DIED UNEXPECTEDLY IN HIS 92ND YEAR

Geo. VanWinkle Started Lumbering Operations in Tuscola County in 1859.

George VanWinkle died very un-expectedly at the home of his son, Grant VanWinkle, in Cass City on Wednesday, in his 92nd year. He had been in his usual health, and after his evening meal, had been in the yard. After returning to the house, he lay down on a couch and passed away within a very short time. Funeral services will be held at the Grant VanWinkle home on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. Charles Bayless. Burial will be in Elkland Cemetery.

George VanWinkle was born in Rockaway, New Jersey, May 8, 1846. At the age of twenty-three, he came to the home of his brother, Lewis VanWinkle, in Centerville, now Caro. At that time, there were many pine stumps on the streets of that village, which consisted of a town hall and very few stores. The VanWinkle brothers were very active in clearing the land and lumbering around Caro and Elmwood for many years.

In 1882, George VanWinkle was united in marriage with Miss Mary E. Blackman at Vassar. Before this time, Mr. VanWinkle and his brother had begun lumbering activities at Farwell, a small place west of Saginaw, and from there they went to Van's Harbor in Northern Michigan. After thirty-five years there, they sold their lumbering interests and returned to Caro where they lived until ten years ago when they came to make their home with their son in Cass City.

Mr. VanWinkle leaves his widow and one son, Grant VanWinkle.

Austin Pioneer Passes at Age of 84

Funeral services for John Pettinger, 84, Austin Township farmer, were held Monday afternoon in the home, ten miles east and one-half mile north of Cass City. Rev. Paul J. Allured, pastor of the Cass City Presbyterian Church, officiated and burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

John B. Pettinger was born in Oxford County, Ontario, November 13, 1852. On August 4, 1874, he was united in marriage to Miss Lucy Ludema Leffler.

In 1880, he came to Michigan and settled in Austin Township on the same farm, where he passed away June 19, 1937, after a short illness.

He is survived by his wife and eight children, David at home, James and George of Cumber, Chester and William of Alberta, Canada, Mrs. Warren Nugent of Bad Axe, Mrs. Cyrus King of Argyle, and Mrs. Nada Mills of Oscoda. He also leaves fourteen grandchildren, two great grandchildren and a host of friends.

CHARTER PRESENTED TO PIGEON ROTARY

240 Rotarians Witness Ceremony and Enjoy Program
Tuesday Evening.

Two hundred forty Rotarians gathered at the auditorium of the Pigeon High School on Tuesday evening to witness the presentation of the Rotary charter to the newly organized Pigeon club.

A fish dinner was served, and during the meal and directly after, the evening's program was presented. Following toasts to the President of the United States and the King of England, the welcome to Rotarians was extended by Wellington Horlacker, president of Pigeon village. The club from Harrow, Ontario, previous to this time the "baby club" of the 23rd Rotary district, made a presentation to Pigeon club members which was followed by an address, "What I think of Rotary," by Arthur Fitzgerald of Windsor, Ontario, past district governor.

An address and the presentation of the charter was made by Emmett Richards of Alpena, past district governor, and the response by R. Harry Leslie, president of the Pigeon Rotary. Group singing was conducted by G. W. Landon of Cass City and Ralph Michaud of Alpena.

Jubilee Singers in Two Collisions

Donald Waugh, 18, driving east on M-38, collided with William Jeffrey of Saginaw driving west on the same highway. The accident occurred three miles east of Marlette. With Jeffrey were three boys who were members of a Colored Jubilee Singers group. All were taken to Dr. Giff's office in Marlette where their injuries were bandaged. The colored boys and driver then climbed into a car driven by Rev. M. Towey of 112 North Sixth Street, Saginaw, which contained other jubilee singers.

The additional four passengers brought Mr. Towey's load to a total of 10 persons. When they had reached a point on M-38, 3 1/2 miles east of Mayville, Mr. Towey's car and one driven by John Harp of Mayville met in collision. Charles Jeffrey, one of the group of singers, received slight injuries in the second accident of the day.

RAPID PROGRESS MADE ON BLACK TOP ROAD

Co. Road Commission Anticipates an Excellent Stretch of Highway.

Rapid progress has been made in the construction of the 4 1/2 miles of retreat surface or "black top" road north of Cass City to the Huron County line. The prime coat of tar has been laid and work has been started in placing the tar and gravel mixture which comes as the next layer on the highway. This will probably take another week to complete. Each gravel pebble is thoroughly coated with tar in this process. The last operation is an application of a light spray of tar as a seal coat to smooth the surface.

The road commission is of the opinion that this stretch of highway will be an excellent one when completed. The preparation of the base last fall, with the travel over the highway all winter, has been a fine foundation for the road. They estimate the cost will be between $19,000 and $20,000. The commission is building the highway.

Sugar Co. Field Man Succumbs

Louis E. Cartwright, for 20 years field man for the Caro plant of the Michigan Sugar Company in territory surrounding Caro, died on Tuesday at his home in the county seat following an illness of five weeks. He suffered a stroke which the day before his death developed into pneumonia. He was born in Gifford Township and had spent his entire life in Tuscola County. Mr. Cartwright was worshipful master of Mt. Moriah Lodge, F. & A. M., at Caro at the time of his death, and according to lodge records, was the only master to die in office in the 69 years of its history.

Funeral services will be held in the Caro Presbyterian Church of which he was a trustee, on Friday afternoon, Dr. J. Leslie French officiating, with burial under Masonic auspices in the cemetery at Fairgrove.

He leaves his widow, a son, a daughter, four sisters and brothers, three half brothers, and three grandchildren.

CARO IS CONSIDERING A COMMUNITY HALL

Three community organizations of Caro had representatives in a committee on Friday evening to consider the proposed construction of a community building in Caro village.

The committee will not only study various types of buildings, but will look into the matter of site, cost and plans, and then report its findings to the village council, with recommendations. If such a building should be constructed it will be in the nature of a combined community recreation hall with auditorium and city hall.

The group which met Friday night included Arthur J. Gieband and E. J. Riley of Board of Commerce, J. W. MacLachlan and H. H. Purdy of the Exchange Club, and Donald Ellwanger and I. L. Baughley of the Rotary Club.

June Weddings

Matthews-Gunderson.

Belle Matthews, daughter of Mrs. Maud Andersen, of Detroit and granddaughter of Mrs. E. A. Gettgey, formerly of Cass City, became the bride of Marius C. Gunderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Gunderson, of Detroit, at 6:30 p. m., on Saturday, June 19. The Rev. Milton Kanaga performed the double ring ceremony before the altar of St. Albans Episcopal Church, Highland Park, of which Miss Matthews is organist. The altar was decorated with vases of white peonies and white candles in seven branch candelabra. The choir of St. Albans preceded the wedding party to the altar, singing the "Wedding March" from Lohengrin.

The bride wore a long white satin gown over which there was a coat of lace and satin that ended in a fanshaped train. Her veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Charles Phelps, upon whose Turn to page 8, please.

STEPS TOWARD PEACE.

The Rotarians of the world recently concluded their international convention in France, where a Frenchman, nominated by a German Rotarian, was elected as the first president of Rotary outside of the United States.

The Rotarians at their final session heard a suggestion that the club raise $2,000,000 during 1937 as a contribution to world peace through the exchange of students between the various countries of the world. While the plan has not been formally adopted it is being considered.

Of course, the exchange of students between nations is desirable but it cannot bring about world peace unless aided by the development of tolerance and understanding among the masses of the various nations. Some interesting steps have been taken along this line between France and Germany. These include a serious effort to revise war histories in each country so as to eliminate untruthful statements and those that work up ill-feeling between the two peoples. Moreover, it is planned during the summer to encourage French and German children to spend vacations in other country in order to learn something about the people in the "enemy" land.

THE LONG LOOK.

"The lesson of life," said Emerson, "is to believe what the years and the centuries say, as against the hours."

This is the long look as contrasted with snap judgment.

The hours have said again and again that human progress was ended, and mankind on the down grade. But the years have said no.

The hours have said that Christianity was through, and the church a mere heirloom. But the centuries have not confirmed that view of religion.

The hour said the American republic could never be founded, and when it was founded that it could never stand, and when it stood that it could never endure. But the years have proved otherwise, at least so far.

This is no gospel of automatic and inevitable progress. Great civilizations have been wrecked in the past, and their ruins washed up like driftwood on the shores of history. And if our civilization is utterly foolish, that will certainly happen to us.

None the less, as you watch the long centuries swing their slow upward spiral; as the race comes round again to old problems but with new understanding, and as mankind learns even from its severest losses there is one clear message—the world grows better.—Grit.

Battleships now under construction by the leading nations of the world are not intended for pleasure cruises, regardless of what the builders might contend.

The war in Spain continues to kill men, women and children; how much simpler it would have been to let the voters determine which faction would run the nation!

The United States will be a nation when the people of each state understand the problems of the peoples of the other 47 states and while some progress has been made along this line, the day is still far away.

There would be fewer appeals if lawyers had as much reverence for the Courts as they claim they have.

It is surprising how much nonsense a hard-headed business man will believe when the speaker talks about him.

The trouble with many business plans is that they are concerned too much with profits and not enough with service.

The man who works his own garden has about reached the stage where he doubts if there is any economy in so doing.

Swimming is good exercise and a pleasant sport but, before going into the water, be sure you can swim back to shore if necessary.

It would be interesting to know how many of the strike agitators are American citizens.

KEISTER KODAKS.

Vermont refuses to accept federal aid for its citizens or public projects. It proudly waves the banner of rugged individualism and independence.

If the policy to take from a fellow who has little to help the fellow who has less, is kept up indefinitely, the time may come when nobody will have anything.

A fashion note from Paris says the ladies' millinery has taken the military mode this spring. The hats we have seen follow the culinary mode—potato pancakes.

A fellow who has never worked must feel relieved when he gets too old to work, and old age is accepted as a valid excuse for idleness.

Man usually calls a spade a spade until it comes to using this well known instrument, then you'd be surprised at the names he can think of for it.

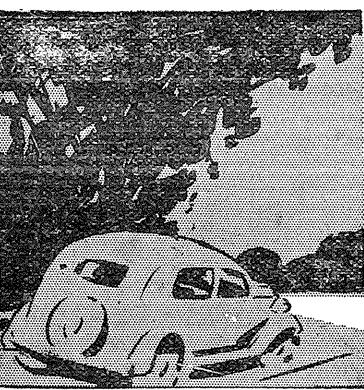

A truck driver transporting new automobiles from Detroit to California sent this telegram from Blair, Neb., to his home office: "Saw shadow. Hit shadow. Wasn't shadow. Was milk truck. Wire $50."—Clio Messenger.

And Now in Closing

With Michigan the playing field for labor leaders and the football for strike agitators, with the "gentle-voiced umpire" losing his voice in every crisis, we may add the loss of the tourist trade to the rest of the enormous losses we are sustaining. With daily headlines recounting lawless scenes, the peace-loving tourists of other states will probably develop a blind spot when they look at the map of Michigan.

Safe and Sane DRIVING

BY THE NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

NIGHT ON THE HIGHWAY.

Nearly two-thirds of the fatal motor car accidents take place between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m. Yet traffic for that 12-hour period is only about one-third of the 24-hour total.

Cool nerves are demanded for night driving. The four-lane roadway very likely means that double the usual number of flashing headlights must be gauged and passed safely. The speed with which some of these rushing demons approach is terrifying.

Keep well to the right side of the road, and be continually on the lookout for the slow car ahead. There may be a stalled car on the pavement, and you may not have even the warning of a single small taillight. Crashes occur from this cause all too frequently.

Look carefully also for the thoughtless rural walker, who may be tramping ahead of you down your own (which is his wrong) side of the road. You may be able to discern only the dimmest outline before you have to swerve suddenly to avoid him.

And if you have to stop for a puncture, or for any other trouble, pull entirely off the roadway if possible. There is the only safety.

Universal Postal Union

The Universal Postal Union was organized in 1878. It followed an earlier union formed in 1874. It includes practically all nations on the globe. These countries are declared to be a single postal territory for the reciprocal exchange of correspondence.

Clipped Comment

The Issue.

It would seem that the present attitude of Governor Murphy with relation to strikes and strikers, is sufficiently clear to try out the issue in the next state election. The governor majors on the "civic rights" of the strikers but never a sentence, at least by way of enforcement, of the broader and equally defined rights of the public. Some have gone so far as to say, notably the Grand Rapids Herald, that the governor's disregard for the public side of these disputes merits impeachment. Inasmuch as the issue is entirely one of judgment the governor's attitude is hardly a matter for impeachment but he will no doubt agree that his pro-sympathy policy for the strikers and their highly questionable legal conduct, makes for a sharp division of opinion in methods and practices of administration. The governor's policy has become, automatically, a political question not so much a party problem as a desire of citizens generally to register their own attitude toward this present state of countenanced lawlessness. Governor Murphy has made the issue for the 1938 state campaign. The major issue is law and order; the Murphy brand, which obviously has the approval of the Roosevelt administration, or the type of enforcement that aims at a universal respect for our legal-constituted authority.—Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

God Helps Them Who Help Themselves.

We are becoming absolutely flabbergasted with the constantly increasing proposals to furnish government help to the people of this country. We have developed the greatest crop of theorists who are amazingly liberal with other people's money—taxpayers' money. The day is coming, perhaps it is here now, when these taxes will start catching up with the spending. Then what a howl there will be.

The year 1929 when the stock market caught up with the speculators, the gamblers and the spenders, is relatively recent. It would seem that what culminated in 1932-33—the result of what led up to in 1929—should be fresh in the people's minds. Haven't people yet learned that one cannot eat cake and have it. Death and taxes are sure, 'tis said. Only taxes, tremendous taxes, can be used to pay a tremendous federal debt and a federal spending.

We can't forget that "prime the pump" slogan of 1932-33. We favored it. The pump of public and private credit needed priming. It has been primed . . . primed and primed again and again. Still there are repeated demands to keep on priming. When is the pump going to start pumping without more priming?

Labor wants more priming?

There is priming for WPA demanded.

The tenant farmers need priming.

Priming is proposed for the slum dwellers, the home owners, the mortgaged property owner, the employed girls, the unemployed boys, those who want to paint pictures, those who enjoy dramatics, etc., etc., etc.

If the government continues to prime and prime, the natural and existing reaction of increasing millions of people is: "We had better get ours while the getting is good." God will help those who help themselves, but—people won't try to help themselves if they think they can get it without planning or working for it.

Initiative, ambition and independence—three of the most precious attributes of an American—are becoming smothered in an avalanche of the "gimmies."—Clinton County Republican-News.

FRED W. BRAUN

The Safety Man

This message is an appeal to truck drivers. The trucking industry has achieved some remarkable results in accident prevention. There has been a great improvement in the past four or five years, not only in the conduct of these drivers, but also in their personal habits and their driving.

Occasionally, however, you will find several large trucks being driven along our highways very close together. This makes it difficult for private passenger cars to pass them because of the speed involved and the length of time it takes to pass two or three of these large trucks.

Truck drivers should maintain the proper amount of space between trucks in order that private passenger cars and others traveling at a faster rate of speed can turn in when passing these large trucks. It is an added measure of safety, and the same principle can also apply to private passenger cars traveling close together.

This is a dangerous situation and one that we can all help to correct.

GAGETOWN

Delightful Trip—

The graduates and those that went with them had a very delightful trip to Washington, D. C., but it rained a great deal of the time. Monday night was spent at Niagara Falls. They left there Tuesday forenoon and visited that same day at Watkin's Glen, Gettysburg and Harrisburg, and reached Washington, D. C., Wednesday night at which place they rented tourists' cabins. Thursday, they visited Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument, Department of Justice, Arlington Cemetery, General Lee's Home and Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and Amphitheatre. Friday, they went to the Capitol and saw the Senate and House of Representatives in session and while there met Rep. Wolcott. They also visited the Congressional Library, Supreme Court Building, the cost of which was $10,000,000, and Union Central Depot. Friday evening, they enjoyed a boat trip down the Potomac River. Saturday, they went to the White House where they were allowed to enter a few of the rooms; then they went to Mt. Vernon. In the evening, they saw a show at the Earle Theatre, the largest theatre in Washington. Sunday, they started on the return trip and stayed that night in Wheeling, West Virginia, and reached home Monday night. They report that in Ohio, there has been so much rain that in places the water was to the hubs of the machines.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quinn and sons, James, of Glidden, Wisconsin, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Warren of Ashland, Wisconsin, were recent guests of Mrs. Margaret Harrison.

Death of Ethel Reader—

Miss Ethel Estella Reader, fourth daughter of the late Ephraim and Myra Reader, passed away at the Pleasant Home Hospital in Cass City on Sunday, June 20, after a week's illness. Funeral services were held at the home of her brother, Frank Reader, here and in the Grant M. E. Church on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Born in Grant Township, 51 years ago, Miss Reader spent all of her life in this township with the exception of five years in Cass City and a few years in Detroit. She was a member of the Grant M. E. Church, and was employed as a nurse some of the time. Endeavoring to be helpful to others was a characteristic quality of her life.

Children in Court

Judge Malcolm Hatfield.

With an ever increasing number of children being brought into court, juvenile authorities in many districts are becoming alarmed over what the future holds for such youngsters.

One of the principle reasons for a fifteen billion dollars a year crime bill is that many parents do not realize that they themselves are developing disobedience and dishonesty in their children. One of the most common methods whereby parents lay the foundation for dishonest youth is by lying to others in his presence. Parents should always remember that a son or daughter will not remain honest if they themselves are untruthful.

Calendar in General Use

The calendar in general use is the Gregorian, not the Julian. The Gregorian calendar came into effect in Europe in 1582, but was not adopted by England and her colonies until 1752. Prior to that the Julian calendar was in effect. It was promulgated by Julius Caesar in 45 B. C.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

JIM TOWNE always says he reaches for his wallet when he sees his lady-love around the house with a yardstick, a pencil and an abstract look. Because that means some kind of an investment in new curtains or bedspreads or chair covers or something. Maybe not expensive, but anyway you know how men are—they love to cfab, but adore the effect of your spending.

But Molly does get more gayety out of a few yards of cretonne than anybody we know. Now she's busy thinking about their dining room which has been the gathering place for the crippled chairs and hand-me-down rugs ever since they got married. But last fall they got around to buying new dining room furniture, walnut and rather modern, and for Christmas they got a new rug in a dull dusty apricot color. This spring they're having the walls painted in a very pale version of this same dull apricot, and Molly is thinking about curtains.

When Molly gets a yardstick in one hand, a pencil in the other and an abstract look on her pretty face, that means new draperies somewhere around the house.

She has in mind a lovely chintz that's mostly aquamarine with white, and she plans plain white glass curtains hung straight and tailored. The chair seats are a white leather, and she's considering putting a small love seat in the dining room with a slip cover of the aquamarine chintz. Won't that be sweet?

But it will be the accessories that will give this room its final distinction. Molly has Japanese prints with mirror frames, and a fine mirror plaque for the table centerpiece. Crystal in modern design stands on the buffet and above it at either side Molly is having brackets of mirror to hold small crystal vases in nosegays of flowers or greenery.

Lucy's Living Room.

"I feel like spring," announced Lucy. "But my living room doesn't. Oh, I do long for a really pretty room and I can't spend much. So what!"

We looked the room over—small, not very bright, with two windows placed together at one end. No fire place, no interesting wall treatment to help—just plain cream walls and woodwork. The furniture was hodgepodge. An oak bookcase with a fancy top, a straight uncompromising sofa with a mahogany frame and a brown velvet cover, a domestic rug worn and faded, a rocking chair covered in black leather, old but not old enough lamps. The only nice piece was the mahogany desk.

"Yes, you guessed it! We took over Fred's sister's house when they were transferred. We got the furniture for a song as they didn't think it was worth moving.

We suggested taking the doors and fancy woodwork off of the bookcase and painting it warm mulberry color, on the outside and eggshell on the inside. Yellow and blue pottery bowls replaced books on the top shelf. The sofa did look pretty hopeless until a well-fitted slip cover with box pleats around the bottom covered it—a glazed chintz with egg-shell background and large blue and yellow flowers. The rug had to stay as it was for the present and so the trick was to center attention elsewhere. One or two good reproductions of really fine pictures would help a lot, too. The rocking chair had good lines and a nice mahogany frame so this was redone in the same material as the sofa. A foot stool, that had been hiding under a carpet covering was re-covered in the same fabric and the rocking chair and stool became a unit and a very attractive one, too. We just threw away all the lamps and bought new but inexpensive ones. A pair of blue pottery ones for end tables on either side of the sofa, and an ivory pottery lamp with a blue linen shade for the desk. Draperies of blue glazed chintz with mulberry ball fringe over simple white point d'esprit tie-backs made all the difference.

"When a lady feels like spring."

Plant Shallow to Beat Maggot

Shallow bean planting—not more than one-half to an inch deep—to aid in preventing repeated seedling loss from maggots, is the recommendation made this week by Ray Hutson, Michigan State College entomologist, in answer to wide spread queries from bean growers who are replanting because of maggots.

This season, because it is moist and late, is ideal for maggots, especially on land that has been top-dressed with manure or land that grew clover or alfalfa last year. If the land has been top-dressed with manure, Hutson advises that this manure be plowed under before the beans are sown. By sowing the beans very shallow, the plants may be able to push up above the soil and thus the bean roots become sufficiently established to ward off maggot attacks successfully.

Those farmers who intend to grow beans next year on land now in clover or alfalfa should plan to fall-plow as an aid in preventing maggot injury. The same procedure holds true, also, for land infested with thistles and with heavy growths of dandelions, Hutson suggests.

Conditions aiding the bean maggot infestation also are likely to increase the danger from cabbage and onion maggots, Hutson believes. Damage from cabbage maggots may be prevented through the use of tarpaper discs placed around each plant and pressed into the soil around the plant. Watering cabbage with a corrosive sublimate solution is a reliable treatment. It is applied by watering about the plants when they are set out and two times afterward at weekly intervals. Extension Bulletin No. 179, "Bean, Cabbage and Onion Maggots," may be obtained free by addressing a request to Bulletin Room, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Early Ohio Bank Failures

Between 1811 and 1831 bank failures in Ohio averaged one a year, which was a high mortality rate considering the small number of such institutions. These failures were doubtless due to the loose banking regulations and the fluctuation in printing press bank notes.

Warning

To boys who practice jumping up to try to remove lamp bulbs or who at times have been lifted up by their associates so they can remove these bulbs, we desire to warn you that you are flirting with the worst kind of danger. We have personally made appeals but without success and now take this means of pleading with you.

So, do not endanger your life. The partial removal of the lamp bulbs causes unnecessary radio distortion. The breaking of these bulbs causes the lamp to be out of service and the particular location to be left in darkness.

Remember that Street Lighting Circuits are very dangerous and are not designed to play with.

We sincerely solicit your cooperation.

OUR DOG

My dad brought home a dog one day—
The cutest little Collie pup,
And it's been lots o' fun, you bet,
To watch him while he's growin' up!
He certainly is awful smart,
And seemed to like us right away:
And, boy, you ought to see the tricks
He does when we go out an' play!

We named him Duke, so he would know
That he's important; and he is!
I bet you don't find many dogs
With better pedigrees than his!
But even if he was a mut
I'd think that he was plenty good,
'Cause every kid calls his own dog
The best one in the neighborhood.

But our dog really is the best—
And he gets better every day!
I don't know what we'd ever do
If he got killed, or went away!
My dad says every boy like me
Should have a dog; and you just bet
Our Duke's about the finest kind
Of pal a guy could ever get!

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Donnelly and small daughter, Joyce Ann, spent from Saturday until Tuesday visiting friends in Durand. Burdett Townsend returned with them to spend the week here.

Charles Wolcott, Alfred Gluth, and Gerald, Ralph and Billie Brown, all of Trenton, spent Sunday at the Homer Hower farm home, Ralph and Billie Brown remained here to spend the summer with their aunt, Mrs. Hower.

Forty relatives, neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Holm, 4½ east and ½ south of Cass City to honor Mrs. Clara Holm on her 69th birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and social chat. About 11 o'clock lunch was served and gifts were opened.

A short program followed by games and a luncheon comprised the entertainment which the losing side in an attendance contest provided for members of the Tri Sigma class of the Evangelical Sunday School Wednesday evening. The affair was held in the church basement.

A chicken dinner was served on Sunday in the home of Mrs. Nick Bauer at Argyle in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Bauer of Detroit, recent bride and groom. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice O'Connor of Cass City, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Tyo and daughter and Miss Virginia Bauer of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Root entertained for dinner on Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stephens of Birmingham, Mrs. J. D. Funk of Deford and Mrs. William E. Parrish and two sons, Dale and Roger, of Cass City. Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Funk are cousins of Mrs. Parrish. The last time, Mrs. Parrish and Mrs. Stephens met was in Colton, California, last October at the home of Mrs. Parrish's mother, Mrs. Mary Stowells, where they spent several days. The surprise had come when Mrs. Stephens rang the door bell at her aunt's home in Colton, when instead of Mrs. Stowells answering, Mrs. Parrish opened the door. It was a happy surprise as Mrs. Stephens did not know her cousin was in California. She had not seen her aunt for 30 years.

The following paragraphs are taken from a letter written to Clark Helwig by Donald MacLachlan who, with his mother, is visiting his brother in Boston, Mass.: We arrived here Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock, just 799 miles from home and had no bad luck at all. We averaged 20 miles to the gallon of gas and not one drop of oil. We had rain all day Sunday and Monday and Tuesday afternoon, so you see it was no pleasure trip. The trip through New York and Massachusetts was the most beautiful scenery I have ever seen. We went through the Mohawk valley over the Hudson River and through the Berkshire Hills. The place where we stayed Monday night one could see the Adirondack Mountains on a clear day and that is over 100 miles, so in reality the hills are small mountains. My brother lives just a block from the ocean and we can look out of the window and see the ocean liners going out and coming in from sea. Tomorrow we are going to the Navy Yard and see the big navy boats, also "Old Ironsides" which is anchored there. We also expect to see Bunker Hill monument and Old North Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gast of Flint were guests at the Fred White farm home Sunday.

Delvin Striffler of Flint visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Striffler, Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Randall entertained the Malfem Club at her home on Thursday afternoon. After an enjoyable afternoon, luncheon was served.

Ferris Kercher completed his term at East Lansing and went to Camp Custer Friday where he is taking a six weeks' training course given under Michigan State College.

Miss Ruth Ann Erskine, a former high school instructor here, will teach in the high school at Marshall under the superintendency of H. W. Holmes. Miss Erskine is spending the summer at her home in Ewart.

Guests at the W. J. Schwegler farm home on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schwegler and daughter, Joan, and Mr. and Mrs. Asher and two daughters, all of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Orton Klinkman of Decker; and Manley Schneider of Pontiac.

GRAPHIC GOLF

By BEST BALL

PLAYING THE BRASSIE

MANY golfers attempt to use a brassie as they do a driver, hitting the ball or attempting to hit in the square in the back method. This is the accepted method of striking a ball that is teed up, inviting a stroke. However, where the ball is partially imbedded in the turf or lying deep down in the grass an altogether different swing is needed. Some players seem to think that the only way they can raise such a ball is by scooping it up, but a few attempts at this method should show them the fallacy of this procedure.

Obviously the clubface cannot lift the ball in this fashion because it would first have to dig under and back of the ball to do it. The simplest, most accurate method is to hit a descending blow that has plenty of power behind it. To the uninitiated this process often looks as if the player were going to drive the ball directly into the ground. However, the loft of the clubface slants in such a manner that the velocity of the clubhead when it contacts the ball will make it rise. Chances are with the spin such a stroke imparts, the ball will not roll far once it strikes the ground but it should travel quite a distance through the air. The important thing to remember is to hit down and hit hard. Any hesitancy here is likely to be reflected in a dubbed shot.

EGGS NECESSARY IN IDEAL DIET

Their Frequent Use Now Is Held Vital to Health.

By EDITH M. BARBER

OUR ancestors considered eggs more or less an accessory food. Early man used them as emergency rations when meat was scarce or lacking. The Romans are known to have liked them at the beginning of a meal, perhaps as part of what we now call hors d'oeuvres. From this custom came the phrase "from eggs to apples," signifying the beginning and end of a meal.

Although in many parts of the world people are not particular in regard to the source of the eggs which they eat, when we speak of eggs in this country we are almost invariably referring to the product of the hen. We like the delicate flavor and, fortunately, birds of the chicken family have proved easy to domesticate.

While eggs are considered with meat and fish as protein-bearing foods, their contribution of minerals and vitamins is most important. All these assets, however, with the exception of protein, which is furnished by both the yolk and the white, are concentrated in the former. For this reason the yolk of the egg is added to the diet of the infant, while the white is usually reserved for some time later. In the ideal diet of both children and adults, eggs should figure several times during the week.

French Omelet.

6 eggs
6 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 tablespoons butter
Beat the eggs slightly, add water and seasonings. Melt the butter in a hot frying pan and pour in the mixture. Cook gently until edges set, then with a knife lift and let the liquid run underneath. Brown, fold and turn on to a hot platter.

Cheese Cake.

1 package zwieback
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
5½ cakes cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 eggs
1 cup cream
Roll the zwieback into crumbs and mix with the two tablespoons of sugar and butter. Blend thoroughly and put into a nine-inch spring pan and press evenly on the bottom. Mix the one cup of sugar with flour and salt and cream together with the cream cheese. Add the vanilla and the egg yolks; add cream and mix again. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour mixture into spring form and bake in a moderate oven (325 to 350 degrees Fahrenheit) about an hour, or until the center is set.

Baked Cheese Omelet.

1½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ pound American cheese. Rub through grater
4 eggs
1 cup hot water
½ teaspoon salt
Pour water over bread crumbs, and add salt, cheese and well-beaten yolks of eggs. Mix thoroughly, and fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until firm.

Tomatoes With Cheese and Eggs.

1 can tomatoes
1 clove garlic
8 hard-cooked eggs
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon white pepper
1 cup American cheese, grated
2 cups soft bread crumbs
4 tablespoons butter or other fat
Rub a baking dish with the cut clove of garlic. Divide the contents of the can of tomatoes into two equal parts. Add half the contents of the can to the baking dish; slice four hard-cooked eggs and lay the slices on the tomatoes, cover with one-half the sugar, salt, paprika and white pepper mixed together; sprinkle one-half cup of cheese over this, then put a layer of bread crumbs over the cheese and dot this with two tablespoons butter. Repeat the process, using the remainder of the tomatoes, eggs, seasonings, cheese, crumbs and butter. Bake about 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit), or until the top layer of crumbs is nicely browned.

Stuffed Eggs.

6 hard cooked eggs
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon mixed mustard
½ teaspoon onion juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
Shell the eggs, cut in halves and remove yolks carefully. Mash yolks thoroughly, add mayonnaise and seasonings. Mix well and refill the shells with this mixture. Serve on a bed of parsley or other green as a first course or with a salad.

Onion Soup.

Put contents of two or three cans of onion soup into an earthenware casserole. Cover with one-inch slices of french bread, sprinkle liberally with grated Parmesan cheese and bake in a hot oven about ten minutes or until the cheese melts. Serve with extra Parmesan cheese.

William Davis, 21, of Pontiac was assessed $44.00 costs and Clyde Smith, 43, of the same city, $36.00 costs in Justice St. Mary's court. Both men were apprehended on a charge of an automobile fire theft in Millington on June 17. Deputy Sheriffs William Brady and John Gleason made the arrests. In a signed confession to Sheriff Geo. Jeffrey, Davis said he came to Tuscola County with the intention of stealing bowling balls out of a small town bowling alley and had provided tools to gain entrance to a building and white canvas gloves as a protection from finger prints. They were in the Hilltop Gardens bowling place at Vassar when arrested by officers.

THE DIAL OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WE FIND it easy to forget
The songs we heard, the smiles we met,
We find it easy to remember
The faithless friend, the fading ember.

Yet memories are things to choose,
This to recall and that refuse,
Make each delight or each disaster
Either our servant or our master.

Yes, we who turn the dial of life
Need not remember care and strife,
The tawdry tune, the tinny meter,
For there are other programs sweeter.

We know that other things life has
Than jumbles of discordant jazz.
We turn the dial, and very near it
Pick up a tune that lifts the spirit.

And thoughts are things we may control
To help or hurt the listening soul.
Tune out the sad, tune in the pleasant,
Tune out the past, tune in the present.

Yes, so may one control the mind.
Tune out the mean, tune in the kind,
Old ills forgetting and forgiving,
Only the lovely things re-living.

MISS HUNTER SPEAKS VOWS.

groom, best man, and ushers wore white gabardine suits and white shoes. Miss Hunter wore a light blue gown over blue satin with short puff sleeves and floor length skirt with a blue lace off-the-face hat and same color streamers. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses tied with yellow tulle.

Mrs. Hunter chose for her daughter's wedding a redingote style gown of black marquisette over black taffeta with a corsage bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. Wood, mother of the groom, wore a blue and white stripe chiffon over blue taffeta. She also wore a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

A wedding breakfast for the immediate families was served at the Hotel Montague, Caro. A reception and buffet luncheon for the 150 guests was held at the home of the bride's mother from two to four in the afternoon. The bride's table which was covered with a lace cloth was centered with a tiered wedding cake capped with a miniature bride and groom. Ornamental branch candlesticks with white candles stood at each side of the cake while low bowls of garden flowers graced the ends of the table. Baskets and bouquets of roses and peonies were the house decorations.

After the reception, the Woods left for a week's trip through the East and will be back in Detroit to attend the wedding of the bride's cousin, Agnes FitzStephens, which will occur Saturday, June 26. For a going-away costume the bride wore a three-piece ensemble of Eleanor blue wool crepe with a white open crown off-the-face hat, a white purse and white shoes.

Mrs. Wood is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy, Adrian, and of Detroit Business University and is a member of the Chi Alpha Sigma Sorority. Mr. Wood is employed with the Hudson Motor Car Company in Detroit.

Hunter and daughters, Ellen and Margaret, and son, Joseph, of Alpena; and Mr. and Mrs. James Hunter and sons, Neil and Leo, of Pontiac.

Pre-nuptial affairs were a miscellaneous shower by Misses Agnes and Nora Jean FitzStephens, a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Raymond Beyer, dinners by the Chi Alpha Sigma Sorority, Jarvis Motor Sales Co. and Hudson Motor Sales Co.

TO THE PUBLIC.

During the past few weeks there has been a number of tickets given various people for illegal parking. It has been rumored that they were issued by me. I have issued only one such ticket to a truck driver from Bay City who was warned several times before hand and one ticket to a bus driver who pleaded guilty to driving 48 miles an hour on Main Street.

Any other tickets that were given were not issued by me. This statement can be verified by an inquiry from your justice court.

Yours respectfully,
ALEX TYO.

PAGANINI GEM LOST SINCE 1831 FOUND

Unpublished Manuscript Discovered by Cobbler.

Parma, Italy. — A humble shoemaker of this town, Anacleto Fochi, is responsible for the discovery of the autographed manuscript of an unpublished concert composition by Niccolò Paganini, one of the greatest violinists of all ages.

The existence of this piece was known from Paganini's correspondence, but all trace of it had been lost after the wizard played it at the Paris opera on the evening of March 25, 1831, on the occasion of a memorable concert. According to his biographers, Paganini set to music only nine concerts, of which three never were published. The one just discovered here, which the author called "Fourth Concert in D Minor," was one of these three.

Paganini's compositions were among the most difficult to be inventoried. He disliked greatly to publish them for fear that the publication might cause the curiosity or interest in them to be diminished.

Shoemakers Trade Books.

Parma's shoemakers are, by tradition, also small traders in old or second hand books. Because of this trade, Fochi was asked by an elderly woman to buy from her two large packages of musical compositions, printed and in manuscript, which she had received from descendants of Paganini.

The shoemaker gave the woman only 20 lire, or a little more than a dollar, for the two bundles. One day going through the papers, Fochi discovered a declaration dated 1893 and signed by Achille Paganini, a son of the virtuoso. The declaration concerned certain researches by Prof. Romeo Franzosi, until a few years ago a violin teacher in the local music conservatory, by which Franzosi had been entrusted with the revision of Paganini's writings. The conservatory has had Arturo Toscanini among its more illustrious students.

Property of the State.

Fochi took the declaration and the concert manuscript to Franzosi, who recognized both papers as writings of Paganini and his son. Due to the fact, however, that under a government decision Paganini's manuscripts were state property and hence not to be sold in Italy or abroad except to the Italian state, Franzosi advised Fochi to take the composition to the management of the city conservatory.

Insect Electrocutor Is Tested Over World

Berkeley, Calif. — The electric light insect exterminator, designed by Professor William B. Herms and Joseph K. Ellsworth of the University of California, promises to take its place among other electric toaster, the electric iron and the electric razor.

The invention consists of a bulb that can be applied to any ordinary electric light socket. It attracts all varieties of insects, even mosquitoes, and when they approach, electrocutes them.

A few of the uses to which it is being applied, reported to the university from various parts of the world, are:

One theater in Madeira has added it to the decorations in its marquee to keep the insects from bothering patrons.

It has been installed at service stations to keep customers from being annoyed by insects while having their cars serviced.

It is being used over outdoor swimming pools and in illuminated gardens.

The light, which was invented especially as a protection against mosquitoes has received so much attention that requests have come from as far as India and Africa for information on its manufacture and use.

Calls Age of 11 Safest One in the Life of Child

Washington.—The age of eleven is the safest one for a child, according to the Statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

"The eleventh year, or thereabouts, is the optimum point, at which the high hazards of infancy and earliest childhood are past, and the new and gradually mounting risk of adolescence, maturity and old-age have not yet begun to exert their influences," says the bulletin.

He Taps a Rubber Tree and Repairs a Puncture

Singapore. — A Singapore motorist discovered, when he was held up by a puncture 20 miles from the nearest garage, that he had no repair outfit.

He tapped a rubber tree growing by the roadside, spread the rubber latex over the tire and vulcanized it by heating it over a small flame.

Walnut as Church Gift

Princeton, Ill.—Pews and window and door frames of the First Presbyterian church of Princeton, which is being rebuilt after being damaged by fire, are to be made from walnut. Eighty walnut trees were donated to the church by C. V. Field.

MAKES IT EASY TO SCALE MATTERHORN

Engineering Device Now Aids Amateur Climbers.

Washington, D. C.—A 37-passenger cage, on a steel cable, now hauls modern mountain climbers part way up the Italian side of the Matterhorn, thus aiding even amateur climbers to conquer the once difficult peak.

"The Matterhorn remained beyond man's reach until 1865, when a party of seven attained the hitherto unscaled summit," says the National Geographic society. "During the descent, four of the seven pioneers fell to their death on a glacier four thousand feet below.

"Two days later the 'unconquerable' peak was reached again. Since then, the Matterhorn has become increasingly popular with skilled climbers. Now as many as two dozen may be toiling up the hair-raising trail in a single day. But at least 39 have lost their lives on the dangerous ascent, or in coming down, which is even more perilous.

"As high as twenty-seven Washington monuments atop another, the Matterhorn soars above a ring of snow-capped summits like the front peak of a tiara. The mountain wears a glacier flung glittering over one shoulder, and, above, a tall sloping collar of snow. The actual peak rises to heights where the winds allow no snow to rest, but sweep it down from the stark rocky top.

No Primrose Path.

This pyramidal summit has precipitous walls, one of them overhanging, which fortified it against climbers almost a century after Mont Blanc had been conquered. The Matterhorn was the last great Alpine peak to surrender. Although rocks have been blasted away and ropes fixed to the more hazardous reaches, the trail to the top is still no primrose path.

"The mountain's international outlook is not due exclusively to the many countries from which climbers come. It actually can claim two countries as its place of residence, Switzerland and Italy. Their boundary line crosses the summit, dividing the roof-tree ridge so that one end is Italian, the other Swiss. The latter is the higher, according to Swiss yardsticks, by just 43 inches—14,705 feet. Only five Alpine peaks are higher.

"Pride in the Matterhorn, however, is greater than that figure would indicate. For it is one of the two highest peaks in which Italy has even a share. Switzerland particularly cherishes its mountain giants, since it contains only two-thirds of the Alps and the two highest peaks are not wholly within its boundaries. Mont Blanc is in France, and Monte Rosa laps over into Italy as does the Matterhorn.

"Alpinists at the top of the Matterhorn, in clear weather, are as breathless from the view as from climbing. They can see miles of ice and snow and valley strips of green in three countries: the surrounding peaks of Switzerland, distant Mont Blanc in France, and southern mountains subsiding into the Lombardy plain of Italy.

Has Several Names.

"International prominence has won the Matterhorn several names. Italians have been known to call it the Becca and Monte Silvio. French-speaking Swiss refer to it as Mont Cervin, or simply Le Cervin, 'the stag,' for the proud wild way it tosses its head. Matterhorn has been interpreted as 'the peak above the meadow,' but its more orthodox German meaning is pointed out as 'the dim peak,' since its ice-shrouded outline emerges only dimly from clouds.

"For generations it was feared as a haunted mountain, the home of the Wandering Jew, the stronghold of the old man of Becca—a phrase to frighten children. Valley dwellers thought the unvisited summit bore ruins of a city, where evil spirits lurked to bounce rocks down against ambitious climbers. Avalanche after avalanche swept down the rocky sides with such frequency that the Matterhorn was dubbed the 'London Bridge of Alpine Peaks.'

"Untraveled natives once believed it was the highest mountain in the world. Few of them had seen the other side of it, for their road would lie over the Theodule pass and its glacier into Italy. That some bold travelers ventured through the glacier-paved pass is proved by ancient Roman coins found nearby.

"Travel is far simpler around the Matterhorn today. Railroads run to Zermatt on the Swiss side and to Breuil on the Italian side, and the cable railway is on its way to joining these two resort towns. For climbers who venture skyward beyond the realm of mechanical transportation, there are huts to provide shelter, straw mattresses, blankets, and a cup of tea."

Rural Women Get Invitations for Conference

Conference plans for the annual visitation of rural women on the campus of Michigan State College and a week's vacation from washing dishes are announced by R. W. Tenny, short course director at the college.

Through county agricultural agents the women already are registering for the program which begins Sunday, July 25, and continues through Thursday, July 29.

Because dormitory facilities are limited, the women who expect to attend are being asked to register in advance and make early reservations for room accommodations.

In the language of R. W. Tenny, purposes of the annual conference include the opportunity to study home and community problems, to have a vacation and rest, to make new friends and meet old acquaintances, to enjoy the beauty of the campus and to gain inspiration.

Every visitor will be able to attend general meetings as well as pick out hobbies and special interests. Fashions in clothing and foods, home furnishing, home management, child development, nutrition and parliamentary law are to be offered.

Special lectures will be available in geology, biology and gardening. Hobbies for discussion will include landscaping, vegetable gardening, poultry, recreation, books, swimming, tap dancing, trees, music, art appreciation and creative writing.

ONE CAR IN THREE CARRIES STICKERS

Regardless of the marked increase in the number of motor vehicles on the state's highways, about one car owner in three buys his annual license on the installment plan.

Leon D. Case, secretary of state, points out that the 1933 act which brought the "sticker" or half-year permit into being, has been accepted as the permanent method of buying plates by some 500,000 car owners every year.

The use of half-year permits expires August 1, annually, and at a date prior to that, designated by the secretary of state, plates go on sale at half price. Thus, as the "half price" date approaches, few stickers are sold. In 1936, a total of 448,035 stickers were sold; records of the department of state as of June 16, show 441,726 stickers had been recorded at Lansing, though actually more had been sold at branch offices on that date.

STATE DAIRY INCOME GROWS IN MICHIGAN

The dairy income in Michigan increased $8,000,000 the past fiscal year over the previous year. This represents a total income for the dairy industry of $66,000,000 produced by the 900,000 dairy cows in the state last year. During the past fiscal year over $14,000,000 worth of milk was produced by 14,000 farmers residing in the Detroit area, according to records of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association. This represents approximately 92% of the milk in the market produced by farmers who are participating in the farmers' cooperative marketing program. All of these farmers share alike in the fluid milk sales, even though some have none of their milk shipped to the city.

'ON THE LINE!' DEMANDS CIO

Steel Refuses to Sign Contracts . . . And So There's a Deadlock . . . Look to U. S. for Strike Settlement

Monroe (Mich.) Women Defended Their Husbands' Right to Strike.

THERE is no issue of wages, hours or other material demands in the strife between the independent steel corporations and John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. The corporations have agreed to all of the demands of the unions—verbally. "Verbally"—that is the word which has for weeks kept thousands of workers in eight or ten states from returning to their jobs.

The C. I. O. demands that the corporations put their agreement in the form of a written contract. The corporations refuse. And the unions have refused to call off the strikes until they get the signatures on the line.

Union officials have taken the position that if the company officials are willing to agree orally to union demands they ought to be willing to confirm the agreement in writing. Lewis has demanded that President Roosevelt intervene to force the companies to sign. At a press conference the President refused to say officially what was his reaction to the demand. He did say—and emphasized that he was not speaking "officially"—that he could not see why the companies would not make written agreements if they would make the same ones verbally.

Tom Girdler, chairman of the board of the Republic Steel corporation, explained the companies' stand:

"The reason the C. I. O. wants a signed contract is because such a contract would be the first step toward the closed shop and the check-off.

"Under the closed shop every worker has to belong to a union, whether he wants to or not. The closed shop is actually a 'deal' between the employer and the union whereby the employer helps to force every employee into the union. Under the check-off the company takes unions dues out of the pay envelopes of all its employees and hands them over to the union . . .

"Does the C. I. O. contract preserve industrial peace? It does not. They have broken numerous contracts."

Federal Intervention Asked

IT WAS virtually certain that there would be some federal action in the steel strikes, with Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio and Mayor Daniel J. Shields of Johnstown, Pa., appealing desperately to the President for aid. Governor Davey, in a long telegram detailing the arguments on both sides, declared that the situation had gone far beyond the powers of one state to control. When a worker in the Johnstown steel mills was abducted by six strikers and stripped of his clothing in their automobile (he was later released), following weeks of rioting and bloodshed, the mayor decided that kidnapping was the last straw and appealed to Mr. Roosevelt.

Secretary of Labor Frances E. Perkins named a mediation board of three to meet in Cleveland and hear the cases of the union and the companies. On the board were Charles P. Taft, son of the former President and chief justice, a Republican and lawyer from Cincinnati; Lloyd K. Garrison, who served as the first president of the National Labor Relations board in 1934, and Edward F. McGrady, first assistant secretary of labor, and a known enemy of company unions, spy systems and the tear gas method of quelling strike riots.

In Monroe, Mich., where the C. I. O. union threatened to import thousands of pickets from Detroit, a band of several hundred deputized vigilantes, armed, kept the peace, aided by the police force of twenty. In Youngstown, Ohio, Johnstown and other cities vigilante groups were also being formed.

Steel Wants Its Mail

THE Republic Steel corporation filed in the Federal District court in Washington a petition for a writ of mandamus compelling Postmaster General Farley to deliver parcel post packages to steel plants in Ohio which local postmasters have refused to deliver.

The petition charged that the local postmaster at Niles, Ohio, was refusing to deliver packages containing food and clothing and addressed to the loyal workers who were being housed inside the Republic plant. It charged that this refusal was made after the postmaster had reached an "understanding" with two members of the union.

"Having waited a week for a reply to our letter . . . to Mr. Farley and having received none, we have no recourse but to resort to such legal action as is available to us under the circumstances involved," said John S. Brooks, Jr., counsel for the corporation. He said separate suits will be instituted in Ohio against her local postmasters involved.

Court Plan Walloped

THE senate judiciary committee made short work of President Roosevelt's Supreme court packing plan. Its report, in summary: "We recommend the rejection of this bill as a needless, futile, and utterly dangerous abandonment of constitutional principle.

"It was presented to the congress in a most intricate form and for reasons that obscured its real purpose.

"It would not banish age from the bench nor abolish divided decisions.

"It would not affect the power of any court to hold laws unconstitutional, nor withdraw from any judge the authority to issue injunctions.

"It would not reduce the expense of litigation nor speed the decision of cases.

"It is a proposal without precedent and without justification.

"It would subjugate the courts to the will of congress and the President and thereby destroy the independence of the judiciary, the only certain shield of individual rights.

"It is a measure which should be so emphatically rejected that its parallel will never again be presented to the free representatives of the free people of America."

Informed Washington correspondents were of the belief that the bill hasn't a chance of being passed, even with amendments. It seemed not unlikely that, due to the confusion and conflict over White House proposals and statutes, there would be an adjournment of this session of congress shortly, perhaps to reconvene in special session beginning November 1. The breathing spell would give the administration an opportunity to align its majority more solidly behind the President's desired legislation to improve the lot of the underprivileged.

Harry Loses 1st Round

DESPITE the pleas of Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, the full senate appropriation committee approved the Byrnes amendment to the relief bill, 13 to 10. The amendment to the $1,500,000,000 bill requires local governments to pay at least 40 per cent of the cost of all WPA projects, or else sign a kind of civic "pauper's oath." The South Carolina senator's amendment was seen as further evidence of the break between the administration and the conservative Democrats.

In the senate debate on the bill it quickly became apparent that Sen. Byrnes' "40 per cent amendment" would not carry. Sen. Joseph T. Robinson offered a compromise which would require states to pay 25 per cent of the cost of work relief projects. President Roosevelt had repeatedly made it known that he wanted no such rider on his relief bill, and it was Sen. Robinson's first break with the White House on an important issue.

Capital on the Move

THE Spanish loyalist government, after another terrific bombing of the city by insurgent airplanes of the German Junkers and Heinkel types, decided to move the capital from Bilbao to Santander, but to defend Bilbao to the death. The Basque battalions reorganized for a last ditch stand to protect the broken "iron ring" of the city's defenses from the forces of General Francisco Franco. The latter, it was admitted, already had penetrated the first line of fortifications near Fica and Larrazabea, five miles to the east. Several persons were killed and many houses destroyed by the rebel bombs and machine guns. Meanwhile the loyalists were claiming important advances along the Cordoba front, bringing them to the rich coal districts held by the insurgents.

Reds Rub Out 8

FIGHT Soviet Russian generals, including Marshal Mikhail Tukhachevsky, former vice commissar of defense, learned the wrath of the Kremlin. Condemned for treason, they were led before a firing squad and killed, by order of the military tribunal of the Soviet supreme court. The court only the day before had declared them guilty of conspiring with the military intelligence service of an "unfriendly" foreign power. Although the "unfriendly" power was never named by officials, correspondents in Moscow declared indications were unmistakable that Red leaders believe the power was Nazi Germany.

Most of the Russian capital was virtually certain that the eight, who had been denied appeal, had been put to death for an ambitious plot to rob the Soviet of its western provinces and turn them over to Germany.

The Soviet purge was followed by the suicide of Alexander G. Chervakov, forty-five-year-old president of the White Russian Soviet Republic, westernmost of the Soviet Union's republics. While it was said that he had killed himself "for family reasons" his death came almost immediately after his denunciation in a meeting as a plotter against the Communist party. Hundreds of thousands of suspects were reported removed from the Communist party rolls by the government.

Fiscal Dictator for France

WHILE a congressional committee in the United States prepared to begin an investigation of alleged tax dodgers among the wealthy, Vincent Auriol, French finance minister, gave broad hints to French millionaires that they, too, had better get themselves square with the tax collector. He revealed that the tax rate will be raised on the higher bracket incomes and on products which monopolies, such as tobacco, matches and alcohol. Measures will be taken, in France's financial crisis, to prevent frightened capitalists from exporting funds abroad.

All this because the Communist party, reversing its long stand at the last minute, agreed to accept Premier Blum's proposal that he be made financial dictator of the nation for six weeks. In that time he hopes to raise the 30 billion francs needed to finance the government throughout the year. Most authorities believe that six weeks will not suffice, that he will be forced to ask for an extension of his "full emergency powers." Blum hopes that the long awaited business revival will actually set in during that period, solving the whole financial problem automatically.

We're in the Money!

IF YOU don't think things are picking up, maybe the United States Department of Commerce can convince you. It has just reported that the national income for 1936 reached a total of $62,056,000,000, and officials predicted that the figure for 1937 would reach $70,000,000,000. The all-time high was $78,632,000,000 in the dizzy boom year of 1929, and the all-time low $44,940,000,000 in 1933.

The department's report said that since 1933 the national income has risen more swiftly than prices and that the real purchasing power of individuals was much larger. Income, it said, increased 38 per cent from 1933 to 1936, while the cost of living advanced 8 per cent. The per capita income of employees last year was listed at $1,244, which was $58 more than in the preceding year and 88.4 per cent of the figure for 1929.

CIO Starts at Bottom

JOHN L. LEWIS aimed another blow at steel through the United Mine Workers, of which he is president. Workers in the captive mines (mines operated by an individual steel concern which is the sole user of the coal brought to the surface) in Pennsylvania walked out of the shafts and joined the steel picket lines. The purpose was to cripple further the steel plants now shut down or operating under difficulties while picketed; the immediate objective was the closing of the Cambria plant of Bethlehem Steel. The effectiveness of the walkout was a matter for dispute; plant officials claimed all departments were in operation but this was doubtful.

Lansing—Clocks of the state-house halls are due to be stopped at midnight Friday (June 25). It's the grand climax of Michigan's marathon talking legislative session which began a full six months ago.

When the tumult and shouting will have died down, as legislators celebrate traditionally their last night, Michigan will have an attempted answer to many pressing problems. Inevitable is the fact that many bills . . . hundreds of them in fact . . . must die in committees and on the floor during the last hurried days.

Since Gov. Frank Murphy took the oath of office on New Year's Day and a new administration assumed power at Lansing, Michigan has seen wave after wave of labor trouble, tying up industrial plants and causing entire cities to face the inconvenience of a general strike or electric power shutdown. The situation has been unprecedented.

Model Bill Abandoned

To deal with industrial strikes, the governor arranged to have a model bill drawn up by his legal adviser, Edward Kemp, with the aid of a University of Michigan authority and the attorney general's department.

The C. I. O. and A. F. of L. both objected to provisions that would have required employers and employees to make reasonable efforts at mediation before employees could go on a strike—this clause being taken from the federal railroad mediation act passed early during the Roosevelt administration. The governor apparently changed his mind, for he henceforth voiced approval of a house substitute bill.

This house substitute bill, imposing few restrictions or responsibilities on labor, met a chilly reception from John L. Lewis, C. I. O. general chairman. Lewis declared that a denial of the right to strike instantly without notice "would put Michigan back a century in labor legislation."

Doubt was expressed by capital observers whether any industrial relations measure would be passed during the last remaining days of this session.

sit-down labor trouble has grown like a prairie fire.

Philip Murray, strike leader of C. I. O., now warns of a "general civil war."

At a University of Michigan centennial program, Chester H. Rowell, a San Francisco editor, declared that the United States is on the way to a dictatorship.

At Lansing the governor, harried by legislators, maintained his calm assurance that America is merely having temporary "labor pains" as it gives birth to a new magna carta of industrial rights for the worker.

Spending Is Popular

Increased wages, higher prices, and a return of good times have combined to put the legislature in a pleasant mood. Solons have been spending money freely. In fact, the state budget will likely be out of balance as a result.

More millions for primary public schools, more millions for highways, a half million for the libraries, millions for hospital facilities, increased appropriations for all state institutions, more aid for teachers' retirement fund, and so on—this has been the record of the Senate and House.

While the governor threatened to veto measures that would put the state into debt, legislators have been responding to urgent appeals from voters back home. Organized pressure lobbies have been getting results.

"We must have more funds," was the universal cry. "Let the state help solve our problem."

The House heard Rep. John Hamilton, Detroit Democrat, proclaim the philosophy: "The voters don't care about a public debt."

Hamilton tried in vain to license organized gambling. The nearest approach to the idea was the passage of a house bill to license slot machines, restricting the "take" to 25 per cent. A dog racing licensing bill, approved by the House, failed in the Senate by a few votes—after the governor had given assurance discreetly that he would veto it.

The Saloon Returns

By a vote of 13 to 15, the Senate decided a few days ago to permit the old-time saloon bar to return in Michigan. Rejecting an amendment that would be left the state liquor act as it has been in recent years, the Senate put an O. K. on the brass rail.

Whereas tables have been required for beer and liquor service, the legislature's new plan permits customers to stand up.

The liquor commission has been given the right to open 200 more retail stores and raise prices 15 per cent.

The final vote of the senate was 19 to 9—five Republicans joining 14 Democrats for the aye vote. Nine Republicans opposed the bill.

Billboard Control

It was early in the session when the Michigan Federation of Garden Clubs backed a non-partisan bill in the legislature to license billboards in the interest of preserving highway beauty in Michigan. The measure struck a snag. Garden clubs found that commercial interests objected strenuously to the proposed tax.

As the legislature's spending mood encouraged a prospect of deficit, the administration began to look around for new revenue.

Hence the billboard bill is being revived with the blessing of the senate highway committee, not primarily to protect our scenic highways from commercial spoliation but to raise more money. Economic needs may triumph again where esthetic appeals fail.

The bill by Senator J. Neal Lamoreaux would bring into the state treasury $100 annually from every billboard outside of municipalities.

Consumer's Co-ops

Father Coughlin's National Union of Social Justice is back in the news headlines again. This time at Detroit where an affiliate, the Workers' Council for Social Justice, seeks to recruit members for purpose of collective bargaining.

Demanding that the capitalist and the industrialist "work for labor instead of the bankers," the Coughlin movement envisions a day when employers will be required to provide "purchasing agencies" to sell food, meat, clothing and other necessities to the workers without profit.

This new interpretation of the consumers' co-operative movement will be of interest to Michigan's Main Street. It appears to be another dues-gathering scheme to help the much abused worker. Further comment seems unnecessary.

This and That

THERE WAS a day when Meredith B. Auten drove to Detroit about half of the time the more staid motorist consumed in making the journey. Since last week, however, he thinks his motor pace is all too slow, and all because of a trip back to good old Maine where he graduated from college a quarter century ago. Last Wednesday morning, he left Detroit by air line for New York, then to Boston, and on the last lap of his flying trip landed in Portland, Maine, at 4:30 p. m., just six hours on the entire trip. Bowdoin College graduates, too, had changed their pace, he noticed. Less pep and more rheumatics now than diploma time!

LOUIS I. WOOD marched with the Shriners in their big parade at Detroit the first of the week, at the big international convention of the Masonic play-boys. This is the fourth big convention of this kind that Mr. Wood has attended as a member of Elf Khurafah Band of Saginaw. Two times he marched with Shriners bands in parades in Washington, D. C., and once in Los Angeles, California. Mrs. Wood watched from the sidelines in Detroit all the band boys keep step with Lou.

WILLIAM MARTUS, Jr., has decided to go to school again, though he stands many chances for reprimands if the professors are strict about his keeping regular hours in the school building. Bill has been awarded the contract for driving the school bus which will transport the children of the Winton School district next year to the Cass City schools where they will receive their instruction.

WHEN THE new minister of the Evangelical Church arrives here this week-end, he will find his garden free from weeds. Six of the industrious gardeners of the congregation gathered Tuesday evening in a hoeing bee with the Boy Scout idea of doing a good deed daily.

Mrs. Bessie Hirschberg returned Monday to her home in Saginaw from Nashville, Tenn., where she attended the graduation of her son, Howard, from Vanderbilt University, at which time the degree of Doctor of Medicine was conferred upon him. ADAMS REUNION.

The annual reunion of the Adams family was held at Lake Pleasant June 20. After a beautiful potluck dinner was served, the following officers were elected: President, Clarence Quick, of Deford; vice president, Mrs. Quincey Morley, of East Detroit; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harold Hendrick, of Wickware. It was voted to hold the next reunion at the same place next year.

Those from this vicinity who attended the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fulcher and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hendrick and son of Wickware, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Quick of Deford, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hendrick and two children of Kingston.

Overcoming Tuberculosis
By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

THE first thought in treating a patient is to learn just what is causing the symptoms. Sometimes the symptoms are not very severe or pronounced and the physician has to make a number of examinations before he feels certain of the nature of the trouble.

Thus a few years ago when a young adult complained of being tired all the time and losing weight, the physician would suspect tuberculosis or "consumption," as it was then called, but there might not be much in the way of other symptoms to guide him. There might be very little cough, no pain in the chest, no spitting of blood.

Dr. Barton

However, since the discovery of the valuable help that an X-ray of the chest can give, this method of examination is now used everywhere to prove or disprove the existence of a tuberculous spot or spots in the lung tissue.

Death Rate at Its Lowest.

When we remember that some years ago a victim of tuberculosis was doomed just as was a victim of pernicious anaemia and diabetes until quite recently, it is gratifying to know that the fight against tuberculosis is now successful. Thus during the past year the death rate from tuberculosis in North America is the lowest it has ever been.

The treatment has not varied during the past thirty years; it consists of fresh air and sunshine, rest, and nourishing food. When the temperature keeps at normal, light exercise is given which is gradually increased up to five hours of light work daily.

Rest is the biggest factor in the treatment because every movement of the body means that a little more air must be breathed into the lungs and if the lungs are to heal they also must be resting, as much as possible.

Causes of Underweight.

When an individual is apparently going down hill physically, face pale, skin pallid or "dirty-looking," loss of strength, loss of weight, dislike for any mental or physical work, pains in joints and muscles, tongue pale, flabby and easily marked or indented by the teeth, then it is not hard to understand that something is certainly wrong in the body somewhere. If little red spots appear on the skin, first on the legs and later on other parts, which spots later become quite large as if blood were immediately under the skin, and swellings appear in the bend of the elbows and knees, the physician knows that he has a well developed case of scurvy to treat.

Scurvy, or scorbutis as it is called, is due to a lack of vitamin C in the food that is eaten and so fruit and vegetables containing this vitamin—canned or fresh—is the immediate treatment. These foods are oranges, lemons, combined with meat juice or the white of egg, later followed by other foods containing vitamin C, that is potatoes, watercress, raw cabbage, onions, carrots, turnips, tomatoes.

However, physicians have been realizing for some years now that there are other conditions in the body in which, though the symptoms are not so outstanding as in scurvy, are nevertheless due to a lack of some necessary mineral or vitamin in the foods eaten; at least not enough of these substances to fulfill the needs of this particular individual.

Thus a patient may be pale, lack strength, have little or no appetite, and an examination of the blood will show that anaemia—lack of iron—is present. Although the iron contained in all the cells of the body is only 1 part in 25,000 of the body weight, nevertheless every one of these tiny cells must have some iron in it if it is to do its work properly. The foods containing, or rich in, iron are meat (especially liver), egg yolk, leafy vegetables—spinach, dandelion greens—beans and peas, fresh and dried.

Another mineral that is often lacking, one which is needed for building bone and teeth, building nerve tissue and making the blood more "sticky" and thus helping the healing of sores, ulcers, and other skin conditions is calcium, or lime as it is usually called. The individual wonders why he feels so weak, lacks appetite, and has little resistance to ailments. The treatment here is the eating of foods that are rich in lime. The foods rich in lime are spinach, cauliflower, turnip, dried peas and beans, dates, figs, raisins, milk, cheese, egg-yolk.

It is surprising the way an increase in the foods containing iron and calcium, most of which are likewise rich in phosphorus also, increase the weight, appetite, and general health and strength of many "run-down" individuals.

In the summer of 1930, Dakota Wesleyan University at Mitchell, South Dakota, conferred upon Mr. Holsaple the degree of Doctor of Laws, the first degree of its kind to be conferred by that institution for about 20 years. Mr. and Mrs. Holsaple have two children, Mrs. Helen Wallis of Chicago and Robert Earl Holsaple of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who has been connected with General Motors organization for several years.

Dr. Holsaple's first pastorate was at Litchfield, Michigan, where his salary was set at $150 for the year. "They were apparently so well pleased with the young minister or else felt so sorry for me that they overpaid me $1.50 at the end of the year," Mr. Holsaple jokingly says.

if many germs get in, or if the person's resistance is weakened, they may grow in numbers. They are like the weed seeds which, if given a chance, destroy the garden.

Tuberculosis is frequently spread by someone who does not know he has it. When one person in a family is found to have tuberculosis, all others should be examined. The others may have given the disease to the known case or may have contracted it from him. The microscope, the X-ray, and the tuberculin test all help to find the disease in its early forms.

Tuberculosis can only be eliminated from the community by finding the foci that are spreading the germs and by controlling and treating such foci.

Glad to Get Back.

A grandfather visited a household in which he had a little grandson who had spent part of the summer at a boys' camp. The lad talked so enthusiastically about the camp that his grandfather offered a slight reminder. "After all, though," he remarked, "you were rather glad to get home, weren't you?"

"Well," replied the lad thoughtfully, "Not 'specially.' Then after a bit he added: "Some of the fellows were—those that had dogs."
