50TH ANNIVERSARY OF M. P. CHURCH

Brookfield Congregation Will Observe Event with an All-day Service.

The Brookfield Methodist Protestant church has been built fifty years this summer and the congregation are planning an all-day anniversary service combined with a Brookfield home-coming Sunday, July 26. As many former pastors as possible are planning to attend. Rev. C. England, who was pastor before the church was built and who speaks almost daily over radio station WMPC, Lapeer, Michigan, will bring the morning message. A picnic lunch at noon will be held in an adjoining orchard on the McKee farm. The afternoon service will be held out-of-doors, weather permitting.

The invitation committee is hard at work, sending special invitations to former residents of this section who have moved away.

Those of the surrounding communities are urged to remember the date, July 26, and come and meet their old friends.

Full details of the program will be in next week's issue of the Chronicle.

Paving on M-53 Nears Completion

E. B. Schwaderer, road contractor, expects to complete the paving on M-53 next Monday and within two weeks it will be open to traffic. Cement laying has been delayed due to "short days" necessary because of the extremely hot weather of the last two weeks.

This stretch of new pavement lessens by six miles the gravel road between Cass City and Detroit. It's pavement now all the way from here to the state metropolis except seven miles.

EXPLAIN CHANGE IN SOIL PROGRAM

Drought Modifications in Federal Soil Conservation Plan to Meet Emergency.

Modifications in the regulations governing the 1936 federal soil conservation program in Michigan and other corn belt states have been set up so that the effects of heat and lack of rainfall on fields will not work too great a hardship with farmers participating in the program. According to Maurice Doan, chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Conservation committee, encouragement is being given farmers to enable them to produce extra feed and forage for fall and winter feeding, to preserve all available forage for livestock feed and to provide as large an acreage as possible in soil conserving crops for 1937.

In describing the modifications, Claude R. Wickard, acting director for the north central division states which include Michigan, is informing state committee that an additional revision provides for farmers who fail to obtain stands in fields seeded to soil conserving crops. Acceptance of proof will be granted so that farmers can obtain cash grants if the failure to obtain a good stand was caused by conditions beyond the control of the farmer.

The wording of the modifications is as follows: Turn to page 5, please.

EDISON TO ADD 3,500 NEW CUSTOMERS

Rural Applications Almost Equally Divided among Four Counties.

In an interview with E. L. Edwards, division manager of the Lake Huron Division of The Detroit Edison Company, he stated that for the territory formerly operated by Michigan Electric Power Company there were in the files on January 1, 1936, applications for rural service for approximately 350 miles of rural lines and a construction program was launched to proceed with this work to supply the Thumb area with service.

As soon as actual work was started, applications continued to be presented and the mileage for the rural electrification program was stepped up to 500 miles to take care of the additional requests. Requests continued to be forthcoming and the program was again stepped up this time to the 600 mile limit, which Mr. Edwards states will be constructed in its entirety. This will add about 3,500 new customers.

Mr. Edwards stated that the lines are almost equally divided between Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola and Lapeer counties. In addition to electric service being made available for rural customers, service has also been extended to lake shore cottages at Forestville and the line is now being built to supply the village of Forester, which is also on the lake shore.

Lines have been built completely around Bronson lake in Lapeer county which prior to 1936 did not have service of any nature. The same is true at Miller lake, Lapeer county.

In addition to rural line extensions, a utility owned by private interests was purchased by The Detroit Edison Company and the transmission lines were extended from Harbor Beach to Port Hope and plans are to extend lines from Huron City throughout other towns. Turn to page 5, please.

OIL CO. DECLARED 10 PER CENT DIVIDEND

Directors Were All Elected to Succeed Themselves at Annual Meet.

Stockholders of the Cass City Oil and Gas Company met in annual meeting at the Cass Theatre on Thursday night, July 9, and elected the following directors: Charles E. Hartsell, W. O. Stafford, M. B. Auten, Bruce Brown, Henry Smith and W. B. Hicks. All were named to succeed themselves.

A ten per cent dividend to stockholders was announced.

Stanley Asher, manager of the company, said this year's dividend was paid more easily than any since the year of 1930 and that the company is now in the most healthy condition financially that it has been in the last six years.

Following the business session, the stockholders, members of their families, and friends enjoyed a movie show. Despite the exceedingly warm weather, a large number attended the annual meeting.

TWO CANDIDATES HAVE FILED PETITIONS

Dr. H. T. Donahue of Cass City and Charles Frenzel of Mayville are the first to file nominating petitions in Tuscola county for the September primaries. Both are Republicans. Dr. Donahue is a candidate for coroner and Mr. Frenzel for road commissioner. All candidates must file their petitions by July 28.

CHILD FATALLY BURNED IN FIRE

Two Others in Hospital as Result of Blaze in Camp Trailer.

One child was burned fatally and two others are in the hospital in Unionville following a fire which Monday partially destroyed a camp trailer in which they were playing.

Onalee Gall, 4, died about two hours after flames engulfed the trailer, owned by Walter Strieter, of Unionville, and located in his yard. The two other children, Cherie Gall, 2, and Vivian Strieter, 7, were taken to the hospital, along with Mrs. Walter Strieter, who was cut and burned in attempting to rescue the children.

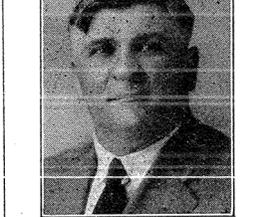

The fire, apparently started when the children, playing in the trailer, found some matches and lit them, the trailer catching fire.

Mrs. Strieter, hearing the screams of the little girls, rushed into the yard and attempted to get them out of the flames. She was cut when struck by flying glass as she broke a window in the blazing trailer.

No Restrictions on Village Water

C. U. Brown, superintendent of the waterworks system in Cass City, says the water supply here has been ample this summer and no restrictions are placed on the amount patrons may use or the time they may use it. Mr. Brown suggests, however, that all hose streams be discontinued if an alarm of fire is sounded.

There being no registering meters on the village pumps, it is not possible to report the number of gallons pumped.

I desire to announce that I am a candidate for the nomination of county treasurer at the Republican primary in Tuscola county next September. Your support will be greatly appreciated.

CREAMERY OWNER DIED SUDDENLY

Solomon Knechtel's Funeral Was Held at Elkton on Thursday Afternoon.

Solomon Knechtel, 68, proprietor of the Knechtel Creamery in Cass City, passed away very suddenly after a walk from his place of business on Main street to his home on North Oak street here late Tuesday forenoon.

Mr. Knechtel had been ill with heart trouble and was confined to his home for several weeks because of this ailment. For the past few weeks his health had been improved and he had been able to visit his place of business every day recently. Tuesday, he was at the creamery quite early in the forenoon. He started home about eleven o'clock, joked with one of the attendants at the Standard Oil Co.'s service station and greeted a neighbor on the way, and had reached the porch of his home when he suffered a heart attack. Delayed Comet Is Due July 27

Last week, Bradley Ormes, research assistant of Northwestern university's observatory, announced that a new comet would speed into view in the northern heavens about July 27 and would be visible for several nights, most clearly just before dawn.

"The comet will be moving relatively fast," Ormes said, "but will appear to be standing still. It will be somewhat elongated and will have a tail."

Of comfort to humans prone to worry about such things as the approaching end of the world was the announcement that the comet would be at least 20 million miles away at the time of its nearest approach to the earth, thus eliminating any danger of a collision.

Mr. Ormes is a Tuscola county young man, the son of Guy Ormes, former county clerk, and Mrs. Ormes, now serving as deputy county clerk.

THREE DROWN IN WATERS OF TUSCOLA

Kingston Couple Die Wednesday Afternoon; Detroit Man Tuesday Night.

Steve Bencheck, 36, and his wife, Mary Bencheck, 26, were drowned in the Moyer swimming hole in White Creek, one mile north and one and a half miles east of Kingston, on Wednesday afternoon.

Bencheck, his wife and his son, 8, and daughter, 5, lived with Bencheck's parents two miles north of Kingston. According to the elder Mrs. Bencheck, while she, her husband and son and daughter-in-law were weeding sugar beets in a field across the highway from the creek, the younger couple left the field for the swimming hole to go bathing. Her little grandson brought her word that his parents had disappeared below the surface of the water and she investigated and then hurried to the Campbell farm in that neighborhood. Mrs. Bencheck is a Hungarian and cannot speak English, but by signs, she convinced the Campbells that something was wrong. John Bastin, a young man in the neighborhood, located the bodies in about 10 feet of water and brought them to shore.

Both were fully clothed except the man had one shoe off. Mrs. Bencheck, through an interpreter, said her grandson had informed her that his mother went into the water first, followed by his father. She said the younger couple went to the creek after the group had eaten their midday meal. A watch found on the drowned man had stopped at three o'clock. The bodies were recovered about 3:20 p. m.

Dr. L. L. Savage, as coroner, summoned the following to serve as jurors: George Hatherly, Jack Zinnecker, Fred Brown, J. D. Harneck, Sherwood Heineman and W. D. Gildart. The jury decided that the drowning was accidental.

Mr. and Mrs. Bencheck, victims in the tragedy, had buried their six-months-old child on Tuesday.

At six o'clock on Tuesday evening, Andrew Jabulik, 45, of Detroit, drowned in an abandoned gravel pit on the farm of Charles Convis, two miles east of Caro. Jakubik's 12-year-old son, who had accompanied him to the pit, saw his father throw up his hands and sink. A group of rescuers led by Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Erb recovered the body 45 minutes later in 20 feet of water. The body was taken to Detroit for burial.

PLAN HOME-COMING CELEBRATION HERE

Committee Names July 30-31 and August 1 as the Dates.

Herman Doerr as chairman and Ed Baker as secretary of a local committee are making arrangements for a home-coming celebration at Cass City on Thursday and Friday nights, July 30 and 31, and all day Saturday, Aug. 1. Andrew Champion is chairman of the publicity committee.

Parades, races, contests for young and old, ball games, target shooting, horse pulling contests, free acts and pavement dancing are being advertised as features of the celebration.

Mr. Baker signed a contract on Wednesday with Jack Champion, manager of the Cote Amusement Company of Detroit, for five rides and 15 concessions. The rides were formerly located at Tashmoor Park on St. Clair river, but since the sinking of the Steamer Tashmoor, no other boat has taken its place in trips to the amusement park and the rides have been removed. The rides include a ferris wheel, tilt-a-whirl, merry-go-round, chair-o-plane and kiddies' auto ride.

BACKWARD 20 PER CENT.

About 20 per cent of the young people in the public schools of this country are said to be unable to go beyond the grammar grades. If put into high school courses, they make a failure there. That failure does them no good. It costs money to give them instruction they can't receive. And they get reconciled to the idea of failure, which makes them less desirable as workers.

Yet almost all this 20 per cent could do well as mechanics and other workers. They are often very competent in those ways. They are backward simply in that they can't take in ideas easily from books, at least in the more advanced subjects.

The biggest problem of education is what to do with this 20 per cent of the young people who do not profit by advanced study. If left to themselves, some of them will become idle and disorderly. The country suffers a constant loss because they have not been encouraged to do their best.

In many cases all that is necessary is to find some useful job that they can do, and leave it to their employers to train them. If they can find work, they usually come out well, and they help carry on the country's labors.

Many of them are a little slow mentally, and need some kind of help. The failure to give them this help is costly to the country. Some of them drift into lawless ways and crime, some become vagrants and live on charity, and some work in an irregular way.

Schools that teach mechanical trades, farming, etc., are the most practical expedient for dealing with these youngsters. It would pay for the country to spend a good deal more on such education than to let these young people come up without being fitted for any kind of work.

LIFE GIVEN TO CHARITY.

Elsie Janis, famous actress, has announced that she will give up all her worldly possessions, and give her life to charity. Her noble act conforms to the Scriptural command that we should not lay up treasures on earth, where moth and rust corrupt, and thieves break through to steal.

OUR FUTURE CITIZENS.

The future of a community depends primarily on its children. To be sure many of our children will go elsewhere, and many children from other places will come here. But the children who live on in a town set the standards and shape the ideas of a town to a large extent.

So when you spend your money for good schools, for clubs and other organizations that help boys and girls, you help shape the future of your town. A few dollars spent for some good organization that gives them the right start may mean great gains for your home community in future years. Stunting the development of the children is like buying poor seed to plant in the garden. Many such seeds will bear no fruit, and many children whose training was poor will offer little future help.

THE MOTOR TRIPPERS.

Merrily the motor trippers buzz along, as they set off to see the world. Their minds are so concentrated on speed, that they don't really see very much of the world. Anyway, they can say they have been there, if they have passed some noted point of interest at 60 miles an hour.

The American people are always stirred by the fever of restlessness, but automobile jaunts varying from 500 to 5,000 miles at least quiet their wanderlust for a little. After they have torn through a half dozen states, had their fill of half-cooked food, slept on some not so flowery beds of ease as the old hymn tells about, they return with the feeling that there isn't any much better place than the good old home town.

Do the trippers do credit to the state and city from which they come? Courteous tourists, who obey all the road rules, and hand out kind words everywhere, with good ones for their home town, are high class advertising.

WHEN SCIENCE GOES SOUR.

Sir Oliver Lodge, famous scientist, says the time has come for "science to call a halt on the things of the devil." He complains of such things as that the wonderful modern discoveries could be used in warfare to throw bombs on innocent children.

When it comes to human kindness and generosity, the world comes pretty near standing still. The race has won vast triumphs in every field of science except in that of human conduct, in which it knows the truth, but refuses to follow it.

MOST PATHETIC FIGURE.

Perhaps the world's most pathetic figure at this moment is former Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia. Driven out of the rugged land over which he recently ruled in a seemingly serene power, he is now a kind of man without a country. He appears before the League of Nations and complains bitterly that his empire has been snatched from his grasp, and its people are crushed under the heel of military power.

The Indians who once possessed our country could have put up a similar claim against the old pioneers who ruthlessly trampled on the red man, and drove him out of his fair fields. The world is full of injustice, and no nation can maintain that it has committed no such wrongs. Also there are usually two sides in all such disputes.

CAMPAIGN VOLUNTEERS.

How can you wake up the voters on politics, without spending a lot of money. If it were not for speeches, political advertising, campaign radio time, the American people would never go to the polls. Such campaigning costs money. If enough money is spent so the people aroused, then there is complaint that the politicians are trying to win the election with their big campaign funds.

Another way of rousing the people is to hire paid workers to go around, and rouse the indifferent to come to the polls. And when election day comes, a fleet of automobiles must be hired. People who could walk without difficulty to a show or dance, have to be carted to the polls before they will exercise the sacred privilege that their fathers fought to bestow on them.

The answer to this problem is to induce people to do volunteer and unpaid political work. If the campaign workers in some city are made up mostly of office seekers or those who secretly hope for political preferment, their solicitations do not have so much effect.

When Mr. A. and Mr. B. and Mrs. C. and Mrs. D., who cherish no idea of running for office, but just want good economical government, get out and ring doorbells and call up their neighbors on the telephone, to ask them to vote, then there is something doing. The indifferent man concludes he would better wake up and find out what kind of a game these politicians are playing.

And the indifferent lady begins to worry what her groceries are going to cost if things go wrong. Let the ordinary run of people get out and canvass for votes same as they used to, and the apathy that threatens our government will disappear.

Clipped Comment

MURPHY DRAFTED.

Detroit News.

As the result of Democratic master-minding in Washington, Frank Murphy has resigned as High Commissioner in the Philippines to become a candidate for governor in the Democratic primary in Michigan.

Time and events will reveal the quality of this master-minding. At present it looks stupid enough to us.

The moment to announce Mr. Murphy's candidacy was three months ago, when the field was clear and the party might have been united behind him.

Now George Welsh is out in front and going strong. He has the support of former Gov. Comstock and many other Democratic regulars. Unless Mr. Welsh can be turned aside—and although pressure will no doubt be brought to bear, we have an idea it will be useless, for he owes nothing to the Federal organization—there will be a primary contest bound to create bitterness.

Whether Welsh wins the nomination or Murphy triumphs, plenty of soreness will result and we in Michigan know how sore disappointed Democrats can be. Some of the sorehead votes will go Republican in November; some will go for the Lemke ticket, provided there is one. However it goes, it will be lost to the Democratic party.

Mr. Welsh has lost no time in replying to Mr. Murphy's plan for reforming the legislature by making it a body of 60 members in a single chamber, instead of 132 in two houses. Mr. Murphy may reflect the thought of the majority of Detroit voters, who are often keen for change; but Mr. Welsh knows that the small cities, the villages and the farms are always suspicious of reforms originating in the metropolises.

The Murphy strength will be in the industrial cities. Mr. Welsh recognizes the fact, and has stepped out to consolidate himself in the rest of the state. If Farley and Hurja believe Mr. Murphy can gain the nomination merely by announcing his candidacy, we fear they have not watched Michigan Democracy very closely during the last 3 1/2 years.

We are discussing this matter without any unfriendliness to Frank Murphy. He was a capable mayor of Detroit, and his record in the Philippines has been so excellent that the Philippine legislature begged that he be allowed to remain there. But we think we know Michigan politics better than does Mr. Farley, and we believe a first-class mistake has been made by injecting, too late, a candidacy that is likely to split the party in two and insure the re-election of Gov. Fitzgerald, who thus far has no opposition in the Republican ranks.

Furthermore, we fail to see what votes Mr. Murphy, if he is nominated for Governor, can swing to Roosevelt that Roosevelt would not have anyway. Outside Detroit, the Murphy influence has never been tested, and, all things considered, must be held dubious. Frank Murphy has been asked to make an arduous sacrifice for his party and its chief. We regret, for his sake, that we are compelled to think it vain.

BILLINGS—SCOTT.

Miss Beatrice Billings, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Billings of Bowling Green, Ky., and Robert W. Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Scott, of Pittsburgh, Kansas, were united in marriage Tuesday afternoon, June 30, at four o'clock in a beautiful wedding service which took place at the Westminster Presbyterian church in Bowling Green.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Horace Cady Wilson of Louisville, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Robert H. Clarke of Bowling Green.

A musical program was given preceding the ceremony. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was used for the entrance of the bridal party and Mendelssohn's Wedding

March was played for the recessional. The altar was banked with palms and ferns and flanked on both sides by white candles.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Farmers to See

New Type Silage

If cows in Michigan develop the weakness or strength that humans find in having "a sweet tooth," then part of the credit for the achievement can be given the farm crops department at Michigan State College. Two silos filled with alfalfa, one filling mixed with molasses, will be opened at 9:00 a. m. for inspection by farmers visiting the college campus on the annual Farmers' Day Friday, July 31.

During the day's program built around the state's celebration of having more than a million of acres in alfalfa this year, more than other states, all departments at the college will participate in describing experimental work. Test plots for crops, livestock and machinery and buildings can be inspected in the morning. A program of speeches will be held in the afternoon.

The two silos containing the alfalfa and the molasses and alfalfa are located on the college farm at Mt. Hope road about a mile south of the main campus. Haymaking demonstrations will be held in an adjoining field.

According to H. C. Rather, head of the farm crops department at Michigan State College, the new method of ensiling alfalfa is evidently one of the most valuable of the recent developments in agricultural experiment work. During wet weather or in late fall, the method promises to permit saving the alfalfa crop with excellent feeding quality. Similar silage has been made and fed on a commercial scale at the W. W. Kellogg farm and Upper Peninsula sub stations of the college.

Tail Tales

As told to: FRANK E. HAGAN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

HE'S SOME HITTER

Billy Sullivan, former Notre Dame player, now catcher for the Cleveland Indians, is away up amongst the six leading batters of the major leagues. He is a son of Billy Sullivan, star backstop for the White Sox and battery mate of the great Ed Walsh.

European Cowboys Cowboys roamed Europe before America was discovered, and the gipsy riders on the Carmargue in the south of France and the plainsmen of the Hortobagy in Hungary are quite as picturesque as the cowboys of the United States.

Oddest Window The world's oddest window material, found in use in southern India and many parts of China, is the shell of the "windowpane oyster." These oyster shells, although not transparent, are translucent enough to pass nearly as much light as an ordinary pane of glass.—E. Freeman, San Mateo, Calif., in Collier's Weekly.

When You See a Wimpuss—

A WIMPUSS, according to Austin Butcher, editor of the Altona (Kan.) Tribune, is a rare animal which grows about as big as a hoogie-bug, but it has a long tail like a collywop and wings like a bearcat. It lives in the top of high trees, whence it flies down to attack defenseless travelers. However, no harm is to be feared from a wimpuss if you know what to do when you see one coming.

It is folly to shoot at one, for a wimpuss catches bullets in its teeth and eats them. The only way to do when one comes at you is to take a piece of cheese, either Edam or Swiss, and tack it securely on a waterfall. The wimpuss makes a swoop at the cheese and gets mixed up with the waterfall and gets its feet wet.

It makes a wimpuss mad as all get-out when he gets his feet wet. So he hunts around for a nice piece of grass to dry them on. The minute the wimpuss lights on the grass, the hunter rushes at him and ties his tail in a double bow knot. When a wimpuss has his tail tied in a double bow knot he is gone, because when he flies he always ducks his head under his body to see who is following him. In doing this he gets his head caught in the double knot and chokes himself to death.

Worms Turn Over Soil The earthworm turns the soil over by swallowing it and then discharging it again at the surface in the form of worm casts. Huge quantities of soil are thus turned over annually.

Canning Offers Chance for Cash

Rural women in Michigan are finding that canning through improved methods may be a source of cash income as well as a means of supplying the family with home canned fruit vegetables and poultry for the coming winter, according to the home economics extension service of Michigan State College, East Lansing.

But before canning is contemplated and before the produce is prepared and containers lined up, the first rule in canning should be memorized and followed.

"Success in canning is dependent upon an understanding of the causes and the control of spoilage, the availability of quality products to be canned and the ability to follow directions accurately." This is the advice offered in "Successful Home Canning," Michigan State College extension bulletin No. 132, available by writing to the Bulletin Department at Michigan State College.

The bulletin is full of suggestions that can be a yardstick for operations. A suggested canning budget for home use is offered in one portion, indicating reasonable amounts of garden produce to figure for use as fresh from the garden, and additional amounts to plan for preservation for later use.

Pressure cooking, water bath canning, the oven method and a description of containers is another portion of the bulletin. Some of the problems encountered in canning are discussed and these offer the home canner a chance to make a quick diagnosis and correct poor canning before too great a quantity is put up at a disadvantage.

The examination will be conducted by state field representatives or other persons appointed to act for the state commission.

Examinations for case workers and other administrative employees will take place at a later date, probably on either or both of the following Saturdays. These will be followed by qualifying tests for employees of the state office.

The examinations to be given the incumbent employees is qualifying only, not competitive. Competitive tests will be devised for persons who wish to file applications for future employment with the county commissions, with local people giving preference.

WEDNESDAY IS CIRCUS DAY AT CARO

Wednesday, July 22, is circus day in Caro where the Walter L. Main Circus celebrating its 50th anniversary will play an engagement of one day with performances at 2:00 in the afternoon and 8:00 at night. The doors will open one hour earlier and a free exhibition will be staged on the circus grounds at 12:30 noon and 6:30 at night. An air conditioned tent will be used and ample free parking space will be provided.

The circus will arrive shortly after daybreak Wednesday and to the delight of the youngsters and their grandparents, it is expected that a large reception committee will be on hand to welcome the circus folks. The circus lot will be laid out immediately upon arrival; the boss canvasman with his tape and laying out pins will designate the spaces for the big top, the ticket wagon, concession stands and mammoth; the side show will be in proper place long before noon. The popcorn and circus candy man will make appearances early, the leather lung butchers and side show speliors will test their voices and everything will be in readiness for the handling of a great crowd to witness the biggest circus that Walter L. Main has ever brought to town.—Adv.

DIPLOMATIC PAPERS TO 1920 PUBLISHED

Foreign Relations Record to That Year Revealed.

Washington.—In publishing another volume of "Foreign Relations of the United States," State department historians have carried to 1920 their exhumation of the diplomatic correspondence exchanged between Washington and foreign capitals. "Foreign Relations" is one of the oldest of government publications, extending back as far as the American Revolution.

The work of publication is necessarily slow, for the State department waits to obtain permission from foreign governments before it makes public notes, memoranda and other documents submitted by them to the American secretary of state. Many of these papers, at the time of their preparation, were confidential. Few governments, American officials expect, will be willing to agree to the publication of important documents that are less than fifteen years old.

Few Papers Omitted.
Foreign governments are not consulted as to the inclusion of United States correspondence. Since 1925 the Department of State has pursued a liberal policy in printing the correspondence between Washington and the American ambassadors and ministers abroad. Under this policy it omits publication only of documents that would embarrass pending negotiations, violate a confidence or give needless offense.

Under the rules there must be no alterations of text, no deletions without indicating the places in the text where the deletions are made, and no omission of the facts of major importance that led to a decision. Specifically barred, too, are any omissions designed to conceal or gloss over any alleged defects of State department foreign policy.

During the fiscal year 1933 and 1934 nine volumes in all were issued—three 1917 World War supplement volumes, three 1918 World War supplement volumes and three 1918 Russia volumes. Two 1919 volumes were issued last year; 1920 will require three volumes in all. Two 1921 volumes are nearing completion. Publication will continue indefinitely—as long as the United States has any interchanges on foreign relations to disclose.

Among the earliest collections, well known to historians, are the "Diplomatic Correspondence of the American Revolution," compiled by Jared Sparks, and the "Revolutionary Diplomatic Correspondence of the United States," compiled by Francis Wharton. These collections stop with the year 1783. Other volumes continue the story to 1829.

There is a blank, however. The 1829-61 period is not yet fully uncovered. The State department hopes eventually to bridge this gap, now only partially dealt with by scattered public documents. From 1861 onward the record is fairly complete. In 1929 publication of "Foreign Relations" was speeded up to an average of three volumes or more each year, as compared with a previous average of one volume a year.

Stamps Clothes to Stop Wife From Pawning Them

London.—William Scott, London husband, even rubber-stamped his wife from pawning them.

He made this allegation when appearing in court here to answer a charge of failing to pay for goods, which he declared his wife had ordered without his permission or knowledge.

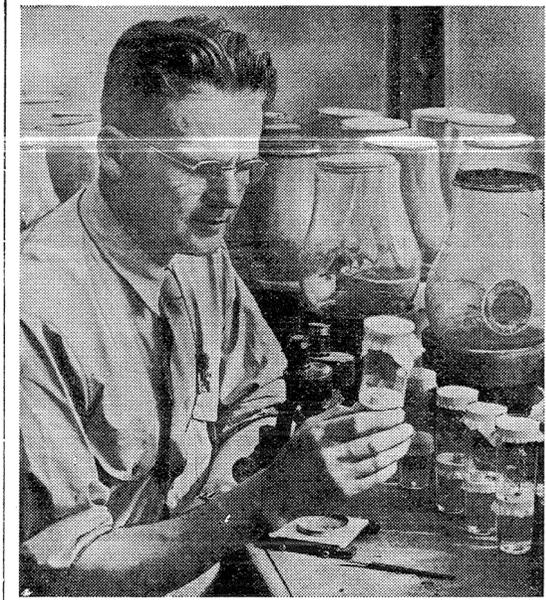

Describing his wife's habit of pawning almost everything in sight, Scott told the court he had a rubber stamp made bearing his name, address and the words "Not to be sold or pledged." He said he applied this stamp to his linen and other articles of clothing that could easily be pawned.

Judge Owen Thompson ordered a new trial on the ground that Scott had forbidden his wife to pledge his credit.

Learning How to Control Crop Pests

IN SEVERAL modest buildings on a half-acre lot in Alhambra, Calif., experiments are being carried on which are expected to save California truck-gardeners hundreds of thousands of dollars. In its 20 years this field laboratory for the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine already has saved literally millions of dollars through developing insecticides to control crop-damaging pests. Entomologist J. C. Elmore is shown above inspecting a tomato pin worm in one of the breeding cages.

Otto Klinkman was born September 22, 1858, in New York and there he was united in marriage with Miss Mae Hutchinson. They made their home in New York until coming to Michigan thirty-nine years ago when they settled on the farm where Mrs. Klinkman died in October, 1911, and where Mr. Klinkman passed away Monday.

Died in Elkton early Sunday morning, July 12, John G. Stirton, aged 90 years. Mr. Stirton had been hale and hearty all his life until about 14 months ago, when he had a stroke of paralysis, from which, though it seemed slight at the time, he never fully recovered.

He was born in Elgin county, Ontario, on July 10, 1846, and went to Lambton county with his parents when a boy. There in 1870 he met and married Mary McIntyre. In 1908, he married Mrs. Eliza Ward of Colfax township, who survives him. Later they moved to Elkton where Mr. Stirton died.

Mr. Stirton was an active member of the Methodist church for more than 65 years during which time he held many of the important lay offices of the church, including class leader, steward, and local preacher. He was also very active in public school matters and had served for many years on the school board, first in Canada and afterwards in Grant and in Colfax townships.

The funeral was held on Tuesday at two o'clock in the afternoon from the Methodist church in Elkton, Rev. Ainsworth, the pastor, officiating. Burial took place in the McTaggart cemetery in Sheridan.

In 1879 he was married to Miss Louise Gremel and in 1880 they came to Cass City and settled a half mile north of Elkland cemetery where they resided two years. He then purchased a farm adjoining that of his parents which he operated until his retirement in 1907 to take up residence in the village of Sebawaing. EXPLAIN CHANGE IN SOIL PROGRAM

Concluded from first page.

Good stand of soil-conserving crop on land from which a grain hay or annual legume hay is harvested is classed as soil-conserving—Land from which a crop of grain hay or annual legume hay, such as soybeans and field peas, has been harvested in 1936 will be classed as soil-conserving provided a good stand of a soil-conserving crop is growing on this land when performance is checked later in the year. The kind, rate, and time of seeding the soil-conserving crop will be subject to recommendations made by the State Agricultural Conservation Committee.

Proof of performance other than a good stand—Farmers who have seeded soil-conserving crops in accordance with good farming practice but who have lost such crops because of drought, insect infestations, or other conditions beyond their control, may qualify for soil-conserving and soil-building payments on this land. It will be necessary, however, that these farmers provide sufficient evidence that soil-conserving crops were seeded in accordance with good farming practice. Prior to this modification, a good stand of soil-conserving crops constituted the only acceptable proof of performance in the North Central Region.

Emergency forage crop plantings—Land which has been devoted to a soil-conserving use may be used after this date for the planting of an emergency forage crop for harvest in 1936 without changing the classification of such land. Land upon which emergency forage crops are to be planted, however, will not be classified as soil-conserving if there is a good stand of a soil-conserving crop on such land. Emergency forage crops include the sorghums, sudan grass, soybeans, millets, and other similar forage crops.

N. R. S. Places Relief Workers on Farm Jobs

Through the National Reemployment Service workers are being taken from WPA rolls and placed in farm jobs in the Thumb district of Michigan, Major Howard Starrett, State Reemployment Director, said today.

When a shortage of farm labor in the area was noted, L. Sherwood Muchler, manager of the Bad Axe branch office of the National Reemployment Service, contacted WPA officials who offered to release the men.

It was announced by Harold Lowden, director of WPA district No. 3, and Harry Faris of the labor management division, that workers could return to the WPA rolls without requalifying after the farm situation is eased.

Recently similar arrangements were made in supplying cherry pickers for the orchards near Traverse City, according to Major Starrett.

GROW BETTER CHICKS

At Lowest Cost With Mermash

Nothing mysterious about it. Michigan soils and crops are very deficient in iodine.

MERMASH benefits chicks by adding Manamar to an outstanding poultry ration. Manamar is composed of kelp, an ocean plant, and fish meal, both rich in digestible iodine and other minerals essential for health and growth.

Chicks raised on Mermash simply walk away from those raised on other rations. They're healthier, grow faster, feather better. Chick losses are lower. Cost per chick is lower.

Yes, all costs are lower because Mermash is undoubtedly the lowest priced, good, chick starter-growing mash on the market.

PEN AGAINST PEN

Mr. Allen G. Cummins of Calhoun county compared the average weight in ounces of chicks raised on Mermash 16% and on "ration" ration, as follows:

Age of Chicks in weeks	Mermash 16% Chicks	"Ration" Chicks
2	3.40 oz.	3.12 oz.
3	6.05 oz.	5.17 oz.
4	12.15 oz.	10.02 oz.

"Mad Water"

Usequebaugh is a potent liquor made in Drogheda, Ireland. Literally translated the word means "mad water." By abbreviating the name of the drink to "usque," gradually it became whisky.

KEEN COMPETITION FACES GONDOLIERS

War Brings Romantic Craft Back on Canals.

Washington.—Competition is keen this spring among the gondoliers of Venice. Recently hundreds of retired gondoliers were reconditioned and placed in service.

The Italo-Ethiopian war had something to do with the return of the old craft. Motor launches, using more oil than automobiles, were banned.

"In recent years Venetian gondolas have existed only on sufferance," says the National Geographic society. "Tourists have remained true to this picturesque means of transportation, but Venetian business men have found it quicker and cheaper to travel by motor launch or by the steamers that ply the length of the Grand canal.

"American tourists, who have perhaps ridden in gaily-colored gondolas at world fairs or Florida resorts, are usually disappointed at their first sight of Venice's somber ones. Since the Sixteenth century, the latter have been black by law, but the pall, or ornamental 'hitching posts' to which they are tied between trips, are far from somber, frequently being carved, striped, and as gay as barbers' poles.

Likened to Fifth Avenue.

"Long and slender, with both bow and stern upcurved, a gondola is a light draft boat, and each stroke of the gondolier's oar sends it skimming over the water's surface. The passengers, usually numbering from one to six, ride on cushioned seats in the center. In windy weather a trip across one of the lagoons may be disturbing, otherwise the constant, very slight rolling of the gondola is quite pleasant.

"Stepping into a gondola's open cockpit from the slippery, wavy-washed steps of the Molo, leading 'cab stand' of Venice, one glides over the water, with its quivering rose and gray reflections, and enters the Grand canal, the Italian city's aquatic Fifth avenue. The waters of the canal lick the green-stained foundations of weather-beaten marble palaces, mansions and hotels that rise like canyon walls on either side.

"There are numerous side canals. In these picturesque byways one slips along under lines of polychrome washing strung overhead, and balconies crowded with geraniums, past pink walls festooned with white roses, and courtyards whose gates are topped by chipped stone statues. The byways are almost noiseless except for the splash of oars, mingled with the ringing of distant church bells, and, at the crossings, the gondolier's cries of warning.

Exciting After Dark.

"A gondola trip is most exciting after dark. Then one may glide into damp white mists on the lagoon, or into a silent byway, the darkness of which is infrequently broken by splashes of light from flanking buildings. Skimming into the deep shadows of bridges, and past mysterious doorways opening onto the canal, one is apt to come to a moored gondola and in it, in imagination, find Shelley reading by the light of its little brass lamp.

"One gondola trip usually made by every Venetian, no matter how poor, is that to San Michele, the city's cemetery which lies on an island in the lagoon north of Venice.

A single gondola to carry coffin and mourners may be the sole funeral transportation equipment of a poor family. The funeral of a well-to-do resident, however, is elaborate. Processions of gondolas, their cabins' black curtains screening the mourners, follow in the wake of a black and silver funeral barge. Often 60 feet long and brilliant with floral offerings, the barge is frequently manned by gondoliers and flunkies in black velvet and silver lace.

"In contrast to such processions are gay 'water parades' of richly-decorated, light-festooned gondolas, filled with singing merrymakers, which weave in and out of the canal during the July festival of the Redentore. September sees the Doges' palace brilliantly illuminated in the annual nocturnal festival on the Grand canal. Across water drenched with green light, and past fantastic floats, gondolas glide loaded with Venetian and foreign spectators."

Dog Buys Own License

Elyria, Ohio.—Biddie, precocious Irish terrier, purchased her own 1936 license from County Auditor C. S. Kelsner here. Carrying $3 in her mouth, Biddie trotted behind the counter and deposited the money at the auditor's feet. Kelsner took the money and made out a new tag for the terrier.

Wilmington, Del.—Louis L. Lehan claims the title of "the most dog-bitten postman in America." He has been snapped at a score or more times and all told has suffered 14 dog-bite wounds. "Wouldn't it be swell if the government awarded stripes for each dog bite," muses Lehan.

The origin of the ancient game of "knucklebones," or jacksstones, is closely connected with that of dice, of which it is probably a primitive form, and is doubtless Asiatic.

The Original Company to Pay for Dead Stock

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

THE limits of a room are essential to remember in a homemaker's consideration of decorative schemes. This was impressed upon me recently when going over some pictorial plans for interiors. It was not that the rooms were badly arranged. They were good. But where would there be sufficient space in the average living room, for instance, for two large davenport, a large knee hole writing desk, great over-stuffed chairs, capacious tables, a piano and seven lamps, three of them floor lamps, to say nothing of the various footstools, small tables, side chairs, etc.? It certainly would require a mansion.

In my work of interior decoration, I have become accustomed to calculating floor spaces and gauging room areas. The measurements of this room would have to be at least 20 feet wide by 20 feet long, and 25 by 35 or 40 feet would be more accurate to give the spaciousness pictured. However attractive the arrangement, it could not be practical for ordinary size living rooms.

Visualizing Areas.

The home decorator must learn to visualize rooms. To some persons this is an easy matter, while others have difficulty in doing it. If you belong to the latter group, begin by seeing in your mind's eye, how some article you want would fit first into one space and then in another in the room. Know the measurements of your rooms so that when you see pictures of rooms, and would like to have something similar in arrangement, you can, yourself, gauge whether it would be feasible, or not.

It is important to give an impression of space in rooms of small dimensions. For this furniture and furnishings must either be chosen carefully to conform to sizes of rooms, or furniture must be quelled when pieces are overlarge or there are too many as is often the case in these days, when moving into smaller homes is practiced for economy's sake. By careful arrangements of furniture certain articles can seem to diminish, when they are too large, or the number of pieces seem less than they really are.

On the other hand the limits of large rooms can be made to seem less by good arrangements of furniture when there is scarcity of pieces.

Lure of Names.

Furniture and furnishings have an amazing number of names apart from those of classification, such as beds, chairs, tables, etc. Some of these other names are due to the fact that a person originated the design, and was also, perhaps, the craftsman who actually made the pieces, as instanced in Chippendale, Sheraton, Hickok, Morris, etc.

The fame of Chippendale has come down through the centuries largely through his chairs, but by no means for them alone for his list of kinds is a long one. Some of his pieces bear the further descriptive name of Chinese, expressive of the influence of the art of that great country from which returning merchant vessels were bringing to England treasures in many arts.

CANNED FRUITS GOOD FOR DIET

Contribute Minerals and Important Vitamins.

By EDITH M. BARBER

STEWED and canned fruits are valuable assets to the diet. It is possible to get an adequate quantity of vitamins for which fruits are so highly valued from the stewed and canned products. Although not all of them have been compared specifically, nutrition experiments with fresh and canned pineapple for instance show that one gives the same results as the other. In fact canned fruits which are prepared by the vacuum process retain more vitamins than fruits cooked at home.

While we group fruits together, they do not all contribute the same amount of minerals and vitamins for which, however, they are all generally valuable. Pineapple can be counted on for some phosphorus, good amounts of the vitamins A, B, G and C. Peaches are higher in phosphorus, contribute about the same amount of vitamin C and a little less of the other vitamins.

Anyone using a liberal amount of canned and stewed fruits daily need not worry about the minerals and vitamins, although, everything else being equal, a combination of fresh, canned and cooked fruits is usually the most practical plan of the daily diet.

English Fruit Pudding.

1 quart canned pineapple
Sugar
6 or 7 slices buttered bread
Whipped cream

Drain pineapple. Crush fruit with sugar to taste and let stand for an hour or more. Butter the bread on the loaf slice one-half inch thick, remove the crusts and line a quart bowl with this. Pour in the fruit, cover with buttered bread, cover with plate which fits into bowl, and on this place a weight. Put in the icebox for 24 hours, turn out of bowl, and serve with whipped cream.

Fruit Suet Pudding.

2½ cups fine dried bread crumbs
½ cup milk
2 eggs
2 cups sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup suet chopped fine
2 cups sliced fruit

Soak bread in milk. Add beaten eggs, sugar and salt. Rub chopped suet until crumbed. Add the fruit and combine with the other mixture. Put in a greased bowl, cover tightly and steam three hours. Sliced apples or dates, or soaked prunes or apricots may be used with the batter.

Pineapple Cream Filling

1½ cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup crushed pineapple, drained
Blend sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice and stir until mixture thickens. Force pineapple through coarse sieve; fold into mixture. Use as a filling for plain cake or Washington pie, dusting top of cake with confectioners' sugar.

Blueberry Pie.

Pastry
Salt
2½ cups berries
Flour
¾ cup sugar

Line a deep pie plate with pastry, dredge with a tablespoon of sugar mixed with flour, fill with berries slightly dredged with flour, sprinkle with sugar and salt and bake 10 minutes in hot oven, 450 degrees F., and reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 40 to 45 minutes.

Cherry and Apricot Compote

1 No. 1 can whole cherries
1 No. 2 can whole apricots
¼ cup sherry

Open cans of fruit. Mix together, add sherry and let chill in refrigerator until ready to serve.

Mother's Cook Book

SOME TIMELY RECIPES

EAT prunes often, simply as fruit, or stuffed with nuts or cheese on lettuce for a salad. The prune is one of the best of dried fruits and should be used freely with the dried apricots and peaches.

Raisin Pudding.

Blend one-half cup of sugar with four tablespoons of flour. Add two cups of milk, one cup of raisins, two beaten eggs, one teaspoon each of cinnamon and vanilla, one-half teaspoon of lemon extract and one-fourth of a teaspoon of salt. Cook until creamy, in a double boiler. It is best to add the extracts after the cooking.

Peach Mallows.

Take halves of canned peaches, place in stemmed sherbet glasses, fill the halves with marshmallows. Take the peach strips, add a teaspoon of cornstarch, cook until well done, then add the yolk of an egg lightly beaten; stir until smooth, flavor when cool with a few drops of almond and pour over the fruit in the cups.

Tuna Fish With Rice

Boil one-half cup of rice and when well cooked mix with a can of tuna that has been well flaked. Moisten with a cream sauce using one tablespoon each of flour and butter and half a cup of rich milk. Cook until smooth and thick, then season, add the rice and fish and put into individual ramekins. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake until brown.

Creamed Green Onions.

Cut the tops into inch slices and cook with the small onions until tender, or leave an inch or two of green stem on the onion and cook. Serve in a white sauce on toast as for asparagus.

A few frills like a bottle or two of maraschino cherries, sardines, salmon, lobster and shrimp, will often save the day when trying to plan a meal.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

NATURE KNOWS WHAT SHE IS DOING

AN OLD German hymn says, "The corn must die." And it is pointed out that before it can be born again the kernel must be sacrificed—buried—in what appears to be a grave.

It is really not a grave in which the kernel is buried, but chrysalis, out of which emerges tomorrow's new corn, perhaps a better and finer corn.

That phenomenon of Nature is not confined to plants. It is true of our own daily lives.

There are few of us who do not have to make sacrifices, bury desires. From the moment a woman becomes a mother she must bury desires for many personal pleasures, for freedom which is incompatible with responsibility. But the new plant that is rising up, the new health, dreams, joys, the great wealth of possession in human love, in living that is growing out of those kernels—can any words express their value? Down at the level of daily living it is not always apparent that the little kernels of sacrifice are not just thrown away. But a little perspective will reveal how they fertilize the soil from which grows our future.

And so in all the relationships throughout life. Something must be sacrificed that something else may grow. As we grow richer in years we are likely to grow in the opinion that Nature knows what she is doing.

Fix Pitted Silo Before Refilling

Silo repairing that can be completed as an "in between" task during the summer's program of haying and cultivation is worthwhile to save both silo and acreage, according to C. H. Jefferson of the agricultural engineering department at Michigan State College.

Acids in silage cause pitting of the walls, the cement crumbles, the silage sticks and will not either settle well or keep properly. So it's wise to paint or repair with cement.

"Where the inside surface is only slightly pitted the wall may be repaired by applying a coat of white Portland cement paint," suggests Jefferson. Prepared powders are available to mix with water, but a less expensive application can be made by mixing water with white Portland cement. Brush the inside walls first to remove any loose materials. After cleaning, keep the wall damp for at least an hour before painting.

"The cement paint should be thick enough to fill all irregularities in the surface, yet thin enough to brush on smoothly. One gallon will cover approximately 200 square feet of surface. As soon as the surface has hardened enough to withstand sprinkling, moisten the surface and keep moistened for at least 48 hours."

For excessive pitting, a cement plaster surfacing may be required. The same cleaning job is done first. A good plaster is made from one sack of cement, ten pounds of hydrated lime and two and one-half cubic feet of well graded plaster sand mixed with just enough water to make the mortar workable. After curing moist for 48 hours, a cement paint coating will help preserve the new surface.

Set Up Program for Farm Women

Farm women from all sections of the state are being invited to spend five days in rest, study and recreation on the campus of Michigan State College, East Lansing, during the annual Farm Women's week, Sunday through Thursday, July 26 to 30. Activities in the campus for the week are terminated in the annual Farmers' Day program Friday, July 31.

In outlining the conference, R. W. Tenny, short course director at the college, describes the program as an opportunity for farm women in the state to study home and community problems, to have a week's vacation and rest to better meet these problems, to make new friends and meet old acquaintances, to enjoy the beautiful campus and to gain inspiration.

In brief, the program offers registration and a lawn supper Sunday afternoon and evening. On Monday, July 27, the women visitors will hear Dr. Sarah VanHoosen Jones, manager of her own farm near Rochester, Mich. Her subject is "A Woman as a Farm Manager." Clothing, foods and nutrition, home furnishing, home management and child development will be taken up in sections which the women can follow up during the week.

During each day the women are urged to attend a different discussion group, participate in hobbies and enter into the program of rest and recreation as well. Conclusion of the program is Thursday evening, July 30. The speaker will be Miss Grace Frysinger, senior home economist for the Central States Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Judging by the size of the bathing suit after it is on," says modest Mitzi, "one feels that they might have been short changed."

DOUBLING MONEY

IN THIS trick, the magician begins by taking up a collection. He asks persons to place coins on a small tray, counting the money as they place it there. After several coins have been collected, the magician lets them slide into the hands of another spectator, who is then asked to count the coins, replacing them on the tray, one by one. To his amazement, the holder of the coins discovers that he has twice as many coins as he thought. The magician appropriates the coins that came from nowhere.

Keeps His Hat On

William Penn, who went to prison once for refusing to remove his hat in court, is the only figure in the Hall of Fame on the campus of New York university with a hat. This bronze bust of the Quaker founder of Pennsylvania was unveiled recently. It is by A. Stirling Calder, American sculptor.

Propose Changes in State's Tax Laws

Arthur Whittenburg, Tuscola county treasurer, was honored at the state convention of county treasurers at Port Huron last week by being selected as chairman of the executive committee for the coming year. He was a member of the convention's special committee to study proposed changes in tax laws. The following are among the changes suggested:

"We believe that the present system of handling delinquent personal taxes is entirely unsatisfactory. Either the former system of requiring local units to settle in full should be restored or else the county treasurer should be given authority to proceed with enforced collections.

"We feel that the present plan for distribution of state school aid money is needlessly slow and cumbersome. This statute should be amended to permit the county treasurer to disburse such funds to the school treasurers immediately upon their receipt.

"We are unanimously opposed to any plan providing for wholesale or blanket cancellation of delinquent taxes. We recognize however that there may be instances where as a result of speculative values and excessive levies certain pieces of property may now be burdened with delinquencies in excess of their actual value. We would recommend the creation of local arbitration boards empowered to review such cases and present petitions to local courts recommending equitable adjustments.

"We believe that the counties should be permitted to conduct their own tax sales and to prepare their own records for such sale. In other words, the counties should be granted complete home rule with respect to this important question."

Checks totalling $10,831.77 have been sent to 23 townships in Tuscola county by County Treasurer Whittenburg as the second quarterly collection of delinquent taxes. Payments were as follows:

Something Cool to Drink

Dear Club Members: HERE'S an interesting request from Mrs. Hamilton Fisher of New Rochelle.

"One of the worst summer food problems in my family," Mrs. Fisher writes "is to get enough different kinds of cooling drinks to please the children during the hot weather. I try to mix milk drinks, because the children need the milk, and so do the grownups. But I don't know very many milk drinks. Milk shakes and chocolate malted milk's use up my repertory. "Maybe the Club members know some summer milk drinks that taste good, are easy to mix, and are not too sweet."

That set me to digging among my own recipes, as I hope it will set you to digging into the secret places where you keep yours. It's a problem we can all get together on, because good milk drinks for the summertime are rare, unless you have the equipment of a soda fountain.

Milk drinks keep you cool, too! There's nothing quite as tasty as a tall, creamy, cold glass of plain milk. But mighty close to it come the milk drinks that can be shaken up in the kitchen, and served in the living room or garden when children or guests are hot and dry. Here's a milk drink sent in by Mrs. C. H. J. of Newark, in answer to our S.O.S. for milk recipes a few weeks ago. It sounds mighty tasty and I intend to try it:

Mint Chocolate 6 tablespoons cocoa 1/2 cup milk syrup 2 or 3 drops pepper- 2 tablespoons cream mint extract Mix ingredients in the order given and shake well with cracked ice. This is enough to serve one person. Here's another, from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. It requires a bit of advance preparing:

Milk Special Heat 2 cups sweet milk over hot water. Mix together 2 teaspoons sugar, a few grains salt, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Add to the milk. Beat until spices blend, then chill.
