COUNCIL ACTS ON SWIMMING POOL

Agrees to Maintenance After Its Construction by Community Subscriptions.

The village council, at its session Monday night, decided to furnish the site for a community swimming pool in the city park and assume the maintenance and management of such a project when it is turned over to the village free from debt. The pool, it is understood, would be subject to regulations prescribed by the village trustees and the intentions are to make its privileges available to children without charge.

Blue prints for the construction of a pool have been received from the Michigan Board of Health, who strongly recommend the construction of a pool in the village and discourage a river site. An estimate made by A. T. Barnes and E. B. Schwaderer figure the cost of a 45 by 100 ft. pool with plumbing, bathhouses, showers and other equipment at $4,000. These figures include the necessary outlay for labor as well as material. It is estimated that it will take four weeks for construction.

Frederick Pinney and M. B. Auten, on Tuesday, were appointed as a finance committee. They plan to raise money by public subscriptions and have met with a generous and encouraging response in the first few days.

A. T. Barnes, E. L. Schwaderer and E. B. Schwaderer have been requested to serve as a building committee.

The erection of a pool in the city park will serve as a nucleus for a more elaborate playground in the village.

A chicken dinner for the couple and other relatives was given Sunday noon at the home of the bride's brother, Ray Silvernail, west and south of Cass City.

M. S. C. to Show Farming Science

There may be "nothing new under the sun" but the staff of Michigan State College intends to show a parade of new agricultural science to the thousands of farm visitors in the annual Farmers' Day program on the campus at East Lansing, Friday, July 30.

New type barn roof construction is involved in one agricultural engineering demonstration. Miniature buildings will be tested for stresses and roof load limit. New floor finishes for cement, wood and linoleum will interest farmers as well as their wives.

Grazing management and time of cutting alfalfa are farm crops offerings during the day. In addition the department will show results of sugar beet transplants, time of plowing sweet clover for beans, soybean varieties and culture and potato experiments.

Twenty-six brood mares and their colts will be one of the program features for the animal husbandry department. The dairy department will exhibit results of a breeding program with proven sires. Forestry staff members will show how to handle blowing sand with tree plantings. Poultry demonstrations will include use of summer shelters for growing pullets.

The annual program starts off in the morning with a new type pulling endurance contest for competitive teams matched against a pair of college geldings. Trophies for the best team and the best teamster are offered by the Michigan Horse Breeders' Association.

After the contest and departmental programs, the afternoon entertainment and education will include a fact parade depicting the sources and size of Michigan's agricultural income. E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture, V. R. Gardner, experiment station director, and R. J. Baldwin, extension director, will make brief addresses.

K. C. BARKLEY SELLS AUTO BUSINESS

H. M. Bulen of Charleston, West Virginia, Took Possession This Week.

K. C. Barkley has sold his stock of new Chevrolet cars, automobile parts and accessories equipment to H. M. Bulen of Charleston, West Virginia, and has leased the sales and garage building on East Main St. to Mr. Bulen. The new owner will conduct the business under the name of the Bulen Chevrolet Sales. The Comment Chevrolet Sales will continue to be the associate dealer at Gagetown.

Mr. Bulen, a native of Columbus, Ohio, attended the Ohio State University in that city and in 1929 graduated from the Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pa. He has had a wide experience in the automobile business since that time. In Columbus, he was employed as a retail salesman by the Winder Motor Sales. In 1932, he had a similar position in Cincinnati. In 1933 and 1934, he was in Flint in a regional sales office of General Motors, and the following two years, Mr. Bulen was manager of the Charleston zone office of the Chevrolet branch of General Motors Co.

Mr. Bulen and Miss Virginia Whitaker of Charleston were married in St. Johns Episcopal Church in that city early in July. After a trip to Chicago and through Wisconsin, they spent 10 days at Indian River, Mich., before coming to Cass City. They are starting housekeeping in the K. C. Barkley residence on South Seger St., which they have leased from Mr. Barkley. K. C. Barkley will enter the automobile business again and says he expects to conduct a larger dealership agency early in 1938.

Bailey Family Saw Many Interesting Sights in Three Weeks' Trip in Western States

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bailey, daughter, Miss Lucile, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Clare Bailey, returned Tuesday from a three weeks' vacation in the West.

The following was taken from letters sent to members of the family while they were gone.

While visiting relatives in Ortville, Minn., and Big Stone, South Dakota, the two cities being across the river from each other, we were taken to the stone cutting plants where we saw the stone (granite) brought in from the quarries, cut into shape, polished, printed and sand blasted, ready for shipment as tombstones.

Through parts of South Dakota and Montana we saw where the sand storms and hot dry weather of the last few years had left very few trees. Acres of woods, where but a few years ago stood hundreds of beautiful trees now are just dead wood. Crops also have been failures in places throughout that part of Dakota but prospects are very good for much better crops this year.

We drove for hours in South Dakota and Montana and saw only a straggly tree now and then. We also drove miles and miles on roads, high rocks on each side, winding through the Montana Bad Lands with not a tree or house in sight

RR LOANS REACH $70,662 IN TUSCOLA

Were Made to 84 Farmers in 20 Months Says Co. Supervisor.

Rural Rehabilitation loans, totaling $70,662.08, were made to eight-four farmers in Tuscola County since the establishment of the loaning program twenty months ago, according to a review made this week by John McDurmon, county supervisor.

The loans, according to the policy of the Rural Rehabilitation Division, are made to deserving and needy operators who, because of the insufficient collateral, are unable to secure the necessary credit from other agencies. Applicants are required to have suitable land resources and evidence of sufficient farm experience and managerial ability to repay the loan within a five year period.

As the basis upon which to make loans to eligible farmers, practical "farm plans" including summaries of last year's business and financial statements are developed for them by the county supervisor. Definite provisions are made in the farm plans for a sufficient livestock and crop program and emphasis is placed on producing maximum amounts of home grown products for family use. Careful consideration is given to the farm and household budgets, setting aside a sufficient balance from the income to repay at least one-fifth of the loan, plus five per cent interest each year.

Funds borrowed by farmers were used for the purpose of livestock, feed, seed, and farm equipment, many of these needs being caused by the drought of 1934 and 1936.

The Rural Rehabilitation program originated in 1934 under the direction of the Michigan Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, and July 1, 1935, all of the work was transferred to the Rural Rehabilitation Division of the Resettlement Administration.

20 AUTO ACCIDENTS IN PAST TWO WEEKS

Were Investigated by Sheriff of Tuscola or Reported to His Office.

Twenty motor vehicle accidents in Tuscola County in the 14 days preceding July 21 were either investigated by Sheriff Jeffrey's department or reported at the sheriff's office. In two of these, motorists hit cows and in several others reported the past week, damages to cars were slight and no injuries resulted.

On July 18, Vance VanWorm, a Vassar boy, was struck by an automobile driven by Ed C. Harris of Hazel Park as the lad attempted to cross M-15, a mile south of Vassar, in front of the car. He was taken to the office of Dr. Swanson in Vassar for treatment.

As Mrs. Roy Wagg was coming from the west, she turned left to drive a mile north into Fairgrove and the car she was driving was hit by one driven by Ed St. Mary, who was travelling south at the rate of 45 miles on hour on July 17. Freda Wagg, a passenger in the Wagg car, received slight injuries.

Travelling north on M-15, a mile south of Vassar, Stephen Sieja of Wyandotte was behind Ed Reynolds of Davison. Sieja evidently lost control of his car when he applied the brakes to slow down and his car swerved, skidded and overturned at a highway intersection. Sieja and his companion, Edward Maytkowiak, were injured.

Sheriff Geo. Jeffrey's car was damaged on the morning of July 21. Turn to page 5, please.

WILL THIS be a common sight 10 years from now? Francis E. Jenkins of Midland is shown here as he registered his airplane for a day's stay at the Huron State Park, located north of Caseville. Jenkins is believed to be the first airplane visitor ever registered at a Michigan State park. The plane was landed on the firm sand of the wide Huron Park beach. The incident brought out the thought that perhaps the state parks of the future will be equipped with landing fields as a further attraction to tourists.

KILLED IN FALL FROM CHURCH STEEPLE

Funeral of Herbert T. Pardo, Elmwood Pioneer, Held on Wednesday Afternoon

Herbert T. Pardo, 79-year-old citizen of Caro and a pioneer of Tuscola County, was killed Monday afternoon when he fell from the steeple of the Caro Baptist Church, about 70 feet to the ground. Mr. Pardo and Rev. Richard Terwilliger, pastor of the Sunshine M. P. Church in Elmwood Township, were engaged in shingling the church steeple when the accident occurred. Pardo working on a lower scaffold, was handing a step-ladder to Terwilliger, who was on a scaffold above, when the ladder caught on shingles and Pardo lost his balance and fell to the ground. They had worked on the job several days.

Born at Colchester, Ont., Dec. 17, 1857, Herbert Pardo came with his parents to Elmwood Township, Tuscola County, when he was 13 years of age. On May 1, 1879, at Cass City, he was united in marriage with Miss Belle Bond. They resided on a farm eight miles west and a half mile north of Cass City until 17 years ago when they moved to Caro. Mr. Pardo was unusually active and industrious for a man of advanced age.

He is survived by his widow and two children, Brock S. Pardo of Pontiac and Mrs. Bessie R. Wilson of Windsor, Ont.; five brothers, Charles, Lewis and Helmer Pardo of Seattle, Wash., Gordon Pardo of Pontiac, and John Pardo of Detroit; and two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Showers and Mrs. Alice Trockmorton, both of Seattle, Wash.

Funeral services were held at the Sunshine M. P. Church, where Mr. Pardo had been a member for many years, on Wednesday afternoon and burial was made in Elmwood Cemetery.

VACATION PHILOSOPHY.

The philosophers say that everyone should have a vacation. The old proverb had it that "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." If you put on the same old harness and pull along the same old rut day after day, it is supposed to create sore spots that diminish your working power. They say you can do more work in 50 weeks in a year than in 52.

Many people never get a vacation. The toiling farmer and his wife usually drill right along through the year. The crops have to be harvested in summer and the cows and pigs fed in winter. On the other hand, in many irregular industries there are so many idle days for the workers, that they are looking for less vacation rather than more.

The large element of folks who do take a rest each year need some wise philosophy. If the man who sits on an office stool 50 weeks in a year tries to climb a mountain, play seven sets of tennis or 36 holes of golf every vacation day, he need not be surprised if the folks comment on his thin and haggard face on his return.

The teacher who through 40 weeks of school is strained up tighter than the high string on a fiddle, probably needs just to sit in a hammock, look at the river, and hear the birds sing. Unfortunately, she may have brought along a small library on pedagogy and psychology, which continues the strain through the rest time.

If you come back to your job with a certain distaste, and hate to set your foot in the pleasant home surroundings, you are probably not well rested. If the vacation has done you good, you should come back to familiar scenes with a cheer, determined to do twice as good work in the coming year.

SMALL FAMILIES.

Some people feel alarmed because they see so many educated and influential families that have only one or two children each, perhaps none at all. They say these gifted people aren't doing much to pass on their fine ideas and principles to the next generation.

The principal reason why people have small families is that it costs so much now for what is considered adequate education and care of children. Many young people marry late in life, which means fewer children. The costs of bringing up a family are too great. People think they must spend a lot of money to be comfortable. They must keep up with their neighbors, have costly clothes, operate an automobile beyond their means, etc. If they and their children could be content to live in a simpler way, the expense of bringing up a family would not seem so prohibitive.

IMAGINE!

Imagine the Democrats passing a bill through Congress to give a salary to the leader of the Republican opposition.

It seems ridiculous, doesn't it? Nevertheless, that is just what conservative British legislators have done. A new act of Parliament provides a salary of $10,000 a year for the "leader of the Opposition."

VACATION STAY-AT-HOMES.

There are millions of folks who never get away from home on any vacation or tourist trips. Can they make the summer season pleasant and beneficial?

While the tourists are exuberantly stepping on the gas and hitting the high spots of travel, they are not always very happy. Some of them are forever complaining. The bed was so hard that they tossed to and fro all night. Or the eats were bad, and their stomachs kicked about tough beefsteak and water-soaked pie crust.

Most people are never quite as comfortable as they are in their own home bed, and eating the kind of food they are used to at home. They may be happier than those who are shedding the dollars on some trip the way a duck sheds the rain.

The sky overhead here in the Thumb of Michigan has just as heavenly a blue as it has over Venice in Italy, or the highlands of Scotland. The sunsets are as glorious in Michigan as they are in England or France. You can have as much fun enjoying the picnic eats and ball game within 10 miles of home as you can in any sports the world can furnish you.

There is one thing you get at home that you can't get elsewhere, and that is friendship. If you go far from home and put up at some nice hotel, the guests look you over with a cold and appraising eye, and you might not make any friends if you stayed there a month. In your home town you get smiles and handclaps every day, and they are worth more than grand buildings and superb monuments. If you are ambitious for knowledge and self improvement, the world of newspapers and magazines and books is easy to reach in your home town.

THE PRINTED WORD.

"Oh, that my words were now written, Oh, that they were printed in a book." The above line of poetry was written some 2,200 years ago, and appears in the Book of Job in the Bible. Back even in those remote times, the author of that famous poem realized that words go infinitely farther when they are printed. Your own words go only to the few people who can hear you, the printed word reaches all who can read.

The realization of that truth known so many years ago, has been the secret of the business success of countless people. Instead of trying to sell goods to the few people whom they could meet in their stores, they told their story to the whole community through the printed word.

The printed word in a newspaper speaks simultaneously to the folks who read that sheet, while the spoken word often reaches only one person at a time.

FRESH AIR KIDDIES.

Parties of children largely classed as "under privileged," are being sent out from congested city streets in many cities, for outings in camps and other country surroundings. "Fresh air excursions" is the name usually given to these parties. They need fresh air and plenty of it.

The life of the more crowded sections of great cities is not favorable to healthful child growth. Many of these youngsters look pale, thin, and peaked, and are underweight, or show signs of undernourishment. The stuffy homes of a crowded district are not conducive to health. The outdoor air is apt to be smoky and stifling. Pretty hard for a kid to grow up strong under such conditions.

The country scenes are a revelation to many children. Meadows spangled with starry flowers, waving trees, blue hills in the distance, what a picture for the youth whose horizon was previously bounded by seedy dwellings and dingy streets! The lowing cows and woolly sheep and grunting pigs are a fascinating and novel sight to many of these youngsters.

Children ought to come back from a fortnight in the country air with more color in their faces and more hope in their hearts. They see that the world is far wider and brighter than the dingy scenes of the home street would suggest.

Yet these youngsters may be quite ready to go home when the outing ends. Perhaps the country seems lonely to them. They perhaps long for the life and noise and excitement of the city street. "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home." Still, the experience must have done them good. It should put new energy into their little bodies, and convince them that if they show force and ambition, they can rise above humble surroundings.

While some folks are dreaming about lucky turns that will bring them prosperity, but never getting anywhere from these visions, others are creating prosperity by their own hard work and intelligence.

Some people allow refuse to collect around their homes and remain there week after week, and then complain that it is impossible to keep a place looking well in these times.

Half the world wonders how the other half does it and the other half wonders why the first half doesn't do it.

Boys and girls who do foolish things ought to be taught to think.

Not knowing what the styles will be 20 years from now it's a little hard to say where the children should be vaccinated.

Every man and woman should take time for healthy exercise even if it puts the doctors on a sit-down strike.

Photographers will tell you that most women like to have their photographs retouched.

One of these days the world may find itself unthreatened by war but, if it does, the peoples of the world will be on substantially the same standard of living.

People will go a long distance to find a real bargain. But the bargain has to be advertised, or they won't know it exists.

While I Have Youth

by LAWRENCE HAWTHORNE

Swiftly the years of a lifetime go fleeting
Into the shadows of infinite night,
Often a man's golden purpose defeating—
Striking him down in the midst of the fight.
Day after day, precious moments desert us,
Silently stealing beyond our recall—
Moments whose actions have helped us or hurt us,
Aiding our progress or speeding our fall.

Brief is the morning of childhood's enjoyment,
Briefer the noontime of youth's eager play;
Quickly the period of manhood's employment
Fades into age, like the closing of day.
Always the finger of Time is recording
Triumph or failure, achievement or loss;
Fate views the page, and is ever awarding
Honors of gold or demerits of cross.

Oh, let me learn the great lessons of living
While I have youth! Let me not fail to see
That, every moment of life, God is giving
Something of priceless importance to me!
If I will meet each new day with decision
Always to do what I know to be right,
Then shall I go with assurance of vision
Into the deepening shadows of night.

Children in Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield.

A grocer's son was taken into custody yesterday in a nearby city by an inspector of the Bureau of Weights and Measures. The young man frankly admitted that he conceived the idea of short weighing orders after having once heard his father boast of a fraudulent practice by which a slight advantage was gained over a customer.

It was also discovered that the young man had deliberately failed over a period of six months of ringing up on the cash register all money taken in. The court was not impressed by the father's indignation and frankly informed him that he had no complaint to make so long as he himself cheated his customers in his son's presence.

BAILEY FAMILY SAW MANY INTERESTING SIGHTS

ing the state fish hatchery in Lewistown, we enjoyed a hamburger fry one evening when 20 relatives were present. We were also entertained at a trout breakfast at the Leonard Zinnecker home and a fish dinner in honor of the birthday of Leonard's father, George Zinnecker, brother of Mrs. Bailey and also Mrs. Anna Thiel of Hobart, Ind., who was also a guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel LaFond of Lewistown visited us one afternoon. Mr. LaFond worked in Cass City for A. A. P. McDowell a number of years ago. Mrs. LaFond is a former Bad Axe girl.

From Montana, accompanied by Mrs. Thiel, we left for Yellowstone Park, and words fail to tell the wonders and beauties we saw while there.

There are 3,000 hot springs and geysers in the park. In addition to these are many thousands of vents through which steam and other gases escape. While watching them, one cannot help asking where the heat comes from to produce these wonders. In talking to the rangers, we found that not all problems have been solved but many conclusions have been reached.

Of course, we visited "Old Faithful," the most noted geyser in the world today. It leaps to a height of 150 feet and the eruptions are from 40 to 70 minutes apart. To us there seemed others even more wonderful. For instance, the Sapphire Pool and Biscuit Basin. The pool and biscuit formation make a very attractive section of the park. The biscuits are enticing but too well done. The Morning Glory Pool is another beautiful sight and really makes one think of a large morning glory. It has won its name from the symmetry and depth of its crater and the blue color of its water.

The varying shades of color found in the more or less unique phenomenon, "The Fountain Paint Pot," have caused many to liken it to an artist's paint pot. It is a siliceous clay up through which gas is bubbling.

We saw many bears while at the park and the last evening there went to see them fed. About 50, mostly of the grizzly bear variety, but a few black ones, were fed while we were there and a talk was given by one of the rangers on "Care and Feeding of the Bear." Hundreds of California sea gulls and a few ravens were also feeding with the bear.

We experienced many thrills while at the park but none can compare to the thrill (if one could call it that) we received on our way home when going up Big Horn Mountain by way of Greybull. The narrow road winds for miles and miles up the side of the mountain and we had held our breath, closed our eyes and all but crawled into the bottom of the car in going up 20 miles when our car stopped and the old saying is "Too many cooks spoil the broth," three men coming up the mountain decided to help and a small trouble became a serious one. With much difficulty the car was turned around on a small ledge and we were compelled to coast down the 20 miles. We never knew when we would meet a car on one of the sharp curves. Then we coasted and were pushed another ten miles before we came to a garage and we were back where we had started from in the morning. The next day we continued our journey by another route where the drives had fewer curves.

Our next point of interest was the Black Hills of South Dakota, the highest mountains in North America, east of the Rockies. These are covered with a vast forest of blue spruce, Norway, yellow and other pines, which appear black in the distance. While in the Black Hills, we saw Mt. Rushmore National Memorial. There on a rugged granite mountain the colossal task of carving the figures of George Washington, Thos. Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt is being carried on. To give you an idea of the size of the figures, the face is 60 feet from top to chin; the eyes measure 9 feet across; and the mouths are 18 feet in width. When completed each bust will measure 230 feet from waist to brow. The buttons on Washington's coat will measure 6 feet across.

Through South Dakota and Iowa we drove past field after field of wheat cut and in many places being threshed from the field. They told us wheat was very good this year; that one man's wheat had averaged 60 bushels to the acre. The tall waving fields of corn through Iowa also tell one of the richness of its farm land.

These are just a few of the many interesting things we saw and did on our trip. Roads were good, weather fine and western hospitality of the best. Our only regret was that you were not with us.

Concluded from first page.

15 when it was hit by one driven by Asa Wilcox of Caro, on M-85, near Mayville. The Wilcox car, in attempting to pass a truck going up hill, turned left into the path of the sheriff's car going north. Deputy Sheriff Brady received slight injuries, but Deputy J. A. Caldwell, riding with him escaped with a whole skin. "First time I've been in a car accident in nearly 30 years of experience with automobiles," says Mr. Caldwell. The Wilcox car went into a ditch on the left side of the road and the sheriff's auto crossed a ditch and went into the Turner school yard.

Cars driven by Bob Kucei and Craton Husted were badly damaged when they met at a highway intersection two miles west of the Caro Standpipe on Saturday afternoon. Both drivers received cuts in the accident.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

MABEL has been busy on her side porch the last few days. We've had glimpses of her through the trees that dip between her house and our study window. So we were dying to go by and get a good look at things.

We found that she had bought two new porch chairs—reed with beige cushions—a new green porch rug and a new green slat-type roll awning for one side to complement the beige and green striped canvas awning that she already had. She had kept her old wicker settee, making new beige cushions for it, and had brushed up the wicker table to match it. For this she had bought a new tray, quite a big one with a glass over the bottom and firm wicker handles so that a load of refreshments can be carried out and served right from the tray set on the table. She uses natural color stone wear cookie jars and pitchers, with green linen napkins fringed all around and green glassware.

Mabel is a nice hostess anyway, so you can imagine what pleasant afternoons and evenings her family and friends will have here during the outdoor months. In the evenings she uses fat candles in old time hurricane chimneys. They give a pleasant shadowy light that's adequate for any need here but reading. And as Mabel remarked about the candle light, "A lady should always remember to flatter herself without actually bringing the subject up." Well, Mabel's husband dotes on her, so take your choice!

But there are lots of other becoming things you could do for summer comfort. We like a wrought iron table with a glass top—this will reflect a pot of flowers in its base effectively, can hold magazines and cigarettes and that pitcher of iced tea and will do double duty as an outdoor dining table. Chairs should be bought primarily for complete relaxation. The Adirondack variety are tilted just right for comfort but are a little hard, so invest in one or two beach mats to pad them. Get mats that are water-proof and fold up into a handy roll, for they will also be handy when daughter is holding court with the local swains. (Why is it that teen-age boys love to sprawl so?) All chairs should be easy but you might think of yourself for an especially comfortable one. . . . a luxurious chaise-longue on gentle, low rockers is our idea of solid summer joy.

Freshening Up.

Finger to cheek, a lady sits of a morning, wondering just what she should do to freshen up the scene for the summer.

How about your lamp shades? Don't tell us that you've bought a lot of those oil silk covers to hide your lovely lamps! We are all in favor of saving beautiful things from the ravages of summer dust, but we're not in favor of hiding our light under a bushel—or under an oil silk cover. Our suggestion would be to change lamp shades with the seasons. Crisp, light, ridiculously inexpensive shades can replace more elaborate silk shades for summer.

Lamp Shades Should Be Changed With the Seasons, Too.

mer and give the house a crisp, cool appearance; or clever fingers can fashion decorator-shades at microscopic prices.

White linen or pique shades on a series of living-room lamps, for example, especially in a room where the slip-covers on the furniture have chalk white backgrounds with sprawling, luscious roses in the pattern. And pale green walls, white linen draperies and white pottery on the mantel to finish a particularly cool and inviting summer living room.

Then there might be frilled organdy, dotted swiss, gingham, chintz, or dimity shades for lamps in a bedroom. Simply shir them on a wire frame. If you are ambitious you will probably be sewing away like mad on a new summer bedspread and curtains for your own bedroom. Use your left-over material to make lamp shades for your bureau or dressing table and complete the hot weather ensemble with a flourish.

Old hat boxes are the obvious answer to the storage problem for winter lamp shades.

GOV. LICENSED PLANES AND PILOTS

Safe and Sane DRIVING

BY THE NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

THE PEDESTRIAN'S RIGHTS.

Yes, indeed, the pedestrians do have rights, although sometimes drivers are reluctant to admit them.

At the intersection with a "Stop-Go" signal light, the person on foot has the right to cross on the green in dignified comfort. If the yellow flashes while he is still on the cross-walk, he has both the moral and legal right to keep on and clear the crossing without jumping to avoid death.

Moreover, if he is proceeding over this cross-walk on the green signal, and the motor cars are entering the intersection parallel with him, which intend to turn either to right or left across his path, he still has the right-of-way; and these turning cars must allow him to proceed without interference.

If, however, there is no "Stop-Go" signal light, the pedestrian still has reasonable rights at other intersections. He will, of course, not attempt to cross if motor vehicles are streaming by thickly. But when opportunity occurs, he has a right to cross on the cross-walk.

On this cross-walk, he should be allowed the right-of-way, and approaching drivers should see that he has a safe passage.

Ambergris From Whales

Ambergris, a waxy substance vomited by whales, is used as the base of costly perfumes and is worth twice its weight in gold. A New Bedford fisherman once found a store of it inside a whale. It weighed 786 pounds and brought him more than $100,000 in the market.

Wasps Imported for Peach Crop

Native wasps in Michigan have offered many stinging insults to residents of the state, but the small wasps recently imported by airplane from the East are expected to be cheered along in their life's work.

For the new wasps are a parasite that fight the larvae of the Oriental fruit moth. The latter is becoming a serious pest in peach orchards in the state. In a year when a good crop is in prospect, the wasps are welcome. The entomology department at Michigan State College, helping in the distribution of about 2,000 of these wasps, promises they will not trouble humans.

Lady bug beetles are the best natural and native parasites Michigan possesses. Numerous other parasites have been imported and tried out by the entomology department.

Ray Hutson, head of the department, reports that this fruit moth parasite wasp is the only one that has ever proven effective as an importation.

The wasps have come from the United States parasitic laboratory at Moorestown, N. J. They are shipped by airmail in small wooden boxes four inches square by eight inches long. These containers are ventilated and contain syrup to feed the wasps.

When liberated the wasps go seeking the fruit moth larvae. They lay eggs in this larvae. When the eggs hatch the young wasps eat up the larvae for food and grow up to go out seeking more pests. Sixteen colonies have been placed in seven counties.

Tips on Clothing Praise Hot Iron

Hot weather or cool, the dress-maker who wants to obtain praise for the clothes she wears or sells should put the pressing iron after it has cooled off. For pressing in the minds of clothing specialists is a major part in adding a tailored look to new clothes, even before the goods are cut.

Suggestions from Marjorie Eastman, clothing specialist at Michigan State College, offers the conclusion that pressing is important at various stages of the work as well as when the garment is finished.

She suggests first pressing the folds and wrinkles out of the fabric before starting to cut it. If the parts of the pattern are pressed, the cutting can be more accurate, too.

If ornamental features, such as pockets, are made before sewing up the seams, they can be pressed while the section is flat. Collars, cuffs and other parts made separately, may be more conveniently pressed as they are completed and before they are attached to the garment. After darts, tucks or pleats have been basted and that portion of the garment tried on, it is time to stitch and then press these details.

Stitched seams are pressed open, particularly if they are later crossed by other seams, as when the waist and skirt of a dress are joined. Sometimes the iron can be used instead of basting a hem or turning a narrow edge. It is a great help in making bias binding or piping that must be folded evenly.

Weevils Costly in Bins of Grain

Profits possible in the grain crop now being harvested in Michigan easily can be tossed into the stomachs of weevils. For the pests, eating up the last of the grain stored from previous seasons, are waiting to pounce upon newly threshed grain.

Clean up the bins before a new crop is poured in, warn members of the entomology department at Michigan State College. Wheat, a good crop this year, especially is subject to weevil attacks. Rye, barley and oats also should be protected.

First in the cleanup campaign is the wielding of a stiff strawed broom. Any sweeping gathered up should be burned to destroy the boarders.

Then the bins should be scrubbed with a solution of lye in water. One pound to a gallon makes an effective solution that will not leave sufficient residue to harm the grain. Bins should then be dried and aired out before grain is stored.

Further protection can be obtained. More farmers should line their grain bins with metal, or at least with paper, the college men suggest. Metal lining will help keep out rats. Even paper lining has advantage because if the bin of grain becomes infested with weevils it will be tight enough to permit fumigation.

Falls 'Face to Battle'

WHEN Sen. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas dropped dead of a heart attack in his apartment across from the United States capitol, the President's plan for securing new appointments to the Supreme court bench, even in its amended form, died with him.

That is the belief of close observers in Washington. For "Joe" Robinson was the President's tower of strength in the legislative branch of the government. He had served the Democratic party well in the senate since 1913, and as the majority leader in the upper house since 1932.

Joe Robinson's job it was to keep a smooth balance between the conservative democrats, largely of the South, and the more radical members of the party from the North and West, so that the objectives of the New Deal could be turned out of the legislative mill.

Robinson never fought harder than he did in his last battle. As he worked hard and long in an attempt to get the "compromise" court plan passed, often raising his voice and exerting himself mightily in senate arguments, it was apparent to his colleagues that he was not well. Sen. Royal S. Copeland, the only physician in the senate, had several times asked him to calm himself lest he hasten his own death.

While the senate was adjourned for Robinson's funeral, administration leaders sought to rally support so the court bill could be passed, even without the late senator's leadership. But the opposition forces were equally determined to take advantage of the psychological aspect of the senate following Robinson's death—the desire to effect a peace, finish the session's business in a hurry and get away from the capital.

The forces opposed to the bill believed that when the issue came up again they would be successful in recommitting the substitute bill to the judiciary committee, an effective way of killing it. The indication of opposition greater than had been expected in the house of representatives was another factor pointing to the eventual fall of the bill.

Another battle was not long in getting under way: to decide who the new majority leader of the senate should be. Conservative Democrats were anxious to wrest a measure of control from the White House by backing Sen. Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who has been faithful to the President, but is fundamentally conservative. The more radical senators backed Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic national convention keynoter, who had been Robinson's assistant as floor leader. Another prospect was Sen. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, but it was believed his strength would eventually be transferred to Harrison.

Another thing that had Washington guessing as a result of Robinson's death was the vacancy on the Supreme court left by the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter. Robinson, it was generally believed, was to have received the appointment.

Struggle in the Senate

TWELVE Democratic senators and one Farmer-Laborite were believed to hold the fate of the administration's substitute for the original bill which would increase the number of Supreme court justices to 15. The administration was certain that the bill would receive at least 38 votes, with 48 necessary to a majority since Senator Robinson's death. Forty-three senators were definitely committed against it. Thirteen were still uncommitted as the battle raged on the senate floor and in the cloak-rooms.

The twelve uncommitted Democrats were: Andrews (Fla.), Bone

(Wash.), Brown (N. H.), Caraway (Ark.), Duffy (Wis.), Johnson (Colo.), Lewis (Ill.), Murray (Mont.), Overton (La.), Pepper (Fla.), Russell, Jr. (Ga.) and Wagner (N. Y.). Lundeen (Minn.) was the Farmer-Laborite.

The substitute for the original Ashurst bill provides for appointment of one new justice each year to every justice remaining on the court after reaching the age of seventy-five years.

New Sino-Japanese Conflict?

WAR between China and Japan was believed almost inevitable as hopes of settling a new outbreak of hostilities by diplomatic means faded out. The fighting ensued as Japanese gendarmes attempted to take over the policing of Yunnan and Lukow-kiao, two villages in the Peiping area, near Marco Polo bridge. This, the Japanese said, was provided for in the North China treaty.

According to the Japanese war office, Chinese soldiers fired upon the gendarmes and opened up with trench mortars against the Japanese contingent at the Yuanping station. This action allegedly compelled the Japanese to make a night assault, costing 20 lives, in order to occupy the towns of Lungwangmiao and Tungshingwan. It was said the Chinese troops had also advanced into these points.

Officials of the Hopei-Chahar council claimed the Japanese moves were in open violation of the truce. They further accused the Japanese of conducting night army maneuvers, using real bullets instead of the blanks ordinarily employed in maneuvers. As Emperor Hirohito and Premier Fumimaro Konoe conferred with military leaders and the cabinet, the Japanese people frantically prepared for the war that loomed.

China's Nanking government gave orders to Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, commander of the North China forces, that his army was not to retreat for any reason, but was to be prepared to make the "supreme sacrifice" to hold its position until Gen. Chiang Kai-shek should arrive over the Peiping-Hankow railroad with 50,000 fresh troops.

As the fighting continued in the Peiping area, with no hope of an effective compromise on the two nations' demands, war seemed the probable result.

Although an agreement was reported to have been made between local Chinese and Japanese authorities at Tientsin, settling the dispute to the satisfaction of both, the national government at Nanking has continued to insist that no agreement reached locally would be observed.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Taxes

WHEN Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep., N. Y.) sought to demonstrate the unfairness of the tax invasion investigation committee, he demanded that the committee investigate the income of the wife of the President from radio broadcasts, charging that she was not paying a cent of income taxes upon those earnings. She had turned over $39,000 to the American Friends Service committee, a Philadelphia charity, kept $1 per broadcast for herself and paid nothing whatever from her radio earnings to the government.

Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson replied for her, explaining to Chairman Doughton of the congressional committee that the bureau of internal revenue had advised Mrs. Roosevelt she need pay no tax on the receipts from the broadcast. He declared the responsibility "is not that of Mrs. Roosevelt, but that of myself and others who were treasury officials at the time."

Loyalists Widen Front

THE Spanish loyalists' drive to push back the rebel forces to a safe distance from Madrid continued, with the government forces widening the front by expanding both flanks several miles. The main line of advance was in a southerly direction, slow but steady. It had progressed as far as a point halfway between Brunete and Navalcarnero. Loyalist forces were attempting to acquire control of the Quernales river banks, there to dig in and protect the right flank while the main drive continues south.

Rebel military strategists were not particularly distressed over the government advance, for they believe that if they can draw the major part of the Madrid garrison out into the open country and destroy it the advance will benefit them more than it will the loyalists. Artillery of both sides worked overtime as the rebel reinforcements came in to make the struggle more equal.

The government was reported to be using dozens of Russian tanks. They are heavier and clumsier than the rebel tanks, but they carry field pieces of great accuracy and potency. Still, a new kind of anti-tank gun developed by the rebels stopped a number of them.

Government planes were reported doing serious damage to rebel forces on the Basque front to the north. In the east Gen. Sebastian Pozas, commander of the government forces in the Saragossa-Teruel sector, claimed that Albarracin "not only has been completely surrounded, but also government troops now are fighting in the streets of the town."

Mr. Eden Has a Plan

PLANS to maintain the non-intervention patrol of Spain in a fashion that will satisfy all the nations concerned and insure against the spread of the conflict beyond the Spanish borders have blown about like papers in a storm. And when you get right down to it, that is about all they have amounted to.

Now Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign secretary, has come up with a new one, as deft and perhaps as futile as any which have gone before it. It provides for the full re-establishment of land and sea control of movements of men and arms into Spain. French and British warships would patrol the coastline with German and Italian observers aboard (the Fascist nations, indignant over the Leipzig incident, have withdrawn from the patrol). This arrangement would operate only until a permanent scheme could be worked out, placing observers for the non-intervention committee in all non-Spanish seaports and airports from which men and supplies might leave for Spain, and in all Spanish ports to see that none landed there. After that, the sea patrol would be abolished.

Upper Silesia Still Puzzle

BEFORE a new accord could be reached, the 15-year-old Geneva convention designed to reconcile the interests of both Poland and Germany in Upper Silesia, expired. Upper Silesia was once part of both Germany and Austria, but after the World war it was split between Germany and Poland. The people of the two sections have since that time mingled freely with one another, carrying on a live commerce unhindered over the boundary lines set by the League of Nations.

The diplomatic difficulties occurred when no solution was forthcoming for the problem of what to do with the Poles who wanted to remain in the German section and the Germans who wanted to remain in the Polish section.

6,625 Miles in One Hop!

WITH the world still thrilling to the recent flight of three Russian aviators from Moscow to the United States via the North Pole, three more Russians did it again, completing the longest non-stop flight in history.

After flying 6,625 miles from the Russian capital, Pilot Michael Gromov, Co-Pilot Andrei Yumoshev and Navigator Sergei Danilin, made a forced landing in a cow pasture near San Jacinto, Cal. A leaking gasoline line had exhausted their fuel supply as they battled heavy fogs which hung over the west coast region. Their flying time was estimated at 62 hours and 17 minutes.

Obituary in Blue

GEORGE GERSHWIN, composer who lifted jazz music up to the level of the classics, died suddenly in Hollywood after an operation for brain tumor. He was thirty-eight. His "Rhapsody in Blue" was famous among the world's music lovers, his opera, "Porgy and Bess" one of the most individually American of all musical works. His "Swanerie" sold more than 2,000,000 copies, his musical comedy score, "Of Thee I Sing," was a Pulitzer prize winner, and some of his compositions, such as "Strike Up the Band," "Soon," and "Somebody Loves Me" were sung and danced to by millions. Many prominent critics called him the most original force in American music.

Ruins of Cuzco

In Cuzco, Peru, once the metropolis of the Incas, are massive ruins on a par with those found in Egypt. When the city was captured by Pizarro its temples were marveled of magnificence, says the Washington Post. The Temple of the Sun was covered with a roof of gold. The railroad to Cuzco skirts Lake Titicaca, an inland sea, 161 miles long, 60 miles wide and 12,500 feet above the level of the sea. The water never freezes, even when the temperature drops to 30 degrees, and steel knives thrown into it do not rust.

Love, Honor and Obey

Michigan Mirror

A Non-Partisan State News Letter
By GENE ALLEMAN
Michigan Press Association

Lansing—Michigan, the air-conditioned summer resort state of America, goes on parade this week.

The occasion is the visit of approximately 350 newspaper editors from all parts of the United States—New England, East, South, Middle-West, and the great West—for the annual convention and tour of the National Editorial Association. What these editors say about Michigan will be read by more than 1,000,000 persons—a vast audience.

Michigan newspapers have a personal interest in the party, as 272 of them—members of the 62-year-old Michigan Press Association—are the official host. Today (July 22) the editors leave Detroit by a special air-conditioned train from Grand Rapids. Grand Rapids' two dailies—Press and Herald—and nearby weekly newspapers will show the editors why the city is known as the furniture capital of the world.

At Muskegon the publishers are to be met by a caravan of automobiles, provided by proud citizens, who will take them on a sight-seeing tour. A dinner at the Elks' Temple will be an exposition prelude with a newspaper editor, Archie McCrae of the Muskegon Chronicle, serving as master of ceremonies.

Lumberjack Festival

Once the lumber capital of the Great Lakes, Muskegon is today an enterprising industrial and resort center, taking full advantage of its strategic location with the aid of an up-and-coming chamber of commerce.

Along the harbor front Muskegon has created a miniature world's fair—an exposition devoted to a portrayal of the city's 100 years of history. On the very site of the exposition once stood a bustling lumbermill, roaring out lumber by the millions of feet for boats to rush to Chicago in its reconstruction days after the great fire.

The part that the lumberjack played in the early days of Michigan is being commemorated by this Muskegon fair.

Next Sunday (July 25) a concert will be given by the National High School Band of Interlochen under the personal direction of Percy Grainger, composer. This event will take place at Hackley Field, high school stadium, accommodating 30,000 spectators.

Leelanau Peninsula

Taking a midnight pullman train, the editors travel on Friday to Traverse City where they will be met again by a courtesy caravan of automobiles and taken to lake resorts in the scenic Leelanau peninsula for breakfast.

In this little finger of land, jutting out between Grand Traverse Bay and Lake Michigan, is situated the famed Glen Lake of National Geographic fame since it was once called one of the most beautiful lakes in the entire world.

At Leelanau, which is an Indian word for "delight of life," you will find the Sleeping Bear dune, largest of its kind in Michigan. This dune is a five-mile ridge of sand more than 300 feet high near D. H. Day State Park at Glen Haven. Conservationists favor a movement to link Sleeping Bear with the state park.

"Cherry Capital"

Traverse City, a community of 14,000 people, claims the title of being the cherry capital of the world, home of the National Cherry Festival and site of the world's largest cherry packing plant.

Traverse City, like Muskegon, was once a humming lumbermill town. For nearly a half century mills whined and cork-booted lumberjacks strode the streets. As many as 26 schooners have been tied to the docks, awaiting cargoes of pine woods to be hurried to Chicago.

Today, on the sawdust piles left behind by the giant saws, has risen Clinch Park, unique in Michigan.

Mayor C. H. Foster, a retired circus official, started the park a few years ago. He has gathered a collection of all animals native to Michigan except the extinct wolferine. He built an aquarium for specimens of native fish. A museum houses the best collection of Indian relics in Michigan outside the University of Michigan museum.

The popular attraction, however, is not the aquarium nor the zoo, but is a model of the entire city carefully built to scale. Passenger and logging trains run over miniature tracks (if you deposit a nickel). Airplanes drone overhead; boats sail its lakes.

Petoskey Is Next

At 1:00 p. m. Friday the editors' special train will arrive at Petoskey to be greeted again by an automobile caravan that will take the visitors for a drive over the noted drive along Lake Michigan to Cross Village. This drive through lake-skirting forests truly merits the acclaim which it has received.

For his zealous care of the forest-way, State Highway Commissioner Van Wagoner recently was given national honors. Tall tree sentinels have been preserved. Your car must drive slowly, lest you miss much of the grandeur that nature provides and that man has guarded. Indian maidens are to serve luncheon to the visitors at Seven Mile Point whose high bluffs give spectators an unrivaled view of the lake.

Thence to Cross Village where native Indians will perform a ceremony.

At Mackinaw City the newspaper guests will be shown the state highway dock and will be taken over to the Straits of Mackinac on a state-owned and operated ferry.

Mackinac Island

Amid an atmosphere of the Old World, Mackinac Island has been a favorite of vacation seekers for many decades. Air-conditioned every minute of the day by bracing breezes, the island is free from objectionable fever pollen and mosquitoes are unknown.

United States Senator Prentiss Brown owns much of the property there. A newspaper publisher, Col. Roger Andrews of Menominee, is chairman of the state park commission. The most active promoter of the island is Stewart Woodfill who manages the Grand Hotel on a Hollywood scale, providing gorgeous suites for "The Governor of Michigan" and also for "The President of the United States."

An enthusiast for Michigan, Mr. Woodfill believes in spending money to make money. This year he has expended $50,000 into new furnishings for the "world's largest summer hotel." There, miles from a metropolis and situated like a gem in a setting of island forests, the Grand Hotel offers the simplicity of old-fashioned New England and at the same time the modern tempo of a night club and a smart spa.

Horse-carriages supply the mode of transportation. In a motor-wise state of Michigan, world capital of automobile manufacture, Mackinac Island is unique.

Difference in Sponges

Sponges, although one of the lowest forms of animal life, vary greatly in habitat, color and size. They are found in both deep and shallow water in seas, rivers and lakes throughout the world; possess such colors as red, blue, brown and green, as well as yellow; and vary in weight, says a writer in Collier's Weekly, from a fraction of an ounce to a hundred pounds.

"Good Place to Live"

The name "Wisconsin" evolved from the old Menominee Indian word "Weese-coh'-seh, meaning "a good place to live." The French spelled it Ouisse-con-sen (same pronunciation). Then it became Ouisconsin, and finally Wisconsin.

Nice Thought

So often we are given a message of remembrance to be taken home to members of the family and yet how seldom do we deliver it. We might even say we met the person but forget entirely that he wishes to be remembered to anyone in particular. Try to carry these little messages to their destination; it makes everyone glad to know that someone else thought about him.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By Roger E. Whitman

SQUEAKY STAIRS

THE treads and risers of a flight of stairs are supported in grooves cut into the side pieces. They are held in the grooves by slender wedges glued into place. With shrinkage, the wedges loosen, and there may be a squeak as they slide in the grooves when stepped on. In springing away from the riser, there is still more of a squeak when a weight on a tread forces it back into place.

When the under side of a staircase is open, as it may be when over a cellar stair, a squeak can be taken out by driving the wedges more tightly and securing them by nailing. Light finishing nails can be used, and they need not go all the way in.

When the under side is not exposed, a squeak can be taken out by preventing a tread from moving on top of its riser. The first step in this is to take off the strip of molding that is under the overhanging front edge. A wedge, such as the thin end of a shingle, is then driven in between the upper edge of a riser and the tread above. The tread will thus be prevented from moving. The wedge is cut off and the molding returned.

When a staircase is open on one side, it occasionally happens that the outside side-piece becomes warped and springs away from the treads and risers. It is sometimes possible to force the side piece back into place by wedging against an opposite wall. This, however, is a job that should be undertaken by a carpenter who is familiar with stair construction.

CHILDREN LIKE THEIR SPINACH

Thorough Washing Important Part of Preparation.

By EDITH M. BARBER.

SPINACH for a number of years has been the topic for jests and has almost replaced the classic mother-in-law joke. It was rather interesting to find that the children instead of disliking this vegetable actually chose it as one of their favorite foods, according to a recent survey. Spinach actually ranked next to ice cream.

Because of the two types of spinach which are on the market at different times of the year, and because seasons in city markets are long extended through shipments from various parts of the country, we can find it in its fresh form throughout the year. And, of course, we can always call on the canners.

In the preparation of spinach for the table, perhaps the most important point is the washing as every grain of sand must be removed. No one likes gritty spinach. The easiest way to handle this question is to use two large pans and to lift the leaves after their first washing into a pan of fresh water and to continue this until no more sand is deposited on the bottom of the pans.

Spinach will need no more water for cooking than what clings to the leaves after washing. It should be cooked just until the leaves are tender, usually not more than six to eight minutes. Butter or cream which is used for dressing, should be added to the vegetable, which should not be drained of the liquid which results after cooking. If you like, you may chop or puree the leaves before dressing them. Salt, pepper, a little nutmeg, lemon juice, vinegar, horseradish, sweet or sour cream as well as butter all bring out the flavor of this vegetable.

Spinach on Toast.
Wash one peck of spinach and cook in a covered pan five to eight minutes. Turn into colander and press out as much water as possible. Mince very fine. Melt three tablespoons butter in a frying pan, add two tablespoons flour and stir until well blended. Add spinach and cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Add one cup cream, salt and pepper, cook three minutes and serve on toast.

Spinach Nests.
6 bread cases
Melted butter
2 cups cooked spinach
Salt, pepper.
1/2 cup grated cheese
Make bread cases by cutting bread into three-inch squares and cutting out the centers. Roll each case in melted butter. Chop the spinach, mix with seasoning and fill the bread cases. Sprinkle with the cheese and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit), until bread is light brown and the cheese is melted.

Cole Slaw With Cooked Dressing
3 to 4 cups shredded cabbage
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
3/4 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup milk
1/2 cup vinegar.
Mix the dry ingredients. Add slightly beaten egg yolks, butter, milk and vinegar slowly. Stir over hot water until thick. Pour while hot over shredded cabbage. Two tablespoons of chopped green pepper or pimento may be added if desired.

Chicken Salad.
1 1/2 cups diced cooked chicken.
1 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons French dressing
3/4 cup mayonnaise
Lettuce
1 tablespoon capers or sliced stuffed olives
Combine chicken, celery and French dressing and chill. When ready to serve, mix with mayonnaise, arrange on bed of lettuce and garnish with capers or sliced stuffed olives. Sliced hard cooked eggs may also be used as a garnish.

Fancy Sandwiches.
For sandwiches of fancy shape, cover large spread slice with an unspread slice, cut into squares, diamonds, or finger lengths with knife, or into hearts, spades, diamonds, clubs, or stars with special cutter.

Butterscotch Pudding.
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
2 cups boiling water
1 cup brown sugar
Salt
3/4 cup sliced Brazil nuts
Measure cornstarch into top of double boiler. Stir in cold water and when smooth, add boiling water, brown sugar and salt. Stir over direct heat until mixture boils, set over hot water and cook twenty minutes. Stir in Brazil nuts and pour into one large pudding dish or into six sherbet glasses. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

Celery Stuffed With Lobster.
2 stalks celery
1 can lobster paste
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons butter
3 drops tabasco sauce
1 teaspoon German mustard
Separate celery and clean. Cream butter and mix with lobster paste and seasoning. Fill celery stalks with mixture. Endive may be used instead of celery.

How Playboy Threw Away A Million.

An article, in The American Weekly with the July 25 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, tells of a man, who, reduced from a $60,000 house and palatial steamer suites to boarding houses and busses, had to go to jail with his third wife because they could not pay a $20 fine—but he certainly had his money's worth of excitement.—Advertisement.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

Nearly everybody has his own precious ideas about what causes automobile accidents. It all depends on the point of view. Some people believe it is the slow drivers, others lay it to the weather, some to the road surface, and many to the car itself. All these factors and many others contribute to the large toll of accidents. One of the very important causes should be listed as poor equipment. There is no single cause. For instance, where would you place the blame when a car with bad brakes on a slippery pavement hits a pedestrian whose head is hid behind an umbrella? Since there is no single cause, there can be no single remedy. It requires the combined cooperation of every living soul to do his utmost to prevent accidents.

NORTH CENTRAL GLEE CLUB IN FINE PROGRAM

The North Central College Men's Glee Club, Naperville, Ill., true to its reputation of the past, presented a high type of music in an unusually fine style Wednesday evening, July 21, in the Evangelical Church to an assembled group of music lovers. The main part of the church auditorium was well filled, and friends from Caro, Bay City, and other points attended the concert.

Prof. Pinney, director of the School of Music at the college, directed the octette and was deserving of the praise for the excellent program.

The octette was somewhat handicapped by the illness and absence of one of the tenors, who remained in a hospital here a few days nursing an infection in a foot. The other seven young singers adapted themselves well to the unfortunate situation and did not disappoint their audience.

The first part of the program was made up of sacred numbers, and this was followed by a group of selections of a secular nature. A reading, solo and duet by members of the octette provided interesting variety.

From Cass City, the octette went to Ferndale to present a concert, and until the first of August they will fill engagements in various parts of Ontario. The final concert of the summer tour will be given in Detroit on Aug. 23.
