wednesday, the last day of the session last week, Supervisor Profit expressed the opinion that county funds should be placed in more banks in the county rather than all being deposited in the Carobanks. Later, the committee on bank deposits reported that "inasmuch as it will be necessary to enter into a new agreement at the October session, we would recommend that no action be taken until that time." The report was adopted.

County Treasurer Arthur Whitteburg paid M. P. Freeman of Gageton, on Wednesday, $5,000 as principal on five Sebewaing River and Branches drain bonds. Mr. Freeman accepted the payment without interest for the year in which the bonds were in default. This automatically cancels the suit against the county clerk and county treasurer, notice of which was

Young Republicans of Sanilac County Form Club Friday

Young Republicans of Sanilac county have organized with the intention of taking an aggressive part in the election campaign this summer and fall. At a meeting at Sandusky on Friday night, Harry C. Smith, county commissioner of schools, was elected president of the Young Republican club. Other officers chosen were: Bert Robinson, Marlette, vice president; Miss Helen Ruttle, Carsonville, second vice president; Henry Krueger, Sanilac register of probate, secretary; and Miss Edna O'Connell, Sandusky, treasurer.

Among the speakers were Carl H. Smith, Bay City attorney, and W. S. Carpenter, acting secretary of the Republican state control committee.

Local Contractor Successful Bidder on Two Bridges

The E. L. Schwaderer Co. of Cass City has been awarded contracts for building two bridges, according to an announcement made by Murray D. VanWagoner, state highway commissioner.

One is a bridge on M-46 across Pine river, a mile and a half north of Riverdale, in Gratiot county, at a cost of $16,040, and the second bridge is across the Clinton river on M-24, at the east limits of Pontiac, at a cost of $11,459.

CASS CITY RETAINS REV. C. P. BAYLESS

Few Changes of Pastors Were Made in the Thumb District.

The eighty-first annual session of the Detroit Methodist Episcopal conference closed at Royal Oak Monday afternoon with the adoption of resolutions and the reading of the ministerial appointments by Bishop Edgar Blake.

Rev. Charles P. Bayless was returned to the churches at Cass City and Bethel. Few changes were made in the pulpits assignments in the counties of Tuscola, Huron, and Sanilac.

The convention adopted a report from its committee on social and moral reform which attacked dictatorships, gambling, and the liquor traffic, deplored the increase in crime, and urged "all our ministers and laymen to take a definite part in the present two-year emergency peace campaign and further to support the peace movement by the purchase and sale of peace bonds issued by the National Council for the Prevention of War."

In a section devoted to the protection of civil liberties, the report said:

"During the past year, when hooded secret orders have again stalked our streets and assumed police power; when pastors in common with liberal teachers, editors and other high-minded leaders have been intimidated by false reports, libels, and other more subtle means which take conviction out of preaching, undermine community morale and destroy confidence, we call upon ministers and laymen frankly to restudy the New Testament and bravely to challenge old and young with the integrity of Jesus."

Ministerial changes were announced as follows:

Ann Arbor District—George T. Nevin from Elkton to Denton; Fred Lendrum from Farmington to Hudson; Victor Longfield from Dexter to Lincoln Park; Luther Butt from Christ Church, Detroit, to Monroe; Turn to page 4, please.

Boys and Girls Round-Up Today

Automobiles loaded with boys and girls will hail the opening of another summer vacation program here this (Friday) morning as a "round-up" of pupils for the July term at the Youth Center is conducted throughout the village. Cars bearing the insignia of the "Play Fair Club" will gather willing passengers from homes and vacant lots and familiar play spots for a story period and game hour at the center above the council rooms.

The Youth Center is now ready for its first project, a leisure time program for all boys and girls 12 to 15 years of age (or from the 7th to 10th grades inclusive). Games, stories, dramatics, art-crafts and shop work, hikes, and nature study will make up an interesting round of activity on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 9:00 to 11:30 a. m. Since the original mention of the program in the Chronicle two weeks ago, under the auspices of the Christian Citizenship League, preparations have gone steadily forward. Furniture and other equipment have been obtained and more has been promised. Rev. George Spitzer is the principal of the summer term program. Boys and girls, stand by for the "round-up!"

New Rotary Officers Assume Positions

Frank Reid presided for the last time as president of the Rotary club here on Tuesday, and on July 1 Willis Campbell took over the management of the society as its presiding officer. Other officers are: Vice president, Dr. H. T. Donahue; secretary, Stanley A. Striffler; treasurer, A. C. Atwell; directors, M. B. Auten and Dr. P. A. Schenck.

Committee members have been appointed as follows:

Program—E. W. Douglas, Dr. H. T. Donahue, E. L. Schwaderer, L. I. Wood, J. I. Niergarth.

Classification and Membership—Frank Reid, D. A. Krug, A. J. Knapp, M. B. Auten.

Club Service—F. A. Bigelow, Kenneth Kelly, G. A. Tindale.

Community Service—H. F. Lenzner, J. A. Sandham, William Miller.

Vocational Service—E. A. Corpron, E. B. Schwaderer, W. L. Mann.

Aims and Objects—Dr. P. A. Schenck, Leslie Townsend, Frederick Pinney.

International Service—G. W. Landon, A. C. Atwell, S. A. Striffler.

RETURNED AS PASTOR OF M. E. CHURCH HERE

Rev. Charles P. Bayless.

NEWS OF THE NEARBY SECTIONS

Happenings Here and There Garnered from the Chronicle's Exchanges.

Nominations of the following Thumb postmasters were confirmed by the senate before congress adjourned: Lenox, Joseph W. Winkler; Lexington, Henry Matthews; and Ubyly, Mrs. Georgia I. Holdship.

Two-year-old Nasasia Bosenkoff of Marlette toddled into the field where her father was cutting hay with a mowing machine. The grass was taller than the child and her father, Nick Bosenkoff, failed to see her as she stepped into the path of the flashing mower knives. The knives cut off one of her feet, just above the ankle, and gashed her other leg in three places.

The post office at Vassar has been transferred to the second class by the postal department effective July 1. The transfer came as the result of an increase in business determined by the sale of stamps. The change will place two employees of the office under the civil service laws.

Prof. and Mrs. William Lyon Phelps have returned to their summer home at Huron City. Prof. Phelps will preach his first sermon of the summer series in Huron City Methodist church Sunday afternoon, July 5.

Eight Republicans have tossed their hats into the Sanilac sheriff's ring with the campaign promising to become heated before the Sept. 15 primary. Sheriff Greenan announced this spring that he would not seek re-nomination. Announcement of Lloyd Stone, Sandusky, last week made the eighth candidate. Other candidates are: Roland L. Meredith, Minden City; Harry Dawson, Deckerville; Ben Jones, Carsonville; Warren Sweet, Bridgehampton; Ace Campbell and Herbert M. Stone, Sandusky; Lawrence Clement, Worth.

Richard McBride, president of the Pigeon chapter of the Izaak Walton League, and Charles F. Sturm were at Mio Monday and returned with eight fawn deer. These deer were provided by the Michigan Conservation Department. They will be in the care of Mr. McBride until released next

Neighbors Save Farm Buildings

While workmen were bringing a load of hay to the barn on the D. M. Haist farm which joins the village limits of Caro at the northwest corner of the town, they noticed a fire in the dry grass between the barn and the straw stack. Prompt action on the part of neighbors and people in the park at Caro standpipe across the road from the farm saved the farm buildings. Water was carried from a trough in the barn and a few minutes of strenuous work put the fire out. Caro fire department responded and helped extinguish the flames with chemical tanks.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

George W. Kaiser, 48, Fairgrove; Pauline Parker, 44, Cincinnati, O.

Hugh Thompson, 37, Vassar; Vernola Baxter, 30, Vassar.

Edgar M. Yoder, 27, Tuscola County; Amye M. Bechtel, 27, Toledo, Ohio.

Wallace R. Rogers, 25, Millington; Katherine Seene, 25, Millington.

Leon B. Meader, 27, Brooklyn, Me.; Mary A. Jacobus, 24, Vassar.

THIS AND THAT

THIS IS the season of the year when the lawn without any dandelions on it is conspicuous.

FARMERS SMILED after that steady rain of Monday night. It did a world of good to farm crops, they say.

IT ISN'T poverty that makes one discontented. A horse and buggy would be ideal if the neighbors didn't have cars.

YOU MAY think you have a hard lot but think of the man on a rigid diet at a country picnic during fried chicken season.

ONE CASS CITY banker says he does more work during his Thursday afternoon holiday than any other afternoon of the week. We have heard that vacations leave some more tired than when they work, but one who accomplishes more on holidays than other days is a rare bird indeed!

SAFE DRIVERS regulate their speed to the conditions of traffic, roadway and the possibility of hazards of any and all descriptions. Blind corners, children playing, pedestrians, the presence and possible action of other cars; in short, the whole moving scene. Irresponsible drivers fail to do this and accidents result. The leading cause of traffic accidents is speed too great for conditions. When in doubt—Slow Down.

"WHY DON'T you advocate earlier closing of stores on Wednesday and Saturday nights?" asked a local merchant of the Chronicle Thursday afternoon. All right, we do! We have a plan. Let the customer make it a point to shop earlier so that the merchant may close his store at ten-thirty. If the merchant closes his business place at ten-thirty, then his customers will make it their business to complete their shopping before that hour. A little cooperation on the part of all concerned would accomplish the results desired.

"WILL PAY you Monday," a few dog owners told officers of the sheriff's department when they called Saturday to collect unpaid dog licenses. On Monday, they had either traded or sold the dogs. Such a system doesn't work, Sheriff Jeffrey demonstrated. Warrants were issued and the promisers who tried this trick were brought in to the sheriff's office. They paid the dog license or went out and brought in the dogs and in addition paid the costs. A man who harbors a dog whether he is his owner or not is responsible for the dog license, the sheriff says. Time will be saved dog owners and officers if owners will have their dog license receipts or license tags handy when officers call.

A. B. CHAMPION ELECTED TREAS. OF MICHIGAN BILL POSTERS' ASSOCIATION

Andrew B. Champion was elected treasurer of the Michigan Bill Posters' Association at a meeting of the board of directors at Lansing Tuesday. Mr. Champion fills the vacancy in that office caused by the recent death of his father, Samuel Champion, who filled that position for eight years.

Free Talking Picture Show, High School Auditorium July 9

An entertaining two-reel comedy based on a typical story of American life opens the free talkie to be shown at the High School Auditorium on Thursday evening of next week, July 9. The title is "The Frame-Up."

Following this film is a thrilling educational picture, "Safe and Sound," together with a special Burton Holmes' travel picture, "Ethiopia." Burton Holmes is one of the world's greatest travel lecturers, and the bringing to a Cass City audience of one of his rare films is to be commended.

Opening this unusual entertainment, the Cass City Ladies' Band will make its first local appearance for the season in a half-hour concert under the direction of Mr. Harvey Campbell. With plenty of comfortable seats and assurance of no interference from cold or rain, this will be an opportunity for an evening of varied entertainment without cost to anyone. The sponsoring concern is the Cass Motor Sales.—Advertisement.

Office Closed Thursday Afternoons. Dr. P. A. Schenck's dental office will be closed on Thursday afternoons during May, June, July, August, September and October.—Advertisement.

WHAT INDEPENDENCE DID.

July Fourth is known as "Independence Day." On that date 160 years ago, the American people declared themselves a free and independent nation.

It might be compared to the action of a boy who decides the time has come for him to be independent of his parents. He wants to decide what he shall do, how he shall spend his money, time, and effort.

Yet the time has to come when a boy must make his own decisions, or he will amount to nothing. So it was with our country in the day of its decision.

They decided that they wanted to open wide those doors, to give equal justice to all. As time has gone on these great ideals have been somewhat dimmed.

Yet at the heart of our country there are the same hopes that won the Revolutionary war, and established our government.

CAMPAIGN ORATORY.

For four months the voice of the campaign orator will echo through the land. It will fill the halls more or less packed with yelling rosters.

What kind of oratory will draw the most votes? Some old fashioned types are well outlived now. The humorous speaker of years ago, who used to keep the audiences convulsed while he told funny stories, all aimed to show what miserable leatherheads the opposing party and its candidates were, is rarely heard now.

The modern orator may still assert that the opposite party is all wrong, and its terrible policies and selfish aims will ruin the people.

This style of oratory also is not so convincing now. Few people feel that any one party or element monopolizes all the virtue or wisdom.

To discuss politics effectively today, a speaker should admit that there are plenty of good folks on both sides of the political fence, and there is plenty of evil and corruption on both sides.

ANOTHER DROUGHT COMING.

Must the country suffer again from such a drought as that which burned out vast areas in 1934? Recent reports indicate a very low rainfall in many states, largely in the middle west and northwest, and many families once more facing destitution.

What has got into our weather, that these droughts keep coming? Probably a study of the records for a period of years would show that nothing very new has happened.

Even states which have great fertility may be subject to years when the sun pours down with unrelenting severity. Day after day the people look up at the skies, they see cloud masses forming, and think the life giving rain is coming.

The situation was made far worse when the needs of the World war led to the cultivation of vast areas of semi-arid land. Countless people who have toiled over those lands for years have seen their hopes disappointed.

Much land has been settled that should never have seen a plough, and was only fitted to feed cattle and sheep. Many states have suffered from drought during the past years that have had more than their share of misfortune, and are probably due for a period of well watered and prosperous years.

So long as these droughts continue, the people don't have to lie awake nights about surplus crops. The government will not have to compensate them for allowing land to lie idle.

KEEPING OUT OF WAR.

The war between Italy and Ethiopia having ended, President Roosevelt has terminated the restrictions that were placed on shipment of munitions of war and on ordinary trade.

These restrictions were imposed as a means of keeping this country out of that war. There was no great danger of getting into it. Perhaps it was a good idea to impose these restrictions, as a notice to the nations of Europe as to what would happen if they get to fighting again.

TRADING CENTERS.

Some towns have always gained a prosperity far greater than their population warranted, because they became known as trading centers. The common use of automobiles has made it possible to draw trade very much farther than formerly.

In these times when people drive 30 to 40 miles in an hour, trade can be drawn to a live town over a very wide district. That gives a wonderful chance for expansion, to the towns and the merchants that use modern methods of pushing their trade.

SAVING BONUS BONDS.

Apparently a large number of World war veterans, instead of cashing in on their bonus bonds at once, are holding onto them. Many are so hard pressed by unfortunate circumstances that they can't be expected to do that.

The old American spirit said: "God helps those who help themselves." It seems as if some people today said: "Uncle Sam helps those who don't help themselves." Of course millions of families have had misfortunes for which they are not at all to blame, and the country is very glad to aid them.

PRICES GOING UP?

Sooner or later prices are going to rise all over the world, says the London Economist, an English publication famed for its wisdom on economic questions.

Back in 1920, when prices came near jumping over the moon, people formed overall parades, and marched through the streets in their old clothes, as a warning they were tired of the high cost of living. The result was a crash in prices that prostrated the industries.

It is said to be hard to keep cool with the thermometer at 90 or more. However, if you go around with a subscription paper, you seem to find people cool enough even on a hot day.

Formerly some houses were supposed to be haunted by ghosts. Not many houses haunted now, except by solicitors and canvassers for subscriptions.

The popular idea of a vacation for Ma is to take her off to a summer camp where she has to work twice as hard as at home.

In winter many folks fall asleep in their chairs because there's no fun in motoring, while in summer many of them go to sleep under ether in the hospital, because of too much fun at that sport.

Turning Back the Pages

Items from the files of Cass City Chronicle of 1901 and 1911

Twenty-five Years Ago. July 7, 1911.

Grows Turkeys in Confinement

Extensive range is not necessary for successful turkey production, according to summaries of experiments carried on by the poultry husbandry department at Michigan State College. Turkeys which never had range or access to outside pens were marketed successfully with a remarkably low mortality and an equally attractive low feed cost for gains in weight.

If it hadn't been for a rat that took eleven young poults before some Daniel Boone rifle slouching at night resulted in the pest's death the mortality rate would have been but six percent.

"Recent trials have demonstrated the practicability of rearing and finishing turkeys without range and under close confinement," says Professor C. G. Card, who worked with F. N. Barrett on the campus at East Lansing and with Ashley Berridge at the Lake City experimental station in completing the turkey experiment.

"Of the many methods of starting baby turkeys, this project followed a simple but apparently effective system. The young poults were removed from the incubator when dry and placed in a baby chick shipping box for the first 24 hours and then under small brooders in the laboratory building in lots of about 40 poults each. Mash in hoppers and water in vacuum fountains were the only things given for the first week with the exception of small amounts of boiled eggs for the first five days.

"Burlap was used for a floor covering for the first three to four days until the chicks were accustomed to eating mash. Then bright chip shavings were used until the birds were removed to Lake City at the end of five to seven weeks."

At Lake City the poults were received in lots of 25 and each lot was placed in pens 10 feet wide and 24 feet long. An electric hover was used until no longer needed and then perches were installed. Average weights in lots at maturity ranged from 17.1 pounds to 20.5 pounds. Costs on different rations ranged from 7.3 cents per pound gain for one lot to 10.9 cents per pound. Another project is under way now.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Allan Keeble of Detroit were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bayless Wednesday, July 1. Mr. Keeble is a brother of Mrs. Bayless.

Mrs. Keith McConkey attended the wedding of Miss Evelyn Rose and Wm. Edgar at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Rose, at Caro on Wednesday, June 24.

Miss Leone Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Lee, was a member of "The Four Flats," a quartet of young ladies, who sang over WBBM, Chicago, at 7:15 p. m. Sunday.

Miss Florence Bigelow, who had spent the last two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bigelow, returned to New York City Tuesday. Little Miss Florence Jackson accompanied her aunt to New York City and will spend several weeks there.

Miss Catherine Hunt, in company with three girl friends, left Monday for a six weeks' trip to California. They will make the journey by a southern route and will return a northern way. The four young ladies spent four years at M. S. C., Lansing, together, all graduating with the same class.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McLachlin and daughter, Jean, Ralph McTavish, and Miss Alison Adkins, all of River Rouge, spent the week-end at the John McTavish home. On Sunday Mrs. McTavish and daughter, Miss Catherine, and their guests were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Kelley at Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kercher and son, Gerald, left town Wednesday morning with the intention of visiting the Great Lakes Exposition and Centennial at Cleveland, O., spending some time at Detroit, taking in the sights at a centennial celebration at Owosso, and visiting Mr. Kercher's brother in that city. They plan to return home this week-end.

A delightful time was held Monday evening when Mrs. Bertha Brown and her class of girls of the Presbyterian Sunday School met at the Brown home for a social evening in honor of Maggie and Gladys Davenport, who are moving to Pontiac. Games were played and a luncheon was served. Maggie and Gladys were each presented with a gift.

The State Emergency Welfare Relief commission has announced that effective July 1, civil service procedure is to govern the employment of state and county emergency relief commission workers. Present employees will be required to pass a qualifying examination which will be given shortly. New appointments in the counties will be made from lists of eligible candidates who have been approved by the personnel department on a merit basis.

Miss Mary McWebb, R. N., was among those to receive a bonus from the government recently, having served for two and one-half years in the capacity of a nurse during the World War. She had been stationed at the following places: Camp Zachary Taylor at Louisville, Kentucky; Henry Ford hospital when it was a government hospital; Fort Benjamin Harrison at Indianapolis, Indiana; Oteen, North Carolina; Fort Sheridan in Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Moore and family of Fowlerville spent Saturday night and Sunday at the Ralph Ward home. Mr. Moore's mother, Mrs. William G. Moore, who had spent several weeks in Alma and Fowlerville, returned to Cass City with them. Joyce and Elizabeth Moore remained to spend a few weeks with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ward. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ward and their guests were entertained at dinner at the Claud Moore home at Pigeon.

About twenty-five relatives and friends were entertained Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McComb in honor of the 80th birthday of Mr. McComb's mother, Mrs. William McComb, whose anniversary came on that day. It also celebrated the birthdays of Fay McComb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McComb, who was nineteen on Monday, June 29, and Keith McComb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McComb, who was sixteen Saturday, June 27. A potluck lunch was served. A huge birthday cake made by Mrs. Philip McComb contained the numbers 80, 19, and 16 made with candles. Mrs. McComb received a number of lovely gifts.

The "corn game" at every summer fair furnishes much enjoyment for fair attendants who play game after game and pay dime after dime in the hope of some time being the lucky winner of one of the prizes offered. Members of the Butzbach Mission Circle of the Evangelical church played many games Tuesday night with no financial loss and much gain in merriment and excitement. The social hour was directed by Miss Mildred Schwegler who handed out many prizes to the "lucky winners." The meeting was held at the home of Miss Schwegler northeast of town. The games were preceded by a business meeting conducted by the president, Alma Krahling, and a lesson study by Katherine Joos. The hostess served a luncheon.

Mrs. Bertha Brown spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Theo Hendrick, at Cedar Run.

Miss Loma Reagh of New York City came Wednesday of last week to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Reagh.

Mrs. George Muentener of Saginaw and Mr. and Mrs. Atwater Beach of Detroit spent Sunday with Michael Seeger, father of Mrs. Muentener and Mrs. Beach, in celebration of his eightieth birthday.

Tuscola Beekeepers to Tour County

Beekeepers of Tuscola and adjoining counties are invited to join in a Tuscola county picnic and tour of three main yards. R. H. Kelly, extension worker from Michigan State College in Bee Culture, will accompany the tour and will demonstrate and discuss proper methods of handling bees for most profitable production. Mr. Kelly himself has four yards in the county, one of which will be listed. The other three yards are operated by three of the most prominent beekeepers in Tuscola county. The schedule will be as follows:

Russell Kelly Yard, ¾ mile south of Colwood, 10:30 a. m. (located on Carl Smith farm).

George Colman Yard at Watrousville on 2 o'clock.

Otto Roth Yard at Reese at 3 o'clock.

Theodore Keinath Yard, 1½ south, 2 east, ¼ south of Tuscola, 4 o'clock.

Arrangements are being made by the county agricultural agent, E. L. Benton.

Tour is planned for Friday, July 10.

SUPERVISORS REFUSE FAIR APPROPRIATION

Concluded from first page. Filed recently. The plaintiff asked the court to order these officials to show cause in court on July 6 why a writ of mandamus should not be issued to compel these officials to pay Mr. Freeman the interest for the year ending Apr. 15, 1936, as well as the principal.

County officials were hosts at a dinner in the Caro M. P. church Wednesday noon in honor of members of the board of supervisors. State Representative Audley Rawson was toastmaster.

The county building committee recommended to the board that a 4-section document extension file be added to the register of deeds' equipment at a cost of $61.20, and a small table at $3.50.

They will obtain their meals at the People's church. Transportation will be taken care of by E. L. Benton, county agricultural agent, who is also making arrangements for the Tuscola group regarding adult supervision.

College Invites Farmers July 31

Celebration of the state's supremacy in the growing of alfalfa on more than a million acres of land will be one of the highlights in the annual Farmers' Day program at Michigan State College on Friday, July 31, on the campus at East Lansing.

Farmers from all sections of the state are being invited to participate in the program, to view the latest experiments under way in test plots and experiments, and to hear O. E. Reed, chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Reed participated in the history making development of dairying and crops and alfalfa growing in Michigan when several series of "barn meetings" were held beginning in 1921 in Allegan county. He was then head of the dairy department at Michigan State and worked with J. F. Cox, then head of the farm crops department, H. C. Rafter, A. C. Baltzer, and J. A. Waldron.

From 75,000 acres of alfalfa in 1920, the acreage grew to nearly a million last year and is above a million acres in 1936, largest in the United States. All departments at the college will participate in the celebration. Agricultural engineering, farm crops, poultry, animal husbandry, dairy, soils, horticulture, forestry, botany, veterinary, and entomology will offer special departmental programs in the morning after the first special event is conducted at 9:00 a. m.

In the afternoon a general program is being planned by Dean E. L. Anthony, R. J. Baldwin, director of extension, V. R. Gardner, director of the experiment station, Prof. H. C. Rafter, and R. W. Tenny.

Death of Mrs. Stewart—

Mrs. Anne Stewart passed away at Caro June 23 at the age of 93 years. Funeral services were held June 25 from the Hunter Funeral Home at 1:30 and from the M. P. church at 2:00 p. m., Rev. E. R. Willson, former pastor, officiating. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery. Anne Waddle was born in Hamilton, Ont., June 12, 1843. She was the oldest of three children. A brother and a sister preceded her in death. She was united in marriage with James Stewart in Canada and they came to Michigan in 1881. They resided on a farm near Caro, later settling on a farm 1/2 mile south of Gagetown. Their one daughter, Margaret, passed away in 1917 and ten days later James Stewart, the husband and father, was called to his eternal reward. Two grandchildren, Stewart and Beulah Craft, of Rochester, New York, who were present at the funeral, survive. Mrs. Stewart was a loyal member of the Methodist Protestant church.

Bingham School Reunion—

The annual Bingham school reunion was held Saturday, June 27, at the school. A potluck lunch was enjoyed at noon. The program for the afternoon was opened by singing "America." Miss Irene Hall was elected president; Mrs. Chas. Seekings, vice president; Mrs. Harold Evans, secretary; Mrs. Wm. Simmons, treasurer; refreshment committee, Miss Mary Wald, Mrs. Charles Randall and Mrs. Elmer Bearss; entertainment, Charles Seekings, George Seeley, and Miss Janet Laurie. Two readings were given by Mrs. Mary Gekeler; talk by Wm. Miller; reading, Mrs. Wm. Simmons; reading, Mary Kastraba; reading, Nolan O'Dell; poem, Marjory Milligan; talk, Boyd Bingham; reading, Mrs. C. P. Hunter; reading, Fernetta Seekings; reading, Vern Bingham; poem read by Mrs. Harold Evans. Baseball was played during the afternoon and ice cream was served. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Bingham and two sons of Muskegon were among those who attended.

Death of Moses Rabidue—

Moses Rabidue died June 29 in a Cass City hospital after a week's illness at the age of 74 years, five months and seven days. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Fr. McCullough in St. Agatha's church on July 1 at 9 a. m. with burial in St. Agatha's cemetery. Mr. Rabidue was born in Three Rivers, Quebec, and moved to Tuscola county about 50 years ago. About 45 years ago he was married to Phoebe Bedore who passed away in 1918. He was a member of St. Agatha's church and was engaged in farming. The deceased is survived by eleven children—six daughters and five sons—all living in Detroit. Three children preceded the father in death. Two brothers are also living, one in Gagetown, and Cyriel Rabidue in California, and a sister residing in Pontiac.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McCarron visited relatives at Sault Ste. Marie last week.

Small boys playing with matches set fire to the grass near the railroad tracks last Friday. The strong wind, blowing the fire along the dry grass toward the buildings in that section, caused much excitement. The fire truck was called out and the fire put out but not until a large area was burned over.

Ralph Thornton, an employee of Warren Brothers, received several cuts on his head and face and Bert Proulx who was riding with him suffered severe cuts on his head and face and a broken shoulder when the truck that Mr. Thornton was driving left the road turning over in the ditch and breaking all the windows and doing other damage to the truck. Mr. Proulx was rushed to the hospital at Cass City where he remained until Monday. Mr. Thornton received treatment at the hospital and returned home the same evening.

Arthur McIntosh of Caseville spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Willard. The card party sponsored by the Euchre club was held last Tuesday in the church auditorium. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Mose Freeman, Daniel O'Rourke, and Leo Bartholomy.

Jerry Creguer of Detroit was a week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Creguer. Paul Creguer of Clare is spending the summer at the Creguer farm.

Mrs. Joseph Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reynolds of Detroit spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rocheleau.

Mr. and Mrs. John Karner of Kalkaska spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Weiler. Their son, Larry, who visited here two weeks, returned with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Langlois, sons, Paul and Robert, of Detroit were Sunday and Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hool. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Karner of Detroit spent Sunday with Mrs. Delphine Goslin.

The Vernall-Palmer reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Freeman spent Saturday in Detroit with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Downing and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jankech visited relatives in Detroit Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Deering are enjoying a week's vacation motor trip in Northern Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lenhard and family visited relatives in Detroit Sunday. Miss Marie Lenhard, who spent the past two weeks in Detroit, returned with them.

CIRCUIT COURT

In the case of Ada Atkins vs. the Estate of Edna Turner, deceased, which was appealed from the decision of probate court commissioners, the circuit court held that there was a contract that Edna Turner was to pay $1.00 a day for care and the time was 665 days. Allowing for payments previously made, the court's decision was that there was still due Ada Atkins $598.50 with costs.

In the case of John W. Kinney et al vs. Emil Falk, Attorney Kern reported that creditors had agreed to take ten cents on a dollar and the parties would have a conference to distribute assets. The case was adjourned to July 13.

An injunction restraining Claude Fox from disposing of his restaurant was made permanent until after the hearing in the case of Pauline Fox vs. Claude Fox. Ernest White, doing business as the Lapeer Adjusting Co., was given a judgment against Lee Huston in the sum of $1,073.25 and costs of $23.95 to be taxed.

JUSTICE COURT.

Two automobile drivers drew fines of $50 each for driving while intoxicated in Tuscola county within the past week.

Melvin Legault of Reese was arrested on M-38, five miles east of Vassar, on Saturday afternoon and paid a fine of $50 and costs of $12 in Justice Atwood's court. John Legault arrested at the same time on a drunk charge paid $11 costs in Justice McPherson's court.

Mrs. Jeane Kempe, 30, of Detroit lost control of the Ford V-8 she was driving on M-15 in a northerly direction through Millington Saturday afternoon. With her was her three year old daughter. Mrs. Kempe was arrested by Deputy John Gleason on a driving while intoxicated charge. Sheriff George Jeffrey, who was called to take Mrs. Kempe to the county jail, says he found her very unwilling to make the trip and he was obliged to handcuff his prisoner. In court that night, Justice Frank St. Mary assessed a fine of $50 and costs of $13.30.

Wm. McKeen, 50, of Vassar paid $12.80 costs on a drunk and disorderly charge in Justice Atwood's court Monday morning.

EARL W. DOUGLAS FUNERAL HOME

The Fourth of July

KEEPING ON THE JOB

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

While replenishing the supply of fuel at a gasoline station in one of our large cities, the writer engaged the salesman in conversation and learned that the man who sold gasoline received $18 per week and "was very glad for the job." "Quite a come down," said he, "I had a salary of six thousand a year."

Further inquiry disclosed the fact that the man had been a cashier in one of the closed banks of the city. Yes, quite a come down, but the interesting and salient fact was that he was truly glad for the job.

Another incident is very much in contrast. A young man sought employment in the repair department of a high grade garage. He was informed that he could go to work on the following Monday at $50 per month, and promise of an increase as soon as he demonstrated his ability. The young man failed to show up on the appointed day. After a week had passed, the employer phoned the man and received the following reply: "I get so much a week on the dole (naming an amount slightly in excess of the garage offer.) Why should I work for you when I get a larger amount without doing anything?"

These two experiences are in vivid contrast and emphasize opposite points of view. Pride, self respect and courage distinguish the first, while the absence of these forces characterizes the second.

"Am glad for the job." There is much meaning in that phrase. The first man had something very definite to do, something constructive and wholesome in spirit. He sold gasoline as only a gentleman could sell it. He dignified his job. He was not ashamed, even though his job was less dignified than that of cashier of a bank.

Undoubtedly a large army of the employed today are meeting a tragic situation in this same spirit of sacrificial surrender to the fundamental principle of work—the dignity of labor. Men, although tired, and inwardly discouraged, work on, "glad for the job." They mean it, for the job means independence and freedom from the curse of idleness. Perhaps the right spirit of honest toil is illustrated in the story of the three men working on a stone pile. One was working from sheer habit, one was working for the weekly pay check, but the other was helping to build a cathedral. A person may work as a man or as a machine. All work, however menial, may be exalted. The quality, the soul of work is the most important part of it, both to the worker and to society.

Democrats United for Roosevelt and New Deal

Wild Demonstrations in the Philadelphia Convention—Flexible Platform Adopted and Two-thirds Rule Abrogated.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

Convention Hall, Philadelphia — "What this country needs is four more years of the New Deal under the administration of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. And that is just what this country is going to get."

Such in effect was the expressed belief and confident determination of the Democratic National convention of 1936.

With complete and beautiful unanimity the delegates again put at the head of their party ticket the names of Roosevelt and Garner. If there was one among them who didn't like this, he wisely held his peace. All those who had anything to say—and most of them had—were confident, vociferously or serenely, of a sweeping victory in November comparable to that they had in 1932.

Before it concluded its labors the convention did another notable thing. It voted to abrogate the old rule requiring a two-thirds vote for the nomination of candidates. "The southern states fought the change stubbornly in the committee on rules and voted against it on the floor, but they were outnumbered."

Platform Draft Was Revised

Whatever other dissension there was in the convention related to the platform upon which the candidates were to take their stand, and this was carefully confined to the committee rooms. Senator Wagner of New York, chairman of the resolutions committee, had been in conference with President Roosevelt in Washington and brought here a well planned lot of planks which had the approval of the chief. But there were two startling political developments shortly before the convention opened which required much revision of the platform. First of these was the formation of the third or Union party with Congressman Lemke as its standard bearer. Second was the open letter to the delegates here signed by Al Smith, Ex-Governor of New York, Bainbridge Colby, Ex-Judge Cohalan and Ex-Senator Jim Reed of Missouri. This rather astounding document urged that the convention discard Franklin D. Roosevelt and nominate a "real Democrat" or else abandon the old party name. The five eminent gentlemen said that if this demand were not complied with, and of course they knew it would not be, they would be forced to take the field in opposition to the New Deal and its leader.

The letter from Smith et al. was received here with angry scorn, silent contempt or fierce declamations that meant nothing more than the Old Deal votes lost to the cause. But the Union party was something else again. It really caused much trepidation in the minds of the leaders, who realized that the prospective combination of radical and dissatisfied farmers, followers of Father Coughlin and adherents of the late Huey P. Long now shepherded by Rev. Gerald Smith might well lead to the loss of a number of states and certainly would draw heavily from the New Deal vote unless something were done about it.

Many thought the best plan was a decided liberalization of various parts of the platform, though this would necessitate moving Mr. Roosevelt quite a distance from the "little to the left of center" position he had chosen. Conservatives who have opposed many of the New Deal doings but who still remain in the party ranks, fought stubbornly against this shift to the left, and the subcommittee that had the building of the platform in hand spent long and weary hours debating the proper wording of the resolutions.

Gives President Wide Scope

As finally decided upon, reported to the convention by Senator Wagner and adopted by that body, the platform is a cleverly devised affair which dodges many issues and leaves the President free to follow almost any policy he may determine upon as occasions arise. It is flexible in the extreme. Starting off with the "self-evident truths" that the nation was brought to the brink of ruin by twelve years of Republican rule and that in three years under Democratic administration it has been revived and put on the road to restored prosperity, the document sets forth the services of the New Deal in the way of protecting the family and home, safeguarding savings and investments and laying the foundations for the aged, orphaned and infirm. The consumer is then assured briefly that he will be accorded fair value, honest sales and a decreased spread between the price he pays and the price the producer receives. Extension of rural electrification and cheap power are promised.

Coming to the plank on agriculture, the party congratulates itself on having "taken the farmer off the road to ruin" and promises that all available means will be used to raise farm income toward its pre-war purchasing power. How this is to be done is not stated in detail except that soil conservation and the domestic allotment program with payments to farmers are to be continued, as is the retirement of submarginal land. The plank continues:

"We favor the production of all the market will absorb, both at home and abroad, plus a reserve supply sufficient to insure fair prices to consumers; we favor judicious commodity loans on seasonal surpluses; and we favor assistance within federal authority to enable farmers to adjust and balance production with demand, at a fair profit to the farmers."

Labor Gets Some Promises

Organized labor, through President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, had urged a number of suggestions upon the committee, but it had to be satisfied with rather vague promises that the worker would be protected and his rights, "both as wage earner and consumer, in the production and consumption of all commodities" would be guarded. Says the plank: "The worker has been returned to the road of freedom and prosperity. We will keep him on that road." The same statement is made concerning the American business man, and the American youth.

Monopolies are declared to be the creation of Republican rule and privilege, and the party pledges vigorous and fearless enforcement of the criminal and civil provisions of the existing anti-trust laws and the restoration of their efficacy where it has been weakened by "new corporate devices or judicial construction."

This led naturally to the matter of the constitutionality and the question of its amendment, which had been a subject of hot debate in the subcommittee's deliberations.

As to Constitutional Changes

The plank adopted is strikingly similar to Governor Landon's interpretation of the corresponding plank in the Republican platform. Detailing some of the problems that "cannot be adequately handled exclusively" by the states, it says:

"If these problems cannot be effectively solved by legislation within the Constitution, we shall seek such clarifying amendment as will assure to the legislatures of the several states and to the Congress of the United States, each within its proper jurisdiction, the power to enact those laws which the state and federal legislatures, within their respective spheres, shall find necessary, in order adequately to regulate commerce, protect public health and safety and safeguard economic security. Thus we propose to maintain the letter and spirit of the Constitution."

The merit system is lightly touched upon with a promise to put all non-policy-making federal positions under the civil service law.

"Permanently Sound Currency"

Coming to "Government Finances," the platform approves "the objective of a permanently sound currency so stabilized as to prevent the former wide fluctuations in value." It asserts a determination to reduce the expenses of government and to achieve a balanced budget and reduction of the national debt at the earliest possible moment. Details of proposed methods are omitted. There is no mention of gold or silver.

The policy of the "Good Neighbor" is to be continued in foreign relations; war as an instrument of national policy is condemned, and the nation is to be kept out of any war which may develop anywhere. No mention is made of the League of Nations or the world court.

National Chairman James A. Farley, whose person, pictures and name were everywhere at the fore, opened the convention Tuesday with a well composed speech, after the delegates had been welcomed by Mayor Wilson. Mr. Farley's mention of Mr. Roosevelt's name precipitated the first demonstration; but the convention had not yet warmed up to enthusiasm and the delegates followed their state standards around the hall rather stodgily, urged on by an army of photographers. By evening plenty of steam had been generated and it was first let loose for Governor Earle, who told at length and vigorously why he abandoned the Republican party in 1932 and was still a Democrat.

Keynoting by Barkley

Then came Senator Alben W. Barkley, stentorian orator from Kentucky, with his keynote speech, he having been selected as temporary chairman. He lost no time in setting forth the praiseworthy accomplishments of the New Deal and the sins of those who oppose it. His phrases were neatly turned and his style often elegant. Especially notable was the fact that the senator almost ignored Landon and Knox, directing most of his keen thrusts at Herbert Hoover and the American Liberty League. Denying any intention of attacking the Supreme Court, the orator yet expressed keen disappointment with its rulings that killed so many New Deal enterprises. "Is the Court beyond criticism?" he shouted rhetorically, and replied that Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt did not think so.

Senator Barkley gave the convention the kind of speech it wanted, and it was really a fine example of political oratory, sarcasm, satire, denunciation, pathos and argument being skillfully mingled. That he often left himself open to counter attack goes without saying, for every partisan speech is full of loopholes, but the Kentucky statesman added to his fame as an orator by this effort in Philadelphia.

As much cannot be said for Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas. Chosen as permanent chairman, he delivered his address as a delegate because the credentials committee had not reported and the radio broadcast time was at hand. The speech was carefully written but was too ponderous to be really effective. It repeated much that Senator Barkley already had said, and the delegates and guests became very restless. Senator Joe also scored Herbert Hoover mercilessly.

Other speakers had avoided President Roosevelt's alleged abandonment of the platform of 1932, but Senator Robinson had not to say:

"The Roosevelt administration has faithfully complied with the spirit of the Chicago platform promises. If there has been a partial departure from the letter of the planks in that platform relating to economy and balancing the budget, that failure is attributable to the constantly changing conditions and necessities and to the guerrilla warfare of the Republican party."

Wild Demonstration for F. D. R.

Friday's session was the culmination of the convention for at that time was renominated Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Auditorium was packed to its ultimate inch and the enthusiasm of the immense crowd was so tense as to be almost painful when Chairman Robinson recognized John E. Mack of New York. Four years ago Judge Mack put Mr. Roosevelt in nomination in Chicago, and the President had selected him to do the job again. He did it, and did it well. A finished speaker and the sincere friend and admirer of the man he was serving, he had a grateful task. His glowing eulogies of the President repeatedly inspired the throng to wild bursts of cheering, and when he closed bedlam broke loose. If there had been some apathy in former sessions, there certainly was none now. The noise meter was at its top mark for long periods as the parading Democrats yelled and screamed and both band and organ played full blast. The demonstration reached the point of hysteria before the men and women sank wearied into their seats.

It seemed every delegation wished to be on the list of seconds, and everyone who was ready with a speech was heard. Man after man and woman after woman, they stepped forward to endorse, briefly but pungent, Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal. Action on the nomination revealed the fact, already suspected, that Franklin D. was the unanimous choice of the convention.

Renomination of John Nance Garner for the vice presidency was accomplished Saturday and was marked by an ovation for the well loved Texan second only to that which greeted the naming of Roosevelt. Then the convention adjourned sine die.

By this time President Roosevelt had arrived from Washington and in the evening he and Mr. Garner appeared in Franklin Field of the University of Pennsylvania before a crowd that filled that huge place and the surrounding streets. There they delivered their speeches of acceptance, speeches that were carried by radio to millions and millions of listeners all over the broad land and even to foreign countries.

The demonstration for the President was tremendous. His countenance was wreathed in smiles, but there was deep emotion in his eyes and his voice as he addressed this part of the hosts he hopes confidently to lead to victory in November.

Philadelphia a Good Host

Not for thirty-six years had Philadelphia entertained a national political convention, and it strove in every way to live up to its name as the City of Brotherly Love. All the inhabitants, regardless of party affiliations, joined in seeing that the thousands of visitors had a good time. Numerous receptions and trips to places of historic interest were arranged, and Thursday evening the Mummies gave one of their famous parades, after which Mayor Wilson crowned the lovely "convention queen."

Considering the narrowness of the city's streets, traffic was well handled by an army of courteous and ever helpful policemen.

Seldom were these officers of the peace called on to take anyone into custody, but their services were required in the convention hall Thursday evening. A bunch of young men and women in a front corner of the gallery suddenly unfurled banners inscribed "We Want Al Smith" and "Give Us Al Smith." The photographers reached them first, but the angry New Dealers were not far behind and a lively fist-fight ensued as the banners were torn to shreds. The police escorted the disturbers from the hall, bloody but still defiant.

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT was renominated by the Democratic convention in Philadelphia in a demonstration of great popular acclaim.

President Roosevelt

The convention unanimously adopted a strong New Deal platform and voted the abolition of the historic two-thirds rule.

The sessions were marked with extreme enthusiasm. Party harmony and a determination to stand militantly on the administration's record in the past three years and present a united front in the coming campaign characterized the convention.

The abolition of the two-thirds rule for the nomination of candidates was one of the significant achievements. This rule, which has been in use for more than 100 years, was superseded by the adoption of the rules committee's report recommending that at future conventions only a bare majority be required for nomination.

While some southern and the eastern and western states opposed abrogation, they were reconciled to it by the committee's recommendation that changes be made in the apportionment of delegates.

The platform pledged continuance of soil conservation, benefit payments to farmers, a sound currency, a balanced budget and a constitutional amendment, if necessary, to achieve the party's broad social program. It praised the accomplishments of the New Deal in a preamble, declaring that it planned to continue them in the interest of the nation. The platform's keynote was that the Roosevelt administration has put and will keep the nation "on the road to recovery and prosperity."

Regarding the Constitution, the platform declared that while the Republican platform proposes to meet national problems by action of the separate states, the Democratic party recognizes that minimum wages, maximum hours, child labor, monopolistic and unfair practices, dust storms, drought and floods could not be handled by states. It stated:

"If these problems cannot be effectively solved by legislation within the Constitution, we shall seek such clarifying amendments as will assure to the legislatures of the several states and to the congress of the United States, each within its proper jurisdiction, the power to enact those laws which the state and federal legislatures within their respective spheres shall find necessary, in order adequately to regulate commerce, protect public health and safety and safeguard economic security. Thus we propose to maintain the letter and spirit of the Constitution."

In addition to soil conservation and benefit payments, the farm plank pledged the Democrats to financing share-croppers and tenants in buying land; favored commodity loans on farm surpluses and retirement of ten million acres of submarginal land from production and rural rehabilitation.

Reiterating the "good neighbor" policy, the foreign relations plank reaffirmed the party's neutrality program pledged to keep the nation out of foreign entanglements. It reasserted the reciprocal tariff policy, but demanded "adequate" protection to farmers and manufacturers against unfair competition.

Denouncing monopolies and concentration of economic power, the platform declared that the administration would "vigorously and fearlessly enforce the criminal and civil provisions of the existing anti-trust laws."

Other planks pledged: Expansion of the social security program; continuation of rural electrification; protection of the rights of labor to bargain collectively; expansion of federal housing projects; just treatment of war veterans and their dependents; extension of the merit system through classified civil service; freedom of speech, radio, religion and assembly; projection of public works projects to aid unemployment; opposition to Communism and "the menace of concealed Fascism."

THE specter of drought stalked in the Northwest. Damage to crops on heat-parched farms in South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming and Montana caused great concern and recalled the disastrous drought conditions of two years ago.

Administrator Harry L. Hopkins. Work relief projects designed to give work at once to 5,000 farmers in the Dakotas and parts of Wyoming and Montana, whose crop lands have been laid waste for the seventh consecutive year, were planned.

In the Middle West the fact that June of 1936 has been cooler than the same month two years ago has offset the serious effects of lack of rain. Figures on June rainfall for 1936 and 1934 compiled by Nat C. Murray, crop authority of Chicago, showed that Ohio had 39 per cent of normal this year and 90 per cent in 1934; Minnesota 46 per cent in 1936 and 92 per cent in 1934; Missouri 26 per cent in 1936 and 62 per cent in 1934; and Kansas 37 per cent in 1936 and 65 per cent in 1934.

MEETING in Montreux, Switzerland, an international conference sought settlement of military and naval problems in the Mediterranean. The conference had been called by the powers as a result of Turkey's request to fortify the Dardanelles, which were demilitarized under the Lausanne treaty of 1923.

The possible threat of Russia's growing naval strength caused an alignment of the British and Japanese. Japan announced it was willing to accept any limitation on Japanese warships authorized to enter the Black sea, providing similar restrictions were placed on Russian warships leaving it. Britain was believed to be supporting Japan's position.

Russia demanded free westward passage of warships and submarines out of the Black sea through the Dardanelles, adding she was unable to see why other powers not bordering on this body of water desired unlimited passage to it. Because of her mutual assistance pact with the Soviet, France was expected to side with Russia.

The possibility of a mutual assistance pact in the Mediterranean loomed with Britain leading the way and seeking Italy's participation. Such a step would extend a series of such pacts which were concluded between Britain and France, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey against Italy at the time economic sanctions were imposed on it.

REPRESENTATIVE WILLIAM LEMKE of North Dakota announced that he would run for the Presidency as candidate of a new political group known as the Union party.

Rep. Lemke

Mr. Lemke made public a 15-point platform embodying demands for refinancing of farm mortgages, old age security, a living wage for all workers, limitation on individual incomes, the establishment of a central bank, the issuance by congress of all currency and its regulation of the value of all the money.

Plans were made for the new party to hold a national convention some time during August in Cleveland.

Mr. Lemke said the Union party has the support of farm unions, labor, the National Union for Social Justice established by Father Coughlin, the Townsend old age pension movement and "all other liberals who have been driven from the old parties."

Mr. Lemke was co-author with Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota of a $3,000,000,000 farm mortgage refinancing bill defeated in the house of representatives.

ARTHUR W. CUTTEN, who achieved spectacular wealth as a grain trader, died of a heart attack in his home in Chicago. He was sixty-five years old.

An exponent of individualism, Mr. Cutten went his way alone in the grain market, playing his "hunches" against the field. In 1924, he made a profit estimated at between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 in a corner on the corn market. He repeated his success with a coup in the wheat market the following year.

With a group of associates, he entered the stock market in 1928 and during the boom months made millions of dollars.

Most of his life Mr. Cutten was a "long" trader, who bought for the rise in the market, but following the crash, he is said to have become a "bear" or short seller. His operations as a bear in the Chicago Board of Trade brought his suspension by the grain futures administration for two years, but he won a reversal of this ruling in the United States Supreme court.

STRIKES and industrial difficulties continued to harass France, although their ultimate solution was forecast in a conciliatory attitude assumed by the new "popular front" government toward the French chambers of commerce. Representatives of the chambers of commerce received assurance from Premier Leon Blum that no further manufacturing plants would be tied up by "folded arms" strikers, whose number at their peak reached approximately 1,000,000 employees.

In the meantime a strike of sailors in Marseilles was settled after a three-day refusal to work, when the shipowners capitulated to the strikers' demands. Fifty ships were affected by the walkout. The sailors demanded a 40-hour week, vacations with pay and bedsheets on their bunks.

Strife between the "leftists" and the "rightists" represented by the Croix de Feu with its reported membership of 700,000 was averted by the announcement by the government that the Fascist organization would be permitted to continue as a "political party" on the condition that it drop all semblance of a "private militia."

In Spain strikes involving 20,000 workers broke out in the province of Andalusia. Strong detachments of police and civil guards were on duty to curb rioting and violence.

THE Seventy-fourth congress adjourned after a session lasting five and a half months during which it appropriated nearly $10,000,000,000 and was faced by some unexpected legislative complications.

In the closing hours the emergency tax bill which is expected to produce $800,000,000 in revenue was passed. Supreme court invalidation of the AAA and Guffey coal bills and the passage of the cash soldiers' bonus over the President's veto upset the budget plans and made such a bill necessary.

Although it was passed by the house, the amended Guffey coal bill designed to remove the objections of the Supreme court failed of passage in the senate. Similarly, the Wagner slum housing bill, which had passed the senate, failed in the house.

Larger than normal appropriations for governmental activities were passed. The bonus, farm payments, relief and the greatest national defense program in peace time history helped swell the total.

Funds for continuing the present relief program were voted; the public works revolving fund was amended to permit more heavy construction projects. But congress failed to approve the Florida ship canal and Passamaquoddy tide dam.

Invalidation of the AAA brought a revised and expanded soil conservation and domestic allotment act; the rural electrification administration and electric farm and home authority were both placed on a permanent basis; the Commodity Credit corporation was expanded. Two flood control bills were passed. Labor received attention through the Walsh-Healy bill dealing with working conditions on government contracts. A compromise ship subsidy bill was rushed through in the closing hours. Financial legislation included expansion of the jurisdiction of SEC. Important among business legislation was the Patman bill amending the Clayton anti-trust act regarding price discrimination.

A number of important bills failed of enactment. Among these were the Pettigill long and short haul bill, stockyard regulation, Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill, and bill on the 30-hour week, extension of the railroad co-ordinator's tenure, anti-war profits, alien deportation, enlargement of the federal trademark commission's power and treasury agency service.

GROW BETTER CHICKS

At Lowest Cost With Mermash

Nothing mysterious about it. Michigan soils and crops are very deficient in iodine.

MERMASH benefits chicks by adding Manamar to an outstanding poultry ration. Manamar is composed of kelp, an ocean plant, and fish meal, both rich in digestible iodine and other minerals essential for health and growth.

Chicks raised on Mermash simply walk away from those raised on other rations. They're healthier, grow faster, feather better. Chick losses are lower. Cost per chick is lower.

Yes, all costs are lower because Mermash is undoubtedly the lowest priced, good, chick starter-growing mash on the market.

Obituary

Richard J. McLean.

Military funeral rites in charge of the Sandusky post, No. 2945, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were held Saturday afternoon in Elkland cemetery for Richmond J. McLean, World War veteran, who passed away at his home near Argyle Thursday morning.

Richard J. McLean was born April 5, 1890, in Argyle township. During the World War, he served as a sergeant in the medical corps at base hospital No. 82 in France. Funeral services were held at the home, 1 1/2 miles north and 1 mile west of Argyle, at 2:00 p. m. Saturday with Rev. P. J. Allured, pastor of the Cass City Presbyterian church, officiating.

Surviving are two brothers, Melvin McLean, Argyle, and Robert A. McLean, Detroit; two sisters, Mrs. Clara Vaden and Miss Blanch McLean, both of Argyle.

Cyrus Eugene Otis.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist church at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday for Cyrus Eugene Otis, who passed away Saturday, June 27, in his home on Seventh street, after a few days' illness. Rev. L. A. Kennedy, assisted by Rev. B. Douglas, officiated and burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Cyrus Eugene Otis was born at Milford September 28, 1867, and forty years ago moved to the farm three miles east of Cass City which he still owns and where he lived until moving to town in March of this year. He was united in marriage with Miss Nettie Grennell of Williamston, Mich., in October, 1903. To this union were born five children, Lester and Marian, who died in infancy; Arlena, who passed away at the age of six years; Evelyn (Mrs. Robert Neiman) and Merritt.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Robt. Neiman, of Cass City, one son, Merritt, at home; a foster daughter, Miss Ina Otis of Detroit; five brothers, William and Edward Otis of Grand Rapids, Albert, Milford, and Fred Otis of Minnesota, and one sister, Mrs. Raymond Clark, of Sheppard, and a number of nephews and nieces.

Although in poor health his death came as a sudden shock because he was about the home as usual the day before his death. He was converted in early life and spoke often during his last days of his future home.

Mrs. Thomas Whitfield.

Mrs. Thomas Whitfield passed away Friday, June 26, in Morris hospital after an illness of seven months. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Fuester. Rev. P. J. Allured, pastor of the Cass City Presbyterian church, officiated and burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Helen Jane Fenton was born in Canada May 8, 1876, and when five years of age moved with her parents to Clare, Michigan, where she spent her childhood, later going to Traverse City. Here she was united in marriage with Thomas Whitfield December 24, 1907, and to this union one daughter, Jane, was born.

A few years after their marriage they moved to a farm in Greenleaf township where Mr. Whitfield passed away after a brief illness January 12, 1929. Mrs. Whitfield and daughter moved to Cass City a few years ago.

Mrs. Whitfield was an active member of the Presbyterian church here.

Besides her daughter, Helen Jane, she is survived by a stepdaughter, Mrs. Bruce Rodger, and two grandsons, Stuart and Thomas Rodger, of Detroit; three sisters, Mrs. Maud Harrington of Clare, Mrs. Beatrice Ludwig of Mount Pleasant, and Mrs. Carrie Acre of Elberta. She also leaves a number of nieces and nephews as well as a host of friends.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were Mrs. Maud Harrington and Mrs. Helen Ludwig of Clare; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whitfield, George Whitfield and son, Herman, and Mrs. Ohlie Walker of Brussels, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Rodger of Detroit; Mrs. James McAllister of Traverse City.
