Matthews Will Continue Business

David Matthews will not confine his entire attention to his farming interests as stated in the Chronicle last week, in the article announcing the dissolution of the partnership of Wanner & Matthews. Mr. Matthews will continue to do plumbing and heating work and is remodeling a building on his farm in Evergreen Township where he will have his business headquarters.

After 22 years of experience in that branch of industry, Mr. Matthews has had no thought of leaving it now.

Fatally Injured in Fall to Basement

Mrs. Levi L. Holcomb passed away Sunday afternoon, August 15, as the result of a fall down the basement stairs, at her home on West Street. She has been in very poor health for some time. Sunday noon when going to the kitchen, she did not notice the trap door open and fell to the basement receiving a fractured skull and other injuries. She passed away a few hours later.

Victoria May Washburn was born January 8, 1873, in St. Clair County near Armada and was united in marriage with Levi L. Holcomb on November 12, 1889, in Port Huron. Except for 12 years in Detroit, their married life had been spent on a farm in Evergreen Township until coming to Cass City a few years ago. In 1936, Mr. and Mrs. Holcomb moved to Marlette, but in June of this year, they purchased the home on West Street, where they have since lived.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m., Wednesday, in the Church of Christ with Rev. G. D. Clink officiating and burial was in Novesta Cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, four sons and one daughter, James Holcomb, Auburn Heights; Clare, Midland; Vernon, Detroit; Bruce, Cass City, and Mrs. Harold Ball, Lapeer; one sister, Mrs. Thomas McHugh, Detroit; five brothers, George Washburn, Avoca; Edgar, Claud, Floyd and Luther Washburn, all of Detroit. The accident occurred at the farm home of the lad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gould, eight miles east of Caro. The boy, with other children of the family, was drawing wood at the time of the accident. He fell and the horse's hoof came down on his abdomen, crushing him internally.

Family Reunions

McCool Reunion.

The ninth annual McCool reunion was held on August 15 at Forester Park. A potluck dinner was served at noon.

About 75 guests were present. Those who attended from Cass City were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Caister, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Read and two daughters, Maxine and Anabel. From Shabbona were Mr. and Mrs. John Pringle and daughter, Elsie, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCool. Other relatives came from Detroit, Flint, Kingston, Argyle, and Capac.

The officers for 1938 are: President, William McCool; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Thomas McCool. They decided to have the 1938 reunion at the same place the third Sunday in August.

Prizes were given to the oldest and youngest members present, Percy Read being the oldest and Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer's baby daughter the youngest.

Muntz Reunion.

The twelfth annual reunion of the Muntz family was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Achenbach in Unionville with 45 relatives present. A social time and potluck dinner was enjoyed by all. At five o'clock, ice cream and cake were served.

The 1938 reunion will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Muntz of Cass City the third Sunday in August.

Relatives were present from Detroit, Bay City, West Branch, Mayville and Cass City.

Ahr Reunion.

Forty descendants of Gottlieb and Frederica Ahr, who came to Cass City in 1868, met here on Saturday in a family reunion to celebrate the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Theo H. Ahr, who came to Cass City on August 3 from St. Joe, Idaho, after an absence of 30 years from Michigan, to visit relatives.

The gathering was held in the basement of the M. E. Church, and following a potluck dinner early in the afternoon, Fred C. Striffler of Caro, presiding as toastmaster, introduced the program numbers.

Mrs. H. Lee Pocklington of Algonac read the family history; Mrs. Adolph Muellerweiss of Sebewaing conducted a memorial service; Dr. Harry C. Striffler of Pontiac spoke humorously of incidents on a trip South; J. A. Sandham of Cass City and H. Lee Pocklington of Algonac told the group their opinion of the Ahrs as "in-laws"; and Mrs. George Mast of Sebewaing read an original poem, "The Golden Wedding Anniversary," and at the conclusion presented Mr. and Mrs. Ahr a yellow tufted bedspread as a gift from their relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Ahr responded.

Of the five children of the pioneer family who came here in 1868, two besides Mr. Ahr were present, Mrs. C. O. Lenzner of Cass City and Mrs. George Mast of Sebewaing. Mrs. Lydia Royer, who resides in Indianapolis, Indiana, was unable to attend. The fifth of the group, Mrs. Samuel Striffler, passed away in 1920.

COUNCIL PASSED NEW ORDINANCE MONDAY

It Will Regulate the Use of Property Within Limits of the Village.

Two notices in the Chronicle's legal advertising columns appearing for the first time this week will be of particular interest to local residents.

One is a request for bids for replacing a 23-foot T-beam culvert on M-81, just west of Cass City. The project is one of a program of 16 bridge and culvert replacements that will be financed out of additional funds recently made available by the legislature. Projects for this program were selected on a priority basis from a list of old structures that are posted for one-way traffic and/or limited loads and are otherwise inadequate for present traffic.

The second notice is Ordinance No. 41 which regulates the use of property within the village of Cass City and the erection or alteration of dwellings, commercial buildings or other structures on such property.

The ordinance provides for the appointment each year of a board of building and property permits to consist of two members of the village council. Persons are restrained by the ordinance from erecting a building for commercial use in a residential district which would be detrimental to the best interests of residents in such a district. The same applies to the use of vacant property for commercial uses in residential districts.

X-Ray Clinic in Sanilac This Fall

The Sanilac County Health Department reports that the X-ray clinic held in their offices a short time ago resulted in the diagnosis of 12 cases of tuberculosis. The finding of 12 cases of tuberculosis out of 66 persons examined would seem to indicate a very high incidence of tuberculosis within the county but it must be realized that the persons that were X-rayed had been selected with care in order that the service might be provided to those who most needed it.

As quickly as practical, arrangements will be made to secure the hospitalization of those cases that require it.

The Health Department is planning another X-ray clinic to be held sometime during the fall months.

Premarital Physical Exam Required After October 29

Michigan will be in the forefront of those states protecting the health of the family when the new marriage law passed by the 1937 legislature, goes into effect October 29, Dr. C. C. Slemmons, state health commissioner, declared today.

"The whole-hearted support given this new health measure by members of the legislature," said Dr. Slemmons, "is indicative of Michigan's desire to prevent the spread of syphilis and the birth of syphilitic children. That means of prevention is at hand in the reliable diagnostic tests and in the uniformly accepted specific treatment for this communicable disease.

"The passage of the Michigan law comes opportunely this year when the entire nation is girding itself for the greatest campaign ever waged against the spirochete, the cause of syphilis. The premarital examination stressing as it does the blood test for syphilis is a fundamental attack in this campaign. The future parents of Michigan will welcome this opportunity to Turn to page 2, please.

Many Paying Delinquent Taxes

Arthur Whittenburg, Tuscola treasurer, is busy accepting delinquent tax money this month. Many property holders are placing money on the county treasurer's counter in order to make settlement for back taxes in August.

Public Act 28 passed by the 1937 legislature provides that properties delinquent for taxes for 1935 and prior years will go on sale in May next unless advantage is taken of the provisions for partial payment before Sept. 1, 1937. The legislature has recognized that a method of relief is necessary in the case of some property owners and has made possible the payment of back taxes on a "10 and 10 plan."

SANILAC COMMISSIONER HEADS EDUCATIONAL BODY

HARRY C. SMITH, school commissioner of Sanilac County, was elected Wednesday at Mt. Pleasant as president of the Department of County School Commissioners of the Michigan Education Association. He succeeds Harold C. Rader, of Stanton, who becomes vice president. Miss Sue E. Fear, of Corunna, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Smith is a graduate of the Cass City High School, completing his course here in 1922.

New Method in Umpiring Ball Game

John Sandham has introduced a new method in umpiring ball games. At the Pigeon-Cass City Rotary picnic at Caseville last Thursday afternoon, when decisions were close and disputed, "Ump" Sandham called for a vote of the players. The majority ruled and everybody was happy. The features of the game were the base running of Dr. Donahue of the Cass City group who tallied two scores in one inning, and the playing of Bob Orr of Pigeon, who insisted on smoking his pipe during the contest. Spectators observed that he never missed a puff in the field or running bases. The game ended 11-11.

The horseshoe pitching finished in a tie between the two clubs and the corn game brought many prizes to the Rotary Anns. A potluck supper was served in the park. "And a good time was had by all," observed several who attended the picnic from Cass City.

Fell 36 Feet from Barn Roof and Slightly Injured

If any one had suggested early last week to Donald McLachlan, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McLachlan, of Evergreen Township, that he could fall 36 feet from a barn roof and come out of the experience with no more than a lame shoulder, he would probably have seriously doubted the prediction. On Thursday afternoon, August 12, he had that experience, not from choice, but because a toe hold gave way while he was engaged with his father and brother in shingling the barn on the Sherman Copeland farm near the McLachlan home.

With Donald in the 36-foot fall, came five steel shingling brackets and 23 feet of 2x4 lumber. An examination at a hospital here revealed no broken bones, but he suffered some with a lame shoulder for a few days. He resumed his job at shingling Saturday morning.

Akron Man Is Sued for $25,000

Suit was started in the Tuscola County Circuit Court on August 12 by Charles Parsell, administrator of the estate of his wife, Marguerite Mantey Parsell, against Bert Castle of Akron for $25,000 damages. The plaintiff alleges Castle's negligence caused the death of Mrs. Parsell on July 1, when a trailer being drawn by a car operated by Castle broke loose in the path of a car driven by Mrs. Parsell, injuring her fatally. The accident occurred on a highway, one and one-half miles north of Caro.

Mrs. Parsell was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Mantey. Mr. Mantey is assistant superintendent of the Caro plant of the Michigan Sugar Co.

Mary Eliza Wells, daughter of Mrs. Lillie Wells, of Dayton Township, became the bride of Mr. Theodore Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Hunt of Lake Orion. The young couple were married at 2:00 p. m. Sunday, August 15, by Rev. Mr. Ambrose, pastor of the Caro Baptist Church, in a quiet ceremony at the parsonage.

The bride was very pretty in a white net gown of floor length over white taffeta with a long veil, the veil being the same worn by her sister, Mrs. Charles Miltzer, at her wedding. She carried a bouquet of pink rose buds and valley lilies.

She was attended by Miss Evelyn E. Schmidt of Lapeer, who wore Iris chiffon with white accessories and her bouquet was pink and white mums and snapdragons.

Harold J. Wells, brother of the bride, attended the groom as best man.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was served the bridal party at the Wigwam near Caro.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt will make their home in Pontiac where Mr. Hunt is employed.

Mrs. Hunt has been employed for some time at Michigan Farm Colony at Wahjamega.

Coulters Celebrate Silver Wedding

The program included singing with Miss Wilma Kennedy at the piano, a reading by Harry Severance, and recitations by Miss Barbara Coultter and Mrs. Charles Severance. A luncheon with ice cream was enjoyed. The bride's cake was beautiful with a silver bell, ribbon and other decorations.

Miss Wilma Kennedy, as mistress of ceremonies, supervised the opening of the gifts which were many and lovely.

Friends came from Detroit, Pontiac, Washington, Cass City, Snover, Decker and Shabbona. At a late hour all departed for their homes, leaving their best wishes with the bride and groom for many more happy years of wedded life together.

"The Aftermath" Here August 26

"The Aftermath," a two-character spoken drama, scheduled for Thursday evening, August 26, at the M. E. Church in Cass City, is an untouched photograph of the inside main workings of the liquor traffic.

The setting is in the office of a local liquor control board. The characters include Tom O'Neil, operator of a "Drink Emporium." Since hundreds of thousands of women banded together to assist in the Repeal of State and National prohibition, the other character in the drama is a woman secretary of a local liquor control board.

She has sent for Tom O'Neil to report at her office. O'Neil suspects he is being called on the carpet for a reprimand, for some possible infringement of the new liquor laws. That doesn't worry him. The dry laws were drowned Turn to page 7, please.

Four Egg Grades Established in Mich.

Seeking to provide higher quality for the consumer and better prices for the producers, Commissioner John B. Strange of the Department of Agriculture, has announced the signing of contract with the United States Department for the establishment in Michigan for federal grades for eggs. At the same time, Commissioner Strange cancelled the departmental rule providing for the sale of eggs by the pound, adopted 18 months ago.

"It has been demonstrated," Commissioner Strange said, "in Michigan that federal grades will produce higher prices for the producers. In Southern Michigan we have firms that have been cooperating with Indiana Department of Agriculture in obtaining federal grading and these eggs have been shipped at higher prices, with the producers receiving for four to six cents per dozen above the local market."

Four grades have been established, Michigan Fancy and Michigan Grade, A, B, and C. Only two other states, Washington and Oregon, have been granted the use of "fancy" grades. Three concerns have signified their intention to sign contract when it is approved by federal authorities.

STORING UP CASH.

A new plan to head off depressions is proposed by the business advisory council of the U. S. commerce department. The idea is to store up reserves in the treasury during good times, which would be used in hard times to construct public works and employ idle labor.

This might be a very good plan, if the government were out of debt. But it hardly seems practical at a time when your Uncle Samuel owes $36,000,000,000.

Expenses ought to be cut down, and taxes raised if necessary, that $2,000,000,000 a year could be paid on that debt.

Occasionally, when moved to say something nice about an acquaintance, you ought to give expression to your thoughts.

WHERE THE TALL CORN GROWS.

Iowa is said to have won the championship for raising the tallest corn. At least a farmer in Batavia in that state produced a stalk measuring over 16 feet and five inches.

A sixteen foot corn stalk is something for the poets to sing about. It reaches to the top of the second story of some houses.

THE FAMILY PURSE. If you could attend many sessions of the divorce courts, and listen to the tale of woe and conflict that turns love into bitterness, you would find that much of this trouble originates with difficulties over money.

Sometimes the husband toils and grinds away his life, and is humiliated by the friends from whom he borrows, only to find the money which his wife demands slipping through her careless hands while she flirts and frivols the time away.

People who bray the loudest lack two things: An education and something to brag about.

One of the troubles with modern civilization is the men and women who think they know it all.

There are people in this country who care nothing about wages and hours; what they want is bonuses and relief.

Prosperity will arrive for American farmers when the world can buy, at fair prices, all that our farmers can produce.

A little more care makes accidents rare.

A vacation trip usually makes a man appreciate home and the gorgeous rest he can take for almost nothing if he will only take it.

Juries that acquit individuals who are tried for driving automobiles while intoxicated, when everybody knows that the driver was intoxicated, gave a careless endorsement to the death of hundreds of persons every year.

Safe and Sane DRIVING

DEPENDABLE TIRES.

There is high satisfaction in having complete confidence in your automobile tires. But their dependability rests heavily upon your own shoulders.

The best tires in the world can be so neglected and abused that they become hazardous within a few thousand miles.

Proper inflation is the first requisite. If the air pressure is too low, the side walls of the tire will weaken under continual bending until a blowout results.

Check the air pressure in your tires often. Keep the right pressure. Examine the inner walls for indications of breaking. Safety depends upon sound tires.

Case Warns "Crash" Drivers of Cost

With the tide of highway accidents in Michigan on the upgrade, with its accompanying rising toll of life, limb and property damage, Leon D. Case, secretary of state, has pointed out an act of the 1937 legislature which will make accidents more expensive than ever for the person deemed responsible for them.

In 1933, the financial responsibility law was passed, barring from the roads any operator unable to satisfy a judgment of $300 or more in property damage, or for any amount in personal injury, as the result of an automobile accident.

The 1937 legislature reduced the unsatisfied judgment provision from $300 to $150, which means, Case points out, that more drivers than ever will probably become involved in the law.

The most interesting feature of the law's operation, however, is that the overwhelming number of persons brought under the law are those convicted of drunk driving, rather than those unable to meet damage judgments.

It is believed, however, that with the lowering of the amount which will involve drivers in the law's provisions, that lack of financial responsibility, rather than lack of sobriety, will eventually be a major cause for disbarment from highways.

PREMARITAL PHYSICAL EXAMINATION REQUIRED AFTER OCTOBER 29

Concluded from first page.

The new law requires that "all persons making application for license to marry shall at any time within fifteen days prior to such application be examined as to the existence or non-existence in such person of any venereal disease."

The medical examination to be performed by any licensed physician must include a blood test for syphilis. The blood test will be made by the Michigan Department of Health at any laboratory registered by the department.

Beneficial results to be expected from whole-hearted cooperation with the new law according to the commissioner, include the following:

1. Prevention of the birth of syphilitic babies.

2. The promotion of marital happiness through freedom from disease.

3. A definite decrease in the number of stillbirths caused by syphilis.

4. Tremendous savings to the state by eventually reducing the number of children and adults, crippled, blinded, deaf or insane as a result of syphilis, who must be cared for in public institutions.

5. A stimulus to infected persons who may be considering marriage to seek adequate treatment of this communicable disease.

6. Education of the public as to the nature and prevention of syphilis, founded upon the fundamental principle that syphilis is a dangerous communicable disease and must be fought as such.

What is your conduct at filling stations while having your car refilled? Do you smoke? Do you allow others to smoke?

Fires from this cause have been controlled during the last few years. Station attendants have politely asked drivers to stop smoking.

Fumes from gasoline are dangerous. Sparks, matches, hot ashes, and the like, might suddenly cause an explosion and a serious fire. Lives might even be sacrificed.

Always put out that cigarette or cigar. A pipe should not be smoked in a car, as the ashes cannot be controlled.

Prevent these fires, accidents, and suffering. Do not smoke at filling stations.

The Emancipator

Electricity has become an emancipator—it releases, each day and each night, 365 days in each year, millions of peoples in all walks of life from many drudgeries—it liberates and frees these millions of people from many cares and worries, allowing them freedom to apply their rested energies in useful vocations or in many instances freedom to enjoy recreation, or freedom to do other useful duties.

In the household, electricity correctly applied is the true and faithful servant. It will refrigerate your foods, releasing you from any cares and worries—it will cook your foods—it will heat your water—it will supply the energy to do the actual washing—it will supply the heat for ironing, and if you use a modern electrically heated ironing machine, you can sit in a resting position and turn out an ironing that would take many more hours to do using the "iron" method, removing the strain from the hands, arms, legs and feet. It will supply the needed energy to bring through the radio programs of music, of education, of information, of every character—it will supply the needed energy to drive the vacuum cleaner, which removes the dust as it goes and thoroughly cleans your floor coverings, your drapes, etc. It will cook your coffee, toast your bread and pump the water.

Like in the household, electricity performs many useful and hard duties elsewhere—in industry, in stores, offices, on the farm. It is always ready, no fussing, no argument. Truly electricity today is an emancipator.

Use electricity for lighting and all other uses. It is economical when applied correctly.

Pennsylvania's First Book
Pennsylvania's first book, 1685, was an almanac printed by Bradford.

The Age of "Less"

This is a topsy-turvy world, what with fireless cookers, wire-less telegrams, horseless carriages, seedless grapes and spineless cactus.

There is more of "less" everyday. Today it is smokeless powder; tomorrow it may be headless cabbage or costless merchandise.

And speaking of merchandise... remembering that the goods you buy from advertisements in this newspaper actually cost less for the same high quality. That's one reason why people read our ads so carefully, why they do their family shopping through the family newspaper. Also, that's why this isn't an adless paper!

Black Feather

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Rodney Shaw, independent trader, arrives in Michilimackinac in 1818, determined to fight the trade monopoly established by the John Jacob Astor company in the Northwest territory. He is met by Conrad Rich, an elderly clerk, Ramsay Crooks, Astor's dominant figure, and Annette Leclere, local beauty and inspiration to all the traders, especially to Burke Rickman, a ruthless trader who is the instrument of destruction to traders refusing to amalgamate with the Astor company. Roussel, the town bully, wearing the black feather, symbol of invincibility, knocks down Shaw's head oarsman, Basile, and Shaw in return throws Roussel into the water. Ramsay Crooks presents the symbolic black feather to Shaw. Later, at a conference, Shaw scorns Astor's proposal virtually to surrender his independence, announces his readiness to fight the amalgamation, and prepares to depart the following day.

CHAPTER II—At a ball that evening Shaw recognizes Burke Rickman as the Astor agent who had previously robbed him of his partner and his trade, and as a dangerous rival for Annette, with whom he is infatuated. There is an exchange of bitter words. Annette is chosen queen of the dance, and after flirting with both Rickman and Shaw, chooses Shaw as king for the following evening. Basile warns Shaw to hasten his departure and tells him an old man, waiting for him at his tent. Shaw finds Leslie, an old free-trader, who proposes that Shaw join him and go to the rich Pillager country, where Astor is planning to send Rickman. He shows him a map and an Indian ceremonial garment given him by Standing Cloud, Pillager chief. Shaw promises to give his answer the following evening. Shaw accepts Leslie's offer.

CHAPTER III—The spying Rickman finds Annette alone and after belittling her, aggravating Annette into boasting of his plans, until Rickman learns of the partnership and the departure for rich unclaimed ground. He follows Shaw to Leslie's camp and hides within earshot. Shaw finds Leslie very ill, attended by his clerk, Giles. With Giles as a witness, Leslie gives Shaw the map and the Indian stone. After Shaw departs, Leslie dies. Rickman ascertains the old man's death, and plunges a knife into his heart. Shaw, reaching his camp, finds soldiers with a warrant for his arrest on charges of murdering Leslie. He sees Rickman in the crowd ready to take him to prison and realizes the trick. Annette finds the black feather near Shaw's camp, and keeps it. Basile reports to Shaw, in prison, that Rickman embarks the following day, and that Giles is intimidated from telling the truth. Shaw, impatient at the delay, orders Basile to hold all in readiness for the moment he can escape. The following morning, Basile reports that Rickman has departed, after Annette has made love to him.

CHAPTER IV

At least one other in the village had spent a night of distress. It seemed to Annette Leclere as dawn broke that the wells of her tears had gone dry. Burke Rickman came and Annette would not see him. She paced the rooms; started out a score of times; turned back; cried, tossed clothing and pillows and books about; refused food, wept again. Not until her aunt, frightened, now, by the girl's behavior and eager to do what she could to ease her mind, panted home with the word that Rickman was about to march did Annette quiet. It was a tense and desperate quietude which then possessed her. Annette came close and embraced her aunt, saying: "The way is clear, now, dear one! I must see Burke. Go and ask him to come. Without delay, dearest! Without delay, now!" Rickman came in answer to the summons. He came, clad in his buckskin with his departure but a brace of hours away. "Burke, I've sent for you to do what no girl craves to do: to admit wrong, to beg forgiveness!" His pulse picked up at that and a covetous instead of a baffled gleam showed in his hard, blue eyes. "You are forgiven, dear Annette, before forgiveness is asked!" He advanced toward her, taking her hands in his. "Did you think for a moment I felt that you were light-headed enough to take serious stock in a mere upstart?" Her eyes filled and his expression softened somewhat. Not for him to know the emotion prompting those tears! "And now . . . You see . . . You're intending to leave? After I've found again my lost senses, you'll . . . leave me here?" Color came quickly into his cheeks at that. She'd never spoken so tenderly to him. "Not for long! The one season, only! Just—" but ambition, as well, as might. A messenger came, summoning Rickman, and Annette threw herself upon him, desperate in her pleas. She followed him to the gate, making a scene such as villagers had never beheld before, and it was this Basile watched and reported to Rodney Shaw. But Basile did not see all, heard nothing whatever. He did not observe Rickman's attempt at a final kiss; did not see Annette twist and squirm from his arms; could not hear her one honest word of the entire passage. One word, a strained, gasped: "Never!" It was that word which sent Rickman away, an unhappy, if commanding figure.

And so Burke Rickman had a day and a half the advantage, even though events might give Rodney his freedom of movement before another dawn. Indeed, it seemed until late afternoon that another quiet northern night would follow. But as the sun began to drop a murk appeared in the south, and the wind veered and softened and a thunder head rose above the strait and Rodney's heart picked up its measure. Basile came, on the pretext that the men were demanding the balance of their compensation, and Rodney told him to trade what remained of the packs. "The storm will come, master." "And give me cover for my task!" When the revelry is at its best, launch the canoe. Wait for me on the northern side of the island. I'll cry as a great owl."

The storm broke at midnight, a furious lashing of wind and playing of lightning and cannonade of thunder. Tentatively, Rodney touched the file to the bar, and drew its edge slowly along the softer metal. Its rasp was covered by the drum of rain and wind in the trees. And then began his battle with his prison. Savagely he sawed with the short file, putting all the strength he could bring to bear against the cutting edge. Siney as he was, the task was labor.

The first bar went in twain and by a tentative test he knew his strength as great enough to bend it outward. . . . But two more bars remained before he could hope to squeeze his broad shoulders through the opening. He sawed madly. . . . The second bar yielded and the edges of the file were dulling. Another thunder shower impending and lightning became more frequent.

The third bar was sundered and he dropped the file, atremble in every muscle. The sentry passed beneath his window, moving slowly on toward the clump of cedars. Rodney gripped the first bar with both hands and leaned against it. Slowly it yielded. The bar protruded at an angle outward. The guard did not look up. The second bar bent before Rodney's strength, and then the third. His fingers gripped the outside edge of the stone window ledge. He leaped, wriggling himself outward, belly on the sill. He breathed free air. His head and shoulders were outside the prison. He wriggled frantically. The whitewashed wall of the building spread below him. In another second he would be silhouetted against it for any eye to see. And the last lightning flare of the spent storm revealed him, hanging there, swinging like a pendulum, ready to drop to the turf below. "Halt!"

The sentry's shout went through Rodney like a knife stab. He let go his hold. He dropped, rolling in the wet grass. He was on his feet, crouching, gauging the approach of the soldier whose feet thudded on the path. Shaw backed a step, gripped the corner of the building, swung around it, and began to run. "Halt, or I fire!" the guard cried. "Fire and be—" cheek and a savage elation swept him. The musket was empty. The sound of the shot would rouse the garrison and the roused garrison would rouse the village. But he was free, plunging into drenched shrubbery. Free, in cover, with a plan before him and all he asked was this meager chance at freedom!

"Halt, or I Fire!" the Guard Cried.

He ran with all the strength in his chest and legs. He gained the shingle of the island's northern beach, standing there alone in the darkness. He fought to still his breath and gave the hollow, falsetto cry of a great owl. He listened and from somewhere across the water it was answered and he heard the thud of an oar against canoe rail and ran that way, crying out again. . . . Rodney was wading out, to his knees, to his hips. He was being lifted into his canoe by loyal hands as, streaming water, he gained his place. "Bravo!" he breathed. "Bravo, my brave children! . . . To oars, now! . . . March!"

Sixteen days, men had said, from Point Iroquois to the St. Louis? Shaw laughed as his canoe nosed into the bay which is the mouth of the river. They had silently passed Rickman's brigade encamped on the shore three nights ago. Sixteen days? he taunted. Eight! Eight days from the point of the Iroquois. Your names shall live forever, green in the boastings of the North! . . . One passes the lair of opposition disdainfully, and Shaw did not even glance at the walls of the company fort they breasted at sundown, with its flag limp and men staring. They would see, they would tell, but it would be days, yet, before Rickman arrived with intent ears to hear their telling.

On above was the first portage and there camped the canoe maker whom Leslie had told. The great canoe was abandoned at the native's camp and two smaller craft procured because the other would be unwieldy in the narrow rivers and difficult to transport on the long carries. These arrangements made, the portage awaited. Nine miles it was; 19 pauses; a winding, twisting trail; up tortuous clay banks, over unyielding rocks, with the forest brushing the grim faces of men who toiled with great diligence over it. "Up, good children!" Shaw cried, flinging portage collars at them. "Up, Jacques, with your back of an ox. You will lead!" Jacques, grinning, twisted thong ends about a package, shouldered the straps and nestled his forehead against leather. Another package was set on the first and hunched into position; a third, and the man grinned. Two hundred and seventy pounds he bore. But as he swayed forward for the first slow step he was halted by Rodney's cry.

"Un autre, mon enfant!" The smile died and a hurt look came into the fellow's eyes. "No?" Shaw's question was mock incredulity. "My good Jacques says No?" He stood a moment, shaking his head dolefully. "Too great, the burden? Yes? But look. Observe the trader, then! Regard a back untried by the collar!" He dropped to his knees and adjusted the thongs to a package. He slung it as he rose and gestured them to burden him. Another, a third. . . . "Quatre!" He was bidding them do to him what had made the great Jacques demur. Amazed, they piled his burden higher. "Alors, cinq!" They murmured and burst into laughter and sobered quickly and did his bidding. Five packages? Four hundred and fifty pounds! "Allez!" he cried and led the way with a grunt of command for them to follow.

He moved bent far forward, right hand on the topmost piece which towered above his shoulders, left arm at a stiff angle for balance. He swayed from side to side; the muscles of his legs bulged and corded against buckskin. Upward, on and on, reeling as he gained the crest and then, upon level ground, moving steadily, stifling moans. And now he reached the first pause. His packages thudded to the ground, he straightened painfully and turned to watch the approach of his brave but humbled Jacques, who came on with many a gasped Sacre! and Rodney calling a good-natured taunt that one should puff so under half a load. They snored that night beside a tiny stream threading abrupt hills heavily clothed with pine and hemlock.

Shaw frittered no precious moments of the hours, wasted no pound of his men's strength, but assurance, now, rode high in his heart. He would have been less assured had he been back yonder at the company fort at the river's mouth to see Burke Rickman land and to hear what was told to him. "You're certain?" Rickman asked. "A tall man? Tall as I? And broad? . . . And with a leathery old devil at the steering oar?" Yes, that was certain. "Damn!" said Rickman, without passion, now, but calculatingly, as one who knows he must plan well and promptly. He looked at Conrad Rich, whose eyes were wide, and smiled without mirth. "Fools!" he muttered. "They let him escape. After I'd arranged matters so he'd never annoy us again, they—" He broke off, biting his lip, and Conrad started slightly as he sensed the fact that Rickman had betrayed himself and his part in the arrest of Rodney.

Rickman paced the room. "At Knife portage yesterday?" he queried and did not so much as nod at the confirming reply. "Three days ahead. . . . Well! So we will show the jackass what it costs to forge ahead in rivers."

And now another company of men feverishly fought the turbulent St. Louis. A small company, this: Three men, a single canoe, with only an oilcloth and blankets and meager foods as burden. Rickman's brigade was reforming for the river travel but this detachment went out ahead, light-footed if not light-hearted. And so, as embers died in Shaw's camp, three pairs of eyes watched and three pairs of brawny hands clung to alder branches to hold their canoe in its vantage point while Shaw slept heavily, storing energy for the morrow.

He had taken precautions, had posted a boatman to watch. But the stream was noisy. Its rush and tumble drowned small sounds, such as a man cautiously wading under the alders. So the guard could make no sound as a hand clamped over his mouth from behind, and a knife-but rapped his skull. No, the guard did not waken Rodney Shaw, but the thing which one cry from the guard could have prevented did.

He sat up sharply. The sound which had roused him came again, and yet again; a hollow, crunching crash. His men were stirring about the dead fire, indistinct, moving humps, muttering huskily through their sleep. Once more, that sound, as Shaw leaped to his feet and then came a splashing in the water, a grunt, a muffled exclamation out there in the stream. He was bounding to the water's edge, still bewildered by sleep and a prey of racing misgivings. Now came the sound of paddles, driven deeply and, in answer to his hail, a mocking, taunting laugh.

Rodney just stood there, staring at the gaping holes in the birch skins and the broken ribs of his canoe. It was vast, irreparable damage, done by stoutly wielded axes. His transport lay wrecked, with his only source of replenishment more than a hard day's march behind! He must retrace the way he had come, wait until canoes could be built, lose all he had gained and more. Well, it was so; no other procedure was open. To be continued.

Ordinance Number Forty-One.

An Ordinance regulating the use of property within the Village of Cass City, and the erection or alteration of dwellings, commercial buildings or other structures thereon.

The Village of Cass City ordains:—

Sec. I. It is hereby declared to be the purpose of this ordinance to protect the general welfare of the citizens of the Village of Cass City by the regulation of all uses which may be made of vacant property within the corporate limits of said Village, and by the regulation of type of structures which may hereafter be erected, or alterations to existing structures, upon any property within the corporate limits of said Village.

Sec. II. There shall be hereby created a Board of Building and Property Permits, to consist of two members of the Village Council, which Board shall be appointed annually by the Village President, and shall have full power to administer the provisions of this ordinance, and grant or deny permits in accordance therewith, as hereinafter provided.

Sec. III. No person, persons, partnership, company or corporation shall make any commercial use of any vacant property in neighborhoods which are mainly residential within the Village limits, nor shall they erect or cause to be erected any building or structure thereon for commercial use, which shall be detrimental to the best interest of all residents within such neighborhood.

Sec. IV. No person, persons, partnership, company or corporation shall erect or cause to be erected any dwelling, garage, barn, shed, commercial building or other structure, nor engage in or cause alterations exceeding the value of Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00) to any such building or structure already existing, which shall be considered detrimental to the best interests of all residents within the neighborhood of such building or structure.

Sec. V. For the determination of what commercial uses of vacant property, and what buildings or structures, or alterations thereto, shall be considered detrimental to the best interests of all residents within any particular neighborhood, it is hereby required that application be made to the Board of Building and Property Permits, setting forth the description of the property involved, its proposed use or uses, or the type and description of the building or structure to be erected, or the proposed alterations, and that a permit therefore be obtained from said Board before such use, or construction, or alteration, is begun.

Sec. VI. The Board of Building and Property Permits shall charge a fee of Two Dollars ($2.00) for the issuance of any permit under the terms of this ordinance.

Sec. VII. Said Board of Building and Property Permits shall have full power in their own discretion, upon concurrence of both members of said Board, to grant or refuse permits under the terms of this ordinance, provided only that appeal may be had to the Village Council in regular session, from a refusal of said Board to grant any permit, and the Village Council may reverse the case and, by majority vote, either affirm or reverse the decision of said Board. The decision of the Village Council in regular session shall be final, and the Board of Building and Property Permits is required to issue any permit if so directed by action of the Village Council as above provided.

Sec. VIII. The provisions of this ordinance are not intended to prohibit the use of any vacant property for garden purposes, and it shall not be necessary to obtain a permit for any such use.

Sec. IX. Any person, persons, partnership, company or corporation guilty of violating any of the terms of this ordinance, or the owner of any property upon which a violation is committed, shall upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or by imprisonment in the County Jail of Tuscola County for a period not exceeding Ninety (90) Days, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the Court. Further, any building or structure or alterations to any building or structure, erected in violation of the terms of this ordinance may, in the discretion of the Board of Buildings and Property Permits, be ordered removed, and after Ten (10) days notice to the owner, occupant, person in charge, or builder thereof, of such order of said Board, and in the failure of such action, it shall be the duty of the Marshal to carry out such order of the Board. The expenses thereof shall be reported to the Village Council for their approval, and when approved, may be collected from the owners of such real estate by suit in assumpsit.

Sec. X. Insofar as the terms of this ordinance shall conflict with the terms of Ordinance Number Ten, entitled "An Ordinance Relating to Fire Limits and to the Construction of Buildings Therein," this ordinance shall prevail, provided however, that all buildings or structures erected or placed within the fire limits as specified by Ordinance Number Ten, shall conform with the requirements of said Ordinance Number Ten, with the further requirement that a permit therefore be obtained from the Board of Building and Property Permits as herein provided.

Sec. XI. This ordinance shall take effect October 1st, 1937.

in an overwhelming wet deluge. No danger of a dry secretary getting hard boiled with him. As a young man, O'Neil was a grand opera singer. Mophistophales, the Devil in Faust, was his favorite role. It is generally known all along Main Street where he operates his liquor emporium, that he likens the voters of America, when they lost their dry laws, to Faust in the Opera. Faust wanted youth. Science could not make him young again, so he called on the old Evil One. O'Neil down at his bar says, "Voters are like Faust. They couldn't wiggle out of the tax mess they get themselves in so they also called on the old Evil One to bring back business recovery. Come on, Gang, let's drink ourselves rich," is the toast that he drinks to all customers.

In the opera, when Faust sent for him he appeared suddenly with thundering ice. "I reply! You stare at me as if you were afraid to greet me," he sang.

So, in this drama, since the voters sent for him on election day, he is at home in the same role, sweeping the largest American auditoriums with a tremendous voice. "I reply, you stare at me as if you were afraid to greet me. With gold on my head and law in my hand, I travel as gentlemen travel, pay no attention to the words of the wise. Foolish proph-

This impressive scenic view was taken on Grand Lake, one of East Michigan's large inland lakes.

(The photograph and story in mat form was furnished by the E. M. T. A. to 300 editors making a recent tour of Michigan for use in their papers throughout the United States).

Whether the vacationist seeks relaxation or activity, Michigan, with its great range of appeal is a true Summer Wonderland for everyone.

West Michigan features many "finished" resorts and hotels that satisfy the most fastidious, while the upper peninsula's principal appeal is to the vacationist who wishes to spend his time in the unspoiled out-of-doors.

Although East Michigan has several excellent hotels and resorts that offer elaborate facilities and miles of rugged pine country for those who wish to relax close to nature, its principal appeal is to the family of moderate means. Its world of accommodations feature substantiality rather than luxury.

Mother Nature lavished her gifts upon East Michigan. She gave it hundreds of miles of shore-line on Lake Huron, Lake St. Clair, and Lake Erie. As though that would not have been enough, she air-conditioned it with a large share of Michigan's 5,000 inland lakes. Yes, Mother Nature provided East Michigan with an ideal playground for the fisherman, camper, boating enthusiast, and water sports devotee. All of East Michigan's activities are enhanced by cool lake waters, sandy beaches and pine-scented air.

Such game fish as bass, pike, bluegills and perch attract veteran and inexperienced fishermen. East Michigan's world-famous Au Sable and many other fine trout streams appeal to the angler.

East Michigan's state parks, which vary in size from 13 acres to 16,000 acres, offer free camp sites for the camper and trailerite. One-half of the state parks are already providing a facility for the house trailer at a low cost.

STUDENTS RIDE FAR TO GET EDUCATION

Buses Serve 1,972 Miles in Arizona Section.

Yuma, Ariz.—Yuma Union high-school students travel farther to obtain an education than any other combined student body in the United States, Val Reese, a senior, has computed. The 733 regularly enrolled students in the school travel 8,493 miles daily, or, during the school term, a distance equal to sixty-one times around the world, Reese found from a survey. The daily travel, he pointed out, is more miles than Columbus sailed on his three-month voyage to the new world in 1492. One student, Reese found, traveled ninety-eight miles daily, or farther than across the state of New Jersey. Raymond Erwin lives in Roll, forty-nine miles from the high school, and makes the round trip daily. He told Reese he didn't mind the driving, but he did object to the early rising it demanded and the necessity of blowing the automobile horn almost constantly to clear coyotes from the road. To get the Yuma high-school students to school a bus system serving 1,972 miles of territory has been developed. Eight buses make daily round trips to the farflung area. If this 1,972 miles of territory were placed in New York city, Reese estimated from his statistics, a single high school to serve the 138,000 students who theoretically would attend it would have to be larger than the Empire State and Woolworth buildings combined. Other facts developed by Reese from his survey were that 16.5 per cent of the Yuma Union students come from California. The city of Yuma provides 47.34 per cent, and 52.66 per cent come from isolated districts and use the bus system.

Asks Congress to Honor Man Who Aided Farmers

Washington.—A resolution calling for a memorial to John Deere, village blacksmith who gave to agriculture the steel plow, has been introduced in the house by Representative Chester Thompson of Rock Island, Illinois. The memorial, in the form of a plaque commemorating the one-hundredth anniversary of Deere's plow, being celebrated this year, would be placed in the Department of Agriculture. Deere made his first self-scouring steel plow in the spring of 1837 in the village of Grand Detour, Illinois, and 10 years later moved to Moline, Illinois, now headquarters of the farm machinery organization bearing his name. "I am happy to be able to do my share in commemorating the name and accomplishments of John Deere," Thompson said in introducing the resolution. "It is to such men as John Deere that the farmers of our nation owe their great progress during the last century." The resolution cites Deere's invention of the plow as "one of the great contributions to human progress," and declares that it "helped make possible the conquest of the vast prairie empire of the middle-western states, added to the general progress and prosperity of the people of the United States, and left its imprint upon the world."

Shark Patrol Will Set Traps Around Australia

Sydney.—The greatest shark hunt ever attempted, involving the closing of nearly forty miles of bays with a wall of nets, has started here. The plan is designed to protect the famous surfing beaches of Sydney, and will cost the New South Wales government $23,750 a year. Two hired trawlers at first will operate within the bays, catching any sharks which may be trapped by the nets. At first the sharks will be killed, taken out to sea and dumped, but later, when four new ships will be available, it is hoped to build a factory to turn the carcasses into liver oil, fertilizer, and leather. The many miles of nets needed, with adequate reserve supplies, must all be made in Australia, from home grown cotton. The company which is carrying out the scheme says that besides making the beaches safe for surf bathers, the trawling will help to develop the Australia fishing industry. Surf bathing lifesavers have already thanked the government for starting the shark patrol.

Cat a Veteran Sailor Sydney, N. S. W. — Tiger Tim, mascot of the liner Esperance Bay, is one of the most traveled cats in the world. It has been owned by the second steward of the liner for more than 12 years, and only once in that time has he set foot on land.

Youngsters of 4 to Be Taught to Sing Lincoln, Neb. — Mrs. Lillian Helms Polley, of the University of Nebraska voice faculty, believes that the time to teach youngsters how to sing is when they are just out of the cradle. Her voice-training class for children from six to nine, has been so successful that Mrs. Polley will open a class for four-year-olds.

Michigan Mirror A Non-Partisan State News Letter By GENE ALLEMAN Michigan Press Association

Lansing—Michigan is one of three states in which the federal government has found eggs to meet requirements for fancy grade. Other states are Washington and Oregon. These facts, almost unusual enough to merit Ripley's "Believe It or Not," were revealed here the other day by John B. Strange, agricultural commissioner, in announcing the adoption of federal grades for egg production in Michigan. The agreement put the state egg industry under federal pure food laws which prohibit the sale of eggs unfit for human consumption, and it takes the place of the previous "egg-by-the-pound" regulation. Henceforth, Michigan eggs can be sold to the Mid-West market by four grades: Fancy, and A, B, and C. Have your choice!

Bigger and Better Michigan's farm crops continue to grow bigger and better, according to the August estimate of the federal crop reporting service. Prospects are improved for corn, beans, apples, cherries and potatoes.

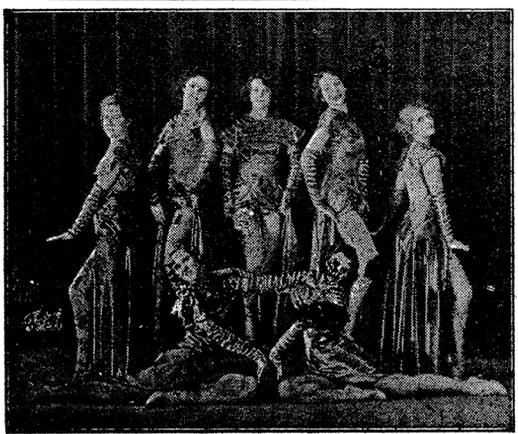

The winter wheat crop dropped about four million bushels to 19,670,000 during the month. Small declines were reported in oats, pears, peaches and barley. Despite heavy rains, the sugar beet estimate remained unchanged at 646,000 tons. Other August estimates were: Beans, 3,570,000 bags and 3,170,000 bags; cherries, 39,100 tons and 37,130 tons; apples, 13,120,000 bushels and 12,792,000 bushels; potatoes, 31,130,000 bushels and 29,715,000 bushels.

Legislative Graft?

An inquiry into charges of Paul H. Todd, chairman of the state public utilities commission that the state legislature failed to enact rural electrification legislation because "some members were employed by private utility interests" may be authorized by the state senate at the next special session. Todd declared: "There is nothing to prevent legislators from being employed by special private interests on a retainer basis. We need a change in the statute so that publicity can be given on all such retainers by special interests."

The senate state affairs committee, of which Senator William Palmer, Democrat, Flint, is chairman, refused to report out in special session a house bill giving vast powers to rural electrification associations. Palmer's action led to a physical attack upon him by Senator James Burns, Democrat of Detroit.

Other senators mentioned as opposing the REA bill were J. Neal Lamoreaux, Democrat, Comstock Park; Earl W. Munshaw, Republican, Grand Rapids; and Earl L. Burhans, Paw Paw. Declared Lansing's pro-labor senator, Harry F. Hittle: "The thing to do is to introduce a resolution at the next session asking Todd to appear before us and to name the members he's talking about." Unless the sensational charges by Todd can be substantiated, it is not unlikely that they will serve as a boomerang against possible passage of the bill. The senate takes up its dignity seriously, thanks mostly to Lieutenant Governor Nowicki.

SOME OF THE 24 EDGAR SCHOOLEY DANCERS IN "WORLD ON PARADE"

Rippling with catchy tunes and pulse-stirring dances—interspersed with top-rung vaudeville acts from theatre centers of both United States and Europe, and brilliant with gorgeous costumes and even more gorgeous girls, "World on Parade," newest of outdoor musical revues, is scheduled to appear nightly before grand stand spectators at the Tuscola County Fair, starting August 23 and continuing through August 27. Although the musical and dancing revues offered at the fair in the past reached a high degree of

Politics Warming Up

From a national point-of-view, Michigan continues to have more than average prominence. The September issue of "True Story" contains a popularized article of Governor Murphy's "own life story." A recent issue of "Graphic," the social workers' publication, carried a signed article by the governor extolling the "model" labor relations act, since vetoed by the author. Postmaster General Farley established a reputation as a political seer by forecasting Roosevelt's victory in 46 out of the 48 states. With an eye already on 1940, he recently declared that "it looks like Vandenberg—the Republicans haven't anyone else." Farley's reference to Arthur H. Vandenberg, Michigan's senior senator, prompted William C. Sterling, a Democratic candidate for Congress, to sound a call at a Jackson rally of Young Democrats to "stop Vandenberg." It looks like we're going to have an interesting winter!

"Deserving" Newspapers

Announcement by George Gundry, state auditor general, that contracts to advertise state delinquent tax land sales in 1938 would be awarded to "deserving" newspapers, has served to emphasize the trend of Michigan weekly newspapers from party organs to non-partisan independent journals. Even Secretary of State Leon Case's newspaper, the Waterliet Record, is listed officially as an independent newspaper.

More and more you will find your home-town newspaper reporting both sides of a political controversy in a spirit of tolerance and fair play. Philip T. Rich, editor of the Midland Daily News, declared recently in an editorial: "A great proportion of the newspapers of the state, large and small, made a sincere attempt in last fall's campaign to present the news fairly and fearlessly. This was done regardless of how the editors felt personally."

"Hundreds of weekly newspapers which crossed our desk carried both Republican and Democratic claims side by side. We ran these together with dozens of cartoons from both parties in addition to local, state and national claims. It was a fair picture; a well rounded story. Any person reading these newspapers could make up his mind from the many facts present. If he was interested in the editor's personal view, he could find it in his personal or editorial column."

The Midland newspaper, until May 1, was called the "Midland Republican." Now it is independent in name as well as in politics.

Commercializing Scenery

"Something should be done!" This protest came from Murray D. VanWagoner, state highway commissioner, following a trip recently to the Upper Peninsula where he inspected the scenic shoreline road US-2, west from St. Ignace. The cause was the leasing of choice locations along the shoreline drive by billboard operators for commercial advertisements. Garden clubs of Michigan attempted to obtain passage of a billboard licensing act last spring at Lansing. It was sponsored by Senator Lamoreaux, a Democrat, but failed to muster enough votes.

On the Labor Front

Despite a fanfare of state-wide publicity, distribution of U. A. W. propaganda among Ford workers at Dearborn was as uneventful as a strawberry ice cream social. Homer Martin, U. A. W. national president, continues to minimize the likelihood of "wildcat strikes" while automobile manufacturers consider renewal of wage contracts. In Lansing and Detroit, the C. I. O. is negotiating for organization of state employees of the liquor control commission. Ray Aversa, national organizer, assured the press: "Strikes and picketing are not authorized." He proposes minimum wages of around $1,900 a year.

Last Saturday at Grand Rapids was held an annual picnic of the Michigan Farmers' Union. Present were Homer Martin of the U. A. W. and Edward Kosten, organizers of the A. F. of L., giving a hint of the so-called "farm-labor movement" for 1940.

Labor earnings for 1935 in 5,592 Michigan manufacturing plants totaled $697,323,397. The value of all Michigan manufactured goods totaled $4,020,909,490. This was an increase of nearly two billions in two years. Yes, times are better in Michigan.

All livestock clubs are expected to take part.

Thursday afternoon — livestock parade. All 4-H club exhibitors, over one hundred of them, will be banqueted in the basement of the Lutheran Church, sponsored by the Caro Exchange Club. These club members will parade back to the fairgrounds immediately after the banquet in their various clubs led by the band. Immediately upon arrival at the fairgrounds club members will lead out their animals for the big parade. Several of 4-H canning clubs in the county will also appear in this parade with floats assembled by them and displaying 4-H activities around farm food supply. 4-H club display will immediately be followed by all the animals on exhibition on the fairgrounds from within the county as well as outside. Horse breeders of the county will drive four-horse teams hitched to show wagons, namely: Robert Robinson, Ed Rohlf, Harry Rohlf, and Joe Bell. The eight-horse hitch of Goebel Brewing Company, purebred Clydesdales, will also appear. Cattle exhibitors with Tuscola's highly bred purebred dairy and beef animals will also parade. Approximately 250 owners with as many as or more animals valued at approximately $50,000.00 will make up this grand display before the new grandstand.

The lightweight horse pulling contest will be held Thursday forenoon at 10:00 a. m., and horse owners who have good teams are invited to take part in this contest. All have a privilege to withdraw at any time they see fit. Four cash prizes are offered to the four highest teams. William Brinkman of Akron owned the winning team last year.

Friday, a demonstration of preparing the beef calf for show will be presented on the stage before the grandstand by Harrison and Bruce Stine, members of the Cass City livestock club. The boys will use the Hereford steer, which Harrison is using in his feeding project. They will display necessary equipment in preparing cattle for the ring. They will demonstrate washing, curling hair, preparation of the feet, and training of the animal.

The heavyweight horse pulling contest will be held on the race track following the horse racing program and other afternoon features. This contest was won in 1936 by John Humes of Caro.
