COUNCIL CALLS A SPECIAL ELECTION

Cass City to Vote on Bond Issue to Build Village Sewer System.

ANTICIPATE FEDERAL GRANT FOR PROJECT

The Cass City Council at its meeting Monday evening took the first steps necessary to bond the village for the construction of a sanitary sewer and sewage disposal plant when the trustees voted to authorize a special election for Monday, May 10. A legal notice to that effect is printed in this number of the Chronicle.

Believing that approximately $75,000 may be obtained by grant from the federal government to construct the sewer system with its disposal plant here, the council estimates that it will be necessary to raise $14,000 by a bond issue to complete the entire project estimated to cost $89,000.

Work on the sewer system was started last fall when a part of the project was accepted and money provided by the federal government. This financed the construction of the main branch extending from Main Street south along the railroad to the outlet of the system at Cass River, a mile south of town. The federal government appropriated $18,400, a greater part in WPA labor, to complete this portion of the system and the village's share of the cost was estimated at $4,600. Work on this branch is now in progress.

The trustees believe that the federal government will appropriate $75,000 toward the entire project providing local citizens show a disposition to raise $14,000 by a bond issue and it is for the purpose of guaranteeing this sum of $14,000 for the project that the special election has been called.

The proposed system with its branches, village officials state, would make a complete coverage of the village, placing all dwellings within reach for connections with the sewer.

The village's bonded indebtedness at the present time is but $5,000 on pavement bonds. These are being retired at the rate of $1,000 a year.

The proposition to be submitted at the special election on May 10 will read substantially as follows: "Shall the Village of Cass City borrow the sum of $14,000 and issue the bonds of the village therefor for the purpose of constructing a sanitary sewer system and sewage disposal plant?"

29 Farmer-Sportsmen Hunting Clubs Are Now Functioning Under Williamson Plan

Twenty-nine farmer-sportsmen hunting clubs now functioning in southern Michigan under the Williamson plan of game management are in a position to receive direct-service benefits under the state's new $50,000 farm-game program.

Conservation department representatives are to be in the field shortly to assist all existing groups in developing present organization set-ups or in extending their purpose to include planting of cover and food-producing shrubs and strengthening farmer-hunter relationships.

The 29 "Williamson-plan" organizations have been using the ticket plan by which the farmer members exercise direct control over who hunts on their land as well as the numbers of hunters allowed the hunting privileges. The clubs embrace an area of 461,120 acres, averaging 13,973 acres per club. They are functioning in Sanilac, Ionia, Ingham, Saginaw, Clinton, Kent, Lapeer, Calhoun, Jackson, Shiawassee, St. Clair, Ottawa and Tuscola Counties.

VASSAR YOUNG MAN FATALLY INJURED

Walter Strange Died of Injuries Received in Auto Collision Saturday.

ACCIDENT OCCURRED DURING HEAVY RAIN STORM

Walter Strange, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Strange, of Vassar, was fatally injured in an automobile collision Saturday evening and passed away while being taken to a hospital at Saginaw.

The accident occurred near the Hilltop Gardens bowling alley, on M-24, in Vassar about 7:45 p. m. Saturday, during a heavy rain. James Seney, accompanied by two young men, Eldon Taylor and Francis Garlick, all of Vassar, were driving west on M-24 when Seney reached up to adjust the windshield wiper on his car. Gazing ahead directly afterwards, he noticed a car but a few feet ahead of him. He slammed on the brakes, he told officers, to avoid an accident. The brakes took hold unevenly and swung the car to the left side of the road, directly in front of an automobile driven by Walter Strange coming into Vassar from the west. With Strange were his brother, Norman, and Clarence Heinlein, Jr., both of Vassar.

All occupants of the two cars were severely bruised and cut in the accident but none were seriously injured except Walter Strange. He was taken to the office of Dr. Renner in Vassar and then started for a hospital in Saginaw. He died on the way.

Travel Adviser Will Take His Own Advice This Time

R. A. McNamee, who has been handing out travel information, travel tickets and tourist literature for many years as agent for the Grand Trunk Railway, is going to experience the pleasure of wanderlust next week when he embarks as a passenger on the Santa Fe System and "railroads" down to Ash Fork, Arizona. Harold G. McNamee and Mrs. R. A. McNamee will leave this Saturday on their motor trip to Arizona and R. A. McNamee will leave for the South a week later. R. A. McNamee expects to be free for ten days at least from such inquiries as "Will the 10:30 be on time today?" and "Is the express in?" and "Any freight for me on that last train?"

Mrs. McNamee will accompany her husband to their home in Cass City on his return trip which will be made by rail.

MUSIC FESTIVAL OF HIGH SCHOOLS HERE

Thumb Festival to Be Divided Between Elkton and Cass City in 1938.

FRIDAY'S EVENT DREW CAPACITY AUDIENCES

Programs at the Thumb Music Festivals held at Elkton each spring have been quite long and the one which was held there Friday was especially so with 10 high school bands participating in the evening event. Two organizations that wished to enter the festival this year were turned down because of the crowded program. To avoid this condition and to lend encouragement to new organizations to participate, it was decided Friday afternoon at a meeting of superintendents of the participating schools and the conductors of the various bands and orchestras to divide the festival on geographic lines. Next year all Huron County schools will gather at Elkton with Earl S. Eidt as manager, and Tuscola and Sanilac County schools will meet at Cass City under the management of J. Ivan Niergarth, superintendent of schools here.

Capacity audiences packed the auditorium of Elkton High School Friday afternoon and evening to hear six orchestras and 10 bands, composed of 600 musicians representing 12 Thumb high schools, participate in the fifth annual Thumb Music Festival.

Orchestras that made their appearance at the afternoon program and their leaders are as follows: Unionville, T. H. Campbell; Deckerville, John K. Mitchell; Fairgrove, directed by T. H. Campbell; Harbor Beach, George D. Miller; and Se-Turn to page 5, please.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a long sleeved gown of white hammered satin fashioned on princess lines. Village Council Asks Automobile Drivers to Eliminate Double Parking on Streets

The village council discussed the parking problem at its meeting on Monday evening and will make an endeavor to better the method of parking automobiles and trucks on Main Street this spring.

It has come to the ears of the village trustees that many automobile drivers and their passengers have been quite thoroughly vexed over the double parking methods which have prevailed here in spite of regulations which strictly forbid such a practice. Naturally the parties provoked are those who place their cars next to the curb in the approved method and then have their motor vehicles kept there an hour or longer after the owners are ready to depart for home because other automobiles are placed directly behind their machines.

It is hard for village authorities to understand why an automobile owner will drive six to a dozen blocks to find a parking place in Saginaw or Flint, but finds three blocks from what he considers a choice location so great an inconvenience in a village.

OFFER SIGNS FOR ALL COUNTY ROADS

Detroit Edison Would Erect Them if Supervisors Will Name Highways.

RECOMMEND SIX MILL TAX FOR COUNTY FUND

The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors went on record, in their April session last week, as being opposed to the plan to change the number of U. S. Supreme Court justices without a referendum of the states for their approval or rejection of such a plan. The county clerk was authorized to inform each of the U. S. senators from Michigan and the representative of the seventh congressional district of the position of the supervisors.

C. L. Bougher, branch manager of the Detroit Edison Company, informed the supervisors that his company would furnish and erect road signs for all roads of the county without cost to the county if supervisors by some means or method would furnish the company with the names of the roads. The offer was accepted and the roads and bridges committee was authorized to name the roads.

The ways and means committee recommended a six mill tax for county purposes for the coming year.

Sheriff George Jeffrey had the allowance for prisoners' meals raised to 23 cents per meal. When necessary to employ more than one deputy for full time work out of the office, the deputy so designated by the sheriff is granted a salary of $105 a month, the same compensation as paid the present full time deputy. The sheriff was authorized to collect unpaid dog taxes any time after June 1.

Supervisors Keinath, MacFarlane and Hutchinson were appointed to act with Fred Mathews, chairman of the board, as a hospital and medical committee.

The 1936 weight and gas tax to be apportioned to Tuscola County communities totals $150,687.02. Of this amount, 50%, or $75,343.96 goes to the county road fund for general highway purposes, and the remainder, after $2,375 is paid for township bonds and interest, is apportioned to the villages and the county as a whole in proportion to the population at the rate of $2.156118 for each person. The following table gives the apportionments:

This is the fourth payment on segregated assets to be made by this bank since its opening after reorganization on June 26, 1933.

able blame for crowded conditions on Main Street to some local business people and their employees. Village Clerk C. M. Wallace has been selected by the village council to interview business people and ask them to park their machines in alleys back of their stores or on side streets to relieve Main Street congestion. The council is looking forward to cooperation from all, in a spirit of fair play, to improve traffic conditions and make motoring less dangerous in Cass City.

A committee has been appointed by Village President E. B. Schwaderer to consider making a parking place on the lot east of the Dupuis store.

Village authorities urge in this program for better parking that automobile drivers park their machines facing the sidewalk on side streets and at an angle on Main Street. Quite often an automobile is parked so that it takes up the room which might well be occupied by three vehicles.

IF PRICES GO TOO HIGH.

President Roosevelt recently indicated his belief that prices of certain raw materials in the "durable goods" field, such as steel and copper, are going too high. He thinks that public money should now be spent on projects calling for less of such material.

What can or shall the government do about prices, if they go too high? Some will say the government should fix prices, and not allow them to go above a certain level. If they fix prices at a level that will permit the most efficient manufacturer to make a little money, the less efficient producers may have to do business at a loss, so that he stops work. If they fix prices right for the less efficient producer, the highly efficient one may get rich too fast.

There are demands at times that the government fix the prices on farm products. If they fix such prices at a point that will satisfy the farmer, the consumer is likely to raise a mighty howl. If the consumer is satisfied, the farmer may lose money.

Free competition is the way such problems have usually been regulated in the past. If too high prices exist in any trade, so many people rush in to make those products, that their competition tends to keep prices down. There is the chance that they may agree on prices, and keep them up above a fair level. Such action at present is risky, since it is usually against the anti-trust laws, and it tends to create new competitors who are willing to sell for more reasonable prices.

Excessively short hours of labor raise prices unduly. If the factory hours are so short that production is expensive, the prices will be high. People must be willing to work long enough so that goods can be supplied at prices within their reach.

CAN THE PEDESTRIAN SURVIVE?

A meeting recently held at Providence, R. I., organized the National Pedestrians' Association. There were speeches and discussions as to how pedestrians can live and escape accidents in this age when the streets are filled with fast moving cars.

One speaker remarked that if pedestrians over 50 years of age could be kept in bed after dark, half the problem would be solved. But these elderly pedestrians are not the only ones who are in peril.

Most people are short minded at times, and cross streets without looking to see if cars are coming. On the other hand, we have the feeling among automobile drivers, that if a pedestrian fails to use perfect care in crossing a street, he and not the driver is to blame if there is an accident.

The degree of caution which created reasonable safety 20 years ago is not sufficient today. The cars are being driven at speeds which would not have been tolerated at the earlier period. The drivers become used to these speeds, and fail to realize how fast they are going. They come down through thickly settled towns as fast today as they used to drive 20 years ago in the open country. A slow moving person fails to realize that his speed is not sufficient to cross the street in time.

Absent mindedness did no great harm in the quiet horse and buggy days. A dreamy person could take his own time about crossing the street. If he still retains that habit, woe be him. People of that type must realize that the world has been revolutionized since they came on the scene, and if they wish to remain in that world and retain use of their members, they must change their ways.

If a man constantly spends more than he earns or receives, people call him a spendthrift. Similarly if a town buys more from the outside world than it sells outside, it can be called a spendthrift town.

SPRING FEVER.

About this time, if you feel restless and languid, eager to get out doors and wander in the fields and woodlands, it is customary to say you have "spring fever." The industrious old timers may say that is just a fancy name for plain laziness, that if you enjoyed your daily labors as you should, you would have no such futile longings.

Perhaps this restless feeling is just a natural revolt of modern man from the restrictions of the industry of today. Our business systems require certain definite and fixed hours of labor. Primitive peoples were not held down to that fixed drill and would never have stood for it. If people had tried to pen them up in a shop eight hours a day, many of them would have said they preferred to go hungry.

Perhaps we inherit a trace of that old feeling. It is natural enough, yet it does not help pay the grocer's bills or buy gasoline for the car.

TRAINING FOR PUBLIC OFFICE.

Women's clubs are advocating the establishment of a national academy of public affairs, which should train young people to hold public office, and eliminate the spoils system. This plan may seem too idealistic for this hard boiled age, but sooner or later the American people will demand such a system.

They will not always tolerate the idea that offices should be given out as a political reward. A man does not expect to become boss of a factory because he is a Republican or a Democrat. Why should he be appointed to the equally important government post for such a reason?

FEMININE AMBITIONS.

A poll taken of the desires of the senior girl students of the college of New Rochell, N. Y., as reported in the New York Times, showed that the first ambition of these girls is to get a job. Yet these young ladies reported that matrimony is their favorite profession.

The average young woman values the married woman's life above all else, but the first thing in her mind is to find means for self support. She differs on the young woman of a generation or two ago, whose first ambition was to hunt a husband. The modern girl feels she can not find a husband under favorable auspices, unless she has an independent means of support which permits her to pick and choose.

The business of a city can not prosper, if a considerable portion of the people refuse to patronize that business. You can't expect the stores to put in abundant stocks, and put low prices on the same, unless they get the patronage of their home town folks.

SPRING BACKACHE.

About now look for many men to complain of the backache. They got it spading up the garden, or rooting out dead leaves. If they had incurred an equal amount of suffering while playing ball at a picnic, they would never have mentioned it. But some men like an excuse for not proceeding more actively to clean up and beautify the home grounds.

The boys also, suffer from backache if asked to rake up the lawn. They would not probably say much about their pains if they were incurred in improving the baseball diamond.

When people get the backache, it is a sign that their muscles have not been sufficiently exercised. If they had shrunk less from active labor in past years, they would not have to pay this penalty now.

Clipped Comment

It Goes for Anyone.

When the Bad Axe Lions voted to donate a trained nurse for a week to the Dunlap triplets in Cass City, Russell Paynter announced that the club would do likewise for anyone else having triplets in this vicinity. They will even go farther than this. Quoting Mr. Paynter: "If anyone has quadruplets, we will donate a trained nurse two weeks; in the case of quintuplets, we will donate one for three weeks; and if anyone breaks the record, we will provide them with a trained nurse indefinitely.—Bad Axe Tribune.

Why?

If you have never worked in a factory for eight or ten hours a day, and sweated over a hot ladle of molten lead, for 27 cents an hour or some such figure, only to find out on your appearance at the corner grocery that milk had raised a cent a quart, you wouldn't know why men go on strikes. On the other hand, if you have never toiled incessantly over a plow, your back bent with hard labor, your eyes filled with the good earth, and the smell of sweat reeking in the air, which also carries the tang of good horseflesh or the odor of gasoline, or tractor exhaust fumes, only to find that wheat had dropped another dime a bushel and the mortgage was due tomorrow, you wouldn't know why farmers want to oust the sit-down strikers.

And if you have never toiled far into the wee hours of the night over the keyboard of a balky linotype, pounding out the news of the week for the world to read only to have the back subscriber come in and kick because his paper was delivered in his neighbor's mail box, you wouldn't know why editors get gray headed.—Deererville Recorder.

Ever Borrow a Circular?

Your local paper has at least five readers for every copy sent out. Does a circular have that many? Are one-third of the circulars sent out ever read? If you think so, watch someone distributing them and see how many are glanced over and then thrown away. Or spend a little time at the post office and see how many mailed circulars are dropped into the waste basket. You'd be surprised. And who ever heard of a circular being borrowed?—Sebewaing Blade.

by a New kind of ZINC Coating

A NEWLY perfected electrolytic process known as bethanizing applies a zinc coating to bethanized fence that in its entire thickness is 99.99 per cent pure zinc, the purest ever applied to wire.

Free from the embrittling, rust-inviting iron contamination and other impurities unavoidable in older zinc-coating processes, the bethanized coating has remarkably high resistance to the weather. It is also so ductile and tightly bonded to the steel base that there is no loss of protective value from the wrapping at the joints in weaving. It affords the same heavy protection here as on the unbent wire.

Yet bethanized fence costs no more. While bringing greater value and longer fence life it sells for usual fence prices. Ask to see this new, better-protected fence.

Just received a carload of this fencing. Also have very good prices on spools of Barb Wire.

GAGETOWN

Death of Early Pioneer—

Complications due to old age are given as the cause of death of Richard Burdon, who passed away at his son's home in Brookfield Township on Saturday, April 17, at the age of 90 years. He had been in failing health for a year and seriously ill for two weeks.

Born near London, Ontario, he came to Tuscola County in 1865 and two years later homesteaded land in Brookfield Township, Huron County. During his residence here, he was engaged as lumberman, grocer and farmer, held the position as a member of the board of directors of the State Savings Bank of Gagetown, and held several public offices in Huron and Tuscola Counties. He married Miss Martha Calley on July 24, 1871. Since Mrs. Burdon's death on July 24, 1935, he has made his home with his three children.

Lansing—Despite the recent freak blizzard, spring fever is in the air and Michigan legislators are getting restless. Adjournment of the present session is scheduled from May 14 to June 1.

There is much work to be done, and it seems inevitable that the publicized "speed-up" of the automobile industry will have to be applied soon to Lansing's lawmaking assembly.

The 800 proposed laws include civil service, labor relations, tax revision, general appropriations to state institutions, liquor law changes, and a flock of state aid measures to benefit schools, libraries, junior colleges, township roads, and so on.

Long sessions are in sight.

Educational Aid

Generous state aid for Michigan's public schools is sought by the Michigan Education Association, sponsoring bills to increase the present annual grant from $38,000,000 to $45,000,000.

An inkling to the attitude of the house of representatives was given recently by Rep. M. Clyde Stout (D) of Ionia, chairman of the ways and means committee. Stout declared that the state lacked funds to provide $7,000,000 more for schools, while also providing needed facilities for state hospitals and other depression-neglected institutions.

Minimum Wages

Governor Murphy's "Little New Deal" for Michigan has experienced rough riding. First it ran into a blockade of sit-down strikes in automobile factories. Peaceful settlements ended costly warfare in which labor obtained a moral victory of union recognition to bargain collectively for members of the union—exactly what Knudson and Chrysler had said they were willing to do at the beginning.

With the strikes out of the way, Murphy was just getting his breath when the United States supreme court upheld the right of a state government to fix minimum wages, maximum hours, commodity prices and otherwise regulate business and industry and the right of the federal government to enforce collective bargaining in business engaged in interstate commerce. Like an injection of adrenaline, the court decisions put new life into Murphy's "New Deal."

Manufacturers Approve

Michigan manufacturers have endorsed minimum wage laws for women and children. A bill by Rep. Charles W. Snow, Jr., of Jackson would empower the state labor department to determine fair living wages and minimum standards for women and children. Affected by such legislation would be beer garden waitresses and night club hostesses. A similar bill by Senator Joseph Roosevelt (D) of Detroit has been approved by the Michigan Manufacturers' Association.

The question of sex equality has been raised in Washington, D. C., where employers announce that men will be employed instead of women if minimum wages are equalized by statute for both men and women.

Michigan "NRA"

Governor Murphy's attitude on state regulation of industry through a local "NRA" is revealed in press interviews in which he says that the legislature will be asked to enact laws:

1. Setting minimum wages for both men and women.
2. Requiring collective bargaining.
3. Eliminating espionage, discrimination and company unions.
4. Liberalizing occupational disease compensation.

Bills are to be drawn by Prof. E. Blythe Stason, University of Michigan, and Edward G. Kefp, the governor's legal adviser.

Conservatives

The prospect of "radical" legislation such as collective bargaining and minimum wages has been pool-pooled by several conservative members of the senate and house. One prominent member has been confiding to his constituents that the senate will be the real guardian of the people's rights in warding off "radical" laws. Rep. Philip Rahoi (D) of Iron Mountain countered last week with a constitutional amendment to abolish the senate outright and let the house function as a unicameral legislature. Rahoi's bill itself is classified "radical," although Governor Murphy has said that a unicameral legislature was very efficient in the Philippines.

In short, it raises the old question: "What is radical?" Times change, so do social attitudes.

Tax Sale in 1938

Delinquent taxes for 1935 and subsequent years may be paid without penalty by installment payments spread over 10 years providing that the 1936 tax bill has been paid in full. A tax sale would be held in May, 1938.

Such is provided in the Brown-Berka bill which has been passed by the house and is seemingly assured of passage in the senate. The moratorium on mortgage foreclosures has been extended to March 1, 1939.

Legislators are convinced that a sale on delinquent property is imperative, if local governments are ever to clean up the present tax mess.

House Bills in Senate

Minimum age for old age pensions reduced from 70 to 65. Municipal refunding bonds subjected to approval of public debt commission.

"Freezing" prices of trade mark products to prevent price cutting by chains.

Any political subdivision may own and operate light and power plants.

Compensation of township officers and county supervisors increased from $4 to $5 a day.

Costs and fines collected by justice courts to be turned over to county treasurer for distribution.

Gambling on dog races.

Hit-and-run drivers guilty of felony.

Township boards to provide fire fighting apparatus through special assessment.

Hospital for insane in Wayne County; another bill would provide institution in Schoolcraft County for feeble minded.

Senate Bills in House

Civil service for state employees. Secret primary ballot.

Driving while under influence of liquor is felony.

Sale of prison-made goods permitted to counties or political subdivision of Michigan.

Repealing present exemptions for teachers in colleges, ministers, certain railroad employees, members of National Guard, physicians and dentists from service as jurors.

Filing of liens on unharvested crops with register of deeds instead of township or city clerk.

IRON

ELECTRICALLY OPERATED ironing machines have now proven that they will iron any and all types and kinds of garments and that they will do it for you and you will not have to do it for the ironers.

THE IRONER is now a very much accepted appliance and performing each week, the job of ironing for people in one hour what it took previously many hours to do—yes, electrically operated ironers do the work in one-third of the time and do it well and remove all of the previous hardships of standing on one's feet, breaking of one's back, for when you operate an electrically operated ironing machine, you sit down in comfort.

ASK ANYONE who now owns and operates one of these time savers. They will tell you that they do not mind ironing day at all, that they not only save time, but they enjoy ironing. Electric ironers are not expensive to buy nor expensive to use. Your dealers display them and you will find them anxious to explain, or you are invited to visit one of our stores.

have been drafted into a new expanded farm-game program which the game staff of the department of conservation is instructed to carry out under the $50,000 appropriation.

"The whole purpose of course is to give the sportsmen in the intensively-hunted agricultural areas of southern Michigan the much needed 'new deal' in small-game hunting," Dr. Bradt said. "This can be done only by improving conditions wherever possible not only for the sportsmen but also the farmer."

KAPPLER IS OLDEST COURT OFFICER IN STATE

Philip Kappler, early pioneer of Huron County and believed to be the oldest court officer in the state, 90 years old Saturday, April 10, was guest of honor at the regular meeting of the Bad Axe Community Club in Hotel Irwin Wednesday noon.

Born in Canada, Mr. Kappler came to Verona Mills in 1866 and worked in the saw mill of Jeremiah Ludington. While serving as sawyer in the mill he cut planks which won first prize at the Centennial held in Philadelphia in 1876. The aged pioneer related recently that the log from which the planks were sawed was so large that the roof of the mill was raised to allow it to enter through the skidway.

Mr. Kappler helped to build the court house where he now serves as court officer. In 1873 he helped Septimus Irwin, original settler of Bad Axe, erect the first building in Bad Axe. He has been a member of Verona Lodge No. 356, F. & A. M., many years and has held offices in his lodge. He is a member of the Bad Axe Presbyterian Church. —Huron County Tribune.

Bulk of Drivers' Licenses to Expire

On the heels of his recent announcement of a drive by police of Michigan against unlicensed operators of motor vehicles, Leon D. Case, secretary of state, points out that nearly 700,000 such licenses will expire during the next nine months. The exact figure is 688,434.

Licenses cost $1 and are good for three years. They are issued as provided in the Uniform Operators' and Chauffeurs' Act of 1931, the result being that every third year following that date, the bulk of operators' licenses expire.

Secretary Chase points out that a driver whose license has expired, is no different, in the eyes of the law, than one who never had a license at all, and that the only way to make certain of an operator's license, is for everyone to check his own expiration date at once. It is printed on every license.

All applications for operators' licenses must be approved by the chief of police if the applicant lives in a city or village having a chief of police, or by the sheriff, if the applicant lives elsewhere.

HERE AND THERE AROUND THE THUMB

Concluded from first page.
The chimney was built in 1907 for the old Sebewaing Lumber and Manufacturing Company, which operated a lumber mill for many years. The building was purchased by the dairy company a year ago for the storage of powdered milk and supplies. For many years the old chimney has been used by hundreds of chimney swifts as a summer rookery.—Blade.

Plans for the dedication of the new Huron County Home, nearing completion on M-53, one and one-half miles west of Bad Axe, were discussed at a meeting of the board of supervisors recently. The building committee, headed by Blythe Kellerman, Oliver, was authorized to proceed with plans for the program of the event. The board will also have a dinner to celebrate the completion soon. An appropriation of $1,200 to equip an operating room at the infirmary was voted.

WYOMING TOWN HAS LOWEST WIND TITLE

Curious Data Collected by U. S. Writers' Project.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Workers on the federal writers' project in Wyoming have unearthed many unusual facts about the state during their research. Most interesting among them are:

The town of Lander has the distinction of having the lowest wind velocity of any region in the United States, while the Sheridan district is second.

The original postmaster at the Banner postoffice lived at the crossing of Prairie Dog creek at the foot of Massacre hill on the Bozeman trail and used a flag as his cattle brand which resulted in the office being named Banner.

Longest Mail Route.

The mail route established in 1878 from Rock Creek to Etcheta, Mont., is believed to be the longest star route ever established and operated in the United States. It extended 500 miles and the mail was carried in pockets of the carriers on horseback.

Mrs. Susan Wissler, who was elected mayor of Dayton in 1911, is said to be the first woman in the nation to hold such an office.

It is a matter of record that whisky, diluted with water, was sold by early traders at $15 a gallon wholesale.

Laramie has the largest natural icing plant in the United States. It ices entire trains with an average of two and one-half minutes a car.

Teapot Dome on Records.

Teapot Dome is further distinguished by the fact that it contributed the largest well of flush production ever drilled in the state. Measurements of the stream that ran away from the well showed a flow of 28,000 barrels a day which subsided within a month to 100.

William K. Sloan asserts that the toll bridge across the North Platte river, 20 miles west of Fort Laramie, took in $40,000 in tolls during the season of 1853.

A controversy resulted in two spots being marked as the site of the Wagon Box fight. The two spots are less than one-fourth of a mile apart, but one is in Johnson county and the other in Sheridan county.

English Steam Train Shatters Speed Record

London.—A record was claimed to have been shattered on the London, Midland and Scottish railroad's London-Glasgow line. A special test train, weighing 275 tons and hauled by the Princess Elizabeth, a steam locomotive, covered 40 1/2 miles in 5 hours 53 minutes, at an average of 68.2 miles an hour.

The highest speed attained on the longest nonstop run ever made by a steam train was 95.75 miles an hour over a measured mile. For 372 miles the train averaged 70 miles an hour.

Leaving London at 9:50 a. m. the flyer pulled into Glasgow at 3:43 p. m., 7 minutes ahead of schedule, slicing nearly 2 hours from the best time-table performance. The equipment used is the same as that used in the ordinary express service, and is not streamlined.

White of Egg Is Used to Treat Hemophilia

London.—Success in the control of a hemophilic hemorrhage by a white of egg preparation was announced in the medical magazine "Lancet" by Dr. W. A. Temperley and Professors A. E. Naisn and G. A. Clark.

It was emphasized that the treatment is not a cure. It consists of injections of gel, prepared from an egg white incubated at 37 degrees centigrade for several days in the presence of potassium bromide. After testing the serum on cats, Dr. Temperley gave himself injections and found that the substance was not poisonous.

The article in "Lancet" emphasized the treatment "merely was for the control of a hemorrhage and to ameliorate the patient's general condition." To do this, repeated injections are necessary, it said.

Cow, Calf and Ax Paid Indians for 38 Acres

Brewster, Mass.—Land was cheap in the Puritan days, records reveal. John Freeman, of Brewster, has a deed which shows that his ancestors paid the Indians only "one cow and divers other considerations including one calf and an ax" for thirty-eight acres on Cape Cod.

The deed, executed July 26, 1672, hangs in the Freeman home. The location of the land is not known, but it is believed to be either in Brewster or Harwich, then called Satucket.

The marks of Sathemus, sachem of the Saquatukett tribe, and two other Indians and the signatures of two Eastham men are still legible. Governor Thomas Prince, of "New Plymouth," was real estate agent for the transaction, the deed indicates.

Obliging Prisoner

Mrs. Margaret MacDougal, matron of honor, wore a redingote dress of romance chiffon, with pink insertion. Mrs. Daphne Adkin, bridesmaid, sister-in-law of the bride, wore aqua marine net over aqua-marine taffeta. Both ladies wore head pieces of net and flowers and carried arm bouquets of snapdragons and roses.

The best man was Alex MacDougal and the groomsmen were William Adkin, brother of the bride.

The guests were seated by James McNeilly, Charles Wilson, Daniel McLachlan and William McLachlan.

Mrs. Adkin wore lavender lace and crepe with grey accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of orchid sweet peas and talisman roses. Mrs. MacTavish wore black lace and crepe with matching accessories and a corsage the same as Mrs. Adkin's.

The wedding dinner was served at the Odd Fellow's Hall in Wyandotte. The seventy-five guests were seated at a long U-shaped table, centered with a beautiful wedding cake, made by the bride's mother and sister and decorated by the bride herself.

Following the dinner, a reception was given at the hall for about 150 relatives and friends. The guests enjoyed a program of modern and old time dancing. Special numbers, including "The Sword Dance," "The Highland Fling" and "The Irish Jig" were given in costume by Jean MacDougal and the McClelland sisters. Jean also did "The Sailor's Horn Pipe." Donald McClelland played the bag pipes for all four numbers.

Mrs. MacTavish was graduated from River Rouge High School in 1932. She is employed in the offices of Delray Industrial Hospital. Mr. MacTavish graduated from the Cass City High School in 1928. He is employed at Great Lakes Steel Corporation.

After April 24, the young couple will be at home to their friends at the Lafayette Manor, 810 Beard Street, Detroit.

Two selections were offered then under the baton of Dr. Norton, who later made note of the defects and offered constructive criticism.

The band portion of the program began at 7:00 p. m. with ten bands playing two numbers each. The bands, in order of appearance, together with their directors were: Sebewaing, A. E. Schiewe; Crosswell, John K. Mitchell; Caro, R. J. Hill; Cass City, Robert B. Clayton; Harbor Beach, Charles Klein-knacht; Bad Axe, John K. Mitchell; Kingston-Fairgrove, T. H. An all-district band, composed of 96 pieces, played two selections under the direction of Dr. Norton, bringing the evening's concert to a close. The entire affair was under the management of Earl S. Red Coral Always Prized

It is red coral that is and always has been prized, not solely for jewelry and buttons, but as a charm to bring safety, health and secrets not revealed to the ordinary person. As ancient Gauls rushed headlong into battle, they trusted their safety to their swords, strength and the "magic" coral imbedded in their shields or helmets. Many Italians and Indians regard coral as protection against the "evil eye." The world's red coral comes from the reefs off the Mediterranean coast of Africa, says the Washington Post, and is obtained chiefly by Italians.

HOW ARE YOU TODAY

DR. JAMES W. BARTON

Talks About

The Liver and Wakefulness.

I OFTEN speak about the liver—the king of the organs—because of the great amount and the importance of its daily work. It does more different jobs than any other organ and has to do them in such a big or wholesale manner. Of course the heart which is only a few ounces compared to the liver's six pounds in weight has the important job of pumping the blood but that is its whole job.

The little glands, pituitary at base of brain, thyroid in the neck, adrenal situated one on top of each kidney, have most important jobs yet weigh scarcely anything, but the liver carries on despite the various forms of damage that occur to it. In fact, as mentioned before, practically two of every three persons have some irritation or inflammation of liver and gall bladder and yet perhaps only one in a hundred has real trouble.

Recent investigations would seem to show that the liver has a regular routine or system of performing two of its important jobs, that is the storing away of glycogen (sugar) for future use, and the manufacture of bile to assist digestion and stimulate bowel action.

Glycogen and Bile.

"It appears that in man there is probably in the liver the greatest amount of bile being manufactured when the least amount of glycogen is being stored, and the greatest amount of glycogen is being stored when least bile is being manufactured. According to research workers the least glycogen is being manufactured at noon and the most after midnight. While taking food may affect this routine to some extent, nevertheless this general rule is maintained."

These facts are of interest to physicians treating diabetic patients

This fact of the daily routine of the liver in storing its largest amount of glycogen at night—about eight hours after the evening meal—is thought to be the cause of sleeplessness or wakefulness about two o'clock in the morning in certain individuals. Eating their large meal of starchy and fat foods—potatoes, bread, sugar, sweets, puddings, cream—at the noon hour instead of at six o'clock might be of some help, but would certainly not tend to keep them alert for mental work in the afternoons.

Three Kinds of Overweight.

I sometimes think that most of us are just a little too severe in criticizing those who are overweight. While practically every case can remove some fat by cutting down on food, nevertheless there are some overweighters who honestly try to reduce in this way, with results that, to them at least, are disappointing.

In justice to overweighters it must be stated that the great majority of them inherit the tendency to overweight. Close questioning by the physician usually brings out the fact that if neither the father nor the mother were overweight, one of the grandparents or an uncle or aunt carried many excess pounds. Dr. C. G. Lambie in the British Lancet tells us that some 70 per cent of overweighters have overweight parents, so even where the parents were not overweight, the tendency to overweight is likely present in a goodly number of other cases.

Dr. Lambie puts overweight into three classes: (a) developmental (natural or inherited tendency), (b) metabolic (where the body processes work slowly and allow fat to accumulate instead of burning it up), and (c) nutritional (where more food is eaten than the body needs).

"The energy requirement of the body is the amount of energy needed to keep the body processes going, to supply energy for muscular work—walking, playing, working—and to cover the dynamic action of food. If these three needs are taken care of, and still there is food unused then this will be stored up in the body as fat."

It is estimated that from 70 to 80 per cent of all the food eaten is used by the body just to keep its processes going properly; that only about 20 to 30 per cent is needed for the work the body does with the muscles in doing our daily work.

Thus a man of average weight and height, 150 pounds, 5 feet 7 inches tall, in doing an hour's walk covering 2½ miles would require only about a slice of bread to supply the needed energy for the walk.

Thus if walking does not demand a great amount of energy because the body is always on the ground, nevertheless if so much food is needed by the body every day a very considerable amount of this food or fuel is used by the body processes even if the individual is lying quietly in bed.

However, when real hard work is done such as outdoor digging, handling ice, coal, or other heavy materials, eight or more hours a day, then a great amount of food is needed—just twice as much as if this individual were lying quietly in bed.

Cost of Crops Fixes Profits

Proof that Michigan agriculture can be an industry run on a businesslike basis is found in cost records kept by 87 sugar beet growers in Michigan.

Some of these growers obviously lost money in producing sugar beets while others can prove with definite figures that they are operating efficiently and at a profit. Summaries of the cost records were compiled by the farm management department at Michigan State College to serve as a guide not only to other sugar beet growers but as an indication to the grower of any cash crop that cost of production figures are a necessity.

Yields for an acre, cost of hand labor, cost of machine labor, other costs of production and cost of getting the product to market all influence the possibility of profit on any crop.

Some of the sugar beet growers ranged as low as six tons to the acre and the total cost for a ton of beets was $8. Most of these men in 1936 received total payments of $6.75 a ton so they lacked $7.40 an acre of meeting expenses. Growers who averaged 10.2 tons an acre had an average net return of $16.73 an acre to pay them for their efforts and management. In the top third, growers delivered 14.3 tons from each acre. Their costs averaged $4.14 a ton and they had $37.32 net return to the acre.

K. T. Wright and H. B. Taylor of the farm management department at the college have agreed that these cost of production factors should be studied by any Michigan farmer producing a cash crop.

One of the recommendations that fits recent findings of the farm crops department is found in the fact that the average grower who planted in row widths under 24 inches got 12.7 tons of beets at a cost of $3.47 a ton while those who planted in rows wider than 24 inches averaged 9.7 tons to the acre and their beets cost $4.23 a ton to produce.

4-H Club Names Project Winners

Tuscola County.

Elma Bushong, Akron, clothing (advanced projects), honor roll, and clothing, 4-H scholarship award.

George Sayers, Caro, 4-H pig club, 4-H scholarship award.

Paul Vollman, Caro, sheep club, 4-H scholarship award.

Blaine Smith, Fairgrove, 3rd year handicraft, honor roll.

Genevieve Reid, Kingston, 2nd year dairy, honor roll.

William Heckroth, Unionville, 1st year dairy, honor roll.

Sanilac County.

LaVern Ordish, Snover, electricity, honor roll and electricity, 4-H scholarship award.

Huron County.

Paul Laslo, Bad Axe, 2nd year handicraft, honor roll.

Scholarships in the state total 73. They are only made available by the State Board of Agriculture to be used when entering a four year course in agriculture at Michigan State College. The first year scholarship offers $50 to be allowed for fees. The second year scholarship is worth $45 to be applied against tuition.

With an increased club program this year, it is estimated the enrollment will total 40,000 boys and girls. Some of the new projects, expanded for greater interest, include conservation and wild life studies, including forestry, game protection and propagation, fire control and surveys of forest fire damage in burned over areas.

Tips Save Foods in Refrigerator

Depending upon the construction of the household refrigerator, placement of food is one of the most important points in proper food preservation.

In a mechanical refrigerator or in a "side icer" the coldest place is directly underneath the unit. In the "overhead" ice refrigerator the middle of the top shelf is the coldest as a result of the bathing currents of cold air dropping down from the ice chamber. The sides of the lower shelves receive the warmed air which is travelling back to the ice unit.

Thus, foods that are delicate and absorb odors—milk, butter, cream, meat broths and moist cooked foods should be placed in clean covered containers directly under the ice unit, suggests Miss Helen Baeder of the Michigan State College foods and nutrition department.

Leftovers and uncooked meats that have had the paper wrappers removed should have the next coldest place. Fish placed in a tightly covered vessel to prevent odors should also be kept in this compartment.

Between the coldest and warmest area come the eggs and cheese. Fruits and vegetables, however, should be placed on the warmest shelf to avoid harmful and injurious low temperatures. All foods with strong odors should be placed in the warmest place. In this way the warm air on its return to the cooling unit will deposit the odors on the ice or frost rather than on other foods that will absorb and become tainted by the odors.

The length of time necessary to leave the refrigerator door open may be reduced by placing the least used foods at the back. Temperature may also be kept down by keeping the refrigerator defrosted, or the ice chest half full.

LETTERS

From Netta Winegar Mitchell.

Exerpts from a letter to D. E. Turner of Cass City from Mr. and Mrs. Shell Mitchell and written by Mrs. Mitchell are found in the following paragraphs. Mrs. Mitchell before her marriage was Netta Winegar and spent her girlhood days in Cass City.

12 Fraser & Seabloom Block, Calgary, Alberta.

Dear Old Friend:

If you could have heard the shout that I gave when your letter reached us you would have been assured of its warm welcome.

We've enjoyed our pioneering life in Alberta. We are glad we came though we left so much behind in the old home of our earlier life. I assure you we've never forgotten a friend left there.

Lida and I often go back and live over the dreams of girlhood and we often visit Cass City as we knew it. Would we recognize the place now, do you think? I often wonder how many inhabitants does the town boast now and has it grown into the pretty town it promised to be when we were young. If we were to ask all the questions we might like to, I fear you would think it a useless task to try and answer them.

I don't know what Lida wrote you so I may repeat much that she has told you. She came to see me the other day and brought your photo for me to see. Time changes us all, Dwight. I would not have known you but the longer I studied it the more I caught a glimpse of the Dwight of years gone by. We both thought your wife had changed but not so much quite.

We left the farm 20 years ago and came to Calgary and expect to end our days here. At least as long as Reub and Lida are in Calgary, we, too, will stay. We traveled together all these years, sharing our ups and downs together. Only for that, Shell and I might be tempted to go to Vancouver, B. C., to be near or with Hazel, the younger of the two girls we reared—Maude's (our little sister as you knew her) children. She left three when she died at 25 years of age. Gene, the boy, lives in New York. Mamie, the oldest girl, is married with two children here and Hazel lives in Vancouver and has three. I think we are loved and regarded as parents and grandparents by all of them.

Mamie and her husband and Shell and I, with the two little kiddies drove by auto to Vancouver to visit Hazel and family last summer. We had a great trip. We took five and a half days to go, while only three are really required. We took our time and enjoyed every hour. There is no road over the mountains, only part way so we had to go down through the mountains into Idaho, on to Spokane and across the State of Washington and north from Seattle to Vancouver. When we left after a couple of weeks' visit, we went back east across Washington, Idaho and across Montana, through Helena and to Great Falls and from there north into Alberta, taking seven and a half days. Though we haven't yet been able to build roads and make it so nice traveling in Alberta as in the states where we had such lovely roads, we felt we did have the country that compares most favorably with anything we saw anywhere. Alberta is on the road to big things and one day will prove her worth, but I guess Shell and I will have gone on to a happier home 'ere the great day comes to Alberta and her people. We are on the way under the guiding hand of a great bunch of people who are working night and day, hand in hand, and since they are led by a great Christian man, who has the Bible for his guidebook, I think he'll succeed, though it's cruel the way the old line parties and the financiers fight him and try to blind the people. You'll read mean things of our premier, William Aberhart, and of the social credit movement but take it from me it's only more effort to discredit him through the press. You see Alberta has coal, worlds of it; oil, lots of it; timber; salt, great deposits, and tar sands. The government is fighting to save these for the Alberta people and no wonder the financier is fighting. They've had it so long their way. This Calgary is getting to be quite a city, something like Detroit was when we were there 35 or 36 years ago. Only unlike it was then in Detroit, we don't see many horses. Cars and trucks have taken their places here as elsewhere.

I was glad you mentioned Mary Striffler Benkelman. I often wondered about her. If you see her tell her I sent my very best regards to her. Tell her I often think of her and our school days and Mrs. Houghton.

If I remember rightly you and your brother, Floyd, are all that are left of your father's family. Is he living on the old farm or in Caro?

We've read a good deal of the strikes in Michigan and other places. What will it lead to I wonder. We had to keep up with the times and they staged a "sit down" strike in one of our packing plants here in Calgary but it didn't last long.

I suppose if that old log corduroy east of the cemetery has given place to a paved road, the swamp is gone too. Was the land ever made into farms or useful at all for any purpose? By the way send us a paper or two. Let us see if there's anything familiar in it for us.

Masoola, a Boat.

A masoola is a boat common on the east coast of India, adapted to be beached on the surf-beaten shore. The planks are sewed together with coir, over wads of the same material. The boats are 30 to 35 feet long and are rowed by 12 men, oars double banked, and a steersman with an oar at the stern.

Mnemonics

The word mnemonics is derived from a Greek word meaning "to remember" and is used chiefly for devices to aid the memory. Some of these take the form of rhymes, like the well known "Thirty days hath September" or "In 1492, Columbus crossed the ocean blue"; there are various other forms of mnemonic.

ALL READY NOW!—Like a railroad brakeman giving a sign for the engineer, the workman on this farmer-owned rural electric line signals that his assembly is completed and is now ready to take electricity to farmers in historic Caroline and Hanover Counties, Virginia. During the past year and a half the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington has allotted a total of over $50,000,000 for rural electric lines like this one. A large part of this total will finance distribution systems owned and operated by the farmers to be served. In addition, power companies are building thousands of miles of lines with private financing. Present-day rural line construction is designed especially for rural use. Advantage is taken of every economy consistent with good engineering so that the lines may be built at the lowest possible cost, permitting farmers to use electric power abundantly at a price they can afford.

Unseen Light Helps Enforce Sanitation Laws in New York

It Reveals Quality of Mattress Materials

NEW YORK. — "Invisible light," the same kind that gives healthy tans, is helping the bedding division of the New York department of labor run down violators who stuff mattresses with second-hand material but tag them "filled with new cotton."

"We are using the ultra-violet fluorescence as a principle test in the prosecution of such cases," David Himmelfarb of the laboratory told a meeting of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists. The ultra-violet light quickly discloses to the inspector whether the cotton fibers and felts used in making mattresses are second-hand or new.

Traps Cheating Makers.

"This work has been developed in our laboratory in order to make sure that all mattresses sold in the state of New York are properly designated and that when the tag calls for new material, it shall be actually new material, because there has been practice of using second-hand material," he went on to say.

The unique test is based on the fact that when various textile fibers are exposed to the proper type of ultra-violet rays they each fluoresce in different ways, thus enabling them to be distinguished from each other. Fluorescence is the power of a substance to absorb certain wavelengths of light, usually invisible, and to re-emit it as visible light. Thus, new cotton when exposed to practically invisible ultra-violet rays glows with a purplish or violet light or fluorescence. On the other hand, if the cotton is old or second-hand it glows with ivory-white fluorescence. The differences in fluorescence, therefore, reveal the age of the cotton fiber to the tester.

With his mercury quartz arc lamp, provided with a filter that cuts out most of the visible ultra-violet rays, the tester directs streams of the invisible rays from the lamp onto the mattress stuffing and from the color of the light given off can draw pretty sure conclusions as to whether the stuffings are new or old fibers.

This test should be of great value to those many states which have laws requiring manufacturers to disclose to the purchaser, usually by an attached cloth label, the kind and nature of the filling material used in mattresses and upholstered furniture.

Mystery Gland in Bees Unlocks Cradle Doors

BERLIN. — Every worker bee carries a gland that is of no use to her but serves the coming generation. The existence of this gland, under the bee's lower jaw, has long been known, but nobody knew what it was used for.

Now Dr. Karl Dreher, of the Marburg Zoological institute, has found that this maxillary gland, as it is called, secretes a substance that dissolves the cocoons in which young bees develop, when they are ready to emerge.

This gland is indispensable for the life of the hive, as a matter of fact, because the young bees cannot break the cocoons cases themselves, and the jaws of the nurse-bees are too short and blunt to open them by biting. This is especially true for the queen-bee cocoons.

Plant "Missing Links" Discovered in Oregon

BEND, ORE. — Plant "missing links", closing a gap in the history of life on this continent, have been discovered in Oregon, and the discovery has been verified by Dr. Ralph W. Chaney of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

The new-found fossils date from the Pliocene geologic epoch, which came before the Great Ice age. The beds were uncovered during the progress of recent highway construction. They are capped with approximately 100 feet of lava. The discovery verified a prediction made by Dr. Chaney many years ago, when he said that willows and poplars would be abundantly represented in beds of this age, whenever they were found. Many leaf-impressions of these trees are among the new fossil finds.

Any automobile driver who will take his car out knowing that the brakes are not in the best of condition, ought not to be privileged to drive an automobile.

The ability to stop when it is absolutely necessary is very important. Can you stop? It is too late after the accident. It is, therefore, very necessary that this part of your automobile be given regular and periodical inspections.

It is better to spend money for checking up brakes and having them adjusted than to have years of regret because of an automobile accident that you knew full well could have been avoided had your brakes been in proper working condition.

After the accident has happened, many people know what should have been done or could have been done to have eliminated that accident, but how many think of these things while they are driving before the accident?

Do the Natural Thing; You'll Likely Be Right

DEAR Mrs. Post: The other afternoon two gentlemen called on me in regard to a business transaction. After greeting them I sat down, assuming that they would do likewise. But instead they continued to talk, remaining standing. Feeling somewhat embarrassed, I got up again and we finished our conversation all standing until they left fifteen minutes later. Should I have asked them to be seated? I supposed when a lady sat down a gentleman seated himself without any further gesture on her part.

Answer: I think in this case it would have been natural to ask them to sit down. It is true that ordinarily people sit down unless they are staying for only a moment of time.

The Society Pages

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is it bad form to send the bride's picture to the newspapers for publication with an account of the wedding, if she is not well known in prominent social groups? Are these society pages devoted exclusively to the brides who are daughters of prominent families?

Answer: It is not a question of bad form but of how much interest the society editor feels the account will have to his readers.

First-Names for Step-Parents

DEAR Mrs. Post: A friend of mine is to be married to a widower who has a grown son, almost thirty. His mother died several years ago. My friend is wondering whether the son should be asked to call her "Mother" or whether it is a modern custom for children to call step-parents by their first names. She is almost twice his age.

Answer: If they are strangers he will probably call her "Mrs.," at least in the beginning. Later when they know each other, what he calls her will depend upon their affection for each other. In any case I think she must let him decide this for himself. While it is true that many grown sons and daughters call step-parents by their first names, this familiarity seems less unsuitable to others when the step-parent is younger than your friend.

Million Lambs May Need Feed

Michigan's 1937 crop of more than a million lambs, in addition to their million parents, may face the need of extra pasture this summer, according to the inquiries coming to the office of George A. Brown, head of the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College.

Temporary pasture for June can best be obtained by sowing Canadian field peas and oats at the rate of one bushel of each per acre as soon as the ground can be worked. For July and August pasture sow dwarf Essex rape broadcast at the rate of 6 to 7 pounds on fertile soils or on lighter soils drill in rows 28 inches apart using 2 to 3 pounds of seed per acre and cultivate. As a rule rape should not be sown before the tenth of May. Late in June the rape will be ready to pasture and the area from which the peas and oats were pastured may be broken up and seeded to rape for September and October pasture. One acre is considered enough pasture for 15 to 20 sheep for a period of two months depending upon the season.

A third temporary pasture crop that is suitable for July and August cropping is sudan grass, but this is not seeded before June 1. Twenty-five pounds drilled to an acre is recommended. The first frost will kill off this growth.

For more permanent pasture programs, Brown suggests efficient use of alfalfa. Many farmers on recommendation of the college are building alfalfa acreage to the point where first cuttings are sufficient for hay supplies and potential second cuttings are utilized for pasture.

How You Can Step Your Beet Tonnage

UP

IN EVERY LINE OF BUSINESS, men have made vast studies to improve and increase production for whatever they grow or make.

The Farmers and Manufacturers Beet Sugar Association is right in step with these modern practices. Experience on hundreds of farms, over a period of years, has demonstrated that Beet tonnage can be increased by following up-to-date farming methods.

For example:

The information compiled from 17,000 individual grower records shows that for every 10% increase in stands, you can make a gain of a ton of beets per acre!

You can get such results with Narrow Rows and Closer Spacing!

World wide tests show that the most profitable tonnage is obtained by

20 inch Rows

On the basis of 20 inch rows—a 100% stand blocked 10 inches apart, gives you

30,000 Beets per Acre

And don't forget—liberal applications of commercial fertilizer pay!

Broadcast before seeding and drill in fertilizer with the seed. Narrow rows—closer spacing and liberal use of fertilizer means bigger tonnage for you!

And bigger tonnage means bigger profits for you!

MORE FREQUENT EATING ADVISED

Six Meals a Day for Health, but Not More Food.

By EDITH M. BARBER
ACCORDING to the custom of the country most of us divide our food rations for the day into three, though not equal, portions. In many other countries an extra meal or two is added. The Germans have their second breakfast and their coffee and cake in the afternoon. The English, of course, have their tea. The Viennese often have coffee with accessories, both in the middle of the morning and the middle of the afternoon. They are quite likely to have a late supper as well.

When we eat between meals in this country, we almost apologize for it. It will be a satisfaction then to many of us to hear the theories, backed by evidence, which Dr. Howard W. Haggard of Yale advances in regard to this matter. Dr. Haggard is associate professor of applied physiology at that university and the famous author of "Devils, Drugs, and Doctors" and of "Diet and Physical Efficiency."

From his studies in industrial plants Dr. Haggard has come to the conclusion that the drop in efficiency which is found late in the morning and to a greater extent in the late afternoon is due to the reduction of blood sugar rather than to fatigue. He advises, therefore, that some form of carbohydrates plus milk be taken at these times. He also suggests that eating before going to bed is advantageous for many persons.

Dr. Haggard makes clear that he does not advise an increase in the amount of food taken daily, but rather a division of the food into five or six instead of the usual three portions, which is customary in this country.

Sift flour with salt, baking powder, mix with raisins and currants and add to first mixture. Add orange juice. Mix well. Pour mixture into bread pans, lined with waxed paper and greased. Decorate top with candied cherries, nuts and citron. Bake one hour or one and a quarter hours in a very moderate oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit). Cover the cake with paper as soon as it begins to brown. Candied lemon peel may be mixed with the orange peel if desired. Brandy or sherry may replace the orange juice.

Melt the butter in a frying pan, add the potatoes and stir over the fire until the fat is absorbed. Add the milk and seasoning and cook slowly about half an hour. More milk may be added if needed.

Jellied Bouillon.

- 2 tablespoons gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 4 cups meat stock
- Parsley

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes and stir into hot stock until dissolved. Pour into a shallow dish or into bouillon cups to chill and set. Bouillon cubes may be used to make the stock in proportion of 5 cubes to 1 quart of water.

WOMEN WHO POISON THEMSELVES

Every time he goes out of the house she calls after him spitefully: "All right, go to your Jane!"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

IF A bottle of slow poison stood in the medicine closet of her home, no woman would go there hourly and take a spoonful of it.

But there is another kind of poison, more dreadful in its effects, that thousands of women keep on tap and take regularly. It is the poison called jealousy. And jealousy and insanity are first cousins.

One woman I knew was not particularly fond of her husband until another woman wanted him. Then she writhed, whimpered, foamed with all the symptoms of a disordered mind. She set traps for him, she tried to bribe his office nurse to spy on him, she bored every one she knew with hysterical outbursts of rage. When the other woman was mentioned she became actually sinister; she knew it for a fact that Marian cheated at cards, she knew it for a fact that Marian wasn't straight, she knew everything disagreeable that could be imagined about Marian. Some one happened to speak of Marian's child.

"Ha, she's defective, you know!" said the discarded wife, with a laugh. "The poor little thing'll never be normal!" The husband was mentioned. "I hear John's wearing corsets and having his face lifted," the jealous wife screamed rather than said, with peals of laughter.

And this was a quiet, apparently pleasant woman, who never before had shown any signs of the volcano that was ready to burst forth at the first touch of jealousy.

In the old days, when home and church influences took care of children's morals, girls—and jealousy is rather a feminine characteristic,—girls grew up conscious that it was a pitfall, and determined to fight it.

"Look out, my girls," writes the father in "Little Women," from a Civil War camp, "I want each one of you to fight her bosom enemy."

It's an old-fashioned phrase; our children wouldn't know what we were talking about if we reminded them to fight their bosom enemies; no one ever has told them that within each one of us lie the powers that can destroy our very souls.

Sex jealousy is perhaps the most poignantly painful and destructive of all; it is the only sort of jealousy men ever seem to feel. It is the tragedy of its agonies that it destroys in the man or woman who gives way to it.

It is curable. A jealous woman may emerge from this fiery trial all the stronger and finer for it, but very few mothers seriously analyze their children's characters in these days, and try to strengthen what is good in them, and weed out what is bad, so that many wives come to the test completely unfitted for what is a real spiritual crisis.

Ruth, for example, is thirty-three. She was married nine years ago and has two boys, both in school. She was always a trifle heavy, and she has settled now into something like stockiness; she was always somewhat unimaginative, and she is managing this affair with a complete lack of imagination.

Walter has fallen in love with the woman in his office, Jane Deane. Jane is twenty-eight, divorced, and extremely plain at first view. But hers is one of those faces that presently seem almost beautiful, in spite of a homely big mouth, prominent teeth, straight dark hair, saw-tooth skin. Jane has magnificent gray black-lashed eyes, a lovely voice, and a delightful disposition.

Ruth discovered the affair six months ago; she immediately collapsed. She put up no fight. She lay for days weeping on her bed; her face grew dark with anger and swollen with tears; she would not come to meals. To her little boys she said between sobs that Daddy didn't love them any more; he was going away to leave them. Once an extremely pretty woman, Ruth lost all semblance of good looks; she stopped golf; she went nowhere; she put on seventeen pounds.

She stubbornly refuses Walter a divorce, and she continues to make his life wretched at home. Every time he goes out of the house she calls after him spitefully: "All right, go to your Jane!" In short, she has taken the path best calculated to wreck what might be salvaged in their marriage, and to make Walter dislike her.

Now, this situation of a husband—perhaps a good and faithful husband, being strongly attracted to another woman—is one that many married women have had to face in the past thirty years, and one that will recur from time to time in the years to come. Society doesn't censure him now as once it did, and the law, instead of holding him firmly to his marriage vows, amiably condones divorce. A few weeks in an amusing and pleasant western city and he is free, not responsible any more for the woman and children to whom he has been loved as husband and father for so many years.

Whatever the woman does under the circumstances, she loses. This is one of the times when she can't win. If she holds him he is restless and resentful. If she lets him go her life is too often ruined by the bitterness, the disillusionment, the loneliness, the general disturbance of the whole current of her days. Our social scheme today permits the man to feel himself acting quite honorably when he leaves the woman of whom he is tired and goes to the new love; and his discarded wife is only setting herself against the current when she protests.

But all the same she doesn't have to let him go if she doesn't want to. Nine times out of ten the smartest thing, the thing that makes for happiness in the end, is NOT to let him go. Ruth may know in her heart that Walter is making a fool of himself; that what he feels for Jane won't last; that Jane couldn't make him a good wife, or any man a good wife.

Ruth's course, if she wants to handle the whole thing intelligently, is to make home pleasanter than ever; to be always serene and patient; to bide her time. Her course is to make herself charming; not for Walter, for he won't see her at all for awhile, but on general principles. Her course is to keep herself busy, and work inside the house and out that interests her, that lifts her a little bit above the narrow circle of home. Ruth attracted Walter once against all comers; the most sacred hours of life are those associated with her; whether he marries Jane or doesn't the hour is going to come when he sees Ruth in the old light.

And then in a few years we have the very ordinary spectacle of a husband pretending that his passion for Jane was just warm friendship, forgetting completely that he asked Ruth to set him free, restored to the home circle and to his wife's affections.

But the wife has to get rid of the last shred of jealousy before she can succeed in this sort of campaign. She has to see the other woman's viewpoint to realize that all of us, all our lives long, are getting humiliating jolts and shocks; to say to herself that what happens to so many other women may well happen to her. She has to abandon all hope of recriminations and reproaches until the heat of the affair has long died away, and treat it as she would a fever. Such a wife can be reasonably sure of a successful ending; and what else matters? And when the skies are clear again she will have to refrain from triumph; this defection in her husband is no more serious than her own defects as a wife; if he has failed her signally in one way, she has failed him in a score of others. She has kept his life dull when it might have been exciting; she has slumped into disorder and inefficiency when the other woman has been always fresh and attractive.

Not that it is always Ruth's fault; this trial comes to even the most efficient, capable and loving of wives. Propinquity or chance will drag a man's affections from their legitimate anchor as long as men are men, as long as the other woman is the other woman. The law that sends a fatal germ into one mouth and spares a thousand others, that takes away one woman's only child while leaving another woman a safe and happy nursery of half a dozen children, that gives one little sister curly hair and another a talent for the violin, that burns one house and leaves its fellow standing, operates in this matter, too. Your husband may be one of the men who simply isn't going to be faithful; that may be your slice of the trouble of life.

Don't try to dodge it when it comes. Face it as you would sickness, poverty, war, with spirit and courage. Remember in the matter of your husband's affection, no woman takes anything away from you. You lost it before she found it. Only honesty and sweetness and sheer fineness of character can get it back.

in the eighteenth century and now owned and operated by W. T. Copeland & Sons, a family associated with the pottery practically since its origin.

The motion picture, taken in the pottery at Stoke-on-Trent, shows the manufacture from the mixing of the materials through molding, glazing and the various processes of decorating and firing to packing. The work-people are shown at their accustomed tasks.

After the motion picture, Miss

Lorenson will display clays, molds and samples of both bone china and earthenware in various stages of completion and demonstrate decorating processes. Spode designs, from the eighteenth century to the present day, will pass in review while Miss Lorenson tells interesting facts of their origin and history. There will also be a group of plates from service made for Royalty and other prominent European and American families.
