LAND SELLS AT $1,000 AN ACRE IN ELKLAND

Robert Warner Disposes of 13
Acres of Gravel to Detroit Company at That Price.

Land values have reached $1,000 an acre in Elkland township. Robert Warner, who for many years has been in possession of 13 acres of gravel land situated just outside the southern village limits of Cass City, disposed of the plot last week at that price to the George Construction company of Detroit. Surveyors in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway were here Wednesday measuring the land for a side track which will run from the D. & H. branch in a southwesterly direction to the gravel plot.

"The George Construction company will start the erection of a gravel plant including in its equipment a washer, stone crusher, screens and power shovels, and will have bin storage for 3,000 to 4,000 cubic yards of concrete gravel," said Mr. Warner. "They expect not only to ship gravel by rail but to truck it to their various construction projects in the county and elsewhere. They are at present engaged in erecting at Bay City the second largest malting plant in the world. The company expects to run both day and night when weather permits and aim to employ local help as much as possible."

To Observe Armistice Sunday

Under the auspices of the Christian Citizenship League, a union mass meeting observing Armistice Sunday will be held in the Presbyterian church, November 8, at 7:45 p. m. Rev. Frank Hartley of Richmond will speak on the subject: "Visions of the World at Peace." Mr. Hartley was himself a soldier in the World war and was severely wounded in the Gallipoli campaign. All who are present at this meeting will have an opportunity to participate in the "peace poll" being conducted by the Emergency Peace Campaign.

Gave Address on North China

Rev. Libbie Supernois of Cass City was an interesting speaker at the Rotary club luncheon Tuesday, when she told of conditions in Northern China where she served as missionary for 15 years.

She said that there had been a marked progress in the lives of the younger Chinese of that section of the nation, many of whom are highly educated students, who represent very deeply the aggressive methods of Japan in Northern China.

Mrs. Supernois described the crude highways and few railroads, said the main food articles of that section were not rice, but millet and sweet potatoes, and related several instances of narrow escapes she and members of her family had at the hands of bandits. Her address was most interesting.

The Rotary club will meet with the Community club when the latter organization holds its November meeting at the high school next Wednesday evening.

MRS. McKIM DIED ON WAY TO CHURCH

Suffered a Heart Attack and Found Dead on Steps of
W. I. Moore home.

Mrs. Hannah McKim suffered a heart attack on her way to attend services in the Baptist church on Thursday evening, Oct. 29, and was found dead sitting on the steps of the William I. Moore home. It is thought that she felt ill and attempted to reach the Moore home for aid.

Hannah Rebecca Hawkins was born in Rodney, Ontario, October 4, 1866. Her mother died when Hannah was a small girl and in the late seventies she came with her father and brother to a farm in Novesta, near the Quick school.

During the fire of '81, she with many others found safety in White Creek.

In August, 1882, she was united in marriage with Andrew McKim and they purchased 40 acres of wild land, three miles south and one mile east of Cass City. Here they cleared a space, cut the logs and built their first home, a log house.

Mrs. McKim always worked side by side with her husband in managing all affairs of the home and no work was too much for either of them in helping others.

After the death of Mr. McKim's father, in 1884, the widowed mother and three sisters came to make their home with them and it was the loving care of Mrs. Hannah McKim that made the last days of the senior Mrs. McKim more pleasant.

CASS CITY UNBEATEN IN THUMB LEAGUE

Marlette Beaten 7-0 Although Locals Fail to Show Usual Fighting Game.

Cass City continued its string of victories in the Upper Thumb league by defeating Marlette's scrappy warriors 7-0 on Friday. The listless playing of the Maroon and Grey regulars was almost poor enough to allow Marlette a tie. In the dying minutes of the game, however, the locals came to life with a bang and scored two touchdowns, one of them being called back because of a penalty. When the game ended, the Cass City team was within one play of another touchdown, due to the spectacular

Caretaker and County

Monday, his condition became more serious and he was taken to Harper hospital where he passed away early yesterday morning.

Surprise Wedding Wednesday Night

A marriage which surprised many Cass City people was that of Mrs. Bertha Brown, general merchant here, and Mr. Robert L. Kilburn of Essexville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul J. Allured, pastor of the Presbyterian church, at eight o'clock Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride on East Main street. A luncheon was served to guests following the ceremony. Mr. Kilburn is a retired salesman.

Guests included Mrs. Allured and the following members of the immediate families: Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Kilburn of Essexville, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crampton of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hendricks and two daughters, Mrs. Robert Brown and two children, and Kenneth Higgins, all of Cass City.

HIT-RUN VICTIM DIED AT CARO SUNDAY

Officers Are Looking for the Driver Who Hit Charles Doan Friday Night.

Officers are searching for the hit and run driver who knocked Charles Doan, 43, of Millington, an inmate of the Tuscola county infirmary, from his bicycle as he was traveling on M-81, a short distance east of Caro Friday night. The man was so seriously injured that he passed away in the Caro Community hospital early on Sunday morning.

Tire marks and a handle of the right door of the automobile, found at the scene, are the clues by which Sheriff Jeffrey hopes to trace the machine. Witnesses of the accident believe that the motorist was driving a Model A Ford car.

Doan leaves his stepfather, Jas. Pecure, and one sister, Mrs. Fred Colosky, both of Millington.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon.

Preaching Mission Schedule Adopted

Despondent, Man Attempts Suicide

When Frank Karp, 42, residing five miles east, one mile south and about a quarter of a mile west of Deford, received a letter Friday containing $5 when he expected one containing at least ten times that amount, he became despondent, went home and attempted to kill himself.

At a gas station near his home, he announced his intention to shoot himself. Listeners at first did not consider his threat seriously, but later decided to investigate and found him at his home about three o'clock in the afternoon with a bullet in his head from a .32 Colt revolver.

The shot entered the right side of his neck and lodged above the left eye. In its travel, the bullet cut a nerve to the eye and fractured the skull. Carp lost the sight of his left eye.

He was brought to Pleasant Home hospital here for treatment and regained consciousness six hours after the shooting.

Mr. Carp has been a renter on the Harold Ernat farm for two years. He has relatives in Poland.

FARMER INCOME ON RISE IN MICHIGAN

Economist Finds the Farmers
Likely to Receive About
Same Income as 1930.

Farmers in Michigan are in a fairly advantageous position financially this year when compared with agricultural producers in many other states. In comparing crops and prices to estimate cash going into rural pocketbooks, R. V. Gunn, extension specialist in economics at Michigan State College, finds reason for optimism in comparing 1936 with the year 1932 when Michigan farm income was down to 119 million dollars.

In this state 60 per cent of the farm income is derived from live-

Legion to Present Flags to Schools

A project jointly sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction and the State Department of the American Legion through the Americanism committee, is to distribute 8,000 American flags to each rural school and some parochial schools in the state. The flags were manufactured from WPA materials furnished from government funds.

These flags will be distributed to the schools in Michigan by the Legion posts with the cooperation of the Auxiliary units on November 13th. This is the first time in the history of the Legion in Michigan that they have been able to contact directly the rural schools in the state with a department program. It will take the cooperation of every Legionnaire in the state to complete the distribution.

Roosevelt Sweeps All But Maine and Vermont; Demo- crats Retained Grip on Con- gress.

FITZGERALD DEFEATED BY MURPHY FOR GOVERNOR

A record for electoral vote-getting and for popular votes was set Tuesday when President Franklin D. Roosevelt was returned to the highest office in the nation. He was the winner in 46 of the 48 states.

President Roosevelt's plurality over Governor Alfred M. Landon in the presidential landslide had mounted on Wednesday night to nearly nine million votes. With many precincts throughout the nation still not reported, the president's total was given then as 23,160,365 popular votes against 14,423,777 for Landon. This already has exceeded the total he piled up against Herbert Hoover in 1932 when the popular vote was: Roosevelt, 22,821,857; Hoover, 15,761,841.

Just two states, Maine and Vermont, with a total of eight electoral votes stood on the Landon side. In the end, President Roosevelt seems certain of 523 electoral votes. It is the nearest approach to unanimity in the electoral college since James Monroe was re-elected in 1820 with only one vote against him.

In Michigan, the returns on Wednesday night indicated that Roosevelt had received 965,964 votes; Landon 669,838; Lemke, 58,214.

For United States senator, Prentiss M. Brown (D) received 860,988; Wilbur M. Brucker (R) 679,642; Louis B. Ward (TP) 59,140.

The biggest surprise in the state was the defeat of Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald by his Democratic rival, Frank Murphy. Early returns indicate 848,453 for Murphy and 802,873 for Fitzgerald. By capturing every office on the state ticket Tuesday, Democrats were assured of a unanimous control of the administrative board. Democrats had gained one and possibly two Michigan seats in congress and established working majorities in both houses of the state legislature. There will be 18 Democrats to 14 Republicans in the state senate and 8 Democrats to 42 Republicans in the house.

Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties remained in Republican ranks in Tuesday's contest, voters casting substantial majorities for Republicans over their Democratic opponents. Samuel Pangborn (R) was elected state senator in the 20th district over Clare T. Purdy (D). Jessie P. Wolcott (R) defeated Albert A. Wagner (D) for U. S. representative in the 7th congressional district.

ACCEPTING THE RESULTS.

One of the most wonderful things about the American system of government, as contrasted with systems of so-called democratic government prevailing elsewhere, is the calm and disciplined way in which our people accept the result when defeated at elections.

In many other countries, the voting by ballot is only a preliminary to another kind of election. In that second election, the voting is not done by ballots. It is done by bullets, or the threat of using them. The defeated parties get together, and try to get the army on their side. If the soldiers favor them, the fact that the election went against them will not count.

Of if they can raise a mob of excited people who will overcome the forces of law and order, they are ready to do so. The real ruling power, is not found in the people voting at the polls. Sometimes the national army will control the government, and will use its power to create a revolution. Sometimes a wild mob overturns the government.

In the United States the defeated parties merely sulk and nurse their grievances in private, or they say they don't care, and will have better luck next time. No one thinks of trying to raise a mob or excite the army to revolt. No one dreams of disputing the popular verdict.

As long as this quiet submission to the will of the people rules, our country is safe. The principle is disputed by practically no one, that the will of the majority must prevail, and the beaten minority must submit peacefully. Anybody who thinks differently will get laughed at if he tries to start something, and will probably go to jail if his movement becomes violent.

The insurance men say many accidents take place in the homes. Most people seem disposed to keep out of that dangerous place now.

NOVEMBER 11.

Armistice day brings more vivid memories than other holidays. July Fourth refers to a grand historical fact, far back in the ancient history of the nation. It is often hard to make it seem real and vivid. The majority of our people have a very clear memory of November 11, 1918, and of the surging and tumultuous emotions that reached their climax at that historic date.

Fear and anxiety had risen to a swelling tide in the hearts of the people of Michigan and everywhere else. Millions of families picked up their newspapers with horror, dreading bad news. They feared to see the mail or telegraph messenger coming, dreading lest some sad announcement was coming. The families of the boys in the camps awaited with tense anxiety the day when they should be sent to the front.

The families that had no sons in the army had plenty of things to fear. If national defeat came, they knew not what disasters might threaten their own security.

Into this atmosphere, trembling with anxiety, came the peal of the bells on Armistice day, with the joyful word that all horror was at an end. Never before and never since has there been such an exultant day in the life of the nation. Never before were such enthusiastic celebrations. Never before did the heart of the nation so respond to the removal of anxiety and despair.

The events that have occurred in the 18 years since that date seem an anti-climax. Things have not gone as the nation expected. Many hopes have been disappointed. But the same power and force that led the nation on to victory in 1918, are still with us. They can lead us on to greater victories of peace and human welfare, if properly organized and directed.

SCOUTS MAKE PILGRIMAGE.

Five thousand Boy Scouts made a visit to the grave of the late President Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, L. I., on the Sunday before that great man's birthday.

Boys are not usually interested in visiting people's graves. They are more interested in the living than in the dead. Something in Theodore Roosevelt's life always gripped their admiration.

Theodore Roosevelt had much to say about the "strenuous life," and "hitting the line hard." Thereby he appealed to the boy love of power. Boys like to hear how he was physically weak when a youth, but went out to the western plains, and in that vigorous life in association with virile men, he acquired physical and moral strength.

Innumerable men have had poor success in life, because they had no physical vigor on which to base their efforts. When they went out to battle with the world, they were not prepared for any prolonged struggle. Parents fall down on their job, if they do not see to it that their boys start in life with a reserve of strong physical ability.

The boys visited the Roosevelt grave, and many others who would have liked to be there, should remember that strength and force were not the only things this great man preached. He had a great deal to say about honesty and justice and fair play. If here today, he would be uttering denunciations of many boys who are coming up with crooked ideas. Some of them think it is all right to get money dishonestly, provided they can cover it up. That is a confession of weakness, indicating that a boy does not feel he can make good in fair competition. No boy who looks back to Theodore Roosevelt with admiration is likely to seek underhand ways of attaining his aims.

The people who can't sing in tune, need not think they have to make up for that defect by singing louder than anybody else.

THE TRUE SPORTSMAN.

The millions of men who are getting out in the woodlands and fields in pursuit of game, should consider a few things. One is that there is a very limited supply of game in the United States. Unlimited hunting and lawless pursuit of animals and birds, have exterminated some of the most valuable creatures which our rich land once produced.

Game laws have been made to protect this game for the benefit of everybody. The hunters who violate these laws, who sneak through the woods with illegal prey, help to make the land poorer for everyone, including themselves.

Also these hunters should remember that very many people are killed and wounded each year as the result of carelessness by sportsmen. The man who blazes away whenever he sees the bushes move, should stay at home and practice with a toy pistol.

When the roads are made 25 per cent safer, the speeding motorist usually thinks he can go 50 per cent faster.

Among the principal reasons why we shall all be thankful at Thanksgiving, is that the election campaign is over.

Clipped Comment

After the Smoke of Battle Clears.
From Flint Journal.

Arnold Mulder, who writes articles on literary criticism for The Journal, a few days ago asked in one of them if it would not be interesting some 15 or 20 years hence to read an exchange of letters between Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt — letters which would review stirring events of the 1930's.

There is a precedent for such a correspondence. John Adams, the second president of the United States, and Thomas Jefferson, the third president, though bitter rivals in the day of their active political careers, began a correspondence, when both had retired, which lasted until their deaths, which occurred on the same day, July 4, 1826.

It is one of the most interesting exchanges of letters in American history.

In their later year, mellowed by reflections and the passage of time, each of them had arrived at the point of good humor toward their earlier rivalry. Their hate was gone. Yet there had been a day when they fought each other with as bitter rivalry as Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt.

Time works curious changes in the strong feelings of men toward each other. Both Jefferson and Adams seemed to be saying over and over, "Weren't we a couple of hot-heads?"

That exchange of letters was more valuable to the country than either imagined at the time. What a pity there is so little of record about the opinions and reactions of our "elder statesmen" once they have moved to the sidelines.

Poster Contest to Aid Potatoes

Statewide interest in stimulating more consumption of potatoes within the state of Michigan grown potatoes is being aided by the announcement of a poster contest open to any student in the ninth, tenth, eleventh or twelfth grades of the Michigan public schools for use in connection with Michigan Potato week to be centered in Detroit, December 1, 2 and 3.

As well as consumer demand, the purpose is to promote the production, grading and marketing of better potatoes. The Michigan Quality Potato association is co-operating with Michigan State College and the Michigan State Department of Agriculture, the Detroit Board of Trade and hotel and restaurant associations.

One hundred dollars in prizes is offered, with a first prize of $25 and 24 other smaller awards. Posters must be mailed with postage prepaid on or before November 25 to H. C. Moore, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

The size must be 14 by 22 inches, on three or four ply cardboard stiff enough to stand erect. Poster paints of not more than three colors, with black or white to be considered a color, are other rules. Flat colors and simple design will have the best chance, Moore explains. Slogans should not be of more than six words and should be illustrated in the posters. Ideas, attractiveness and neatness will count most in judging. Student's name, address and name of school must be placed on the back of the poster in the upper right hand corner.

Posters which win or receive honorable mention become the property of the quality potato association. Others will be returned if an addressed label and postage is enclosed with entries for return postage. During the Detroit exhibit a state potato queen will be crowned from among the three winners at the sectional shows at Iron River, Kalkaska and Mayville.

Finds Increased Cutworm Breeds

One of the first of the results indicated in a survey undertaken last spring by Professor E. I. McDaniel, entomology department at Michigan State College, is that a list previously drawn up showing 60 kinds of cutworms of economic importance in Michigan is too small to include all the major pests.

Hundreds of cutworms from all sections of the lower peninsula were sent in by farmers and gardeners last spring on invitation of Prof. McDaniel. The individuals were sorted out and started on a life cycle in containers. Out of a total of perhaps 250 different kinds the survey indicates that perhaps nearly 100 kinds are serious menaces to Michigan crops, lawns, foliage and other growth.

From the research, the entomology department hopes to find some general farm practices that will aid in curtailment of the cutworm population. Community control, fall plowing in some sections, tree banding, field baiting and other poison treatments have been advised for particular problems.

From Lake Odessa, samples of the "Sidemia devastator" or the "glassy" cutworm were obtained from infestation in tomato plantings. This pest is well distributed over the state, but works underground and is thus hard to detect and control. It likes blue grass, beans, cabbage, corn, tobacco, wheat and timothy. From the Michigan State College turf test plots, specimens were obtained of the "greasy" cutworm that works especially in lawns.

Indications of more conclusions to be found in the project are suggested by proof that cutworms are especially troublesome after a cold, wet spring, that certain kinds are found in low, sour soils and other types adhere to certain specific vegetations. Removal of rubbish used by cutworms for shelter and fall turning of sod on land to be in cultivation the following year are aids in cutting down cutworms.

In many states special committees have been appointed by the governors to study the traffic conditions.

This is commendable. Out of these studies and deliberations will come recommendations that will apply to each and every community in the states involved. There should be more of the studies made. Many conditions on our highways today are serious causes of accidents and, unless careful studies are made, will never come to light.

It is recommended that every community receiving these reports help the committee as much as possible in bringing to the front serious conditions in that community. There is not a community anywhere that does not have a traffic problem. These problems should be discussed freely and recommendations made to the committee so that action can be taken by the main committee.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

BLANKETS, both heavy and light weight, are needed in mountain resorts, the former especially in northern camps, and in some shore places, where occupants come early in the season and remain late. Woolen blankets are warmest, although now cotton ones are given a wool-like texture. However, the wool is warmest because this is the inherent nature of the material. For blankets of less warmth, cotton ones are especially well-adapted to summer needs. A homemaker who sees that a summer place is suitably and inexpensively furnished, saves the old blankets from the winter home for the summer place. The weight of partially worn ones is good for this use.

A homemaker who enjoys knitting or crocheting can make beautiful warm and light-weight covers with crocheted hook or knitting needles. These blankets or throws, as they are also called, are rapidly worked with very large needles and heavy wool yarn (the weight of German-town worsted), three-ply. Plain knitting stitch is used or double or treble crochet stitch, according to the craft.

Knitting Directions.

For a knit blanket 1 1/2 yards square, cast 135 stitches on long, large wooden needles. Knit 100 ribs. Bind off. Line with China silk or any light weight material preferred. Bind lining and knitted edges together with straight 2 1/2-inch wide strips of the lining material, or with satin ribbon 2 inches wide. The latter is recommended for durability, which spells saving. A good grade of silk muslin can be used for lining instead of the China silk. Self-tone blankets are daintiest, a pale pink, blue, or any color to suit the room may be used. Owing to the loose mesh, knit and crochet blankets require lining.

In working the crochet blanket, 4 stitches to the inch is recommended. Stitchery should be very loose. If triple crochet is used, and tension is loose the same number of rows as in the knit blanket should be approximately the same in crocheted. However by making more or less rows the length can be whatever the worker wishes, but not less than 1 1/2 yards. Crocheted blankets are bound and lined as are the knit ones. Either type of throws are delightfully light and sufficiently warm.

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

The knit or crocheted blanket is light weight and warm and may be used on bed for a throw. (A) Note binding about blanket.

Hallowe'en Party—

Total darkness, accompanied by creaking and moaning sounds, was the ghostly situation which greeted the guests who attended the Hallowe'en party at the Duncan Crawford home Friday evening. When seated in the imaginative graveyard a post-mortem was conducted by an unseen ghost who passed out various organs of the gang members present. Participants have not as yet decided whether Don Wilson's teeth or Harry Russell's windpipe would be the more gruesome to meet in the dark cemetery. Other games and contests comprised the evening which was climaxed by the scavenger hunt, a popular feature of Hallowe'en. And once again orderly citizens were aroused from their sleep to hunt up tinnies, buttoned shoes and various relics of by-gone days. Prizes for completing the list of articles in the allotted time were awarded to Mrs. Ralph Clara and Rev. W. Dafee. The guests then retired to the dining room where tapering lighted candles, gay hats and noisemakers made festive the midnight meal which was in keeping with the season.

Where Bees Find Sweets

In the United States the greater part of the honey produced is alfalfa honey from the Western states. Sweet clover, white sage and other mountain flowers also contribute to the Western supply. In the Central states it is white clover, sweet clover, Spanish needle and heartsease honey. In the Southern states, cotton, mesquite, horse-mint and sweet clover, and in the Eastern states, Northern states and Canada, buckwheat and white clover are the leading honey flowers. Orange blossoms, clove, aster and basswood complete the list.

THE SMOOTH AND OPEN ROAD.

Traffic engineers tell us that 87 per cent of fatal motor car accidents occur in small towns and rural districts—four out of five on smooth, dry roads, and four out of five in clear weather.

Many traffic engineers also agree that speed too fast for existing conditions is responsible for the majority of fatal automobile accidents.

John Smith and thousands of other men like him climb into their high-powered cars, lured by the fine weather out into the country. The road is smooth, the effortless driving intoxicating. Unnoticed, the speed arrow climbs and climbs.

Suddenly there is an emergency. Brakes are slammed on hard—too hard at such speed—and the beautiful car is rolling over and over. Or that curve ahead turns out to be sharper than anticipated, and the tires do not hold. Or that half-hidden lane suddenly disgorges a farm wagon or flivver, and no possible human effort can prevent a smash-up.

John Smith often considers that he has slowed down enough to pass the cross-roads safely—and yet, his speed carries him into the side of another car. For speed is relative. Any speed is too fast that may lead to an accident.

The Saar

Industrial Panorama in the Saar.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

THOUGH barely 738 square miles in area and with fewer than 255,000 people, the Saar has been one of Europe's most publicized regions since the World war.

Powder keg of Europe; witches' cauldron; political sore spot. For years such graphic labels have been tacked onto this small but highly industrialized region lying north of Alsace-Lorraine between France and Germany.

From the days of Attila and the Caesars down to Foch and Von Hindenburg, its valleys and wooded hills have rocked and echoed to the tramp and shouts of marching armies.

Geographically, the Saar is an irregular patch of hilly land crossed by small valleys. It lies alongside Luxembourg, forms a buffer state between France and Germany, and was cut from the two German states of Prussia and Bavaria.

With a population about equal to that of Boston proper, it shelters more than 1,000 people per square mile—one of the most densely settled areas in all Europe.

Only such miniature European states as Andorra, Liechtenstein, San Marino and Monaco are smaller than this tiny, yet dynamic country. America knows no state so dwarfish. Delaware is about three times the Saar's size, yet has less than a third its population.

Saarbrücken, metropolis of the Saar, has only 132,400 people; yet in one year Saar trains haul 60,000,000 passengers!

Sit in any stuffy cafe at Saarbrücken, watch the guests eat red cabbage and boiled pork, or sip flat steins of beer as the band plays heavy Wagner music, and the place seems just another German industrial center.

But look into its eventful annals, or make a careful trip about its historic roads and ruins, and you find a land with a past peculiar to itself.

Saar Problem in Caesar's Time. There was, in fact, a Saar problem even in Roman times, when blond men from the east of the Rhine already had invaded the basin. In Caesar's "Commentaries" you read of these early German settlers. One Roman report of the time says that 120,000 barbarians, enamored of Gaul, had settled here.

Caesar feared these Germans might menace Rome itself; so he helped the Gauls drive them back across the Rhine. His battles on the Aisne and elsewhere were precursors of centuries of fighting along the Rhine.

Some Roman military roads hereabouts are shown on the Peutingir map of about 200 A. D. One ran north from Argentoratum (now Strasbourg) to the Saar basin. About this same time the Romans built a castle at a point on the Saar river where it was bridged by their military road from Paris to Mainz. Saarbrücken was so named, meaning "Saar Bridge."

Dense forests choked all the basin then, forests frequented by heathen druids, by wild Celtic tribes who hunted deer and boars with spears. Scattered ruins of men-hirs, dolmens and cromlechs, symbols of the druid cult, have been found in the Saar forests.

Roman ruins are there—if you dig—ruins of villas, of baths and bridges, some almost in the shadow of early Christian churches. At Tholey is a church that dates from the Thirteenth century. In sharp contrast, near Saarbrücken is a mosque built by the French during the World war, wherein their Moroccan soldiers might pray!

Long Held by Germans. Strategically, the Saar lies on a natural route between France and Germany, and for centuries they have disputed as to where their boundary lines should be fixed. Soon after the break up of Charlemagne's empire, and the Treaty of Verdun, in 843, the Saar became German soil.

Briefly, for more than a thousand years prior to the Versailles treaty, Germany held the Saar, except for two short periods, the second being the years from 1793 to 1815, when Napoleon pushed the French frontier to the Rhine.

When Blucher and his Prussians advanced into France in 1813, he followed the very route taken by the German hordes when the Roman empire fell.

It was so in the Franco-Prussian war; Von Moltke, in 1870, followed Blucher's route of 1813, and about Saarbrücken came one of the first clashes of that war which helped Bismarck to found his German empire. Again, of course, in the World war, the armies passed this way, and many an allied soldier washed his shirt in the Saar, the Moselle and the Rhine, or traded cigarettes and white bread to willing frauleins for a jug of wine.

Fly over Saarbrücken, where Marshal Ney was born, and in its very heart you see the outline of the old forts built by Louis XIV of France.

Dating, as a town, from 1680, its people lived for more than 200 years almost wholly by trading with the garrisons—first French, then German, then French again.

Today old walls and moats that encircled the fort have been torn down and filled to make broad, smooth streets, as the Americans did with parts of Manila.

German infantry, artillery, cavalry, army wagons—all the money-spending machinery of war—made Saarbrücken a busy town until after the World war. When they evacuated, the French came in for a while; but now few occupants are found for all the vast barracks. It is quiet, almost too quiet, for those residents who remember the band concerts, the glittering reviews, and fat army pay rolls of other days.

French Are Scarce There.

German in race, speech, culture, and traditions, the Saar showed by a pre-war census only about one person in 200 with French as his native tongue. It was simply a legal accident at Versailles which made these people citizens, temporarily, of a phantom state. The Saar, under that treaty, gained no nationality, no president or other ruler of its own. Instead, a commission of five Europeans was named by the League of Nations to administer the territory's affairs until the plebiscite.

By treaty the Saar went under a customs union with France; French customs guards were set to patrol the line between Germany and the Saar and French money was put into use. To pay France for her own coal mines damaged by Germans in the World war, she was given the coal mines in the Saar. The treaty provided also that after the plebiscite Germany might buy these mines back again if she wished, and such an agreement was concluded late in 1934.

Only around Saarbrücken is any French influence noticeable, and that is not due to the presence there of many living Frenchmen. Such influence belongs to the past—Vauban's old forts built when Louis XIV made this a French garrison town; French names and epitaphs in the cemetery; and an odd local dialect current among older residents, a curious blend of German and French.

To see how thoroughly German the region is, in speech and sentiment, you have only to mingle with any holiday crowd and listen to the songs, the speeches, and the music; or read the papers; or see what crowds follow broadcasts from the radio stations at Frankfurt and Stuttgart.

Industry Is Intensive. As in the Ruhr, industry here is compact, intensive, and theatrical in its setting.

Like volcanoes, its giant mills, as at Volklingen (250,000), belch forth clouds of thick gray smoke; the red glare of blast furnaces turns black night into brilliant Gehenna.

Under every hill is coal. Over every mine is a big wheel on a tower; again and again you see the big wheel spin, as it winds up a cable that lifts its load from deep in the earth.

This is the only place on earth where you see mines and steel mills closely crowded by forests, as if bits of industrial Pittsburgh were set in one of our forest reserves. The wooded slopes of the winding Saar river all covered with snow much resemble Algonquin park in Ontario in winter; it seems the woods must be as dense and mysterious as when druids built their sacrificial altars there and hungry pagan Celts searched for wild meat.

FARMER INCOME ON RISE IN MICHIGAN

stock and livestock products, with less than 40 per cent from actual sales of crops and miscellaneous products, Gunn finds.

Gunn's figures on the division of the 1935 income of 185 million dollars received by farmers are as follows:

Dairy products, 55 millions; sales of livestock, more than 36 millions, with cash sales from cattle and calves more than half of this livestock income, hogs second in importance and sheep and lambs third.

Poultry is the third important source of Michigan farm income, with over 21 millions or almost 12 per cent of the 1935 total. In 1929 over 35 millions was received from poultry, while only 13 millions was derived in 1933 from poultry.

Cash field crops are next in bringing in the dollars. Beans, potatoes, wheat and sugar beets are included. Last year beans and potatoes each contributed about 9 millions, wheat 8 1/3 millions but sugar beets were cut down by low yields to 4 1/2 millions. Fruit and truck crops added about 11 millions each. Apples obtained 40 per cent of the fruit dollars, and peaches, cherries, grapes and strawberries followed in order. Peppermint contributed about a million dollars.

Women Coal Steamers

St. Thomas, Virgin islands, was once called the Gibraltar of America, and holds a military interest, as it virtually commands one sea approach to the Panama canal. It is the home of the bay rum industry, but the trees grow on a neighboring island. Here the work of coaling steamers is done by women, each one carrying a basket of coal nicely balanced upon her head.

Washington's Trip Abroad

Barbadoes is the only foreign country ever visited by Gen. George Washington. He went there in 1751 with his brother Lawrence, who was in ill health. The house the two brothers occupied may be seen in Bridgetown, the island's port and main city. The town was once the headquarters of Lord Nelson.

The Seychelles Palm

The Seychelles palm grows 100 feet and requires a century to mature with leaves 20 feet long and 12 feet wide. The fruits often weigh 40 to 50 pounds each. They require about ten years to ripen. The gigantic seed requires upward of three years to sprout. The meat, like that of the coconut is edible.

Early Recreations

According to a diary of Fanny Shippen, a Revolutionary child, the principal recreations of that day were concerts, balls, assemblies, cards, teas, whist, music (singing), playing the harp, viol, guitar), parties, playing chess and sleighing.

The International Boundary

The International boundary between the United States and Canada passes practically through the center of all of the Great Lakes except Lake Michigan. It is entirely within the United States.

Sea Gulls First Dunkers

Although the "blue book of etiquette" forbids the dunking of one's food, sea gulls disregard this social grace and won't eat food until it has been well soaked, according to an ornithologist and yachtsman.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

High Hat: The Sixth avenue bus line, late in the evening, gets a heavy correct evening attire trade. It seems that those who seek diversion in the various large hotels in that vicinity choose the busses instead of taxis for home-going, possibly since the fare, no matter how far they travel is only a nickel or possibly they like company. At any rate, their presence adds a lot of swank to the public vehicles. The drivers, however, instead of rejoicing, are apt to do a bit of grousing when questioned about the matter. It seems that those in soup and fish uniform expect taxi service from the bus line. Naturally, a driver, piloting the bus and its cargo between elevated railway pillars, collecting fares and trying to get to the end of the route before 22 minutes have elapsed, has other things on his mind. So the well dressed make complaints. That some are extremely trivial doesn't ease the feelings of the drivers in the slightest. That being true, they prefer the proletariat which pays its nickels and lets it go at that.

By Any Other Name: Hors d'oeuvres have become an essential part of the cocktail hour, such an extensive part that they have expanded from mere cheese wafers and olives to selections that combine both quality and quantity. In some of the establishments, there is a preference for caviar, both red and black. In others, cute little sausages on toothpicks are considered quite the thing while at least one mid-town place specializes in miniature hot dogs in miniature rolls. The cocktail bar of one of the hotels sets out such a variety that a hungry patron is able to enjoy a fish course, a meat course and a vegetable course with a bit of cheese as a dessert, the whole being carried about on silver trays by white-clad servitors. And thus is the old-time free lunch duded up to meet modern requirements.

Illusion Turned Into Fact: Fifi D'Orsay, screen and stage star known generally as a French comedienne, has never been any nearer to France than we have been to collecting the French war debt. She was born in Canada and, as is Ethel Merman, is a former stenographer. Incidentally, George Givot, the Greek ambassador of the radio, is Jewish. Emile Boreo, portrayer of French roles, is a Russian, while Igor Gorin who sings all those romantic songs won't have anything to do with romance because he holds it would interfere with his career.

City Life: Coal rattling down a chute into an apartment house basement . . . A street full of children engaged in noisy games . . . Women engaged in a strident quarrel that at any moment threatens to reach the hair-pulling stage . . . A vegetable peddler bawling his wares . . . Taxicab drivers racing their motors . . . Radios blaring in full volume . . . and in an upstairs apartment, a violinist practicing "Wings of Song."

Shopping District Chatter: "You ought to see the light where I work." . . . "She tells me she wears a 2B and I can't get a 5C on her foot." . . . "We take a chance and don't get a deposit. He comes in for two try-ons and now we have the suit on our hands." "Right after I sold it, that stock went up nine points." . . . "If he knew how she was two-timing him, he'd go back to his wife." . . . "I never can get hold of enough nickels. Seems like I spend half my time lining up at a change booth." . . . "I know a fellow who can get it for you wholesale."

May God Bless Her: She and her husband have been married more than 60 years, yet she still looks young. Maybe that is because she is so full of life and so deeply interested in life. Her church, her club, her wide circle of friends take much of her time; nevertheless, she continues to make a home, a real home. Before he was of school age, she taught her oldest son to read, then led him to good books and in later years, encouraged him on when his wings were weak. To her, he owes a great debt. It's her birthday today. Many, many more and may all of them be happy, mother.

Hesrd in the subway: "I'm down to my last dime and I see that five spot on the sidewalk. I beat two other guys to it an' shove it in my pocket an' lam. It was a phony all right but my landlady don't go to the bank 'til I'm in shape to make good so I don't get throwed outta my room."

Condor Needs a Start

The bureau of biological survey says that the condor, like other large, heavy birds, cannot get off the ground in flight without some aid from the feet in a so-called running start. In this, the wings are flapping from the beginning of the run. The condor can also propel itself from a projection, as a cliff, and begin flight by sliding.

The Italian Lute

The Italian lute is a beautiful mandolin. Hungary is the place to go for dulcimer players, for there they have made a study of the similar zimbalo. The English, liking its sweet tones, changed its name to dulcimer.

Lights in Yards Hit Farm Thieves

Desire for better lighting in the farm home and other farm buildings is the principle motive which actuates farmers to secure electric service. This better lighting however is too often confined to the interior of the buildings only. On many of the so-called electrified farms the kerosene lantern still serves as the only source of light in the yard.

Yard lighting is desirable on every farm, says D. G. Ebinger, of the agricultural engineering department at Michigan State college. Light makes it possible to do farm chores after dark with ease, in less time and with greater safety to the worker. It sometimes becomes necessary to guard against thieves and other night prowlers. Properly located yard light helps serve this purpose. The cost of these lights is often paid back several times by a noticeable decrease in theft. Wherever they are installed they should flood the barnyard with light.

"The proper number and location of yard lights will depend largely on the farm layout," Ebinger suggests. "They should be placed as high as is practical and may be mounted either on a pole or on the side of the house or barn and should be fitted with a shallow dome or angle type reflector to obtain the most satisfactory illumination. Lamps of 150 to 200 watts are recommended. The yard lights should be controlled by three point or four point switches. One of these switches may be located at the rear door of the house and the others at the garage, barn, poultry house or wherever needed.

"Some farmers are now using, and others are contemplating the installation of burglar alarm systems. It is possible and practical to have the circuits so arranged that when the alarm is given by the opening of protected doors or windows, the yards at the same time will be automatically flooded with light."

Inquiries regarding the installation of yard lights either separately or in combination with a burglar alarm system, should be sent to the Agricultural Engineering Department, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

"Our lives are rivers, guiding through
To that unfathomed, boundless sea
The silent tomb."

In memory of Brother Jacob D. Maxwell, who died Oct. 29, 1936. "Leaves have their time to fall, and flowers to wither at the north wind's cold blast, but thou, oh Death! hath all seasons for thine own."

Once again a Brother Mason, having completed the designs written for him on life's trestle board, has passed through the portals of Eternity and entered the Grand Lodge of the New Jerusalem and has received as his reward, the white stone with the new name written thereon.

And whereas, the all-wise and merciful Master of the universe has called from labor to refreshments our beloved and respected brother.

Resolved, That Tyler Lodge, No. 317, F. & A. M. of Cass City, Mich., in testimony of her loss, be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that we tender to the family of our deceased brother our sincere condolence in their deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Joseph E. Crawford,
John Marshall,
H. F. Lenzner,
Committee.

"There is only a curtain between us,
Between the beyond and the here;
They whom they call dead have not left us,
Nay, they were never so near."

ROBOT PILOT WILL LAND PLANE IN FOG

New Development Takes the Risk Out of Flying.

Chicago.—Radio and aeronautical instrument engineers have perfected a robot which not only stabilizes airplanes while they are in flight but lands them without the aid of a human pilot. The landing is done by means of a curved radio "glide path" beam which guides the planes in safe and precise descents regardless of clouds or fog.

This was announced here by J. R. Cunningham, superintendent of communications for United Air Lines. Experiments to produce such a mechanism have been conducted for more than six years at Oakland (Calif.) airport, the transport company's western base field, he said, but success came only a few months ago. Since then the reliability of the gyro-pilot, operated automatically by the radio beams, has been proved in thousands of test landings.

When the robot mechanism is operating the Boeing 247D airplane in which it is installed, the human pilot takes both his hands and feet off the aileron and rudder controls. He throttles back the engines until the ship is flying 85 miles an hour. The robot device then does the rest, guiding the plane along the bent radio beam until the ship's landing wheels touch the ground.

The human pilot then closes the throttle and applies the brakes. Even on the ground the robot handles the ailerons and rudder, keeping the plane rolling in a straight line, and raising the "flippers" to prevent the ship from nosing over as the brakes take hold. All the hazardous part of the landing is accomplished thus by the robot. As a safeguard, however, against failure of the device, instruments are provided to detect such failure and to warn the human pilot to take back the controls.

Fingerprints Identify

536 Dead in 9 Months

Washington.—Many persons are buried in potter's fields because their fingerprints were not filed with the government, the Department of Justice reports.

From May 1, 1935, to February 1, 1936, fingerprints of 2,030 deceased persons, whose identities were unknown or in doubt, were received by the bureau of investigation, Department of Justice, police agencies and coroners' offices in every part of the country. Of these, identification of 536 was definitely established and the addresses and names of relatives were furnished.

The fingerprint contributors of 729 cases of the 2,030 prints were without information of any kind relative to the identities of the deceased persons, whereas the identity of the other 1,301 had been tentatively established. A comparison of the 2,030 sets of fingerprints with more than 5,600,000 on record in the identification division's files provided positive identification of 173 of the first group and 383 of the second.

One typical case, in which reference to the bureau's identification facilities identified the dead person, occurred on December 24, 1935. An unidentified man was killed by a train near Oakland, Calif. Fingerprints were forwarded to the Department of Justice by the coroner's office there. The department, after a search through its files, disclosed that the dead man had a record of four arrests.

Find Embalming Secret

of Ancient Egyptians

Jerusalem.—Claiming to have discovered the secret of the embalming process known to the Egyptians of old, M. Zev Nieman, eighty years old, of Zichron Jacob, has announced the successful results of experiments in mummifying a rabbit, a fish, dove and other creatures.

According to Nieman, a certain herb found only in Palestine was used by the Egyptians in their embalming process. The herb was imported from the Holy Land.

Nieman said that after a visit to Luxor and Assum, where he studied the well-preserved mummies, he experimented for many years with this process.

The rabbit he had thus preserved remained for many years without decaying.

That the secret may not be lost, he said he was prepared to reveal it to a representative of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

A science master at the Pardess Hannah Secondary school was asked to investigate.

364-Foot Redwood Wins

Title of "Tallest Tree"

Sacramento, Calif.—After a survey of California's many redwood groves, officials of that state's division of parks have given the title of "the tallest tree in the world" to a redwood in Dyerville Flat grove, 45 miles south of Eureka. The redwood towers 346 feet. It is 47 feet in circumference and contains approximately 120,000 board feet of lumber.

Another tree, even larger from the standpoint of potential lumber, is in Bull Creek Flat grove. This tree is 72 feet in circumference at the ground, is 345 feet high and would make approximately 154,000 board feet measure of lumber.

CASS CITY UNDEFEATED
IN THUMB LEAGUE

Concluded from first page.
running of Phil Doerr nad Willard Davidson.
The locals have two games left between them and another Thumb championship—if, and this is by far the biggest "if," the Maroon and Grey have yet faced, they can defeat Bad Axe next Friday. The odds will all be in their favor, as the Harbor Beach squad who will be met here on Thanksgiving day is not rated as strong as Bad Axe, although they will be no set up. Bad Axe will be played at Bad Axe, and if the field should be wet, the chances for a Cass City victory would be lowered as they will be outweighed decisively by the Bad Axe squad.

This is the outstanding contest left in the Thumb and both sides will be out for blood.

MRS. McKIM DIED
ON WAY TO CHURCH

Concluded from first page.
The log house was finally replaced by a frame building and later with a brick house, but because of ill health, Mr. McKim found it necessary to leave the farm and in 1912 they bought the place just outside the city limits, on South Seeger street, where Mr. McKim died February 14, 1914.

A niece, Mrs. James R. Hurley, (Hester McKim) made her home with Mr. and Mrs. McKim from the time she was a small child until she grew to womanhood.

Although Mrs. McKim had no children of her own, she, with a distinct mother love, expressed her devotion in the care to those of her kin, and not only to relatives, but to all children. Mrs. McKim's home was a rendezvous for the children of the neighborhood and she will be greatly missed by all.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in the Baptist church. Rev. L. A. Kennedy, pastor, officiated and burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Mrs. McKim is survived by a half-brother, Joe Morden, of Port Huron as well as a number of nieces and nephews.

He leaves his widow; a daughter, Doris; and a brother, Herbert Holloway, of Ionia. Mrs. Holloway (Sarah Anderson) was the daughter of the late Rev. S. G. Anderson, at one time pastor of the Baptist church at Cass City.
