Funds Provided for Band Uniforms

Arrangements Begun for Band Festivals in Cass City and Elkton in April.

At a meeting of the board of education Monday evening, Supt. J. Ivan Niergarth was authorized to purchase uniforms for the high school band. Two weeks ago, stockholders of the Cass City Co-operative Mercantile Co. voted to pay $323 towards such a project and additional funds were provided by the school board Monday to make possible the purchase of the uniforms.

Wesley Dunn and J. Ivan Niergarth were in Elkton Wednesday to begin arrangements for band festivals to be held next April. The territory is to be divided this spring with the Huron county high school bands participating in Elkton and those of Tuscola county and some of the Sanilac county school bands coming to a festival at Cass City. For several years Thumb schools have been going to Elkton but so many participated last year that it was decided to divide the territory between Elkton and Cass City.

Dr. R. N. Holsaple conducted a scientific discussion on the effects of alcohol at an assembly of sixth, seventh and eighth grade students Wednesday afternoon.

Robert Clayton, music instructor in the Cass City school, has undergone one gopher operation at Ford hospital in Detroit and expects to have another operation on November 20. It is expected that he will be able to resume his position at the school here about January 1.

The next meeting of the association will be held December 13 in the Caro Methodist Episcopal church.

Potato Growers Get Market Aid

Michigan potato growers who produced the second largest crop of any state in the nation in 1937 are expected to see the results this winter of the new federal marketing program which is prohibiting interstate shipment of cull potatoes.

Fred P. Hibst, Cadillac, is one of three vice chairmen selected by a committee representing growers and handlers in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota.

In Tuscola county and in other potato producing counties in this and the other three states, the marketing orders were made effective October 19. Announcement was received by E. L. Benton, agricultural agent for Tuscola county. Federal and state inspectors are checking interstate shipments to enforce the orders. Potatoes less than one and one-half inches in diameter and not meeting requirements of U. S. Grade No. 2 are prohibited from interstate shipment. To finance the program there will be fees on carlot and truck shipments. They will not exceed 50 cents a carlot, 25 cents for a truck carrying 200 sacks or less, or 50 cents for a truck carrying more than 200 sacks in interstate trucking.

The federal agricultural adjustment administration is considering purchase of this year's 25 million bushel surplus. Diversion would be to livestock feed, starch, flour and other purposes. There is also a buying program to use potatoes for relief supplies.

Speaker Predicts A Dry Country

Dr. Holsaple Addressed Woman's Study Club at Their Meeting Tuesday.

If the present abuses of the liquor laws and the tragic results of drinking keep up this country will again go dry, declared Dr. R. N. Holsaple, pastor of the local Evangelical church and former head of the Anti-Saloon League of Michigan, in an address before the Woman's Study Club of Cass City at their meeting here on Tuesday. Dr. Holsaple was called upon to speak when it was found that Captain Donald Leonard could not be here.

Taking for his subject, "Sobriety, an Element of Character," Dr. Holsaple said: "The repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment came about because for the last decade or two the entire country has been going into a moral sag. The World war was the result of a moral slump in nearly all the nations of the earth. When a nation lowers its moral standard the result is as we have seen in nations fighting each other, and in the surrender to the clamor of wet politicians and those who want to drink liquor by again legalizing the beverage alcohol traffic. It was insane to imagine that prosperity could be achieved by the nation going on a drunk and forgetting the moral law. No nation has ever been able to drink itself rich. A man might as well try to

Chicken Thief Gets 8 to 15-Year Term

John Daniels Sentenced Monday for Crime Committed in Sept., 1935.

In the Tuscola County Circuit court on Monday, the jury found John Daniels guilty of a breaking and entering charge. Judge Louis C. Cramton sentenced Daniels to serve from eight to 15 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan and he was taken to Jackson on Tuesday to commence his term.

Daniels was sought by officers on the charge of entering the hen house on the farm of Arthur Birchwood in Kingston township on the night of September 11, 1935. He eluded officers until February 24th last when he was picked up in Detroit. He has been at liberty on bonds until his sentence on Monday. His companion was captured the day after the crime was committed and has already completed his prison sentence.

Divorce decrees were granted in the following cases in circuit court Monday: Frank Osman vs. Jennie Osman; Beatrice Fournier vs. Chas. Fournier; Mary Beyer vs. Carl Beyer; Norwood H. VanWormer vs. Mary J. VanWormer.

Supervisor Explains Provisions of the Farm Tenancy Act

The Tuscola and Huron County Farm Security Administration office has been receiving numerous requests from tenant farmers and factory workers to purchase farms under the farm tenant act, says John McDurmon, county rural rehabilitation supervisor, at Caro.

Applications for tenant purchase loans cannot be accepted in the county offices until machinery has been set up for administering the program and the counties selected where the program will be initiated this year. Not more than ten nor less than five loans will be made in any county selected. Only farm tenants and farm laborers or those receiving most of their income from the farms will be eligible for a loan.

With the allotment for tenant purchase loans in Michigan based on farm population and percentage of tenancy set at $109,952, not more than 40 or 50 families in the state can be brought under the program this year, said Mr. McDurmon. The act calls for doubling the allotment next year and further increasing it the third year.

County supervisors have been advised that nominations to the state advisory committee have been forwarded to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for approval. After this state committee has been appointed they will select the counties where the program will be carried on. County committees will then be named by the secretary to consider applications. "However," Mr. McDurmon stated, "until the counties are picked and local committees are named, there is little use in filing applications."

Thumb's Football Feature Here Today

Bad Axe and Cass City Elevens to Battle for Second Place Honors Friday.

Cass City lost a non-league football contest to a snappy reserve team from Saginaw High School here last Friday, 7-0.

The locals had a decided edge in first downs, out-gaining their rivals greatly, but were unable to score when opportunities presented themselves.

Bad Axe comes here today with a heavy veteran outfit, led by the Thumb's outstanding ball carrier, Kladzyk. If the Maroon and Grey can stop him they should be able to take Bad Axe, the only team to defeat Cass City last year. Kladzyk is a big "if," however.

Both teams will be fighting for second place in the Upper Thumb League, which assures plenty of action. Both sides will "shoot the works" in an effort to win.

The band, under Mr. Dunn's direction, will go through its formations for additional entertainment.

Orion Cardew, the recently-found faculty, "Graham McNamee," will give a colorful description of the contest play by play.

This will mark the final home appearance of the locals this season. Harbor Beach will be played at Harbor Beach next Friday to end the season.

The How and Why of the National Unemployment Census

A nation-wide census of all unemployed and partially unemployed persons in the United States will be taken between the dates of November 16 to 20, by act of Congress, and at the direction of President Roosevelt.

Here, in question-and-answer form, is the information you need to know about this plan.

To every family in the United States.
- UNDER WHOSE AUSPICES IS THE CENSUS BEING TAKEN?
Congress has decreed, and the President has directed, that it be taken.
- IS THE CENSUS COMPULSORY?
No. But every unemployed or partly unemployed person is urgently requested to cooperate.
- HOW WILL THE CENSUS BE CONDUCTED?
Through the facilities of the Post Office Department. Report Cards will be delivered to every family. Cards are to be returned by mail to Washington for tabulation and analysis.
- WHEN WILL THE CENSUS BE TAKEN?
Cards will be delivered on November 16 and must be returned by MIDNIGHT NOVEMBER 20. They are already addressed and no postage is required.
- WHO SHOULD FILL AND RETURN CARDS?
Every person who is unemployed or partly unemployed who is able to work and wants work.
- WHAT AGE LIMITS APPLY?
There are no age limits except existing State regulations concerning workers' ages.
- SHOULD MORE THAN ONE UNEMPLOYED PERSON IN A FAMILY RETURN A CARD?

- WHO IS AN "UNEMPLOYED" PERSON?
A person of either sex or any color who is not working and is able to work and seeking work.
- WHO IS A "PARTLY UNEMPLOYED" PERSON?
A person of either sex or any color with part-time employment who is able to do more work and is looking for more work.
- ARE PERSONS ON EMERGENCY WORK PROJECTS INCLUDED?
Yes. They should register as unemployed. A specific question, Number 2c, is provided on the Report Card for all persons working on a W.P.A., N.Y.A., C.C.C., or other emergency work project which is supported by public funds.

Why It Is a "Bridewell"

Long ago a hospital was built in London on the site of a former royal palace over a medicinal spring known as St. Bride's Water. This was contracted to Bridewell. After the Reformation, according to London Answers Magazine, King Edward VI chartered the London hospitals to different work. Christ's hospital was devoted to the education of the young, St. Thomas' to the cure of the sick, and Bridewell was turned into a penitentiary for unruly apprentices and vagrants. Thus "Bridewell" gradually slipped into use as a general name for prisons.

Operation of Ohio Canals

In 1861 the management of the Ohio canals passed from the hands of the state to private hands through leases. And they remained so until 1877, when the state again assumed control, after the private interests found these waterways too expensive to operate.

When Crocodile Weeps

Ages ago men puzzled over the weeping of the crocodile. One Fourth century bishop explains that the crocodile weeps over his victim, after devouring the body, not from repentance or sorrow, but because he regrets that the bony nature of the head makes it unsuitable for his food.

Seeds That Jump

In the northern Transvaal, where the climate is sub-tropical, there grows a tree which the natives call Tamboukia. It bears pods and the seeds look very much like dry peas. When the seeds are ripe the pod bursts and throws the seeds to the ground. There they begin to move and jump about in all directions automatically.

Jane Austen's Writings

In her novels Jane Austen (1775-1817) rarely wrote about anything that she herself had not witnessed. She did not even attempt to narrate a conversation between gentlemen alone, as she could not have been present, of course, in such a situation.—Collier's Weekly.

Our Coal "Talks"

We depend on our coal to tell its own story of quality and service. If our patrons who use our coal day after day and season after season are not pleased and recommend it to their neighbors and friends, it matters little what we may say.

Are You Listening?

The final word must be spoken by the coal itself. The user who tells his next door neighbor how good "LITTLE JOE" coal proves to be in actual service is our best advertiser. LITTLE JOE "talks"—and its message is MORE HEAT PER DOLLAR.

After "dolling up" the office and show room of the Ford Garage building, decorators invaded the large repair shop and applied aluminum paint to the side walls, with a lower panel of black. "It's wonderful how the aluminum paint brightens up the shop," says Manager Robert Keppen.

A delightful time was enjoyed Wednesday evening, November 4, when twenty-eight members of the B. Y. P. U. and of the young people's class at the Baptist Sunday School met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Kennedy for a social time. Games were played and a scavenger hunt enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kettlewell, who were recently married, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kerbyson, parents of Mrs. Kettlewell, entertained at dinner Sunday. Guests were Robert Kettlewell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kettlewell and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kettlewell and daughter, all of Crosswell, Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson of Port Huron; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kettlewell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kettlewell and little son of Cass City.

FROST IS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

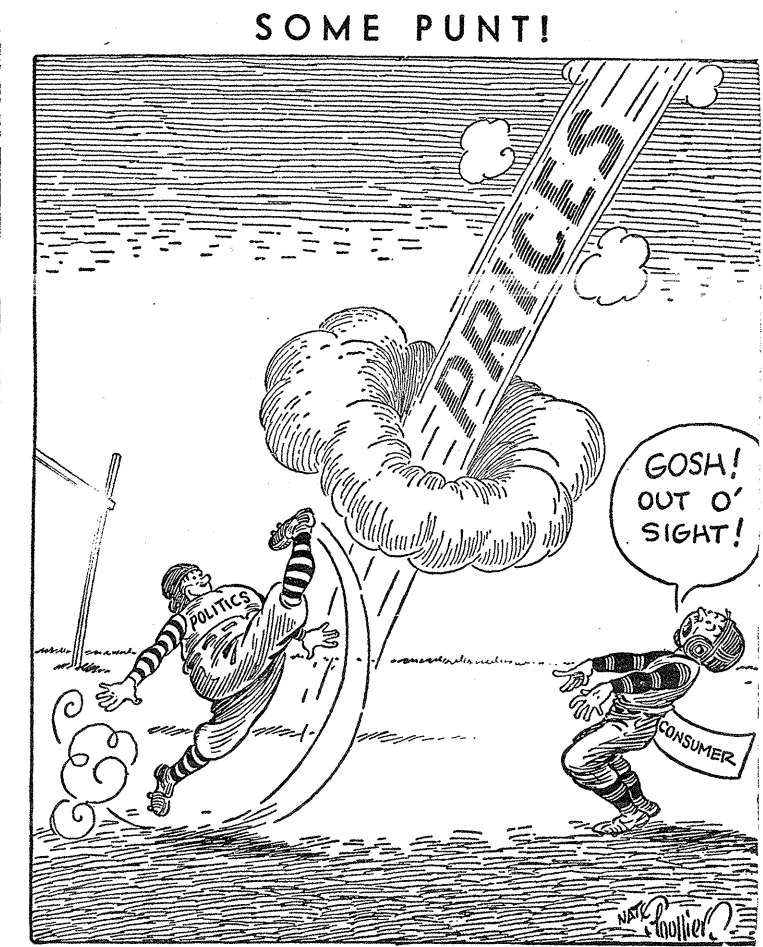

Concluded from first page.

Frost car swung across the highway after striking the Baker car. Stockenauer's car was damaged.

Frost was placed under arrest and Wednesday was arraigned before Justice Atwood where he waived examination and was bound over to the circuit court for trial. Officers say he was driving on the left side of the road in an intoxicated condition. He is held on a manslaughter charge.

Flood Benefit by Candlelight

The flood in Cincinnati in February of 1884 put the lighting system out of operation, leaving the city in darkness. To raise money for relief, a music festival was staged in Public Music hall under candlelight, and a total of $6,170.14 was raised.

Allotment for House Wiring

A Rural Electrification Administration allotment has been made to the Thumb Electric Cooperative of $50,000 to finance house wiring and plumbing installations for about 342 customers. This cooperative has been allotted $1,700,000 to build 1,800 miles of distribution lines to serve about 5,500 customers in Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, Bay and Saginaw counties.

Plans for the power plant building of the cooperative have received final approval and advertising for construction bids is now going on. It is announced by Frank Wilson, president of the Thumb Electric Cooperative, that the bids will be opened at Ubyl on the morning of November 16. As soon as possible, after allowing due time for examination of the bids and the awarding of the contracts, construction of the plant will begin.

While the construction of the building progresses in Ubyl, the Fairbanks-Morse Company at their Beloit, Wisconsin, plant will be building the machinery.

Meetings which have been sponsored by the extension service of the Department of Agriculture in the three Thumb counties, cooperating with the Thumb Electric Cooperative, are now in progress.

On November 12, a meeting will be held at Crosswell High School, and during the following week meetings will be held in Huron county as follows:

Ubyl High School, November 16, 8:00 p. m.

Grant Town Hall, November 17, 2:00 p. m.

Ruth-Parish Hall, November 17, 8:00 p. m.

Meade Town Hall, November 18, 2:00 p. m.

Glencoe Hall, November 18, 8:00 p. m.

Due to the fact that Ubyl High School and Ruth-Parish Hall are the only ones wired for electricity, films cannot be shown at the other locations.

Concluded from first page.

With the amount of funds available this year and considering land values in any part of the state for farms that would be desirable, it is doubtful if it will be possible to operate in more than four or five counties.

A loan made under the tenancy act provides for repayment of the principal in, not to exceed, forty years at 3 per cent. The act includes provisions for proper farming practices to protect the security of the loan, and forbids the sale or transfer of the farm without consent of the secretary of agriculture in the first five years after the loan is taken out.

Great Meteorite Did Not Kill

The great Siberian meteorite struck on June 30, 1908, and, so far as known, not a single human life was lost. So great was the rush of air that forests were laid flat. A herd of 1,500 reindeer was completely wiped out, and a farmer fifty miles away was knocked down by the force of the blast.

Spend Lives on Little Junks

The sea-gypsies of South China pass virtually their entire lives on little junks, floating up and down rivers. When a marriage takes place the junks are festooned with red and gold paper, firecrackers exploded—and then the bride falls on her knees and presents a cup of wine to her parents-in-law.

near Owendale, announced as his subject, "What Is a Christian?"

The population of the United States is 120 millions of people and with only 47 million of them affiliated as members of churches and Sunday Schools, the voting power lies with the non-christian people, he said. Mr. Zoller berated in no uncertain words the slogan of the communistic crowd which he said were "no government, no education, no god." He appealed to his hearers for constructive thinking and stressed a need to get back to the religious standards of an earlier generation.

Mrs. Zoller favored the audience with two vocal solos, one preceding and one following the address.

Mrs. J. I. Niergarth served as piano accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Mistele of Detroit accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Zoller to Cass City. Mr. Mistele is a sponsor of Mr. Zoller's daily radio addresses in Detroit, contributing a half of the expense of the program.

Tuesday was bundle night and members of the Community club responded liberally with bundles of wearing apparel which will be distributed to needy people during the winter months.

The December meeting, Dr. B. H. Starnann, club president, announced, would be held Thursday, December 16, when boys of the football squad will be guests. The school group, with Arthur Holmberg as chairman, will be in charge of the evening's program and women of the Evangelical church will serve the dinner.

Emerson Confessed Poetry

Everything about a famous person is interesting, particularly when he writes about himself. At a supreme moment of his life, writing to his betrothed on the eve of their marriage, Ralph Waldo Emerson says of himself: "I am born a poet—a low class, without doubt, yet a poet. . . . My singing, to be sure, is very husky, and is for the most part in prose. Still I am a poet in the sense of a perceiver and lover of the harmonies that are in the soul and in matter. A sunset, a forest, a snowstorm, a certain river view are more to me than many friends, and do ordinarily divide my day with my books."

"Boat" and "Ship"

By popular usage the word "boat" has come to mean any craft afloat, but the term is used incorrectly. In the strictest sense "boat" refers only to small craft such as a rowboat, lifeboat, launch, etc., propelled by oars. In the course of time both popularly and legally the term "ship" has acquired a wide interpretation. Broadly stated, for purposes of international maritime law and by the Merchants' Shipping acts of Great Britain (1854, 1894 and 1906) the term "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars.

Miniature Airplanes Now Fly Freely in New Test Tunnel

Scientists Test Catapult for Launching Transports

By WATSON DAVIS
Director, Science Service.

Langley Field, Va.—Miniature airplanes take off and maneuver for the sake of science in the world's first "free-flight" wind tunnel just demonstrated for the first time by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at its laboratories here.

Instead of the small counterpart of a full-sized airplane being held conventionally in an experimental blast of air, the artificial breeze is increased until the model takes off by itself and flies freely. Then ailerons and rudder are controlled by magnetic fields acting on small electromagnets in the model's wings. The scientist in charge maneuvers the test model plane just as a pilot handles a real one.

"We expect that this new method of studying airplane stability and control will give us much information directly that we have hitherto obtained theoretically or by empirical estimation," said Dr. George W. Lewis, N. A. C. A. director of research.

"Bumps" or gusts of wind are measured and studied by two new devices devised by N. A. C. A. experts.

Instrument Fits Pocket.

One of these is a bump recorder small enough to fit into the pocket. About 100 of these instruments are placed in airplanes and seaplanes of different types during actual flight. One of them has been carried by the China Clipper on round trips between San Francisco and Manila. From the curve traced by the instrument, engineers are able to reconstruct every roughness of the voyage and tell what stresses the craft withstood.

Gusts are made to order in a new tunnel and model airplanes are catapulted into them. As fast as an arrow is shot from a bow, the tiny plane is accelerated to 50 miles per hour in a few feet of travel. Hit by the gust, its action is recorded by a motion picture camera.

The famous N. A. C. A. cowling which streamlined air-cooled engines so effectively several years ago has been improved and adapted to the 1,500 horsepower engines developed in the past few years. There is an adjustable nose slot in the new cowling design so that the pilot can give the engine more cooling air while it is working hardest.

Reduces Take-Off Distance.

Just by reducing the size of rivets in an airplane wing by one thirty-second of an inch, it is possible to reduce the power necessary by 100 horsepower. This is one result of the experiments on the friction drag on the wings of large modern airplanes. In operating high-performance modern aircraft, the importance of smooth surface in a wing is so great that the N. A. C. A. experts suggest it may be found economical to have service crews wipe off accumulated dirt and dust on wing surfaces at every stop.

Large air transports leaving our airports in the future may be catapulted in order to assist their take-off and reduce the long run now necessary, if a suggestion of the N. A. C. A. is adopted. A catapult with half the acceleration of gravity would reduce the take-off distance from 1,800 feet to 1,150 feet.

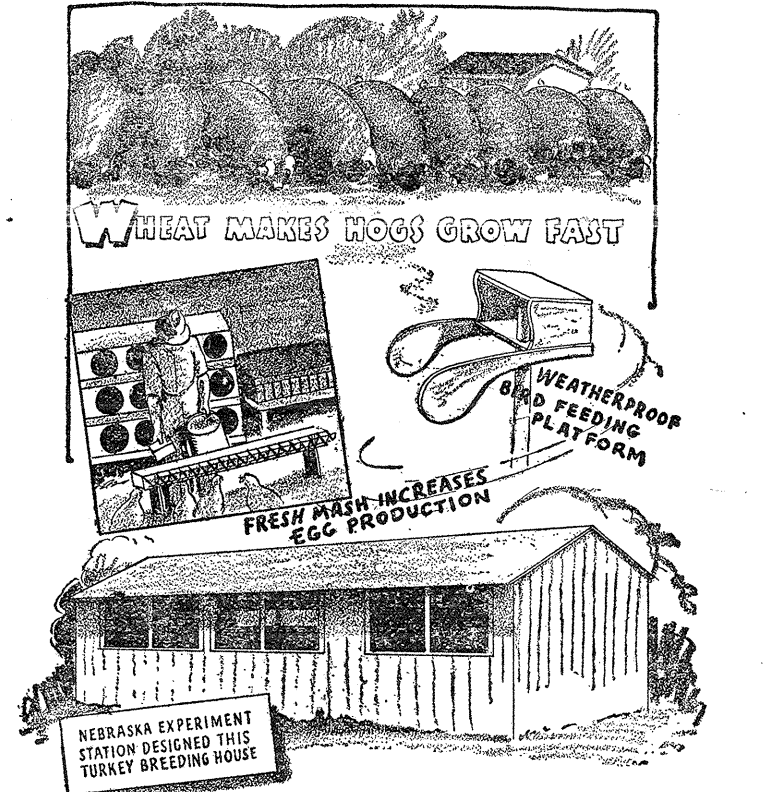

Causes of Plant Cancer Are Sought in Bacillus

New York.—A phosphorus-containing material, relatives of which are found in the human brain and liver, has been isolated by Drs. Erwin Chargaff and Michael Levine of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia university and Montefiore hospital from the body of a bacillus that causes tumors in plants.

In plants there is a well-known disease, the crown-gall, which bears a slight resemblance to tumors in animals. It is produced by the bacillus tumefaciens.

Using the chemical methods developed by Dr. R. J. Anderson of Yale university, who recently purified an acid from tubercle bacilli which produces symptoms of tuberculosis itself when injected into an animal, they are engaged in analyzing the crown-gall germ. Their first results show that it contains a phosphatide which stimulates rapid cell multiplication in plants.

FARMING IT. . . BY WILLARD BOLTE

The bunch of Missouri Durocs shown at the top gained 1.6 lbs. per day on wheat and tankage. They made 100 lbs. of gain on 469 lbs. of feed—compared with 1,020 lbs. of feed required by another lot of similar hogs that got nothing but corn.

The bird feeding platform illustrated at the right center turns with the wind—thus preventing snow and rain from reaching the food. It's easy to construct.

Alert poultrymen have discovered that by sprinkling a little fresh mash on top of the mash in the hoppers, once a day, they can get their hens to eat more mash. And more mash consumption means more eggs. Some of them achieve the same result by merely stirring up the mash in the hopper.

The Nebraska turkey breeding house shown in the bottom sketch is 28 x 16 feet and will accommodate 56 breeders. Note ventilator open in the rear wall. Front openings can be closed with cloth screens in bad weather. Roosts are set over a dropping pit.

Can Maid of Honor Sing at a Wedding?

DEAR Mrs. Post: I have an only sister who is to be my maid of honor. This sister has a lovely voice and I would like very much to have her sing at the wedding if you think this could be arranged so as not to interfere with the wedding procession. Will you tell me how you think it could best be done?

Answer: It would be unusual but not unheard of should your sister sing during the pause in the ceremony between the betrothal and the plighting of the troth. In other words, she could stand at the side of the chancel steps and sing while you and your betrothed walk slowly up the steps and take your places in front of the altar. Having finished her song, which of course must be very short, she then follows and stands on your left. If it could be arranged so that she would be hidden from view, she could sing while the congregation is assembling, but it would not do to have her enter the church and then go out again to meet you and come down in the processional.

Fine Technical Point.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Which is correct? Drink your soup or eat your soup?

Answer: Eat your soup with a spoon and drink it from a cup. In other words, you eat it with a table-spoon when served in a plate; you sip it from a teaspoon or drink it, when served in a cup.

Ribbons and Seats.

DEAR Mrs. Post: What is meant by "in front of the ribbons" and "within the ribbons" and who is seated in each place?

Answer: Both mean the same thing; having a place within the enclosure marked by the ribbons. The pews in front of the ribbons are always seated according to nearness of relationship, and cards bearing the actual pew numbers are sent by the mother of the groom to each of those relatives and a few dearest friends who are to be seated on the groom's side of the church, and by the mother of the bride to each of those who are to be seated on the bride's side of the church.

There are more than three times as many saloons operating today as there were when national prohibition was adopted, the speaker said, and continued, "Prohibition closed 177,000 saloons but there are 550,000 such places operating today. There are 1,350,000 bar maids, 75% of them under twenty-one years of age and chosen for their ability to attract men customers, selling alcoholic beverages, and the extent to which drinking among women and young people is carried on amounts to a national scandal and constitutes a national threat. Careful scientific tests have revealed that there is enough alcohol in two glasses of light beer to slow down nervous reaction from eight to sixty per cent. That is enough to mark the difference between safety and danger and between life and death at the railroad crossing. It will also mark the difference between success and defeat in the ordinary affairs of life. Drinking and high efficiency standards, as well as our present high character standards cannot go hand in hand very long, and if the present rate of drinking and the present disregard for the welfare of the youth on the part of the sellers of alcoholics keep up this nation will go dry within ten years."

The next meeting of the club will be held November 23 at the home of Mrs. B. Patterson.

Peiping Once Cambulac

Ages ago Peiping was known as Cambulac. Later it became the "Purple Imperial City," or Peking, which means "northern capital." The latter name hung on longest. But in 1928, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist hordes swept up from the south, not only captured Peking, but took the seat of the government back to Nanking, says the Washington Post. So, as Peking was no longer the "northern capital," the city's name was changed, this time to Peiping. The meaning of that is ironic. For Peiping means "city of northern peace!"

Battle of Kites

Japanese kites are flown by groups of boys in Japan in competitions, or "kite battles." All sorts of decorative kites are made, light but quite strong, with special lines treated with a ground glass and glue mixture which makes them very sharp. In a battle the idea is to see who can maneuver his string against the string of another kite, cutting it so that it will fall to the ground. The boy who causes the most kites to fall wins.

First to License Automobiles

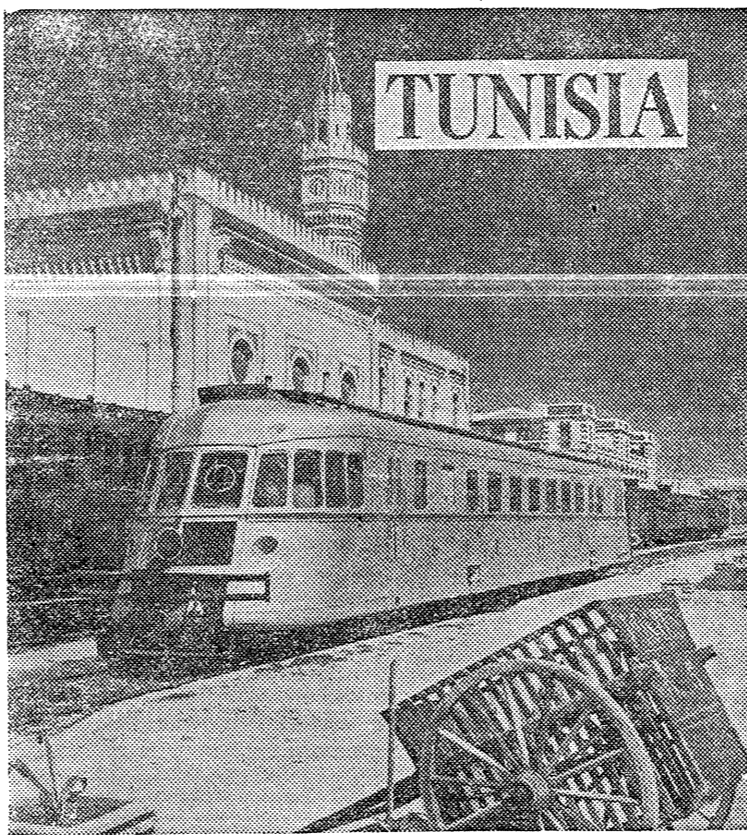

New York was the first state to license automobiles. Way back in 1901 some lawmaker saw a "horseless carriage" and, presumably, said: "Aha! Chance for taxes, eh?" Every other state and every other country followed suit soon thereafter. The first driver's permit, same year, same state, according to the American Automobile association, was termed an "engineer's license."

"Here Lies the Jinx"

A wooden cross with the words, "Here lies the Jinx," marks the center of a small burial plot at the Buckhorn mine, 60 miles northwest of Eureka, Ariz. Miners at the camp buried their "jinx," a piece of broken mining machinery that caused them considerable trouble, in a fenced-in grave in a conspicuous place.

Streamline "Ship of the Desert" in Tunis.

Visitors from Other Lands Find Tunis Very Attractive

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

TUNISIA, its fertile vineyards and olive groves clustered between the Sahara and the sea, is an African suburb of Europe. Lying across a strait from Sicily, it almost divides the Mediterranean into two great lakes.

Overnight steamers run from Tripoli, Sicily, to Tunisia's capital, which has more Italian residents than all Libya.

No mere group of palm-draped oases is this warm, sunny land. Its wine and oil challenge the growers of France, Italy and Spain. Another Punic war, this time economic, is on.

After an absence of 13 years a teacher returned to Tunis, which brings the oriental life, the Moslem veil, shady souks, and peaceful mosques within honeymoon distance of European capitals.

But Tunis, no mere curiosity shop, lives in the present. At the corner of the Avenue Jules-Ferry and the Avenue de Carthage—tree-shaded Times square of the Tunisian metropolis—part of the city's 46,000 Italians watched red, white, and green flaglets mass closer on a map of Ethiopia. Representatives of the 33,000 Frenchmen of Tunis saw, behind bulletin board news flashes, German feet goose-stepping back into the Rhineland.

Down in southern Tunisia, motor trucks were rushing oil and grain to Ben Gardane, whence silent-footed camels, forgetful of "sanctions," carried provisions across the Libyan frontier toward Tripoli.

Neither the Casino, nor the electric cars to Carthage, the Viennese lady orchestra in a cafe, nor the animated promenade along the tree-lined avenue held you for long. You want to mingle again with the lean and slippered Moslem: Berber, Bedouin, and Zlass.

Buy Jewelry in the Slave Market.

Strolling through the Porte de France at Tunis, from the European quarter of hats and shoes into the native precincts of fezzes and slippers, you enter another world. Outside is the cathedral; inside is the mosque. Outside, tables of machine-made merchandise, soliciting trade on the sidewalks; inside, tiny shops which entice possible patrons of handicrafts with the insidious hospitality of the coffee cup.

In the heart of the souks, where concentrated perfumes and hand-carved candles, bright slippers and brighter silks, mellow carpets and lustrous copperware hide the nakedness of mere holes in the wall, you seek out a little square with red and green columns, falling arches, and an optimistic array of coffee tables—the slave market.

In the former slave market of Tunis, you watch American visitors buying jewelry.

The United States was the first Christian nation to win immunity from the depredations of Barbary corsairs. The Philadelphia ran aground on the Tripolitan coast, and William Eaton made his spectacular march of 600 miles across the Libyan desert, trying to re-establish a friendly Bey in Tripoli.

Tripoli's name formerly appeared in the legend on the colors of the United States marines, and still is familiar in the song, "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli."

Another point of pilgrimage is the burial place of John Howard Payne. "Home, Sweet Home" doesn't stand translation, for the French don't write songs about their homes. They stay there.

Payne's body at last came home. On the simple monument in the cemetery of the little English church at Tunis are these words:

"In the tomb beneath this stone, the poet's remains lay buried for 30 years. On January 5, 1883, they were disinterred and taken away to his native land where they received honored and final burial in the city of Washington, June 9, 1883."

Silk Shops and Noisy Cafes.

Visit the sun-slashed souk and the shadowy shop. Here a bearded Moslem gazes at a chrono of a fair-skinned girl. There a veiled woman fingers a sequined gown, draped from a hanger shaped like the head and shoulders of a bobbed-haired blonde.

Machine-made silks hang side by side with a tapestry, hand-woven by some Zlass tribeswoman generations ago, and passed down from mother to daughter until hunger turned an heirloom into a curio.

Cafe habitués, formerly entertained by lively hips and shrill voices, now solemnly listen to the metallic falsettos of a loud-speaker like a flytrap, or a "phono" horn shaped like a morning-glory.

Above the screeching of orange-sellers, klaxons, and street car wheels in the Place Bab Souika, camellia-white domes rise like bubbles.

Through a mere alley cluttered by the barrows of vegetable merchants and baskets of those who sell spinach, ground henna, or red pimiento dust, you return to the Place Hafouine. There, during Ramadan, Moslems fast and sleep by day and gorge themselves by night, glimpsing naughty puppet shows or playing dominoes.

Such pleasures palling, you ride out to the Bardo museum, once the secluded women's quarters of the palace of the Beys.

Where the Bey's womenfolk lived "like birds in a gilded cage," visitors marvel at the unique treasures of this collection of Punic, Roman, Christian, and Arab art. This priceless hoard of historic loot would disconcert a modern archaeologist, for scant records were made of the exact places and conditions where the relics of long-gone centuries were brought to light. But there they are, in breathtaking quantity and excellence.

Crops and thistles now grow on sites whence these ancient stones came and companion pieces of these matchless mosaics, here polished and protected, now crumble under careless feet at Dougga, Thuburbo Majus, Bulla Regia, and Sbeitla.

Sponge Diver Found Yulla's Loot.

Petrified footprints made by Rome's seven-league boots in Tunisian sands have here been marveled in a setting of rare charm. Surely not even the chosen ladies of the Bey ever graced these halls as do the gods and goddesses in marble and bronze.

Thirty years ago a sponge diver off Mahdia came gasping to the surface, his eyes dilated with fear. In the shadowy depths he had suddenly met face to face with a mysterious monster. His sceptical comrades, forewarned, dove down. Ignorant though they were, they came up swearing secrecy. For the "monster" was part of the ancient booty which Sulla shipped home from the sack of Athens. Wrecked off Mahdia, this hand-picked art collection never reached pre-Christian Rome.

One bronze figure at Le Bardo is a replica of Praxiteles' Eros, and this love is truly blind, for the eye pits lack pupils. The original, known and described by Callistratus, is lost. And this glorious figure, rescued from the sea 20 centuries after its shipwreck, dominates a series of halls in which Sulla's shipload of loot is now displayed.

Sharp sand proved kinder to the Pentelic marble than the surging sea. A smooth hip, which rested for 2,000 years on a bed of sand, still has a glasslike polish. But where the water, like an acid, pitted the smooth skin, no semblance of the original lines remains. The chaste curve from shoulder to breast, over which some Greek sculptor labored with love, gave way to pock-marked decomposition.

The bronzes suffered less. Danc-ing dwarfs still are grotesquely amusing, and a virile figure with stormy hair reaches out to grapple an adversary with the lifelikeness of a slow-motion movie.

In what was the Bey's banquet hall, a colossal head of Jupiter, itself as tall as a woman, looks down on Neptune's cortege.

A mosaic showing the Cyclops working under the direction of Vulcan makes Polyphemus seem like a modern, pictured on a poster twice life size.

Children in Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield.

Before a runaway girl could be returned home it was necessary for the court to insist that the parents alter their treatment of her.

As a child, this girl had been disciplined by threats of being chained in a basement infested with rats. At fourteen years of age, the girl was told by her mother that she would run away if the child refused to mind her. This left the girl in a constant state of insecurity and she finally concluded that if her mother could desert her she really didn't love her as much as she pretended. Rather than be a continued burden on her family she decided to leave home and took the first opportunity that presented itself to carry out her resolve.

Monument to the Sea Gull

In Salt Lake City a granite column about sixteen feet high stands on a granite pedestal in a basin thirty feet in diameter. The column supports a granite ball upon which two bronze-gilt gulls are represented as alighting gently. The monument commemorates the saving by gulls of the pioneers of Utah. In 1848, from hordes of grasshoppers that threatened to devour every leaf and blade of their fields. The monument bears the inscription:—"Sea Gull Monument. Erected in Grateful Remembrance of the Mercy of God to the Mormon Pioneers."

Western Reserve Squabble

Just as the slavery issue split the Union so also the question of which state owned what later became the Western Reserve also threatened to break up the Union. This territory—about 4,000,000 acres—was claimed by existing states, whose arguments were finally settled when they all agreed to turn the whole thing over to the federal government.

GOOD MANAGEMENT TO INCREASE EGGS

Early Preparation Must Be Made for Pullets.

By Roy S. Dearstyne, Head Poultry Department, North Carolina State College.—WNU Service.

The poultryman who has a well managed flock is the poultryman who will receive the biggest returns from the fall increase in egg production.

Pullets should be ready for laying house in early fall. The house should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before the birds are placed inside. Broken window panes should be replaced, and if drop curtains are used on open-front houses, these should be checked for needed repairs.

Cull all pullets carefully. Market all sub-normal birds, especially those with excessive bleaching of shank and face parts. These birds are usually carriers of coccidiosis.

Do not change pullets from growing mash to laying mash until they have reached 25 per cent production. Then change the mash gradually over a period of two weeks.

Don't buy cheap mash—it is the most expensive in terms of results produced for money spent. Keep a good grade of mash before layers at all times. See that they have plenty of fresh water.

Practice rigid sanitation to keep the death rate down. Keep accurate records on the flock. Without records the poultry business is a hit-or-miss affair—mostly miss.

Good breeding males are essential but scarce. If these have not been secured, get them at once.

Early fall is a good time to plant grazing crops. A mixture of Italian rye grass and crimson clover will provide excellent winter and spring grazing.

Soy Meal Chick Feed Is Recommended in Rations

Since soybean oil meal has become such an important factor in poultry rations, due to its economy as protein carrier, it is worth noting the results of experiments at the University of Wisconsin, says the Country Home Magazine. An all-mash ration containing 12 parts soybean meal, to two parts meat scrap, and two parts dried milk plus minerals (in 100 parts) was better than one containing 16 parts soybean meal plus minerals, as measured in weight of chicks at 8 and 20 weeks, and in feed consumed for gains made.

Another ration consisting of 12 parts soy meal, two parts meat scrap and two parts dried milk plus minerals (in 100 parts) was not so effective as one containing eight parts meat scraps and eight parts dried milk, when measured at eight weeks, but was about as good at 20 weeks. The 12-2-2 ration (above) was about equal to one with eight parts soy meal, four parts meat scraps and four parts dried milk plus minerals and one with eight parts meat scraps and eight parts milk at 20 weeks of age. With laying pullets at 11 months various combinations of soy meal with meat scraps and dried milk plus minerals gave good egg production and were better than when the sole source of protein was soybean meal.

Poultry Needs Pure Water

One of the greatest sources of infection of bacterial diseases of poultry occurs while the birds are allowed access to the poultry run or range, is their habit of drinking water from puddles which form in the low places after a heavy rain. Such water is usually teeming with bacteria and offers one of the most dangerous sources of infection. Particularly is this true in the case of coccidiosis. Keeping the birds confined after each rain until all puddles have dried up or filling in the small hollows on the range so that the water will not accumulate is the best means of preventing this danger.

Prontylin

Prontylin, the magic drug that has startled the medical world by quickly eliminating streptococcus infections in man, is now being tested with cows to clear up udder infections with mastitis, and encouraging results are being secured. Dr. Lowell Ert of Cincinnati suggested the idea to his father, Prof. Oscar Ert of Ohio State university, who is now testing it on more than 100 cows. Some cows, where the mastitis is due to streptococcus infection, have later been reported negative.—Farm Journal.

Confining Poultry

Trim the tips of chickens' wings, perhaps one wing more than the other, to keep them from flying over the fence, is the advice of the Indiana Farmer's Guide. Uneven trimming will unbalance the bird when an attempt to fly is made. Very little of the wing needs to be taken off to stop this practice and little attractiveness of the bird will be lost. This suggestion is the most economical and practical for the poultryman.

January Floods Reveal Strength of Red Cross

Aid Given 1,062,000 Persons Through Set-Up By Agency

The elasticity and scope of Red Cross disaster work is shown in a recent report on Red Cross relief measures during the unparalleled Ohio-Mississippi Valley flood of this year.

At the height of the emergency Red Cross relief offices were established in 182 inundated counties and in 146 counties where refugees were cared for, the report stated. Eight regional headquarters offices controlled the 328 county offices, and were in turn supervised by the National Red Cross in Washington, D. C.

A statistical summary of persons aided by the organization indicates that the floods constituted the greatest peace-time emergency ever faced by the nation. The Red Cross gave some form of assistance to 1,062,000 men, women and children. From January to August hundreds of trained workers helped by thousands of volunteers administered to the sufferers.

A Red Cross rescue fleet of 5400 boats was organized, according to the report. Emergency hospitals established totaled 300 and 3600 nurses were assigned to flood duty. In more than 1,000 refugee centers the victims of the flood were sheltered, clothed and fed. Through the Red Cross medical-health program and the work of public health agencies sickness was kept to normal for the time of year in all inundated areas.

Because of its disaster experience the Red Cross was directed by the President of the United States, who is also president of the Red Cross, to coordinate the effort of all federal flood relief groups. Government and Red Cross officials met daily at the Red Cross headquarters building in Washington to plan relief measures and prevent duplication of effort.

"We were fortunate in having 56 years of disaster relief experience to call upon in meeting the emergency," Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the Red Cross, said.

It was found that 97,000 families composed of 438,000 persons had to have their resources supplemented or an entirely new start provided by the Red Cross, the report stated. Red Cross emergency and rehabilitation assistance was as follows: rescue, transportation and shelter for 62,000 families; food, clothing and other maintenance for 193,000 families; building and repair for 27,000 families; household goods for 90,000 families; medical, nursing and sanitation help for 15,000 families; agricultural rehabilitation for 10,000 families; other occupational aid for 8,000 families and other types of relief for 4,000 families.

"Credit for this largest peace-time relief operation in the history of the nation must go to the American people who contributed a Red Cross relief fund of more than $25,000,000," Admiral Grayson said.

During the year the Red Cross gave aid to the victims of 105 other disasters in 36 states, Alaska and the District of Columbia. The Red Cross financed the majority of these relief operations from money contributed through memberships during the annual Roll Call last November, since it is only in case of large-scale disasters that a national drive for relief funds is made.

This year the Roll Call is from November 11th to the 25th. The Red Cross seeks a greater membership to meet its disaster relief and other service obligations during 1938.

Last year Red Cross Chapters gave vital help to 120,000 needy families.

Red Cross Replaces Farm Family Losses

The Red Cross gave agricultural rehabilitation to 10,116 farm families following the severe eastern floods of last winter. Types of aid included feeding, seed, livestock, farm tools and machinery and other items essential to agricultural productivity. More than $599,000 was expended by the organization to meet these requirements.

In addition to occupational assistance, rural families hard hit by the flood waters were rescued, clothed, fed and sheltered by the Red Cross. Where it was necessary the Red Cross repaired and rebuilt out-buildings, barns and other structures. Medical and nursing care were provided and homes refurbished.

Red Cross agricultural rehabilitation benefited nearly three times as many families as received all other types of Red Cross occupational rehabilitation combined.

Last year the Red Cross introduced an accident check list to 7,000,000 American homes. The list told how hazards in the home might be eliminated and the work of inspection was done by householders themselves. A like program of home accident prevention is being conducted this year.

—no longer the badge of the evil-doer

IN THE not-so-dim-and-distant past the mask was accepted as a symbol of evil, the hiding of the face being regarded as sufficient proof that the owner of the face was a person bent on a guilty mission.

In this scientific age, however, the mask is in more general use than at any time in history. In sport, in industry, on the stage, in medicine, aviation and the beauty parlor, the mask has its important niche. Here we present a few pictorial examples submitted by expert cameramen throughout the United States and Europe.

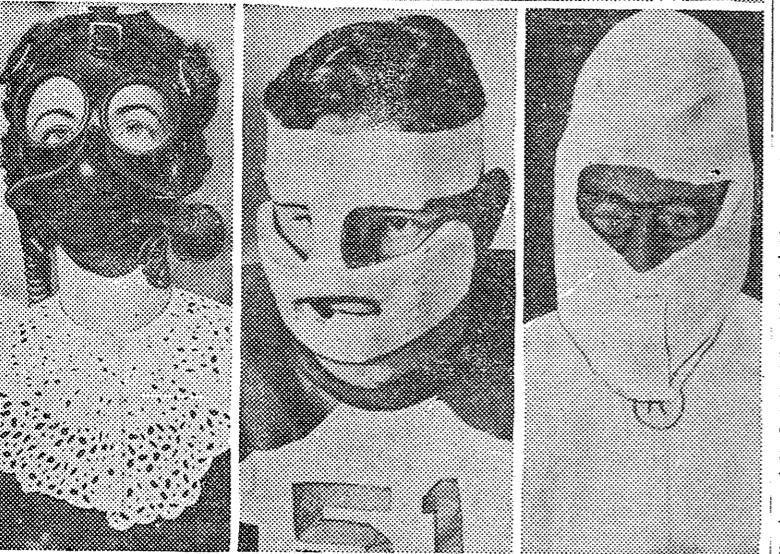

Once the court gallants of Elizabeth's time wore masks when they kept illicit love trysts. Statesmen, too, while engaged in intrigue, resorted to this camouflage. Today a steel worker wears a mask to protect him from the glare and super-heat of an oxy-acetylene torch.

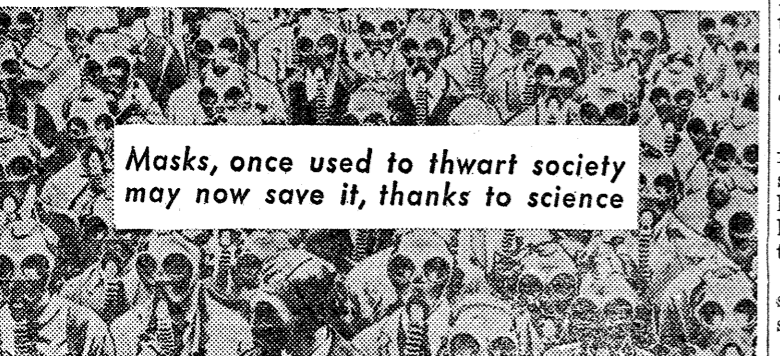

Throughout history, the mask has been the symbol of the theater. In ancient Greece, all actors wore masks. Theatrical masks of pure gold have been found in the tombs of Egypt's princesses and pharaohs. At the right is seen a Benda mask, used in the theater of the present day.

This mask is unusually mobile and, expertly used, appears extraordinarily lifelike.

Nowadays masks protect citizens from dust storms (left), guard football players against facial injuries (center) and protect surgeons and their patients from infection. Even hay fever sufferers can get almost complete relief by wearing masks which filter the irritating pollen from the air.

Masks, once used to thwart society may now save it, thanks to science

Lansing—Petticoat politics helped to defeat the C. I. O. in Detroit.

That is one of the interesting conclusions advanced in the wake of America's most important municipal election—the bold attempt by the Committee of Industrial Organization to seize control of Detroit non-partisan government.

Women flocked to the polls in large numbers, bearing out the statement made by Miss Catherine Curtis, national director of the Women Investors in America, Inc., of New York, that the fair sex is vitally concerned by labor strikes and mounting prices and taxes.

Surveys by the Women Investors in America show that 65 per cent of wives of men employed in industrial plants report that strikes increased drunkenness, while 80 per cent said that strikes endangered the family life and health. With such a big stake in their husbands' jobs, women marched to the Detroit ballot boxes and exercised their privilege.

And after all, who has a better right. Women are beneficiaries of 80 per cent of the 65,000,000 insurance policies held in the United States. More than 50 per cent of the bank saving accounts are held by women. Eighty-five per cent of all consumer money are spent by the ladies.

Even in crime, police have a phrase for it: "Cherchez la femme."

C. I. O. Eyes Farmer

One reason for sympathetic interest by the C. I. O. in Michigan agriculture came to light the other day in Sandusky where Stanley Worcheck, Detroit organizer, disclosed that the C. I. O. planned to organize the sugar beet industry and later the milk haulers and dairy cattle breeders.

"Detroit workmen soon will buy union milk only," he declared, warning that farmers soon would be unable to sell milk in Detroit unless they were dues-paying members of a union.

The Michigan Farm Bureau federation, which convenes this week in East Lansing, may have something to say about this proposed farm-labor affiliation.

Spuds That Satisfy

When you buy Michigan potatoes at the corner grocery store, they will be retailed to you in branded or stenciled sacks, showing the grade and name of the grower or packer.

Grower may sell direct to consumer without all this fuss.

Michigan's "new deal" for potato growers and potato consumers is the result to a federal marketing agreement which growers adopted in September. A large staff of federal-state inspectors, stationed throughout the potato belt, are checking to make sure that only graded potatoes are shipped to market. The inspection fee is 1 cent a bag.

Thus the Michigan spud, now glorified by Washington and Lansing, takes its place along side of Maine and Idaho potatoes of advertised fame.

Michigan's potato crop this fall is 33 per cent above the five-year production average, as compared with the national increase of 7 per cent. The state ranks second in production only to Maine this year. The plentiful yield, however, has depressed prices. The spuds are down 44 cents a bushel—a break for the consumer, but not so good for the grower.

Apple Advertising

The co-operative advertising success of California citrus growers is being cited by officers of the Michigan Apple Institute as a reason why a similar campaign, financed by Michigan apple growers, would return a rich dividend in higher sales and more suitable prices.

Only four states in the nation produce more apples than Michigan, according to T. A. Merrill of Michigan State College who declares that "in quality of cherries and apples Michigan plainly tops the list."

Apple growers are being invited to join the Institute and contribute a small sum per each bushel of apples marketed for a co-operative advertising drive to sell apples.

California, now second to Michigan in tourist income, is first in co-operative fruit advertising. The Michigan Apple Institute proposes that something should be done about it.

"Watch Out for Deer"

One of the unexpected benefits from installation of deer warning signs at certain points along state highways in Northern Michigan has been profuse wild game advertising by tourists.

Four persons were killed in the state last year as automobiles struck deer on state roads. The warning signs were suggested by the conservation department as merited precaution against serious accidents. The state highway department made and installed them.

Tourists, however, took notice. Here is the general conclusion: "Deer is so plentiful in Michigan's northwood country that signs have even been installed, warning motorists of highway hazard."

Much in the same category is the new bow and arrow law by which archers can stalk deer in Newaygo and Isoc counties for a two-week open season, November 1 to 15. Palefaces who have tried the Indian hunting method find that they must come within 30 yards of a deer to get within range. Strong winds, too, add to the hazards. Result: Much sport, few deer.

It has been suspected that the author of the law, State Senator Don VanderWerf realized the publicity value of the bow-and-arrow idea. He ought to as he publishes an excellent newspaper at Fremont.

Auto Sales Climb

Counter to the forecast of the bureau of agricultural economics that the present brief business recession "will run well into 1938" is the general confidence shown by Michigan automobile manufacturers in making plans for 1938.

September automobile sales were 11.03 per cent higher than September a year ago. A total of 2,879,743 new cars were sold during the first nine months of 1937.

Henry Ford is spending 40 millions for expansions at his River Rouge plant.

Another favorable factor for Michigan's first industry was the outcome of the C. I. O. contest in Detroit.

The automobile industry which led us out of the depression knows how to take it on the chin and come up smiling.

30 Millions Credit

The state of Michigan, in the name of 16,000 employers, has a credit of $30,000,000 with the United States treasury.

That amount includes payments of $20,000,000 made for unemployment insurance for the first nine months of this year. These insurance reserves, collected by the state, have been turned over to the federal government into a huge social security pool.

What happens to Michigan's millions?

According to the United Press, "Once Sam already has borrowed almost a billion dollars from the nation's wage earners under provisions of the Social Security act, Treasury ledgers show."

The Social security fund gets in return some pieces of paper called "Special Treasury obligations."

General Motors corporation wrote a check for $3,581,333 into its unemployment insurance reserve at Washington, D. C.

Under Michigan's law, firms that have little unemployment among workers can build a reserve fund and thereafter pay only 1 per cent payroll tax annually.

Railroad Map in Carpet

An unusual map of the railways of Central Europe was manufactured at Prague in 1865 in the form of a beautiful piece of carpeting measuring 14 by 20 feet. This was presented to the museum in Vienna.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

THE name American patchwork was given by the English to a certain type of piece patchwork evidently originated on this continent. It is a name unfamiliar to most Americans, although credit for the beautiful work is given to the women in the United States and Canada. American patchwork found its way from this continent to England in the latter quarter of the last century, somewhere about 1875 or 1880. In Great Britain it was attributed equally to the United States and Canada, both countries being in America, and there being an uncertainty about just which section was responsible for the distinctive patchwork.

The name of loghouse quilting was given the design abroad. It has an odd sound to us for log homes are termed log cabins in America. Here the pattern has been known through the century as the log cabin pattern, but the name loghouse quilting has a fascinating ring to it. The patchwork was, and is, one of the hand-

NEW FARM BUREAU MEMBERS WERE GIVEN WELCOME

Concluded from first page.

Alton Reavey gave a splendid report of the aims and objectives of the County Junior Farm Bureau.

Clarence Reid of Avoca, vice president of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, gave a very interesting review of the activities of the State and National Farm Bureau programs. Mr. Reid also pointed out many reasons why the farmers of America must organize if they expect to receive their just portion of the national income and maintain an American standard of living.

Reports from the membership workers showed an increase of 32 farm families added to the membership list during the past week. This represents an increase in the county of approximately 20%. Volunteer workers expressed the opinion that they were well repaid for their work by the results shown.

Under the capable leadership of Jesse Treiber, county president, the group discussed the potato and bean situations. County Agent E. L. Benton explained the new potato grading law and discussed the new bean program which may be put into effect sometime in the future. It was the opinion of the group that if a bean program was to be written they should have some-

How To Make Squares.

The strips are positioned in ever-widening rows about a small square of one of the materials. In each row strips overlap one another. Ends are straight, that is they are not dovetailed or mitered. The ribbon-like strips can be sewed to a foundation square or be seamed together. In the old work the ribbons were sewed to a foundation, with a square of silk sewed on the exact center of the foundation square. After this the rows were set in order about it. Edges slightly overlapped so no lining was visible.

The method of arrangement of colors is definite. One diagonal half of a square is of dark colored pieces, the other of light ones. When squares are sewed together dark comes against dark and light against light, producing a fascinating sequence of ever widening squares of light and dark. When colors are artistically combined, the quilt with its rich materials is superb. We can well be proud of the quilts which bear the name of American loghouse quilting.
