NEIL FLETCHER LEARNS THAT CHRONICLE LINERS MAKE QUICK SALES

Neil Fletcher is another man who was recently convinced that Chronicle liner ads are an efficient means for selling farm live stock.

He advertised cows for sale in last Friday's Chronicle and sold the animals to R. D. Keating of Cass City before Mr. Fletcher had received a copy of the paper on Rural Route No. 2.

Mr. Keating had read the liner and visited the Fletcher farm early Friday morning to be sure to be there before the cattle would be sold to another buyer.

Youth Center Fund Reports Progress

Financial Campaign began Tuesday with Liberal Response from 2 Clubs.

A good response to the appeal for funds to support the Youth Center for the 1937-38 season is reported as the financial campaign begins. Members of the Rotary club responded with substantial contributions via Guy Landon and his helpers at the regular noon luncheon on Thursday. Later that same afternoon, the Woman's Study club voted a gift of ten dollars as an organization.

During the next several days, individuals in the adult-groups of the churches and in business places in the village are to be approached for contributions. The popular "supporting gift" is designated at one dollar for the year. A "friendly contribution" of 50 cents is expected from many who could not otherwise be included. All amounts expressing a practical interest in this worthy enterprise will be gratefully acknowledged. Official receipts are issued to all contributors.

Cass City Grange Elected Officers

Rotary Club Boasts a Bang-up Quartet

The Cass City Rotary Club has a bang-up quartet to sing special numbers at club "doings." J. Henry Smith has been putting the boys through their strides and on Tuesday they appeared before the club for the first time with Mr. Smith at the piano. Their two numbers "brought down the house." G. A. Tindale, Leslie Townsend, A. C. Atwell and G. W. Landon are the four singers.

William Miller was program chairman at Tuesday's luncheon and asked State Representative Rawson if there was any law which requires motorists to stop their cars behind school buses as they took on or unloaded school children. Mr. Rawson said such a measure passed the house but failed to become a law when it died in the senate.

M. D. Orr, Caro attorney, who has achieved fame as a story writer, told Rotarians "how to get into the writing game." Mr. Orr said the first and important requirement was that a writer must know about the things about which he intends to write. Publishers' rejection slips, especially in the early experience of the author, should

Elkland Cemetery Chapel Enlarged

Accommodates 200 Persons at Burial Service in Cold or Stormy Weather.

Besides being one of the most beautiful cemeteries in Michigan's Thumb, Elkland cemetery provides chapel conveniences which are found in very few communities in this section of the state.

The chapel building has been enlarged by the Board of Health of Elkland and is now 20 by 44 feet in size and approximately twice its former length. Sidewalls and ceiling are finished in ivory with a lower panel of the walls done in a dark tan. The building, built of brick, is lighted by six windows.

The chapel has been found a great convenience in past winters in providing comfortable quarters for a burial service. The building in its enlarged size will accommodate about 200 people and is warmed by a circulator heater.

A full size basement is devoted to two purposes. The part of the north, 20 x 24 feet, is used for the temporary storing of caskets, while the part to the south, 20 by 20 feet, is used as a workroom by Joseph A. Benkelman, the sexton, and for storing power and hand lawn mowers and other tools. Entrance to the basement is made from the ground level.

Next W. S. C. Meet Is Guest Day

At its meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ernest Croft, the Woman's Study Club voted to present $10 to the Youth Center to help defray expenses of that worthwhile institution.

Mrs. Arthur Moore presented a discussion on "Soil Conservation" and Mrs. T. Heron one on "Forestry Conservation." A paper on "Flood Control," prepared by Mrs. A. A. Ricker, was read by Mrs. Raymond McCullough. Mrs. G. A. Tindale performed the duties of critic.

The next meeting of the club on November 9 will be "Guest Day" and will be held in the Presbyterian church. Captain Donald S. Leonard, vice president of International Association of Chiefs of Police, will be the speaker.

Fremont Twp. Woman Injured by Two Robbers

Three Visit Farm on "Potato Buying" Errand and Rob Housewife of $10.00.

Mrs. Carl Bednaryczk was knocked unconscious Wednesday morning at her home, 7½ miles south of Caro, on M-85, by two robbers who entered her home and stole $10.

Three men drove up to the Bednaryczk home shortly before noon and asked Mrs. Bednaryczk if she had any potatoes to sell. She replied she had, and when requested to show them to the men, she invited them to view the tubers in the cellar. Two of the fellows entered the house, and as soon as they were inside, they demanded money. When Mrs. Bednaryczk said there was none, one hit her on the head with a black-jack, knocking her unconscious and inflicting a wound which bled profusely. The robbers then ransacked the house and left with $10.00 which belonged to the Bednaryczk household.

Mrs. Bednaryczk was alone at the time, her husband and three sons, full grown and strapping young fellows, being absent from home. Another son came home from school at noon and found his mother unconscious and lying in a pool of blood on the floor. He called Joe Cartwright and several other men hunting in the neighborhood and medical aid was summoned.

Deputy Sheriffs Earl Laur and John Caldwell were assigned to the case to make investigations.

Profound Faith in God Is the Great Need of the Nation

Speaking on "The Abundant Life," at the state convention of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon League, at Minneapolis, Monday, Dr. R. N. Holsapple of Cass City, declared that it is a mistake to think that economic recovery in times of depression can be brought about alone by jobs and construction projects and drinking alcoholic beverages.

"We have failed to either properly diagnose the case or furnish the right formula for recovery," he said, and continued, "economic crises invariably follow a moral sag. This nation cannot spend itself rich, and it cannot drink itself into temperance. It was folly to think that economic recovery depended on the debauchery of the youth and making sots of this generation. A beer keg is a fine thing to ride on to ruin but an unsafe vehicle to take to economic or moral success. It was sheer folly to think we could cut straight across the Golden Rule, disregard the moral law and go on a nationwide debauch and thus save the country. The great need of the nation today is for recovery of a profound faith in God, for that is what we lost before the banks began to fail."

Slight Injuries in Three Accidents

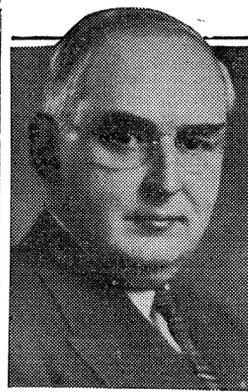

The automobile of Edward Kaczorowski of Detroit left the highway on the Kingston road, a short distance out of Caro, Saturday night, landing on its side in a ditch. Eleanor Cabie of Silverwood and Frank Nagy were passengers in the car and they and the driver received injuries, none of which were considered very serious.

Norman Barthel's car travelling east was struck by a Bad Axe-Saginaw mail truck travelling west through Reese as Barthel made a left hand turn in front of the mail car driven by Roy Mathes. In the crash, the cars hit a Buick car of R. J. Wilson of Bay City, parked at the side of the street. All three machines were damaged in this accident which occurred Monday morning.

A collision of cars owned by David Wagner of Unionville and Alex Myer of Saginaw occurred Saturday night near the Bradley farm, west of Unionville, on M-25. Mr. Wagner and Edna Settleberg, a passenger in his car, were slightly injured.

She also told some very interesting stories as to how some patterns originated.

Luncheon was served at noon by Mrs. S. B. Young, Mrs. J. I. Niergarth, Mrs. R. D. Keating, Miss Nellie Armitage and Mrs. Willis Campbell.

The next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday, November 16.

Tuscola Solons Entertain Their Huron Co. Brethren

Boards Discuss Mutual Problems and Attend a Banquet Monday Night.

Huron county supervisors were guests of the Tuscola board of supervisors on Monday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon, at the court house, they discussed mutual problems and the method of solving them in the two counties. Sunday hunting, hospitalization and welfare were the subjects that received the most attention.

The Tuscola solons entertained the Huron county board members at a banquet at the Hotel Montague in the evening. Scott Campbell, superintendent of the Tuscola poor farm, gave readings and entertainment features and Roland O. Kern of Caro gave an address on war situations in Europe and Asia and their possible effects on the United States.

E. L. Benton, county agricultural agent, gave a talk on various agricultural problems before Tuscola county supervisors on Monday morning. UNCLE SAM AND JAPAN.

The United States is about to take part in a historic conference of the nations that signed the nine power treaty, which regulates the relations of the countries bordering on the Pacific ocean. The action of that conference is likely to have a profound effect on all our destinies.

Participation in this conference seems to depart from the traditional attitude of our country, which has been to remain aloof from the disputes of Europe and Asia. That tradition was broken when the United States fought in the World war. Probably the majority of Americans regret having entered that war. Yet some action on the Japanese-Chinese war is probably necessary.

It will be argued by many that the United States, after condemning Japan as the aggressor in that war, should advocate the imposition of penalties on that country, such as forbidding trade and commerce with Japan. That will be a risky step, almost an act of war. You can't tell what would happen. The Philippine Islands are within easy reach of Japan. If that country attempted to attack them, the United States would be in for a first class war.

The United States should not look at this issue in a one sided way. The sympathies of most of our people are with China, and no doubt they are right in that attitude. Back in 1917 they felt sure that putting down Germany would solve Europe's problems. It failed to do so. It may be that Japan, with its crowded population cooped up in a little country, has real grievances. But that does not excuse that country for making war on a peaceful nation.

The nine power conference should express positive disapproval of the act of Japan in making war. These nations are not called on to engage in that war, or do anything likely to draw them into it. Their best plan is to appeal for peaceful settlement of all such disputes.

INDIAN SUMMER.

The poets become ecstatic about Indian summer, but who can tell when it comes? Is it in September, October, or November? Anyway, the ancient traditions have it that the old Indians were too indolent or absorbed in hunting to attend to their crops when the palefaced did. So they postponed cultivation until the warm days of autumn, when it might be too late.

Every autumn brings those calm and mellow days, with a soft and haunting beauty of their own. The feverish heats of July have been tempered, the warmth of the sun touches us with its healing caress. The world has reached the peak of beauty. If it could only last, we all say.

SEXES TOGETHER IN SCHOOLS.

The 100th anniversary of co-education was recently celebrated at Oberlin college, Ohio. Co-education is the plan by which girls and boys are received in the same colleges or other schools. Oberlin was probably the first college to admit girls.

Elementary schools in the United States have usually included both boys and girls, but many years had to pass before the sexes were allowed to associate together in colleges. It was long felt that at the emotional period of adolescence, the young people do better work if they do not see much of each other.

Many people feel today that the sexes have to learn how to get along together in a healthful way. So public high schools are generally co-educational, and probably also the majority of colleges and universities. It is argued that the more you pen the sexes up separately, the more they jump the fences meant to hedge them in.

A number of villages in New York are going to seek home rule in the proposed new state constitution. But even the constitution couldn't give home rule to a hen-pecked husband.

Anyhow this talk about Japan's outrages against China serves to take the mind of the public off such things as the Klan, the Supreme Court and the slump in the stock market.

STILL DESIRE MARRIAGE.

A class of 36 girls in London, England, were recently asked to write essays on what they would like to be doing 10 years from now. All but three of them said they would like to be married and have a baby. Probably American girls would say about the same, in spite of all the dreams they may have had about winning prizes in business and the professions.

Aias, in America, if 33 girls were married in 10 years, half a dozen or more might be divorced within that time. The old novels used to say, after they married off the rejoicing couple: "They both lived happily forever after." Today marriage is often only the beginning of tragedy.

PROTEST SPOILS SYSTEM.

The local organizations of the National League of Women Voters have been asked to protest against the alleged failure of congress to adhere to the merit system in appointments to office.

The next session of congress will be asked to pass a bill which would put 305,000 more government employees under civil service rules. The American people do not take kindly to the idea that public offices should be passed around as rewards of political service. They say offices are not created to win elections, but to carry on the business of government without regard to politics. Any political party that will abolish the spoils system will shine very bright in the pages of history.

END OF GANGSTER TRAIL.

A superb trap operated by G-men at Bangor, Me., with admirable assistance by state and local police and a courageous dealer in arms, has caught and slain the famous bandit chief known as Al Brady, together with one of his lieutenants. So comes the end of the gangster trail. "Thus ever to tyrants," said an old Latin motto. It should be changed now to "Thus ever to gangsters."

Young men who choose the gangster path are heading either for death or long life in jail. They can dodge the law a few times, but no gangster is keen enough to keep on dodging without doing it once too often. Too many eyes are watching his slippery tracks.

LONG DISTANCE MOTORING.

The motoring habits of automobile owners have undergone a real change from the days when many states had speed limits of 25 miles per hour, and when people thought they were taking a long drive if they covered 100 miles in a day.

Now it has become a common thing for people to start out on trips from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, or from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. It is somewhat common for people to cover 500 miles in a day, and some go in excess of that figure. People can see a tremendous lot of country in a two weeks' vacation. Within a few years they may be able to visit every state in the union.

There was a time when if people set out on a long trip, they could be fairly sure of a number of breakdowns, and tire trouble could be expected more or less frequently. Many and prolonged detours would take them bumping over the roughest roads. Anyway, their insides got thoroughly jolted up, which might be good for their digestion if their nervous systems did not give up the ghost.

Today automobiles are so nearly perfect, and main lines of roads so good, that these difficulties are very minor in character.

The desire to cover these great distances incites many motorists to high speeds, which has its dangers. They sometimes get going so fast that they don't realize what can happen when they pass through cities and towns. The fatigue resulting from a long trip may lead them to relax attention. There is danger that they may not see the little car bobbing out from some obscure cross street, or the little child darting into the road.

It is better to cut a hundred or two miles off the daily schedule, than have something happen that will leave its sorrowful marks for many years.

A good rule to follow, in developing your personality, is to express yourself honestly. It isn't always done.

There are experts who are too expert, which means that they have forgotten that there is much to learn.

You reach a certain level of intelligence when you are ready to admit that you don't know all the answers.

In that future day, when all secrets shall be revealed and all things made known, a lot of men will have to flee the country.

Generally the fellows most anxious for war are those too old to fight and who have no sons to contribute to the cause.

In life it is well to remember that death strikes without warning, and so, you might as well live your best now.

Say what you like, preach what you like, teach what you like—nevertheless, children are bound to play in streets. Youth is reckless, youth is care-free, and accordingly does not take time to reason out possible dangers.

A ball suddenly rolls out into the street and the youthful player starts after it regardless of what might happen. His one ambition is to get the ball and get it back into the playing field before the runner can advance too far. The man driving an automobile should take into consideration these possibilities, and wherever children are playing in lots, school yards, or elsewhere, care should be taken while passing these premises.

I'll bet dollars to doughnuts you will never regret doing so.

CRANBERRIES IN GENERAL FAVOR

As a Jelly or Sauce Are Always Welcomed.

By EDITH M. BARBER

CRANBERRIES lend a gay note to the markets at this time of year. I can never resist them and as they have now begun to take their place with the other fruits for general use in cooking, we do not have to consider whether we really need them for jelly or for sauce to serve with meat.

They will always hold first place for this purpose. They are a great comfort to the cook because she seldom has to worry about cranberries jellifying. Unless they are over-ripe, they are certain to mold. The recipe for either sauce or jelly is a very easy one to carry in your mind—just one-fourth as much water as berries and half as much sugar.

Pick over and wash one quart of cranberries. Cover with one cup of water and cook in a covered kettle ten minutes. Add two cups of sugar and cook three minutes. Skim and serve very cold. This sauce will keep indefinitely if kept cold and covered.

For cranberry jelly cook the berries in the same way until very tender. Press through a strainer, add the sugar and stir over the fire until the sugar is dissolved. Pour at once into a mold or jelly glasses and cool. This recipe will be more than enough for one meal, but it is time saving to make at least this amount as the jelly will keep.

Many recipes advise boiling the pulp and sugar together for a few minutes until you get the usual jelly test, two drops hanging side by side from the spoon when dipped into and then held above the saucepan, but I do not find it necessary to do this. Cranberry tapioca is one of my favorite desserts. Its lovely red color makes a contrast to the whipped cream with which it should be served.

Cranberry Tapioca.

- 3/4 cup granulated tapioca
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 1/2 cups boiling water
- 1 pint cranberries
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup sugar

Cook tapioca, salt and boiling water together until clear. Cook cranberries and water until soft and add to the tapioca with the sugar. Cook five minutes, pour into a wet mold, chill and serve with whipped cream.

Cranberry Juice Cocktail.

- 4 cups cranberries
- 4 cups water
- 2-3 cup granulated sugar

Cook cranberries and water until all the skins pop open (about five minutes). Strain through cheesecloth. Bring the juice to boiling point, add sugar and boil two minutes. Serve cold. This may be corked and sealed for future use.

Gold Cake.

- 2 cups cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup butter or other shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 egg yolks
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract

Sift flour with baking powder. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks beaten until very thick; then flour, alternately with milk. Add flavoring. Beat well. Bake in two eight-inch or nine-inch layer pans in moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit, 25 to 30 minutes. Spread lemon filling between layers. Sift powdered sugar over top of cake.

Ginger Ale Salad.

- 2 tablespoons gelatin
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 1/2 cups ginger ale
- 1/2 cup sugar
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 2 cups fruit, cut fine
- 1/2 cup nuts, chopped

Soften gelatin in cold water five minutes, dissolve in boiling water. Add ginger ale, lemon juice and sugar. Set aside to cool. When beginning to thicken add fruit and turn into fancy molds. Serve on lettuce and garnish with dressing.

Cinnamon Biscuits.

- 2 cups flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 3/4 cup milk or water

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Rub shortening into the flour mixture. Add liquid. Roll into one-half inch sheets. Sprinkle top with mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Roll up and cut into slices one-half inch thick. Bake in a greased pan in a 400 degree oven about fifteen minutes.

Ice Cream Meringue.

- 12 small meringues
- Chocolate sauce
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream

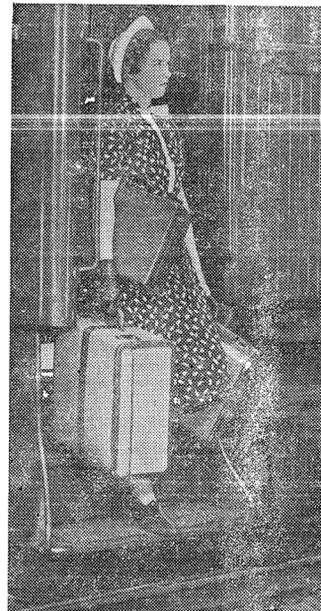

On each serving plate put a ball of ice cream and press a meringue on each side. Pass chocolate sauce. © Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Fall Painting

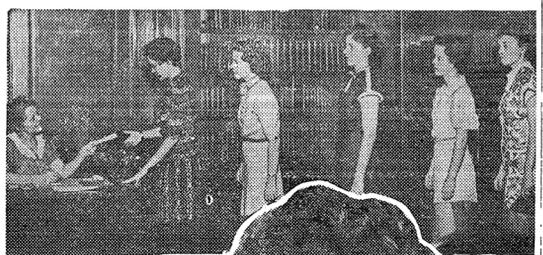

A coat of paint applied this fall to porch and cellar steps will do much to insure them against the onslaughts of winter. At the time these are painted, it is well to give the wooden or metal floor supports in the cellar a coat of paint and also the inside woodwork of slanting cellar doors.

Somewhat apprehensive Peggy Co-Ed stepped off the train at Baton Rouge, wondering what college days held in store for her.

Like the average fresher, Peggy had to go through certain entrance formalities to make sure she was equipped to become one of the 7,300 students. It's not such an ordeal, however, and we see her above, receiving her card while others await their turns. This card entitles her to attend classes, but for the first few days the excitement makes it hard to get down to the grind. In music class (at right) is she absorbed in that sonata? More likely in that handsome professor!

The day's studies over, Peggy and dormitory mates primp for dates.

And at night we find her twirling about the gymnasium floor in the arms of her linen-suited date, at a student "hop." This is the life!

Kissing the newest cornerstone upon arrival is an LSU tradition.

HOW

FAST FOX CAN RUN FOUND BY USE OF SPEEDOMETER.—How fast can a fox run?

On a South Carolina road last winter, a gray fox answered the question with a burst of speed at the rate of 26 miles an hour for about 100 yards, gradually slowing to a speed of about 21 miles an hour at the end of a half mile.

Clarence Cottam, of the bureau of biological survey, was inspecting wildlife areas in the Southeast, when the fox jumped ahead of his car. Cottam, interested in all phases of wildlife, tooted the horn to encourage the fox to extend himself, and, watching the speedometer, followed close. He found he had to throttle down as the fox lost speed after the first spurt.

How does the speed of this fox compare with the best efforts by men? Sprinting at 26 miles an hour the fox went the first hundred yards in a shade less than 8 seconds. The world record for the 100-yard dash is 9.4 seconds. At 21 miles an hour the fox would go half a mile in a little less than 1 minute and 26 seconds. The fastest half mile by a man is just under 1 minute 50 seconds.

How to Get Important Minerals in Vitamins

Here are six rules for insuring the necessary daily quota of important minerals in vitamins:

1. Use whole grain breakfast cereals and bread as much as possible.
2. See that each child of the family gets a quart of milk a day and each adult at least a pint, either to drink or cooked in the food.
3. Eat a raw leafy vegetable or fruit salad once or twice daily.
4. Eat liberal portions of at least two cooked vegetables besides potatoes daily, one of them of the green leaf variety.
5. Eat at least one or two eggs daily and a fairly generous amount of butter.
6. Eat different kinds of vegetables and fruits each day.

How Niagara Falls Is Lighted

The Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce says that the lights at Niagara Falls are operated with a carbon arc which is automatically fed throughout the period of lighting. The carbon is good for about two and one-half hours. As to the power of these lights, each unit ranges from 80,000,000 to better than 100,000,000 candlepower, depending upon the adjustment of the lights and the concentration of the ray. It is perfectly possible to step one of these lights up to 200,000,000 candlepower. The average amount of illumination which is secured from the entire battery is 1,440,000,000 candlepower.

How to Prepare Playhouse

Warm weather brings out anew that urge to build something, and if properly approached Dad can undoubtedly be induced to take out that urge in building a playhouse for the children of the family. The amateur carpenter will find that the lighter building materials will serve the purpose for such a little house nicely. Both walls and roof may be of cane fibre board with windows cut out on the sides. Mother may take her part in the enterprise by making an awning of some inexpensive, tough cloth to hang across the entrance. This will save the cost of hanging doors.

How Iridescent Effect Is Gained

Iridescent glass is made by adding certain metallic salts such as oxide of tin, cryolite, carbonate of barium, carbonate of strontium, etc., to the usual ingredients in mixing the glass. The Scientific American Cyclopedia of Formulas gives a method of producing iridescence on nickel, brass or copper articles with a solution of lead acetate and sodium hyposulphite in water. Various lacquers can be employed to give a similar effect on metals, leather and other surfaces.

How Bears Differ

According to a naturalist a grizzly, often known as a silver tip, is as different from a black bear as a black bear is from a coyote. One sure way of telling the difference when one sees a bear is to climb a tree. If the bear follows one up, it is a black bear and if the bear waits two or three hours at the bottom of the tree, it is a grizzly.

How to Clean Paintings

A good way to clean oil paintings is to rub them with linseed oil. When you buy it ask for boiled linseed oil, as there are two kinds. By applying this with a soft piece of cloth, you will have good results. It will not injure the paints in any way.

How to Banish Dampness

Where there is any suspicion of dampness in a room that is seldom used, place a block of camphor in each corner. In a week's time the camphor will have disappeared—and also the dampness, according to a correspondent in Pearson's London Weekly.

How High Ocean Waves Run

The highest wave reported by the hydrographic office of the United States Navy department was encountered in the North Atlantic ocean December 22, 1922, by the British steamship Majestic. Its height was estimated to be 80 feet.

Black Feather

By Harold Titus

WNU Service

It was on the second night that they rounded a bend of the great Mississippi to see the point of fire on the dark point of land before them.

They approached without hail, silently, but Annette's men had detected them. One was standing there in the half shadows, rifle at ready, as Jacques leaped out.

"Shaw!"
"Ay!" He swallowed, as if the next were of tremendous import. "The ma'm'selle . . . She is where?"

"Around the point . . . She walked as I prepared food."

Rodney moved slowly past the small fire, heedless of the stares of the men clustered there. He went on along the narrow strip of stony flat beneath the towering heights, moccasins making no sound while his heart flailed his ribs.

He stopped suddenly. She was standing there, cloak drawn about her. She was very still but after a time he could see that her hands worked slowly, caressing something they held.

"Annette?" he said in a whisper, almost timidly.

She tilted her head as if the sound had been so faint that she could not distinguish the direction from which it came.

"Annette!"—louder.
The girl turned and one hand whipped to her throat.

"Rodney? Rodney! It is . . . you?"
He could only nod. Beholding her through new eyes, with honestly desiring eyes, he had no words. She was so lovely!

"I . . . I found your letter," he said simply.

She waited silent and motionless.

"I've come to say, first, Annette, that things which do not matter elbow themselves in. Like trade. Like freedom. These never should have mattered. Habit, like, made them matter. Or blindness . . . Whatever it was, this trade and what it represented, stood in the way of important things . . . holy things . . ." He lifted a hand in a gesture of futility. "Why try to explain? I was a fool. I was arrogant, unthinking, ignorant of values. I hurt and tortured you. I . . . I struggled to awake you and then turned away. I know now, Annette, that the things I believed to be true in my last hours at Mackinac were not true. Without you, I would be lying dead, buried among the Pillagers. I know what happened . . . Some of it . . . Rich told me . . . And I have come this way to tell you . . . to say to you . . . to thank you for my life, Annette . . . my life!"

His voice sank to a whisper.

"Rodney! Oh, Rodney! I claim the responsibility for mischief; you demand it! Can it ever be decided? No! Neither will grant the other responsibility. I know I will not . . . But does that matter?"

"It does not matter . . . now," he said and for the first time touched her.

His hands trembled on her arms, on her shoulders. She stood rigidly, however, without response.

"But you came this way, Rodney, just to say these healing words. And you left your establishment with the Rickman near? Was that wise? Might he not do you harm?"

"Rickman," he said, "is gone."
"Gone?"

"Forever." He felt her shudder and sway, then. Gently, he drew her close with one arm, feeling for her hand with his other. He found it, clasped on a limp and formless shape.

The hand opened, depositing in his what it had held.

"What's this?" he asked, puzzled.
"The black feather, Rodney . . . The plume Crooks gave you on your arrival. Symbol of invincibility!"

She laughed softly at his astonishment.

"You dropped it when they arrested you. I found it, dear Rodney. I have kept it since as a symbol . . . a symbol, perhaps, of hope. That some day you might long for an attainment which cannot be measured in the powers of men's bodies or the depth of their courage or the sharpness of their wits, but instead in the tranquility of contented hearts . . ."

"And now I . . . I yield it to you!"

A tremor ran through him. He shook his head.

"No. Keep it, Annette. The thing I now know which is the objective of all men rests in your hands, cupped in your gentle palms. Keep, with my heart, this token . . ."

CORN IN SILO IS A GOOD WINTER FEED

Crop Makes More Succulent Roughage Per Acre.

By F. R. Farnham, Dairy Specialist, North Carolina State College, WNU Service.

Comparatively few farmers take full advantage of their corn crop in producing feed for winter consumption. Corn made into silage produces more succulent roughage per acre than any other known crop.

The trench silo is the very thing for small farms where large upright silos would be impractical. Trench silos, inexpensive and convenient, are also being used more and more on farms where large herds are kept.

There is a growing tendency toward silage in preference to dry hays. Unfavorable weather at harvesting time is less serious for silage than when hay is being cut and cured.

Silage is succulent and keeps cattle in good condition through the winter. Silage production requires less acreage and, therefore, permits the use of soil-building crops on land that would otherwise be needed for growing hay.

The construction of a trench silo is fairly simple. A narrow trench should be dug on farms where only a few animals are to be fed. A cheap roof placed over the silo will help protect the feed from bad weather and keeps the walls from caving in.

Liberal Fall Feeding of Cows Increases Profits

Liberal feeding of early fall freshening cows and of all cows during the dry period will materially increase the dairyman's income, according to E. A. Hanson, extension dairyman, University farm, St. Paul.

Too often the early fall freshening cow is underfed because pastures are low, and to many dairymen it seems too early to start barn feeding only a few cows. All CTA records, however, show that fall freshened cows, well fed from the beginning, lead in year-round butterfat production.

During late summer and early fall months, alfalfa hay will serve as a pasture supplement if pastures are sufficiently heavy. If pastures are poor, fresh cows should receive a full feed of hay and grain twice daily in order to maintain high production. Silage may be fed to advantage immediately after the silo has been filled.

At this season of the year, fall freshening cows are being turned dry, and others are rapidly going that way because of poor pastures. Good dairymen aim to give their cows a dry period of about 6 weeks. Cows thin in flesh when turned dry should be fed a fattening ration during the dry period. Cows in good condition at freshening time will always start the lactation period giving more milk daily and continue at a higher level for a longer period than cows that have a short dry period and freshen in poor condition.

Orphan Chicks Best

Raise your day-old chicks away from home, if you want them to grow up to be healthy layers, is the advice of Ohio research poultrymen. Isolation of young chicks from older birds, but allowing them use of range on the experiment station farm, resulted in a mortality rate of 56 per cent. In an adjoining pen, other pullets, hatched from station eggs but which had been grown to laying age away from the station, had a mortality rate of only 24 per cent. This experiment caused the Ohio scientists to point out "the need for a new phase of specialization in poultry raising, the production of livable ready-to-lay pullets. The brooding of chicks and the growth of pullets in the future may largely become a commercial enterprise in the hands of specialists."—Country Home Magazine.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

There are, as a rule, ten eggs to a pound.

A total of 5,035,000 motor vehicles of various descriptions are used on the farms of the United States.

A good orchard fertilizer contains readily available nitrogen. Nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia, and cyanamid are common forms that meet this requirement.

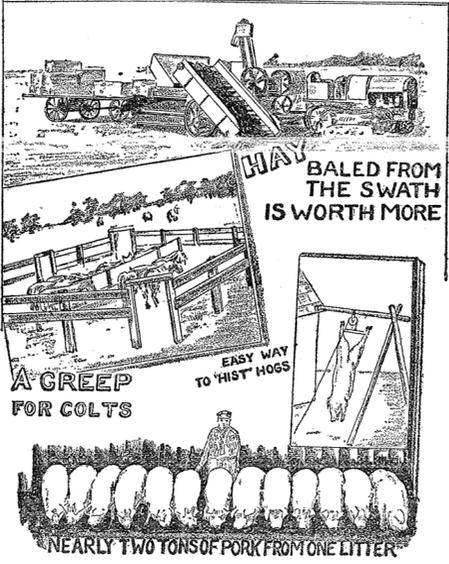

Canada was the leading exporter of honey to the British Isles in 1936.

The 1937 lamb crop is estimated by the bureau of agricultural economics at nearly 31,000,000 head.

A cellar with a dirt floor is better for potato storage than one with a cement floor.

Eggs whip to a larger volume and beat more rapidly if they are at room temperature than when they are chilled.

FARMING IT . . . BY WILLARD BOLTE

NEARLY TWO TONS OF PORK FROM ONE LITTER

Clark Osterheld of Dane County, Wisconsin, raises alfalfa hay as his main cash crop. Three years ago, after baling from the mow for many years, he started to use the pick-up baling rig pictured at the top. He likes this plan best because it saves all the leaves—preserves the bright green color—and the hay is ready to sell as it leaves the field. It has the extra quality that brings the extra price.

And it will work just as well for pushing beef calves along.

You can take a lot of heavy lifting out of butchering by making a pair of "scissors" out of 2 x 4 timbers to hold one end of the pole—and lifting the carcasses with a block and tackle.

Harry Dandliker, Jr., of Richardson County, Nebraska, raised 13 Chester Whites from one litter. They gained an average of 1.43 lbs. per day. Average weight at 200 days was 236 lbs. or a total of 1.86 tons for the entire litter.

Hoppers Eat Up Small Fortune

Grasshoppers were a million dollar headache to Michigan farmers in 1937. Proof of their effects are found in a survey made in more than 40 counties where the hoppers were most numerous this past summer.

Not all of the headache was without results, however. Survey material obtained by C. B. Dibble, extension specialist in entomology at Michigan State college, indicates that where protective measures on an area basis were applied through federal assistance, a savings of $650,000 in crops was proved. The rest of the million dollars, $350,000, was eaten by the grasshoppers.

Total costs of all materials reported used in the campaign plus administrative expenses were less than $25,000.

In 1938 Dibble can see a more serious problem. Agricultural agents in many counties have made further surveys this fall and in late summer. Adults and eggs promise an acute crop handicap in 1938 in many sections of the state.

Plans are being made now to stimulate farmers to repeat community baiting and control work during growing months next year.

In those counties where summer and fall hopper and egg counts were made, it already is possible to estimate necessary amounts of poison and bait needed for clean-ups next summer. Where no survey has been made it will be necessary to make such surveys next spring, counting young hoppers, Dibble reports.

Farms Use Grads in Short Courses

New wrinkles in Michigan agriculture mean new opportunities available in the annual winter short courses at Michigan State college. One of the latest developments has led to businessmen and bankers to purchase land and farms as safe investments. This has given Ralph W. Tenny, short course director at the college, the chance to place more men than usual on farms as managers and employees.

The first and second year 16 weeks courses open at the college October 25 to continue until March 4 for study in general agriculture. Eight weeks courses in general agriculture, dairy production, dairy manufacturing, poultry, agricultural engineering, practical floriculture, home economics, golf course management, forestry and wild life conservation and commercial fruit production begin January 3 and also continue until March 4.

Use of new varieties, new harvesting methods, irrigation for special crops, herd and flock management practices—all of these offer newer information than some that is commonly used in farming in the state.

The purchase of land by businessmen is a trend that has been developing for several years. Businessmen, it appears, are putting more faith into the security that is implied by possession of farm areas. To work with them they need alert young men trained in scientific farming, according to correspondence received in Tenny's office.

Life of the Fly

The longest life of a fly is about sixty-two days. Three generations are required to span the winter months and some form of meat or animal food is necessary.

Sees Silhouette in Fall Fashions

Silhouettes in women's fashions are popular this fall and one of them is the "pencil straight" or "string bean" dress, it is pointed out by Evelyn Mansfield, instructor in textiles and clothes at Michigan State college.

The pencil dress often is being worn this fall with a boxy jacket for a straight and square silhouette. Another fashion trend in another direction is the flared dress, although skirts generally show less flare than last year.

Necklines, says Miss Mansfield, are staying rather high. Even the favorite low neck this fall is a slim V which is really a high neck except the center front.

Michigan women will be in fashion if their skirts are 14 inches from the floor, according to fall styles. Afternoon frocks often will be two inches longer. For evening dresses there have been other changes. The very short style is not as popular and the ankle length evening dress again vies with the floor length evening dress for the lead in fashion this fall.

Miss Mansfield also offers some ideas about fashion in color. The all black dress is extremely popular and many of these are not even relieved by any color. In contrast it is also fashionable to wear light and bright colored frocks under fur coats this winter.

Children in Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield.

Thousands of small cities and villages continue to have high per capita juvenile crime rates simply because they refuse to supervise and direct the recreational activities of their young men and women into harmless and healthful channels.

Boys enjoy the spirit that motivates the gang and cannot be housed in the back yard. There is little need to attempt to break up a group of youngsters for they invariably congregate in out of the way places. To deal out harsh punishment to a boy who insists on meeting his friends does not solve the problem but causes him to become hardened and bitter toward life. Unless such districts provide supervised recreation for their youth, they will continue to provide Dillingers for the large cities to cope with.

What Is A Trifle—

A loose thread, a lost minute, a penny more or less? Any of these things may lead to unexpected but important consequences.

Just how important is the penny? The ads in this paper give you a good illustration.

The pennies you save, multiplied by the minutes you gain, will become savings that mount into the dollars. These are trifles worth while.

Michigan Mirror

A Non-Partisan State News Letter
By GENE ALLEMAN
Michigan Press Association

Lansing—Michigan's first snow flurries, arriving in mid-October to herald the coming of winter, were worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to merchants.

With crops throughout the state of near bumper proportions, farmers are in improved financial spirits.

Industrial workers also have more money in their family budgets due to improved earnings.

The net result is an old-fashioned buying urge as residents shop for winter clothing and household furnishings.

According to Draper Allen, managing director of the state board of tax administration, Michigan's gross retail sales are one billion dollars ahead of last year. The percentage gain is 19.4 per cent. And that means happy days truly are here again.

Michigan Above Average

The state report on rising retail sales is further proof that Michigan today ranks above the national average for business.

Dun & Bradstreet reports that retail sales for the country as a whole are 5 to 18 per cent above that of the same period in October, 1936. Despite the automobile strikes of last spring, Michigan motor car manufacturers stepped up production over 1936 to match the public demand for better cars.

Henry Ford again made news by emphasizing his faith in Michigan as an ideal industrial center. He announced the forthcoming expenditure of 40 more billions at his River Rouge plant. A clue to the tough job facing the U. A. W. in unionizing is seen in a declaration by Homer Martin, U. A. W. leader, defending the Dearborn industrialist against charge of unfair treatment of his employees.

Ford, the lone independent of N. R. A. days, continues to be a phenomenon in American commerce.

Michigan Agriculture

While drouth conditions still exist in many parts of the West, inducing more families to seek an economic haven along the Pacific coast, Michigan growers fared rather well this season. Surrounded by water on the west, north and east, the lower peninsula enjoyed regular rainfall when it was most needed.

Michigan crops boosted the state's 1936 rank in the nation for eight leading crops: Corn up from 15th to 11th place; winter wheat, 12th to 9th; potatoes, 4th to 2nd; and peaches, 9th to 4th. Increases were also reported for spring wheat, apples and pears. Sugar beet production, however, dropped from 3rd to 6th place and rye from 5th to 8th.

Michigan also rates 2nd in field bean production; 3rd in grapes; 4th in pears; 5th in apples, alfalfa hay and buckwheat; 6th in tame hay and sugar beets; 7th in flax seed and clover and timothy hay; 8th in rye; 9th in oats; 10th in barley; and 15th in spring wheat.

Considering the fact that Michigan ranks 26th in the nation for acreage of farm lands, the 1937 showing is distinctly complimentary.

Consumer's Dollar

This prosperity for Michigan farmers is good news for the industrial worker, and for several interesting reasons.

Roadside stands are filled with produce from orchards and gardens. Prices are attractive.

According to the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Washington, the average employed worker now has a yearly income $207 larger than in 1932. This higher income makes possible the payment of $85 more for food, leaving $122 for other items in the family budget.

Farm prices dropped more than half from 1929 to 1932. Even though prices are higher in 1937 than in 1932, the Michigan farmer is getting 6 per cent less than the average share he received during the years immediately before the depression.

How about the city dweller? The Michigan industrial worker can buy about 12 per cent more goods than in 1929 after paying for his food. Today he has an economic edge over the farmer.

C. I. O. Test at Detroit

Will the C. I. O. seize control of the Detroit city government next month?

This is a question that many persons—politicians in particular—are waiting eagerly to have answered by Detroit voters.

If the C. I. O. is victorious, Michigan manufacturers face more uncertainty. The outcome may have a bearing on Governor Murphy's decision as to when the second special session should be held to consider a labor relations act.

E. L. Oliver, field marshal of the C. I. O. movement, announced that

"every industrial center of Michigan" was to be unionized.

Confronted with ballot trends towards liberalism, the Detroit city council has authorized the construction of low-cost homes. This smacks outright of municipal socialism—something which industrialists of yesterday would have denounced righteously. But times are changing. The Detroit housing experiment may prove to be sound insurance against labor unrest.

Michigan continues to hold the national spotlight. The C. I. O. showdown in Detroit is of supreme importance to both sides—capital and labor—and to the forgotten public who usually pays the bills.

Quick Marriages

Next week on Friday, October 29, Cupid will have to be disinfect-ed.

Michigan's prenuptial physical examination law, aimed to curb the costly curse of syphilis, becomes effective on that day. Persons must obtain a clean bill-of-health from a physician before the marriage ceremony can be performed.

Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin have similar laws today. Indiana's Gretna Greens have been reaping a big commercial crop in get-married-quick licenses and ceremonies. It looked like Michigan's new law would merely add to the Hoosier harvest until the Indiana attorney general dug up an old law of the horse-and-buggy vintage limiting licenses to home counties of the bride-to-be.

Leon in the Limelight

For the seventh time since he took office, Secretary of State Leon D. Case has been plagued with unfavorable publicity.

First came a Detroit newspaper attack on the innovation of giving automobile license numbers with the secretary's initials, "LC," to his friends.

Mr. Case merely laughed, denying that he had ever campaigned against this practice while seeking office.

Then Bernard Youngblood, deputy secretary, resigned in a huff following a clash with the Detroit office manager. Youngblood re-considered, and everything was again serene.

When a group of discharged employees started to picket the Detroit office, seeking reinstatement in their jobs and charging discrimination against the C. I. O., George Krogstad was called in as chairman of the state department of labor and industry. Krogstad failed in efforts to settle the row; union spokesmen charged "scandal"; and Secretary of State Case demanded an investigation by Attorney General Raymond Starr. But unfavorable publicity fails to disturb Secretary Case. A newspaper editor for many years, he is unruffled by the news in the daily press.

THE OLD CAR HAZARD.

Of all the cars involved in motor vehicle fatalities, about 15 per cent are found to have some mechanical defect that contributed to the accident.

It is interesting, then, to note that 57 per cent of the automobiles on the streets and highways today are five years old, or more. How many of these cars have defects that may soon cause a serious accident?

The mere fact of "maturity," however, need not condemn any old automobile—that is, as long as it isn't too old. You may own an old car and keep it in perfect condition. You may be fond of your old car and take care of it like a baby. You may even tell your friends it has qualities they will look for in vain in the new models.

That is as it should be. Old friends can be depended upon as a rule. Keep the engine humming smoothly, keep the brakes and the steering mechanism in good trim, lubricate the old joints and knuckles with care, renew the tires when necessary, inspect frequently and may you live long to enjoy the service your old car will give you.

But if you have allowed your old car to degenerate into a mere makeshift vehicle, either put it in good condition or get rid of it.

NEW MARRIAGE LAW OF STATE EXPLAINED

Concluded from first page. submit the sample to an approved laboratory, which will make a Kahn test for syphilis. The laboratory also may make a test for gonorrhea if the physician considers it necessary.

If the physician is satisfied from the test that no evidence of venereal disease exists, he will issue a certificate to that effect. The bride or bridegroom must sign this certificate in the presence of the physician. It will be a misdemeanor for a physician to issue a false certificate.

The certificates are valid only for 15 days. Within that time they can be presented to a county clerk, and application can be made for a marriage license. The clerk issues the license after a five-day wait.

Both the man and the woman must submit valid certificates of freedom from venereal disease to the county clerk at the time of applying for a marriage license. Once the license has been issued, it may be used any time.

Slemmons pointed out that the law did not specify the fee which a physician may charge for issuing a certificate. "Any physician or doctor authorized to practice medicine or surgery or any osteopath authorized to practice that profession under the laws of this state" may issue such a certificate.

The marriage law, enacted by the 1937 legislature, was praised by Dr. Slemmons, who said that it would be a boon to every couple planning to marry. Effective operation of the law will guarantee the prospective new family and its potential offspring a clean bill of health, he said.

"Major responsibility for the administration of this significant new law will rest upon the medical profession of the state," he said. "I am confident that physicians will do everything in their power to assure its successful operation." The information contained in the laboratory reports and the physicians' certificates are closed records, Dr. Slemmons said, and cannot be disclosed by anyone except as may be required by law.
