

COUNCIL REVISES OFFICERS' SALARIES

Village Treasurer's Emolument Is Increased; Assessor to Receive Less.

With the low tax rate which prevails in Cass City, the village treasurer's position is unattractive as an office with only the tax collecting fees as a remuneration. Recognizing this condition, the village council at its meeting Monday night, voted that the fees be supplemented with a modest salary, both of which shall total $75.00 for the year of 1936. The village assessor, who has been receiving around $125.00 a year, will have his salary reduced to $75.00 per annum, starting in 1937. Geo. Ackerman, village workman, was given a raise of five cents an hour, bringing his wages to 35 cents each 60 minutes. The president and clerk were authorized to sign, on behalf of the village, agreements with the Nestle's Milk Products, Inc., and Andrew T. Barnes granting easements for village sewer rights-of-way. The council accepted the offer of Frank Hall for his land for the sewer project at a sum of $500.00.

Cattle Breeders Will Go to School

In order to become better informed about the fundamental principles of animal breeding, the local Holstein breeders are planning on attending a breeding school which will be conducted by Dr. E. E. Heizer and E. M. Clark, representatives of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The school will be held at the court house at Caro, and will last for about three hours. Dr. Heizer is one of the leading authorities upon the science of genetics and makes his illustrated talk very interesting. Many perplexing problems regarding character transmission will be clarified. The subject of in-breeding, line-breeding and out-crossing will be discussed. Color inheritance will be explained and finally the characters which influence production of milk and butterfat will be discussed. As this lecture will be of interest to all breeders of dairy cattle, the Tuscola County Holstein Club, the sponsors of the school, invite all local cattle breeders to attend the meeting.

HORSE AUCTIONS.

THUMB CHAMPIONSHIP WON BY BAD AXE

Cass City Must Win Thanksgiving Day Game to Hold Second Place in Race.

Cass City lost its first league game Friday to Bad Axe's powerhouse, 14-6. The locals played brilliant defensive ball the second half holding Bad Axe scoreless during this time, but the Maroon and Grey could get but one touchdown themselves. Several scoring opportunities were lost in the early part of the game when the Cass City boys looked to be a little unorganized.

Bad Axe has by far the most powerful team in the Thumb, with their 185-pound fullback, Klazeyk, carrying both the offensive and defensive punch. Willard Davidson and Leslie Profit both played a brilliant defensive game for Cass City.

The final game of the season will be played here at 2:30 on Thanksgiving day with a scrappy bunch of football men from Harbor Beach furnishing plenty of opposition. Cass City will attempt to start an entire team of next year men against Harbor Beach. How long they will stay in the game will depend upon their performance. Cass City will be out to win, however, as they have lost only two league games during the last four years, and they don't want to spoil this record. This contest will see the following boys playing their last game for the Cass City high school: Willard Davidson, end; Meredith McAlpine, tackle; Lloyd Kennedy, guard; Bob Gallagher, center; Cliff Ryan, guard; Arnold Reagh, quarterback; "Pete" Reyes, halfback; Franklin Wright, fullback. Let's give the boys fine support in their final game.

Tommy Dewey Gets Buck in First 15 Minutes of Hunt

Advance parties of Cass City's deer hunting army made themselves comfortable in northern camps the last of the week to be on hand for the opening of the season. At the Straits of Mackinac, four state-owned ferries abandoned regular schedules to hurry hunters into the Upper Peninsula. The conservation department sent 75 extra wardens into north woods to insure fair play for the deer. Officials say that a large kill in many localities would be an aid to Michigan's deer population because of the deer starvation last winter due to lack of browse in many swamps. Arthur "Tommy" Dewey was the first to return to this community with a deer. Arthur, in company with Riley Ramsey of Marlette and Clare Craig, left Cass City about 3:00 a. m. Sunday and had been in the woods near Alger about 15 minutes when he got his eight-point buck. This was Mr. Dewey's first deer hunting trip. They returned home Sunday evening. Among the hunters to trek north are D. E. Turner and Aaron Turner accompanied by William Wright and C. Spaulding of Elmwood. Glenn Folkert, with Don Gage of Lapeer, left last week to hunt in Northern Michigan. B. A. Elliott and Earl Harris left Saturday to make camp in the vicinity of West Branch. Arthur Little, accompanied by two uncles of Mrs. Little, left early Sunday morning to hunt deer near Curran.

Thanksgiving

Our thanks should be as fervent for mercies received, as our petitions for mercies sought. —C. Simmons

George and Andrew Seeger and George Bennett, accompanied by Floyd Morgan of Wayne, left Saturday for Heatherton, near Atlanta.

C. M. Wallace and Robert L. Keppen spent the week-end at St. Helen.

Andy Fletcher of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Benkelman and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hunt left Saturday to spend the week at Alpena. Paul Nelson of Grand Rapids and E. B. Schwaderer are among the hunters at Alpena.

Was 84 Years Old on Friday, the 13th

Friday, Nov. 13, might have held terrors for the superstitious, but to J. B. Pettinger it was just another birthday, to be exact his 84th anniversary.

Born in Oxford county, Ontario, in 1852, he came to Austin township in 1880, about six years after his marriage and he and Mrs. Pettinger leased the Hugh McKenzie farm. During the forest fire of 1881, they were among the fortunate to escape the ravages of that peril and their home was not damaged.

They later purchased land 1/2 mile south of Cumber and through the years their holdings in real estate in the northwestern part of Sanilac county grew to reach 420 acres.

Mrs. Pettinger, who was 86 on September 8th last, was also born in Oxford county. She and her husband are both members of the Cumber M. E. church and for many years have been interested in the activities of that society.

Mr. Pettinger was for many years a member of the board of directors of the Cass City Fair and has long been interested in live stock breeding, particularly that of Durham cattle.

They have eight children: Mrs. Nada Mills (Minnie) of Au Sable, Mrs. Warren Nugent (Ida) of Bad Axe, Mrs. Cyrus King of Argyle, William Pettinger of Calgary, Alta., James, Chester, George and David Pettinger, all of Austin township.

PATTERSON-FIKE.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at six o'clock Saturday evening, Nov. 14, at the Methodist parsonage in Caro when Miss Charlotte Marie Fike, daughter of Mrs. Stanley Fike, of Cass City became the bride of Mr. Melvin J. Patterson, son of Mrs. Robt. Maurer, of Gageton. Rev. A. T. Runkel officiated. They were attended by James Mulady and Miss Hazel O'Rourke, both of Cass City. Immediately following the wedding, a dinner was served to the bridal party at Frankennuth.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson will make their home in an apartment at the W. L. Moore residence, corner of Seeger and Houghton streets. Mr. Patterson is employed by the Nestle's Milk Products, Inc., in Cass City. On Sunday, Mrs. Stanley Fike entertained at a dinner in honor of the bride and groom. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maurer and daughter, Miss Jessie Patterson, of Gageton; Leslie Patterson, and Harold Faye of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur VanVliet and family of Decker; James Mulady and Miss Hazel O'Rourke.

TWO PLEAD GUILTY TO BEAN THEFTS

Other Cases Heard in Tuscola Circuit Court on Friday.

David Scharick, Jr., and Henry Oswald, arrested on the charge of entering the granary of Scharick's uncle, Casper Scharick, in Akron township and stealing beans, both pleaded guilty to breaking and entering, in the Tuscola county circuit court Friday.

Judge Louis C. Cramton, believing that the public good will not suffer by David Scharick, Jr., being released on probation and that he is not likely again to engage in a criminal course of conduct, placed him on such a test of character for three years and sentenced him to pay a fine of $25 and costs of $25. He is to avoid beer parlors and other places where intoxicating liquors are sold during the probationary term. Oswald was sentenced to pay costs of $50 and a fine of $150.

Archie Ball charged with voting twice at the same election pleaded not guilty when arraigned and waived trial by jury. His case will be heard on Nov. 30.

Attorney Guy G. Hill presented the default divorce matter of June Pinder vs. Riley Pinder. The court signed a decree which permitted Mrs. Pinder to resume the name of Cummer.

A divorce decree was granted in the case of Marguerite Bell vs. Hugh Bell.

A new temperance drama, "Death Takes the Steering Wheel," will be given for the first time in Cass City, at the Evangelical church at 8:00 p. m., Tuesday, November 24. A cast of twenty-one local people, assisted by N. R. Johnson, director, will take part.

This drama portrays a tragedy caused by over-indulgence of intoxicating liquor and an attempt to drive an automobile while drunk, the accident occurring in May, 1935. In it, John McKitter, a highly respected citizen of the city, getting into his high powered automobile, started home about midnight, under the influence of the liquor he had been drinking; deprived of those "safe driving" faculties, he lost control of his car, drove into a safety zone, running down four young people who were in the zone waiting for a street car. Two of the young men were killed, the third jumping to safety. Miss Alice Ball, the young lady severely injured, was the fiancée of one of the young men who lost their lives and will appear as a witness in the trial.

SCHOOL FACILITIES IN SIGHT FOR COLONY

Three Million Dollar Building Program Sighted for Wahjamega Institution.

With a $3,000,000 building program in sight for the Michigan Farm Colony at Wahjamega within the next four years, there is a probability of a school unit for 400 children at the colony. Dr. Willard Dickerson, a member of the medical staff, told Cass City Rotarians Tuesday. Since the colony was established in 1914, no school facilities have been provided by the state for the education of children in that institution. There are at present 85 children ready to take school training.

The building program as planned would include, besides the school building, an enlarged power plant, better housing facilities for employees and room for 1,100 additional patients.

When the colony was opened on May 30, 1914, the first to enter were 38 patients from the Lapeer Home and Training School, one of whom is still a patient at Wahjamega. Tuesday, the day of Dr. Dickerson's visit here, there were 1,008 patients at the colony and 72 more were off on vacations. The institution has a normal capacity of 699 patients, and it is only by having about 70 of them off on vacations all the time that about 1,000 are cared for in the overcrowded quarters. There are at present 704 on the waiting list to be committed to the farm colony.

Dr. Dickerson explained to Rotarians the methods of commitment and said only emergency cases, those who are a menace to the safety of their communities, can be admitted under the present overcrowded conditions at Wahjamega. He described briefly the symptoms of epilepsy and its treatment, and said that 40 out of every 100,000 population were subject to the disease.

Otto Prieskorn will be a new member of the Rotary club, it was announced Tuesday. The Peoples State Bank of Caro vs. Theron W. Atwood, assumptit. Chas. F. Jamison vs. Amanda El-Turn to page 8, please.

Preaching Mission Well Attended

As the Chronicle goes to press, three services remain in the Union Preaching Mission. It began Sunday evening with a capacity audience in the Baptist church. Those present heard a powerful, thought-provoking sermon by Rev. Libbie Supernois on the text, "Every one of us, then, shall give account of himself to God." Rev. Geo. Spitzer followed on Monday evening in the Methodist church with an exposition of "The Two Prodigals," one the waster and the other the stay-at-home with the bad disposition. It was a searching interpretation of the damage done by "bad tempered saints." Rev. Paul J. Alured followed on Tuesday evening with a message in the spiritual succession of John the Baptist on the modern need of repentance for social sins in which all share, church members as well as citizens who make no religious profession. On Wednesday evening, Rev. L. A. Kennedy preached helpfully on the text, "The Son of Man is come to seek and to save the lost." Thursday evening, Rev. Turn to page 4, please.

THANKSGIVING THOUGHTS.

Thanksgiving day celebrations a century ago brought solemn services in the churches, eloquent but too prolonged sermons by the ministers. It was a great day for discussion of national issues. The powers of nation and state often shook, as the ancient clergymen thundered their solemn pronouncements from their powerful pulpits.

They had big dinners in those days, and no end of jolly fun. The laughter of children resounded through the ancient halls. In the days when families averaged six or eight children apiece, you could get up quite a ruckus. Today these old homes are largely silent, they echo no more with the voice of youth, the families are scattered all over the land.

Thankfulness was a real thing in the older days of Thanksgiving celebrations. People really felt they owed their happiness and welfare to divine favor, and they did not hesitate to say so out loud.

The present is on the whole a better time to live in than the old days. We have reformed many evils that they tolerated. Others are on the way to being reformed. The children have a better chance in life. Infinitely more has been done for the sick and the poor. The nation has grown great.

We all have cause for thankfulness. It will do no harm to say so. People should not think they have done all these things themselves. Most of the welfare is due to the efforts of former generations. We can't help believing that it is also due to a higher power, which has given us a good land, with everything needed for human prosperity. If we fail of welfare, it is due either to our own individual fault, or the failure of the people as a whole to care for human needs. Let us then give thanks.

The farmers commit, it is said, very few crimes. They are satisfied to stay at home evenings and read in the newspapers about the crimes other people commit, rather than going out and committing some themselves.

GET READY FOR WINTER.

The gardener and farmer have work to do in preparation for the wintry blasts. There are stores of vegetables and fuel to be hidden away for the day of need. The flower beds must be tucked in under a blanket of leaves. The holes in the roof must be mended.

Physically and mentally also the people need to get ready for winter. One way is to lay up a store of good health, which will help us fight off Mr. Grip Germ. A store of newspapers, magazines, and books is needed, to occupy well the long winter evenings. Good organizations in the home town are necessary, that shall bring mental growth and social pleasure. If these things are done, we can tell the Storm King we are not afraid of him.

The American people demand good roads so they can get to places, while they don't say much about having them so they can get home on time.

THE INCREASE OF JOBS.

The government figures show that 1,400,000 more people have found work in non-agricultural industries during the past year. While that is not quite the rapid gain the people had hoped for, it means steady progress on conquering what is left of the depression. Now the people ask, "Will that gain continue?"

This gain in manufacturing and mercantile industries may be partly offset by some loss of jobs in agriculture. The government experts have held that the farmers were growing more products than could be sold. They argue that as the manufacturer cuts his production when he can't sell his goods, so agriculture must do the same thing. But when the farmer lets some of his acres lie idle, he doesn't need so much help. He and the wife and the children may be able to do the whole thing in many cases. That turns a considerable number of men loose to look for work.

The 1,400,000 more people who have gone to work in factories and stores find their purchasing power increased, so they can buy more things. That ought to provide work for a new group of people.

The money, like the music, should go round and round. As long as it keeps circulating, it keeps people employed. As industrial equipment, automobiles, etc., wear out, more people are put to work to replace these gaps. The circulation of money is hindered by reckless speculation, the fear of future calamities, and failures of business concerns and banks. The government should encourage business, so it will have faith to expand its operations, but it should discourage speculative excesses that might cause a repetition of the 1929 disaster.

They say the election shook the nation. Anyway it shook considerable money out of the pockets of the political contributors.

PEACE FOR AMERICA.

Our people are vitally interested in the peace conference of the American republics, called at Buenos Aires, for which the delegates of the United States have set sail. Europe lives under the deadly fear of the war cloud. It is our job on this continent to keep the sun of peace shining.

The turbulent little republics to the south of us, sometimes tempt our people to warlike measures to make them behave. If you get involved in a little war, it may be a big one before it is finished. "They sow the wind and reap the whirlwind," said the prophet Hosea in the Bible. It is the business of that meeting at Buenos Aires, to keep any fierce winds of war from being sown in the life of America.

The freight business is not perhaps as good as it should be, though a lot of able bodied folks had to be transported to the polls election day.

"UNDER THE INFLUENCE."

What is going to decide if a man has an automobile accident after he has been drinking, whether he was under the influence of liquor or not? This question has caused infinite controversy. Some people claim they can drive better after they have had a drink of liquor. Others say that even a small potation confuses the perceptions and gives a person over-confidence, inducing them to try things which in a perfectly sober moment they would not attempt.

The Denver police have a system for telling whether a motorist is sober or not. The reflexes of the arms and legs are tested, a flashlight in the victim's eyes shows the degree of dilation, and there are other tests like walking on a straight line.

Probably the most common test is to smell the person's breath. Heavy drinkers might as well realize that if a good strong whiff shows they have been entertaining King Alcohol freely, the average policeman will not probably be impressed by their innocent story.

It could be wished that some absolute scientific test could be devised which would positively show just how far a person's judgment is affected by alcohol. People vary so radically that such a test is difficult to formulate.

So many accidents seem clearly due to the influence of liquor, that every motorist who uses such beverages should have a care. Public sentiment will support severe penalties for those who cause accidents because of their intemperate habits. An automobile contains power capable of dealing death and destruction. No person is in fit condition to drive one, unless his mind is clear and his body under normal control.

If you draw water out of a well faster than it runs in, it will soon be dry. So if people spend more money out of town than the town takes in, its business will soon dry up.

People are constantly overlooking splendid bargains in the stores, because they were never informed about these bargains by advertising.

While the poultry men are running egg laying contests, the grower will say many of his hens are competing to see which shall lay the fewest without getting her neck rung.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

DEATHS

Theodore Young.

Frank and Harry Young attended the funeral of their brother, Theodore Young, at Tillsonburg, Ont., Friday. With startling suddenness, death came to Mr. Young on Wednesday morning as he was tolling the bell for the two minutes of silence that he had invariably carried out since the end of the Great War, in which his son gave his life. Assembled near the town hall were hundreds of citizens standing with bowed heads in tribute to the soldiers who remain in Flanders' Field. Mr. Young began to toll the bell. He was seen to slip to the floor with the rope in his hand. He died as he fell without a sound. The physician who was called, said that death was due to heart trouble. He died where much of his life had been spent, in the town hall.

Mr. Young was in his 76th year and had spent all of his life in Tillsonburg and was an employee of that town for 3 years, retiring only a few months ago. His duties included the ringing of the bell every day. The bell was not rung from the day of his death until after the funeral.

A request has been made to the Tillsonburg town council by the fire department for the rope used by Mr. Young on Wednesday morning in tolling out the two minutes of silence. The firemen desire to have it as a keepsake of a beloved fire chief.

Surviving Mr. Young are his wife, three sons, three daughters, one sister, Mrs. W. E. Barraclough, of Blackpool, Eng.; six brothers, Arthur and Fred of Detroit, Eli of St. Louis, Missouri, Frank and Harry of Cass City, and Robert of Tillsonburg.

Two sons preceded the father in death, Ernest was killed in action at Arras and Charles was accidentally killed while working for the Maple Leaf Harvest Tool Co. at Tillsonburg.

SHABBONA.

Mrs. Noel Sefton and son, Paul, of Argyle spent Monday with her mother, Mrs. John D. Jones.

Mrs. Almeda Sharrard returned to her home in Memphis Wednesday after spending two weeks with friends in this community.

Sees Way to Ban Holiday's Aches

Suggestion that the old-fashioned Thanksgiving holiday meal "turn my aches" be banned at least for children is made by Miss Helen Baeder, foods instructor at Michigan State College. She says that a few simple plans made especially for the children can utilize the festive menu fairly well and yet make the holiday more enjoyable for the youngsters.
"Most Thanksgiving menus contain foods suitable for children," says Miss Baeder. "But the principal idea of any tampering with this menu for the sake of children is to avoid giving them the rich and highly seasoned foods such as dressings, gravies and voluminous desserts.
"Children can be provided with a more healthy and enjoyable day, and day after. Rest and sleep are helpful, as well as meals on time. Many families planning meals for a houseful of guests also plan to let the children eat by themselves and at the hour they would eat on other days."
Miss Baeder presents what might be a typical Thanksgiving dinner. It includes a tomato juice cocktail, roast turkey with stuffing, sweet potatoes, brussel sprouts, fruit salad, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and then coffee for a beverage.
From this menu she suggests the following changes for the children. Perhaps some adults might be interested in the same meal. The cocktail would become tomato juice. The turkey would appear with sweet potatoes and a milk gravy and a vegetable. The fruit salad would be followed by a simpler dessert such as ice cream

Mr. Voelker will address the group briefly. There will be opportunity for discussion of questions vital to today's youth facing tomorrow's world. Light refreshments will be served and a period of fellowship with special music is planned.

The attendance during the week has steadily grown from night to night. A capacity audience is looked for by Friday night in the Methodist church as well as on Sunday night in the Evangelical church.

MRS. JANE MCBURNEY ENTERED HER 90th YEAR ON SUNDAY

Concluded from first page. Mrs. McBurney joined her husband and they made their home on the farm, where Mr. McBurney passed away in 1903. Fourteen years ago, Mrs. McBurney moved from the farm and bought the residence on West Main street where she still resides. Mrs. McBurney is in good health and does her own work about the home. In September of this year, she took an automobile trip with her daughter, Miss Hollis McBurney, of Youngstown, Ohio, and granddaughter, Miss Lucy Bayley, of Cass City on a month's visit to Saskatchewan. She stood the trip as well as the younger members of the party.

When she was five years old her mother taught her to knit and she spends much of her time now in knitting. Last winter she knit a sweater for herself.

She has seven living children, Hugh and William McBurney and Mrs. Richard Bayley of Cass City; Armond McBurney and Mrs. Mary Goodall of Saskatchewan; Miss Hollis McBurney of Youngstown, Ohio; Mrs. Russell Gravett of Houston, Texas.

ELMWOOD.

Clair O'Dell of Wyandotte surprised his friends and relatives when he arrived at his parents' home on Friday as an owner of a Terraplane coach. Bernard O'Dell returned with him on Saturday to attend the auto show in Detroit. Clair's father, Warren O'Dell, left for the north woods where he expects to spend a few days.

Identifying Animal Noises

A little practice in the art of listening will enable you to identify the various creatures of the woods without seeing them, writes Archibald Rutledge in Nature Magazine. The wild turkey has the tramp-tramp tread of a man interspersed with a sedulous raking of leaves as he pauses to scratch for food. A deer, despite his size, makes less noise than the turkey. His approach is usually heralded by a subdued stirring, the separate footfalls being hardly distinguishable. Squirrels can always be identified by their habit of frisking around in the leaves and then jumping. He will make a great scurrying and then give a leap.

75 Years an Actor

A. G. Andrews smoking his pipe as he makes up for his part, in a play current in New York, on the seventy-fifth anniversary of his first appearance on the stage. In 1861 he was given a child's part in "Masks and Faces" with Mrs. Fanny Sterling.

Scattered by Millions

A fern spore is so minute that it is scarcely visible. It appears as a fine particle of dust, says Nature Magazine. If one touches a fertile frond when the spores are mature and shedding, little clouds of dust drift away like smoke. This cloud is millions of spores being sent forth to be scattered over the surrounding countryside. Few survive, however, or the entire earth would soon be come a gigantic fern garden.

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis
© Public Ledger, Inc.

HOW often you meet interesting people, socially or in business, whose true traits and character you would give almost anything to see delineated. This isn't difficult if you are on speaking terms with the language of the hand. But before you attempt a verdict, be sure that you are familiar with the characteristics of type.

The Temperamental Type of Hand.

Graceful symmetry is the outstanding feature of this type. The fingers, particularly, impress the observer with their smoothness and delicate modeling from root to nail tip. Hands of the temperamental type are in general quite small, though there may be exceptions to the rule; are plump but not over-fleshed and have a responsive, resilient feel when grasped.

The fingers of this type are of moderate length in proportion to the length of palm, which is usually neither square nor elongated, but rather full and oval in shape. The thumb, like the fingers, is well proportioned, of moderate length, and in many instances has a markedly tapered nail joint, with the joint below it of unusual slenderness and sometimes coseted in appearance.

The firm hand of temperamental type indicates the emotional, dramatically inclined, artistic man or woman, with far greater endowments along these lines than average. But if overfleshed, the indications are that indolence and love of ease will be serious drawbacks to emotional and artistic expression.

Possessors of the temperamental type of hand are natural artists and actors, who, although they may never follow their natural inclinations, nevertheless are only truly happy when in an artistic or "dramatic" environment.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

When the radio code call MEDICO goes on the air, all other signals, except SOS, are silenced immediately. As is SOS, MEDICO is an emergency call but MEDICO is an emergency for an individual and not for a ship. In other words, it means that somewhere on the high seas a human being is facing death because of accident or illness. There still are ships that do not carry doctors, though officers of all American vessels are required by law to have had first aid instruction. If the emergency is too serious for the master and his officers to handle, he sends out the call together with a description of the trouble. The message, received by the Radio Marine corporation, goes immediately to a physician of the United States public health service. No matter the hour of day or night, or no matter how many thousands of miles away the patient may be, he receives the benefit of medical skill immediately.

Varied indeed are those messages that start with the call MEDICO. Down near the Galapagos islands, a big bug bit a sailor's hand. The hand swelled rapidly and the forearm became affected. Ordinary treatment brought no results. The public health doctor recommended a saturated solution of epsom salts together with a soft diet. After some further exchange of radiograms, came the captain's report: "Patient recovering rapidly. Thank you." A sailor off the coast of California developed an abscess on his leg. Hot applications and an opiate brought relief. A fifteen-year-old girl swallowed an open safety pin. Not much could be done except give her an opiate and put into the nearest port. But an ambulance was waiting there and an operation saved her life. So it goes 24 hours a day.

In checking the spread of contagious diseases, MEDICO also plays its part. For instance, when seven cadets aboard the California State school ship, became ill with meningitis, the Grace liner Santa Paula was contacted through MEDICO and serum was transferred to the school ship. No further cases developed. There have also been a number of instances where MEDICO has caused liners to deviate from their courses so that surgeons might perform emergency operations. The service has been in existence for the last 15 years. It started with a small wireless station at the Seamen's Church Institute through a $5,000 gift from the late Henry A. Laughlin of Philadelphia. Later Owen D. Young and David Sarnoff became interested and took over the operation to the RCA network.

Speaking of the Seamen's Church Institute brings Mrs. Janet Roper to mind. To sailors she's "Mother Roper." As head of the missing seamen's bureau, during the last 21 years, she's succeeded in locating more than 5,000 vanished sailors for worried mothers and wives. She has established contacts with sailors' missions and sailors' boarding houses all over the world and each month she mails to those places a bulletin containing the name, age and description of each man she is seeking. The bulletin is posted in places where seamen congregate and scanned by men of ships of all nations. There is one significant line: "This bulletin is not published to locate those sought by the law." The addition was made necessary by lawyers and collection agencies seeking to find sailors through "Mother" Roper's bureau.

Mrs. Roper knows her sailor men. For 47 years she has been doing seamen's mission work, having started teaching a sailors' Sunday school class in Boston at the age of sixteen. Subsequently, she was connected with missions in Gloucester, Mass., and Portland, Oregon. She is the only member of her family who has been connected with the sea in any way. In addition to heading the missing seamen's bureau, she is also house mother.

Mayor LaGuardia has succeeded in putting the Park avenue pushcart men under cover. The pushcarts of the past were not down in the snooty sector where the railroad tracks run underground but up where they travel on an elevated structure with big stone arches. A market was built under the tracks and the pushcart men went into business there, the city charging a nominal rental. Those with whom interviews were attempted were evasive as to what difference the move made in trade conditions. Business could be better, they admitted, and at the same time, it could be worse.

Talked with a pushcart man in Times Square. He sells candy, with each kind in a neat section bearing a card stating the price. Police give him a lot of trouble. They enforce the law that he can't stop except when he is making a sale. The trouble is, he continues, that sales are so few that if some cops didn't have hearts, he'd walk his legs off trying to make a living.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

THE pantry gets its note of attractive decoration when the shelves have gay frames surrounding them. This little room is one in constant use. It is seen by everyone who is privileged to go through the dining room to the kitchen, or who glimpses the pantry from kitchen or dining room. The pantry is an ante-room of both these main rooms, and it savors a little of each, besides having its own character. It can be made a decorative element of the home. The shelf treatment furthers this decoration.

Simple frames are suggested as most suitable as they require the minimum of care without losing anything in ornament. The material can be any one of the many substitutes for wood or it can be of the latter material. The home-maker can make the frames herself with a jigsaw, or she can have a carpenter cut the curved outlines. If she makes the frames of wood substitutes, it is possible to draw the curved outlines on the material, and with a very sharp knife cut the contours herself.

Deft Work

By careful planning, one line of cutting can supply two contours exactly alike when separated, since the curves can interlock in their outlines. Careful drawing is needed, and deft cutting. The work of a carpenter, however, is slight, and would therefore cost little. He will nail the frames with precision to the edges of the shelves. Then all that remains is for the homemaker to paint the frames.

The way to have the painting most ornamental is to use two colors, let us say blue and gold-yellow. Paint the edges, that is, the frame width of wood, with the yellow, and the frames themselves blue. The shelves can be yellow with the wall-background blue or this color scheme can be reversed. This scheme is too full of color for some pantries, so let me suggest another, two shades of gray with white. Or canary yellow, gray, and white.

The painted frames set off the wares of the pantry to advantage as well as proving ornamental in themselves. An ordinary pantry becomes a decorative asset of the home when it has its shelves framed as described.

Mother's Cook Book

HINTS ON FOODS

THE preparation of a leftover into something appetizing takes vastly more thought than to produce an ordinary dish, which is one of the reasons why such dishes are not acceptable, they are prepared with too little thought.

There is something out of balance with a person who cannot enjoy with a thrill, crisp, well-blended salads, or well-cooked and seasoned vegetables; but no one can be blamed for refusing unattractive food. Because the male members of the family shy at anything reheated, made over, or reheated, the problem of carefully conserving good foods and giving them back in an acceptable form is one which takes more finesse than a hand of bridge.

One reason that many men balk at salads is because they have been often used as a clearing house for leftovers.

Children will learn to like almost any kind of vegetable if it is not discussed pro and con every time it appears. Children are people, and when we learn to respect their feelings as we would older ones, they will respond accordingly, usually.

When teaching a child to eat a new dish, make it as attractive as possible in appearance and so tasty that it will not disappoint, and you will never have to urge the food upon an unwilling child.

Children need whole wheat; other cereals may be used for variety. They need fat—butterfat is the best of all fats to promote growth. The child needs milk, at least a quart a day in some form; sugar in moderate amount and candy after a meal or between meals so that it will not destroy his appetite for the coming meal. Plenty of fruit and fresh vegetables are needed, in all diets, and especially in the child's.

Another food that a well-nourished child needs is fresh eggs; serve one in some form each day for each child. Well-cooked rice, fresh fish, poultry, are all good foods for the growing child.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

ABOUT THE "THINGS WE WANT TO DO"

DEAR JEAN NEWTON—What can we do to keep in sight the things we want to do and which are so easily crowded out in the routine of daily living?

"I cannot claim to be bowed down by work or responsibility. In fact I think I have as much leisure as most fortunate women. I have a small apartment, a good maid and no children. My mother requires some of my time and a very little more goes to what I call regular good works. And yet I never seem to get done the things I want to do.

"I should like each season to see the accomplishment of something that will broaden or improve my mind. Every summer I determine the next year to take a course or two in a subject in which I am interested. And yet the year goes by without my doing it.

"Why? I just get immersed in the ordinary routine and suddenly realize that the time has passed. The round of luncheons and bridges don't mean so much to me, and it isn't as if I should have to isolate myself to do some of the other things. But first every season there is the 'fixing up' and getting into the social swing again, and then there is preparing for the holiday days and recovering from them, and so on, so that I seem always to be waiting until 'after' some occasion or other—and never get started on what I want to do. I think I'm not the only one, and it's a subject worth airing."

The reader who has written us is not the only one who can't see the woods for the trees—that is the vista of the woods of life because the trees of daily routine crowd life and obscure the view. Most of us in this hectic day are victims of that same thing. Routine duties or amusements keep us busy day in and day out and before we realize it another season or another year is gone with nothing to show for it in accomplishment or real enjoyment of anything important.

To some of us it does not matter. But to those of us who feel the need for growth, who have those "things we want to do" it is important. And there is no panacea or miracle to which we can turn. The only thing to do about it is the very simple thing of forcing ourselves to keep in sight those "things we want to do"—and to do them!

The Early Typewriter

WHEN the typewriter first was invented, people considered themselves insulted when they received a typewritten letter. They jumped to the conclusion the writer thought they could not read pen-writing!

The first typewriters, incredibly rickety machines that were always getting out of kilter, began to appear in America during the 1850's. Most business men laughed at them and said they wouldn't trade one good quill pen for a dozen of those new-fangled contraptions. Only a few wise acres and journalists allowed that they might have some future. But one crackpot became so enthusiastic he predicted that the day would come when a schoolboy would only be taught to write his name with a pen because he could write anything else by "playing on a literary piano."

The early skepticism was partly justified. Up to 1870, a typewriter cost $250, and a ribbon could be had only by buying a roll of silk at a dry goods store, soaking it in ink and hanging it up to dry. Mark Twain was one of the early typewriter converts.

Christopher Sholes of Milwaukee is said to have built the first really practical machine. The sentence he tapped out time after time while testing it in his little machine shop was "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party."

UNLESS you work your garden you can't expect a rose. The poorest little pansy flow'r, Or anything that grows. Unless you work a little But little you will win. For all that's worth the having comes To those who toil and spin.

Unless you work your garden You can't expect the joy Of those who grow the growing things That busy hands employ. Unless you give a little But little will be yours. Although you live a life of ease, But little that endures.

Unless you work your garden You can't expect to reap The things that are the beautiful, Or friends that you can keep. Unless you love a little And kindly say and do, The rose of life will be for some, The weeds of life for you. © Douglas Malloch.—WNU Service.

Cattle Resemble Auerochs
Many Spanish domestic cattle bear a marked resemblance to the auerochs which formerly lived on the Spanish peninsula, as attested by the numerous drawings of them on the walls of caves. Perhaps the ancestral traits are best preserved in the Spanish fighting bulls. Between 8,000 and 10,000 of them are required annually. They live in open meadows, as did the auerochs.

THESE PARENTS HAVE RIGHT TO PRIDE.

Parents at the left and right have helped give birth at Michigan State College to the new Michigan Hybrid No. 561 which yields more grain and will enable farmers in the state to grow more corn in spite of borer infestation.

Educated Corn Beats the Borer

Washington, D. C.—Special—Scientists attending the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy in Washington this week learned the history of development at Michigan State College of a variety of corn which enables farmers to "live with" the European corn borer and even increase grain yield.

In a paper submitted (November 18) to the agronomists at Washington by A. R. Marston, corn breeding expert in the farm crops department at the college, results of a 10 year program of progress were described. Specifically, the farm crops department has developed Michigan Hybrid No. 561 first distributed for commercial production in 1936.

Parents originally used by Marston were a commercial Michigan adapted yellow dent corn and an unadapted but borer resistant variety obtained from South America and known as maize amargo. The latter was tough stalked, but the grain was merely "tough" to look at, says Marston.

Although Michigan's infestation of corn borers is becoming more uniform within the principal corn producing counties, in some of the last 10 years borers have not been sufficiently numerous to make real tests. So science put the corn to the test by placing borer moths on the stocks under cloth cages. The borer resistant corn had but one-fourth as many borers on a stalk and showed far less damage from rotted and fallen stalks.

"Preliminary investigations by S. T. Dexter, also in the farm crops department at Michigan State College, indicates stalks from resistant strains are less porous, contain less air space and have greater density," Marston told the agronomists. "This characteristic is to be investigated at East Lansing."

E. E. Down, plant breeder in the college farm crops department, also presented a paper before the agronomy society. His technical subject was "Influence of Varietal Competition on Yields of Nursery Plots of Wheat and Barley."

Contents of Malleable Iron

Malleable iron contains from 1.5 to 2.0 per cent carbon and is cast iron that has received a heat treatment for a week or more, which changes the form of the carbon, making it tough and capable of withstanding considerable twisting and bending. It can not be welded successfully, but is easily and satisfactorily brazed with torch. It is used extensively in farm equipment as well as for pipe fittings, harness hardware, etc. A broken malleable casting has a smoother appearance than ordinary cast iron and bends before breaking.

THE WORLD'S FINEST MOTOR OIL

GULFPRIDE'S achievements have never been duplicated by any other motor oil!

The reason? GULFPRIDE alone is made from choice Pennsylvania crude . . . refined first to equal the best competitive motor oils . . . and then further refined by Gulf's exclusive Alchlor process. It took 15 years' research to develop this amazing oil. Such scientific effort backs each Gulf product.

Edward F. Corpron was born in Belmont, Ont., 85 years ago. In 1870 he married Miss Mary Tibbits and more than a half century ago they came to Michigan, settling at Capac. Later they moved to Huron county where Mr. Corpron worked at his trade as a blacksmith in Caseville, Kinde and Pinebog. After the death of his wife, nine years ago, he went to Caro to make his home with his daughter.

For 64 years he has been a Mason and he has held a life membership in the Masonic lodge at Caseville for several years. He was a member of the M. E. church. Face Veils for Brides As the tradition of the face veil is that a maiden is too shy to face the world unveiled before she is a married woman, it is at the conclusion of the wedding ceremony that it is removed or rearranged. This is done by the maid of honor when she gives her bouquet back to the bride.

Shakespeare of Music
